The Bradford Festival Choral Society ended its season on March 20, when it gave creditable performances of the "Hymn of Praise," in which Madame Duma, Miss Cockcroft, and Mr. W. Green were the principals; together with Wesley's motet "In Exitu Israel" and Brahms's "Schicksalslied." The Bradford Permanent Orchestra supplied an excellent band, and Mr. W. H. Garland conducted. The Chamber Concert given by Mr. S. Midgley at Bradford, on March 27, furnished an encouraging instance of the capacities of home-made artists, an admirably chosen programme having full justice done to it by Mr. Midgley and Miss Agnes Germain as pianists and Mrs. Midgley as vocalist. The Wakefield Choral Society showed ambition in choosing Handel's "Israel in Egypt" for its Concert on March 19, and it could not but be felt that it was somewhat over-weighted by its task, though the members responded very gallantly to their conductor, Mr. Hardy. They were not too efficiently supported by the band, but the soloists, Miss Moorhouse, Miss Bertenshaw, Messrs. Robinson and Billington were quite satisfactory. On the same evening the Barnsley St. Cecilia Society, under Mr. Alfred Benton, gave Sullivan's "Golden Legend," with Miss Emily Davies, Mrs. Fisher Heath, Messrs. Beaumont and Douglas Powell as principals. March 24 was a day peculiarly prolific in Concerts. The long and successful series of Subscription Concerts at Huddersfield came to an end with a concert-performance of Gounod's "Faust," with Madame Moody, Miss Browning, and Messrs. Child, Dever, and Manners in the principal characters. The Glee and Madrigal Society, under Mr. Ibeson's conductorship, supplied the chorus. This same Society celebrated its "coming of age" on the 18th ult., when Mr. Joshua Marshall, its first conductor, re-appeared to conduct part of an interesting programme of glees and other vocal music. Haydn's "Creation" was the subject of the Concert given by the Keighley Musical Union on the same date. The soloists were Madame Bertha Moore, Messrs. T. Child and Brereton. The conductor was Mr. Arthur Burnley, who obtained from the choir some powerful and expressive singing. Lastly, the Eccleshill Choral Society gave its first Concert on the same evening, Spohr's "God, Thou art great," Mendelssohn's "Come, let us sing," and sundry part-songs making up an attractive programme. Mr. H. Coates conducted. On the 8th ult. the Scarborough Instrumental Society emulated the efforts of the London Philharmonic Society, and gave two Symphonies, a Concerto, and an Overture, with a few songs thrown in as a make-weight. Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony and Schumann's "Rhenish" certainly spoke well for the ability of the Society and its conductor, Mr. English. The violinist was Mr. Cass, the vocalist, Miss Kitson.

A high-class Chamber Concert was given on the 15th ult., at the Assembly Rooms, Thirsk, by Miss I. L. Jopling, a talented local pianist and late pupil of the Royal College of Music. The pièce de résistance of an interesting programme was Mr. Edward German's delightful "Gipsy Suite," played, in its entirety, by Miss Isabella Donkersley (violin) and the Concert-giver, with great refinement and brilliancy. Miss Jopling's solo was one of Brahms's Rhapsodies, of which she gave a vigorous and artistic rendering. The two artists were also heard in an Adagio and Allegro by Corelli, the Andante and Presto from Beethoven's "Kreutzer" Sonata, and two Hungarian Dances (Brahms-Joachim), which served admirably to display the fine tone which Miss Donkersley draws from her beautiful Guadagnini. As an encore, the clever violinist delighted the audience by playing the captivating "Shepherd's Dance," from Mr. German's popular "Henry VIII." music. The vocalists were Mrs. Inch and Mr. Tom Child. The former sang Goring Thomas's sentimental, but effective "Summer night," and Meyer-Helmund's "The Daily Question," her charming style and clear enunciation of the words giving much satisfaction. Mr. Child's fine voice did full justice to Solomon's "Guides of the night" and Mascheroni's "For all eternity." The crowded audience was most appreciative, and the Concert an emphatic success.

MUSIC IN PARIS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The date of the first performance of M. Alphonse Duvernoy's "Hellé," at the Opéra, still remains uncertain, while there is a probability of a revival here of M. Bourgault-Ducoudray's "Tamara," to be followed by M. Bruneau's "Messidor" and "Die Meistersinger." The directors of the Opéra being desirous to erect a monument to the late Ambroise Thomas, have entrusted the work to the eminent sculptor, M. Falguière.

At the Opéra Comique the first production of "Le Chevalier Harmenthal" had been fixed for the 29th ult.

Amongst minor theatres here, mention should be made of that of the Galerie Vivienne, where, with the very limited means at command, acceptable performances take place of time-honoured comic operas, such as Grétry's "l'Épreuve villageoise," Nicolo's "Cendrillon," and others.

The first production of "Ghiselle," a lyrical drama by Gilbert Augustin Thierry, the music by César Franck, although having taken place at Monte Carlo, may, nevertheless, pass for a Parisian event. The score, as is well known, was complete at the time of the composer's death, but the first act only had been orchestrated; the remaining orchestration was supplied by some of his pupils. Thus, according to M. Tiersot, the opening scene of the second act was instrumented by M. de Bréville, the love scene by M. Chausson, the Finale by M. d'Indy. The church scene of the third act had been apportioned to M. Rousseau and the final tableau to M. Coquard. Such procedure would naturally compromise the unity of the work. But in other respects also the score was not in so entirely finished a state as had been assumed, and while it contains some superb writing, it must remain a matter for regret that the composer was unable to complete it entirely himself.

The Lamoureux Concert of March 22 brought a second performance of "The Messiah," equally successful to the one preceding it. A special attraction in the extra Concert given on Good Friday was the appearance of M. Van Dyck, who was greatly applauded.

At M. Colonne's Concert of March 22 a first performance was given of "Deux Contes," verses by Jean Lorrain, music by M. Pierné, a very graceful work; while the third act of "Götterdämmerung," with the Brünnhilde of Mdlle. Kutschera, still retains its considerable attractive powers here. The proceedings at the Concert given by M. Colonne on Good Friday were somewhat marred by noisy demonstrations on the part of a portion of the audience, who objected to listen to a Lecture of M. Catulle Mendés on the New Testament Apocrypha; their point of view evidently being, that they had come to hear music and not literary expositions. The series of these excellent Concerts terminated on the 12th ult. with a performance of "La Damnation de Faust."

The Concert given at the Opéra on the 2nd ult. included Saint-Saëns's Symphony in E minor, written when the composer was only seventeen years old, and which had not been heard since 1853. One could but be surprised at the sure hand and logical development of themes displayed by so young an artist. The programme also included M. Bruneau's "Requiem," with which you have recently become acquainted in London. M. Bruneau's work undoubtedly achieved a great success. Some critical voices have been raised against it in the press, but it must not be forgotten that the author is, above all, a dramatic composer, whose artistic temperament is bound to impress itself upon whatever he may write. And while it is possible that these peculiar qualities may, in certain instances, obtrude themselves somewhat to the detriment of the work in question, the composer's undoubted ability and marked individuality throughout prevail, and are fully recognised by the public. Another notable feature in the same Concert was the dramatic legend "Saint-Georges," of M. P. Vidal, displaying all the highly meritorious qualities of this musician.

Amongst the number of Chamber Concerts lately given here may be singled out that of the violinist M. Géloso, specially devoted to the last Beethoven Quartets. These Concerts are much frequented by earnest music-lovers, the one in question (March 30) including the Quartets, Nos. 11 and 16.

Mr. Harold Bauer, who gave another Concert on the 14th ult., proves himself more and more a pianist of exceptional powers. With an absolutely perfect technique at his command he easily surmounts the greatest difficulties, an essential condition for the free development of an executive artist's personality. There can be no doubt that this pianist has, in the course of his recent Recitals, fully established a claim to be ranked amongst virtuosos of the first order.

M. Crickboom, an excellent Belgian violinist, at his Concert given on the 9th ult. introduced a Violin Sonata of his composition, which, albeit somewhat monotonously favouring the minor keys, is a musicianlike production.

M. Alexandre Guilmant is giving his annual four Organ Concerts with orchestra at the Trocadéro, one of them being devoted to a work by Bach, with the co-operation of the Saint Gervais Choir. In the course of the twenty years of their existence these Concerts have become firmly established in the favour of Parisian audiences, and with those of MM. Colonne and Lamoureux have mainly contributed towards the development of a true appreciation of the works of the great masters.

M. Marsick has returned to Paris to take over his duties at the Conservatoire, which had been confided during his absence to Mr. White.

MUSIC IN MONTREAL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The fifth performance by the Montreal Philharmonic Society of Mendelssohn's "Elijah" was given at the Windsor Hall, on March 31, before a large and appreciative audience. The soprano was Mrs. Eaton, of Boston, whose rendering of "Hear ye, Israel," met with especial favour. Miss Moylan, of Montreal, acquitted herself well in the contralto parts, and Mr. W. H. Rieger, an old favourite here, was heard at his best in "Then shall the righteous shine." But the star of the evening was Mr. D. Ffrangcon-Davies, who arrived from England in time to make his début on the American Concert platform on this occasion. Mr. Davies's interpretation of the Elijah music met with general favour. It was the popular opinion that a more beautiful baritone voice has never been heard here.

The following evening witnessed the first production in Montreal of Gounod's "Redemption." The performance was really excellent in every respect, and the audience alone was found wanting. Montreal people are slow to take up anything new, and both the "Redemption" and Mr. Ffrangcon-Davies were unknown to them, consequently they missed the opportunity of hearing one of the most satisfactory performances ever given by the Society. The same soloists took parts as in "Elijah," and Mr. Davies's singing in the bass Narrator and Jesus parts was even finer than in Mendelssohn's work. The scanty audience and the chorus fully appreciated his merits, however, and upon his return to Montreal, which we hope will be next season, he will sing to crowded houses. The orchestra was all local, and numbered forty-five.

A Concert was given at the Queen's (Small) Hall on March 31, in aid of the Leighton Hall Neighbourhood Guild, an organisation "intended to meet the social and intellectual needs of the people," and having for its motto, "Order is our basis, Improvement our aim, and Friendship our Principle." After half-an-hour's delay, due to the loss of the key of the grand pianoforte, the Concert commenced with the first book of Max Bruch's Swedish Dances for violin and pianoforte, played by Mr. Hans Wessely and Miss E. J. Troup. The aforesaid annoying contretemps appeared to have detrimentally affected these excellent artists (and no wonder!), for, truth to tell, the performance was somewhat tame and wanting in finish. However, they made ample amends in Gade's difficult "Capriccio," which they played extremely well. Mr. Franklin Clive and Miss Ethel Bevans, besides singing a number of songs with refinement and expression, were heard to much advantage in two duets by Mr. R. H. Walthew, an impressive, thoughtful setting of Goethe's "Der Du von dem Himmel bist," and a very spirited, merry version of "It was a lover and his lass." Mr. Jack Robertson sang six songs, amongst them Lord Henry Somerset's ultra sentimental "Song of Sleep," Sullivan's "The snow lies white," and "An der Rose Busen" and "Vine, vine, and eglantine" by Miss E. J. Troup, two excellent specimens of high-class songs: refined, melodious, and full of artistic touches in voice-part and accompaniment. Mr. Robertson's "gentle art" and pleasant voice did full justice to these charming compositions. Miss Beatrice Herford relieved the introductory tedium of waiting somewhat by reciting two humorous "original monologues," entitled "A Cockney Landlady" and "An American Book Agent."

In view of the enormous attraction exercised by last year's similar undertaking, the directors of the Royal Opera, Munich, have just published a fresh scheme of special performances of Opera to take place during the months of August and September next, including works by Mozart, Beethoven, and Wagner. The Wagner performances are to take place at the Royal Theatre as follows:—"Rienzi" (August 25 and September 8); "Der fliegende Holländer" (August 27 and September 10); "Tannhäuser" (August 6 and 13, September 3, 17, and 29); "Lohengrin" (August 8, 15, and 22, September 5, 19, and 26); "Tristan und Isolde" (August 20, September 24); "Die Meistersinger" (August 29, September 12). At the same theatre will be given "Fidelio," preceded by the festal play "Die Ruinen von Athen," with Beethoven's music (August 11 and 18, September 1, 7, and 22). The Mozart representations will take place at the Royal Residenz Theatre, when last year's admirable performances of "Le Nozze di Figaro" will be repeated (August 2, 9, 16, 23, and 30, September 6, 13, 20, and 27), and also "Don Giovanni," entirely in accordance with the actual score used by the master at the original (Prague) performance and with his own scenic directions, will be given (August 5, 12, 19, and 26, September 2, 9, 16, 23, and 30). The latter should prove a particularly welcome addition to the scheme.

The programme for the Worcester Musical Festival, which will be held on September 8, 9, 10, and 11, will be as follows:—On Tuesday morning, "St. Paul" will be given. In the evening, "Lux Christi," a new work composed for the occasion by Mr. Edward Elgar, and selections from Handel's "Samson" will be performed. On Wednesday, Bach's "Christmas" Oratorio, Parts 1 and 2; Schubert's "Great is Jehovah," Goetz's "By the Waters," and Spohr's "God, Thou art great," will be taken, followed in the evening by a secular Concert at the Public Hall, for which the programme includes Beethoven's (The Pastoral) Symphony (No. 8), and incidental music from "Feramors" (Rubinstein) and "Henry VIII." (Sullivan). On Thursday morning, Verdi's "Requiem Mass," Schumann's Symphony in E flat, and an Advent cantata by Mr. Hugh Blair, organist of Worcester Cathedral, will be performed, "Elijah" being given in the evening. On Friday morning "The Messiah" will be given, after which a grand closing Service will be held, the three choirs taking part. There will be the customary opening Service in the Cathedral on the preceding Sunday, in which the orchestra and chorus will take part.

Mr. Sapellnikoff's Pianofore Recital at St. James's Hall, on Thursday afternoon, the 23rd ult., drew a large audience, and the playing of the Russian artist showed how greatly his capacities in all that make for supremacy as an executant on the keyboard have become refined since he first visited London. He has lost none of his vigour, but he has vastly gained in tenderness when such is desired in the execution of masterpieces by pianoforte composers, and both the qualities indicated received full illustration in Schumann's Sonata in G minor (Op. 22) and in Schubert's famous Fantasia in C (Op. 15), in which the principal theme of the song known as "The Wanderer" forms the subject for an air with variations. It was, perhaps, a pity that Mr. Sapellnikoff chose a derangement from Bach—it cannot be termed anything else—of the familiar Organ Toccata and Fugue in D minor, as the Leipzig master has left so many worthy works intended for clavier alone. Pieces by Chopin, Rubinstein, Tschaïkowsky, and Liszt completed the scheme.

At St. Paul's Cathedral, on the Tuesday in Holy week, the customary special Service, including the greater portion of Bach's "Passion" Music (text of St. Matthew), took place with undiminished impressiveness. The chorus numbered about 300—the ordinary choir of the Cathedral being augmented by contingents from elsewhere—and the orchestra comprised fifty executants. Messrs. Charles Macpherson and Kiddle were at the great and small organs respectively, Mr. Frederick Walker played upon the pianoforte the chords accompanying the recitatives allotted to the Narrator, and, of course, Dr. Martin conducted. The solos were taken by members of the Cathedral choir. The vigorous outbursts — such as "Barabbas" and the bold "The lightnings and thunders"—again thrilled the listeners crowding every part of the building, whilst the pathetic sections were rendered with the requisite smoothness. In the Lutheran chorales interspersing the sacred text the congregation participated to an extent realising Bach's intention.

The annual meeting of the Allgemeine Deutsche Musik-Verein will take place this year at Leipzig, from the 29th inst. to June 1. The proceedings will include the following performances—viz., on the 29th inst., Liszt's "Graner Festmesse" and Berlioz's Te Deum at St. Thomas's Church. On the 30th inst. Liszt's "Dante" Symphony, Orchestral Suite (manuscript) by Rezniczek, a Symphonic Poem by Max Schillings, and Richard Strauss's "Don Juan," at the Stadt-Theater. On the 31st inst. chamber music and vocal and instrumental compositions by masters of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, at the Gewandhaus. On June 1 music to Shakespeare's "Richard III.," by Volkmann, at the Conservatorium, and works by non-German composers (Borodin's B minor Symphony, Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Scheherezade," a Serenade for strings by Teresa Careño, and other works), at the Gewandhaus. Herr Felix Weingartner will be the principal conductor.

The third Subscription Concert of the Stock Exchange Orchestral and Choral Society took place in the Queen's Hall, on Tuesday evening, the 21st ult., with an excellent programme. Mr. George Kitchin's forces rendered full justice to every piece, whether new or old. The former included a passionate scena, "Friends, why so sad?" by Mr. W. J. Lockitt, a member of the orchestra, the solo part being well rendered by Mr. Edwin Wareham, and a clever Overture in E minor by Miss Clarisse Mallard. That admirable violinist, Mr. John Dunn, gave a masterly interpretation of Mendelssohn's Concerto, and the fine but, perhaps, over-lengthy scheme was also noteworthy for good performances of Smetana's "Lustspiel" Overture, Mozart's Symphony in D (known as No. 35), and Mr. E. German's "Gipsy" Suite. The male-voice choir rendered some glees and part-songs with its usual refinement.

The programme of the Festival of the Lower Rhine, to be held in Whitsuntide at Düsseldorf, has now been definitely arranged, and is as follows:—First day (May 24): Anthems, 1 to 4 (Handel); "Kaisermarsch" (Wagner); Magnificat (Bach); Choral Symphony (Beethoven). Second day (May 25): "Don Juan," Symphonic Poem (Richard Strauss); Pianoforte Concerto in C (Liszt); "Paradis und Peri" (Schumann). Third day (May 26): "Symphonie Pathétique" (Tschaïkowsky); Violin Concerto (Mendelssohn); "Wanderer's Sturmlied" (R. Strauss); Prelude and Finale, "Tristan und Isolde" (Wagner); "Till Eulenspiegel," Symphonic Poem (R. Strauss). Conductors: Herren Buths, of Düsseldorf, and Richard Strauss, of Munich. Soloists: Mesdames Strauss de Ahna, Marcella Pregi, and Mathilde Haas; MM. Raymond von Zur-Mühlen, Sarasate, Ferruccio, Busoni, and Messchaërt.

Mr. J. T. Hutchinson obtained valuable assistance from a small choir at his Concert in Queen's (Small) Hall on March 26. Mr. Edward German's delicate setting for female voices of "Orpheus with his lute," Mendelssohn's "The Nightingale" and "Farewell to the Forest," Sterndale Bennett's "Come, live with me," and other pieces were sung with evenly balanced tone and due regard for expression. Refinement and neatness marked the rendering by Mr. Hutchinson of such contrasted songs as Sullivan's "Thou'rt passing hence," Hatton's "The lark now leaves," Shield's "Quaff with me the purple wine," and examples of Schumann and Dibdin. He also made a favourable appearance as a composer with a setting as a duet of "It was a lover and his lass," to which justice was done by Miss Kate Frewer and Mrs. Alice Dunn, each of whom also contributed solos.

The South Hampstead Choir, conducted by Mrs. Julian Marshall, acquitted itself very satisfactorily at a Concert at the Hampstead Conservatoire on March 28, in aid of the funds of St. Jude's, Whitechapel. An important part of the programme was Mendelssohn's setting of the 115th Psalm, the choral portion of which was steadily rendered, whilst the solos were carefully sung by Miss Saidee Kaiser, Mr. Bryant, and Mr. Emlyn Davies. Haydn's motet "Insanæ et vanæ curæ," an anthem by F. A. Marshall, "On the first of the Feast of Feasts" (from Browning's "Dramatis Personæ"), and several part-songs were also given with praiseworthy attention to detail. Mr. Emlyn Davies distinguished himself in three of Dr. Stanford's "Cavalier Songs," and other successful soloists were Misses Louise Phillips and Beatrice Wilson. Mr. Jasper Sutcliffe, the violinist, neatly played Bach's Chaconne.

The annual and terminal examinations at the Royal College of Music were concluded on March 28, and the following Council Exhibitions were awarded by the examiners: £15 to Gertrude Lester (violin), £15 to Morfydd Williams (singing), £15 to Margaret Wishart (violin), £10 to Agnes H. G. Bailey (violin). The Charlotte Holmes Exhibition of £15 was awarded to Rebecca Harvey (pianoforte), the Challen Gold Medal for pianoforte playing to Evelyn G. King, the Council Prize for organ extemporising to James C. Ridgway, and the Lesley Alexander Prize of £10 for composition to S. Coleridge Taylor. The following close scholarships were also competed for, and were awarded as follows: The Kent Scholarship, to Emma E. Atherden (singing); the Liverpool Scholarship, to Luna Zaquary (singing), for one year.

A recently issued list of music performed at St. Peter's Italian Church, Hatton Garden, during the past year, gives unmistakable evidence of the activity and zeal of the able musical director, Mr. Egbert Roberts, during that period. No less than sixty-five Masses were given, the composers' names including those of Hummel, Kalliwoda, Gounod, Weber, Haydn, Schubert, Cherubini, Palestrina, Mozart, Roberti, Niedermeyer, Wiegand, Ricci, and Beethoven. In addition to all these important works, the list of music sung at the Vespers and Benediction services during the year indicates a like display of ambitious work, and it is not surprising that the services at this church are among the most attractive musical services of the metropolis.

The Kyrle Choir, under the direction of Mr. F. A. W. Docker, gave a performance of Bach's "Passion" according to St. John, and Mendelssohn's "Hear my Prayer" and "Judge me, O God," in Christ Church, Chelsea, on March 25. Dr. E. H. Turpin accompanied on the organ and the soloists were Miss Cecilia Gray, Miss Rina Robinson, Mr. George Pownall, Mr. Arthur Appleby, and Mr. Swabey Russell. On the 15th ult. a performance of "Elijah" was given by the Choir in the French Huguenot Hospital, Victoria Park. The soloists were Miss Cecilia Gray, Miss Rina Robinson, Mr. Ager Grover, and Mr. Arthur Walenn. The accompanist was Mr. H. J. Cooke.

In aid of the St. John's Wood Terrace Congregational Church, the Marlborough Place Amateur Orchestral Society gave a Concert on March 31, at the Eyre Arms Assembly Rooms. Aided by some excellent solo artists, the Society, under the able conductorship of Mr. Paul Oppenheimer, gave works by Mozart, Beethoven, Chopin, Haydn, and German's "Valse mélancolique," which were admirably performed. Mdlle. Ella Mannheim (who possesses a powerful and well-trained voice) and Miss Peak were the vocalists. Mr. Paul Oppenheimer played Beethoven's Romance in G and Mr. Adolph Schmidt gave solos by Goltermann and other composers.

In addition to the various contests already announced in connection with the International Trade Exhibitions, it has been decided to hold a choral competition on July 11. The number of competing choirs will be limited to eighteen, and the number of performers must not be less than twenty nor exceed fifty in each choir. The selections are to occupy about five minutes each and consist of two pieces of the choir's own choice (one, if possible, of a humorous character), one to be accompanied and the other unaccompanied. The five sets of prizes will amount to 130 guineas, and the prizes in the aggregate will exceed £1,000.

The seventeenth annual report of the excellent Orphan School and Benevolent Fund for Musicians again indicates an unsatisfactory financial condition, and Miss Kenway appeals once more for aid. The School has, during the past year, been removed to 16, Norland Square, Notting Hill, which has, of course, caused some necessary outlay; it is hoped that so admirable an Institution will commend itself to the notice of musicians generally, and, indeed, to all who are interested in the cause of music, and that substantial assistance may be afforded to the lady who gives her life to the work of the School.

The Dedication Festival of St. Alphege's Church, Southwark, was kept on the 19th ult. In the morning there was a full choral celebration of the Holy Communion, the service being sung to Myles B. Foster's effective setting in E flat; and at Evensong the service used was that by C. Warwick Jordan in D, the anthem being "Now we are ambassadors" and "How lovely are the Messengers" ("St. Paul"). At both services the accompaniments and concluding voluntaries were played by an orchestra, in addition to the organ, at which Mr. Reginald Poole presided with his usual ability.

M. Emile Sauret has gained high favour with American audiences. At New York, Boston, Chicago, Washington, and other places where he has appeared, the reception of the artist has been most brilliant, the critical voices in the press according to him the palm amongst all the violinists which have visited the States. This is high praise indeed, seeing that such excellent virtuosi as Ondricek, Marsick, Ysaye, and Rivarde are amongst their number.

Madame Schumann, who some few weeks ago was seized with a somewhat serious apoplectic attack, which greatly alarmed her numerous friends, is, we are glad to learn, very much better and expected shortly to be able to resume her carriage drives. Considering, however, her advanced age, she being now in her seventy-seventh year, the eminent pianist has been advised to leave her duties as a teacher as far as possible to her daughter.

At the summer Invitation Concert of the Handel Society, on the 13th inst., at St. James's Hall, Mr. Arthur Somervell's "Forsaken Merman" will be heard for the first time in London. Other pieces in the programme are Purcell's anthem "Praise the Lord," Dr. Parry's Funeral Ode, "The Glories of our Blood and State," Mendelssohn's 114th Psalm, and Brahms's "Ave Maria" for female voices.

Mr. Wiegand has obtained five months' leave of absence from the Sydney City Council. Between July 18, 1891, and January 20, 1896, Mr. Wiegand is stated to have played at his Organ Recitals 720 different pieces—namely, 345 French, 147 German, 99 English, 68 Belgian, 42 Italian, and 19 miscellaneous, from which it would appear that this organist inclines to the French school of organ music.

Stainer's "Crucifixion" was impressively rendered at St. George's Church, Blackheath, on March 25 and the 1st ult. The solo parts were admirably sung by Masters G. Smart and A. Smith, and Messrs. F. Leeds, E. T. Walford, and H. Simmons. Mr. R. W. Browne, organist and choirmaster of the church, presided at the new Hope-Jones electric organ, with his usual skill and effect.

The Sydenham and Forest Hill Musical Society gave its first Concert at the Park Hall, Sydenham, on the 15th ult. The choir was heard in Van Bree's "St. Cecilia's Day" and in a selection of part-songs and madrigals. Miss Lily Thatcher contributed several songs, and Miss Jessie Grimson violin solos. The accompanist was Miss Melhuish, and the conductor, Mr. F. Shinn.

T. M. Pattison's cantata "A day with our Lord" was rendered on Good Friday by the choir of the Uxbridge Road Tabernacle, under the conductorship of Mr. J. Stansfeld, the choirmaster.

The Harringay Glee and Madrigal Society held its first annual Concert on the 20th ult., under the direction of Mr. Ernest Marriott (St. Paul's Cathedral), the conductor. The soloists were Madame Edith Bartley, Miss Laura Cartwright, Miss Bessie Grant, Messrs. W. Davies and George Stubbs (St. Paul's Cathedral), and Messrs. Selwyn Davies and Adolph Fowler.

Organ Recitals were given by Dr. A. L. Peace, of Glasgow Cathedral, on Tuesday, the 14th ult., on the fine new organ at Bath Abbey, lately built by Messrs. Norman Brothers and Beard, of London and Norwich. The selections included works by Bach, Handel, Mozart, Liszt, Dussek, Mendelssohn, Beethoven, Meyerbeer, and the performer.

Mr. Edgar Pettman, on severing his connection with St. Mary's, Kilburn, as organist and choirmaster, was the fortunate recipient of several handsome gifts, which were presented to him on the 7th ult., at St. Mary's Hall, Kilburn, by the ladies of the oratorio choir, the choirboys of the church, and other friends.

Beethoven's "Mount of Olives" was performed, on the 19th ult., at St. Joseph's Retreat, Highgate Hill, by the choir of the church. The solos were sustained by Masters Balfre and Feloi and Messrs. Linwood and Seadon; the latter gentleman conducted, while Mr. Volanti Armitage accompanied very judiciously.

The twenty-seventh of the monthly series of free Organ Recitals, by Mr. Rudolph Loman, at the Dutch Church, Austin Friars, took place on the 16th ult., when the programme included pieces by Handel, Gustav Merkel, J. S. Bach, Alex. Guilmant, and A. G. Ritter.

At the Royal Institution, on the 9th, 16th, and 23rd inst., Mr. F. Corder will give a course of Lectures, entitled "Three Emotional Composers," in which he proposes to discuss the works of Berlioz, Wagner, and Liszt. Musical illustrations will be supplied.

Mr. Sinclair Dunn gave his sixteenth annual Concert at Cavendish Rooms, on March 25, assisted by Miss Effie Clements, Miss Frances Hipwell, Miss Susetta Fenn, Miss May Fleming, Mr. Frank Ferris, Master Willie Cooper, and Signor Luigi Meo.

Mr. W. Newberry conducted a performance of "The Messiah" on Good Friday, at the Wesleyan Church, New North Road. The soloists were Miss A. Peck, Miss H. Saunders, Mr. W. Toomer, and Mr. C. Formes. Mr. J. Britton was the organist.

Mr. Volanti Armitage, organist of St. Joseph's Retreat, Highgate, gave an Organ Recital on March 28, at St. Barnabas, Kentish Town. Miss May Davy was the vocalist.

The organ in the Concert-room at the Royal Academy of Music is being renovated by Messrs. Norman Brothers and Beard, and the pitch being lowered to the normal diapason.

Sir Arthur Sullivan has provided funds for a Scholarship for the Holiday Course for Choirmasters at the Tonic Sol-fa College.

Mr. F. G. Edwards has been elected an Associate of the Royal Academy of Music.

OBITUARY.

Alexander Ritter, a composer of considerable ability and originality, whose works are, however, as yet but little known outside of Germany, died at Munich on the 12th ult. He was born at Reval, in Russia, in 1833, and when quite a young man came to live in Germany, where he formed a close friendship with Hans von Bülow and other gifted musicians, whose advanced artistic tendencies he shared. His two short operas, "Der faule Hans" and "Wem die Krone," were first produced at Weimar, under the direction of Herr Richard Strauss, Ritter's most gifted pupil, and they have also been performed on several other German stages, without, however, maintaining themselves on the répertoire for any length of time. Besides numerous admirable songs, in which the composer's artistic individuality finds, perhaps, its most pregnant expression, he wrote several important orchestral pieces, amongst them a "Seraphische Fantasie," "Olaf's Hochzeitsreichen," and his most recent "Sursum Corda," all of which undoubtedly take high rank amongst similar modern productions. At one time a violinist in the Weimar orchestra, Ritter has for many years past lived at Munich, where his death leaves a sensible void in musical circles. He was married to a niece of Richard Wagner, who preceded him in death some ten months ago.

With Ferdinand Gumbert, whose death, on the 6th ult., was announced at Berlin, a musician has passed away whose life's work has been devoted to his art, in various ways, most usefully and, in some respects, with distinction. Born in Berlin on April 21, 1818, he commenced his artistic career in Sondershausen as an actor, and, during the years 1840 to 1842, was engaged as a baritone singer at the Cologne Theatre, studying composition, at the same time, under Conradin Kreutzer, the composer of "Das Nachtlager in Granada." Following the advice of the latter, he withdrew from the lyrical stage, and, returning to Berlin, devoted himself henceforth to composition and vocal instruction. In both these capacities, to which, later on, he added that of musical critic, he soon established a considerable reputation. As a teacher he was for a number of years greatly esteemed, and formed many excellent pupils, while of his numerous songs, some five hundred in number, an exceptionally large proportion has attained great popularity both in his native country and elsewhere, being distinguished by simplicity of style and gracefulness of melody. Less successful were his operettas, or "Liederspiele," amongst which may be mentioned "Die schöne Schusterin" and "Carolina." As the musical critic of several Berlin journals, Gumbert for many years wielded a considerable influence, especially in vocal matters, always amiably and with the desire to instruct; while his able German versions of the libretti of the more modern Italian and French operatic masterpieces greatly facilitated their introduction to the German lyrical stage.

Otto Roquette, the celebrated German poet, author of the charming and fanciful "Waldmeister's Brautfahrt," died at Darmstadt on March 18. His songs have been frequently set to music, and he wrote the libretto to the oratorio "Saint Elizabeth" for Liszt, with whom he was on terms of intimate friendship. He was born in 1824 at Krotoschin, in Prussian Poland, the scion of a French emigrant family, and for many years past held the appointment of professor of literary history at the Polytechnic Institute in Darmstadt.

Victor Tilgner, the eminent Austrian sculptor, died of apoplexy, on the 17th ult., in Vienna. He was considered the foremost sculptor of Austria, and the beautiful monument just erected to Mozart in Vienna is his work. The deceased was only fifty-two years of age, and his death only a few days previous to that fixed for the unveiling of that masterpiece (the 21st ult.) doubtless cast a gloom over the proceedings.

The famous French actress, Madame Anaïs Fargueil, the favourite of Parisian audiences for nearly half-a-century, died in Paris on the 8th ult. She was born at Toulouse in 1819, and, having obtained a first prize for singing at the Paris Conservatoire, made her début in 1835 at the Opéra Comique, in Adam's "La Marquise." Subsequently, having contracted a throat malady which spoilt her singing-voice, she turned her attention to comedy, a sphere in which she became eminently successful.

Mrs. Eliza Riches, widow of Mr. Charles Harry Riches, who was a descendant of Llewelyn, the last native Prince of Wales, and was adopted when three years old by Mrs. Wyndham Lewis, afterwards Countess of Beaconsfield, died on the 5th ult., at Cardiff. She was an excellent linguist and able musician (pupil of Clara Novello), amongst her compositions being "Divine Songs for Children" and a dirge composed for the Duke of Wellington's funeral. The deceased lady was in her eightieth year.

The brothers Edward and Joseph Jardine, two of the most eminent organ-builders of the United States, died respectively on March 14 and 15, both of heart disease, Edward's demise, at the age of sixty-six, being, in fact, directly attributable to the shock of the sudden death, on the previous day, of his younger brother. Both were Londoners by birth and emigrated in 1846.

The death is announced, on March 14, at Vienna, of Frau Anna Pessiak, née von Schmerling, aged sixty-two. She was a pupil of Madame Marchesi, and for a number of years held a vocal professorship at the Vienna Conservatorium. She was the composer of pianoforte pieces and songs, several masses and other sacred works.

The death is announced recently, at Assisi, of Allessandro Borroni, musical director of the Church of San Francesco. He was a pupil of Rossini and Mercadante, and a friend of Liszt and Thalberg. Amongst his numerous compositions for the church may be instanced a Requiem, with full orchestra, produced with great success some years since at Rieti. He was in his seventy-eighth year.

Felipe Gorriti, organist and composer of considerable reputation, died recently at Tolosa. He was born in Huarte (Navarra) in 1833, and successfully held organistships at Estella, Tafalla, and finally at Tolosa. Amongst his over three hundred compositions for the church, several Masses for four voices with orchestra, two Misereres, and some fine motets are held in high esteem.

The death is also announced, last month, at Naples, of Armando Mercadante, younger son of Saverio Mercadante, the famous composer of "La Vestale." The deceased, who had not inherited the father's musical gifts, was at one time an officer in the Italian army, and by his death the family becomes extinct.

We have also to record the following deaths:—

On March 15, at Vienna, Leopold Hauser, for many years choirmaster of the Church of St. Egidius, Gumpendorf, and conductor of the Wiedener Männer-Chor, aged forty.

On March 17, at Nuremburg, Hugo Zierfuss, Court musicseller and publisher.

On March 17, at Boston, U.S., Eduard Heindl, excellent flautist, aged fifty-eight.

Recently, at Palermo, Alvaro Stronconi, esteemed pianist, professor at the Conservatorio.

Recently, at Halle, F. Hartenstein, music teacher, for some time capellmeister at the Stadt-Theater, formerly, with Victor Nessler, conductor of the Leipzig "Sängerkreis," and for some years past of the Halle Choral Society.

On March 23, suddenly, at Venice, Angelo Tamburlini, operatic basso, greatly esteemed on the Italian operatic stage as well as in America, aged forty-three.

On March 29, at Rheinberg, Bernhard Tibus, well-known organ-builder.

Recently, at Cannes, Claire Issaurat, operatic vocalist, aged twenty-six.

On March 30, at Vienna, Frau Wilhelmine Calais (daughter of the Court organist, Rudolph Bibl), a much-esteemed pianist, aged twenty-eight.

On the 1st ult., at Berlin, Carl Brauns, aged seventy, for many years conductor of the Chorgesang-Verein.

On the 2nd ult., at Breslau, Otto Zimmer, choral and orchestral director.

On the 3rd ult., Frank William Stephens, chorister of Westminster Abbey, 1884 to 1889, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Stephens, 47, Seymour Place, London, aged twenty-two.

Recently, at Greifswald, at an advanced age, August Wagner, author of useful theoretical works on music, and, as composer, best known by his setting to music, for school use, the rhymed rules in Zumpe's Latin Grammar.

CORRESPONDENCE.

SOME NEW CHROMATIC HARMONIES.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—According to the teaching of the late Professor Macfarren there are but two degrees of the scale—the tonic and the supertonic—available as roots of chromatic discords identical in structure with the chord of the dominant seventh; and this, I believe, is now generally accepted among our leading musicians. In this letter I wish to point out—first, that certain other chromatic sevenths may be used with very good effect; and secondly, that if we admit the principle that a chromatic seventh may be taken upon other degrees of the scale than the two at present allowed, we shall be able to get rid of that musical monstrosity the "double root" theory. The following examples are of course intended merely to show the possibility of introducing the various chords with agreeable effect, and do not claim to be in any way noteworthy instances of their employment:—

Example 1 shows a chromatic seventh on the major third of the scale. In the minor this is not good, but in the major its effect is extremely rich and pompous. The omission of the dissonance gives us a chromatic concord of striking sonority for which no place seems to be found in the current theory of harmony. In approaching either concord or discord from the tonic, an exposed fifth is perfectly agreeable if the upper part moves by step. (I follow Professor Macfarren in using the term "exposed fifth" in preference to "hidden fifths," the theory which suggested the latter term being too fanciful.)

Scarcely so gorgeous as the preceding, but still a very fine chord, is the chromatic seventh on the superdominant, shown in Example 2. This also is scarcely good in the minor, and here again we get a new and agreeable chromatic concord by omitting the seventh.

In Example 3 is shown a chromatic seventh on the leading note, a chord full of wild and rugged grandeur. By adding a fifth between the bass and the upper parts in the first two chords of this example, it will be seen that the "forbidden consecutives" thus produced give additional strength to this discord without in the least detracting from its beauty. In this case, too, the omission of the seventh gives us a chromatic concord—a finer one than the last—at present unrecognised, consecutive fifths being of good effect in approaching it from the tonic. The exposed octave indicated in this example is also good. Both concord and discord are equally good in the minor.

We have in Examples 4*a* and 4*b* a chromatic seventh on the sharp fourth of the scale, the latter example showing the good effect of consecutive fifths and sevenths in its resolution upon the dominant seventh. The concord obtained by omitting the seventh may be effectively introduced if an unexceptionable progression of parts is secured. These chords scarcely suit the minor.

A chromatic seventh on the minor third of the scale is shown in Example 5. This discord is far less effective in the major, owing, no doubt, to the minor third of the scale being so prominently brought out by appearing as the root of the chord. The concord obtained by omitting the seventh is apparently diatonic in the minor key, by reason of the misleading key signature. In the modern minor the seventh is naturally a semitone below the key-note, and this should be indicated in the signature. If this were done the common chord on the minor mediant would be chromatic in aspect, as it certainly is in effect. The agreeable introduction of either the concord or the discord requires some care, but in quitting either for the dominant an exposed fifth is unobjectionable if the upper part moves by step.

This completes the list of chromatic harmonies I would suggest as worthy of being added to the present resources of the composer. I do not propose to go at present into the question of what discords higher than the seventh may be employed, but in Examples 6 and 7 will be found two minor ninths, respectively on the mediant and the leading note, of which a skilful composer could doubtless make very effective use.

I now come to my second point. There are two so-called "augmented sixths," strange looking combinations explained by supposing them to be derived from a double root. But if it be admitted that a chromatic seventh may be taken upon any degree of the scale that will bear it with good effect (and surely any reasonable musician will admit this), then there is no longer any reason for not regarding the "augmented sixths" as minor sevenths; and, when so looked upon, these chords cease to be anomalies requiring a specially created hypothesis for their explanation.

With the chords I have instanced and the two miscalled "augmented sixths," we have in the major key a chord consisting of a major third, a perfect fifth, and a minor seventh upon each degree of the chromatic scale except the fourth and the minor third. Probably anyone at all acquainted with practical harmony could make agreeable use of the two chromatic sevenths I have omitted; but, so far, I have not myself been able to introduce either of them into an harmonic progression with good effect.

February 7, 1896. W. F. Dunton.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

 Notices of Concerts, of which programmes must invariably be sent, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted.

Our correspondents will oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music is always kept in stock, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

Fribourg, Switzerland.—Your questions involve two considerations—the Legal and the Moral. As regards the Legal aspect, we suggest that you consult a solicitor; as regards the Moral view, why not consult your own conscience! Shall we send your letter to the American publishers and ask them to advise you?

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

Abergavenny.—The Choral Society, under the conductorship of Mr. W. K. Carr, gave performances on the 13th ult., in the Town Hall, of Gade's "Erl-King's Daughter" and Mendelssohn's "Loreley." The principal vocalists were Miss B. Edwards, Miss M. Blinkhorn, and Mr. W. J. Ineson. The chorus and orchestra numbered upwards of a hundred performers. Mr. A. Angle was chief violinist and Mr. F. Bamford presided at the pianoforte.

Barnstaple.—The Easter Musical Festival Society chose for its Concert Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," of which an admirable rendering was given in the Music Hall by a choir and orchestra of about 150 performers, with Madame M. Mallia, Miss Willis, and Mr. E. Wareham as soloists, and Mr. B. D. Bayly as principal violin. Dr. Edwards conducted.

Berkhamsted.—On the 1st ult. a good performance of Haydn's "Passion" Music was given in the School Chapel, by the choir, under the direction of Mr. J. T. Bavin. The chorus numbered sixty voices, and the quartets were sung by Miss Aline Lynton, Miss Florence Oliver, Mr. Lawrence Friar, and Mr. Montague Borwell. The new organ (four manuals), which has been built by the Hope-Jones Company, was used for the first time on this occasion, and the beautiful quality of its tone created a very favourable impression.

Blackburn.—Lee Williams's "Gethsemane" was impressively sung on March 31, in the Parish Church, by the choir, assisted by members of the St. Cecilia and Vocal Union. The solos were effectively sung by Miss B. Lamb, Master Lamb, and Messrs. T. Sharples, J. Lancaster, and J. W. Barton. Mr. J. Higginson conducted, and Mr. J. H. Rooks, organist and choirmaster of the church, conducted. ——The Cecilia and Vocal Union, under the conductorship of Mr. J. H. Rooks, gave a praiseworthy performance of Dvorák's "Spectre's Bride," on the 13th ult., in the Exchange Hall. The soloists were Miss M. G. Berrey, Mr. Iver McKay, and Mr. Bantock Pierpoint. The choruses were well sung by about 200 voices, and the important orchestral portion of the work efficiently rendered by fifty members of the Manchester Orchestra.

Bray.—The choir of the Parish Church gave an effective rendering, on the 2nd ult., of Stainer's "Crucifixion," under the direction of Mr. A. Keeble, the organist of the church. Assistance was given in the solos by Mr. W. Kearton and Mr. E. J. Woodland.

Burnley.—A musical Service appropriate to the season of Lent was given in Holy Trinity Church, on the 1st ult., Haydn's "Passion" being the work rendered. The solo parts were creditably sustained by Master Egar (whose singing displayed much intelligence and taste), and Messrs. Hartley, Arnold, Coppock, and Culpan—the last-named gentleman a recent and valuable acquisition to the choir. Mr. J. H. Rooks, organist of the Parish Church, Blackburn, officiated at the organ in a most able manner. Mr. Watson, organist and choirmaster of Holy Trinity Church, under whose able and painstaking direction the oratorio has been produced, conducted. At the conclusion of the Service Mr. Rooks played Gounod's "March to Calvary" in a masterly style.

Caterham Valley.—The Choral Society gave its final Concert of this season on the 15th ult. Mendelssohn's "Athalie" formed the first part, the illustrative verses being effectively read by Mr. D. A. Howden; Miss Emily Davies, Miss Emily Rasey, and Mrs. Percy Hall being the soloists. "Cavalleria Rusticana" occupied the second part. Special notice should be made of Miss Emily Davies as Santuzza, the other soloists being Miss Rasey, Mr. Charles Ellison, and Mr. W. H. Burgon. Both works were efficiently interpreted and reflect credit upon the conductor, Mr. Charles Hunt.

Chelmsford.—On the 1st ult. Stainer's "Crucifixion" was given at St. Mary's Church. The solos were sung by the Rev. A. Patrick, the Rev. G. E. G. Hoare, and members of the choir. Mr. Frye was at the organ, which was supplemented by a few wind instruments.

Cheltenham.—A successful Concert was given in the Assembly Rooms, on the 9th ult., by the Society, conducted by Mr. C. J. Phillips. The programme consisted of "The Swan and the Skylark," by A. Goring Thomas, unaccompanied part-music and orchestral selections, band and chorus doing excellent work.

Chesterfield.—The annual Concert of the Orchestral Society took place on the 7th ult., in the Stephenson Memorial Hall. The playing by the orchestra of Grieg's "Peer Gynt" Suite, two numbers from Cowen's "Language of Flowers" Suite, and the "Ruy Blas" and "Der Freischütz" Overtures reflected great credit on the conductor, Mr. H. N. Biggin. The vocalists were Miss Greta Williams and Mr. Charles Chilley.

Coventry.—At St. Michael's Church, on Good Friday, Parts 2 and 3 of Handel's "Messiah" were sung before a large congregation, by a chorus of about 150, accompanied by strings and organ, and conducted by Mr. H. C. Perrin. Mr. G. W. Borwell ably presided at the organ.

Dewsbury.—Bach's "Passion" Music was impressively sung on the 3rd ult., at the Parish Church, under the able direction of Mr. Walton Batley. The soloists were Master S. Oldroyd, Miss Sykes, Mr. F. Fallas, Mr. W. Blackburn, and Mr. Elstub. The choir was increased to about 100 voices, and Mr. Alfred Benton presided at the organ.

Ely.—An impressive rendering of Haydn's "Passion" Music was given in the Cathedral on Tuesday in Holy Week. The choir was augmented by members of the Musical Society, and Mr. Percy Hughes, who presided at the organ, was assisted by a small orchestra, of which Mr. Randolph Hall was the principal. The performance reflected great credit on its director, Mr. T. Tertius Noble.

Enfield.—The Musical Society closed its recent season on the 14th ult., with a successful performance of Gaul's "Holy City" and a miscellaneous selection, at the Bycullah Athenæum, under the conductorship of Mr. John C. Ward. The soloists were Mrs. Mary Davies, Miss Rose Dafforne, Mr. Harry Stubbs, and Mr. Harrison Brockbank; harp, Miss Miriam Timothy; pianoforte, Mrs. Hepworth.

Govan.—The first performance in the Parish Church of Stainer's "Crucifixion" was given on Palm Sunday by the choir, with Messrs. Moir and Fleming as soloists, under the direction of Mr. Allan Paterson, the organist of the church.

Great Stanmore.—An impressive performance of Lee Williams's cantata "Gethsemane" was given on March 27 in the Parish Church, under the direction of Mr. C. B. Morris, upon whom and the members of the choir the rendering reflected great credit.

Halifax, Nova Scotia.—Stainer's "Crucifixion" was sung with success by the choir at St. Luke's Cathedral, on March 20, under the direction of Mr. F. Gatward, organist and musical director.——Madame Albani and company brought their Canadian tour to a close on March 30 and the 1st ult., when they were enthusiastically received at the Academy, Halifax, on both evenings.

Halstead.—The Orchestral Society, under the conductorship of Mr. George Leake, played an admirable selection of high-class music, on the 8th ult., in the Town Hall. Mr. F. B. Smythies was principal violin, and the enjoyment of the evening was increased by the singing of Miss Mabel Yorke. The programme included Beethoven's Second Symphony in D, Edward German's "Henry VIII." Dances, and Bach's Concerto for two violins, these instruments being played by Mr. F. B. Smythies and Mr. R. Hall.

Hamilton, N.B.—At its second Subscription Concert the Choral Union gave a miscellaneous selection, including Sullivan's cantata "On Shore and Sea." The principal vocalists were Miss K. F. Grey and Mr. Moir. Mr. Mackie and Mr. Steven severally presided at the pianoforte and organ, and were assisted by a small orchestra led by Mr. W. H. Cole. Mr. H. W. Jones conducted.

Hawarden.—The Choral Society, under the direction of Mr. R. W. Pringle, gave a successful Concert, on the 7th ult., at the Gymnasium. The programme included Gade's cantata "Spring's Message." The soloists were Miss E. Harvey, Mr. I. J. David, and Mr. B. Beard. The band (a contingent from the Mold Orchestral Society, ably led by Mr. Horace Haselden) rendered the accompaniments very efficiently and gave several other pieces. The accompanists were Miss Lloyd Parry and Mr. Thomas Pate. A violin solo, Pergolesi's Canzonetta, was contributed by the Hon. Mrs. Henry Gladstone with much taste.

Hemel Hempstead.—The Choral Society's Concert took place in the Town Hall, on the 9th ult., when Macfarren's "May Day" and a miscellaneous selection, which included the Choral March from "Tannhäuser," were well rendered by the members. Miss Phipps, Miss B. Grant, Mr. L. Friar, and Mr. M. Borwell sang with marked success; and Miss Blathwayt's and Miss F. Blathwayt's respective violoncello and violin solos were greatly appreciated. The pianoforte and harmonium were entrusted to Miss L. Jones and Mrs. Evetts, and Mr. J. T. Bavin conducted.

Ilkeston.—On the 13th ult. the second Concert of the Ilkeston and District Harmonic Society was given in the Town Hall. The principal artists were Mrs. Smyly, Mr. Josse Willey, and Mr. Radford. There was a full band and chorus, Mr. W. G. Taylor conducting, and Mr. W. H. Whitehead acting as leader. The programme consisted of Bennett's "May Queen," which was very creditably given, and a miscellaneous second part.

Llandudno.—On Good Friday, at Holy Trinity Church, Stainer's "Crucifixion" was admirably rendered by the choir, assisted by friends. The tenor solos were taken by Mr. A. Fleet, the bass solos by Messrs. A. Jones and Hornsby, and the soprano and alto parts in the unaccompanied quartet by the Misses Jephcott and Hamilton. Mr. R. H. Whall presided at the organ.

Maldon, Essex.—At the Congregational Church, on March 26, the cantata "The Last Night of Bethany," by C. L. Williams, was successfully rendered by the choir, and repeated after a short Service on the following Sunday evening. The solos were well sung by the Misses J. and G. Clear and Miss Ada May, and most of the choruses were given with spirit and effect.——On March 26 the anthem "The Souls of the Righteous," by W. Bear, was also given, the solo being expressively sung by Miss A. May.

Mayfield.—An excellent performance of Mendelssohn's "Lauda Sion" was given on March 24, in the Parish Church, under the direction of Mr. Daniel McIntyre. The soloists were Miss M. Tarbet, Miss J. Littlejohn, Mr. R. S. Dykes, and Mr. W. Harvey. The organ and pianoforte were respectively entrusted to Mr. A. Wood and Mr. Campbell.

Monmouth.—A Concert was given on the 14th ult., at the Rolls Hall, by the members of the Monmouthshire Musical Society, including the recently attached Caerleon branch. The choral works selected were Bach's cantata "God's time is the best" and Mendelssohn's 95th Psalm, and the performance, under the direction of Mr. George Renecle, was very satisfactory. The solo music in the cantata was effectively rendered by Miss F. Evans, Mr. D'Arcy de Ferrars, and Mr. Gibbons; and in the Psalm by Mrs. Broderick, Mrs. Charles Nicholson, and Mr. D'Arcy de Ferrars. The second part of the programme was miscellaneous, and comprised the Larghetto from Beethoven's Symphony in D, several songs by the soloists, and some part-songs by the choir, besides other pieces of interest. The organ accompaniment in the cantata and Psalm by Mrs. Hodgkinson contributed largely to the good results secured.

Newmains.—A Concert was given on March 27 by the Musical Association, consisting of selections from oratorios, glees, part-songs, and orchestral pieces, which were effectively performed by the choir and orchestra of eighty performers, under the direction of Mr. Robert Booth. The solo vocalist was Mr. R. K. Hinshalwood. As a fitting conclusion to the season, the members of the Association presented to their conductor a purse of sovereigns; and Mr. Booth was also the recipient of a handsome bâton from the members of the choir of Coltness Memorial Church, of which he is the organist.

Oldham.—On March 27, at the School Board Concert Room, a successful Concert was given by the students of the Oldham College of Music. Beethoven's Funeral March was played—the audience standing—as a tribute of respect to the late M. Vieuxtemps, the eminent violoncellist and Professor of the College. In the performance of the pieces which followed the students gave evidence of good training.

Perth.—The musical season in Perth has been no less active than usual, although not so many of the regular Subscription Concerts have been given by the local societies. The energies of the Musical Society have been concentrated upon a single Concert, consisting of Handel's "Israel in Egypt," which was given last month, and practically brought the season to a close. This work, on account of the great preponderance of choral numbers, is a heavy one for a provincial society to tackle; but the result was a very satisfactory one, and did credit to the conductor, Mr. F. S. Graves. The solo parts were undertaken by Miss Watt, of Inverness, Mr. Charles Blagbro, and members of the choir. Cole's Glasgow Orchestra provided the accompaniments.

Plymouth.—The annual rendering of Stainer's "Crucifixion" by the Christ Church choir, under the able direction of Mr. Godwin Fowles, the organist and director of the choir, took place on March 25. Owing to Christ Church being closed for restoration the Service was held in St. Barnabas Church.

Rhyl.—On the 5th ult. there was an orchestral accompaniment to the evening Service at St. John's Church, Mr. A. E. Jones presiding at the organ. The anthems were Dr. Naylor's "The foe behind" and Mr. Bruce Steane's "The first day of the week," both being well rendered by the choir, and accompanied by the orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. G. Roberts. Mr. J. D. Asher conducted.——On the 9th ult. the choir gave an attractive miscellaneous Concert at the Church House. The vocalists were Mrs. Insull, Master C. Stewart, Mr. W. A. Thomas, and Mr. L. Jones. Clarinet and cornet solos were respectively given by Sergt. I. Parcell and Mr. J. O. Vaughan, and pianoforte pieces, which included Mr. Edward German's "Henry VIII." Dances, were contributed by Mr. E. A. Jones. A duologue, entitled "A Narrow Escape," was recited by Miss Townshend and Miss E. Townshend.

Ripley.—Mr. W. Taylor conducted a meritorious performance by the Choral Society of Mendelssohn's "St. Paul," on March 31, in the Public Hall. The soloists were Miss M. P. Allen, Mrs. Lindall, Mr. H. Beaumont, and Mr. H. Rickard, and the choir and orchestra numbered about 130 performers. Mr. T. Soar was principal violin and Mr. T. Cautton played the organ.

Romford.—on the 1st ult. the choir of St. Edward's Parish Church gave a good performance of Lee Williams's "Bethany." The soloists were Mr. S. Brown and Mr. H. Clinch, and boys from the London Training School for Choristers. Mr. Gilbert Tozer, organist and choirmaster of the Parish Church, Windsor, was at the organ; and Mr. Cyril G. Church, of St. Edward's, conducted. After Evensong on Easter Day Mr. Church gave his usual Sunday evening Recital.

Rugby.—Stainer's "Crucifixion" was sung at the Parish Church on March 25, and on Palm Sunday in the afternoon, under the direction of the organist and choirmaster, Mr. George H. Hidden. The solos were rendered by members of the choir.

Shillelagh, Co. Wicklow.—A successful Concert was given in the Town Hall, on the 10th ult., by members of the Choral Union. The programme consisted of several numbers from Bradbury's cantata "Esther, the Beautiful Queen," and part-songs and solos, all of which were meritoriously rendered and reflected much credit on the conductor, Mr. Samuel Nicholson. Mr. Edward Dyas, organist of St. Thomas's Church, Dublin, presided at the pianoforte and accompanied throughout with his usual ability.

Southport.—A Concert was given on the 10th ult. by the St. Philip's Choral Society, when the principal feature of the performance was a cantata, entitled "Jairus, the Ruler's Daughter," by E. Cympson, under the direction of Mr. James Young, the organist and choirmaster of St. Philip's Church. The principal vocalists were Miss Howarth, Mrs. Wells, Miss Procter, Mr. G. Reynolds, and Mr. and Mrs. Nutt. The second part was miscellaneous, consisting of part-songs and instrumental pieces.

Swadlincote.—The Harmonic Society (conductor, Mr. H. Buckley) gave Sir Michael Costa's "Naaman," on the 15th ult., to a large and appreciative audience.

Torquay.—Mr. Charles Edwards gave two attractive miscellaneous Concerts, in the afternoon and evening of the 7th ult., in the Parish Rooms. The vocalists were Mrs. K. T. Davy, Miss M. T. Davy, and Mr. S. J. Bishop, and instrumental solos were contributed by Mrs. W. H. Mortimer (pianoforte), Mrs. H. Crocker (violin), and Mr. G. H. Stone (oboe).——The Musical Association, conducted by Mr. T. H. Webb, concluded its recent season on the 15th ult., by an excellent Concert in the Bath Saloons. The programme included several orchestral pieces and Dr. Harford Lloyd's cantata "Hero and Leander," the solos in this work being effectively sung by Miss R. T. Davy and Mr. H. Thorndike; Madame Gomez sang in the second part of the evening, and, under the direction of Mr. J. W. Crowe, several madrigals and part-songs were also admirably rendered by the choir.

Tunbridge Wells.—Mr. Hunnibell's Choral Society gave a very successful performance of Dr. Parry's oratorio "Judith," on the 10th ult. Mr. Hunnibell had given the choir assiduous and careful training, and he certainly must have been gratified by the excellence of its work. The solos were sung by Madame Bertha Moore, Madame Belle Cole, Mr. Daniel Price, and Mr. William Green, who took the place of Mr. Herbert Grover (indisposed). There was a London orchestra, augmented by local players, and the work and its performance made a great impression.

Weymouth.—The Upwey Choral Society and the Weymouth Glee Club gave an excellent performance of Gaul's cantata "The Holy City" and the "Daughters of Acquilija," the latter a cantata arranged from Verdi's opera "Attila," at Upwey and Weymouth, on the 11th and 13th ult. respectively. The conductor was Miss Emma Bullen. The solos were admirably sung by Miss Teresa Blamey, Miss Florence Croft, Mr. D'Arcy Clayton, and Mr. Arthur Barlow. Miss Ethel Beetlestone was the solo violinist and Miss Dorothy Thomas gave recitations.

Whitchurch, Salop.—A Service in aid of the Cottage Hospital was held in the Parish Church on March 25, when Mendelssohn's cantata "Lauda Sion" was sung by the Musical Society, the accompaniments being played by the Orchestral Society, under the bâton of Mr. W. E. Rogers, organist of the Parish Church. The vocal principals were Miss Houldsworth, Miss Addenbrooke, Dr. Denning, and Mr. J. Jones. Preceding the cantata, Mendelssohn's Overture to "Athalie" was played by band and organ, Mr. W. A. Roberts presiding at the latter. In a short Recital Mr. Roberts subsequently played Purcell's Toccata, Andante (Hoyte), Pastorale (Lemare), and Sonata da Camera (Peace).

Whittington Moor.—A Ballad Concert was given in the Webster's Endowed Schools on March 25, in aid of the funds of Whittington Moor and District Early Closing Association. The vocalists were Mrs. T. H. Kelly, Miss G. Bingham; and Messrs. Thos. Cooper, W. H. Craggs, P. J. Kelly, T. H. Kelly, and S. Neave. Mr. G. H. Sadler and Miss Nutall presided at the pianoforte.

Windsor.—An excellent performance of Handel's "Israel in Egypt" was given at the Albert Institute on the 2nd ult., by the Windsor and Eton Choral Society, conducted by Sir Walter Parratt. The principal vocalists were Miss. P. Hughes and Messrs. P. Coward, G. Stubbs, H. Stubbs, and B. Mills. At the rehearsal on the previous Monday Sir Walter was presented with a case of plate by the members of the Society.

Wrexham.—Stainer's "Crucifixion" was sung in the Parish Church on March 31, by an augmented choir, with Mr. F. Pullein at the organ.

Yarmouth.—The second Concert of the Musical Society's thirty-seventh season was given in the Town Hall, on the 14th ult., before a good audience, when Spohr's "Last Judgment" was given for the first time in Yarmouth. Under the skilful guidance of Mr. Haydon Hare the Society more than sustained its old reputation, improvement at almost every point being noticeable. The chorus, better balanced than usual, sang with marked precision, good tone, and correctness, and displayed delicacy, spirit, and power as occasion needed. The principal singers were Miss Percival Allen, Miss May Sieber, Mr. S. Dye, and Mr. J. B. Smith (Peterborough Cathedral).

Organ Appointments.—Mr. George H. Fox, Organist and Senior Music-master to Blairlodge School, Scotland.—Mr. Arthur H. Gibbons, Organist and Choirmaster to the Parish Church, Cirencester.—Mr. J. W. Wilson, Organist and Choirmaster to the Parish Church, Little Falls, U.S.A.—Mr. Leonard Barton, Organist and Master of the Choristers of St. Peter's Church, Peebles.—Mr. Sydney B. Mason, to St. Cecilia's Church, Harlesden.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.
Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

GERMAN, EDWARD.—Prelude (No. 1 of the Suite), from the Music to "Romeo and Juliet." String Parts, 2s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 5s. 6d.

—— Pastorale (No. 2 of the Suite), from the Music to "Romeo and Juliet." String Parts, 2s.; Wind Parts, 5s. 6d.

—— Pavane (No. 3 of the Suite), from the Music to "Romeo and Juliet." String Parts, 2s.; Wind Parts, 5s. 6d.

—— Nocturne (No. 4 of the Suite), from the Music to "Romeo and Juliet." String Parts, 2s.; Wind Parts, 5s. 6d.

—— Dramatic Interlude (No. 5 of the Suite), from the Music to "Romeo and Juliet." String Parts, 2s.; Wind Parts, 5s. 6d.

SCHUMANN, ROBERT.—Four Studies for the Pedal Pianoforte. (Op. 56, Nos. 2, 4, 5, and 6.) Arranged for Pianoforte Solo by CLARA SCHUMANN. 2s. 6d.

—— Three Sketches for the Pedal Pianoforte. Op. 58, Nos. 1, 3, and 4.) Arranged for Pianoforte Solo by CLARA SCHUMANN. 2s. 6d.

MILLER, GEORGE.—Solemn March. For full Military Band. Pianoforte Solo, 2s.; Pianoforte Duet, 2s.; Military Band Parts, 3s. 6d.

SCHUBERT, FRANZ.—Mass in F. In Vocal Score. New Edition, revised in accordance with the decree concerning Church Music drawn up by the Sacred Congregation of Rites, and approved of by His Holiness Pope Leo XIII., on July 7, 1894. Paper cover, 1s.; paper boards, 1s 6d.; cloth, gilt, 2s. 6d.

—— Mass in C. In Vocal Score. New Edition, revised in accordance with the decree concerning Church Music drawn up by the Sacred Congregation of Rites, and approved of by His Holiness Pope Leo XIII., on July 7, 1894. Paper cover, 1s.; paper boards, 1s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 2s. 6d.

—— Mass in E flat. In Vocal Score. New Edition, revised in accordance with the decree concerning Church Music drawn up by the Sacred Congregation of Rites, and approved of by His Holiness Pope Leo XIII., on July 7, 1894. Paper cover, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s.

GERMAN, EDWARD.—Pastorale from the Music to "Romeo and Juliet." Arranged for Pianoforte Solo. 2s.

GRIECO, GAETANO.—Selection of Pieces. Composed for the Harpsichord. Edited and arranged for Pianoforte Solo by J. S. SHEDLOCK. 2s. 6d.

PASQUINI, BERNARDO.—Selection of Pieces. Composed for the Harpsichord. Edited and arranged for Pianoforte Solo by J. S. SHEDLOCK. 5s.

THREE PIECES. For the Harpsichord. By G. FRESCOBALDI, J. J. FROBERGER, and J. C. KERL. Edited and arranged for Pianoforte Solo by J. S. Shedlock. 2s. 6d.

TAYLOR, FRANKLIN.—Scales and Arpeggios. For the Pianoforte. With preparatory exercises designed to facilitate their execution. (No. 53. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Music Primers and Educational Series, edited by Sir JOHN STAINER and Dr. C. HUBERT H. PARRY.) 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.

SYKES, FREDERICK H.—Original Hymn Tunes, Chants, Kyries, &c. Cloth, 5s.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW. No. 47. Contains the following Music in both Notations:—"Ye mariners of England," by H. HUGH PIERSON. Studies in combining time and tune. Studies in change of key. Graduated Exercises for school classes. 1½d.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS.—Edited by W. G. MCNAUGHT. Published in two forms. A. Voice Parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 8vo size; B. Voice Parts only in Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

			A.	B.
No. 335.	The children are singing. Unison Song with Chorus.	Arr. by A. M. WAKEFIELD	—	1d.
„ 375.	The wandering miller ..	SCHUBERT	1½d.	—
„ 376.	Crusaders	SCHUBERT	1½d.	—
„ 377.	Welcome to spring.. ..	MENDELSSOHN	1½d.	—
„ 378.	Sun of the sleepless ..	MENDELSSOHN	1d.	—
„ 379.	Evening Song	MENDELSSOHN	1d.	—
„ 380.	Contentment	MOZART	1d.	—

—— Book LXXI. Six Unison Songs. By Various Composers .. .. 6d. 3d.

—— Book LXXII. Five Unison Songs for Juniors. Words, from "A Child's Garden of Verses," by R. L. STEPHENSON. The music by R. HOUSTON MACDONALD .. .. 6d. 3d.

MCNAUGHT, W. G.—"Hints on Choir-training for Competition." Reprinted, with additions, from THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW. 2d.

GALPIN, F. W.—"Ye Olde Englyshe Pastymes." Old English Dances and Rustic Sports, with Incidental Music of the period. Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

WOODS, F. CUNNINGHAM.—"King Harold." A Historical Cantata. For Soprano and Tenor Soli and Chorus, with Pianoforte (or Organ) Accompaniment. Words by Rev. CHARLES KENT. Book of Words, 10s. 6d. per 100.

GOUNOD, CHARLES.—Concluding Amen (Nos. 1 and 2). On Card. (No. 284. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1d.

NOBLE, T. TERTIUS.—Vesper Hymn ("Lord, keep us safe this night"). 2d.

MARTIN, GEORGE C.—The Offertory Sentences. (No. 287. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 6d.

MICHELL, F. BERNARD—(in D). Te Deum laudamus. 3d.

SOLEMNIS CANTUS Quarumdam Precum Officii et Missæ Defunctorum (Ad quatuor Voces æquales). 1s.

POWELL, JAMES BADEN—(in A). Communion Service. 1st Violin, 1s.; 2nd Violin, 1s.; Viola, 1s.; Violoncello and Bass, 1s. 6d.

TOURS, BERTHOLD—(in D). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 285. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 6d.

MEYRICK-ROBERTS, R.—"Through the day Thy love has spared us." Vesper Hymn. 1½d.

ROBERTS, J. VARLEY.—"I am Alpha and Omega." Anthem for Trinity Sunday. (No. 539. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

STEANE, BRUCE.—"If ye love Me." Anthem for Whitsunday. (No. 544. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 2d.

TOURS, BERTHOLD.—"O joyful Light" (O lux beata). Anthem for Trinitytide or General Use. (No. 536. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

PART-SONGS for Treble Voices. Specially adapted for High Schools. Edited by Mrs. CAREY BROCK and M. A. SIDEBOTHAM. Part VI. 1s.

RENDALL, EDWARD D.—"Burd Helen." Ballad. For Male Voices and Orchestra. 6d.

WHATMOOR, FREEMAN.—"Waken, lords and ladies gay." For One or Two Voices (ad lib.) No. 4. School Songs. 3d.

DYE, ALFRED J.—"Her rose" (in A). Song. The words written by WILLIAM WOODWARD. 2s.

FRANCIS, EVELYN.—Nocturne (in D minor). For the Pianoforte. 1s. 6d.

TOLLEMACHE, W. J.—Pianoforte Duet (in G minor). 2s.

PEACE, A. L.—Concert Fantasia (in B flat, minor and major). For the Organ. 2s. 6d.

ORGAN ARRANGEMENTS. Edited by GEORGE C. MARTIN.
No. 40. Air, "Lord, to Thee my heart I proffer" (St. Matthew Passion)—Bach .. .. D. JOHN D. CODNER 1s.

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS in the TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Edited by W. G. MCNAUGHT.
No. 923. If I go not away .. .. .. THOMAS ADAMS 1½d.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S New and Standard Publications.

AN IMPORTANT NEW WORK
By F. CORDER.
NOW READY.

THE ORCHESTRA: AND HOW TO WRITE IT. A PRACTICAL GUIDE to every branch and detail of modern orchestration, including full particulars of all instruments now in use and rules for their combination. With numerous exercises, and over two hundred useful examples from modern works. The whole forming an indispensable manual for conductors and composers. 112 pp. Cloth, 10s. 6d. net.

NEW WORKS ON VOICE PRODUCTION.

THE NATURAL USE OF THE VOICE. By GEORGE E. THORP and WILLIAM NICHOLL. Paper, 2s. 6d. net; cloth, 3s. 6d. net.
"The authors are masters of their subjects."—Daily Chronicle.

BREATHING AND BREATH CONTROL, for Singers, Speakers, and Teachers. By GEORGE E. THORP. Limp cloth, 1s. net.

THE {A / B} SERIES OF ARTISTIC SONGS.

Contributors: Frances Allitsen, F. E. Gambogi, Florence Gilbert, Arthur E. Godfrey, Stanley Hawley, Arthur Hervey, Elise Horrocks, E. Overbeck, Sybil Palliser, Beatrice Parkyns, Emilio Pizzi.

Full List on application.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S

NEW AND STANDARD PUBLICATIONS—continued.

PIANOFORTE MUSIC.

Ten Short and Melodious Studies (Op. 30). For the Development of Touch and Phrasing. By Graham P. Moore. 2s. net.

Twelve Poetical Studies (Op. 31). By Graham P. Moore. Books I. and II. Each 2s. net.

Three Nocturnes (Op. 32). By Graham P. Moore. No. 1. In G minor. No. 2. In E flat. No. 3. In A flat. Complete, 1s. 6d. net.

Three Archaic Dances (Op. 33). By Graham P. Moore. No. 1. Rigaudon. No. 2. Minuet. No. 3. Gigue. Complete, 2s. net.

Two Valses (Op. 26). By Graham P. Moore. No. 1. Valse arabesque. No. 2. Valse spirituelle. 4s. each.

Twelve Lyrical Sketches. By R. H. Bellairs. Books I. and II. Each 1s. net.

Voices of the Sea (Op. 10). Six Sketches. By Gerard F. Cobb. Complete, 1s. net.

COMPLETE SCALE AND ARPEGGIO TUTOR.

By Adolphe Schloesser. Containing all the Scales and Arpeggi required by Pupils preparing for the Metropolitan, Local, and other Examinations, including the Associated Board of the R.A.M. and R.C.M. Engraved in bold style, and printed on best paper, giving clear directions how to practise. Part I. Scales, 33 pages, 4s. Part II. Arpeggios, 45 pages, 4s. Complete, 6s.

"A model of its kind."—Morning Advertiser.

NEW ORGAN MUSIC.

THE ORGAN RECITAL SERIES.

Selected and Edited by Edwin H. Le Mare. New Numbers:—

No. 7. Andante in D. By Alfred Hollins. 2s. net.
„ 8. Grand Chœur. By Alfred Hollins. 2s. 6d. net.
„ 9. Andantino, and Finale in B flat. By W. Wolstenholme. 2s. 6d. net.

Barcarolle. By Edwin H. Le Mare. 2s. net.

Complete list of Organ Music post-free.

CANTATAS, OPERETTAS, PART-MUSIC, ANTHEMS, SERVICES, &c.

See Catalogue No. 9. Post-free.

A PRACTICAL GUIDE to Teachers and all interested in Music.

Robert Cocks and Co.'s Thematic and Illustrated Album, with 50 specimen pages in Musical Notation, containing nearly 300 examples. Full music size. Post-free.

6, NEW BURLINGTON ST., LONDON, W.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

Published on the 1st of every Month. Price 1½d. Annual Subscription, including Postage, 2s.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW for MAY contains:—

General Notes.
Music Competitions at Kendal.
Elementary State-aided Schools and Singing.
The Scotch Schools.—Returns for 1895.
Lessons on Intervals and their Nomenclature.
The Certificate Examination, 1896.—Helps to Students of Musical Theory.
Graduated Exercises for School Classes.—Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa.
"Come, O come! in pious lays." Music by J. Stainer.
"Father, I know that all my life." Music by J. Stainer.
Inspectors' Tests.
Carlisle Festival.
Isle of Man Competitions.
Reviews.
Miscellaneous.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

For MAY

CONTAINS THE FOLLOWING MUSIC IN BOTH NOTATIONS:—

"The Rhine-raft Song." Arranged for S.S.A. By Ciro Pinsuti.
"Goosey, Goosey, Gander." Nursery Rhyme with Actions, from "National Nursery Rhymes." Music by J. W. Elliott.
Two-part Studies in both Notations.

Also, an Extra Music Supplement, containing a Unison Song, "Pirate Story." By R. Houston Macdonald.

The Music and Exercises can always be obtained separately. Price 1½d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.
Office: 1, Berners Street, W.

CONTENTS.

	Page
In the "Land of Song"	297
From my Study (with Fac-similes)	300
Sir George Grove on Beethoven's Symphonies	303
A Letter of Beethoven's	305
The Pianoforte and its Enemies	308
Occasional Notes	309
Facts, Rumours, and Remarks	311
Royal Choral Society	313
Philharmonic Society	313
Crystal Palace Concerts	313
Lamoureux Concerts	314
Royal Artillery Band Concerts	314
Monday and Saturday Popular Concerts	315
Drury Lane Opera	315
Good Friday Concerts	315
Royal Academy of Music	315
The Society of Arts	316
Musical Association	316
Two Northern Musical Festivals	316
The Choral Societies of Berlin	317
Reviews	318
Foreign Notes	320
Music in Birmingham	322
„ Bristol	327
„ Dundee	327
„ East Anglia	327
„ Edinburgh	328
„ Glasgow	329
„ Liverpool	329
„ Manchester	330
„ Northumberland and Durham	330
„ North Staffordshire	331
„ Oxford	331
„ Sheffield and District	331
„ Southern Counties	332
„ Yorkshire	333
„ Paris	334
„ Montreal	334
Four-part Song—"Pack, clouds, away."—W. A. C. Cruickshank, Mus. Bac., Oxon.	321
Three-part Song for Female Voices, with Accompaniment for two Violins and Pianoforte—"The Snow."—Edward Elgar (Extra Supplement).
General News (London)	334
Obituary	337
Correspondence	338
Answers to Correspondents	339
Brief Summary of Country News	339
List of Music published during the last Month	342

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.
A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in proper position Advertisements should reach the Office NOT LATER THAN THE TWENTIETH of each Month.

MADAME MARIE MALLIA (Soprano)
Oratorios and Concerts. Claremont, Hermon Hill, Snaresbrook, N.E.

YOUNG LADY (Soprano) wishes for CHURCH APPOINTMENT. Four years' experience, Protestant and R.C. 37, St. John's Park, London, N.

MISS EDITH BLYTH (MARCHESI Pupil for four years) will take a few PUPILS during the Season. Address, Messrs. Moutrie and Son, 55, Baker Street, W.

ORGANIST.—W. V. BYFORD accepts ENGAGEMENTS for Vacation Duties. Address, The Lindens, Muswell Hill, London, N.

ORGANIST.—RE-ENGAGEMENT REQUIRED. Now at liberty. Excellent testimonials. Accustomed to High Celebrations. Moderate salary. Organist, 273, Underhill Road, S.E.

NOTTINGHAM SACRED HARMONIC SOCIETY.—The Committee desire to engage the services of a first-class CONDUCTOR and CHORUS-MASTER for this Society. Applications for the post must be sent in on or before June 10, to the Secretary, Mr. Frank W. Bedells, Belgrave Chambers, Goldsmith Street, Nottingham.

TUNER.—WANTED, First-class PIANO TUNER. Permanent and comfortable berth for a good pushing man. Salary, expenses, and commission. Enclose photo, with references, stating salary required, age, if married, &c., to Duck, Son and Pinker, Bath.

WANTED, a thoroughly experienced PIANOFORTE TUNER and REGULATOR, for North of England. State age, wages, particulars of experience, if married, last employment, and photo, to P. S., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

AN APPRENTICE WANTED, to the Pianoforte Tuning. Exceptional facilities offered to an Organ Student desirous of acquiring knowledge of the Music Trade. Three-manual organ. Could reside with Principal. Gentlemanly youth. Highest references exchanged. Premium required. Apply, by letter, John Edwards, Organist, Ryde House, Brentwood.

CHURCH PIPE ORGAN, substantially built, modern design, rich tone. 8 stops; full compass independent Pedal Organ; lead 500 persons. £75. Photo, 12 stamps. Appointments, S., 52, Hazlewood Crescent, Westbourne Park, London, W.

MASON and HAMLIN ORCHESTRAL ORGAN for SALE. Original price, £380. In thorough order; suitable for small Church or Chapel. Price, for cash, £80. Apply, M. D., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

STILL LEFT, some small COPIES of the new beautiful copyright Song, SPRING MORNING. Compass, E flat to F. Every lady singer should have this song Post-free, six stamps. Write at once, D. D., 97, Portland Street, Lincoln.

Just Published.

HINTS ON CHOIR TRAINING FOR COMPETITIONS

BY

W. G. McNAUGHT.

Reprinted, with additions, from

"THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW."

"No choir-trainer need be ashamed to learn from that experienced musician, Mr. W. G. McNaught, whose 'Hints on Choir Training for Competitions' have just been issued as a little pamphlet, price 2d., by Messrs. Novello. Mr. McNaught's remarks are addressed more especially to conductors and choirs who are about to take part in the competitions at Kendal, Carlisle, and Morecambe this month, but they will be found equally serviceable by others; and it is astonishing to note how Mr. McNaught has succeeded in compressing into so small a space hints on almost every point of importance to choral conductors. The clear arrangement of paragraphs under the various headings, 'Tone—blend—attack—intonation—rhythm—pace—phrasing,' &c., adds to the value of the book."—Musical News.

Price Twopence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co

Seventh Edition.

The river floweth strong, my love

PART-SONG FOR S.A.T.B.

Words by E. Ridgway.

Music composed by ROLAND ROGERS.

Price Fourpence; Sol-fa, Twopence.

Sung with immense success by Eaton Faning's Select Choir at the Ballad Concerts, St. James's Hall; Wolverhampton Festival Choral Society, the Chester Festival Choral Society, the Cambrian Choral Society (Birkenhead), Huddersfield Glee and Madrigal Society, &c.

Also, New Part-Song, by same Composer.

THREE FISHERS WENT SAILING

Words by Kingsley.

Old Notation, Fourpence; Sol-fa, Twopence.

"An immense success."

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

THE NEW TUNE BOOK

A Collection of new Hymn Tunes (including 32 Prize Tunes) intended as a companion to any Hymn Book.

Every Precentor, Organist, and Choirmaster should possess a copy of this important work.

Specimen, Post-free, One Shilling and Twopence.

Houghton and Co., Ltd., 39, Great Marlborough Street, W.

Just Published.

THE HISTORY

OF

MENDELSSOHN'S ORATORIO

"ELIJAH"

BY

F. G. EDWARDS.

With an Introduction by SIR GEORGE GROVE, C.B.

And a number of Portraits, including a hitherto unpublished one of the Composer.

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence.

THE TIMES.

Another work of distinct value to musical historians. . . . There are several portraits of those who took part in the original performance, and one most interesting portrait of Mendelssohn from a drawing in the possession of Mrs. Victor Benecke. The work of compiling the necessary information has been excellently done, and the publication comes as a fitting celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the production of the work.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

Mr. F. G. Edwards's "History of Mendelssohn's Oratorio 'Elijah'" comes with admirable propriety in the jubilee year of that great work. . . . Mr. Edwards's book contains, of course, much that is familiar to students of Mendelssohn, and even to the casual readers of musical biography, but the author is able to set forth no little which fairly claims attention as new. There are, for example, various letters from the composer not heretofore made public, and full of interest for those to whom the details of a great work are attractive. Herein lies the chief value of the book.

DAILY NEWS.

Those who wish to read a full and authentic account of the conception and production of this oratorio cannot do better than consult Mr. F. G. Edwards's "History of Mendelssohn's 'Elijah,'" which has just been published by Messrs. Novello. Much of the matter dealt with is, of course, already known, but Mr. Edwards has unearthed several new facts and a good deal of hitherto unpublished correspondence.

THE MORNING.

An interesting addition to musical literature has just been made in the shape of "The History of Mendelssohn's Oratorio 'Elijah,'" written by F. G. Edwards, and published by Novello, Ewer and Co. The work is largely made up of letters from and to Mendelssohn. . . . The earlier letters are particularly interesting, showing as they do the extraordinary pains taken by the composer to make the "Elijah" as perfect as possible.

THE QUEEN.

A very interesting History of that popular oratorio. The volume is issued in a cheap form, and consists of some hundred and forty pages. . . . Many of Mendelssohn's letters printed in the book are now made public for the first time, and Sir George Grove has written a brief introduction to the volume.

THE SCOTSMAN.

Mr. Edwards's story of the famous oratorio is well told, and its value is enhanced by the fact that many of the letters, as well as a new portrait and a fac-simile of a page of the correspondence with Bartholomew, now appear for the first time, and help to freshen the narrative of facts and dates.

BRISTOL TIMES AND MIRROR.

A more appropriate volume than this acceptable and opportune work could hardly be published at the present juncture. . . . Mr. Edwards, who is at all times a painstaking and trustworthy writer, has evidently discharged his task on the present occasion with zeal as well as care, and the result of his labours will be treasured by musicians as a valuable memento of the fiftieth anniversary of the production of "Elijah" in the capital of the Midlands. Those who have already read a good deal concerning Mendelssohn and his works will, in the volume under notice, find much that is new and of absorbing interest. . . . The book is made all the more valuable by a well and carefully-prepared index.

BIRMINGHAM NEWS.

It ought to find its way into the hands of all music-lovers, forming, as it does, one of the richest additions of recent years to musical literature. The value of the book is materially enhanced by the reproduction of the fac-simile of a letter written by Mendelssohn to Wm. Bartholomew, the English translator of "Elijah," from the original in the possession of Mr. F. G. Edwards.

BIRMINGHAM GAZETTE.

In all appropriateness, and certain of a wide welcome, comes "The History of Mendelssohn's Oratorio, 'Elijah,'" by F. G. Edwards, and published by Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. . . . We can only refer readers to Mr. Edwards's book, which will be found a critical and intelligent appreciation of the great composer, and a treasure-house of wealth in the matter of musical details of an historical character. It is supplied with portraits of Mendelssohn at the age of twenty-six, of Mr. Joseph Moore, and others, and fac-similes of various letters of an interesting character.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ORGANISTS, CHOIRMASTERS, and every MUSICIAN should send for SPECIMENS (free) of DINHAM, BLYTH and CO.'S MUSIC AUTO-LITHO PRINTING. Anthems, Kyries, Services, Songs, &c., printed (black ink), from twenty-four and upwards, at trifling cost. 28, Fenchurch Street, London. Established 1872.

HYDRAULIC ENGINES for Organ Blowing. Blennerhasset's Patent "Perfect" Prize Medal Engines are the best. 1B, Vernon Street, King's Cross Road, London, W.C.

T. R. WILLIS (from Minories, est. 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Strings, Wire, Violins, Concertinas, &c. 1, Aldgate Avenue, E.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, and PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.
London: B. Williams, 19, Ivy Lane, Paternoster Row, E.C.

TO CHORAL and ORCHESTRAL SOCIETIES.—For SALE, a large number of Chorus Parts, Vocal Scores of Sacred and Secular Works, Cantatas, Part-Songs, &c.; also, Band Parts of Cantatas, Overtures, Symphonies, &c.
Lists on application to Dr. Bunnett, The Close, Norwich.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,
Organ Builders,
SPRINGWOOD WORKS,
HUDDERSFIELD.
TWO GOLD MEDALS.

Awarded Medal of Honour at the International Inventions Exhibition, London, 1885.

THE ONLY AWARD.

RUMMENS'
Organ Pedal Attachment
FOR PIANOFORTES.

DETACHABLE PEDAL BOARD.
EQUAL TO ORGAN PRACTICE.

Testimonials from all the Chief Organists of the day.
Write for particulars to
H. J. RUMMENS,
47, CHURCH ROAD, BRIXTON, S.W.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,
ORGAN BUILDERS,
PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.
(ESTABLISHED 1841.)
Specifications and Estimates sent free.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications, Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. R. Willis (from Minories), 1, Aldgate Avenue, London, E.

CASSOCKS.—500 new Tailor-made, Black, Red, Violet, Blue, 9s. to 20s.; SURPLICES, from 3s. to 12s. "Surplice," The Church Agency, Limited, Lombard House, E.C.

NEW TUNES (eight) for SUNDAY SCHOOL ANNIVERSARIES and FLOWER SERVICES, by Dr. Hiles, Dr. Rogers, Caleb Simper. Music, 7s. per 100; words, 2s. Special title-page, free for quantities. Send stamp for sample to Sunday School Union, 1, Piccadilly, Manchester.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.
THE TUNE BOOK, with the additional Tunes as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE BRISTOL TUNE BOOK
COMPLETE EDITION, 1891,
CONTAINING
905 TUNES AND CHANTS.

A COMPANION TO ALL HYMN BOOKS.

		s.	d.
No. 17.	Limp Cloth	5	0
,, 18.	Cloth Boards, red edges	6	0
,, 19.	Small Edition	3	6
,, 20.	Tonic Sol-fa	3	6

Communications and enquiries as to copyright, and also as to supplying at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Bristol Publishers.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.
Bristol: W. and F. Morgan, Clare Street.
And all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

OFFERTORY SENTENCES. By A. C. Bartrum. Second edition. Nos. 1 to 20, bound complete, 1s.
"Melodious, well harmonised, and very effective."—Alex. Guilmant.
"Musicianly, tuneful, and easy to sing."—Musical News.
"Very melodious, and full of charming music."—Church Times.
Alphonse Cary, 231, Oxford Street, W.

Third Thousand.
TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in G. By Alfred J. Dye. Price 4d.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Creation." 1s. each book.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Fourth Thousand.
MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat, by William S. Vinning, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC
BY ARTHUR CARNALL.

No. 1.	Chant Te Deum in A. 3rd thousand	4d.
,, 2.	Magnificat, &c., in F. 2nd thousand	4d.
,, 3.	Vesper Hymn on a Card	1d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.
N.B.—Sample copies, free, from A. Carnall, Penge, S.E.

VOL. III. of "THE NEW MUSICAL EDUCATOR," a Library of Musical Instruction, by eminent specialists, edited by John Greig, Mus. Doc., Oxon., is now ready. The publishers wish to offer this through the profession and not through shops. Masters and Teachers, in London and Home Counties, wishing to support the new idea, fullest advantages, apply to W. R. Howell & Co., Bedford Row Chambers, Theobald's Rd., W.C.

MAUNDER'S
CHURCH MUSIC.

"DEVOTIONAL," "GOOD," "EASY,"
"EFFECTIVE," "SINGABLE," "DIGNIFIED,"
"POPULAR," and "MUSICIANLY."
Vide Religious and Musical Press.

Used at numerous Choral Festivals.

	Staff Notation.	Tonic Sol-fa.
Anthem for Ascensiontide—"Sing unto the Lord" (abridged edition)	3d.
Te Deum (No. 1) in Free Chant Form (with Kyrie, &c.)	3d.	2d.
Te Deum (No. 2) in B flat	3d.	2d.
Communion Service in G (including Offertory Sentences, Benedictus, and Agnus Dei)	8d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C (partly in Unison)	3d.	1½d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D	3d.
Harvest Anthem—"Sing to the Lord of Harvest" ..	3d.	2d.
Harvest Anthem—"While the earth remaineth" ..	3d.	2d.
Amen in G	1d.	1d.

Specimen Copies, free, on application to J. H. Maunder, San Remo, Bromley, Kent.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Suitable for Choir Festivals.

PRAISE THE LORD

ANTHEM

Composed, by request, for the Annual Festival in aid of the Burnley Victoria Hospital, 1896

BY

W. A. C. CRUICKSHANK,

Mus. Bac., Oxon.

Price Sixpence.

Full Score and Band Parts may be hired from the Composer.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D., Cantab.

SERVICES.

Two Settings of the Venite (in Chant Form). No. 1 (in G), No. 2 (in A)	2d.
Te Deum in E	3d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E	3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E	3d.
Cantate and Deus in E	3d.
Communion Service	9d
Preces and Responses	4d.
Tonic Sol-fa.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F	1½d.
" " " A	1½d.
" " " E	1½d.

ANTHEMS.

"O clap your hands." Festival Anthem	4d.
" " Tonic Sol-fa	2d.
Easter Anthem—"If we believe"	4d.
" " Do. Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.

TWO NEW SONGS.—Just Published.

"Market Day" (Mezzo-Soprano)	net 2s.
"A toi, Marie" (Mezzo-Soprano)	" 2s.

Song—"By the wayside" (Soprano), with Violin Obbligato and Organ or Harmonium	net 2s.
"The Last Prayer" (Contralto)	" 2s.

ORGAN.

Twelve Short Easy Pieces	net 2s. od.
Three Short Andantes	" 2s. od.
Minuetto	" 1s. 6d.
Ave Maria	" 1s. 6d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Dedicated to, and performed by, G. Riseley, Esq., Organist of the Cathedral and Colston Hall, Bristol.

POSTLUDE ALLA MENUETTO

FOR THE ORGAN

BY

J. WARRINER, Mus. Doc.,

Trinity College, Dublin.

Post-free for One Shilling and Sixpence net, from the Composer, Denmark Hill, London, S.E.

Third English Edition.

ON THE SENSATIONS OF TONE AS A PHYSIOLOGICAL BASIS FOR THE THEORY OF MUSIC.

By HERMANN L. F. HELMHOLTZ, M.D.

Translated and specially adapted to the use of Musical Students by Alexander J. Ellis, F.R.S., &c. With 68 Figures engraved on Wood, and 42 Passages in Musical Notes.

Royal 8vo, 28s.

London, New York, and Bombay: Longmans, Green and Co.

WORKS by F. DAVENPORT, Professor of Harmony and Composition at the Royal Academy of Music. Published under the Authority of the Committee of the Royal Academy of Music.

ELEMENTS of MUSIC. Crown 8vo, 1s.

"In the space of some fifty pages the reader will find all that is necessary to be known about the pitch of notes, intervals, and scales, rests, time, and abbreviations, and will, we doubt not, also find how much there is of which he was ignorant concerning these subjects, although he had already flattered himself that he had mastered their elements a long time ago."—Saturday Review.

ELEMENTS of HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT. Crown 8vo, 2s. 6d.

This work is intended to meet a growing demand for a more concise and simpler exposition of the Day theory. It includes as much of the science of Counterpoint as is necessary for students who enter for the Royal Academy, Local, and other similar examinations.

London: Longmans, Green and Co.

NEW WHITSUNTIDE AND ANNIVERSARY MUSIC

By CALEB SIMPER.

*HIS NAME IS EXCELLENT. New. 4th 1,000 An easy Anthem, with a pretty duet and vigorous choruses. Full of variety and sure to please.	3d.
*TRUST IN HIM ALWAYS. New. 4th 1,000 Attractive and effective. Soft and loud choruses of an interesting nature, with charming and expressive solo.	4d.
*LET GOD ARISE. 6th 1,000. A favourite and pleasing Anthem.	3d.
*THEY SHALL MOUNT UP. 11th 1,000. Sung at two Choral Festivals. "Just the kind of music choirs revel in."—West Cumberland Times.	4d.
The day of Pentecost. 15th 1,000	3d.
If ye love Me. 11th 1,000	3d.
Let not your Heart be troubled. 15th Edition	3d.
*Break forth into joy. 16th 1,000. Sung at Choral Festivals in Downpatrick Cathedral and Begelly.	4d.
Give glory unto the Lord. 19th Edition	3d.
*I will feed My flock. 36th 1,000	4d.
O how amiable. 5th 1,000	3d.

ANNIVERSARY PIECES, &c.

No. 1 { Flower Service. Six pieces. Words only, 3s. 6d. per 100. 26th 1,000.	2d.
No. 2 { *Anniversary Selection. Seven pieces. Words only, 3s. 6d. per 100. 16th 1,000.	2d.
No. 3 { New Flower Service. Six pieces. Words only, 3s. 6d. per 100. Just published.	2d.

Opinions:—"Exceedingly attractive"—"Charming melodies"—"Most melodious and pleasing"—"Much valued"—"Gems of melody"—"Beautiful compositions"—"Were a great success," &c.

A complete list of all Caleb Simper's immensely popular and favourite Anthems, Services, and Carols is printed on the back of "They shall mount up" (see above).

Those marked (*) are also published in Tonic Sol-fa.

London: Weekes and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W. Chicago, U.S.A.: Clayton F. Summy, 220, Wabash Avenue.

Very effective and not difficult.

EDWYN A. CLARE'S WHITSUNTIDE ANTHEMS.

When the Day of Pentecost. 5th 1,000.	3d.
The Lord Reigneth. 4th 1,000 (Sol-fa, 2d.)	3d.
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem. 15th 1,000. Sung by 400 voices at Doncaster.	3d.
Popular Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D. 8th 1,000. Full of vigour and flowing melody.	4d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co

WHITSUNTIDE ANTHEM. By Edmund Turner. "The Lord gave the Word" and other popular Church music. Call or write for specimens.

London: Ambrose Abbott and Co., 4, Newgate Street, E.C.

VOXOMETRIC REVELATION.

THE DISCOVERY OF THE HUMAN VOICE—AT LAST!!!

NOTICE TO INTENDING PURCHASERS OF THIS WORK.

In order to ensure to the Proprietors the American Copyright of this work, and consequent upon the delay on the part of the American Printers (the copyright law of that country requiring simultaneous publication there with the issue of first copies here), we beg to give notice that the issuing of the English Edition of this work will have to be held back for three or four weeks, and therefore copies will not be available until, say, May 31, 1896, due notice of which will, however, be given.

Prospectus of the work, Post-free, on application.

Authors' and Printers' Joint Interest Publishing Company, 3, Arundel Street, Strand, London, W.C.

Now Ready. On the 1st of each Month. 228 Cols. 2d.; Post-free, 3½d.

MUSICAL OPINION and MUSIC TRADE REVIEW. 150, Holborn Bars, E.C.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS. By A. Ben Allen.

Tom, the Piper's Son	3d.
Dickory, dickory, dock	4d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

NEW ANTHEMS FOR WHITSUNTIDE.

IF I GO NOT AWAY

(The Musical Times, No. 638)
COMPOSED BY THOMAS ADAMS.

Price Three-Halfpence.
Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.

IF YE LOVE ME

(Novello's Octavo Anthems, No. 544)
COMPOSED BY BRUCE STEANE.

Price Twopence.

NEW ANTHEM FOR TRINITYTIDE.

I AM ALPHA AND OMEGA

(Novello's Octavo Anthems, No. 539)
COMPOSED BY
J. VARLEY ROBERTS.

Price Threepence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

MUSIC

SUITABLE FOR USE AT THE

SERVICE OF HOLY MATRIMONY.

ANTHEMS AND HYMNS.	s.	d.
Blessed are all they that fear the Lord .. .. E. G. Monk	1	6
Vocal parts	1	0
Blessed are all they that fear the Lord .. Sidney Naylor	0	9
Except the Lord build the house .. .. F. A. G. Ouseley	0	6
Vocal parts	0	6
Father of Life. Hymn .. .. Jas. Turle	0	3
Father of life .. .. W. Creser	1	6
God, be merciful unto us .. .. .. S. S. Wesley
Octavo	0	3
Vocal parts	1	0
Folio	1	6
O God, Thou art worthy .. .. .. Arthur Sullivan
Vocal parts	1	0
Octavo	0	4
Tonic Sol-fa	0	1½
Folio	1	6
O Perfect Love (Anthem) .. .. J. Barnby	0	3
Tonic Sol-fa	0	1
Ditto (Arranged as a Two-part Chorus). Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined	0	1½
Ditto (Hymn) .. .. J. Barnby	0	1½
Holy Ghost, to earth descending .. .. Antonin Dvorák	0	4
There was a marriage in Cana of Galilee .. .. J. Stainer	0	3
Protect them, Almighty. Chorus .. .. .. J. Barnby	0	3
ORGAN MUSIC.
Nuptial March .. .. B. Luard Selby	1	0
Wedding March (Gounod), No. 1. Arranged by G. C. Martin	2	0
Wedding March, No. 2.. .. .. .. Charles Gounod	2	0
Wedding March (Mendelssohn) .. Arranged by W. T. Best	2	0
Wedding March „ Arranged by C. E. Willing	1	0
March in "Athalie" „ Arranged by Ch. Steggall	1	6
March in "Athalie" „ Arranged by W. T. Best	2	0
Benedictus (A. C. Mackenzie) Arr. by C. Palmer and J. B. Lott	1	6
Largo (Handel) .. .. .. Arranged by G. C. Martin	1	6
March in "Tannhäuser" .. .. Arranged by F. Archer	2	0
Processional Wedding March .. .. .. Henry R. Bird	1	0
A Wedding Piece .. .. A. C. Mackenzie	1	0
The Bride's March ("Rebekah," J. Barnby) Arr. by James Shaw	1	0
March in B flat .. .. E. Silas	1	0
Grand March ("Lohengrin," Act III., Wagner) .. W. Creser	1	0
Bridal Chorus ("Lohengrin," Wagner) .. .. W. Creser	1	0
Wedding March .. .. Composed by W. Creser	1	6

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

FOR HOSPITAL SUNDAY.

"Let not Thine Hand be Stretched out to Receive, and Shut when Thou should'st Repay."

THE WORDS SELECTED AND THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

JOHN STAINER.

Choral Recit. (S.A.T.B.)—"Let not thine hand be stretched out receive, and shut when thou should'st repay."
"Give unto the Most High according as He hath enriched thee."
"Reject not the supplication of the afflicted, neither turn thy face from a poor man."
"Be not slow to visit the sick, for that shall make thee to be beloved."
Solo (Soprano or Tenor) and Chorus.
"Lord, shower upon us from above
The sacred gifts of mutual love;
Each other's wants may we supply,
And reign together in the sky."
Solo (Bass).—"When thou hast enough, remember the time of hunger; and when thou art rich, think upon poverty and need."

Price 3d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.; Words only, 3s. per 100.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Eleventh Edition.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY

DAILY SERVICE AND LITANY

TOGETHER WITH THE
VERSICLES FOR CERTAIN SPECIAL OCCASIONS
COLLATED FROM ANCIENT USAGES
BY
The Rev. S. FLOOD JONES, M.A., PRECENTOR
AND
J. FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus. Doc., Oxon.,
ORGANIST AND MASTER OF THE CHORISTERS.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

(Novello's Parish Choir Book, No. 281.)

TWO FLOWER SERVICE HYMNS

1. "HE DWELLS AMONG THE LILIES."
2. "FOR THE FRESHNESS OF THE MORNING."

BY THE
REV. W. ST. HILL BOURNE
FROM THIRTY-ONE ORIGINAL TUNES TO POPULAR HYMNS
COMPOSED BY LADY EUAN-SMITH.

Price Twopence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

JUDEX

FROM MORS ET VITA
COMPOSED BY
CH. GOUNOD.

ARRANGED FOR THE PIANOFORTE BY
BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price Two Shillings net.
Orchestral Parts in the Press.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

ANTHEMS

FOR

ASCENSIONTIDE.

Awake up, my glory .. .. M. Wise 3d.
Christ became obedient unto death .. .. J. F. Bridge 1½d.
Christ is not entered into the Holy Places .. Eaton Faning 1½d.
For it became Him .. .. Oliver King 1½d.
God is gone up .. .. Croft 4d.
*God, my King .. .. Bach 1½d.
Grant, we beseech Thee .. .. H. Lahee 1½d.
If ye then be risen .. .. J. Naylor 3d.
In my father's house .. .. J. M. Crament 3d.
In that day .. .. George Elvey 8d.
*It shall come to pass .. .. B. Tours 1½d.
King all glorious .. .. J. Barnby 6d.
*Leave us not, neither forsake us .. .. .. J. Stainer 1½d.
*Lift up your heads .. .. S. Coleridge-Taylor 3d.
*Lift up your heads .. .. J. L. Hopkins 1½d.
O, all ye people, clap your hands.. .. .. ..H. Purcell 3d.
*O clap your hands .. .. J. Stainer 6d.
O clap your hands .. .. T. T. Trimnell 3d.
*O God, the King of Glory .. .. H. Smart 4d.
*O God, when Thou appearest .. .. Mozart 3d.
*O how amiable .. .. J. Barnby 3d.
*O Lord our Governor .. ..H. Gadsby 3d.
O Lord our Governor .. .. Marcello 1½d.
*O risen Lord .. .. J. Barnby 1½d.
*Rejoice in the Lord .. .. J. Baptiste Calkin 3d.
*Rejoice in the Lord .. .. George Elvey 1½d.
The earth is the Lord's .. .. T. T. Trimnell 4d.
The Lord is exalted.. .. .. J. E. West 1½d.
The Lord is King .. .. H. Gadsby 6d.
The Lord is King .. .. H. J. King 4d.
*Unfold, ye portals .. .. Ch. Gounod 6d.

WHITSUNTIDE.

And all the people saw .. .. J. Stainer 6d.
And when the day of Pentecost .. .. Charles W. Smith 3d.
*As pants the hart .. .. Spohr 1½d.
*As the hart pants .. .. Mendelssohn 1½d.
*Come, Holy Ghost .. .. T. Attwood 1½d.
Come, Holy Ghost .. .. J. L. Hatton 3d.
Come, Holy Ghost .. .. George Elvey 4d.
Eye hath not seen (two-part) .. .. .. Myles B. Foster 3d.
Give thanks unto God .. .. Spohr 4d.
*God came from Teman .. .. C. Steggall 4d.
*God is a Spirit .. .. W. S. Bennett 6d.
*Great is the Lord .. .. W. Hayes 4d.
Grieve not the Holy Spirit .. .. J. Stainer 3d.
Happy is the man .. .. E. Prout 8d.
Holy Spirit, come, O come (Ad spiritum Sanctum) G. C. Martin 1½d.
*If I go not away .. .. Thomas Adams 1½d.
If ye love Me .. .. C. S. Heap 1½d.
*If ye love Me .. .. W. H. Monk 1½d.
*If ye love Me .. .. Tallis 1½d.
If ye love Me .. .. R. P. Stewart 1½d.
If ye love Me .. .. Herbert W. Wareing 3d.
If ye love Me .. .. Bruce Steane 2d.
In my Father's House .. .. J. Maude Crament 3d.
It shall come to pass .. ..G. Garrett 6d.
I was in the Spirit .. .. Blow 6d.
Let God arise .. .. Greene 6d.
*Let not your heart be troubled .. ..H. G. Trembath 3d.
*O clap your hands .. .. J. Stainer 6d.
*O Holy Ghost, into our minds .. .. .. G. A. Macfarren 1½d.
*Oh! for a closer walk with God .. .. .. Myles B. Foster 1½d.
*O taste and see .. .. Goss 3d.
O taste and see .. .. A. H. Mann 3d.
*O taste and see .. .. Sullivan 1½d.
O Thou, the true and only Light .. .. .. Mendelssohn 2d.
O where shall wisdom be found .. .. Boyce 6d.
Praised be the Lord daily .. .. J. B. Calkin 1½d.
There is no condemnation.. .. .. H. S. Irons 3d.
Sing to the Lord .. .. Smart 1s.
*The wilderness .. .. Goss 6d.
The wilderness .. .. S. S. Wesley 8d.
When God of old came down from Heaven .. Rev. E. V. Hall 3d.
We will rejoice .. .. Croft 4d.
Whosoever drinketh .. .. J. T. Field 1½d.

TRINITYTIDE.

Almighty and everlasting God .. .. Gibbons 1½d.
Ascribe unto the Lord .. .. S. S. Wesley 8d.
Beloved, if God so loved us .. .. J. Barnby 1½d.
Beloved, let us love one another.. .. .. Gerard F. Cobb 1½d.
*Blessed is the man .. ..John Goss 4d.
Blessing and glory .. .. Boyce 1½d.
Blessing, glory .. .. Bach 6d.
*God came from Teman .. .. C. Steggall 4d.
*God so loved the world .. .. .. Matthew Kingston 1½d.
Grant, O Lord .. .. Mozart 1½d.
*Holy, holy, holy .. .. Crotch 3d.
How goodly are Thy tents .. ..F. Ouseley 1½d.
How lovely are Thy dwellings .. .. Spohr 1½d.
*I am Alpha and Omega .. .. J. Stainer 1½d.
I am Alpha and Omega .. .. J. Varley Roberts 3d.
I beheld, and lo! .. .. Blow 6d.
I know that the Lord is great .. ..F. Ouseley 1½d.
*In humble faith .. .. G. Garrett 1½d.
*In Jewry is God known .. .. .. J. Clarke-Whitfeld 1½d.
In sweet consent .. .. E. H. Thorne 3d.
In the fear of the Lord .. .. J. V. Roberts 3d.
I saw the Lord .. .. J. Stainer 6d.
I will magnify .. .. J. Shaw 3d.
*I will sing of Thy power .. .. Greene 4d.
I will sing of Thy power .. .. A. Sullivan 1½d.
I will sing unto the Lord .. .. H. Wareing 3d.
Let the peace of God .. .. J. Stainer 4d.
*Lord, we pray Thee .. .. J. V. Roberts 1½d.
O Father blest .. .. J. Barnby 3d.
O Lord, my trust .. .. King Hall 1½d.
*O taste and see .. .. J. Goss 3d.
*O taste and see .. .. A. Sullivan 1½d.
O taste and see .. .. A. H. Mann 3d.
O where shall wisdom be found? .. .. Boyce 6d.
Ponder my words, O Lord.. .. .. .. Arnold D. Culley 1½d.
*Praise His awful Name .. .. Spohr 2d.
Rejoice in the Lord .. .. G. C. Martin 6d.
*See what love hath the Father .. .. .. Mendelssohn 1d.
Sing to the Lord .. .. Mendelssohn 8d.
*Stand up and bless .. .. J. Goss 4d.
Teach me Thy way .. .. W. H. Gladstone 1½d.
*The Lord hath been mindful .. .. .. S. S. Wesley 3d.
*The Lord is my Shepherd .. .. G. A. Macfarren 1½d.
The Lord is my Shepherd .. .. J. Shaw 3d.
The Lord will comfort Zion .. .. H. Hiles 6d.
Thou shalt shew me the path of life .. .. ..Alan Gray 1½d.
Whatsoever is born of God .. .. H. Oakeley 3d.
Who can comprehend Thee .. .. Mozart 3d.

 Anthems marked thus () may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 2d. each.*

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

WORKS

FOR

CHORAL SOCIETIES AND CHOIRS.

THE LORD IS MY SHEPHERD. 8vo .. .. 8d.
BY THE WATERS OF BABYLON. 8vo .. .. 1s.
Both for Chorus, without Soloists.
EVENTIDE. Part-Song. 8vo.. .. .. 2d.

BY

N. KILBURN, Mus. B., Cantab.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

SPRING SONGS

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

A. P. GRAVES

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

A. C. MACKENZIE.

(Op. 44.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

BARNBY MEMORIAL TRUST FUND.

THE late Sir Joseph Barnby died when, apparently, in the full vigour of life, and in the midst of varied activities. His estate has been found equal to the discharge of all his debts, but has left nothing to provide for the future of his children.

It is proposed to raise by public subscription a

BARNBY MEMORIAL TRUST FUND,

and to vest the amount realised in the hands of Trustees for the benefit of those children.

The Committee feel that the circumstances of this case justify them in appealing with confidence to the musical public and others for generous subscriptions wherewith to meet a really pressing need.

LIST OF SUBSCRIPTIONS.

	£	s.	d.
Messrs. Novello & Co.	100	0	0
Sir Edward Clarke, Q.C., M.P.	26	5	0
Daniel Mayer, Esq.	26	5	0
J. Berwick Orgill, Esq.	26	5	0
Douglas Powell, Esq.	26	5	0
Geo. L. Beeforth, Esq.	20	0	0
H. W. Mozley, Esq.	20	0	0
Sir John Stainer	20	0	0
The Rt. Hon. the Lord Mayor	10	10	0
A. C. Ainger, Esq.	10	10	0
Messrs. John Broadwood & Sons	10	10	0
W. S. Gilbert, Esq.	10	10	0
Professor Herkomer	10	10	0
Col. Makins	10	10	0
M. Mendelssohn, Esq.	10	10	0
J. J. Orgill, Esq.	10	10	0
C. E. Rube, Esq.	10	10	0
Albert Visetti, Esq.	10	10	0
The Lord Windsor	10	10	0
The Hon. H. B. Portman	10	10	0
Major F. C. Ricardo	10	0	0
Miss Ella Russell	10	0	0
Thos. P. Chappell, Esq.	7	7	0
Hon. G. W. Spencer Lyttelton	7	0	0
The Rev. The Sub-Dean of the Chapels Royal	5	5	0
Dr. J. F. Bridge	5	5	0
T. H. Brooke-Hitching, Esq.	5	5	0
de Barri Crawshay, Esq.	5	5	0
Rev. S. A. Donaldson	5	5	0
Eaton Faning, Esq.	5	5	0
Henry Gadsby, Esq.	5	5	0
Wilhelm Ganz, Esq.	5	5	0
Hubert J. Greenwood, Esq.	5	5	0
J. L. Hannay, Esq.	5	5	0
Sir Augustus Harris	5	5	0
G. Henschel, Esq.	5	5	0
Rev. Dr. Hornby, Provost of Eton	5	5	0
W. S. Hoyte, Esq.	5	5	0
Edward Lloyd, Esq.	5	5	0
W. G. McNaught, Esq.	5	5	0
August Manns, Esq.	5	5	0
Mrs. Orgill	5	5	0
Arthur Payne, Esq.	5	5	0
The Right Hon. C. Seale-Hayne	5	5	0
George Tetley, Esq.	5	5	0
W. Henry Thomas, Esq.	5	5	0
Thos. Threlfall, Esq.	5	5	0
J. L. Toole, Esq.	5	5	0
Dr. E. H. Turpin	5	5	0
Mr. and Mrs. Lee Williams	5	5	0
S. B. Bancroft, Esq.	5	0	0
Miss J. C. Dupuis	5	0	0
Rev. R. Errington	5	0	0
A. M. Goodhart, Esq.	5	0	0
Sir Alexander C. Mackenzie	5	0	0
Two Members of the London Musical Society	5	0	0
Miss Emily Christie	3	3	0
John R. Clayton, Esq.	3	3	0
Rev. Canon Duckworth (Sub-Dean of Westminster)	3	3	0
Mrs. Agnes Greenall	3	3	0
A. Randegger, Esq.	3	3	0
Berthold Tours, Esq.	3	3	0
Miss Agnes Zimmermann	3	3	0
Francesco Berger, Esq.	2	2	0
Alfred Borwick, Esq.	2	2	0
W. Coenen, Esq.	2	2	0
F. H. Cowen, Esq.	2	2	0
Dr. W. Creser	2	2	0
Ed. O. Dykes, Esq.	2	2	0
Rev. Lionel Ford	2	2	0
Sir George Grove	2	2	0
W. Kuhe, Esq.	2	2	0
Miss Rosa Leo	2	2	0
Dr. C. Harford Lloyd	2	2	0
E. O. V. Lloyd, Esq.	2	2	0
Dr. A. H. Mann	2	2	0
A. E. N.	2	2	0
Miss Florence Oliver	2	2	0
Professor Prout	2	2	0
Professor Stanford	2	2	0
C. R. Tennant, Esq.	2	2	0
Rev. Dr. Troutbeck	2	2	0
G. S. Watts, Esq.	2	2	0
Cavaliere L. Zavertal	2	0	0
The Bishop of Barrow-in-Furness	1	1	0
J. Francis Barnett, Esq.	1	1	0
Dr. G. J. Bennett	1	1	0
A. Bosville, Esq.	1	1	0
D. John D. Codner, Esq.	1	1	0
Dr. H. E. Ford	1	1	0
Edward Grainger, Esq.	1	1	0
Richard Green, Esq.	1	1	0
Joseph Heming, Esq.	1	1	0
Arthur Hervey, Esq.	1	1	0
J. G. Kershaw, Esq.	1	1	0
Mrs. F. E. Larkins	1	1	0
R. W. Liddle, Esq.	1	1	0
Llewellyn Lloyd, Esq.	1	1	0
Dr. J. C. Marks	1	1	0
Dr. T. O. Marks	1	1	0
W. A. Morgan, Esq.	1	1	0
T. Tertius Noble, Esq.	1	1	0
C. F. South, Esq.	1	1	0
Lt.-Col. Toms	1	1	0
Rev. Thos. Wade	1	1	0
Fred. Walker, Esq.	1	1	0
T. Westlake-Morgan, Esq.	1	1	0
F. Cunningham Woods, Esq.	1	1	0
Mrs. E. A. Blackmore	0	10	6
R. Freeman, Esq.	0	10	6

Subscriptions to the Barnby Memorial Trust Fund should be sent to the Honorary Secretary, Mr. Alfred Littleton, 1, Berners Street, London, W.

RECENT NUMBERS.

THE MUSICAL TIMES (Sacred).

603. Crossing the bar .. .. H. H. Woodward.
605. Seek ye the Lord .. .. Charles Bradley.
606. O God, who is like unto Thee .. .. .. Myles B. Foster.
609. There were shepherds .. .. ,, ,,
612. Now is Christ risen .. .. John E. West.
614. Lord, I call upon Thee .. .. Arnold D. Culley.
617. Jesu, priceless treasure .. .. J. Varley Roberts.
618. Thou crownest the year .. .. Josiah Booth.
621 With all Thy hosts .. .. John E. West.
622. There was silence in Bethlehem's fields .. John Stainer.
624. O saving Victim .. .. F. Kœnig.
625. Hearken unto me .. .. Myles B. Foster.
628. I will sing unto the Lord .. .. H. Purcell.
629. The eyes of all wait upon Thee .. .. .. A. R. Gaul.
633. The night is far spent .. .. Bruce Steane.
634. Thou wilt keep him .. .. A. D. Culley.
636. Worthy is the Lamb .. .. .. J. Francis Barnett.
638. If I go not away .. .. Thomas Adams.

Price Three-Halfpence each.

THE MUSICAL TIMES (Secular).

608. A lover's counsel .. .. Frederic H. Cowen.
610. In a drear-nighted December .. .. .. G. A. Macfarren.
611. Soldier, rest! thy warfare o'er .. .. Hamish MacCunn.
I love my Jean .. .. George J. Bennett.
613. It was a lover and his lass (Morley) .. .. J. F. Bridge.
615. Blow, ye gentle breezes, blow .. J. Christopher Marks, Junr.
616. O'er the woodland chace .. .. .. Herbert W. Wareing.
619. Ballad of Earl Haldan's daughter .. .. Robin H. Legge.
620. Softly the moonlight .. .. F. Iliffe.
623. Spring.. .. .. Frederic H. Cowen.
626. The shades of night .. .. J. Varley Roberts.
627. Now the wearied sun declining .. .. .. R. F. Lloyd.
630. Under the greenwood tree .. .. .. James Shaw.
631. Autumn .. .. J. Booth.
632. A Shadow .. .. Jacques Blumenthal.
635. To Sylvia .. .. Schubert-West.
637. O happy eyes .. .. E. Elgar.
639. Pack, clouds, away .. .. W. A. C. Cruickshank.

Price Three-Halfpence each.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO ANTHEMS.

525. Sing unto God, O ye kingdoms .. .. Henry Purcell 2d.
526. The Lord hath commanded .. .. Mendelssohn 4d.
527. Mercy and truth are met together .. .. J. Stainer 3d.
528. Lead, kindly Light.. .. .. .. C. L. Naylor 4d.
529. While shepherds watched .. .. .. J. Barnby 4d.
531. The Story of the Cross .. .. .. A. Somervell 3d.
57.* Pwy yw y rhai hyn (What are these) .. .. J. Stainer 3d.
532. Sing we merrily .. .. F. A. W. Docker 4d.
533. Christ is risen .. .. J. Varley Roberts 3d.
534. The first day of the week .. .. .. Bruce Steane 3d.
536. O joyful light .. .. B. Tours 4d.
537. I declare to you the Gospel .. W. A. C. Cruickshank 4d.
538. When Christ, Who is our life .. .. J. Varley Roberts 2d.
539. I am Alpha and Omega .. .. .. ,, ,, 3d.
544. If ye love Me .. .. Bruce Steane 2d.

To be continued.

NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK.

735. Soft, soft wind .. .. J. R. Dear 2d.
736. Lie down, poor heart .. .. F. C. Woods 3d.
737. How sweet the moonlight sleeps.. .. D. Emlyn Evans 1½d.
738. A red, red rose .. .. J. Varley Roberts 2d.
739. I prithee send me back my heart .. ,, ,, 3d.
740. Evening Hymn .. .. .. Jacques Blumenthal 3d.
741. Gather ye rosebuds .. .. .. ,, ,, 4d.
742. The loyal Lover .. .. .. ,, ,, 3d.
743. The Butterfly .. .. .. ,, ,, 4d.
744. Good-night .. .. R. O. Morgan 3d.
745. The Song of Victory (King Arthur) .. Henry Purcell 4d.
747. Upon my lap my soveraigne sits .. Martin Peerson 2d.
748. The Widow Bird .. .. Charles Wood 2d.
749. Evening Breezes .. .. G. R. Vicars 2d.
750. There rolls the deep .. .. .. C. H. H. Parry 2d.

To be continued.

NOVELLO'S PARISH CHOIR BOOK

265. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in B flat .. E. V. Hall 4d.
268. Nicene Creed (arranged by J. Stainer).. .. Merbecke 1d.
269. Four Easter Carols .. .. J. T. Field 2d.
270. Processional Hymn and Offertory Sentence C. Warwick Jordan 3d.
271. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 2nd Series (Greg. Tones) J. Stainer 2d.
274. Te Deum in A .. .. Sir John Goss 4d.
276. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in B flat .. B. Tours 6d.
277. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F .. J. Baptiste Calkin 6d.
278. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D .. .. E. Prout 6d.
279. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis (3rd Series). (Greg. Tones) J. Stainer 2d.
280. Ride on, ride on in Majesty (Hymn) .. A. H. Brown 1½d.
282. Te Deum laudamus (3rd Series). (Greg. Tones) J. Stainer 3d.
284. Two Concluding Amens .. .. Ch. Gounod 1d.

To be continued.

THE ORPHEUS (New Series).

279. Bacchanalian Song .. .. .. Hamilton Clarke 4d.
280. Cradle Song .. .. Arthur Stenz 2d.
281. To Phœbe .. .. J. Frederick Bridge 3d.
282. One by one .. .. Marie Wurm 2d.
283. Not a drum was heard .. .. .. A. M. Goodhart 6d.
284. At that dread hour (Faith) .. .. S. S. Wesley 6d.
285. The Ivy .. .. C. Lee Williams 3d.
286. A red, red rose .. .. J. Varley Roberts 2d.
288. I prithee send me back my heart .. ,, ,, 4d.
289. What care I how fair she be .. Jacques Blumenthal 4d.
290. While my lady sleepeth .. .. Percy Pitt 3d.
291. A Cavalier's Song .. .. ,, ,, 3d.
292. The Flirt .. .. J. F. Bridge 3d.
293. The leaves to one another say .. .. C. H. Döring 3d.
294. The moon looks down .. .. .. ,, ,, 2d.
295. Far down the green valley .. .. ,, ,, 2d.

To be continued.

NOVELLO'S SHORT ANTHEMS.

47. Have mercy upon me, O God .. .. .. F. White 1½d.
48. Jesu, word of God (Ave Verum) .. .. .. ,, 1½d.
49. Shew me Thy ways, O Lord .. .. J. V. Roberts 3d.
50. The Lord opened the doors of Heaven .. F. C. Woods 1½d.
51. Watch ye and pray .. .. G. R. Vicars 2d.
52. The path of the just .. .. J. V. Roberts 1½d.
53. O Lord, correct me .. .. James Coward 1½d.
54. I will arise .. .. Charles Wood 1½d.
55. The Angel of the Lord .. .. Alan Gray 1½d.
56. Jesu, Saviour, I am Thine .. .. .. Bruce Steane 1½d.
57. O Lord, Who hast taught us .. .. A. G. Iggulden 1½d.
58. Almighty and Everlasting God .. John Stafford Smith 1½d.
59. Come, let us worship .. .. .. Palestrina 1½d.
61. Lead me, Lord .. .. S. S. Wesley 1½d.
67. O Lord, give ear unto my prayer .. W. H. Cummings 2d.

To be continued.

NOVELLO'S COLLECTION OF

TRIOS, QUARTETS, &c.

FOR FEMALE VOICES.

296. Hymn to nature .. .. L. Streabbog 3d.
297. Dickory, dickory, dock .. .. Herbert W. Schartau 3d.
298. Whither away? .. .. C. Villiers Stanford 8d.
299. Summer .. .. Hamilton Clarke 4d.
300. To the woods .. .. ,, ,, 4d.
301. Noble be thy life .. .. Beethoven 3d.
302. So the world goes round .. .. .. Marie Wurm 2d.
303. Softly the moonlight .. .. F. Iliffe 3d.
304. You stole my love (arranged by F. Maxson) W. Macfarren 2d.
305. Moonlight .. .. Hamilton Clarke 4d.
306. The Snow .. .. E. Elgar 6d.
307. Fly, singing Bird .. .. ,, 6d.
308. To-day and to-morrow .. .. Hamilton Clarke 4d.

To be continued.

EDITED BY J. S. SHEDLOCK.

SECOND EDITION.

BIBLE STORIES

MUSICALLY ILLUSTRATED IN

SIX SONATAS FOR THE HARPSICHORD

BY

JOHANN KUHNAU

(1700).

No. 1. DAVID AND GOLIATH.
„ 2. SAUL AND DAVID.

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence net.

SELECTION OF PIECES

COMPOSED FOR THE

HARPSICHORD

BY

BERNARDO PASQUINI.

With a Preface and Two Fac-similes.

CONTENTS.

Ricercare.	Toccata con lo Scherzo del Cuccó.
Toccata.	Canzone Francese.
Partite diverse di Follia.	Partita 1.
Partite di Follia.	Partita 2.
Partite di Bergamasca.	Tre Arie.

Sonata a due Cembali.

Price Five Shillings net.
An Edition with the Preface in German (translated by Dr. MAX SEIFFERT) is also published.

SELECTION OF PIECES

COMPOSED FOR THE

HARPSICHORD

BY

GAETANO GRIECO.

With a Preface and a Fac-simile.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence net.

THREE PIECES

COMPOSED FOR THE

HARPSICHORD

BY

G. FRESCOBALDI,
J. J. FROBERGER,

AND

J. C. KERL.

With a Preface.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TO BE PERFORMED AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE ON JUNE 6.

KING HAROLD

AN HISTORICAL CANTATA

FOR

SOPRANO AND TENOR SOLI AND CHORUS

With Pianoforte (or Organ) Accompaniment

WORDS BY

REV. CHARLES KENT, M.A.

MUSIC BY

F. CUNNINGHAM WOODS, M.A.

Mus .Bac., Oxon.; F.R.C.O.; Organist of Highgate School, N.; late Organist of Exeter College, Oxford.

Specially written for performance at the Crystal Palace on June 6, 1896, by a Choir of 4,000 voices.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa, Ninepence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

THE TRYST

SONG

WRITTEN AND COMPOSED BY

EVAN KREFE.

By the same Composer:

WHEN LOVE IS IN HER EYE

SONG

The Words by A. M. FAY.

LULLABY

The Words by ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON.

Price Two Shillings each net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

PART-SONGS for TREBLE VOICES

SPECIALLY ADAPTED FOR HIGH SCHOOLS

EDITED BY

MRS. CAREY BROCK

AND

M. A. SIDEBOTHAM,

Editors of "The Children's Hymn Book."

PART 6.

Queen Margaret of Anjou, Prince Edward, and the Robber	M. A. Sidebotham.
Love wakes and weeps	„ „
Under the greenwood tree	Dr. Arne.
Winds gently whisper	John Whittaker.
Red leaves	Elizabeth Stirling.
The Wood Nymphs	Henry Smart.

Price One Shilling.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

SHORT CANTATAS.

THE PIED PIPER OF HAMELIN
By Robert Browning
Set to Music for Tenor and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
RICHARD H. WALTHEW.

Price Two Shillings.

THE BLACK KNIGHT
Cantata for Chorus and Orchestra
The Poem by Uhland; translated by Longfellow
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
EDWARD ELGAR.

Price Two Shillings.

THE POWER OF SOUND
Cantata for Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
The Poem by Wordsworth
THE MUSIC BY
ARTHUR SOMERVELL.

Price Two Shillings. Tonic Sol-fa, One Shilling.

YOUNG LOCHINVAR
Ballad by Sir Walter Scott
Set to Music for Baritone Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
ETHEL M. BOYCE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

ROBERT OF SICILY
Cantata for Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
Poem by Longfellow
SET TO MUSIC BY
F. KILVINGTON HATTERSLEY.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

JOHN GILPIN
Ballad for Chorus and Orchestra
Words selected from Cowper's Poem
SET TO MUSIC BY
S. P. WADDINGTON.

Price Two Shillings.

THE BALLAD OF CARMILHAN
By Henry Longfellow
Set to Music for Baritone Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
A. DAVIDSON ARNOTT.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence. Tonic Sol-fa, 1s. 6d.

THE DREAM OF JUBAL
A Poem with Music
For Soprano and Tenor Soli, Chorus, Orchestra, and Accompanied Recitation
Written by Joseph Bennett
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
A. C. MACKENZIE.
(Op. 41.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
Paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.

THE FORSAKEN MERMAN
Written by Matthew Arnold
Set for Bass Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
ARTHUR SOMERVELL.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE
ROMANCE OF THE ROSES
For Soprano and Tenor Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
The Words written by Ellis Walton
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY OLIVER KING.
(Op. 80.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

MANFRED
A Dramatic Poem, in Three Acts, by Lord Byron
Composed for Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra, with Accompanied Recitation
BY
ROBERT SCHUMANN.

Price One Shilling. Cloth, gilt, 2s. 6d.

HERVÉ RIEL
A Poem by Robert Browning
Set to Music for Baritone Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
H. WALFORD DAVIES.

Price One Shilling.

THE INCHCAPE ROCK
Ballad by Robert Southey
Set to Music for Chorus and Orchestra
BY
J. FREDERICK BRIDGE.

Price One Shilling.

THE BRIDE
For Soprano and Tenor Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
The Words translated from the German of R. Hamerling
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
A. C. MACKENZIE.

Price One Shilling.

ODE TO THE WEST WIND
A Poem by Shelley
Set to Music for Tenor Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY CHARLES WOOD.

Price One Shilling.

THE WRECK OF THE HESPERUS
By Longfellow
Set to Music for Soprano, Tenor, and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
HERBERT W. WAREING.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE LAY OF THE BROWN ROSARY
The Words adapted from the Poem of Elizabeth Barrett Browning
Set to Music for Soprano and Contralto Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
ETHEL M. BOYCE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE BALLAD OF
SIR OGIE AND THE LADIE ELSIE
Englished from the 16th Century Danish Ballad "AAGE OG ELSE" by Frederick York Powell
Set to Music for Mezzo-Soprano and Baritone Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
CHARLES HARFORD LLOYD.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S

ALBUMS FOR PIANOFORTE AND STRINGED INSTRUMENTS

(Two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello).

The Pieces in these Albums are so arranged that if any Part, or Combination of Parts, in addition to the First Violin and Pianoforte are used they will sound complete.
They may also be played by a Quintet, or small Orchestra, of Stringed Instruments, with or without Pianoforte.

No. 1.

SUITE OF FOUR PIECES

By ARNOLD DOLMETSCH.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 2.

SUITE OF FIVE PIECES

By HENRY PURCELL.

The Pianoforte Accompaniment, Marks of Expression, Bowing, and Fingering by ARNOLD DOLMETSCH.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 3.

THREE DANCES

From the Music to "Henry VIII."

By EDWARD GERMAN.

Price 5s. net. Separate String Parts, 1s. each.

No. 4.

GAVOTTE IN D

By RAMEAU.

Arranged by BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 5.

SIX PIECES FROM THE WATER MUSIC

COMPOSED BY G. F. HANDEL.

Arranged by BERTHOLD TOURS.

1. Bourrée in F. | 3. Minuet in F. | 5. Aria in G.
2. Air in F. | 4. Hornpipe in F. | 6. Allegro in D.

Price 3s. 6d. net. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 6.

TWO BOURRÉES

COMPOSED BY G. F. HANDEL.

Arranged by BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price 2s. net. Separate String Parts, 3d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

Performed with great success at the Leeds Triennial Musical Festival, 1895.

VALSE GRACIEUSE

FROM THE

SUITE IN D MINOR

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo	net	2s.
String Parts, Duet	"	3s.
Wind Parts	"	4s.
	"	10s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

GUSTAVE LANGE'S

POPULAR PIECES.

RUSTLING LEAVES. Op. 294	4s.
SEA FLOWERS. Op. 296	4s.
VIVE LE SOLDAT. Op. 295	4s.

ARE NOW PUBLISHED ONLY BY

ALPHONSE CARY, 231, Oxford Street, London.

PERFORMED AT THE PHILHARMONIC CONCERT, Queen's Hall, London, March 19, 1896, under the direction of the COMPOSER.

SYMPHONY IN G

(No. 4)

FOR FULL ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

ANTONÍN DVOŘÁK.

(Op. 88.)

Full Score	30s.
String Parts	10s.
Wind Parts	22s.
Arrangement for Pianoforte Duet, by the Composer	10s. 6d.

In the Press.

The famous ALLEGRETTO GRAZIOSO from the above, arranged for Violin and Pianoforte, by S. COLERIDGE TAYLOR. Price 2s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

SOLEMN MARCH

FOR

FULL MILITARY BAND

Composed, by gracious permission of H.R.H. PRINCESS BEATRICE, as a Tribute to the Memory of

COL. H.R.H. PRINCE HENRY OF BATTENBERG, K.G.

BY

GEORGE MILLER, Mus. Bac.,

Bandmaster of Royal Marines.

Pianoforte Solo	2s. od. net.
Pianoforte Duet	2s. od. "
Military Band Parts	3s. 6d. "

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

HERBERT BUNNING

(Op. 45)

VILLAGE SUITE

No. 1. Pastorale. 2. Peasant's Dance. 3. Idyll. 4. Village Fête.
Full score, 6s. net; Orchestral parts, 8s. net; Extra parts, 6d. net.
Played with considerable success at the Crystal Palace Concerts on April 4, under the direction of Mr. August Manns.
London: LOUIS OERTEL and Co., 69, Berners Street, W.

NEW ORCHESTRAL SUITE.

RURAL SCENES

BY

ALBERT E. MATT.

IN THREE MOVEMENTS.

No. 1. PASTORALE—In the Meadows.
" 2. ROMANCE—Love Scenes.
" 3. SCHERZO—Village Revels.

Full Orchestra, 6s.; Extra Parts, 8d. each.
A. Piano Solo (with orchestral indications), 2s. 6d.
B. Full Score (MS.) can be hired.

OTHER ORCHESTRAL PUBLICATIONS.	Orchestra.	Extra Parts.	Piano Solo.
MATT, A. E.—"Dawn." Idyll	2s. od.	3d.	2s.
—— "Sunset." Rêverie	2s. od.	3d.	2s.
—— "Devotion Rustique." Angelus	2s. od.	3d.	2s.
BENNETT, SIR W. STERNDALE.—"The Naiades" Overture	5s. od.	6d.	2s.
CZIBULKA, A.—"Serenade Italienne"	2s. 8d.	3d.	2s.
—— "Waldesflüstern." Idylle	3s. 4d.	4d.	2s.
ERVITI, JOSE.—"Saugre Torera." Marcia Espagnola	2s od.	3d.	2s.

All the above can be performed in public without fee.

HAWKES AND SON, 28, Leicester Square, London, W.C.

TWO BOOKS OF SONG

COMPOSED BY

JACQUES BLUMENTHAL

With Frontispieces, representing respectively Shadow and Sunshine, designed by H.R.H. The Princess Louise (Marchioness of Lorne).

Price, each Volume, in paper cover, 4s.; or, bound in cloth, 6s.

CONTENTS.

Vol. I.—IN THE SHADOW.

1. Schatten (In the Shadow) .. .. H. Heine.
2. Nur einmal noch (The last Request) Julius Sturm.
3. Erlösung (A Release) .. .. .. F. Weber.
4. Das Meer (By the Sea) .. .. .. Strachwitz.
5. And Yet! .. .. Stephen Campbell.
6. Ihr Grab (Her Grave) .. .. .. Martin Greif.
7. Im Garten (In the Garden) .. .. R. Prutz.
8. Toujours (Alway) .. .. .. Sully-Prudhomme.
9. Entfernte Glocken (Distant Bells) Max Kalbach.
10. Suppose .. .. F. Bowen Graves.
11. Softly .. .. Eastman.
12. Was zögerst du? (Haunted) .. .. Von Schack.
13. Erster Schnee (First Snow) .. Moritz Hartmann.
14. Auf Nimmerwiedersehen (A Good-bye) A. Stiehler.
15. Illusions Perdues (Lost Illusions) .. .. ..
16. Die Thräne (A Tear) .. .. .. I. Kerner.
17. Zu Spät (Too Late) .. .. .. Betty Paoli.
18. Contraste (A Contrast) .. .. .. A. Levain.
19. Missverstanden (Misunderstood) .. Elise Tuel.
20. A Dirge .. .. R. L. Stevenson.
21. Liebeserwachen (Fated Love) .. Peter Lahmann.
22. Das Blatt im Buche (Memories) .. .. ..
23. Come not when I am dead .. Lord Tennyson.
24. Der schwere Abend (A Valediction) .. N. Lenau.
25. Kein Wort (Resignation) .. Max Haushofer.
26. Compensation .. .. .. Stephen Campbell.
27. All earthly joy returns in pain .. Dunbar (1460-1520).
28. Lebewohl (A Farewell) .. Ida von Düringsfeld.
29. Wie kannst du ruhig schlafen? (How can'st thou sleep in comfort?) .. H. Heine.
30. Shadowland .. .. .. George Macdonald.

Vol. II.—IN THE SUNSHINE.

1. Ein schöner Stern (New Hope) .. H. Heine.
2. Mein Freund (A Friend) .. .. Hermann Lingg.
3. With a Flower .. .. .. Emily Dickinson.
4. Mein guter Engel (The Angel of my Life) Karl Zettel.
5. Treue (Single-hearted) .. .. .. G. Pfitzer.
6. Erwachen (Love's awaking) .. .. A. Träger.
7. Le meilleur moment des amours (The Moment Eternal) .. .. Sully-Prudhomme.
8. Die Gefangenen (Two Captives) .. Julius Sturm.
9. Some future day .. .. Arthur Hugh Clough.
10. Wandlung (Transformation) .. .. Betty Paoli.
11. Die Zufriedenen (In Paradise) .. .. L. Uhland.
12. Ich liebe dich (A Declaration) .. Hermann Lingg.
13. Wär ich der Regen (Wishes) .. .. J. Mosen.
14. Das Schweigen (A Silence) .. Hermann Lingg.
15. Mein Alles (My All) .. .. .. J. B. Fischer.
16. Abendlied (Dream-flights) .. .. Julius Sturm.
17. Anbetung (Adoration) .. .. .. Betty Paoli.
18. Le Navire est à l'eau (Saved) .. A. C. Swinburne.
19. At Last .. .. From "Love lies bleeding."
20. Frieden (The magic touch) .. .. Th. Storm.
21. Ein verrathenes Geheimniss (The betrayed secret) .. .. Julius Sturm.
22. Erbarmen (The pity of it) .. .. A. Träger.
23. Illumination .. From "Love lies bleeding."
24. My River .. .. Emily Dickinson.
25. Seliger Tod (Resurrection) .. .. L. Uhland.

"The two books of song by Jacques Blumenthal, entitled respectively 'In the Shadow' and 'In the Sunshine,' have the same lofty artistic aim that was revealed in an album published some few years ago. . . . The two albums make up a work of lasting value, and one for which musicians may be sincerely grateful."—The Times.

"The name of Jacques Blumenthal is so familiar in connection with several songs that have won their way to the heights of popular favour that it is a real pleasure to welcome a contribution from this composer wherein may be recognised the claims of a deeper art than that which generally engages the attention of him who writes for the many. . . . In short, these volumes have a genuine value which is not lessened by the two graceful frontispieces which have been designed by Her Royal Highness Princess Louise."—Daily Telegraph.

"Mr. Blumenthal may well be congratulated upon the result of his efforts, for he has enriched the literature of song with many a beautiful inspiration. Musicians will find pages in the present volumes over which they may linger with delight. . . . There is not a single song in these books that is not stamped with artistic merit, and in many cases this is of a very high order."—Morning Post.

"Hard to please would be the singer who could not find something to suit him or herself and to satisfy the taste of the most exacting audience."—Daily News.

"Out of upwards of fifty songs there is not one that does not possess an interest of its own in the music; which, to whatever verses it may be set, bears always the stamp of the composer."—St. James's Gazette.

"The songs are delightfully refined—that is to say, affording ample evidence of Mr. Blumenthal's ability and artistic feeling."—Athenæum.

"Mr. Blumenthal's songs are such as cultured people may sing, and cultured people may listen to. . . . A tone of exquisite refinement pervades all these songs, and in mood they are invariably appropriate to the subjects."—Scotsman.

"It must suffice to sum them up as showing, one and all, the best qualities of a song-writer—musicianship, poetry, originality, and refinement. . . . It cannot be doubted that they will be heartily welcomed by vocalists of the better kind for singing at Chamber Concerts and other occasions when music of extreme refinement is not thrown away."—Yorkshire Post.

"Cultured artists who are endowed with an intense love of the beautiful will heartily welcome the exquisite songs contained in these two volumes."—Bristol Times.

"Most of the songs are on a very high level. In one or two cases there are absolute inspirations of idea; in very few is there any descent into the commonplace."—New Quarterly Musical Review.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

JUST PUBLISHED.

BEETHOVEN
AND HIS NINE SYMPHONIES

BY

GEORGE GROVE, C.B.

PRICE, CLOTH, GILT, SIX SHILLINGS.

THE TIMES.

Sir George Grove's analyses of Beethoven's Symphonies have long been familiar, not only to every frequenter of the Crystal Palace Concerts, for which they were at first designed, but to all lovers of music in England. They may most truly be said to have become household words, and it seems almost strange that a piece of musical literature so well known and so highly valued should never before have appeared in book form. The analytical programmes, with the musical examples, form the groundwork of the volume, published by Messrs. Novello under the title "Beethoven and his Nine Symphonies," but these have been amplified and their value largely increased by the addition of documents before only referred to.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

I recognise it, without the smallest hesitation, as one of the most important and valuable among recent contributions to musical literature. . . . The best informed of professional musicians may learn a great deal about the master-works of Beethoven from Sir George Grove, whose wide reading and acute perceptiveness have enabled him to marshal an astonishing array of facts, and whose intimate acquaintance with the spirit of the master has qualified him to throw light upon pages which, to many, are still obscure. . . . I must be satisfied with the remarks already made, earnestly recommending all who recognise Beethoven's greatness as shown in his immortal Symphonies to obtain Sir George Grove's volume, and walk in the luminous paths through which he is ready to conduct all who trust his guidance.

ST. JAMES'S GAZETTE.

It is not until now, in publishing his complete work on Beethoven, that Sir George Grove shows how thoroughly he knows and how intensely he admires one of the very greatest of great composers. . . . It would be difficult to say whether Sir George Grove's admirable volume is more to be esteemed for its biographical or its critical chapters. Probably for neither, but rather for those in which biography and criticism go hand-in-hand together. It needed an enthusiast gifted with industry and the spirit of research to produce such a work.

SUNDAY TIMES.

No one can fail to have his enjoyment of the Symphonies enormously increased by reading the work which will henceforth be indispensable to every student of Beethoven, and to every one who wishes to know how musical criticism should be written, which shall charm alike the artist and the amateur, and assist equally the performer and the hearer.

THE PEOPLE.

Sir George Grove has performed his self-imposed task with such thoroughness that, after reading the volume, there will be little, if anything, left for amateurs to learn concerning the Nine Symphonies.

YORKSHIRE POST.

We might go on for long enough discussing points suggested by this delightful book, and must be contented with very cordially recommending it to all musically inclined persons, whether they want to become acquainted with the immortal Nine, or only to refresh their recollection of these unapproachable masterpieces.

MANCHESTER COURIER.

A volume of great interest to amateur musicians and to all lovers of the "master."

BRISTOL TIMES AND MIRROR.

Amateurs and students will welcome the present volume as a very valuable contribution to the large store of information which has been published regarding the immortal Nine Symphonies of Beethoven. . . . The most valuable and most recent information about, and bearing upon, the Nine Symphonies is brought together and set forth in that masterly and scholarly way which characterises everything undertaken by the enthusiastic ex-director of the Royal College of Music.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO'S

MUSIC FOR MILITARY BAND

ARRANGED BY

DAN GODFREY, Jun.,

AND

GEORGE MILLER.

		s.	d.
GIPSY SUITE	Edward German	15	0
THREE DANCES ("Henry VIII.")	Edward German	15	0
SIX SACRED PIECES	Ch. Gounod	10	6
THE REDEMPTION (Selection)	Ch. Gounod	15	0
BENEDICTUS ("Six Pieces for Violin")	A. C. Mackenzie	5	0
WEDDING MARCH	William Creser	3	6
BALLET MUSIC ("Colomba")	A. C. Mackenzie	15	0
MORS ET VITA (Selection)	Ch. Gounod	15	0
THE EMPIRE FLAG	A. C. Mackenzie	5	0
HUSARENRITT	Fritz Spindler	10	0
POLONAISE ("Life for the Czar")	M. I. Glinka	12	0
COURANTE ("Ravenswood")	A. C. Mackenzie	12	0
GAVOTTE	J. P. Rameau	4	6
ORCHESTRAL BALLAD	Stewart Macpherson	15	0
EMPEROR GAVOTTE (Cornflower)	Ch. Morley	2	6
Recent additions:—
WESTWOOD GAVOTTE	Battison Haynes	5	0
SOLEMN MARCH	George Miller	3	6
MARCHE MILITAIRE	P. Tschaïkowsky	15	0
In the Press:—
OVERTURE TO "RICHARD III."	Edward German
GRANDE VALSE ("Faust" Ballet)	Ernest Ford
FESTIVAL MARCH (Aennchen von Tharau)	H. Hofmann
MARCHE SOLENNELLE	Ch. Gounod

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

TWENTY-FOUR

VOCAL EXERCISES

FOR

MEZZO-SOPRANO

BY

MARCO BORDOGNI.

EDITED, WITH MARKS OF EXPRESSION AND PHRASING, BY

ALBERTO RANDEGGER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

PARIS: ALPHONSE LEDUC,

Editeur, 3, Rue de Grammont.

GRAND SUCCÈS

EMILE FISCHER

A CŒUR JOIE

POLKA.

	Pr. net.
Pour PIANO. Edition Simplifiée	0 85
„ PIANO. Edition Originale	1 65
„ PIANO. Edition à 4 mains	2 50
„ PIANO et CLARINETTE	2 00
„ PIANO et CORNET	2 00
„ PIANO et FLUTE	2 00
„ PIANO et VIOLON	2 00
„ ORCHESTRE	1 50
„ FANFARE	1 50

Just Published.

THE HESPERUS

CANTATA FOR SOPRANO, BARITONE, AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA

The Poetry by Longfellow

THE MUSIC BY

J. F. H. READ.

Price 1s. 6d.; Vocal Parts also, in Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

By the same Composer:

THE

DEATH OF YOUNG ROMILLY

CHORAL BALLAD FOR CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA

The Poetry by Wordsworth.

Dedicated, by special permission, to H.R.H. The Prince of Wales.

FOR MEN'S VOICES.

Sung by the Stock Exchange Choral Society.

IN THE FOREST

CANTATA FOR BARITONE SOLO, CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Second Edition.

NARCISSUS AND ECHO

CANTATA FOR CHORUS, SOLI, AND ORCHESTRA

Price 3s.; Choral Parts, 1s. each. Also,

"GOD IS OUR REFUGE" (Ps. 46)

For Chorus, Soli, and Orchestra. Price 1s.

COMPOSED BY

EDWIN C. SUCH

Mus. Bac., Cantab.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

A DREAM OF LOVE

SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

EDWARD OXENFORD

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price Two Shillings net.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

METZLER'S HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

*Bold Turpin (Dr. Bridge). Mixed voices	4d.
*The Goose (Dr. Bridge). Mixed voices	6d.
*Hey Diddle Diddle (Vinning). Mixed voices	4d.
Shelter (Gladstone). Male voices	3d.
Humpty Dumpty (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	net 6d.
*Little Jack Horner (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed or Male voices	„ 6d.
Jack and Jill (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	„ 4d.
*The House that Jack built (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	„ 6d.
*The Haymakers (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	„ 4d.
Out on the Waters (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	„ 4d.
*Yule (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	„ 4d.
*The Sobbing Quartet (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	„ 3d.
*Poor Little Tom-ee (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	„ 6d.
*Where are you going to, &c.? (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	„ 6d.
*The Boy and the Bee (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	„ 6d.
The Spider and the Fly (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed or Male voices	net 6d.

Published in Tonic Sol-fa Notation, 2d. each.

SUCCESSFUL CANTATAS.

Robin Hood (Soli and Chorus) T. L. Hatton.
Vocal score, 2s. 6d. net; Chorus parts, 6d. each net.

St. Ursula (Soli and Chorus) F. H. Cowen.
Vocal score, 4s. net; Chorus parts, 1s. each net.

Harvest Home (Soli and Chorus) G. B. Allen.
Vocal score, 2s. 6d. net; Chorus parts, 6d. each net.

The Fishers (Soli and Chorus) J. M. Coward.
Vocal score, 4s. net; Chorus parts, 8d. each net.

Babes in the Wood (Soli and Chorus) George Fox.
Vocal score, 2s. 6d. net.

London: Metzler & Co., Ltd., 40 to 43, Great Marlborough St., W.

Just Published.

WESTWOOD GAVOTTE

COMPOSED BY

BATTISON HAYNES.

For Pianoforte Solo, price Two Shillings net.
For Violin and Pianoforte, price Two Shillings net.

ARRANGEMENT FOR MILITARY BAND

BY

DAN GODFREY, Jun.

Price 5s. net.
Parts for large and small orchestra in the Press.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

GRANDE VALSE

FROM THE

FAUST BALLET

COMPOSED BY

ERNEST FORD.

ARRANGED FOR THE PIANOFORTE BY

I. A. DE ORELLANA.

Price Two Shillings net.
Arrangement for Military Band in the Press.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

WEBSTER'S

GROUNDWORK OF MUSIC. Book I.

4th Edition. 1s.; Key, 1s. 6d.

WEBSTER'S

GROUNDWORK OF MUSIC. Book II.

3rd Edition. 1s.; Key, 1s. 6d.

WEBSTER'S

CHILD'S PRIMER OF THE THEORY OF MUSIC.

3rd Edition. 1s.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

THE OULD PLAID SHAWL

SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

FRANCIS H. FAHY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

BATTISON HAYNES.

Not far from old Kinvara, in the merry month of May,
When birds were singing cheerily there came across my way,
As if from out the sky above an angel chanced to fall,
A little Irish colleen in an ould plaid shawl.
She tripped along right joyously, a basket on her arm;
And oh! her face, and oh! her grace the soul of saint would charm,
Her brown hair rippled o'er her brow, but greatest charm of all
Was her modest blue eyes beaming 'neath her ould plaid shawl.

I courteously saluted her, "God save you, Miss," says I,
"God save you kindly, Sir," says she, and shyly passed me by.
Off went my heart along with her, a captive in her thrall,
Imprisoned in the corner of her ould plaid shawl.
Enchanted with her beauty rare, I gazed in pure delight,
Till round an angle of the road she vanished from my sight,
But ever since I sighing say, as I that scene recall—
"The grace of God about you and your ould plaid shawl."

Oh, some men sigh for riches and some men live for fame,
And some on history's pages hope to win a glorious name;
My aims are not ambitious and my wishes are but small,
You might wrap them all together in an ould plaid shawl.
I'll seek her all through Galway, and I'll seek her all through Clare,
I'll search for tale or tidings of my trav'ler everywhere,
For peace of mind I'll never find until my own I call
That little Irish colleen in her ould plaid shawl.

Price Two Shillings net.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

	s.	d.
ANDERSEN, J.—Three Pieces. For Flute and Piano. Op. 57:—
No. 1. Le Calme	3	0
„ 2. Sérénade mélancolique	3	0
„ 3. Le Tourbillon	3	0
—— Deuxième morceau de Concert. For Flute and Pianoforte. Op. 61 .. .. net	3	0
—— Introduction et Caprice sur des airs hongrois. For Flute and Pianoforte. Op. 58 .. .. net	3	0
—— Swedish Polska-Lieder. For Flute and Pianoforte. Op. 50. Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 .. .. each	3	0
BECKER, A.—Adagio (D major). For Violin and Piano. Op. 81	3	0
BERNARD, E.—Sonata. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 46 .. .. net	6	0
BLOCH, JOS.—Suite. For String Orchestra. Op. 6:—
Score .. .. net	6	0
Parts .. .. „	10	0
—— 2nd Suite. For String Orchestra. Op. 10:—
Score .. .. net	8	0
Parts .. .. „	14	0
BOISDEFFRE, R. de.—Troisième Sonata. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 67	16	0
—— Sérénade. For Flute, Violin, and Pianoforte. Op. 85 ..	7	0
DUPARC, H.—"Lenore." Poëme symphonique. For Orchestra:—
Full Score .. .. net	12	6
Parts .. .. „	20	0
—— The same. Arranged for Pianoforte Duet .. .. „	5	0
—— The same. Arranged for Two Pianofortes by C. Saint-Saëns. (For performance two copies are necessary).. net	5	0
FEDERHOF—MÖLLER.—50 Swedish and Norwegian Songs. For Harmonium Solo .. .. net	2	6
GIGOUT, E.—Album Gregorien. For Harmonium or Organ. Vols. I. and II... .. .. each, net	5	0
—— Three Organ Pieces:—
No. 1. Prelude and Fugue .. .. net	2	0
„ 2. Andante varié .. .. „	1	6
„ 3. Allegro con brio .. .. „	2	6
GODARD, B.—Adagio, from 2nd Violin Concerto. For Violin and Pianoforte .. .. net	3	0
GOUNOD, CH.—"Vision de Jeanne d'Arc." For Organ ..	3	0
ILINSKY, A.—"Noure et Anitra." Suite. Arranged as a Duet for Two Pianofortes .. .. net	10	0
No. 1. Le Paladin à cheval; No. 2. Le château mystérieux; No. 3. Gnomes; No. 4. La princesse enchantée. Tentation; No. 5. Danse féerique; No. 6. Rêveries. Paladin et princesse; No. 8. L'Orgie.
—— "La Princesse enchantée," Rêverie et Berceuse, from "Noure et Anitra" Suite. Arranged for Pianoforte Solo ..	3	0
LADOUKHINE, N.—Barcarolle. For Pianoforte Solo ..	3	0
LEMOINE, L.—Two Pieces. For Organ. No. 1. Communion (D flat); No. 2. Pastorale (C minor)	6	0
MAJOR, J. J.—Sérénade. For String Orchestra. Op. 24:—
Score .. .. net	6	6
Parts .. .. „	6	0
MANNS.—Sonata. For Pianoforte Duet, Violin, and Violoncello .. .. net	4	0
MASCAGNI, P.—"Mio primo Valzer." For Piano Solo net	2	0
MOSZKOWSKI, M.—Introduction und Tanz der "Rosenelfen." For Full Orchestra:—
Score and Parts .. .. net	10	0
—— Marsch der Zwerge. For Full Orchestra:—
Score and Parts .. .. net	10	0
—— Sarabande and Double. For Full Orchestra:—
Score and Parts .. .. net	8	0
PETERS, M.—Concert-Andante. For Organ. Op. 24	3	0
REINECKE, C.—Third Symphony (G minor). For Orchestra:—
Score .. .. net	12	0
Parts .. .. „	30	0
RITTER, A.—Trois morceaux de fantasie. For Pianoforte, Harmonium, and Violin (or Violoncello). Op. 14:—
No. 1. Evening Song	5	0
„ 2. Nocturne	5	0
„ 3. Morning Song	5	0
ROSENTHAL, MORITZ.—Romanza. For Piano Solo net	2	0
SAINT-SAËNS.—Fantasia (B flat minor). For Organ. Op. 101. net	3	0
SCHILLINGS, MAX.—"Thalatta." Fantasia. For Orchestra:—
Score .. .. net	16	0
Parts .. .. „	26	0
—— "Seemorgen." Fantasia. For Orchestra:—
Score .. .. net	12	6
Parts .. .. „	26	0
SITT, HANS.—Concertino (D minor). For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 65 .. .. net	5	0
SMITH, F.—Technical Studies. For Pianoforte .. „	3	0
STENHAMMAR, W.—Quartet. For Two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello:—
Score .. .. net	6	0
Parts .. .. „	10	0
SUPPÉ, F. von.—"Das Modell." Overture. For Orchestra:—
Score .. .. net	4	0
Parts .. .. „	8	0
—— "Coletta." Waltz. For Orchestra .. .. .. „	7	0
WEISS, J.—Violin Technics. Op. 129:—
Part I. (1st position).. .. .. net	3	0
Part II. (The higher positions) .. .. .. „	2	0
Complete (English and German text) .. .. .. „	5	0
WEINBERGER, K. F.—Fuge (in C). For Organ. Op. 30 ..	3	0
WIDOR, C. M.—"L'Orgue Moderne." Vol. VII. .. net	2	0

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Cloth, Small Demy 8vo. Price 3s. 6d.

NEW AND ENLARGED EDITION

OF

THE DAY SCHOOL HYMN-BOOK

EDITED BY

EMMA MUNDELLA.

Numerous Tunes have been written expressly for this Edition by

SIR JOHN STAINER | PROFESSOR J. F. BRIDGE
DR. C. HUBERT H. PARRY | DR. G. C. MARTIN

And others.

And it also includes a hitherto unpublished Tune by

REV. J. B. DYKES.

The Hymns have been selected from the Works of the best Ancient and Modern Writers of sacred verse, and a selection of the finest

FRENCH, GERMAN, AND LATIN HYMNS
(In their original language)

HAS ALSO BEEN INCLUDED.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

COMPOSED FOR THE PLAY AT THE LYCEUM THEATRE, SEPTEMBER, 1895.

THE MUSIC

TO

ROMEO AND JULIET

BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

The following arrangements by the Composer are published:—

Pavane (Dance from Act I.), for Pianoforte Solo, Pianoforte Duet, and Violin and Pianoforte, price 2s. each.

Nocturne, for Pianoforte Solo; Pastoral, for Pianoforte; and Violin and Pianoforte; and Selection of Themes, for Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. each.

Suite, consisting of—1. Prelude; 2. Pastorale; 3. Pavane; 4. Nocturne; 5. Dramatic Interlude, for Pianoforte Duet, price 5s. complete.

Now Ready.

String Parts, 10s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 27s. 6d.

The parts of each movement are published separately.

PRODUCED WITH GREAT SUCCESS AT THE LEEDS TRIENNIAL FESTIVAL, OCTOBER 3, 1895.

SUITE IN D MINOR

BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

1. Prelude (Allegro moderato, C).
2. Valse Gracieuse (Allegro, $\frac{3}{8}$).
3. Elegy (Andante, $\frac{3}{4}$).
4. Saltarelle (Presto, $\frac{6}{8}$)

String Parts, 13s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 26s. 6d.; Full Score, MS.

VALSE GRACIEUSE, from above, arranged for Pianoforte Solo, 2s., and Pianoforte Duet, 3s.; String Parts, 4s.; Wind Parts, 10s. (now ready).

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO'S
OPERETTAS AND CANTATAS.

SUITABLE FOR PERFORMANCE IN THE OPEN AIR, OR AT BAZAARS, FANCY FAIRS, GARDEN FÊTES, &c.

YE OLDE ENGLYSHE PASTYMES

By Rev. F. W. GALPIN.

"The Rev. F. W. Galpin's skilful arrangement of 'Olde Englyshe Pastymes,' with its careful directions as to their performance, should be as successful in London as in the country, where the entertainment was first given. The music, mostly chosen from old sources and put together with real artistic ability, has an additional value as a collection of beautiful examples of English dances and songs."—The Times.

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, 1s. 6d.

DRUMS AND VOICES

OR,

THE GRENADIER CAP

AN OPERETTA FOR GIRLS, IN ONE ACT

Words and Music by HAMILTON CLARKE.

"Mistresses of senior departments on the look-out for a work for entertainment purposes will find here a most effective operetta. Dialogue and music are bright and taking, and no difficulty should be found in delighting an audience with it."—Board Teacher.

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, 2s.
Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

THE ELFIN QUEEN

CANTATA FOR GIRLS ONLY

ARTHUR CHAPMAN. CLEMENT LOCKNANE.

"This cantata presents to us musically a most smooth bit of work of almost faultless execution, but being easy and tuneful throughout."—The Journal of Education.

Staff Notation, 2s. 6d.

RED RIDING-HOOD'S RECEPTION

EDWARD OXENFORD. THOMAS FACER.

"A pretty and well-written operetta. The work is well conceived and happily arranged for performance. The music is bright, tuneful, simple, and in both notations."—Bristol Times and Mirror.

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, 2s. 6d.
Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

THE

ENCHANTED PALACE

SHAPCOTT WENSLEY. ARTHUR SOMERVELL.

"Mr. Arthur Somervell's 'Enchanted Palace' is an exceedingly pretty treatment in easy operatic form of the Sleeping Beauty story; there is plenty of fun in it, the libretto by Shapcott Wensley provides speaking as well as singing parts, and the whole is as graceful an entertainment for the purpose as could be imagined. The Princess's last song has a deeper expression than the rest of the little work, and both it and the lovely waltz deserve to be heard apart from the piece as a whole."—The Times.

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, 2s.
Tonic Sol-fa, 8d.

THE HOURS

OPERETTA FOR FEMALE VOICES

SHAPCOTT WENSLEY. J. L. ROECKEL.

"In 'The Hours,' a cantata for female voices, by J. L. Roeckel, Mr. Shapcott Wensley has written a graceful little allegory, and collaborated with the composer of the melodious and dramatic music in producing a refined and charming work. The properties and scenes are easily attainable, and the number of the dramatis personæ may be readily increased by lengthening the series of 'The Hours.'"—Educational Times.

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, 2s.
Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

ALL THE YEAR ROUND

CHARLES KARLYLE & AMY BRIANT. } GUSTAV ERNEST.

"We are pleased to introduce to the notice of teachers a cantata so full of music, which, to say the least, is never meaningless or commonplace."—Schoolmaster.

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, 2s. 6d.
Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

THE DAISY CHAIN

Words and Music by HAMILTON CLARKE.

"Both music and libretto show the composer is equally at home when handling music of a comic character as when treating more serious and instructive work."—Daily News.

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, 2s. 6d.
Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUES FREE ON APPLICATION.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO.'S

CIRCULATING MUSIC LIBRARY

1, BERNERS STREET, W.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

CLASS A - - - - - ONE GUINEA - - - - PER ANNUM.

CLASS B, CLASS E - - - - - TWO GUINEAS - - - - PER ANNUM.
Six Months, £1 5s.; Three Months, 15s.;
One Month, 8s.; One Week, 3s.

CLASS C, CLASS F - - - - THREE GUINEAS - - - PER ANNUM.
Six Months, £1 15s.; Three Months, £1 1s.;
One Month, 12s. 6d.; One Week, 5s.

CLASS D, CLASS G - - - FIVE GUINEAS - - - PER ANNUM.

TOWN.

CLASS A—Entitles the Subscriber to receive Six Pianoforte Pieces or Songs (ordinary sheet music), which may be exchanged once a week.

CLASS B—Entitles the Subscriber to receive Twelve Pieces (one copy of each), including Volumes or Collections of Music, each volume counting as three pieces. May be exchanged once a week. On the completion of each subscription in this Class, Annual Subscribers are entitled to receive Music of the value of Half-a-Guinea (half-price) without further charge.

CLASS C—Entitles the Subscriber to receive Eighteen Pieces (one copy of each), or a proportionate number of Volumes, WHICH MAY BE EXCHANGED TWICE A WEEK. On the completion of each subscription in this Class, Annual Subscribers are entitled to receive Music of the value of Half-a-Guinea (half-price) without further charge.

CLASS D—Entitles the subscriber to the same privileges as Class C, including the right of occasionally borrowing a sufficient number of INSTRUMENTAL PARTS for the use of a SMALL ORCHESTRA.

 The Special attention of Conductors and Secretaries of Musical Societies is called to this subscription.

COUNTRY.

CLASS E—Entitles the Subscriber to receive Twenty Pieces (one copy of each), including Volumes or Collections of Music, each volume counting as three pieces. May be exchanged twice a month. On the completion of each subscription in this Class, Annual Subscribers are entitled to receive Music of the value of Half-a-Guinea (half-price) without further charge.

CLASS F—Entitles the Subscriber to Thirty Pieces (one copy of each), or a proportionate number of Volumes (WHICH MAY BE EXCHANGED ONCE A WEEK). On the completion of each subscription in this class, Annual Subscribers are entitled to receive Music of the value of Half-a-Guinea (half-price) without further charge.

CLASS G—Entitles the Subscriber to the same privileges as Class F, including the right of occasionally borrowing a sufficient number of INSTRUMENTAL PARTS for the use of a SMALL ORCHESTRA.

 For still larger quantities of Music, special subscriptions can be arranged.

Printed by Novello, Ewer & Co., at 69 and 70, Dean Street (W.), and published at 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.). Sold also by Kent and Co., Paternoster Row (E.C.).—Friday, May 1, 1896

FELIX MENDELSSOHN-BARTHOLDY

At the Age of 26.

From a Pencil Drawing by Mücke, in the possession of Mrs. Victor Benecke.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 640.—Vol. 37. JUNE 1, 1896. Price 4d.; Postage, 1½d.
Registered for transmission abroad. Annual Subscription, Post-free, 5s.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,
ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG AND GOTHA, DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.

There are now VACANCIES in the Choir for Sopranos, Altos, Tenors, and Basses. Only those who have good powerful voices, and who can read music at first sight, will be accepted. Address, Assistant-Secretary, Royal Choral Society, Albert Hall, S.W.

CRYSTAL PALACE,
SATURDAY, JUNE 27, 1896, at 3 o'clock.

GRAND JUBILEE PERFORMANCE OF MENDELSSOHN'S
"ELIJAH."

"Elijah" was first produced at the Birmingham Musical Festival in 1846.

Solo Vocalists:
Madame ALBANI
AND
Madame CLARA SAMUELL.
Miss CLARA BUTT AND Miss JESSIE KING.
Mr. EDWARD LLOYD AND Mr. HARPER KEARTON.
Mr. W. H. BRERETON, Mr. ROBERT GRICE,
AND
Mr. SANTLEY.

CHOIR AND ORCHESTRA, 3,000 PERFORMERS.

Organist, Mr. WALTER W. HEDGCOCK.

Conductor .. .. .. Mr. AUGUST MANNS.

Numbered Reserved Seats, including Admission to the Palace, Half-a-Guinea and Seven Shillings and Sixpence.
Plans may be inspected and tickets obtained at the Ticket Office, Central entrance, Crystal Palace, from 10 a.m. till 6 p.m. daily.
Letters by post should be addressed to the Secretary, Crystal Palace, S.E. Postal Orders and Cheques made payable to the Crystal Palace Company and crossed "London and County Bank."

THE MUSICAL COMPETITIONS in connection with the International Music Trades Exhibition will be held from July 10 to July 21 next. They will include Vocal (four), Pianoforte, Violin, Organ, and Choral contests, with Prizes value One Thousand Pounds; also, Gold and Silver Medals. For full particulars, address, Music Trades Exhibition, Broad Street House, E.C.

THE BURGON OPERA RECITAL COMPANY
UNDER THE DIRECTION OF
MR. W. H. BURGON,
Principal Bass, Royal English Opera House, Covent Garden Opera House, and Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company, &c.;
Also of the leading Choral Societies' Concerts.

The experienced Artists of the above Company can be engaged by Choral Societies for Oratorio, Concert, or Opera Recital.

Specimens of the special Programmes for which the Burgon Opera Recital Company has become so celebrated, viz.:—
PART I.—Ballad and Instrumental.
PART II.—Recital in Costume or Evening Dress, of Selections from a popular Opera ("Cavalleria Rusticana," "Pagliacci," "Flying Dutchman," "Il Trovatore," "Maritana," "Bohemian Girl," "Faust," &c.)—will be forwarded on application.

Address, W. H. BURGON,
8, Marlboro' Road, Bedford Park, London, W.

LINCOLN & PETERBOROUGH FESTIVAL
LINCOLN CATHEDRAL, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 17, 1896.

Prospectuses, giving full information, and tickets may be obtained of the Honorary Secretaries, Festival Office, Bank Street, Lincoln.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,
TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Patrons: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN AND THE ROYAL FAMILY.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG AND GOTHA.
Principal: Sir A. C. MACKENZIE, Mus. Doc.

Midsummer Half-Term begins June 11. Entrance Examination therefor, June 8, at 2.
Chamber Concert, at St. James's Hall, June 18, at 3.
Fortnightly Concerts, June 13 and 27, at 8.
Prospectus, Entry Forms, and all information may be obtained from the Secretary. F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,
Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883.

PRINCE CONSORT ROAD, SOUTH KENSINGTON, S.W.
President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.
Director: C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Esq., M.A., Mus. Doc., D.C.L.
Hon. Sec.: CHARLES MORLEY, Esq., M.P.

The MIDSUMMER HALF-TERM will commence on June 10.
Syllabus and official entry forms may be obtained at the College, Prince Consort Road, South Kensington.
FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.
Established by the Corporation of London, 1880.
Half-Term will commence Monday, June 8.
Prospectus and further particulars of the Secretary.
By order of the Committee,
Victoria Embankment, E.C. HILTON CARTER, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The Solo-playing Tests for the Fellowship Examination in July will be:—Toccata in D minor, W. G. Wood (Novello and Co.); Prelude (in 3-2 time) and Fugue in G major, Bach (No. 2, Book 4, Peters, and in Book 7, Novello's edition); Finale, Sonata in C minor, Reubke.
The Midsummer Fellowship Examination will be held on July 13, (14, Paper Work day), 15, 16, 17; Diploma Distribution, 18.
The Associate Examinations will take place on July 20 (21, Paper Work day), 22, 23, 24; Diploma Distribution, 25.
All Candidates for the next Examinations, including those claiming exemption from fee, must send in their names for Fellowship by June 27; for Associateship by July 4. In the case of new Members, proposal forms, duly filled up, must be sent in by June 25.
The Annual College Dinner will take place on July 1, at 7, at the Holborn Restaurant. The Chair will be taken by J. W. Sidebotham, Esq., M.P., Mus. Bac., Vice-President of the College.
The Annual General Meeting will be held on July 28, at 8.
The College Library is open daily, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; also on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5 to 7.
Members desiring practice on the College Organ may obtain particulars on application.
The large Hall, and sundry smaller rooms, may be hired for concerts, meetings, &c.
E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.
Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

Examinations for Degrees in Music are held in March and September.
Full particulars, with copies of former papers, of Dr. Armes, The Bailey, Durham.

THE MISSES TULLOCH'S
VOCAL, INSTRUMENTAL, AND DRAMATIC
RECITALS.
OPERATIC SCENAS AND ARIAS. BALLADS.
MANDOLINE AND GUITAR SOLOS AND DUETS.
ITALIAN, FRENCH, AND GERMAN SONGS.
SPANISH SONGS TO GUITAR ACCOMPANIMENTS.
RECITATIONS (POETIC AND HUMOROUS).

For Press notices and programmes, address, Miss D. Tulloch, 16, Linden Gardens, London, W.; or, usual Concert Agents.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS FLORENCE ARMRIDING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Mr. Shakespeare and Medalist, R.A.M.).
Oratorios, Concerts, Lessons, &c., at 20, Conduit Street. Address, Leicester Villa, Ealing, W.

MISS MAUDE BALLARD (Soprano)
"MESSIAH," PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY, SOUTHAMPTON. — "The gems of the evening were Miss Ballard's rendering of 'Rejoice greatly,' 'I know that my Redeemer liveth,' and 'Come unto Me.'"—Hampshire Advertiser, Dec. 18, 1895. 13, Herbert Rd., Stockwell, S.W.

MADAME BARTER (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Westbury Road, Wood Green, N.

MISS LOUISE BELLAMY (Soprano)
Oratorios and Concerts. 2, Claremont Road, Handsworth, Birmingham.

MISS EMILY DAVIES (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, Severn House, Seven Sisters Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS JESSIE HOTINE (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, Operettas, Banquets, &c.
Address, Craignorth, 33, Upper Bedford Place, Russell Square, W.C.

MADAME MARIE MALLIA (Soprano)
Oratorios and Concerts. Claremont, Hermon Hill, Snaresbrook, N.E.

MISS FLORENCE MONK (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 26, Portland Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS ANNIE NORLEDGE (Soprano)
For Oratorios and Ballad Concerts. For press notices and terms, address, 221, South Lambeth Road, London, S.W.
Telegrams: "Norledge," London.

MISS WINIFRED PEAKE (Soprano)
(Sainton-Dolby Scholar and Certificate, R.A.M.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Strathearn, Broadhurst Gardens, West Hampstead, N.W.

MISS AGNES WALKER (Soprano)
"THE CREATION."—"Miss Agnes Walker made her first acquaintance with a Witney audience and created a very favourable impression. She is gifted with a voice of unusual compass, and her rendering of 'On mighty pens,' which abounds in grace notes, was exceptionally good. In the trios Miss Walker sustained her part most satisfactorily throughout."—Oxford Times, May 2, 1896.
104, Lewisham High Road, New Cross, S.E.

MISS MARY WILLIS (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, or Private Lessons, address, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MISS BERYL CLIVE (Contralto)
"Prominent among the artists was Miss Beryl Clive, a vocalist of more than average ability. She possesses a rich contralto voice of excellent range, and sang with the skill and intelligence of an accomplished artist."—Nottingham Daily Guardian, Dec. 4, 1895.
"MESSIAH," TOWN HALL, STOURBRIDGE.—"Miss Clive has a deep and powerful contralto voice, and her singing was marked by power, sweetness, and pathos. Although her interpretation of all her pieces was of a finished character, yet we think she reached her highest point of excellence in the exquisite air 'He shall feed His flock like a shepherd.'"—Stourbridge Advertiser, Jan. 4, 1896.
Address, 30, Pepys Road South, St. Catherine's Park, S.E.

MISS EMILY FOXCROFT, A.L.A.M. (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, At Homes, &c.
76, Calabria Road, Highbury Place, N.

MISS MARIE TOMLINSON (Contralto)
For Oratorio and Ballad Concerts. For terms and Press notices, apply, 284, Whalley Range, Blackburn.

MR. WRIGHT BEAUMONT (Tenor)
(Certificated R.A.M.).
"Mr. Beaumont is a tenor of decided promise."—Daily Telegraph.
"Mr. Beaumont is a most artistic singer."—Morning Leader.
"Mr. Beaumont showed himself to be the possessor of a fine tenor voice."—Musical News.
Address, 20, Lavender Gardens, Clapham Junction, S.W.

MR. HERBERT CLINCH
Oratorios, Ballads, At Homes, &c.
Address, 41, Frederick Street, St. John's Wood, N.W.

MR. GWILYM RICHARDS (Tenor)
Winner of Joseph Maas Memorial Prize,
" " Goldberg Prize,
" " Evill Prize,
At the Royal Academy of Music.
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts. 30, Redburn Street, Chelsea, S.W.

MR. JOHN W. STOKER (Tenor)
(Llandaff Cathedral).
"Mr. Stoker possesses a remarkably sweet voice, which evidences careful training."—Western Mail.
For Concerts, &c., address, The Cathedral.

MR. NORMAN WALLS (Tenor)
(Pupil of Isidore de Solla).
Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, 109, Grosvenor Road, Highbury New Park, London, N.

MR. HERBERT ALDRIDGE (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, Saxonbury Villa, Buxton Road, Stratford, E.

MR. DANIEL PRICE (Baritone)
Westminster Abbey. Address, 9, Clarendon Road, W.

MR. TOM WATERHOUSE (Baritone)
For Concerts, Oratorios, Operas, &c.
Address, 49, Tatton Street, Stalybridge.

MR. ALFRED OSMOND (Bass)
(Pupil of Mr. Fred. Walker).
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 39, Gayton Road, Hampstead, N.W.

MISS VIOLET NICHOLSON (Solo Mandolinist)
3, Upper Montagu Street, Hyde Park, W.
The Queen, Dec. 21, 1895: "Miss Violet Nicholson proved herself mistress of her mandoline by her delightful playing of 'Sérénade Espagnole,' by F. Thomé, and 'The Grasshopper's Romance' (her own composition), both of which were encored."

MISS AMY BOWLEY (Accompanist)
Good sight reader.
66, Shaftesbury Road, Crouch Hill, N.

MADAME EUGENIA MORGAN (Dramatic Soprano) can accept Engagements. Opera Recitals, Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c. For terms, 19, Bovingdon Rd., Fulham, S.W.

MISS LUCIE JOHNSTONE, engaged as Principal Contralto next Lincoln and Peterborough Festival. 13, Cromwell Grove, West Kensington Park, W.

MR. HIRWEN JONES (Tenor) (of Leeds, Worcester, Hereford, and Bridlington Festivals). CHANGE of ADDRESS to 8, Nottingham Place, London, W. Dates booked: May 21, 22, St. James's Hall; June 1, Cardiff Festival; 5, Queen's Hall; 18, Stationers' Hall; 23 (Annual Concert), Steinway Hall; 30 and July 1, Llandudno (National Eisteddfod); 30, Swansea (Patti Concert); Sept. 8, 9, 10, 11, Worcester Festival; 23, 24, Hovingham Festival; Dec. 17, Southport; 18, Birkenhead; 19, Blundelsands; March 18, 1897, Halifax.

MR. WILLIAM WILD (Tenor), of the "Sir Charles and Lady Hallé South African Concert Tour, 1895." (Pupil of Andrew Black, Esq.) For Oratorios, Orchestral Concerts, &c. "Specially recommended by Sir Charles Hallé for concert work." Terms, Press notices, &c., Grosvenor Square, Stalybridge, near Manchester.

MR. GORDON HELLER.—"A powerful and high baritone. Many of his songs were well sung."—The Times. "Sings with taste and judgment."—The Morning. "Voice of musical quality and considerable power."—The Standard. "Good voice, which he knows how to employ."—Morning Post. "Sang with much artistic feeling and intelligence."—Truth. For Oratorios, &c., address, care of N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London, W.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass, Conductor, Italian Church, Hatton Garden) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Opera, or Concerts be addressed, 45, Pentonville Road, N.

MISS GRACE M. SMITH, L.R.A.M. and Gold Medalist, L.A.M., accepts ENGAGEMENTS for Concerts as Solo Pianist and Accompanist. Killiney, Sidcup.

MISS LUCY A. BISS, cert. R.A.M., Pianist and Pianoforte Accompanist (Vocal or Instrumental), for At Homes and Concerts. 12, Thurlow Hill, West Dulwich, S.E.

DR. ROLAND ROGERS, Bangor, Adjudicator. Immediate Engagements: Abergavenny, Abertillery, Llanidloes, Porth (two days), Newcastle Emlyn, Llandudno (National Eisteddfod), &c.

MISS ADA LOARING
(SOPRANO)
New address, Merrion, Wellington Road, Peckham, S.E.

MADAME LAURA SMART
(SOPRANO)
Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Ballad Concerts.
Address, 106, Bolingbroke Grove, Wandsworth Common, S.W.; or, 50, Church Street, Liverpool.

MADAME MARIE HOOTON
AND MR.
EDWARD BRANSCOMBE
Beg to announce that they will return from Australia by the end of September, and are at liberty to accept Engagements for London and Provinces from October 1 onwards.
Please address, care of H. F. Salmon, Esq., The Woodlands, Etherow Street, East Dulwich, S.E.; or, Messrs. Healey and Son, 17, Great Marlborough Street, W.

MR. CHARLES CHILLEY

Begs to announce that he has REMOVED to 38, Carson Road, West Dulwich, S.E.

MR.

HAMLYN CRIMP

(TENOR)

For terms and vacant dates, please apply, The Woodlands, Heathfield Road, Birmingham.
Concert Parties arranged.

Communications for

MR. DOUGLAS POWELL

until his return in September from Australian tour, may be addressed 44, Dafforne Road, Upper Tooting, S.W.; or principal Agents.

MR.

A. MONTAGUE BORWELL

L.R.A.M., G.S.M. (BARITONE).

Prize-winner, Solo Singing and Sight Reading, Stratford Musical Festival.
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. 16, Springfield, Upper Clapton, N.E.

MISS ALICE MARY SMITH

(Mrs. Alfred Dymes),
Associate of the Royal College of Music,
HARPIST,
16, Lancaster Road, W.

HERR M. RICHTER

(SOLO CELLIST)

Several years Pupil of Prof. Klengel (Leipzig Conservatorium), is prepared to accept an ENGAGEMENT as TEACHER in MUSIC INSTITUTE.

Also open for Concerts, At Homes, &c. Best references from Prof. Klengel and other leading musicians.
Finest German criticisms.
Is conversant with the English language.
Address, Rudolf Mosse, Annoncen Expedition, Halle a. d. Saale, Germany.

MR.

BLAXLAND'S SOLO BOYS

HIGHLY TRAINED. THOROUGHLY RELIABLE.

For Church Festivals, Concerts, Banquets, &c., are prepared with the principal Oratorios and Standard Works, Ballads, &c.
A Chorus of Fifty Boys available week-days.
Also the noted Soprano Solo Boy (pupil of Mr. Blaxland), Master

STERNDALE BENNETT

(Chester and Leeds Festivals, 1894, Queen's Hall, &c.).

Highly recommended by SIR JOHN STAINER, M.A., Mus. Doc., Oxon.; C. H. H. PARRY, Mus. Doc., Oxon. et Cantab.; JOSEPH BRIDGE, M.A., Mus. Doc., &c., and many other leading Musicians.

MASTER BENNETT is exceptionally gifted (he can sing a shake with ease) and has an extensive répertoire.
Mr. BLAXLAND recommends as a novelty for Concerts, Banquets, &c., his

"BOYS' TRIO,"

whose répertoire consists of Trios, Duets, and Solos.
For terms, &c., address, Mr. BLAXLAND, 15, Tavistock Crescent, Westbourne Park, W.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) supplies Solo Boys, carefully and individually trained by himself, for Church Festivals, Organ Recitals, At Homes, Concerts, &c.

MR. DUTTON has received a very large number of Testimonials from all parts of England testifying to the excellence of their singing.

For vacant dates, terms, and further particulars, address—
Mr. HENRY J. DUTTON, 19, Alpha Road, New Cross, S.E.

SOLO BOYS.

LONDON TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CHORISTERS.

President: Mr. RANDEGGER.
Principal: Mr. JAMES BATES.

Solo Boys available for Church Festivals, At Homes, Concerts, &c. Boys trained for Cathedral Scholarships. Address, Mr. G. E. Jeffries, Secretary, Church House, Porchester Terrace, Hyde Park, W.

THE COWARD-KEMPTON QUARTET.

ALTO: Mr. PERCY COWARD; TENOR: Mr. ARTHUR COWARD; BARITONE: Mr. RANDULPH COWARD; BASS: Mr. BELL KEMPTON.

For Concerts, &c. Terms on application to Arthur Coward (care of Metzler and Co., Ltd.), Great Marlborough Street, W.

MR. JOSEF CANTOR'S

"GEMS OF THE OPERAS"

CONCERT COMPANY.

All communications, Church Street, Liverpool.

Telegrams—"Cantor, Liverpool."

W. NORMAN NERUDA & CO.,

CONCERT AGENTS,

10, VIGO STREET,
LONDON, W.

Agents for all the principal Artists in Europe.

SOLE AGENTS
FOR LADY HALLÉ

AND

MR. LEONARD BORWICK.

THE CONCERT AGENCY, LIMITED,

65, REGENT STREET, LONDON, W.

Telegraphic Address—"SONGCRAFT, LONDON."

The Concert Agency, Ltd., undertake the management of Concerts, Booking of Tours, and supply Artists for Oratorio, Operatic, and Miscellaneous Concerts, At Homes, and other Social Receptions, &c.

AUTUMN TOURS:—

THE BANDS OF H.M. FIRST AND SECOND LIFE GUARDS.

M. JULES RIVIÈRE'S GRAND ORCHESTRA.

THE ENGLISH OPERA SINGERS.

Miss EDITH SERPELL. | Miss BLANCHE MURRAY.
Mr. WILLIAM BIRTLEY. | Mr. W. H. WEBB.

Original Musical Sketches: Mr. FREDERIC DALE.

All communications respecting dates, &c., for the above parties to be addressed to Mr. CECIL BARTH, Managing Director.

ROYAL WINDSOR GLEE SINGERS

(Of St. George's Chapel Royal and Eton College Chapel).

For Concerts, Garden Parties, &c. Terms on application to D. Humphreys, 19, The Cloisters, Windsor.

GUILD OF CHURCH MUSICIANS

(CHURCH CHOIR GUILD),
Founded 1888.

35, WELLINGTON STREET, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.

President: The Very Rev. FRANCIS PIGOU, D.D., Dean of Bristol.
Warden and Licensed Lay Chaplain: J. H. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.
Sub-Warden: F. J. KARN, Mus. Doc., F.G.C.M.

MUSICAL PATRONS:

Frederic H. Cowen, Esq.; George Riseley, Esq., R.A.M.; W. H. Longhurst, Esq., Mus. Doc., F.R.C.O.; Berthold Tours, Esq.; Edwin M. Lott, Esq., Mus. Doc., F.R.C.O.; G. Robertson Sinclair, Esq.; H. E. Ford, Esq., Mus. Doc.; J. M. W. Young, Esq.; Arthur Henry Brown, Esq.; Alfred J. Caldicott, Esq., Mus. Doc.; William Spark, Esq., Mus. Doc., F.R.C.O., &c.

Lecture.—June 4, at 5 p.m., "Sight-Singing Simplified," by John Taylor, Esq.

A.G.C.M. and F.G.C.M. Diploma Examinations, July 8 and 9, 1896. Names should be sent in not later than June 20.

Two French Lydall Exhibitions for Organ Accompaniment, each of the value of £5. Examination, July 9, 1896.

Annual Membership or Choir Enrolment, 10s. 6d. Life, £5 5s.
Calendar (7th edition), revised, now ready, 1s., post-free.
Set of last Examination Papers, 1s., post-free.
Representatives required in England and abroad.
Free Register for Organists requiring appointments.
For further particulars, apply to the Warden for a prospectus.

By Order of the Council.

THE VIRGIL CLAVIER PIANOFORTE METHOD. — Mr. STIEBLER COOK, A.R.A.M., gives LESSONS on the above system (recommended by Paderewski, Von Bülow, De Pachmann). By far the most rapid and certain means yet devised for acquiring a perfect technique. For particulars, address, 17, Keppel St., Russell Sq., W.C.; or, Secretary, Metropolitan College of Music, 415, Holloway Road, N., where Mr. Cook also receives Pupils.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Instituted by the Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.
Incorporated, 1891.

Patrons:
The Rt. Hon. THE MARQUIS OF LORNE, K.T.
The Rt. Hon. THE EARL OF DARTMOUTH.
Director:
J. H. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.
Registrar:
GEORGE PRIOR, Mus. Doc., Oxon.
Bursar:
W. F. W. JACKSON, Mus. Bac., Oxon.

Local and Higher (Practical) Examinations are now being held at various Local Centres.

METROPOLITAN EXAMINATION, in all Subjects, and for all Grades, including the Diplomas of Associate (A.V.C.M.), Associate in Music (A.Mus.V.C.M.), Licentiate (L.V.C.M.), and Licentiate in Music (L.Mus.V.C.M.) will be held on July 16, 1896.

Next Local Theoretical Examination at all Local Centres, July 15, 1896.

The Educational Department is under the direction of Dr. Prior.

Local Secretaries required for towns not already represented.

Full particulars on application.

GEO. A. STANTON, F.G.C.M., Secretary.

Central Office: 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

THE
WEST LONDON CONSERVATOIRE OF MUSIC.

75, THE GROVE, HAMMERSMITH, W.

Patrons: Sir LIONEL DARELL, Bart., C. J. MONK, M.P., F. H. COWEN, C. LEE WILLIAMS, HUGH BLAIR, and G. ROBERTSON SINCLAIR, Esqrs., Mrs. ELLICOTT, and Mrs. S. E. PHILLIPS.
Visitor: Sir ARTHUR SULLIVAN.
President: Miss HILDA WILSON.
Vice-President: WATKIN MILLS, Esq.

Professors: Mrs. Mary Davies, Mrs. Hutchinson, Madame Frickenhaus, Madame Annie Marriott, Misses Margaret Hoare and Agnes Wilson, Messrs. Johannes Wolff, W. H. Brereton, Bantock Pierpoint, Charles Fry, Franklin Clive, C. A. Connock, Wilfrid Bendall, W. H. Eayres, R. B. Addison, Septimus Webbe, Ernest Kiver, W. C. Hann, W. Stroud Wilson, Bernhard Carrodus, G. R. Betjemann, E. A. Carrodus, and others.

Directors of Studies: Miss Agnes Wilson and W. Stroud Wilson, Esq.

For further particulars, address Secretary.

FROM BRAIN TO KEYBOARD.

MACDONALD SMITH'S SYSTEM
FOR
TOUCH AND TECHNIQUE.

As acquired and in daily use by Professionals and Amateurs in all parts of the United Kingdom, in the United States, Canada, Australia, South Africa, &c.

"It is clear that Mr. Macdonald Smith has studied the subject carefully, and acts upon well-ascertained scientific grounds."—Daily Telegraph.

"The great, the supreme merit of Mr. Smith's system consists in the fact that it involves the total abolition and disestablishment of all that terrible scale practising and five-finger exercising."—Westminster Gazette, November 20, 1895.

"We make no comparisons, but say simply, from personal experience, that Mr. Smith's system of training does all that he claims for it. . . . The interest it immediately excited, and still sustains, bears witness to the value of Mr. Smith's researches in the science of physiology for the benefit of musicians."—Musical News.

COMPLETE COURSE OF SIX LESSONS
By Correspondence, £3 3s. Form on application.

Terms and conditions for Personal Lessons (Concert Players only) on application.

Lecture at Musical Association, Trinity College, &c. Post-free, Seven Stamps.

ENLARGED PROSPECTUS, POST-FREE.

MACDONALD SMITH, STEINWAY HALL,
Lower Seymour Street, London W.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. New House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who OBTAINED DEGREES OF MUS.D. AND MUS.B. at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, and Durham (1896) Universities, Diplomas of L.R.A.M. (1896, &c.), A.Mus. L.C.M., L.Mus. L.C.M., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O. (1895); Appointments at College and School of Music, and as Chapel Royal, Cathedral, and Parish Church Organists; Gold Medals, Prizes, "Honours" and Pass Certificates (of the Colleges of Music) to the number of 500. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Piano. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS. Dr. Horton Allison, Mus.D. 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or at 84, New Bond Street, W. Schools attended. Address, Willersley House, Old Charlton.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.Mus., T.C.L., prepares CANDIDATES for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; L.Mus. T.C.L., gives LESSONS Personally or by post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: A.R.C.M., 1896; Oxford, Mus. Bac., 1896, and First Exam., May, 1896; MUS. BAC., DURHAM, 1895, also 1894, 1893, 1892, and 1891; and FIRST EXAM., 1895, also 1894, 1893, 1892, 1891, and 1890; F.R.C.O. and A.R.C.O., 1896; L.R.A.M. (Pianoforte), 1895; CAMBRIDGE, MUS. BAC.; LONDON, MUS. BAC.; DUBLIN, MUS. BAC.; L.R.A.M.(Composition); Mus. Bac. and Mus. Doc., Toronto, Gold Medalists, 1890, 1892, and 1893; L.Mus., L.C.M.; L.Mus., T.C.L., and A.T.C.L., 1895; Senior Local R.A.M. and R.C.M. Special and individual attention given to Correspondents. Upwards of 350 Diplomas and Degrees and several Gold and Silver Medals gained by pupils. MSS. corrected and revised for publication. Terms moderate. Address, 70, Park Road, Haverstock Hill, London, N.W.

"VOICE PRODUCTION, STYLE, AND ARTISTIC SINGING."
MR. F. ST. JOHN LACY,
A.R.A.M., &c.,
Receives Pupils at his residence, Albany Chambers, York Street, Queen Anne's Gate (St. James's Park Station); or, at New Bond St.

TRAINING OF TENORS.—DAVIDSON PALMER'S METHOD.—This method is of the utmost importance to Tenors. See Mr. Palmer's Pamphlet, "The Training of Men's Voices," revealing the secret of Voice Production. Price 6d., post-free, from the Author. Lessons given at Mr. Davidson Palmer's residence, and at 60, Berners Street, W. For terms, &c., address, 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N.

MR. W. E. PITMAN, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., teaches HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT, personally or by correspondence, and coaches for the Universities, Royal College of Organists, and other Musical Exams. Thorough grounding in the various subjects. For terms, address, W. E. Pitman, Waverley Hotel, London Bridge, S.E.

MR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., Lecturer on Harmony in King's College, Lond., Organist and Choirmaster, St. Stephen's, South Kensington. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS. HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., personally or by correspondence. Preparation for University, R.C.O., and other examinations. Classes. 54, Baron's Court Road, West Kensington, W.

MR. J. HARRAWAY SLAPE visits and receives PUPILS for ORGAN, PIANOFORTE, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Preparation for all Musical Exams. Recent successes, A.T.C.L., Certificated Pianist, Trinity College, 1895. Special facilities to Organ Students. Practice on 2 and 3-Manual Instruments. Terms moderate. 22, Camden Road, N.W.

MR. BRUCE STEANE prepares rapidly and systematically for MUSICAL EXAMS. in all subjects, personally or by post. Many past successes. Address, Greystone, Granville Road, Sevenoaks.

MR. R. STOKOE, Mus. Bac., Cantab., F.R.C.O., gives ORGAN LESSONS at Christ Church, Down Street, Piccadilly. Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., taught personally or by post. 86, Rossiter Road, Balham, S.W.

DR. TAYLOR, Mus.D., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.T.C.L. (Author of "Vocal Score Reading Exercises" and "Figured Bass and Melody Exercises," for R.C.O. Students), prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Address, Wolverhampton Road, Stafford.

DR. THOMAS (Mus. Doc., Oxon.; Org. and C.M., St. Clement's; Conductor, Phil. Soc.) desires additional RESIDENT PUPILS. The whole routine of the Profession taught; Univ. degree; all exams. "Carlyle," Boscombe, Bournemouth.

MR. A. W. TOMLYN, Mus.B., Dunelm, L.T.C.L., Berwick-on-Tweed, COACHES CANDIDATES for University and all other Exams. by post. Every possible attention and assistance guaranteed. Many past successes.

MR. W. H. TUTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, ACOUSTICS, &c., by Correspondence. Ashburn, Derbyshire.

DR. J. WARRINER, Examiner, Professor, and Licentiate, T.C.L., Organist of St. Matthew's, Denmark Hill, can receive RESIDENT PROFESSIONAL PUPIL. Nominal terms to talented and well educated student, who can assist. De Crespigny Lodge, Denmark Hill, S.E.

MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS REVISED. HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT taught by Correspondence. W. Wolstenholme, Mus. Bac., Oxon., 86, Oswald Street, Blackburn.

TO MUSICAL COMPOSERS.—The Society of Authors is established for the MAINTENANCE and DEFENCE of LITERARY and MUSICAL PROPERTY. It advises Members on the Methods of Publishing, on the forms of their Agreements, and, when necessary, on the estimated cost of production. It investigates all questions of dispute connected with the above subjects and the Law of Copyright. Annual Subscription, £1 1s. Terms of Membership may be had from the Secretary,

G. HERBERT THRING,
4, Portugal Street,
Lincoln's Inn Fields, W.C.

A MUS. BAC. of Cambridge, and Fellow of the Royal College of Organists, undertakes MUSICAL WORK of all kinds. Songs and instrumental works transposed, music arranged for small or large orchestra, melodies harmonised, accompaniments arranged, compositions revised, and advice given when needed. Harmony and Counterpoint lessons by correspondence. Apply, A. Z. T., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

LICHFIELD CATHEDRAL. — SOLO BOY WANTED, at Midsummer. Boys under twelve can send references to character and musical ability, before June 15, to the Rev. the Succentor, The Close, Lichfield.

OXFORD, NEW COLLEGE.—CHORISTERS WANTED. Trial of Boys' voices on Wednesday, July 1. Apply to the Precentor.

JESUS COLLEGE, Cambridge.—THREE CHORAL EXHIBITIONS, each of the annual value of £30, will be offered for COMPETITION, on Thursday, June 18, 1896. For particulars, apply to the Senior Tutor or to the Rev. the Dean.

ALTO WANTED, for Christ Church, Down Street, Piccadilly. £15 per annum. Easy duties. Apply to Mr. R. Stokoe, at the Church, Wednesday, June 3, at 8 p.m.

TENOR WANTED. Stipend, £17 to commence. Two Sunday services and rehearsal, Friday, at 8. Apply to Choirmaster, by letter, 9, Warwick Gardens, Kensington.

ROCHESTER CATHEDRAL.—LAY CLERK (Bass) WANTED (not Baritone). Stipend, £80. Apply to the Precentor, Rochester.

SOPRANO (Med., R.A.M., 1st-cl. Cert., Sc. Arts) will give SERVICES, in Oratorios, Concerts, or At Homes, for expenses. C. H., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

SOPRANO (trained Singer) will give her SERVICES as SOLOIST in Churches, Chapels, or elsewhere. L. 134, Shelley's, 38, Gracechurch Street, E.C.

SOLO TENOR, engaged Sunday mornings, would entertain Sunday Afternoon or Evening APPOINTMENT. Address, Solo, care of Mr. Cecil Barth, 65, Regent Street, W.

WANTED, YOUNG ARTISTS, willing to Assist a first-rate London Party at a Provincial Concert in November next for expenses. Apply, by letter, to B. George and Co. only, Tottenham Court Road.

CITY OF LIVERPOOL.

The Right Honourable FREDERICK ARTHUR, EARL OF DERBY, G.C.B., LORD MAYOR.

CITY ORGANIST.

The Council of the CITY OF LIVERPOOL require the services of an Organist for the great Organ at St. George's Hall.

Salary, £300 per annum, subject to a deduction of £3 per cent. per annum to the Corporation Superannuation Fund, and to a condition that the Candidate appointed will effect an insurance on his life (if not already insured) to an amount equal to 2 per cent. of his salary.

Particulars of duties and conditions of appointment may be obtained on application to the Town Clerk.

Applications, stating age, qualifications, and previous engagements, accompanied by copies of not more than six testimonials, endorsed "Organist," must be sent to the Town Clerk not later than 10 o'clock on the 13th day of July, 1896.

The Committee recommending a Candidate to the Council for appointment will be assisted by three musicians of eminence.

By Order,
HARCOURT E. CLARE, Town Clerk.

Municipal Offices, Liverpool.

NOTTINGHAM SACRED HARMONIC SOCIETY.—The Committee desire to engage the services of a first-class CONDUCTOR and CHORUS-MASTER for this Society. Applications for the post must be sent in on or before June 10, to the Secretary, Mr. Frank W. Bedells, Belgrave Chambers, Goldsmith Street, Nottingham.

ORGANIST.—W. V. BYFORD accepts ENGAGEMENTS for Vacation Duties. Address, The Lindens, Muswell Hill, London, N.

ORGANIST.—MR. F. J. MARCHMENT (Organist, Finsbury Choral Association, late of St. Andrew's, Thornhill Sq.) takes Vacation Duties, Special Services, or occasional Sunday work. Address, Wingfield, Hamlet Rd., Upper Norwood, S.E

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (Welsh Cathedral training) seeks APPOINTMENT. Country Church. Highest references and experience. D., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST.—PERCY H. FELL (late of St. Mark's, South Norwood) takes Vacation Duties, &c. Address, 1, Farquhar Road, Upper Norwood, S.E.

VACATION DUTIES.—Mr. CHAS. J. LEE, F.R.C.O., Organist and Choirmaster, is open to DEPUTISE, or Permanent Post. 14, Clarence Road, Kilburn, N.W.

AS DEPUTY-ORGANIST during August. Mr. Forbes Carter, Organist, Parish Church, Great Grimsby, will act as above in return for rooms or house.

SUMMER HOLIDAYS.—ORGANIST DISENGAGED during August. Choral Celebrations (Anglican or Gregorian). F. Just, St. George's School, Harpenden.

ORGANIST seeks POST, Country or Suburbs. Services Free. Will deputise for Holidays. F. C. H., 83, Wyndham Road, Camberwell, S.E.

EXPERIENCED young ORGANIST (21) will give services in return for Salary or Tuition for A.R.C.O. Communicant. Choral Celebration. Organo, Novello & Co., Queen St., E.C.

WANTED, for town and country work, a thoroughly good TUNER of Pianos and American Organs. Must be competent, steady, and reliable. Apply, stating salary required, if married, references, &c., to C. N., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER WANTED. Thoroughly experienced practical man, gentlemanly address. Must be an efficient tuner of both Pianos and Organs. Good salesman. Send full particulars, C.D.V., to Concert Pitch, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

WANTED, thoroughly efficient TUNER and REGULATOR. State age, if married, salary required; send photo and full references. Permanent berth. Reply, Old Established, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER, steady and experienced, seeks ENGAGEMENT. Can undertake American Organs and Harmoniums. Tuner P. G., Novello and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

WANTED, for a Publishing House in London, a MUSICAL EDITOR, to collect, examine, and advise upon suitable Music for Sunday Schools and Young People's Gatherings, and to superintend the publication of the same. Applications, with testimonials and terms, to be sent to W. F. A., care of Wilkes's Advertising Offices, 29, Ludgate Hill, E.C.

MANAGER. — MR. J. HOLLINGWORTH, Manager for Lees and Whatmough, Piano Dealers, of Oldham (who are retiring), seeks SITUATION. Eleven years' experience. Excellent references. 58, Norfolk Street, Werneth, Oldham.

GENTLEMAN requires RE-APPOINTMENT as MANAGER in First-class House or Branch Establishment (City or Provinces). Highest qualifications. First-class credentials. Vivace, 102, Ivydale Road, Nunhead, London, S.E.

WANTED, Gentlemanly YOUTH, for a high-class Music Business in East Kent, to learn Sheet Music trade, Tuning and Repairing, &c. Address, City, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, SITUATION by a Young Lady in Music Warehouse. Ten years' experience. Devon preferred. Apply, A., Westley's Library, Torquay.

YOUNG MAN (22), good address, education, and character, wishes ENGAGEMENT as SALESMAN in a Pianoforte and Music Warehouse. Three years' experience in the largest Pianoforte and Music Warehouse in the North of England. J. U. R., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGAN PRACTICE (City), 1s. per hour. Three manuals, C.O. pedals. Willis (from Minories), 1, Aldgate Avenue, E

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals; independent pedals. Terms, One Shilling per hour. Specification post-free. Blennerhasset's Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, King's Cross, W.C.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. One Shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN, blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depôt, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

ORGANS for SALE (Second-hand) or HIRE.

1. Two-manual, 17 stops. Full compass. Pine case, with front pipes of zinc. Depth, 6 ft.; width, 9 ft. 6 in. By FLIGHT and ROBSON. £100.
2. Two-manual, 19 stops. Full compass Three composition pedals. Mechanism good. Stops re-voiced. Pine case, zinc front pipes, in good condition. Width, 9 ft. 5 in.; depth, ditto; height, about 15 ft.
3. Two-manual, 19 stops. Full compass. Four composition pedals. Great organ entirely new; also pipes.
4. Two-manual, 27 stops; space for third manual. Keys already in position. Six composition pedals, chiefly by WILLIS. Width, 11 ft. 6 in.; depth, 13 ft. 6 in.; height, 18 ft.; equal to new.
5. Two-manual, 21 stops, 6 composition pedals. Almost new. Sound-boards by HILL. Casework and front pipes decorated.
6. Three-manual, 27 stops, 5 composition pedals. College of Organists' pedal board. Built by WALKER. Spotted metal pipes. In perfect order. Price £400.
7. One-manual, 8 stops. Sweet tone. Oak case, decorated front pipes. Price £65.
8. Two-manual, 21 stops. Built by TELFORD, Dublin. In handsome Gothic case, full compass, in first-rate order. £200.

The above and others are offered for immediate Sale or Hire, and can be seen and tried by appointment. Full particulars can be had upon application to Norman Bros. and Beard, 46, Queen Victoria Street, London; and Norwich.

ORGANS for SALE or HIRE Two new 2-manual Organs, 30 stops and 21 stops; one nearly new 3-manual Organ, 24 stops; three second-hand 2-manual Organs, 22 stops, 14 stops, and 8 stops; two 1-manual Organs. Organs built to any specification and constructed on the most improved principles of high-class work at low prices. Tuners sent to all parts of the Kingdom. Estimates, specifications, and price list sent free. A. Monk's Organ Works, 550A, Holloway Road, London, N.

AMERICAN ORGAN, 8½ guineas. 11 stops, including the two knee-stops, and the beautiful solo stops vox celeste and vox humana, two octave couplers. Handsome high case. Ten years' warranty. Easy terms. Packing and carriage free. T. D'Almaine and Co. (Established from 110 to 111 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, E.C. Open till 7; Saturdays, 3.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand) for SALE, from £20, with pedals. Instruments for Church, Chapel, and College, built on the most modern principles, at Bedwell and Sons, Cambridge Organ Works, Cambridge.

ORGAN for SALE. Two manuals and pedals; 18 stops. Price £150. Full particulars post-free. W. White, Grantham.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand), excellent for Church or Chapel, two manuals, modern compass and appliances, having 9, 12, 17 stops. W. E. Richardson and Sons, Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

ORGAN for SALE. Two manuals, 13 stops, Bourdons, and pedals. Organs tuned and repaired. R. Cope, Jardin Street, Camberwell, S.E.

CHURCH ORGAN for SALE (Second-hand), two-manual, by THOS. J. ROBSON, in handsome mahogany case. Great, 11 stops; swell, 8 stops; pedal, open diapason, CCC to F; three couplers; two compositions to Great, two to Swell. Can be seen at Boosey and Co.'s, 295, Regent Street, W.

CHAMBER ORGAN, nearly new. Two manuals and pedals, 12 stops. Good tone. Apply, Holdich and Ingram, 361, Liverpool Road, London, N.

ORGANISTS and CLERGYMEN are invited to inspect a fine ORGAN before it leaves Mr. Eustace Ingram's Organ Works, 361, Liverpool Road, London, N. The Organ is blown by Mr. F. W. Durham, Junior's, Patent Hydro-gas Organ Blowing system.

FOR SALE.—RUMMENS' ORGAN PEDAL ATTACHMENT for PIANO, with Stool. Detachable, concave, straight. CCC to F, almost new. Harker, 149, Alexandra Road, Manchester.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easy to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus, with full description and price lists, on application to Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

FOR SALE.—PEDALIER (PLEYEL WOLFF). Full compass, CCC to F, 30 notes; oblique strings. Dimensions: 12 inches high, 4 ft. 7 in. wide, 4 ft. 11 in. long. Can be used with either a cottage piano or a grand. Apply, Miss Margaret Corser, The Hyde, Ingatestone, Essex.

PIANO, 12½ guineas. Solid iron frame, trichord, full compass, celeste action, in handsome walnut case. Ten years' warranty. Easy terms; approval; carriage free. D'Almaine (Established from 110 to 111 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, City. Open till 7; Saturdays, 3.

VIOLIN STRINGS.—Send 9d. for samples of four best "E" Strings. Alphonse Cary, 3, Oxford Circus Avenue, London, W.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights, Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

MUSIC BUSINESS for SALE, carried on in the name of M. E. Stoakley, 6, Bridge Street, Cambridge. Offers from the Trade are open for the whole or part of the Stock, which consists principally of high-class sheet and book music. Address, M. E. Stoakley, as above; or, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, to PURCHASE, a genuine MUSICAL BUSINESS, Pianoforte and Music Publishing or Concert Agent's. Must be in good central position (London). Address, Music, Willings' Advertisement Offices, 162, Piccadilly, W.

SOUND improving MUSIC BUSINESS. Good corner shop, main thoroughfare, leading suburb, Birmingham. Stock and business about £450, or valuation. Full particulars, 83, Stratford Road, Birmingham.

WANTED, to PURCHASE a TUNING CONNECTION. West of England preferred. H. L., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

T. R. WILLIS (from Minories, est. 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Strings, Wire, Violins, Concertinas, &c. 1, Aldgate Avenue, E.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, and PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.
London: B. WILLIAMS, 19, Ivy Lane, Paternoster Row, E.C.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications, Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. R. Willis (from Minories), 1, Aldgate Avenue, London, E.

HYDRAULIC ENGINES for Organ Blowing. Blennerhasset's Patent "Perfect" Prize Medal Engines are the best. 1B, Vernon Street, King's Cross Road, London, W.C.

CASSOCKS.—500 new Tailor-made, Black, Red, Violet, Blue, 9s. to 20s.; SURPLICES, from 3s. to 12s. "Surplice," The Church Agency, Limited, Lombard House, E.C.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,
Organ Builders,
SPRINGWOOD WORKS,
HUDDERSFIELD.
TWO GOLD MEDALS.

Awarded Medal of Honour at the International Inventions Exhibition, London, 1885.

THE ONLY AWARD.

RUMMENS'
Organ Pedal Attachment
FOR PIANOFORTES.

DETACHABLE PEDAL BOARD.
EQUAL TO ORGAN PRACTICE.

Testimonials from all the Chief Organists of the day.
Write for particulars to
H. J. RUMMENS,
47, CHURCH ROAD, BRIXTON, S.W.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,

ORGAN BUILDERS,

PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.

(ESTABLISHED 1841.)

Specifications and Estimates sent free.

THE

BRISTOL TUNE BOOK

COMPLETE EDITION, 1891,

CONTAINING

905 TUNES AND CHANTS.

A COMPANION TO ALL HYMN BOOKS.

		s.	d.
No. 17.	Limp Cloth	5	0
„ 18.	Cloth Boards, red edges	6	0
„ 19.	Small Edition	3	6
„ 20.	Tonic Sol-fa	3	6

Communications and enquiries as to copyright, and also as to supplying at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Bristol Publishers.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Bristol: W. and F. MORGAN, Clare Street.

And all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE BOOK, with the additional Tunes as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW TUNES (eight) for SUNDAY SCHOOL ANNIVERSARIES and FLOWER SERVICES, by Dr. HILES, Dr. ROGERS, CALEB SIMPER. Music, 7s. per 100; words, 2s. Special title-page, free for quantities. Send stamp for sample to Sunday School Union, 1, Piccadilly, Manchester.

Third Thousand.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in G. By ALFRED J. DYE. Price 4d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TE DEUM in D. By LEWIS BEARNE. Price Threepence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Fourth Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat, by WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

ARTHUR CARNALL.

No. 1.	Chant Te Deum in A. 3rd thousand		4d.
„ 2.	Magnificat, &c., in F. 2nd thousand		4d.
„ 3.	Vesper Hymn on a Card		1d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

N.B.—Sample copies, free, from A. CARNALL, Penge, S.E.

MAUNDER'S CHURCH MUSIC.—Used in all parts of the United Kingdom and the Colonies.

Specimens free, on application to J. H. MAUNDER, San Remo, Bromley, Kent. (State requirements.)

OFFERTORY SENTENCES. Complete, 4d.

Specially arranged for Church Choirs. By C. G. CLAPHAM.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Creation." 1s. each book.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

EDWYN A. CLARE'S POPULAR ANTHEMS, &c.

PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. 15th 1,000	3d.
THE LORD REIGNETH. 5th 1,000 (Sol-fa, 2d.)	3d.
FAVOURITE MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in D. 8th 1,000..	4d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now Ready. On the 1st of each Month. 228 Cols. 2d.; Post-free, 3½d.

MUSICAL OPINION and MUSIC TRADE REVIEW. 150, Holborn Bars, E.C.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D., CANTAB.

SERVICES.

Two Settings of the Venite (in Chant Form). No. 1 (in G), No. 2 (in A)	2d.
Te Deum in E	3d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E	3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E	3d.
Cantate and Deus in E	3d.
Communion Service	9d.
Preces and Responses	4d.
Tonic Sol-fa.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F	1½d.
„ „ „ A	1½d.
„ „ „ E	1½d.

ANTHEMS.

"O clap your hands." Festival Anthem	4d.
„ „ Tonic Sol-fa	2d.
EASTER ANTHEM—"If we believe"	4d.
„ „ Do. Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.

TWO NEW SONGS.—Just Published.

"Market Day" (Mezzo-Soprano) .. .. net	2s.
"A toi, Marie" (Mezzo-Soprano) .. .. „	2s.

SONG—"By the wayside" (Soprano), with Violin Obbligato and Organ or Harmonium .. .. net	2s.
"The Last Prayer" (Contralto) .. .. .. „	2s.

ORGAN.

Twelve Short Easy Pieces .. .. net	2s. 0d.
Three Short Andantes .. .. „	2s. 0d.
Minuetto .. .. „	1s. 6d.
Ave Maria .. .. „	1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW MUSIC. By CALEB SIMPER.

*HIS NAME IS EXCELLENT. New. 4th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
An easy Anthem, with a pretty duet and vigorous choruses. Full of variety and sure to please.

*TRUST IN HIM ALWAYS. New. 4th 1,000 .. .. .. 4d.
Attractive and effective. Soft and loud choruses of an interesting nature, with charming and expressive solo.

*LET GOD ARISE. 6th 1,000.. .. .. 3d.
A favourite and pleasing Anthem.

*THEY SHALL MOUNT UP. 11th 1,000.. .. .. .. 4d.
Sung at two Choral Festivals. "Just the kind of music choirs revel in."—West Cumberland Times.

*BREAK FORTH INTO JOY. 16th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Sung at Choral Festivals in Downpatrick Cathedral and Begelly.

GIVE GLORY UNTO THE LORD. 19th Edition .. .. .. 3d.

*I WILL FEED MY FLOCK. 36th 1,000 .. .. 4d.

O HOW AMIABLE. 5th 1,000 .. .. 3d.

FLOWER SERVICES, &c.

No. 1	FLOWER SERVICE. Six pieces	2d.
	Words only, 3s. 6d. per 100. 31st 1,000.
No. 2	*ANNIVERSARY SELECTION. Seven pieces	2d.
	Words only, 3s. 6d. per 100. 20th 1,000.
No. 3	NEW FLOWER SERVICE. Six pieces	2d.
	Words only, 3s. 6d. per 100. Just published.

OPINIONS:—"Exceedingly attractive"—"Charming melodies"—"Most melodious and pleasing"—"Much valued"—"Gems of melody"—"Beautiful compositions"—"Were a great success," &c.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEMS AND CAROLS in the Press.

Those marked (*) are also published in Tonic Sol-fa.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.
Chicago, U.S.A.: CLAYTON F. SUMMY, 220, Wabash Avenue.

Suitable for Choir Festivals.

PRAISE THE LORD

ANTHEM

Composed, by request, for the Annual Festival in aid of the Burnley Victoria Hospital, 1896

BY

W. A. C. CRUICKSHANK,

Mus. Bac., Oxon.

Price Sixpence.

Full Score and Band Parts may be hired from the COMPOSER.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TO CONDUCTORS and CHOIRMASTERS.—In consequence of the Winding-up of the Peterborough Choral Society a large COLLECTION of GLEES, ORATORIOS, ORCHESTRAL and MISCELLANEOUS MUSIC is offered for SALE. Catalogues may be obtained from Messrs. Claypole and Son, Bridge Street, Peterborough.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON.

FOR MUSICAL EDUCATION AND EXAMINATION.—INST. 1872.

President:
SIR RICHARD E. WEBSTER, G.C.M.G., Q.C., M.P.

Warden:
PROFESSOR E. H. TURPIN, Mus.D.

Director of Examinations:
PROFESSOR JAMES HIGGS, Mus.B.

HIGHER EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

The LAST DAY OF ENTRY is JUNE 13 for the Forty-sixth Half-yearly HIGHER EXAMINATIONS, which will commence at the College on Monday, July 13, 1896, as under:—

1. For the Diplomas of Licentiate in Music (L.T.C.L.) and Associate in Music (A.T.C.L.).
2. For Special Certificates in separate Subjects, Practical Division (Pianoforte, Organ, Singing, &c.).
3. For Special Certificates in separate Subjects, Theoretical Division (Harmony, &c.).

Any or all of the following printed papers may be had on application to the undersigned:—(a) Regulations and list of music to be performed for the local examinations in Instrumental and Vocal Music, and regulations for the (Theoretical) Local Examinations in Musical Knowledge; (b) List of Local Centres; (c) Regulations for the Higher Examinations for Diplomas and Certificates and list of music to be performed for the Higher Certificates in Vocal and Instrumental Subjects; (d) Prospectus of the Classes and Lectures Department; (e) General Prospectus, containing list of honorary officers; (f) Regulations for the Enrolment of Institutions in Union; (g) Regulations for Membership.

By order of the Academical Board,
SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.
Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

JUST PUBLISHED.

FOUR STUDIES

FOR THE

PEDAL PIANOFORTE

(Op. 56, Nos. 2, 4, 5, and 6)

COMPOSED BY

ROBERT SCHUMANN.

ARRANGED FOR PIANOFORTE SOLO BY

CLARA SCHUMANN.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THREE SKETCHES

FOR THE

PEDAL PIANOFORTE

(Op. 58, Nos. 1, 3, and 4)

COMPOSED BY

ROBERT SCHUMANN.

ARRANGED FOR PIANOFORTE SOLO BY

CLARA SCHUMANN.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

John Broadwood & Sons

(ESTABLISHED 1732)

PIANOFORTE MAKERS

BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT TO

HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES
HER ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCESS OF WALES
HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH
(DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG AND GOTHA)

AND THE

REST OF THE ROYAL FAMILY.

John Broadwood & Sons

respectfully draw attention to, and invite inspection of, their newly introduced and improved

HORIZONTAL

AND

UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES.

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET (near Regent Street),
LONDON, W.

ESTABLISHED 1780.

ERARD ROYAL PIANOS

WITH NEW

RESONATOR.

PATENT 20764/94.

THE Musical Invention of the age.

NOTICE.

This patent, by its marvellous utility, has, as is usually the case, raised a storm of opposition from certain Pianoforte Manufacturers who are debarred from applying it to their instruments. Messrs. ERARD, therefore, will be happy to give those who desire to test this wonderful invention every facility to form their own judgment of its extraordinary merits, by proving it any day at their Establishment in

GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET.

Particulars and Prices sent Post-free on application.

With this Number is presented gratis an Extra Supplement, consisting of an Anthem for Harvest-tide, by Joseph Barnby, entitled, "Sing to the Lord"; and the Portrait of Mendelssohn from F. G. Edwards's "History of 'Elijah.'"

THE MUSICAL TIMES
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
JUNE 1, 1896.

CLARA JOSEPHINE SCHUMANN.

A GREAT artist of the good old school, and the worthy bearer of an illustrious name, passed from amongst us at Frankfort on the 20th ult. The world in general, and that of music in particular, is poorer for the loss of Madame Schumann, since, though she had some years ceased from the more active duties of her profession, her living influence remained; her spirit vitalised the artistic principles ever to be connected with her practice of the art, and even her bodily presence seemed to place us nearer the time, now well-nigh severed from us as regards personal links, when the great ones of music walked our earth. Madame Schumann, as a child, might have seen Beethoven and sported with that sweetest of all grown up children, Franz Schubert. With the immediate successors of those famous ones she was in personal contact and communion, and she lived through the "twilight of the gods" into the comparative night of our time. At length a deeper night has closed round her—nay, let us not say that. If, as most of us hope and believe, another state remains where there is no darkness at all, nor sorrow, nor sighing, nor separation of loving hearts, we need not speak gloomily of the change which has come upon Clara Schumann.

Artist and woman—we cannot fail to look back upon the deceased lady in each of these capacities. Ordinarily, we have nothing to do with the private relations of a completed life. That domain is, or should be, sacred from the intrusion of strangers, the precious and peculiar property of those who shared it with the departed. But Madame Schumann, even in privacy, could not escape our English poet's "fierce light," which beats impartially not alone upon titular royalties, but upon all who are sovereign in exalted fields of human labour. In her own person the artist could not escape that light, for she occupied and graced one of the thrones of her art. Equally did she stand in its effulgence as the wife of a king in music. There could be no concealment for one so situated, and the world has long known the story of her life—her maiden hopes and fears, her wifely devotion, which continued its touching manifestations through forty years of widowhood, and long period of anxiety and gathering gloom which preceded the removal of her illustrious mate. Through all this exposure the deceased lady passed unscathed, like some heaven-protected subject of the ordeal by fire. She surrounded herself with the respect due to honours meekly borne and with the veneration which is the right of one whose grey hairs are found in the way of righteousness.

It would little avail here to discuss Madame Schumann as an artist. The subject cannot be treated with any approach to worthiness within the limited space now available, and it should be remembered that not many years have passed since Madame Schumann was in the habit of coming amongst us. But while the earth is not yet green upon her grave, let us recall the great pianist's supreme devotion to the highest ideals; her uncompromising refusal to join in what Prince Albert, referring to Mendelssohn, called "the Baal-worship of debased art," and the unflagging energy with which, through long years, she championed her dead husband's music, knowing its inmost meaning and utmost value as none other could. May she rest in peace, and her grave be fragrant.

The following brief record of Madame Schumann's career must suffice for our present issue. Clara Josephine Schumann, née Wieck, was the daughter of the eminent pianoforte teacher, Frederick Wieck, and was born at Leipzig, September 13, 1819. Her musical training, begun at a very early age, under her father, was so thorough that when only nine she was able to make her début in public in her native town, on October 20, 1828. Two years later she played at the Gewandhaus for the first time, and in 1832 she was taken to Paris. On her return to Leipzig she played Moscheles's G minor Concerto at the Gewandhaus, and a month later joined Mendelssohn and Rakemann in a performance of Bach's Triple Concerto in D minor. At this period she met her future husband, Robert Schumann, a meeting to result in mingled joy and sorrow, and one which exercised a remarkable influence on her future career. In 1841 she played with Liszt, and in 1846 with Henselt. Her first appearance in London was in 1856, at the Philharmonic Society. She played at the Musical Union in 1859, and was again heard in London in 1865 and 1867; from this time she played almost annually at the Popular Concerts, her final appearance in London having taken place on March 26, 1888. In 1878 Madame Schumann accepted the post of principal teacher of the pianoforte at the Frankfort Conservatoire, founded by Dr. Hoch, and earned scarcely less renown in this capacity than as a performer. She composed several works of distinct merit, and edited the whole of her husband's compositions and a volume of his letters; but it is as a great exponent of the masterpieces of classic art that her name will be handed down to posterity.

"ELIJAH."*

This addition to Mendelssohn literature hardly needed an introducer, but Sir George Grove so agreeably discharges what to him is a familiar duty that even the critical reader perceives nothing of the superfluous, although Sir George, in the most pleasant manner possible, cuts the ground from under his own feet by anticipating the remark with which I have just set out. It is well to possess the brief introduction, if only for assurance that its writer remains staunch to a great memory and conspicuous achievement while sympathising, as we all know he does, with whatever is good in the creations of the passing hour. "It has been the fashion," declares the musical Sage of Sydenham, "to speak of him (Mendelssohn) slightingly, nay, injuriously; but this will pass, and he needs no defence—certainly not when 'Elijah' is in question." Sir George could have used no apter word than "fashion" preliminary to the statement, "this will pass." All fashions, being more or less due to caprice, are doomed to pass, and the nearer their relation to caprice, the sooner comes extinction. It does not appear, however, that mere fickleness and whim have had greatly to do with the anti-Mendelssohn feeling which has prevailed, to a limited extent, in this country. It can be traced, I believe, to the action of abiding forces. Mendelssohn died fifty years ago, and the present generation, knowing nothing of his personal fascination, or the great wave of enthusiasm which carried his music to the highest pitch of favour, follows customary procedure in such cases, and is disposed to belittle the hero of its immediate predecessor, by way, perhaps, of asserting its own superior taste. Hence a certain reaction, than which nothing is more common in the world of art and literature—I was about to add, nothing more inevitable. The generation following that which Sebastian Bach adorned almost forgot him, but, doubtless, some George Grove of the period philosophically remarked, "This will pass," and he was right. In no case is the eclipse of a great man more than an eclipse. The intervening shadow moves off the shining face of the luminary, and we rejoice again in its light and beauty.

But I must not be betrayed into associating the name of Mendelssohn with the idea of eclipse. The master's enemies have, at the worst, achieved nothing beyond the equivalent of sun-spots.

The book now under review comes opportunely, and derives interest from, as well as gives interest to, the jubilee year of the great oratorio whose history it lays before us. But the volume, though it may benefit by, in no degree depends upon adventitious circumstances. It would have been as welcome ten years ago as it is now. There is nothing of the pièce d'occasion about it, and those amateurs who are wise enough to place the book upon their shelves will possess a good, solid contribution to the literature of a work which will ever remain a burning and a shining light in the firmament of music. That fifty years passed before the history of "Elijah" was taken in hand shows what a busy world we live in. It must have been generally known, or reasonably surmised, that much material bearing upon the subject remained to reward industrious research, and it was too apparent that Mendelssohn's contemporaries were rapidly passing away, taking precious information with them. Yet musical littérateurs, busy with other concerns, left the world in possession of mere fragments of knowledge till Mr. F. G. Edwards came upon the scene. For myself, I had long been conscious that a history of "Elijah" was needed, and often the impulse to write one came near to resolve. But what could a man immersed in daily journalism, with all his energies engrossed by current work—what could such as he do in furtherance of a task calling for extended, painstaking and patient research? I rejoice that Mr. Edwards has stepped in and accomplished, as well as need be, what was necessary to be done.

The "History of Elijah" is presented in five sections, respectively entitled "The Libretto," "Birmingham," "The English Translation," "The First Performance," "The Revised Oratorio." This is a convenient arrangement, well covering all the ground, and enabling the author to present his new material in due sequence and perfect order. The new material, it may now be pointed out, was obtained from three chief sources—first, from representatives of friends with whom the composer corresponded on the subject of his oratorio. It will suffice to mention such names as Klingemann, Moscheles, Moore (of Birmingham), and Schubring. Mrs. Victor Benecke, Mendelssohn's elder daughter, stands as the second source, that lady's contribution being several letters hitherto unknown, and a portrait of her father, taken in 1835, which appears as a frontispiece to the book, and is now reproduced as a special supplement to the present issue of The Musical Times. In the third place Miss Mounsey, sister-in-law of William Bartholomew, provided our author with fourteen letters concerning the English translation of the German libretto. A facsimile of perhaps the most important of these communications forms a very interesting appendix to the volume.

I should be doing doubtful service to Mr. Edwards if I seriously discounted the interest of the "History" by copious quotations, or even by too freely indicating the "plums" which readers will take pleasure in picking out for themselves. The facts in the book had better be left alone, save in so far as they serve for such deductions as legitimately come within a reviewer's province.

* "The History of Mendelssohn's Oratorio Elijah.'" By F. G. Edwards. With an Introduction by Sir George Grove, C.B. London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co. 1896.

A first conclusion is not merely suggested, but made absolutely clear by perusal of the opening section, "The Libretto." From Mendelssohn literature of older date than the present volume, we have long received an impression of the master's extreme fastidiousness, not only in relation to the music, but also the words of his works. That impression is now so deepened, and our view of Mendelssohn's comprehensive and minute criticisms is so clear as to make us all wonder, not that the master died so early, but that he lived so long. No human brain could stand such worry about verbal details in addition to the stress of great musical tasks. He appears to have been, at one time, unconscious of his peculiarity. Thus he writes to Klingemann concerning an "Elijah" book as though ready to accept, without question, anything sent: "I am satisfied with anything you do. You need not ask my advice, but just write out what you think best. Then I can compose it at once." The two men met in London and agreed upon a plan (scenario), but Klingemann did not feel encouraged to proceed farther. I have no doubt whatever that his colleague bewildered and alarmed him by the number and kind of his requirements. It was no longer a case of "I am satisfied with anything you do." Pastor Schubring undertook the task abandoned by Klingemann, and Mr. Edwards, translating some of the published letters which passed between the reverend librettist and the composer, enables English readers to see the collaborateurs at work—and, as it turns out, toiling along on different tacks.

Mendelssohn, at that time, had dramatic impulses strong upon him. He wished, and intended to write an opera, when he could find a "book" that pleased him, and even in relation to his oratorio he was full of "appeal and rejoinder, question and answer, sudden interruptions," and what not, that goes to make up exciting stage business. But Pastor Schubring, gentle and pious soul, was the last man to provide materials for a sort of Scriptural opera. He did not want the public to be thrilled, but consoled and edified, as in some arias of "St. Paul," particularly "Be thou faithful unto death." Hence he wrote to Mendelssohn: "You must carefully consider whether this time you prefer to turn away from Church music (i.e., music which refreshes and consoles) and create a tone-picture after the manner of the Blocksberg-Cantata ('Walpurgis Night'). If not, we must diligently set to work to keep down the dramatic and raise the sacred element, and always aim at this." The good man wished to make of "Elijah" a kind of musical sermon. He would bring out prominently Elijah's significance with regard to the New Covenant. In another letter the Pastor refines upon his subject very much: "I have held to one point where the Lord Himself ought (to) or could speak to Elijah. It seemed to me that as Elijah appeared to Christ on the Mount of Transfiguration, so Christ might come to Elijah, transfigure him, and show him from afar the streams of peace which flow over the heavenly Canaan." It is easy to imagine the impatience with which Mendelssohn, in a dramatic humour, received such suggestions. "The personages should act and speak as if they were living beings," he exclaims, in one, for him, sharp outburst; "for Heaven's sake let them not be a musical picture, but a real world, such as you find in every chapter of the Old Testament, and the contemplative and pathetic element, which you desire, ought to be entirely conveyed to our understanding by the words and the mood of the acting personages." The writer then hints that he will go on with the book himself as far as possible, with which Schubring is quite content, and so the composer's second colleague drops away from his side. How the two men came together again six years later, when the Pastor gave his friend real assistance, everybody knows.

Mendelssohn's extreme fastidiousness and regard for detail appear in a yet more striking light when we come to Mr. Edwards' chapter, "The English Translation." Here is a characteristic passage from one of his letters to Bartholomew: "Those words in the choruses which you or I may now or hereafter object to might, I hope, still be altered, in pencil or ink, in the parts, if already printed; for if an improvement can be made, it must never be omitted because the printing should be finished. A little more trouble will be amply repaid by a little improvement. And as for the solo parts, they must not be printed at all for the Festival, but only written out, and can only be printed together with the pianoforte arrangement, and after the performance. For these accordingly we have time, till then, to alter and improve. Pray let Mr. Buxton read all this." Mr. Buxton was "Ewer and Co.," and I wonder what he thought of it after reading, and whether he had prevision of much more to the same effect. The Bartholomew correspondence indicates an almost microscopic examination of the English text. From it, however, I cannot make extracts; the reader should procure the book and go through the whole for himself. A single sentence will show what he has to expect. With regard to a certain passage, the composer writes: "I propose . . . to slur from D to E flat, because I prefer to have the word af-flic-tion on the G flat." There is Mendelssohn, so to speak, in a nutshell, and the casual eye may now see that, if genius be the faculty of taking pains, the composer of "Elijah" was a very great genius indeed. This correspondence, moreover, makes quite clear to any in doubt on the point why Mendelssohn kept so many of his compositions in MS.—why, for example, even such a work as the "Italian" Symphony was not published till after his death.

One or two points in the Bartholomew letters are of particular interest on other grounds, and may be touched upon here. It has long been known that the "Overture" to "Elijah" was an afterthought, and now it appears that the English translator suggested it. Bartholomew writes, as late as June 23, 1846: "I hope you will have time to write an overture or introduction, unless you expressly design there shall be none." Mendelssohn answered: "My intention was to write no overture, but to begin directly with the curse. I thought it so energetic. But I will certainly think of what you say about an Introduction, although I am afraid it would be a difficult task, and do not know exactly what it should or could mean before that curse. And after it (I first thought to write the Overture after it) the chorus must immediately come in." He probably had in mind the opening of "Israel in Egypt," where an introductory recitative is directly followed by a chorus of complaint. Bartholomew kept to his point. He took counsel with Klingemann, and then wrote: "I . . . think it will be a new feature, and a fine one, to announce the curse, No. 1. Then let an Introductory movement be played, expressive, descriptive, of the misery of famine." This is exactly what we now have, and the incident well exemplifies the old saying that two heads are better than one. Bartholomew was not so wise when he put it into Mendelssohn's mind that "O rest in the Lord" recalled "Auld Robin Gray," and thus nearly caused the loss to the oratorio—though he did not intend it—of the song which, more than any other, to use Schubring's words, "refreshes and consoles."

In "The Revised Oratorio" are some interesting letters, giving us a clear view of Mendelssohn once again at work with the microscope; showing us incidentally, moreover, that the composer was quite cognisant of abnormal fastidiousness in his own case. Writing to Buxton, with reference to numerous changes in the chorus parts, he says: "I think I told you before that I was subject to this dreadful disease of altering as long as I did not feel my conscience quite at rest, and, therefore, I could not help it and you must bear it patiently." Some diseases, however dreadful, are salutary in the end, and we are all now thankful that Mendelssohn suffered from one of them, since comparison of the two versions makes one marvel how the composer could have seen his way to produce the first.

Mr. Edwards borrows a list of the principal alterations from Sir G. Grove's "Mendelssohn," in the well-known Dictionary,* adding observations of his own; but the principal value of the chapter lies in the letters, which materially augment our knowledge of "Elijah" at an interesting period in its long extended and elaborate creation.

Full details are given concerning the performance of the original version at Birmingham, and of the revised edition in London, together with many circumstances attendant upon both events. These, however, must be left to readers of the book, which, though not absolutely exhaustive of its subject, is, as already stated, a most valuable record of a great and, I am bold to think, undying art-work. It is important, also, for the light shed upon Mendelssohn's processes, and, obliquely, upon his mental and artistic constitution. Again, it enforces upon young composers the lesson that nothing should be considered as done while anything remains to do, and that long agonising towards perfection brings, like other virtues, its own reward.

Joseph Bennett.

* Sir G. Grove refers, in a foot-note, to my comparison of the two scores, begun in Concordia and finished in The Musical Times—the first complete examination of the kind; but Mr. Edwards, for some reason or other, passes it over in silence.—J. B.

THE BATON IN ENGLAND.

The baton, as a conducting-stick, did not come into general use in England until the third decade of the present century. Up to that time the conductor, in the present acceptance of the term, was almost unknown. There were, however, instances of a conductor who really did beat time. Samuel Wesley, in one of his lectures delivered in 1827, said: "I remember that in the time of Dr. Boyce it was customary to mark the measure to the orchestra with a roll of parchment, or paper, in hand, and this usage is yet continued at St. Paul's Cathedral, at the musical performances for the Sons of the Clergy." Wesley goes on to say that the custom was not followed at the theatres and oratorios. It is, therefore, certain that the conductor, as a time-beater, was the exception and not the rule.

Handel "conducted" his operas and oratorios at the harpsichord or organ. At the Handel Commemoration of 1784, held in Westminster Abbey, Joah Bates led his forces of 525 performers from the organ, and not with a baton. Haydn, who conducted his Salamon Symphonies at the Hanover Square Rooms in 1791, was announced thus: "Mr. Haydn will preside at the Harpsichord, and will Compose for every night a new piece of Music." During the first twenty years of the Philharmonic Society (1813-1833) there was no real conductor, except when foreign musicians like Spohr and Mendelssohn directed their own compositions. The programme of the Birmingham Musical Festival of 1829 (when Michael Costa, then a youth of nineteen, made his first appearance in England as a singer) records: "Conductor, Mr. Greatorex, who will preside at the Organ and Piano-Forte." Some idea of the then existing state of things may be gathered from The Quarterly Musical Magazine and Review (Vol. x., 1829, pp. 313 and 314).

It is the habit of some [conductors], when presiding at the pianoforte, to keep the pedals down and play throughout the piece, thus making the instrument far too prominent; but from this piece of bad taste Sir George Smart and persons accustomed to the business of the orchestra are totally exempt. . . . A great obstacle opposed to the conductor is the shape of the grand pianoforte, which prevents his facing his band, and places him with his back to the principal violoncello. In Beethoven's "Pastoral" Symphony, which requires the fullest activity of eye, ear, and hand, we have observed a square one used at the Philharmonic concerts.

Further information of the pre-baton period in England is recorded by Spohr. In 1820 Spohr, at the invitation of the Directors of the Philharmonic Society, visited London for the first time. His initial experiences of the ways of an English orchestra may be told in his own words. (Spohr's "Autobiography," English edition, ii., 81.)

It was at that time [1820] still the custom there [the Philharmonic] that when symphonies and overtures were performed, the pianist had the score before him, not exactly to conduct from it, but only to read after and to play in with the orchestra at pleasure, which, when it was heard, had a very bad effect. The real conductor was the first violin, who gave the tempi, and now and then, when the orchestra began to falter, gave the beat with the bow of the violin. So numerous an orchestra, standing so far apart from each other as that of the Philharmonic, could not possibly go exactly together, and in spite of the excellence of the individual members, the ensemble was much worse than we are accustomed to in Germany. I had therefore resolved, when my turn came to direct, to make an attempt to remedy this defective system. Fortunately at the morning rehearsal on the day when I was to conduct the concert, Mr. Ries was at the piano, and he readily assented to give up the score to me and to remain wholly excluded from all participation in the performance. I then took my stand, with the score, at a separate music-desk in front of the orchestra, drew my directing bâton from my coat pocket, and gave the signal to begin. Quite alarmed at such a novel procedure, some of the directors would have protested against it, but when I besought them to grant me at least one trial they became pacified. The symphonies and overtures that were to be rehearsed were well known to me, and in Germany I had already directed at their performance. I, therefore, could not only give the tempi in a very decisive manner, but indicated also to the wind instruments and horns all their entries, which ensured to them a confidence such as hitherto they had not known. I also took the liberty [!], when the execution did not satisfy me, to stop, and in a very polite but earnest manner to remark upon the manner of execution, which remarks Mr. Ries, at my request, interpreted to the orchestra. Incited thereby to more than usual attention, and conducted with certainty by the visible manner of giving the time, they played with a spirit and correctness such as, till then, they had never been heard to play. Surprised and inspired by this result, the orchestra, immediately after the first part of the symphony, expressed aloud its united assent to the new mode of conducting, and thereby overruled all further opposition on the part of the directors. In the vocal pieces also—the conducting of which I assumed at the request of Mr. Ries—particularly in the recitative, the leading with the bâton, after I had explained the meaning of my movements, was completely successful, and the singers repeatedly expressed to me their satisfaction for the precision with which the orchestra now followed them.

The result in the evening was still more brilliant than I could have anticipated. The audience, it is true, were at first startled by the novelty, and were seen whispering together; but when the music began, and the orchestra executed the Symphony with unusual power and precision, the general approbation was shown immediately on the conclusion of the first part by a long-sustained clapping of hands. The triumph of the bâton as a time-giver was complete, and no one was seen any more seated at the piano during the performance of symphonies and overtures.

The above gives a fairly accurate account of the absurd dual-control of the "conductor" (so-called) and "leader." But Spohr was in error in taking the flattering unction to himself that "no one was seen any more seated at the piano during the performance of symphonies and overtures." British folk do not so readily uproot their traditions, and the Philharmonic Society was eminently national in this respect. It is true that in the Society's programmes "Pianoforte—Mr. ——," was replaced by "Conductor—Mr.——," and also that Hogarth, in his "The Philharmonic Society," records that in 1821 "the pianoforte was removed, and the conductor stationed as at present, in (!) a desk in front of the orchestra." But no sooner was Spohr's back turned, if not before, than the old custom was reverted to, notwithstanding Mr. Hogarth's historical *mis*information.

Three years later Moscheles visited London, and, like Spohr, he kept a diary and wrote interesting letters. The "Life of Moscheles" (English edition, i., 76) contains the following reference to the Philharmonic Concerts of 1823:

Moscheles was very much astonished at the English custom of placing a famous musician at orchestral concerts in front of the band, at the piano; and on the occasion of a Philharmonic concert we find him asking the question, "What do they mean by the term 'Conductor,' Mr. Clementi? He sits there and turns over the leaves of the score; but after all he cannot, without his marshal's staff, the bâton, lead on his musical army. The leader does this, and the conductor remains a nullity."

Rossini was conductor of the Italian Opera in London in 1824, but he did not adopt the Continental custom of using a baton. Contemporary records show that the Opera and the Philharmonic followed the same method—or want of method—in the matter of conducting the orchestra. Here are two references from periodicals of the time:

The orchestra is much improved by placing the Maestro, who presides at the pianoforte, in the centre.—Harmonicon.

As soon as the orchestra began to assemble, Rossini quietly made his appearance amongst the other musicians, and made his way to the pianoforte. . . . He bowed to the audience, and immediately sat down to the instrument and prepared his copy.—Morning Post (recording Rossini's first appearance).

Weber came to England in 1826, to produce his opera "Oberon," and—to die. He made his first appearance before an English audience at the (so-called) Oratorio Concerts, Covent Garden Theatre, on March 8, 1826, and not at the Philharmonic, as stated in Hogarth's "The Philharmonic Society" (p. 38). Weber conducted his Overture to "Der Freischütz" and some other pieces from the same opera—a strange selection for an Oratorio Concert. The Harmonicon, in recording the event, says:

He took his place on the stage, facing the audience, with a baton in his hand, with which he gave the time to the orchestra. In this office he seemed in no way embarrassed, and showed much energy and decision—qualities which, we learn from good authority, were exhibited at the rehearsal in still stronger manner.

The warmth of Weber's reception is graphically described by his son, who says:

It was long before he could raise his hand to give the signal to begin, with a roll of paper he held, in order to conduct in German fashion.

A contemporary lithograph corroborates the above statement that Weber conducted with "a roll of paper." Whether he followed the traditional method of conducting from the pianoforte at the Philharmonic concert at which he appeared, I am unable to discover; but at the production of his "Oberon" (Covent Garden, April 12, 1826) the Morning Post says:

Weber [at the full rehearsal] took the pianoforte and directed the whole performance. . . . Weber [at the first performance] entered the orchestra with the other instrumental performers, and took his seat at the pianoforte amidst the loud plaudits of the audience.

In 1829 Mendelssohn, then twenty years of age, made his first appearance before an English audience at the Philharmonic concert of May 25, 1829, when he conducted his C minor Symphony. In a letter to his family, dated "London, May 26, 1829," he thus describes the rehearsal:

I mounted the orchestra and pulled out my white stick, which I have had made on purpose (the maker took me for an Alderman, and would insist on decorating it with a crown).* The first violin, François Cramer, showed me how the orchestra was placed—the farthest row had to get up so that I could see them—and introduced me to them all, and we bowed to each other; some perhaps laughed a little, that this small fellow with the stick should now take the place of their regular powdered and bewigged conductor. . . . But the success at the concert last night was beyond what I could ever have dreamed. It began with the symphony; old John Cramer led me to the piano like a young lady, and I was received with immense applause.

That sentence in the above letter which refers to Mendelssohn's having been led to the piano by old John Cramer is often quoted, and is generally misconstrued to mean that Mendelssohn did not use a baton at this concert, but that he followed the traditional custom of conducting "at the pianoforte." The following notice of the Concert, from the Morning Post of May 27, 1829, probably written by John Ella, destroys these theories, and leaves no doubt upon the matter:

The presence of the Author is at all times a gratification, both to the hearer and performer, and on this occasion Mr. Mendelssohn conducted his Sinfonia with a baton, as is customary in Germany, France, &c., where the discipline of bands is considered of more importance than in England. We have often remarked that it is not the ear solely by which the orchestral performer must be guided. We hope to see the baton ere long at the Italian Opera; it matters not whether it be a violin bow or a roll of parchment.

Three years later (in 1832) Mendelssohn was again in London, when he conducted his "Hebrides" Overture at the Philharmonic. The Morning Post must again be quoted:

The author conducted with a baton: the intelligence of his look, gesture, and rise of the baton imparted a confidence to the band which was productive of the most beneficial results. It is almost superfluous to repeat that we have always strenuously advocated this system of conducting with a baton. The superior execution of this new Overture [the "Hebrides"] ought to carry conviction home to the Directors of its great advantages and importance; or we might adduce, as a still more striking example, the perfect execution of "Der Freischütz" at the King's Theatre with only three rehearsals, conducted by Herr Scheland [Chelard].

Herr Chelard was conductor of the German Opera Company which came to London in 1832. The Morning Post, in recording the first representation, says:

Herr Shelland [Chelard], a distinguished musician and disciplinarian, conducted the band with a baton, on the principle so often advocated in our notices of the Philharmonic concerts.

The Spectator supplies fuller details:

The arrangement of the band was new. The Conductor with his baton, instead of sitting at the pianoforte, stood on a conspicuous elevation, seeing and seen by every person in the orchestra. The Leader's place was occupied by the principal Violoncello and Double Bass, while he was placed in their accustomed situation.

John Ella, who probably wrote the musical criticisms in the Morning Post in the thirties, thus further refers to Mendelssohn's conducting with a baton in 1832. (Supplement to Musical Union Record, June 11, 1867, wrongly printed 1866):

Mendelssohn spoke favourably of the Philharmonic band, but complained bitterly of the cold shoulder he met with from the leaders, in consequence of his conducting with a baton. . . . Unwilling to incur the displeasure of the leaders, Mendelssohn declared that he should resign the baton at the concert. "That will be cowardice," said one. "You ought to set the example so much needed in this country," observed another. Costa and Meyerbeer both joined in urging Mendelssohn to retract his promise, and X. Y. Z. [John Ella himself!], of the Morning Post, declared that he should attribute, in his notice of the concert, all the imperfections of the performance to the composer. Mendelssohn at last pledged his word to use the baton. I was present at the concert, and well remember the frowns of the fiddlers whose authority Mendelssohn's baton so completely usurped.

Although the title of "Leader" continued to appear in the Philharmonic programmes for fourteen years longer—until 1846, when Costa was appointed conductor—it may reasonably be assumed that the year 1832 was the last under the old method of conducting at the Philharmonic. The Athenæum, in noticing the second and third concerts of 1833, says:

Sir G. Smart, in the true capacity of a conductor, stood with a baton in his hand, and we never heard the band go better. (Second Concert.)

Bishop conducted with a baton—let us hope, therefore, that the leader's "occupation's gone." (Third Concert.)

The Opera and the Philharmonic thus set an example which was doubtless soon followed; and the years 1832-3 may therefore be accepted as the period at which the baton came into general use in musical performances in England.

* Mendelssohn refers to his "English baton" in a letter written from Rome, dated "December 30, 1830."

In the foregoing quotations reference is more than once made to the Continental custom of conducting with a baton, as though such custom were general in Germany, France, &c. But it would seem as if the baton was not used at the famous Leipzig Gewandhaus Concerts till Mendelssohn began his reign as conductor in 1835—two years after it had become established in London. The Allgemeine musikalische Zeitung, of October 14, 1835, contains a notice of the first concert which Mendelssohn conducted, in which the following occurs:

In the second part we had Beethoven's Fourth Symphony, and seldom have we heard it so excellently played. As a new and desirable plan, the musical director conducted the Symphony; for when the leader, who must play first fiddle, does this, he terribly interrupts his own performance in looking after the time of the others.

This fact does not seem to have been noticed by the various writers on Mendelssohn.

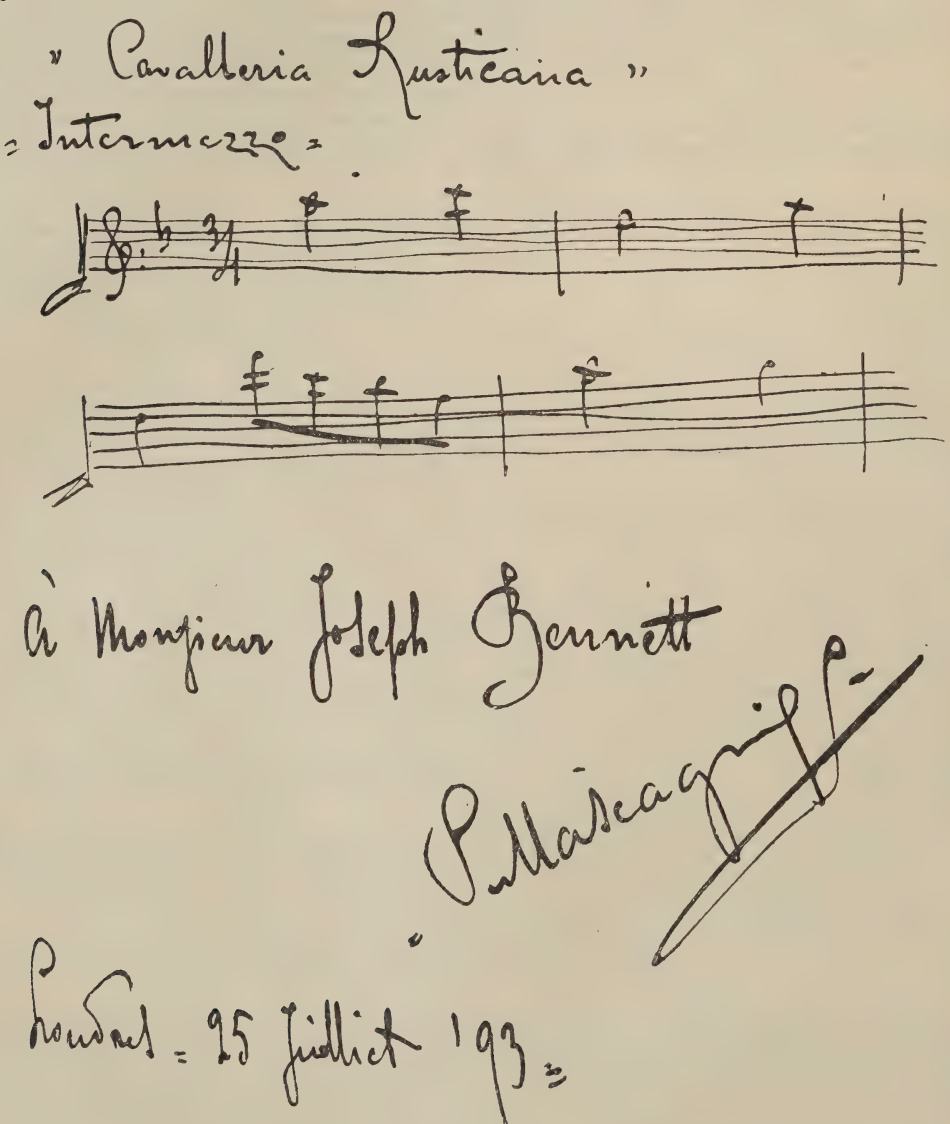
In conclusion, it seems almost incredible that Dr. Murray's great "English Dictionary" should give the year 1867 as the earliest dated reference to the use of the word baton (as a conducting-stick) in English literature. It is evident that Dr. Murray has not had many musical helpers to aid him in his monumental work; or, if he has, they have shown a lamentable ignorance in regard to that which forms the subject of this paper.

F. G. E.

FROM MY STUDY.

This month I give reproductions of album inscriptions by Mascagni and Leoncavallo respectively, the musical quotation in each case being from the writer's best known work. They call for no remark here.

Miss Sabilla Novello has been so kind as to send me a number of MSS. having much interest for musical readers. I tender her my most sincere thanks, and lose no time in bringing one of the more important documents under the notice of my readers. First, however, some preliminary remarks should be made.



I take the following from Otto Jahn's "Life of Mozart"—the part of Vol. I. in which Mozart's first Italian tour is described:

"At Florence, too, Wolfgang formed a tender friendship with Thomas Linley, a boy of fourteen,* the son of an English composer; he was a pupil of the celebrated violin player, Nardini, and played so exquisitely as almost to surpass his teacher. The two boys met at the house of Signora Maddolina Morelli, who was famous as an improvisatrice under the name of Corilla and crowned as a poetess on the Capitol in 1776. During the few days that the Mozarts stayed in Florence the boys were inseparable, and performed together, or by turns, 'more like men than boys.' They parted with many tears, and

* Mozart was the same age.

Tomassino, as Linley was called in Italy, brought to Wolfgang, as a parting gift, a poem which Corilla had written for him. According to Burney, Tomassino and little Mozart were talked of throughout Italy as two geniuses of the greatest promise, and, in later life, at Vienna, Mozart spoke with warmth of Linley, and the hopes which had been frustrated by his early death."

singing-master and composer, whose daughter, Eliza Ann, became the wife of Richard Brinsley Sheridan. Thomas, junior, first saw the light at Bath in 1756, at a very early age took kindly to the violin and performed a Concerto in public when only eight years old. After studying in Florence under Nardini, Linley returned to England, and became associated with his father in their common profession.

Jahn adds, in a foot-note: "Holmes says that his brother, Ozias Linley, preserved an Italian letter from Mozart to Thomas Linley." A copy of that letter, which, obviously, Jahn had never seen, and, apparently, Holmes only knew by report, is one of the papers sent me by Miss Sabilla Novello, and another is an English translation of the same in the handwriting of Leigh Hunt.

It may be convenient now to give some particulars regarding Thomas Linley. He was the eldest son of Thomas Linley, the Bath

When on a visit to the Duke of Ancaster's place at Grimsthorpe, in Lincolnshire, he was drowned by the upsetting of a boat. This sad ending of a promising life happened in August, 1778, when the young musician was only twenty-two. Mozart survived his English friend thirteen years.

The copy of Wolfgang's Italian letter to Thomas Linley is headed by the following note from the pen of Vincent Novello: "Copy of a letter addressed by Mozart to Mr. Thomas Linley from Bologna. This interesting document was kindly sent to me by his brother, Mr. William Linley." Ozias Linley, referred to by Holmes as possessing the original, died in 1831, and it would seem that the MS. passed into the hands of William, the last survivor of the family, whose life ended in 1835.

I shall first give a transcription of the original, as an example of Mozart's Italian correspondence at the age of fourteen :—

"Caro Amico,

"Finalmente ecco una mia lettera! vengo tardi, e tardi assai à rispondere alla sua gentilissima mandatami à Napoli la qual però non ricivei che due mesi doppo che lei me l' aveva scritta. Il disegno dello mio Padre fu di prende la strada di Loretto per Bologna; di la di passare par Firenze, Livorno, e Genua, à Milano, e per consequenza di farli una sorpresa, arrivando à Fiorenza al improviso. Ma avendo avuto il mio Padre la discrazia di farsi una Schinccatura forte alla Gamba, essendo caduto il Cavallo di Stanga della Sedia di Posto, la quale ferita non solamente lo necessitò di stare tre Settimane nel Letto mà lo fermo 7 Settimane in Bologna, questo brutto accidente ci obliga di mutar pensiere, e di andare per Parma a Milano.

"Primo abbiamo perduti il tempo di far quel viaggio, è secondo non v'e adesso il tempo proprio di farlo, essendo tutto il mondo in campagna, e di cavarne anchè le spese del viaggio. Lei stia sicuro, che questo accidente ci dispiace infinitamenti. Farei tutto il possibile di avere il piacere di abracciare il mio caro Amico, ed il mio Padre unito con me avrebbe il più gran desiderio di rividere il Sigr. Gavard, e la sua carissime e gentillissima famiglia, come anchi la Signora Corilla ed il Sigr. Nardini, e poi di ritornare à Bologna; se fosse seima speranza di cavare pure le spese del viaggio.

"Quanto alle stampe perdute, il mio Padre penso di servir la, e ne giunse il suo aviso à tempo di poter risavance due. Mi favorisca adunque avisamei presto qualche modo di poter mandar gliele.

"Mi conservi la sua cara amicizia e creda pure che con inalterabile affetto sempre sono, e rimango

"devotios^{mo} Servitore ed

"affetto Amico,

"Amadeo Wolfgango Mozart.

"Bologna, 10 settembre, 1770.

"Favorisca di fare nostri complimenti a tutti i nostri amici ed amiche.

"Leopoldo Mozart."

Leigh Hunt's translation of the foregoing is as follows:

"Dear Friend,

"At last behold a letter from me! It has come slowly, I confess too slowly, considering the very kind one you sent me at Naples, which did not arrive, however, till two months after the date of it. My father's intention was to go to Loretto by the way of Bologna, thence to pass over to Florence, and so by Leghorn and Genoa to Milan; by which plan, you see, he would have taken you at Florence by surprise; but having had the misfortune to get a bad wound in the leg, in consequence of the falling of the shaft-horse of the chaise, he was forced not only to keep his bed for three weeks, but to stay seven weeks in Bologna. This cruel accident compelled us to change our plan, and to go to Milan by way of Parma; for, imprimis, we had no longer time to go the other road; and, secondly, as all the world had gone into the country, the time was not seasonable if we had had it. It would not have paid us for the journey.

"You may conceive how much this accident disconcerted us. I shall do all I can to have the pleasure of embracing my dear friend, and my father, as well as myself, will be eager to behold Signor Gavard again, and his dear, kind family, not omitting Signora Corilla and Signor Nardini, after which we return to Bologna, if we reckon with any certainty upon reimbursing ourselves for the trip.

"As to the lost proofs, my father had kept you in his mind, and given orders time enough to preserve two, which are at your service. Be good enough to let me know how I can send them.

"Preserve your dear friendship for me, and be assured that I always am, and shall be, with unalterable affection,

"Your most devoted servant

"and affectionate friend,

"Amadeus Wolfgang Mozart.

"Pray make our compliments to all our friends, male and female.

"Leopold Mozart."

Leigh Hunt appends the following note to his translation :

"A tautology or so, and an occasional peculiarity of diction, arising from the enthusiasm of his time of life, have been preserved in the above letter, in preference to keeping the English idiom throughout."

I am tempted to ask whether all the boys of 1770 wrote to each other as did Mozart to Linley. It was, no doubt, a formal age, and the young were well schooled, as the Chesterfield letters make clear, in the observances of their elders. We have changed all that, with many other things. If Mozart in 1770 could have been like a boy of our own time, the letter to Linley would read somewhat in this way:

Dear Tom,

Here you are at last! Awfully late, I know, but yours came two months after date. The Gov. thought of going to Milan through Florence, but hurt his leg on the road, and had, poor old boy, to stop seven weeks in Bologna. So now we reach Milan through Parma. No time to go round; besides, what's the use? With everybody in the country there's no oof to be got in town. Awful nuisance this accident; still I'll try to see you again. The Dad hasn't forgotten Corilla, Gavard, or Nardini, nor, by Jove, have I. Two of the proofs all right. The Governor was in time to save them. How will you have 'em sent? Think of me sometimes, old chap.

Your faithful chummie,

A. W. M.

——— X.

NEW LIGHTS UPON OLD TUNES.

No. V.

Airs in the Early Ballad Operas.

When, in 1727 (as Handel complained), the "Beggar's Opera" pelted the Italian opera off the stage with "Lumps of Pudding"* its great success gave immediate birth to dozens of ballad operas founded upon its model.

The principal point (musically) about the "Beggar's" and the other ballad operas was the employment of traditional or of other popular melodies for the songs, instead of, as in other periods, airs composed specially for the piece. The musical arranger had but to compose an overture, to add simple basses to the melodies, and his work was finished. The musical success of an opera treated thus was ensured, for the tunes were all familiar and each had passed safely the ordeal of public taste. From an antiquarian point of view this was a fortunate arrangement, inasmuch as many old and beautiful specimens of folk-melody are preserved to us which would otherwise have inevitably been lost.

The "Beggar's Opera" is generally credited with having been the first constructed on these lines, but John Gay merely followed Allan Ramsay's lead in writing the songs to the old airs. Ramsay had already written and published his Scotch Pastoral "The Gentle Shepherd" (the songs in which were set to old Scotch tunes), when (the year after), in 1726, Gay visited him at Edinburgh.

There is a probability that Gay was guided by Ramsay's example or suggestion in this matter, and the credit of the invention of the ballad opera thus belongs to Scotland.

In the two or three years following, the stage was swamped with more or less weak imitations of Gay's work. Most of them are as dull and insipid as the original is bright and sparkling. If we may except the half-dozen or so by Fielding, the best written of these early ballad operas were by Charles Coffey, his most favourite one, having at the time a popularity almost as great as the "Beggar's," being "The Devil to pay, or wives metamorphosed," acted in 1731. This was an adaptation of a much earlier play, and had also many a hand in its ultimate concoction.

The songs in this opera were retained in the public ear long after the piece itself had gone into the limbo of forgotten theatrical productions. Mrs. Clive as Nell, the cobbler's wife, in this opera, made her first step on the road to success.

Charles Coffey wrote other ballad operas, but absolutely the first in imitation of the "Beggar's" was the "Quaker's Opera," written by Thomas Walker, the original actor of Captain Macheath, and acted in 1728 at Lee and Harper's booth in Bartholomew Fair. Then followed "Momus turned Fabulist," "The Village Opera," "The Beggar's Wedding," "The Cobbler's Opera," "Love in a Riddle," all in 1729. The next three years brought forth many more. "Polly," Gay's sequel to the "Beggar's Opera," had been printed but not acted, and "Achilles," in 1733, was acted after his death. The collapse of the ballad opera came as suddenly as its rise, and after the last date we hear no more of it till 1762, when Isaac Bickerstaffe revived it in all its force with "Love in a Village," and the ballad opera, in a modified form, lasted from then till our fathers' days.

As before stated, the value of the early ballad opera at the present day lies in the store of seventeenth and eighteenth century airs which it preserved; and a collection of these operas is essential to the student of national song. An examination of the airs will reveal the germs of many tunes which have become famous, although they may have changed with the times. For example: "Red House" was a dance air much employed in the operas, and after changing into the Scotch song "Whar wad bonny Ann lie," it now survives as "John Peel," a sturdy hunting song. Again, "The Budgean it is a fine trade" in the "Fashionable Lady," 1730, is now the "Miller of the Dee," having been set to that song in "Love in a Village," twenty-two years after its appearance in the earlier production. I am afraid the original song of the "Budgean" has delighted the ears of thieves, tinkers, and other low characters, for it was but a thieves' cant-song. In these ballad operas we find the early traditional airs for many celebrated old ballads, as "Death and the Lady," "The Bailiff's daughter of Islington," "Arthur a Bland," "The Oxfordshire Tragedy," and others. So far as I am aware the only editions of this first era of ballad operas were issued by John Watts, of Lincoln's Inn Fields, who printed them in small octavo with the music to each song roughly cut in wood, after the manner of his "Musical Miscellany" (six volumes, 1729-31). He prints the old name for the air, and in the operas he prints—perhaps thirty—we find above a 1,000 or 1,500 old and named airs.* Many of these are, of course, the fashionable tunes of the day and many others purely folk-songs. There is one tune which occurs many times, and as it is, I believe, totally unknown at the present day, though with its song well worth reproducing, I here give it. It is named "The Dame of Honour," or :—

* The old name for the final tune in the "Beggar's Opera." The name too of the opera itself may appear strange to the reader who is only familiar with modern copies. In the first and other early editions a little introductory scene between a Beggar and a Player fully explains the title. The Beggar mentions that the piece "was originally writ for the celebrating the marriage of James Chanter and Moll Lay, two most excellent ballad singers," and that it was frequently afterwards performed by the beggars in their great room in St. Giles.

* Benjamin Franklin was employed as a journeyman at Watts's office but a little prior to the publication of these operas.

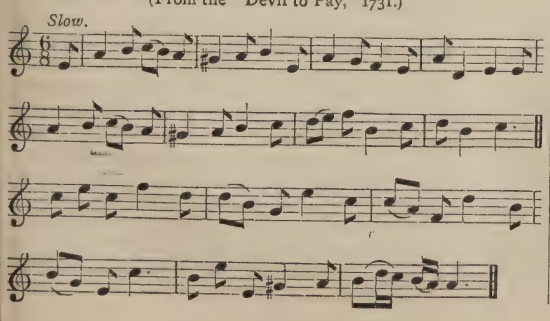
"WHEN I WAS DAME OF HONOUR."

(From the "Fashionable Lady," 1730.)

The original song was first sung by a singer named Mrs. Willis, in an opera, "The Kingdom of the Birds," performed about 1700. The first few verses are—

Since now the world's turn'd upside down,
And all things changed in Nature,
As if a doubt were newly grown
We had the same Creator.
Of ancient modes and former ways
I'll teach you, sirs, the manner,
In good Queen Bess's golden days,
When I was Dame of Honour.

I had an ancient noble seat,
Tho' now 'tis come to ruin,
Where mutton, beef, and such good meat
In hall were daily chewing.
Of humming beer my cellar full,
I was the yearly donor;
Where toping knaves had many a pull
When I was Dame of Honour.



My men of homespun honest grays
Had coats and comely badges;
They wore no dirty ragged lace,
Nor e'er complained for wages.
For gawdy fringe and silk o' th' town
I fear'd no threat'ning dunner;
But wore a decent grogram gown
When I was Dame of Honour.

The whole may be seen in "Pills," Vol. I.

Another now forgotten air, a beautiful example of melody of this period, is also frequently used in the operas. "Send home my long-stray'd eyes." The air is by Richard Leveridge, an actor, a singer, and the composer of at least two famous songs: "The Roast Beef of Old England" and "All in the Downs; or, Black-Ey'd Susan."

"SEND HOME MY LONG STRAY'D EYES."

(From the "Devil to Pay," 1731.)

The air has some affinity to Leveridge's other song, "All in the Downs." In an early music-sheet in my possession there is another setting for the words by Mr. Anthony Young, with the above air in addition as by "Mr. Leveridge."

The verses are by the celebrated divine, Dr. Donne, and commence indifferently, "Send back my long stray'd eyes"; or :

Send home my long stray'd eyes to me,
Which oh! too long have dwelt on thee;
But if from you they've learnt such ill
To sweetly smile
And then beguile,
Keep them, deceiver, keep them still.

Send home my harmless heart again,
Which no unworthy thought could stain;
But if it has been taught by thine
To forfeit both
Its word and oath,
Keep it, for then 'tis none of mine.

Yet send me back my heart and eyes,
For I'll know all thy falsities;
That I one day may laugh when thou
Shall grieve and mourn
For one will scorn,
And prove as false as thou art now.

In adapting these words to the music, the first two lines of each verse are repeated. In certain old song collections the song is lengthened by the addition of a "Reply," written by a later hand.

THE most important musical event of the New York season, writes our American correspondent, has been the founding of a Professorship of Music in Columbia College. For many years the College has had what was termed with more courtesy than accuracy a "professorship," held by Mr. George William Warren, organist of St. Thomas's Church. But Mr. Warren's duties never took him beyond delivering a very short and elementary series of lectures during a few weeks of each winter; the College gave no course of instruction in music, offered no opportunities to anyone who wished to pursue the study, and, of course, conferred no musical degrees. About a year ago Mr. Robert Center, a well-known club-man and something of a musical amateur, was killed while bicycling on one of the Avenues of New York. Mr. Center being a bachelor, his estate was inherited by his mother, Mrs. Mary E. Ludlow, and within a few weeks Mrs. Ludlow has presented the entire property, valued at about 150,000 dollars, to Columbia to found "The Robert Center Fund for instruction in music." The terms of the gift permitted the trustees of the institution to use the income either in paying the salary of a resident professor, or in establishing scholarships, or in such other way as might seem best calculated to advance the interests of students in music. Very wisely the trustees have determined to establish a chair, and quite recently the appointment of Mr. Edward A. Macdowell as the first incumbent has been announced. It is believed by many persons that Columbia College should have a chair of applied music, as well as one of theory, and Mr. William Steinway, the well known pianoforte manufacturer, is about to start a subscription for the purpose of furnishing the necessary endowment. Mr. Steinway and two or three other gentlemen have been made trustees of a fund of 10,000 dollars given by Mr. Paderewski, the income of which is to be used in aiding deserving students of music, while the friends of the late Joseph Mosenthal are collecting funds for the foundation of a Mosenthal Scholarship in music at Columbia. It is difficult to convey an idea of the importance of these things in a country where a University education in music has been an unknown thing, and where individual teachers and private Conservatoires have furnished the only sources of instruction open to the student.

The biographical notices which are now commonly circulated previous to the first appearance of musical artists are occasionally most instructive. One, which has recently fallen into our hands, opens with the following impressive exordium: "When that which is called Genius, guided by true motives and an exalted ideal, seriously and assiduously cultivates an Art, recognition becomes a natural law, and expectation gives birth to realization." We have then a long and elaborate disquisition on the allied Art of Appreciation, leading up to the statement that "the sands of recorded Time bear the footprints of many an illustrious wayfarer who has done his mighty share towards the advancement and elevation of Music and Art-appreciation. The sum total of past effort is indeed vast and comprehensive; in our time, the aspirant to a place upon the roll of great workers must needs be well endowed by nature, have received careful and exhaustive training, be prepared to exhibit some improvement over past methods, and ascend to contribute some material and lasting benefit to the cause of Art—or his effort is useless. Herein the Art of Appreciation rules supreme." This takes us to the middle of page 3, but the dénouement is no longer delayed. "Moved by thoughts similar to these," we are then informed that —— —— "has elected to make his first appearance in the musical world in London, firmly convinced that opinion here, be it for or against, is distinguished by intelligence or fairness." Now, to begin with, we should cordially support a short Act for abruptly terminating the existence of all persons who talk about "Art-minds" and "Music-art"; secondly, and seriously, we may be permitted to observe that these attempts to force the hands of critics in advance are far more likely to defeat than to further their ends. If we are "fair and intelligent," then, in the name of common sense, let us make up our minds for ourselves.

Mr. Macdonald Smith has done good service recently by the publication of an analysis and classification of the difficulties with which executants have to deal in acquiring mastery over their respective instruments and command of the musical passages they undertake to perform. The best teachers often find it difficult to ascertain whether a pupil's head is at fault or his fingers. He points out that these difficulties are of two kinds—mental and physical; further, that, the mental being entirely independent of the physical ones, the key to the former must be sought in Psychology and that to the latter in Physiology. The mental difficulties involve accurate conceptions of (1) space-distances; (2) time-distances; and (3) degrees of force: their physical equivalents involve such command of the muscles as will enable us accurately to realise these conceptions on the instrument in the form of (1) right notes, (2) right time and speed, and (3) right power and accentuation. Study of the physical difficulties numbered 1 and 2 come under the head of "Technique"; those numbered 3, under that of "Touch." Mr. Smith, who, as our readers are no doubt aware, has given special attention to this subject—the physiological side of it more particularly—says that "in the vast majority of instances the training gone through to acquire technique causes an unhealthy change (imperfect and unequal nutrition) in muscles and nerves that is most detrimental to command over accent—i.e., to perfect 'touch.'" This, he asserts, is the reason why a perfect combination of "touch" and "technique" is so seldom found in the same individual. Perfect touch and technique can only be obtained from a physical development of nerve and muscle.

Amidst the jubilations attendant upon the fiftieth year of Mendelssohn's "Elijah," it may not be without interest to refer to some other musical settings of the same subject, of which three, at least, can be traced. An oblong folio volume, full score, of 330 pages, in the MS. department of the British Museum bears the following title: "Elijah: an Oratorio written by Thomas Skelton Dupuis, of Christ Church, Oxon., set to music by J. W. Callcott, M.B., 1785." The libretto, which is in metre, is by a son of Dr. Dupuis, the musician. The music of the oratorio, in "Three Acts," was written by Dr. Callcott at the early age of nineteen. The work was composed in a little more than three months—the date at the beginning of the MS. being "August 1, 1785," and that at the end "Nov. 15, 1785." On February 13, 1786, "a select part of the oratorio was performed, to a very polite audience, at Freemasons' Hall, for the Benefit of that laudable institution, the Humane [now Royal Humane] Society." This may have been its only performance. Strangely enough, none of Dr. Callcott's numerous biographers—including William Horsley, his son-in-law—make any mention of this oratorio of "Elijah." Apart from its being the only oratorio composition of the eminent glee-writer, such a work surely deserves some mention as having been composed when Dr. Callcott was only a youth. Like the composer, young Dupuis, the librettist, was also only nineteen when he wrote the words of Callcott's "Elijah."

In the Norfolk Chronicle and Norwich Gazette of March 6, 1819, there appeared the following advertisement: "Mr. Perry (Leader of the band at the Theatre) most respectfully begs leave to announce his Concert for Friday, March 12, 1819, in the Concert Room, St. George's [Norwich], when will be performed, 'Elijah and the Priests of Baal.'" The same paper, in recording the performance, says: "Mr. Perry's Oratorio . . . is a composition which does that industrious individual very great credit. Want of time and space will not admit of our saying more respecting it, than that the vocal parts are written in a pleasing, effective manner, and that the instrumental are constructed with an ingenuity of no common order. . . . The attendance at the Concert was so small, that we suppose the profits (sic) will only cover the expenses." George Perry, who composed two or three other oratorios, became an organist in London, where he died in 1862. He was well known as the "leader" of the Sacred Harmonic Society from its foundation in 1832 to 1848. In that capacity he "led" (or, to be more accurate, misled) the band at the first London performance of Mendelssohn's "Elijah," when the composer himself conducted. "Mr. Perry," according to Mr. F. G. Edwards's recently published "History of Mendelssohn's 'Elijah,'" "was constantly beating time with his fiddle-stick in such a manner as to obstruct the view of the conductor [Mendelssohn] and confuse the attention of the instrumentalists." Probably the recollection of the circumstances attendant upon the first performance of his "Elijah," as compared with that of Mendelssohn's, adversely worked upon poor Mr. Perry's feelings on that memorable April evening in Exeter Hall, in the year 1847. Is the MS. of Perry's "Elijah" still in existence? Can any of our readers supply us with some information in regard to it?

THE third oratorio of "Elijah" is a Pasticcio, and may be soon dismissed. Unlike those by Callcott and Perry, this setting, though perhaps the least worthy, was printed. The title is: "Elijah raising the widow's son. A sacred drama performed with unbounded applause at the Theatre Royal, Drury Lane, written by W. G. T. Moncrieffe, Esq. The Music selected from the most favourite compositions of Winter, arranged and adapted by J. Addison. Price 15s." This work, such as it is, was first performed at Drury Lane, March 3, 1815. An amusing instance of the perpetuation of errors, caused by musical historians merely copying one another is furnished in the various biographies of Dr. Samuel Arnold. The oratorio of "Elijah," which Dr. Arnold is said to have composed, should be "Elisha"!

AMERICAN musical criticism is of extremely variable quality. Like the historic little girl of the rhyme, when it is good it is very, very good; when it is bad it is horrid. What we like about it is the wholesome candour which it displays in dealing with the shortcomings of the idols of the operatic world. Here, for example, are some comments on one of the greatest of living stars. "What," asks the New York Times, "has Madame ——" —we purposely omit the name— "contributed to the dignity of operatic art in this city? Her frivolity on the stage cannot escape the notice of the most casual observer. She giggles, makes faces, nods to acquaintances in the opera club's box, and generally comports herself in a free and untrammelled manner in the most serious scenes of the rôles. She knows less about the technique of acting than the merest tyro in one of our dramatic schools. But she is thoroughly satisfied with herself, and her public is thoroughly satisfied with her. All that is asked of her is to make sweet sounds, and that she can certainly do. The technique of her singing is the antipodes of that of her acting. She sings like a bird, with a beautiful bird-like voice that fills the whole atmosphere of the Opera House with the vibrancy of its silvery tone. Her voice production is beyond criticism, and her phrasing alone is open to question, and that only occasionally. It is a pleasure to hear such lovely tones projected with such consummate ease and certainty. But when that is said, all is said. There is nothing else in Madame ——'s 'art' which so gets 'the start of the majestic world.'" We do not imagine that many of our readers will have much difficulty in filling in the name of the illustrious culprit, who, if she deserves the blame, undoubtedly merits the praise contained in the foregoing appreciation.

Is it not about time that some stand was made against the way in which modern arrangers, adapters, and perverters, on the strength of substituting octaves for single notes and adding a few ornamental frillings, claim an integral share in the authorship of some standard or classical composition? We confess to an evergrowing impatience at the appearance in programmes of such entries as "Bach-Dudelsack," "Beethoven-Spiffkins," or "Chopin-Truefitt." In many cases this titivation is carried to such an extent that it could only be accurately expressed by a triple bracket, such as Tartini-Paganini-Popoffsky. Indeed, if the truth were told about some virtuoso pieces, it would not be possible to state their complex authorship in a single line of print. What we object to is the implication that the labours of creation and (unnecessary) decoration are on the same level. In some instances, where there has been real collaboration, or where the adaptation has been made with the consent of the author, this duplex system of nomenclature is legitimate enough. But nineteen times out of twenty it is a sheer misrepresentation. The honest thing to do would be to say, "Gluck, arranged by so-and-so," or whatever it might be. In this respect men of letters set musicians a better example. When Mr. John Smith edits Milton, he does not put "Milton-Smith" on the title-page.

MISS GEORGIANA HILL has just brought out an excellent work on "Women in English Life" (Bentley), but it is to be regretted that her remarks on female musicians are so perfunctory and inadequate. For example, she mentions no song-writers later than Claribel, and Virginia Gabriel, and says nothing at all about the immense increase in the numbers of female instrumentalists which has been witnessed in late years. On the general question of woman's creative capacity, Miss Hill adopts an eminently non-committal attitude. "Whether," she writes, "this increased attention to the groundwork of the art, and the facilities afforded by the existence of so many excellent centres of musical education, will result in the development of female composers in the higher branches, time alone can show. Here and there a concerted piece issues from a woman's pen and receives recognition, but very few women devote themselves to the more complex forms of composition." It is certainly curious that in the case of the only Symphony written by a woman that has been heard by the present writer, the composer should have directly attributed its inspiration to the prompting of a departed master.

WAS not the late Madame Schumann the first to introduce the name of Brahms into England? At her Pianoforte Recital, June 17, 1856, the programme contained "Sarabande and Gavotte (in the style of Bach), and Clavierstück in A major — Johannes Brahms and Scarlatti." Mr. J. W. Davison, commenting on the performance in the Musical World, said: "The Sarabande of the 'new man,' Johannes Brahms, is extremely difficult, extremely uncouth, and not at all 'in the style of Bach.'" Thus did the leading musical critic of the day welcome the music of the "new man," who has now become a "great man." Chorley, another eminent critic of the day, writing of the same performance in the Athenæum, said that Madame Schumann "seems determined to offer Dr. Schumann's music in all the fulness of its eccentricity to the public." How true are Tennyson's words: "The old order changeth, yielding place to new."

FACTS, RUMOURS, AND REMARKS.

AN old acquaintance, Mr. Jerome Hopkins, whose special methods and opinions, when in this country a few years since, lightened British heaviness, continues his labours in the land of his birth. Mr. Hopkins announces "New York's third grand Children's Musical Congress," to be holden, under his direction, on the 19th inst., and appeals for support to members of the Chamber of Commerce, hoping that they "may realise the national claims of the 'gentlest of the arts' upon a commonwealth whose criminal statistics constantly prove that the safeguards of life and property are weakening, thus adding to the burdens of honest tax-payers, in spite of churches, police and prisons, for none of these can substitute Art, and seldom indeed is any true musician found among criminals." If Mr. Hopkins can arrest the decay of society by means of musical congresses we shall all be glad.

But Mr. Hopkins has claims on his own account. According to a statement now before me, he enjoys the following distinctions: First pianist in America to play fugues in public without notes. First to organise an association for the sole performance of American music. First to carry out a Children's Musical Congress. First to originate "declamatory concerts." First in America to play concerted music, with orchestra, without notes. First to introduce echo choirs in churches. First to originate opera for two troupes, one of singers and one of speakers. First American to produce original oratorio in England. First to play any selection made by audience from a list of 156 pieces. First to originate school opera. First American to compose an organ fantasia on Richard Wagner's operas. First to compose a church service for three choirs, two organs, orchestra, four solo voices, echo choir, harp obbligato, and cantor. First musician in the world to maintain Orpheon vocal schools at his sole expense. With all these Firsts, Mr. J. Hopkins can hardly fail to be bracketed with Washington as "First in the hearts of his countrymen."

The leading musical event of the hour is the South Wales Festival, which begins at Cardiff to-day (1st inst.) and ends on the day following. Four Concerts are announced to take place in the large hall erected for the visit of Lord Rosebery on the occasion of that statesman's visit to Cardiff as Premier. This building now stands in the Exhibition Grounds, and, according to report, is altogether suited to its new use. The Festival chorus is said to exceed 900, a band of 100 has been engaged, Mr. Manns acts as conductor, and among the solo vocalists, chiefly Welsh, are Miss Maggie Davies, Miss Hannah Jones, Messrs. Hirwen Jones, David Hughes, Maldwyn Humphreys, &c., with Mr. E. Lloyd, Miss Ada Crossley, and Mr. Andrew Black. Two of the Concerts are devoted respectively to "The Messiah" and "Elijah," a third is orchestral, and the fourth miscellaneous, with a programme of works chiefly by native composers.

We may consider this big enterprise as stimulated by the Cardiff Triennial Festival, with which, however, it has nothing otherwise to do. The triennial meetings are mainly carried on and supported by English people resident in the town and neighbourhood, which fact became a cause of reproach to the Welsh population, who are said to be so much more musical than their Saxon neighbours. Hence the present purely national effort. We must all wish it ample success, the more because it is the first large gathering of Welsh singers into which prize-winning considerations do not enter. Under the influence of Eisteddfodic competition our Welsh friends have become confirmed "pot-hunters," and they now do well to show, in a large way, that they can act upon higher considerations.

An anonymous correspondent, having set music to the Sonnet which appeared in these columns shortly after Sir Joseph Barnby's death, asks my acceptance of the MS. "as a slight token of respect to Sir J. Barnby, who was once very kind to me; and also to yourself for the good advice and high-minded sentiments expressed in so many of your criticisms." I am grateful to my unknown friend for this mark of his attention. It is some reward amid much discouragement, for, inconceivable as not a few may deem it, there are critics whose heart goes with their pen, and whose desire is less their own honour and glory than the welfare of the cause to which their lives are devoted.

A choral Competition took place at Morecambe on April 25, and the singers of the Wesleyan Chapel, Saltaire, took part in it. It is a local usage, under such circumstances, for the population to await the return of their champions, and rejoice in their victory or lament their defeat. The custom was observed at Saltaire, some hundreds of persons gathering at the railway station, passing the time of waiting by singing glees and anthems, or discussing the chances of the fight waged in the town by the sea. At 1.30 a.m. the belated train arrived, bringing news of victory, and, says a report, "despite the fact that rain had commenced to fall, time-honoured custom demanded a short concert 'on the bridge.' Here the vigorous songsters took their stand, and, somewhat sleepy and travel-weary, sang Pinsuti's emotional part-song, 'The sea hath its pearls,' and, considering the state of the weather, expected that this would suffice. But no! The audience would hear all, and 'Great God of love' (Pearsall) was sung splendidly—without copies, and under the umbrella's canopy, for now rain was coming down in torrents. Enthusiasm being somewhat quenched and curiosity satisfied, singers and audience dispersed, and the little town resumed its normal respectability of demeanour." This is very pleasant reading, and indicates a healthy enthusiasm which, no doubt, explains victorious Saltaire.

According to a statement before me, Ryde wastes its musical strength on faction. "It is a pity," says the Isle of Wight Observer, "that some means cannot be devised for overcoming the various petty jealousies, and uniting all the musical talent of our town into one society. We fear, however, that this is not likely to happen in our time." The note of despair in the last sentence indicates a bad state of things. But Ryde music seems to have become abnormal in more ways than one. At a Concert given by a certain Society, the conductor, not the audience, awarded an encore. Here are particulars of this very unusual proceeding taken from a local journal: "Parry's 'Blest Pair of Sirens' was encored by the conductor. So far as could be heard, the reason given for the repetition was that some of the audience might not have heard it before. But as this would probably have applied to other items in the programme, it hardly seems a sufficient reason, unless the suggestion is that a taste for Dr. Parry's music has to be acquired." According to another paper, the piece was received with exasperating coldness. If I am not mistaken, the late Hans von Bülow once encored a work he had conducted, but Hans von Bülow was a great man, and, in matters musical, a "chartered libertine." The Ryde conductor should remember that the "choleric word" of the captain becomes, in the mouth of an inferior, "rank blasphemy." Vladimir de Pachmann, on one occasion, encored a solo he had played, but that was for another reason. The audience having applauded his first performance, the eccentric Russian turned upon them: "No, no! You know nothing about it. I played the piece very badly, and will play it again." He did.

AT the recent annual Meeting of the Worcester Musical Society, it was resolved to engage a larger room for the rehearsals, this being necessitated not by the increase of the number of the members, but by the recent increase in the size of the ladies' sleeves, which could not be conveniently accommodated in the old practice room. The motion met with some opposition, but the ladies were decided, and voted in a body for their sleeves.

AT a recent public Reading of "Julius Cæsar," by the Shakespeare Reading Society, the boy Lucius (represented by a young lady), when called upon by Brutus, in his tent at Philippi, to sing, gave "The heart bowed down," from the "Bohemian Girl." Shakespeare and the "poet Bunn"!

AN American paper claims that the "States" have done more than any other nation to swell Mr. Paderewski's banking account. A characteristic way of putting it.

THE American Art Journal says of Mr. Henschel's "Stabat Mater" that the composer has "imprinted upon some of its numbers a depth of feeling that is akin to musical inspiration, while the impress of a strong intellectuality is not lacking in it, and, as is to be expected from a modern composer, the music is emotional when the sense admits of it." I absolutely agree.

THE Song Journal publishes an amusing "interview" with Miss Lola Beeth, one of Sir A. Harris's artists this season. The interviewer (a member of the inferior sex) tried compliments, as usual, but was neatly countered each time. He reminded the lady of Berlin adoration, &c. "A very pretty speech," answered Miss Beeth; "it deserves a sweet reward. Have one of these chocolates, I beg." Again the gentleman: "I consider your Sieglinde quite one of the most attractive we have here"; and once more the lady: "I see you are bidding for more chocolates."

JOSEPH BENNETT.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

THE grand opera season of 1896 promises to be chiefly remarkable for repetitions of long accepted works. On the first night, the 11th ult., Gounod's "Roméo et Juliette" was presented in French, and the two chief characters were impersonated by M. Jean de Reszke and Madame Emma Eames. The voice of the first-named was in perfect condition, and it is doubtful if this artist has ever sung more finely than on this occasion in the opera, the present popularity of which may be said to be due to him. Madame Eames also sang with great charm, and her acting was more demonstrative than formerly, although her Juliette is still more suggestive of Tennyson's Lady Vere de Vere than Shakespeare's love-sick girl of fourteen. Miss Jessie Hudleston is to be congratulated on her first appearance in the so-called "Italian" opera season as Stephano; but we would suggest a trip to Paris to acquire a better accent, and a few lessons in fencing during the next holiday season. Mdlle. Bauermeister, who would seem to have learnt the secret of perpetual youth, appeared "just the same as ever" as Gertrude, and other important parts were effectively played by Messrs. Plançon, Castelmary, Jacques Bars, and Albers. Mr. Bevan, however, who personated the Duke, seemed under the impression that he was playing in melodrama. The chorus and orchestra were up to the average of an opening night, and Signor Mancinelli conducted.

The second night, Miss Marguerite Macintyre gave a forcible impersonation of Santuzza in "Cavalleria Rusticana," showing great advance as an actress and singing with the utmost dramatic emphasis. This lady was well supported by Mdlle. Brazzi, Mdlle. Bauermeister, and Signori de Lucia and Ancona. No greater contrast could have been presented than by following Mascagni's lurid work with Humperdinck's fairy opera "Hänsel und Gretel," which was given in English. The Misses Marie Elba, Jessie Hudleston, and Meisslinger sustained the respective parts of Hänsel, Gretel, and the Witch, with the success achieved on many former occasions; and Miss Lilian Tree appeared as the Mother. The feature of the performance, however, was the impersonation of Peter by Mr. David Bispham, whose reading of the character was remarkable for its humour and intensity of expression. It was one of the cleverest pieces of characterisation this clever artist has given us.

On the 13th ult. Madame Mantelli was introduced to a Covent Garden audience in the title rôle of Donizetti's "La Favorita," and Signor Cremonini re-appeared after an absence of four years. Both these artists made a favourable impression, but more by reason of their acting than by their singing, although the former displayed a voice of considerable power and the vocal tone of the latter has gained in volume. No better exponents of the King and the Priest could be desired than Signor Ancona and Mr. Plançon.

Gounod's charming "Philémon et Baucis" and Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci" occupied the following evening. The cast of the former consisted of Miss Marie Engle and MM. Bonnard, Gillibert, and Castelmary, by whom the work was sympathetically interpreted. In the latter, Miss Margaret Reid impersonated Nedda with intelligence and earnest endeavour that promise well for her future success. Messrs. de Lucia, Ancona, Jacques Bars, and Piroia completed the cast.

A disappointment awaited the large audience who attended, on the 15th ult., to hear M. Jean de Reszke in the title rôle of Gounod's "Faust," for the famous tenor had once more sprained his ankle, and his place was taken by M. Bonnard. This artist, however, sang so well in the part that he may be said to have distinctly increased his reputation on this occasion. Madame Emma Eames sang with delightful refinement and beauty of tone, M. Plançon gave his incomparable personation of Mephistopheles, and M. Albers was excellent as Valentine.

Madame Albani made her first appearance this season, on the 16th ult., as Elsa, in "Lohengrin," and sang with her usual success. Madame Mantelli, as Ortruda, showed herself an artist of great dramatic power, and her singing, saving when her voice was unduly forced, gave admirable expression to the sentiments of the text. Signor Cremonini's voice is too light for the title rôle, but he acted with intelligence and sang sympathetically. The other characters were excellently sustained by Signor Ancona and MM. Plançon and Gillibert. The chorus sang well, but its stolidity greatly detracted from the dramatic effect.

But few words are called for concerning the performance of "Rigoletto," which took place on the 18th ult. The cast included Madame Albani, Madame Mantelli, and Signori de Lucia and Ancona, by whom a traditional reading of the work was given.

Auber's diverting opera "Fra Diavolo" was played on the 20th ult., with nearly the same cast that appeared on its revival last year, the part of Zerlina being charmingly sustained by Miss Marie Engle, and the characters of the Marquis, Beppo, Giacomo, and Lord Rocburg being respectively personated by Signori de Lucia, Pini-Corsi, Arimondi, and Mr. David Bispham. All these artists entered with the greatest spirit into their work, and their efforts were well seconded by Madame Pauline Joran as Lady Pamela and Signor Piroia as Lorenzo. The vivacity of these artists even affected the chorus, several of whom were seen to laugh during the burlesque duet in the last act. It only remains to record the unflagging care and skill of Signori Mancinelli and Bevignani and the excellence of the orchestra over which they preside.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

AT the fourth Concert, on the 6th ult., Mr. F. H. Cowen conducted the first performance of his new Suite, "In Fairyland," composed expressly for the Philharmonic Society. The title teems with suggestions of a kind having such affinity with the most individual characteristics of Mr. Cowen's musical genius that, from the moment of its announcement, everyone competent to form an opinion felt sure of a successful result. And expectations were fully realised. "In Fairyland" presents us with a series of musical character-sketches, graceful, tender, humorous, weird, and grotesque in turns, that won instant favour, not only on account of their poetical significance and appropriate character, but also by reason of the high qualities of musicianship which reveal but never obtrude themselves on every page. The Suite contains six numbers, respectively entitled: "Wood Nymphs," "March of the Giants," "Flower Fairies," "Dance of Gnomes," "Moonbeam Fairies," and "Dance of Witches." The applause at the close was so hearty and continuous that Mr. Cowen repeated the "Witches' Dance." Full justice was done to the charming little pieces by the orchestra, which carried out the intentions of its former chief with commendable zeal. Liszt's E flat Concerto was played with great brilliancy by Mr. Eugene d'Albert, who mastered the tremendous technical difficulties of the work with an ease that justified his claim to rank among the most remarkable virtuosi of our time. The performance of Rubinstein's Staccato study, thrown in as an encore, was, however, by no means the best we have heard. The Symphony was Schumann's "Rhenish." The Misses Salter sang two duets and Sir A. C. Mackenzie conducted with customary watchfulness and energy.

At the fifth Concert the pianist was again Mr. d'Albert, who gave an exceedingly refined, conscientious, and reverent interpretation of Beethoven's lovely Concerto in G. His choice of a single movement from one of the master's Sonatas (that in E flat, Op. 31) as an encore piece was an odd one. The orchestral pieces were Brahms's Sonata in F (No. 3), Mr. German's fine Suite in D minor (composed for the last Leeds Festival), and the Overture to "Euryanthe." Madame Amy Sherwin sang two songs with much refinement of style. At the next Concert Sir A. C. Mackenzie's new "Scottish Fantasia" for pianoforte and orchestra will be played by Mr. Paderewski for the first time.

RICHTER CONCERT.

Exceptional interest is attached to the series of Richter Concerts this season owing to the inclusion in the programmes of several novelties. At the first Concert, which took place on the 18th ult., at St. James's Hall—when the famous conductor received a hearty reception—the Prelude and Entr'acte from Goldmark's new opera "The Cricket on the Hearth" were presented and warmly received by the crowded audience. This music is distinguished by its imitation of the Folk-song style in its melodies and the clear and uninvolved nature of their treatment. It is also most picturesquely scored, with clever realistic touches well calculated to successfully appeal to the average lover of music. Further criticism must be withheld until the work is heard in its entirety and amidst its proper surroundings. A vivacious interpretation was given of the "Meistersinger" Overture, and an almost ideal rendering of the "Parsifal" Prelude, and the Concert was concluded by a fine performance of Tschäikowsky's impressive Fifth Symphony in E minor.

MOTTL CONCERTS.

The first of a series of three Concerts, organised as on former occasions by Mr. Schulz-Curtius, and conducted by Herr Mottl, was given at Queen's Hall on April 28. With the exception of the first two numbers of the opening Concert (Beethoven's "Pastoral" Symphony and "Emperor" Concerto), the three programmes have been drawn exclusively from the works of Wagner. Those of the second and third Concerts, announced as "intended, not as ordinary Concerts, but as a preparation for the ensuing Bayreuth Festival," have naturally been made up entirely of extracts from the "Ring," which will this year be given at Bayreuth for the first time since its production there twenty years ago. Herr Mottl's reading of the "Pastoral" was disappointing. Every detail of the score was clearly brought out, and the performance lacked neither point nor finish; but the spirit of the work—simple, genial, humorous, and hearty—was to a large extent missed. Herr Mottl's gifts are in tendency distinctly dramatic, and the "Pastoral," being a series of "mood-pictures," it is not difficult to understand why his reading of this beautiful work should have been less successful than that of the "Eroica," with which, not long ago, he astonished us all. The pianist in the Concerto was Mr. Eugene d'Albert, who thus appeared in his native country after an absence of fourteen years, during which, we understand, he has forgotten the English language, and has gained a reputation of which, no doubt, the commercial value alone has weighed against his repugnance to the "barbarous land" which he now re-visits as a "foreigner." Those who remembered this gifted artist's playing in 1882, when he was seventeen and knew nothing of Germany, were curious. They recalled not only the effect of his masterly performances here, but also a certain article in the Vienna Signale of March 4, 1882, in which the talents of "the young Anglicised Frenchman, who enjoys in London the tuition of that esteemed virtuoso and pianoforte teacher, Ernst Pauer," were acknowledged with a warmth altogether exceptional; and they wondered whether the improvement inevitable during fourteen years would turn out to be so much greater because they had been spent in Germany, rather than in England or anywhere else. They were quickly enlightened. Mr. d'Albert's performance was marked, in a high degree, by the breadth, intelligence, technical skill, and power that already characterised his playing in 1882, and by a certain impetuosity which induced the Viennese critic already quoted to dub him a "musical Hotspur"; and of course these qualities showed themselves greatly matured. But for traces of anything to justify Mr. d'Albert's extravagant eulogy of the developing powers of the Fatherland, competent judges sought in vain; such improvement as was shown being amply accounted for by the number of years occupied in the process. Much applause was showered on Mr. d'Albert at the close of his task, and after two acknowledgments of it he re-seated himself at his Bechstein and, with tremendous executive power, played an arrangement of Bach's Organ Fugue in D.

The second Concert, on the 14th ult., consisted of the first and last scenes from "Das Rheingold" and the first act of "Die Walküre. The vocalists were Mrs. Mottl, Miss Agnes Janson, Miss Gelber, and Messrs. Carl Nebe and Emil Gerhäuser, of whom Mrs. Mottl and Mr. Nebe carried off the honours.

THE BACH CHOIR.

In accordance with a curious observance which has prevailed of late years, the valuable Bach Choir concluded its labours for the present season with a Concert commencing at five o'clock, or thereabout, this taking place on Tuesday, the 19th ult. The first piece in the programme was the "Stabat Mater" of Emanuele d'Astorga, 1681-1736, whose setting of the ancient Latin hymn has been thrice noticed in The Musical Times within recent years. It is a very pleasant example of the characteristic choral style of the period, and some of the nine movements might unquestionably have been signed by Handel without any doubt as to their authenticity. Robert Franz, with his usual conscientiousness, added parts for clarinets and bassoons to the original meagre score, in place of clavichord or organ, and the work was very creditably rendered on this occasion, under the direction of Professor Villiers Stanford. Miss Fanny Davies was admirable in Bach's Concerto in D minor for pianoforte and orchestra, a splendid example of the old master's methods in dealing with clavier and orchestral instruments. Perhaps the most interesting feature of the Concert was the first performance in London of Dr. Hubert Parry's cantata "The Lotos Eaters," taken from Tennyson and first performed by the Cambridge University Musical Society on June 13, 1892, when the Duke of Devonshire was installed as Chancellor of the University. It is only necessary to add to what was then said that the work must be numbered among the composer's most pleasing inspirations, the music suiting the verse exactly, and being most agreeable and artistic in itself. "The Lotos Eaters," which was conducted by Dr. Parry, should be taken up widely by choral societies. Mr. Forbes Robertson read the opening stanzas leading to the Choric song most impressively.

QUEEN'S HALL CHORAL SOCIETY.

THE jubilee performance of "Elijah," on the 14th ult., was a fitting termination to a successful season. Neither with respect to the solo, the choral, nor the orchestral department was there cause to complain of the carelessness that too often accompanies familiarity with a work so popular as "Elijah." The improvement shown by the choir at preceding Concerts of the series was maintained; indeed, in the matter of vigorous attack there was a decided advance. The strength and unanimity with which the opening chorus was started, the dramatic force characterising the appeals to Baal, and the concentration of energy marking the delivery of the glorious "Thanks be to God" were superb; whilst the less robust choral passages were sung with the most commendable regard for tenderness of expression. Throughout, no notable point was missed by the highly efficient body of singers over which Mr. Randegger presided with his accustomed ability. Mr. Santley repeated his matchless reading of the music of the Prophet and again sang "Is not His Word" with an impulse that evoked the utmost enthusiasm. When it is stated that Mr. Edward Lloyd was in excellent voice, the effect of the tenor airs upon the crowded audience may be easily imagined. Miss Macintyre admirably acquitted herself in the chief soprano airs, and Madame Belle Cole was at ease as leading contralto. The second quartet consisted of Madame Emily Squire, Miss Florence Oliver, Mr. Samuel Masters, and Mr. W. A. Peterkin; and Mr. Henry J. Wood was at the organ. The band earned its share of approval in a performance that reflected credit upon all concerned.

BRIDLINGTON FESTIVAL.

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

AGAIN and again I have been told that, though the West Riding of Yorkshire is musical, the East Riding is not; but no adequate reason for the distinction seems to be forthcoming. There may not be so much music made in the agricultural division as in that mainly devoted to manufactures, but here is no evidence of unequal capacity. As a matter of fact, setting aside considerations of race, which do not now apply, one part of the country is, in point of natural endowment, as musical as another; and such differences as exist are due principally to environment and other circumstances that may be classed as accidental. Amid the quickened life which palpitates in great towns, every manifestation of vitality, physical, artistic, and mental, may be looked for in a special degree, despite unlovely surroundings; but, on the other hand, those who dwell amid scenes of natural beauty are assuredly nearer the source from which art is nourished. I deemed it so, at any rate, when travelling through the East Riding from Selby to Bridlington, what time the sun drooped and set and the gloaming fell as the western sky put off its gorgeous robes of purple and gold. The whole journey was a nocturne more beautiful than any that Field or Chopin ever wrote. Swelling uplands, quiet villages, reposeful wayside stations, at which half-a-dozen people were dropped, and seen, in a minute or two, leisurely moving homewards amid the deepening shadows. Then the lights in solitary farm-houses and cottages, presently multiplying and expanding; finally a sense rather than sight of the sea and a hearing of its everlasting music. Meet nurse, such a land, of that fine and subtle faculty which has its outcome in the art divine. Only opportunity is wanting, and when, by some happy chance, it comes, we have, say, a Bridlington Festival. What is the happy chance in this pleasant little resort—in this quaint fishing village of Bridlington Quay, which has expanded into a sort of north-eastern Shanklin (without the Chine), has covered, and is still covering, wide spaces with broad roads, gardens, and semi-detached villas; which has turned long reaches of foreshore into promenades and pleasant, grassy slopes, and has dared to put itself in rivalry with better-known places on the other side of Flamboro' Head? Growth of this sort does not imply musical festivals, though it may help them when they are born of other agencies. The happy chance in Bridlington's case arises from the proximity of a musical squire—Mr. A. Bosville, of Thorpe Hall—who cherishes a genuine passion for the art, and spares nothing of time, labour, or money when its interests are concerned. Mr. Bosville, as well as being a munificent patron of music, is himself no mean practitioner. He not only built a large organ of four manuals in his Parish Church, but plays it Sunday by Sunday. It was he who founded, and has ever since conducted, the Bridlington Choral Society, and it is through his means that the recurring Festivals are organised and carried on, with the able assistance of an enthusiastic secretary, Mr. Peacock. In a word, the Bridlington Festival is the Squire of Thorpe Hall.

At present, the meetings are limited to one day and two Concerts, that being as much as, under actual circumstances, can safely be ventured. The enterprise is severely handicapped by lack of a good hall, the building hitherto occupied being of limited accommodation and otherwise unsuitable. A new edifice is, however, in course of construction, and will give much needed elbow-room to the Bridlington amateurs. Mr. Bosville draws his chorus almost exclusively from the town, which supplies him with a body of singers having many good points. It cannot compare in volume of tone with the West Riding choirs, especially as regards the male voices; but I noted one advantage possessed by the seaside choralists over their inland brethren. The tenors are really tenors, and not high baritones, some of the voices being particularly remarkable in this respect. How to account for such differences between neighbours I do not pretend to know, but there they are. The sopranos and contraltos were good at the recent meeting; the basses, as Yorkshire basses, lacked power. But, as a whole, the chorus reflected upon their trainer and themselves ample credit; they knew the work they had to do, and did it, generally speaking, with precision and spirit. The orchestra, numbering sixty instruments, gathered from many quarters, shaped into a fairly homogeneous body, considering how little time could be given to general rehearsal.

The programme, instead of containing two or three familiar choral works only, was of a varied character, and offered not a little purely orchestral music. We had, for example, Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony, several selections from Wagner, and Beethoven's Symphony in F (No. 8). There was one novelty for voices and instruments—"A musical panorama of the mythological story of Marsyas and Apollo." For this it was claimed by the composer, Mr. J. Camidge, of Beverley Minster, that voices accompanied the orchestra instead of the orchestra the voices. I need hardly comment upon this distinction. The nature of things was against Mr. Camidge's plan, for, whenever the voices entered, they commanded, as always, primary attention. You may theorise concerning this matter, but you cannot affect a natural supremacy. The work is interesting, much of it being well written and indicative both of imagination and fancy. The composer conducted, but the performance had many defects, due to lack of sufficient rehearsal. The programme included, also, "The Three Ravens," with a clever orchestral accompaniment by Mr. Coleridge Taylor. Among the more or less well-known works presented were the "Walpurgis Night," "A Song of Destiny" (Brahms), and the "Golden Legend." The last-named was performed without the bells—a euphonium acting as substitute. It turned out that the bells, through an admitted mistake on the part of the postal authorities in transmitting the telegram, travelled from London to Brislington instead of Bridlington.

The solo vocalists were Miss Helen Jackson, Miss Edna Thornton, Mr. Hirwen Jones, Mr. Paul Mahlendorff, and Mr. Francis Harford, with Mrs. Bosville. Each artist contributed more or less to the success obtained, while the "Squire," a vigorous and watchful conductor, won ample laurels from his friends and neighbours. Such festivals as that at Bridlington are distinctly to be noticed and encouraged, and have, it may be, a greater claim than others which, as established institutions, can take care of themselves. For myself, at any rate, I consider no pains spent upon them as wasted.

BRISTOL ROYAL ORPHEUS GLEE SOCIETY.

Not even in the North of England is there any place where music is more assiduously cultivated than it is in Bristol; but for many years, unfortunately, the Western city was a house divided against itself, for reasons which it would now be unnecessary to discuss. All is now in harmony, and that it will long prevail must be the wish of every lover of the art in its highest forms. Among the many musical societies in Bristol, that known as the "Orpheus" holds a foremost place, the rendering of unaccompanied part-music for male voices by this Association being unsurpassable. These earnest amateurs paid one of their periodical visits to London, and gave a Concert in St. James's Hall, on April 24, which afforded an artistic treat to all who were present. The programme opened with Tom Cooke's familiar "Strike the lyre," and this was followed by Sir Arthur Sullivan's beautiful part-song "The long day closes." The next important piece was the splendid five-part glee "I wish to tune my quiv'ring lyre," by the younger Wesley. Horsley's "Cold is Cadwallo's tongue" was in the scheme. The composer of this piece was born in 1774, and flourished at a time when glee singing was more cultivated in England than it is at present. In memoriam of Sir Joseph Barnby, the lamented composer's setting of Tennyson's words "Home they brought her warrior dead" was sung, and another eminent English musician, Sir John Goss, was represented by "Ossian's Hymn to the Sun," which has been well described as a striking specimen of the talent of a composer, of whom it is rightly said that "his music is always melodious and beautifully written for voices, and is remarkable for a union of solidity and grace with a certain unaffected charm which ought to ensure it a long life." Mr. Henschel's bold and effective song "Jung Dieterich" was finely sung by Mr. Andrew Black, and Miss Esther Palliser contributed pleasantly written songs, "Once more only" and "Maytide," by Oscar Meyer, accompanied by the composer. Other pieces by Carl Eckert, J. J. Viotta (a Dutch composer of some repute, born in 1814 and died in 1859), Mr. W. A. Cruickshank, Dr. Henry Hiles, Mr. Clowes Bayley, Laurent de Rille, and Mendelssohn were included in this extremely interesting and enjoyable Concert, which Mr. George Riseley conducted with all possible skill. The qualities which distinguish the Bristol Orpheus Society are beauty of tone (the male altos being simply incomparable), firmness and resonance in the tenors and basses, and the most delicious observance of the nuances. The West country may well be proud of this Association.

MR. FRITZ MASBACH'S CONCERT.

The excellent Concert given by this artist at St. James's Hall, on the 11th ult., deserved to attract a larger audience than it did, for Mr. Masbach is a pianist of remarkable attainments, who can both astonish by a striking display of technique and force, and charm by refinement, elegance, and genuine expression. His fine qualities were shown to the best advantage in Chopin's Concerto in E minor, Saint-Saëns's similar work in G minor, and some smaller pieces, amongst which a little known Sinfonia by J. S. Bach deserves mention. Mr. Masbach's most successful effort was M. Saint-Saëns's brilliant work, which was given with all possible dash and breadth. The conductor was Mr. F. H. Cowen. He produced a delightful Suite of "Four English Dances in the olden style," from his pen, which we venture to prophesy will quickly make the round of our concert-halls, and delight all—and they are the vast majority of concert-goers—who can appreciate spontaneous, graceful melody, captivating rhythms, esprit, and that most welcome musical quality best described by the simple word "charm." These Dances are written in Mr. Cowen's best manner, and are scored with all his well-known mastery; every part stands out with stereoscopic distinctness, nothing is blurred or miscalculated, and whether a piece is scored for small orchestra, like No. 1 (Stately Dance) and No. 3 (Graceful Dance), or for the full modern complement of instruments, like No. 2 (Rustic Dance) and No. 4 (Country Dance), the result is ever "effective" in the best sense of the word. The four pieces are agreeably contrasted in rhythm, melodic material, orchestration, and style; and though as a whole they form a beautiful little Suite, each dance could be detached without loss to its effectiveness. The Suite was splendidly played and enthusiastically received.

THURSDAY SUBSCRIPTION CONCERTS.

At the third of these Concerts, in the Queen's (Small) Hall, on April 30, the first part was devoted to a selection from Brahms's compositions. The most important of the instrumental works was the fine Sonata for pianoforte and violoncello (Op. 38) in E minor, played with such finish by Miss Muriel Elliot and Mr. Hans Brousil as to closely hold the attention of the audience throughout. Subsequently Miss Elliot gave a refined performance of the two pianoforte pieces, "Intermezzo" (Op. 117) and the "Ballade" (Op. 118). As Miss Louise Phillips was too unwell to appear, the three charming songs attached to her name—"Lied" (Op. 6), "Mädchenlied" (Op. 107), and "Ständchen" (Op. 106)—had to be omitted, the only vocal piece by which the composer was represented being "Wie bist du meine Königin," contributed by Madame de Fonblanque. In the miscellaneous second part, Mr. Hans Brousil admirably rendered Max Bruch's "Kol Nidrei" and Davidoff's "Am Springbrunnen," and Miss Muriel Elliot was equally successful in Chopin's Nocturne in F and an Etude by Liszt. Mr. Jack Robertson assisted with songs.

Dvorák held the place of honour on the 14th ult. The selection was opened with the masterly Quintet for pianoforte and strings (Op. 81), to which justice was done by Messrs. Franz Liebich, Arbos, Wallace Sutcliffe, W. Ackroyd, and Hans Brousil, the beautiful Andante being played with exceptional smoothness and unity of feeling. Mrs. Helen Trust sang in her best style "Die Stickerin," "Frühling," and "Am Bache"; and Mr. Brousil had for violoncello solo the "Waldesruhe-Klid." Subsequently Señor Arbos obtained his chance as violinist in one of Chopin's Nocturnes and a Mazurka by Zarzychi, neat performances both; and Mr. Franz Liebich was deservedly complimented upon his reading of Chopin's Fantasie in F minor. Mr. Arthur Walenn in several songs gave promise of future distinction, and Mrs. Helen Trust delighted her listeners with "The Lass with the delicate air."

PEOPLE'S PALACE.

Dr. Hubert Parry's oratorio "Judith" was given at one of the interesting Saturday Popular Concerts at the People's Palace, Mile End, on the 9th ult., by the combined forces of the vocal and orchestral classes connected with this Institution, under the direction of Mr. C. H. Allen Gill. The performance, taking into consideration the not altogether easy character of the music, was a capital one, both chorus and orchestra vying with each other to furnish eloquent testimony of the ability of their conductor, who must have brought to bear an amazing amount of zeal and energy in order to produce such excellent results. It was good to hear the fresh young voices of the choristers and mark their ready attack, while the orchestra, which included several lady members, performed its task with equal spirit and manifest enjoyment. It was good to notice also the highly appreciatory attitude of the numerous audience and the hearty, but by no means indiscriminate applause bestowed. One would have liked the composer to have witnessed this production of his work in the East-end of London. The solo parts were very satisfactorily rendered by Miss Helen Buckley, Miss Hannah Jones, Messrs. William Davies and Arthur Barlow; Miss Buckley, as the sympathetic representative of the heroine, coming in for an extra share of the applause. The children's parts were well sung by Masters S. Marchand and P. Hale. Mr. B. Jackson was, as usual, a very efficient organist.

VARIOUS RECITALS.

Madame Frickenhaus, one of the most earnest of English pianists and musicians, gave a Chamber Concert in St. James's Hall, on Wednesday afternoon, April 29, with an interesting programme. The concerted instrumental works were M. Saint-Saëns's Pianoforte Trio in E minor (Op. 92), a work, of course, well written, but not possessing much individuality; and a clever Sonata for pianoforte and violin, also in E minor, by M. René de Boisdeffre. Madame Frickenhaus had as co-artists in the instrumental works Messrs. Simonetti and Paul Ludwig, and Miss Ada Crossley was charming in vocal pieces.

On the 1st ult. Mr. Eugene d'Albert gave the first of his Pianoforte Recitals since his return to us, before an exceedingly scanty audience. Starting with a very clever transcription from his own pen of Bach's celebrated "Passacaglia" for organ, he followed with Beethoven's Sonata Appassionata in F minor (Op. 57), the interpretation of which, though correct and tasteful, was not in any way striking. More picturesque was that of Schumann's magnificent Fantasia in C (Op. 17), which was given with mingled pathos and energy, and also, it may be said, with unimpeachable technique; but neither in this nor in a Nocturne and Polonaise of Chopin did Mr. d'Albert show himself to be particularly in sympathy with music of the so-called "Romantic" school.

There seems to be a perfect mania at present for playing Bach's pedal organ works on the pianoforte, and Mr. d'Albert commenced the programme of his second Recital, on the 12th ult., with an arrangement of the brilliant Prelude and Fugue in D, which he played with great power. His rendering of the "Waldstein" Sonata, which followed, was the finest heard in a London concert-room since the days of Rubinstein and Bülow. The B minor Sonata and two smaller pieces by Chopin were played with plenty of fire, but also with a lack of delicacy and refinement that clearly indicated the pianist's limitations. There was nothing to complain of in his readings of Mozart's Rondo in A minor, Brahms's Rhapsody (Op. 79, No. 2), or a group of pieces by Liszt.

Mr. d'Albert's third Recital took place on the 19th ult., when he played, much as on previous occasions, with little distinction of style, but with perfect technical accuracy. No details are required, for there were no important novelties in the programme. Enough for the present that Mr. d'Albert has fairly well re-established himself in the favour of the English public.

Mr. Willy Burmester, who made such a great impression as a violinist last season, has been giving three performances in St. James's Hall. The first took place on Monday, the 4th ult. He was associated with Mr. Ernest Hutcheson, an able pianist, in Bach's Violin Sonata in A (No. 2) and Beethoven's Duet Sonata in F (Op. 24). The late Wieniawski's ingenious Fantasia on themes from Gounod's "Faust" displayed Mr. Burmester's marvellous technique to the fullest extent. At the second Recital, on the 11th ult., the principal concerted works given by the same artists were Beethoven's Duet Sonata in C minor (No. 7) and Schubert's bright and tuneful work for the same combination of instruments in G minor (No. 3). Both executants played solos in a very pleasant way, the composers represented being Spohr, Brahms, and Paganini. The third Recital, on the 18th ult., commenced with a performance, accompanied on the pianoforte, of Spohr's Violin Concerto in E minor (No. 7). Mr. Ernest Hutcheson played pretty pianoforte pieces by himself, Scarlatti, and Liszt most commendably. Unfortunately, near the close of Bach's Sonata in E for violin solo, which Mr. Burmester was playing brilliantly, a string broke and he had to bring the performance of the work to a premature conclusion.

Miss Clotilde Kleeberg, a delightful pianist who has not been much with us of late, gave a sort of combined Recital and Chamber Concert, at St. James's Hall, on the evening of the 7th ult. She was associated with Mr. Johannes Wolff in Rubinstein's Sonata in A minor for pianoforte and violin (Op. 19), a melodious work dating from the Russian virtuoso's early period. Miss Kleeberg interpreted the whole of Schumann's Phantasiestücke (Op. 12) with charming finish, and also minor numbers by Brahms, Rubinstein, Moszkowski, Earnest Redon, Théodore Dubois, Chaminade, and Saint-Saëns—a sufficiently lengthy selection. Mr. Johannes Wolff contributed some violin solos, and Miss Jeanne Greta and Miss Ada Crossley some appropriate vocal selections.

The English musical public are generally very slow to recognise new talent, but Mr. Emil Sauer at once gained favour with us, and his Pianoforte Recitals last month, in St. James's Hall, were very well attended, especially the second. At the first, on the 9th ult., there were some unfamiliar pieces in the programme, one being a Prelude and Fugue by Rubinstein (Op. 53), the first of a set of six, and another Brahms's ingenious Variations and Fugue on a theme by Handel. Four pleasing little salon pieces from the pianist's own pen were included, but the most important work was Beethoven's Sonata in E (Op. 109), which was played in an unostentatious and purely classical style. Perhaps, however, Mr. Sauer was heard to the greatest advantage in three favourite pieces by Chopin, which he rendered with beautiful expression.

In the second Recital, on the following Saturday, the most important features were Chopin's Sonata in B minor (Op. 58) and Schumann's "Carnaval." The former is a fine and original work, but it is less frequently played than the companion Sonata in B flat minor, probably because the latter contains the impressive Funeral March. Mr. Sauer played the work in B minor to perfection, and the same remark will apply to his rendering of the "Carnaval," which excited the audience into a frenzy of delight. Pieces by Beethoven and Brahms were given with the utmost finish, and the scheme ended with Liszt's Rhapsodie (No. 12), after which there was a great demonstration and the artist yielded two more pieces.

Miss Maud MacCarthy, a young lady violinist, pupil of Mr. Arbos, was responsible for a Violin Recital on Monday afternoon, the 11th ult., at the Queen's Hall. She is a well trained and bright executant, and displayed admirable technique in solos by various composers, such as Mendelssohn and Professor Stanford, and in Beethoven's Sonata for pianoforte and violin (Op. 30, No. 2), playing with a considerable measure of taste and intelligence. Miss Louise Phillips was in all respects agreeable in vocal pieces. Miss Fanny Davies was, of course, above criticism as the pianist.

Miss Muriel Elliot, a pleasing and rapidly improving pianist, gave a Recital at St. James's Hall, on the afternoon of the 14th ult., and gave much proof of her growing talents in Beethoven's Variations in E flat (Op. 35) and the Sonata in F sharp (Op. 78), and in various pieces by Schumann, Chopin, Brahms, Liszt, and Stavenhagen.

MR. BISPHAM'S CONCERT.

It is doubtful if Mr. David Bispham's remarkable versatility and dramatic instinct have ever been more advantageously shown on the concert-platform than on the 1st ult., when he gave an "extra" Concert at St. James's Hall. His first four songs, which consisted of Bach's humorous "Hat man nicht," from the "Coffee" cantata, Mozart's "L'Addio," Beethoven's "An die Geliebte," and Schumann's "Der Hidalgo," were sung with keen appreciation of their several sentiments and composers' idiosyncrasies and rare command of variety of vocal timbre. No less successful was the interpretation of a selection from Blumenthal's attractive "Two Books of Song" (Op. 101), which exemplify this refined composer at his best; and equal justice was done to two expressive lyrics, "Ob Ich dich liebe" and "Im Traum," by Adela Maddison, and Hubert Parry's "Spring Song" and "Good Night." The singing by Mdlle. Landi of excerpts from the writings of Saint-Säens, Buononcini, and Sausay was also distinguished by a high degree of artistic perception and ability, combined with vocal tone of fine quality. The Concert was commenced with a Pianoforte Quartet in C minor (Op. 15), by Gabriel Fauré, which was excellently played by the composer and Messrs. Brodsky, Hobday, and Squire. The work is a bright example of this esteemed musician's talent and skill, and the two middle movements in particular greatly pleased the large audience. M. Brodsky's abilities as a violinist were further attested by his renderings of Bach's Chaconne in D minor and the Adagio from Spohr's Ninth Concerto.

ROYAL INSTITUTION.

Under the title of "Three Emotional Composers," Mr. F. Corder began, on the 9th ult., a series of Lectures at the Royal Institution on the life and works of Berlioz, Wagner, and Liszt. The lecturer said that if Weber, Chopin, Mendelssohn, and Schumann were classed as the leaders of the so-called Romantic School of Music, a different label was required for Berlioz, Wagner, and Liszt, whose appeal to the emotions was more intense, their disregard of classic tradition more complete, their methods more daring and original. Instead of treating the muse with reverence they made her the slave of a sister art to which she was chained, whether for good or ill. These three men, who had been called the Emotionalists, had done great deeds and had left, perhaps, a more enduring trace in the world than the Romanticists; but it should be remembered that the work of the latter was abstract music—the purest and noblest of human inventions—while that of the former was applied music, which sometimes possessed very slight artistic value. Particularly was that the case with the writings of Hector Berlioz, who was a man of intellect with little of that fine discriminating ear which was called the musical faculty. He was attracted by the dramatic and suggestive possibilities of the art, but he never mastered its technicalities, and his compositions contained an appalling amount of ungrammatical phrases. Everyone knew the burlesque "Amen" chorus which Berlioz perpetrated in his "Faust" cantata; but no one had yet pointed out the fact that though well enough as a parody it was but a very feeble specimen of fugal writing. It did not come within a thousand miles of Wagner's amazing street riot fugue in "Die Meistersinger," Hiller used to say of him, "He vas always poseur—what you call show-off," and as he was in life so he was in art. Even his strongest talent — instrumentation — confirmed this view. He seemed always saying to himself, not "How shall I work out or harmonise this theme to enhance its beauties?" but "How shall I astonish my audience next?" He laboured at his compositions even more than Beethoven, and was perpetually using up old materials. Nearly every number of "Faust" was a hash-up of old pieces. "Lelio" was the most unconscionable pasticcio of all studio-sweepings, and even the Symphonie Fantastique had its romantic story invented in order to chain together four such incongruous pieces as a ball scene, a pastoral, a march to the scaffold, and a witch's Sabbath. It was in these things that his want of artistic conscience was often painfully apparent. As regards Berlioz's hatred of journalism, it was only consistent with his character to hate that for which he really had talent. That he was no poet was painfully apparent in the libretto of his "Faust" cantata—surely the most silly and degraded version of the story ever put forward; but as a writer of witty and sprightly feuilletons he was in his element. Berlioz had been lauded as a genius by some and regarded as a humbug by others; few really knew his music, fewer still, knowing it, found it sympathetic; but his intentions and claim were so imposing as to blind people to his actual achievements. As an illustration of Berlioz's lyrical compositions, "La Captive" was sung by Miss MacCullach.

The discourse upon Wagner was begun by a brief sketch of the composer's life and the circumstances under which his works were produced. The lecturer pointed out that nearly all the great musicians, with the conspicuous exception of Beethoven, had been younger sons, often the youngest of large families, as in the case of Wagner, who was the last of nine children. He wrote his first libretto at Prague in 1832. It was entitled "Rosalie," but the manuscript had disappeared and only a few numbers existed. Wagner's real career commenced in 1833 by his engagement as chorus-master at the Theatre of Würzburg. Speaking of Wagner's personality, the lecturer said that he was a small but well-made man, vivacious, restless, but of commanding presence, with a grand frontal development. He was refined, rather too fond of luxury and rich surroundings; a splendid talker, but impatient of contradiction; a great reader, and deeply versed in mediæval literature and ancient legends. As a writer his style was turgid and ponderous, and it was doubtful if his essays would be largely read; but they had served their purpose, for the principles they had set forth had been accepted. Wagner had been well described as the best abused man in Europe. One great reason of the fierce criticism with which he had been assailed lay in the startling novelty of his works combined with their dramatic intensity. These two qualities had enabled him to appeal successfully to the general audience, which had no critical facility, no prejudice, and no technical knowledge. On the other hand, critics with definite artistic principles, different to his, felt themselves insulted and outraged by his bold flouting of their cherished traditions. It was to be questioned whether life was worth living to this man who, suffering from perpetual disease, strove all his life, as few have ever striven, at the solution of art problems in the face of such persistent opposition. Only the creative artist knew what pangs his art cost him. In the higher branches he knew himself to be alone, with only a mob below calling to him to come down and not play the fool up there. Cold was the wind on Parnassian heights; everything was against him. The lust for fame was not enough to urge him upwards, and unless he felt the divine madness which forced him to climb and climb until he died of exhaustion, he had better indeed listen to those voices below; for no reward this world could offer was commensurate with the sufferings he must undergo. One of the charges most frequently made against Wagner was that he despised melody, a cry which doubtless arose from his condemnation of that conventional form of opera which consisted of a string of separate numbers like a concert programme. Wagner's melodies were at first a reflex of the style of his time; thus, in "The Fairies," we found a soprano scena which would pass anywhere as being by Spohr, and the Finale to the second act mimicked Weber to the life. Portions of "Rienzi" were in the style of Bellini and early Verdi, traces of whose mannerisms might be seen in the "Flying Dutchman" and "Tannhäuser." As Wagner's powers and resources grew, however, his invention kept pace with them, until a startling amount of individuality was manifested. With his imitation of the Scandinavian alliterative verse the musical texture became more and more homogeneous, until very quickly an entirely new form of musical art was evolved—a continuous polyphonic web in the orchestra, of infinite elasticity as to duration and character, while the voice part delivered the text in a free declamation which was indeed like glorified speech. The melodies were in each succeeding work more and more glowing and intense in character, but necessarily more and more indefinite in form. Wagner's use of successive common chords in his earlier writings was sometimes hard and unfeeling; but he evidently felt this, and it was interesting to note his struggles to overcome it in the "Flying Dutchman" and "Tannhäuser" by the invention of new harmonic progressions. Not until the "Rhinegold," however, did we find perfect harmonic control, and then the strides made in each succeeding work were gigantic. The greatest attraction of Wagner's dramas was their novelty and utter unconventionality; each of his great music-dramas was a fresh departure and seemed as though written by a fresh man. It was impossible to say whether "Siegfried," "The Miestersinger," "Tristan," or "Parsifal" was the greatest work, because it was so difficult to compare them. Each stood as a peerless monument, to be admired more and more as time went on; to suffer temporary eclipse, possibly, by some more recent rival, but never to sink into oblivion while any art worshippers existed.

GRESHAM LECTURES.

Professor Bridge delivered his usual spring series of Musical Lectures in connection with Gresham College, from the 11th to the 15th ult., at the City of London School. The first Lecture was devoted to Thomas Ravenscroft, a student at the Gresham College Lectures nearly three hundred years ago. Ravenscroft, who was chiefly known by his musical setting of the Psalter, took his musical degree at Cambridge in 1607, and published during Shakespeare's lifetime the catch "Hold thy peace, thou knave," which occurred in "Twelfth Night." In 1614 he published "A Briefe Discourse," a musical treatise in which an attempt was made to revive some of the old practices of musical notation and to return to the intricacies of the older theorists, which Morley and others of the more advanced views wished to throw aside.

Ravenscroft was fifteen years old when Dr. John Bull, the first Gresham Professor, began at the Gresham College his lectures on music, some of the first of which Ravenscroft most likely attended. He spoke of the singular help and benefit he had derived from the Gresham "Music Readers," and had expressed his admiration of "that most famous foundation," not only on account of music, that "liberal science which I do profess," which was "the earthly solace of men's souls," but also on account "of other sciences." Amongst the musicians Ravenscroft mentioned was Edward Piers, whose name did not appear in musical dictionaries, but who at one time was "master of the children of St. Paul's." Ravenscroft included in his book some of this composer's writings, amongst them being two vivacious hunting songs, one consisting of a vocal solo with a short chorus, and the other a spirited descriptive musical sketch of the chase with the realistic but strange refrain of "Yibble yabble, gibble gabble, hey."

Ravenscroft divided his musical pieces into five "Recreations," which, in his estimation, consisted of "hunting, hawking, dancing, drinking, and enamouring." Examples from Ravenscroft's music were admirably sung by Messrs. W. Fell, F. Cozens, C. Ackerman, D. Price, and choristers of Westminster Abbey, the pieces including Piers's characteristic hunting songs and J. Benet's "The lover to his mistress." The last-named was first sung as arranged for four voices by Thomas Oliphant, and subsequently as originally written for a solo voice with a delicate accompaniment for viols. Thomas Oliphant had, the lecturer said, made a very pretty part-song out of Benet's composition; but he had put in some modernisms and had altered the words, the lady in the original version rejoicing in "a cherry nose." Ravenscroft also published a number of "catches," amongst which was found the original version of "Three Blind Mice." This was in a minor key, and with different words, though, strange to say, with the same rhymes as those of the well known version.

The second Lecture was of particular interest to organists, the subject being Handel's Concertos. These works, the lecturer said, were all written in the best period of this composer's life. They were published in three sets, the first appearing in 1738. Only the first and third sets were really Organ Concertos, the second set being originally written for other instruments and subsequently adapted for the organ. Handel left much to the organist to improvise in these works, one of them being marked in no less than six places Organo ad Libitum. The illustrations included a brilliant performance of the third Concerto in D minor, in which the organ part was played by Professor Bridge, and the orchestra was skilfully conducted by Mr. John E. Borland.

At the last two Lectures, Professor Bridge returned to the subject of Schubert's pianoforte works and songs. Concerning this composer's pianoforte music, the lecturer said that the larger works suffered from over-diffuseness; and, it might be added, by technical difficulties which in many instances were not compensated for by the effect produced. Schubert had written arpeggios and broken-chord figures which were most trying to perform, and had been written with little or no regard to the structure of the human hand. Several of his pieces were rendered very fatiguing to the executant by the long-continued and forcible wrist action required. These facts seem to indicate that Schubert himself, although not a trained pianist, was a player who possessed considerable technical ability; for his compositions were rarely performed in his own lifetime, and, as he wrote little for celebrated performers, it was evident that his own capabilities on the keyboard must have been in his mind when he penned his pianoforte works. The illustrations at this Lecture consisted of the Sonata in A minor (Op. 143) and the rarely-heard Impromptu in F minor (Op. 142, No. 1), both of which were effectively played by Miss Augusta Spiller; and the Overture in D for four hands, in the rendering of which Miss Spiller had the able assistance of Miss Marian Emuss. The last-named work was, the lecturer said, founded on subjects which Schubert also used in the well known "Rosamunde" Overture. This work was composed in 1823, and evidence suggested that the pianoforte version dated from the year 1817.

At the Lecture on Schubert's songs, an attractive selection of some of the best and least known of Schubert's lyrics were most effectively sung by Miss Elvira Gambogi, Mr. Daniel Price, and Mr. William Fell. The songs were sung in German, the Professor creating much amusement by reading some of the extraordinary attempts of their English translators. A high tribute of praise was paid to the beauty and expressiveness of Schubert's songs, both with regard to the appropriateness of the voice parts and also to their accompaniments, which in this instance were excellently played by Mr. J. Borland. It is to be hoped that the Professor will make this composer the subject of some of his Lectures next year, as his doing so would form an instructive and welcome acknowledgment of the centenary of Schubert's birth, which occurs next January.

MUSICAL ASSOCIATION.

"Tendencies of the operatic stage in the nineteenth century" was the title of a thoughtful and suggestive paper read by Mr. Visetti, on the 12th ult., at the Monthly Meeting of the above Association. The lecturer said that since the time of the Reformation no century had witnessed such radical changes in human thought as had taken place during the last hundred years. All political, social, scientific, and artistic principles and methods had been altered, and a strict practical and logical consideration appeared happily to be the accepted leading theory in all branches of learning. One of the greatest changes had taken place in the essence and form of opera. Of what was understood to constitute an opera in the early part of this century nothing now remained. The palmy days of Italian opera showed a branch of art which had reached its highest technical and intellectual development. It was an exhibition in the highest and noblest sense of the capabilities of the vocal art in its dramatic and bravura style. The importance of the plot was limited to offering a certain logical and varied succession of vocal pieces, on the dominant emotional character of each of which the composer was to write a melody. The character of the melody, the degree of its efficiency to stir in the heart of the audience a feeling akin to the one under which the singer was supposed to labour, and the possibilities it afforded him of showing off his vocal powers constituted the degree of excellence of each piece, and the greater or less number of excellent pieces constituted the greater or less degree of excellence of the whole opera. The action of the drama was rushed through in recitativo secco, which was the artistic mortar to fill up the crevices that would otherwise remain between the successive different expressions of feeling. The great change that had come about had been chiefly induced by Rossini's "William Tell." This work enlarged the views of the audience, the dramatic action was brought into greater prominence, the orchestra sustained the musical interest in the action, and the mise-en-scène assisted in the dramatic effect. The train of thought thus set in motion was productive of the school of the Paris Grand Opéra, from "Robert le Diable" to "La Juive," a school as false as it was gorgeous, and one doomed to disappear like all works of transition; but which had done much intellectual good as giving evidence of the possibility of having a musical drama, and of the necessity of calling in other arts to achieve this end. One thing to be found in "William Tell" was absolutely unprecedented, and that was local colour. Not the old-fashioned device of introducing popular melodies or national tunes, but the successful striving to create musically impressions like those evoked in the mind of the artistic observer of foreign scenery and customs. This was the effect produced by "Carmen," "Cavalleria," and "Shamus O'Brien." After referring to the works of Verdi, the lecturer said that the foundation of a clearly delineated new form of operatic art was laid by Wagner in "Tannhäuser" and "Lohengrin." With these works opera passed into the domain of the poet. In the present day, though the general public complained that there was not, as in the past, the great composer whose name was a household word from the palace to the cottage, yet, as a matter of fact, we were richer in talent and in genius on the operatic stage than in any other generation; only the ideal to be reached had taken such a superb flight that it stood far above the heads of men who, fifty years ago, could touch the ideal of their day by simply stretching out their hand. The end of the nineteenth century saw the realisation of Wagner's musical drama; but would the generations of the twentieth century accept the balance of the art in the musical drama as determined by Wagner? It was doubtful. Preposterous as it might seem, yet everything pointed to the possibility that the future method of expressing dramatic action, which should answer the feeling of a fresh and unbiassed generation, would be evolved from the form of the modern English popular drama, in which, however roughly, the words represented the material and the music the emotional part of the action.

The paper was followed by an interesting discussion, in which the chairman, Sir George Grove, and Dr. Maclean, Mr. Goldschmidt, Mr. Southgate, and Mr. Gilbert Webb took part.

MORECAMBE MUSIC COMPETITIONS.

THE music Competitions at Morecambe grow in importance year by year. They were instituted in 1891 in a small way, but this year there were more than 1,000 competitors in the various classes. As the chief prizes offered are not restricted to local organisations, choirs from a great distance are attracted to this pleasant seaside resort.

The competitions this year were held in the Winter Gardens on April 25. There were classes for schools, female voice choirs, men's voice quartets, church choirs, village choirs, and choral societies. About £60 was offered in prizes. Mr. W. G. McNaught and the Rev. Hylton Stewart, of New Brighton, adjudicated. The men's voice quartet singing, in which the Leeds Victoria Quartet came first and Lancaster Parish Church second, excited great interest; but the open competition of choral societies was the most closely contested event. The test pieces were "Great God of Love" (Pearsall) and "The sea hath its pearls" (Pinsuti). There were ten entries. The singing of some of the choirs was particularly fine. The Saltaire Choir (Mr. Ashworth) came first; Blackburn, Batley, Bradford, and Blackpool following in the order named. In the contest of local choirs, the Hornby choir came first and Yealand second. Smart's "Ave Maria" was the test piece. At the evening Concert, the playing of Miss Sarah Berry was a leading feature. It is expected that two days will in future have to be devoted to the competitions. Mr. J. W. Aldous, a well-known local professor of music, is the secretary, and very much of the great success of the Festival is due to his skill and industry in the management.

BERLIN ACADEMY BI-CENTENARY.

THE two hundredth anniversary of the foundation, by the Elector Frederick III., afterwards first King of Prussia, of the Berlin Academy of Arts, was celebrated in that capital last month by a grand reception, held in the Hall of the Museum, on the 3rd ult., and by a three days' Musical Festival, taking place between the 5th and the 8th ult. On the former occasion the Emperor, addressing at some length the Academicians and others present, including a number of deputations from foreign countries, concluded his oration with the hope that before long the schools connected with the Academy would have new and more extensive accommodation provided for them, and adding his heart-felt wishes for the further beneficial development of the Institution in the coming century. The programmes of the subsequent musical performances were limited to works by Academicians past and present—Mozart and Beethoven with others being not amongst their number, while Wagner had been elected a few years before his death. The Concert of the first day was held at the Singakademie and opened with two numbers, the "Sanctus" and "Agnus Dei," from Eduard Grell's sixteen-part Mass, splendidly executed by the choir of the Singakademie, under Professor Blumner's direction. This was followed by Cherubini's String Quartet in D minor, played by the Joachim Quartet party. Other numbers were an "Offertorium" by Hauptmann, three of Loewe's Balladen, finely sung by M. Joh. Messchaërt, and three of Taubert's "Kinderlieder," given by Frau Schultzen von Asten; the Concert concluding with Spohr's double String Quartet in E minor, brilliantly interpreted by the Halir and Joachim Quartet parties. The Concert of the 7th, taking place at the Philharmonic, was devoted exclusively to the first production in Berlin of Herr Max Bruch's oratorio "Moses," written to a libretto by Dr. Ludwig Spitta, in which the choirs of the Hochschule, the Philharmonic choir, and that of the Lehrer Verein took part, the orchestra being that of the Hochschule. Dr. Reimann presided at the organ and there were some seven hundred executants in all, under the direction of Dr. Joachim. The work met with a good reception, it being considered especially strong in its choral portions. The solo parts were in the hands of Frau Herzog, Herren Fessler and Dierich. The final Concert, on the following day, again given at the Philharmonic, included a work by Richard Wagner—to wit, his "Faust" Overture, performed by the Philharmonic orchestra, under Dr. Joachim's conductorship, which was followed by a "Geistliches Lied," by Friedrich Kiel, Brahms's C minor Symphony, and Mendelssohn's "Walpurgisnacht," the latter interpreted by the Philharmonic choir, with Fräulein Helene Jordan, Herren Dierich, Fessler, and Krolop in the solo parts. Dr. Joachim conducted throughout. The Concerts were attended by very numerous audiences.

THE VIENNA MOZART MONUMENT.

"WITH the unveiling of the statue of the revered artist an old debt of honour is being paid, in a worthy manner, by this city. A monument erected, like this, by a grateful populace more than a hundred years after the subject thereof has passed away, has a far greater value than those which are hastened on after the demise of some meritorious contemporary, when feelings of personal friendship and social considerations frequently interfere with an impartial estimate of the relative greatness and importance of him to be so honoured."—Thus Herr Nicolas Dumba, the president of the committee, in his able speech in connection with the ceremony of unveiling the Mozart monument in the Austrian capital, on April 21. There was considerable ingenuity, and some unconscious irony in the argument employed by the speaker, there having certainly been no undue haste in the present instance, and "the greatness and importance of him to be honoured" had been for some time finally established. But, at any rate, the debt has at length been discharged, and a very fine statue of the master now adorns his beloved Kaiserstadt. It is of Tyrolese marble, and represents the composer, dressed in the style of the period, in an ideal attitude—a moment of inspiration—his left hand taking hold of a music leaf on a desk by his side, his right hand gracefully extended. The figure, which is nine feet high, is supported by a marble and granite base, tastefully ornamented and bearing, front and back, relievos representing the churchyard scene in "Don Giovanni" and the well-known picture of the child Mozart at the pianoforte, with his father and sister listening. The monument, which stands on the Albrechtsplatz, the site of the old opera-house, bears the simple inscription: "Mozart, MDCCLVI.-MDCCXCI." The ceremony of unveiling took place in the presence of the Emperor Francis Joseph and a large concourse of spectators, a mournful note running through the proceedings on account of the death, some few days previously, of the sculptor, Herr Tilgner, to whom feeling reference was made both by the Emperor and Herr Dumba. The singing on the part of the Vienna Maenner-Gesangverein of the "Bundeslied" and the Priests' chorus from "Die Zauberflöte" was the only musical manifestation on this occasion. Music had, however, its full share in the celebrations connected with the event, which extended over an entire week. A Festival Concert was given on April 19, commencing with a prologue written by the esteemed Austrian poet Ferdinand von Saar, and including an excellent performance by the Singverein (conducted by Herr von Perger) of the sublime "Ave verum"; the E flat major Symphony by the Philharmonic orchestra, under Dr. Hans Richter's direction; and the Pianoforte Concerto in C minor, played by the Mozart interpreter par excellence, Dr. Carl Reinecke, and arousing a storm of enthusiasm. The Leipzig director also took part in a Mozart Concert given by the Rosé Quartet party on the following day. On April 23 a solemn performance took place in the Karlskirche, by the Singverein and the opera orchestra, under Dr. Richter, of the master's "Requiem," dedicated to the memory of him who, but for cruel fate, would have been a central figure in these festivities—viz., the sculptor of the monument. A gala representation of "Don Giovanni" was given at the opera on the day of unveilment, with Fräulein Sedlmair as Donna Anna, Fräulein Marie Lehmann as Donna Elvira, and Herr Ritter as the Don. The Imperial Institution, it was generally felt, might have asserted its leading position on a more extensive scale on this occasion—say by giving a series of model performances of the master's principal operas. A handsome medal, designed by Professor Scharff, has been struck to commemorate the event, showing the bust of the master, in Tilgner's conception, on one side, and a group of cupids scattering roses on the monument on the reverse. Dr. Max Kelbeck, the well-known litterateur, has written the "Denkschrift" officially published in connection with the event, in which he manages to present the personality of the composer in some interesting and even novel lights, which renders it far more valuable than publications of this order usually are. Visitors from all parts had, of course, been attracted to Vienna by the Mozart festivities. What would not some of them have given to be able to go and meditate for a while at Mozart's grave.

REVIEWS.

Novello's Parish Choir Book. Nos. 234-253. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

SIMPLE settings of the Communion Service conveniently printed on cards and respectively written by the Rev. F. R. Bryans and the Rev. W. H. Bliss will be found in Nos. 234 and 235. In No. 236 the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis are set in vocal unison, and furnished with the simplest possible accompaniment by Mr. Walter Macfarren. The Te Deum is allied to the first Gregorian tone by Sir John Stainer in No. 237, and to three melodious double chants by Mr. Edgar Pettman in No. 238. No. 239 is a simple but effective arrangement of the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in vocal unison, interspersed with four-part harmony, by Sir John Stainer. No. 240 is a setting, in unison, by Battison Haynes, of the Lord's Prayer. Choirmasters who have command of a capable body of vocalists may be warmly recommended to place before them Dr. Martin's Evening Service in G (No. 241). It is excellent. Two choral Graces, respectively intended to be sung before and after meals, the words by the Rev. S. Childs-Clarke and the music by the Rev. J. B. Dykes, form No. 242. They are written in four-part vocal harmony of an effective kind. No. 243 is a setting of the Cantate Domino and Deus Misereatur in E, by T. Tallis Trimnell. A good choir could make the composition very effective, and the independence in many places of the accompaniment will interest the organist. Those in search of a simple setting, in unison, of the Benedictus, will find it in that by Sir John Goss (No. 244). Sir John Goss's Jubilate in A, in unison, forms No. 245, and the same esteemed writer's settings of the Te Deum respectively in C, F, and D are found in Nos. 246, 248, and 249, the first and last in chant form and the second in diatonic four-part harmony; No. 247 is the same composer's Benedictus in C. An important arrangement of the evening Canticles, composed by Dr. G. C. Martin for the Festival Services held in 1878 in St. Paul's Cathedral, in aid of the Royal School for the Daughters of Officers of the Army, provides No. 250, which may be strongly recommended for church celebration by capable choirs. The same Canticles are set in an easy and devotional manner by Mr. J. T. Field in No. 253. The Nicene Creed, "set to music in an easy form for four voices, or for voices in unison, with organ accompaniment," by Sir John Stainer, provides No. 251, and will doubtless prove widely acceptable. No 252 is a hymn for children's voices, "I love to hear the story," the words by Emily H. Miller and the music by Frederic Clay. It is appropriately simple and melodious, and is admirably adapted for children's services.

My Musical Recollections. By Wilhelm Kuhe. [R. Bentley and Son.]

MR. KUHE was born in Prague in 1823, paid his first visit to London in 1845, in the following year made England his home, and, as everyone knows, is still among us taking active part in the musical affairs of his adopted country. Gifted with ample powers of observation, possessing a keen sense of humour, and enjoying exceptional opportunities for the gratification of both among many and various sections of society—artistic and other—it is not surprising that Mr. Kuhe should have embodied some of his experiences in a volume of recollections, or that the result should turn out to be thoroughly readable and amusing. The contents of the book are so multifarious, the events and persons dealt with so numerous, that in the space at our disposal we can but indicate a few of its most salient features. After a couple of chapters on Prague and some stories of Mozart, Mr. Kuhe describes his earliest musical experience, obtained when, at the age of five, his mother took him to hear Paganini. Interesting descriptions of Hummel, Kalkbrenner, Thalberg, Schulhoff, Dreyschock, and other pianistic celebrities of that day follow, and an amusing anecdote of Kalkbrenner is given. He one day received a visit from Chopin, then a young man, and after hearing him play, said: "You certainly have a good deal of talent, but you ought to have lessons from me to learn proper fingering and technique." Several chapters are devoted to a description of musical life in London during 1845-7, in the course of which reminiscences are given of J. B. Cramer, Grisi, Mario, Jenny Lind, Sir M. Costa, Lablache, Balfe, Madame Dulcken, Jullien, and many others. Among the ensuing chapters (there are fifty-two in all) those devoted to Rossini, Liszt, Rubinstein, J. M. Levy (proprietor of the Sunday Times and Daily Telegraph), and the Brighton Musical Festivals will be read with special interest. Mr. Kuhe is, however, something more than an entertaining gossip, and this he proves in three chapters, entitled "Past and Present," which contain a comparison between the musical conditions of 1845 and 1895 that may be recommended to the notice of the silly folk who refuse to believe in the advance of England as a musical nation. The volume further contains much valuable information on the expenses of Concert-giving and the fees paid to artists at various epochs; sixteen fac-similes of autographs, by Meyerbeer, Verdi, Gounod, Thalberg, Rossini, and other famous musicians; a portrait of Mr. Kuhe, and a capital index. Further—and this is not the least of its qualities—there is not an ill-natured line in the book.

Six English Fantasias. For Pianoforte. By Herbert F. Sharpe. [Charles Woolhouse.]

A FAIR idea of the respective character of these pieces may be gathered from their titles, which are as follows: 1, Ode, "My Country"; 2, Pastorale; 3, Country Revels; 4, Elegy; 5, Courtly Dance; 6, Morris Dance. They are, however, not so conventional as these names indicate, but possess considerable individuality, while, at the same time, they are distinguished by that directness of expression and vigour commonly associated with the English temperament. Opinions may differ as to which are the most effective, but the third, fifth, and sixth will probably meet with the most favour. They will present no difficulties to the average pianist.

A Dream of Love. Song. Words by Edward Oxenford. Music by Berthold Tours. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

FEW composers possess a better knowledge of effect than Mr. Berthold Tours, and the skill which comes of talent and long experience is manifest in this song. It is obviously intended for a tenor voice, for whom it is admirably suited; but this fact will doubtless not hinder ladies from singing it, for it is extremely melodious and of a graceful and refined character which will cause it to appeal to lady vocalists.

Ausgewählte Madrigale und mehrstimmige Gesänge. Edited by W. Barclay Squire. [Breitkopf and Härtel.]

This edition consists of a collection of some of the most important vocal part-music of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Nos. 1 and 2 are by J. P. Sweelinck, the celebrated Dutch organist, and respectively consist of the Madrigal in five parts, "Poi che voi non volete," from the "Novi Frutti Musicali" (Antwerp, 1610), and the six-part Madrigal, "Madonna con questi occhi," from the "Ghirlanda di Madrigali" (Antwerp, 1601). Both are excellent examples of the musical expression of their period, the vague tonality of the second in particular being characteristic of the style then current on the Continent. No. 3, "Shall I sue, shall I seek for grace?" is taken from "The Second Booke of Songs and Aires" (London, 1600), by John Dowland, whose writings are familiar to most choral societies. This example of his genius is written in four parts, and, by its directness of expression and harmonic structure, forms a striking contrast to the involved contrapuntal intricacies of the foregoing Sweelinck writings. Another Englishman of repute, John Ward, who assisted in the celebrated Ravenscroft Psalter, published in 1621, provides No. 4, the Madrigal selected from this composer being "Hope of my Heart," from his "First set of English Madrigales," published in 1613. The specimen chosen is in five parts, and the writing, in freedom and harmonic progression, is remarkably modern in character. No. 5 is a six-part Madrigal entitled "Al Mormorar," by J. G. Gastoldi, a celebrated contrapuntist of the second half of the sixteenth century. The composition in question comes from "Il Trionfo di Dori" (Venice, 1592), and is a very characteristic and interesting example of Italian musical art of this period. No. 6, "Have I found her," is a five-part Madrigal by Thomas Bateson, who published two sets of Madrigals respectively in the years 1604 and 1618, both of which contain many compositions of the highest class in this form. "Have I found her" is from the second set and is a fine and spirited piece of writing. Mr. Barclay Squire has manifestly done his work in a reverential spirit, and conductors of choral societies will do well to bestow attention on these eloquent voices of the past.

Selection of Themes from "Romeo and Juliet." For Pianoforte Solo. By Edward German. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

Mr. German's melodies in his incidental music to Mr. Forbes Robertson's production, in September last, at the Lyceum Theatre, of Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet," are presented in this "Selection of Themes" in their simplest form, but their grace and charm invest the excerpts with genuine musical interest. Several of them form effective little pieces which may be warmly recommended to amateurs of small executive abilities, as the music, in addition to its own merit, will be associated in the minds of those who witnessed the play with many charming stage pictures. The selection consists of the "Curtain Music," "Peter Theme," "After the Street Fight," "March," "At Capulet's Reception," "Juliet Theme," "Love Theme," "Nurse Theme," "Marriage Music," "Romeo's Departure," "Paris at the Tomb of Juliet," and "Death Theme."

The Recital Series of Original Organ Compositions. No. 8. Grand Chœur. By Alfred Hollins. No. 9. Andantino and Finale in B flat. By W. Wolstenholme. [Robert Cocks and Co.]

The above music will appeal to the amateur rather than to the professional organist. The Grand Chœur is bright and melodious, and withal easy to play. The Andantino calls for more independence of manipulation, but will repay any trouble it may cost its executant. The Finale is less satisfactory, much of the writing being more suitable to the genius of the pianoforte than that of the organ.

Six Slow Movements for the Organ. By Robert Law. [Dundee: Methven and Co.]

These pieces may be recommended to organists in search of voluntaries of moderate length and difficulty. They are genuine organ music, melodious and pleasing, and a skilful player could make them very effective.

Six Pieces from Handel's Water-Music, and Two Bourrées by Handel. Arranged for String Quintet with pianoforte accompaniment ad lib., by Berthold Tours. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

"These pieces are so arranged that if any part, or combination of parts, in addition to the first violin and pianoforte are used they will sound complete. They may also be played by a quintet or small orchestra of stringed instruments, with or without pianoforte." From the above quotation, which is found on the title-page, it will be gathered that this admirable arrangement of Handel's popular music is calculated to meet various home requirements and amateur entertainments. The selection consists of the Bourrée, Air, Minuet, and Hornpipe, all of which are in the key of F, the Aria in G, and the Allegro in D.

The two Bourrées, respectively in F and F minor, are well calculated to please all lovers of Handel.

All these pieces are also arranged for pianoforte solo by Mr. Tours, who has done his work with his usual skill and effectiveness.

Quartet in B flat. For two Violins, Viola and Violoncello. Op. 6. By W. H. Speer. [Berlin: Simrock.]

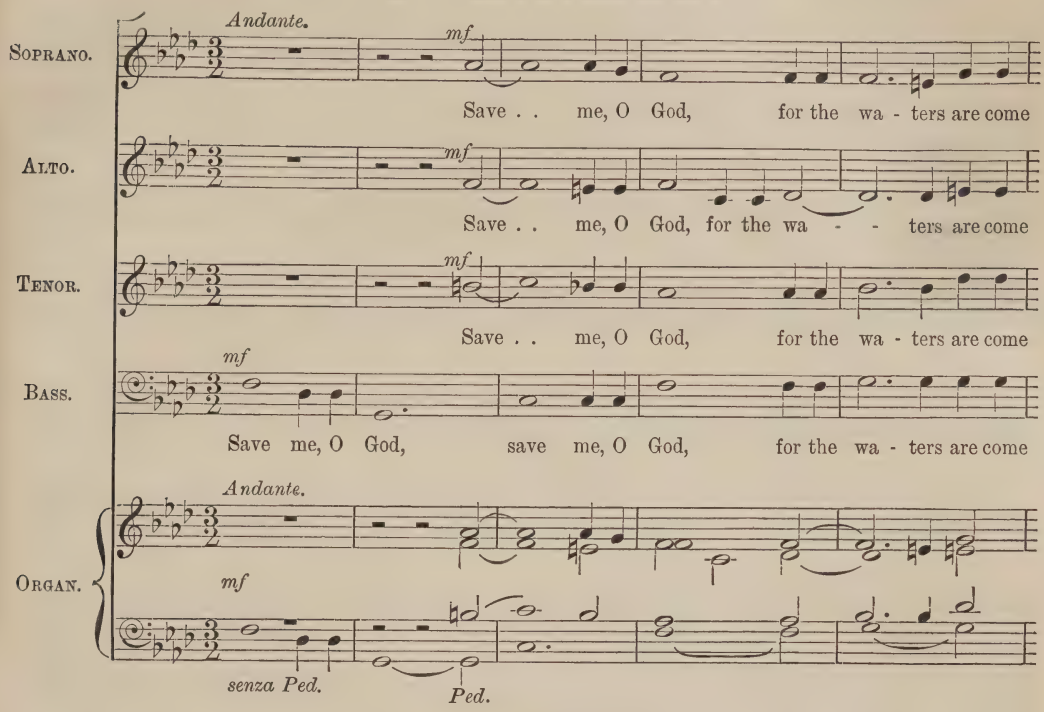
The attention of quartet players may with advantage be turned to this quartet, which is an excellent and legitimate example of this difficult form of art. The interest of the writing is well distributed amongst the respective parts and the music throughout is expressive and vivacious.

Vasco da Gama. A Cantata for Solo Voices, Chorus and Orchestra. Written and composed by F. Reginald Statham. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

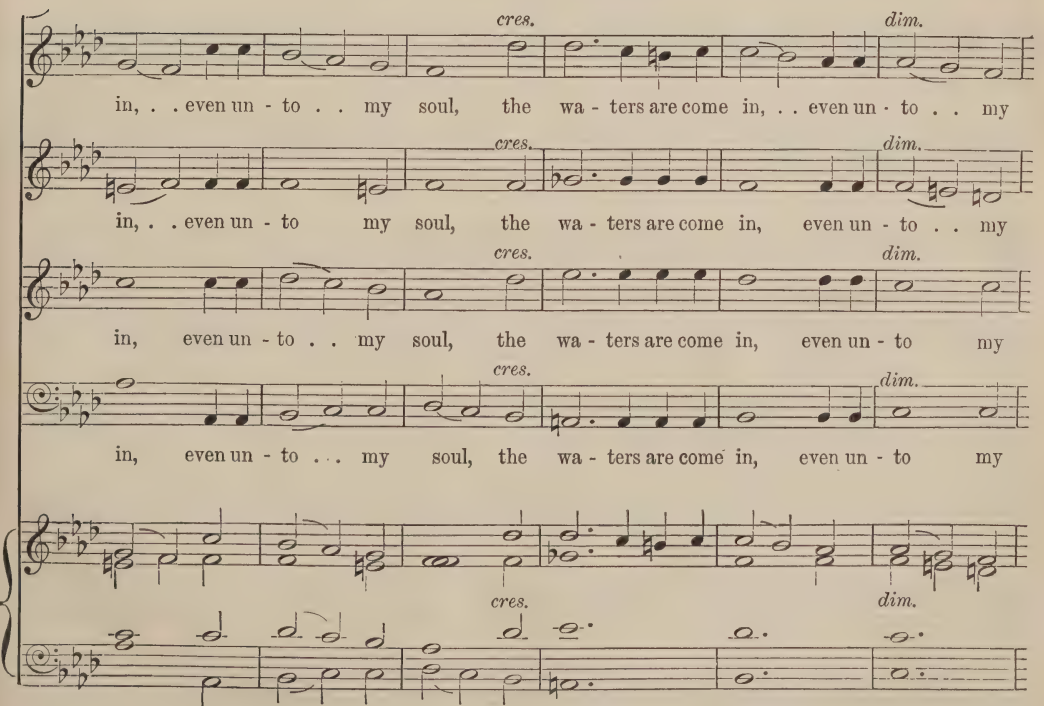
The argument of this cantata is stated as follows: Vasco da Gama (the great Portuguese navigator) being detained by storms and contrary winds off the Cape of Good Hope, his crew resolve to mutiny, with the view of compelling him to return home. At Vasco's suggestion, they agree to appeal to heaven for a sign. The clouds open, showing the Southern Cross, while at the same time the storm subsides. The mutiny is quelled, and Vasco continues his voyage, arriving on the morning of Christmas Day off Natal ("Terra Natalis," the "Christmas Land"), thus accomplishing, in the discovery of a habitable continent, one of the main objects of his voyage. From this it might be inferred that the composer would have confined his vocal writing to male voices; but this is not so, and the entrance of female voices, particularly in the sailors' song of thanksgiving, decidedly weakens the dramatic character of the work. In the first chorus effective use is made of fugal form in depicting the turbulence of the sailors, and the moralising comments of a female chorus are set in a melodious manner. Appropriate vigour characterises the utterances of the mutineers, and the song of the ringleader is well written for the voice. The same may be said of the contralto solo which follows. The part of Vasco is given to a tenor voice and his prayer is extremely melodious. There is also a smoothly written unaccompanied quartet and a tuneful soprano air. The pianoforte accompaniments are easy to read, and the work is well suited to the requirements of amateur choral societies.

Valse Gracieuse. From the Orchestral Suite in D minor by Edward German. Arranged as Pianoforte Solo and Duet by the Composer. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

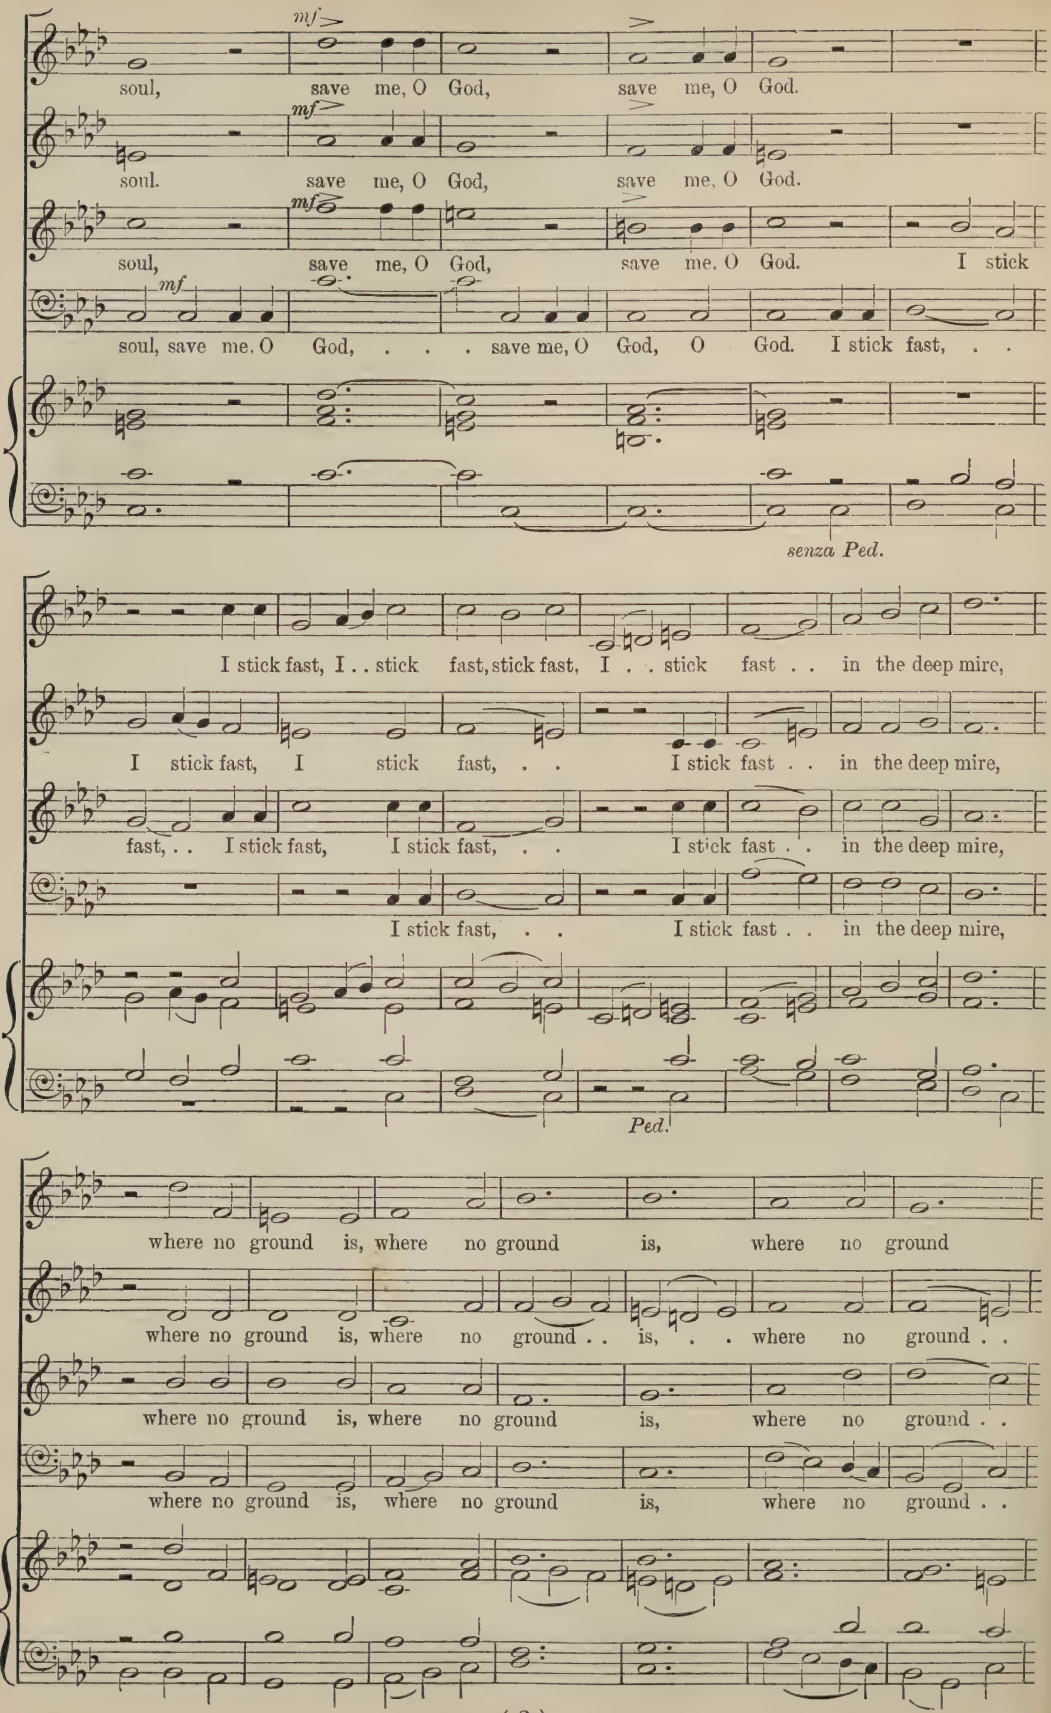
This Suite was written for the Leeds Festival of last autumn, and the Valse Gracieuse is one of its most attractive numbers. It is instinct with grace and "go," and the climaxes, which are cleverly devised, most effectively sustain and enhance the interest of the music. A special merit of the movement is the ingenious manner in which the monotony of the dance rhythm is broken without causing disturbance of the beat. Nothing but praise can be bestowed on both these pianoforte arrangements, which are easy to read and play. The duet is the more effective but a sympathetic pianist will be able to make the solo pleasantly suggestive of "flying feet and supple waists."



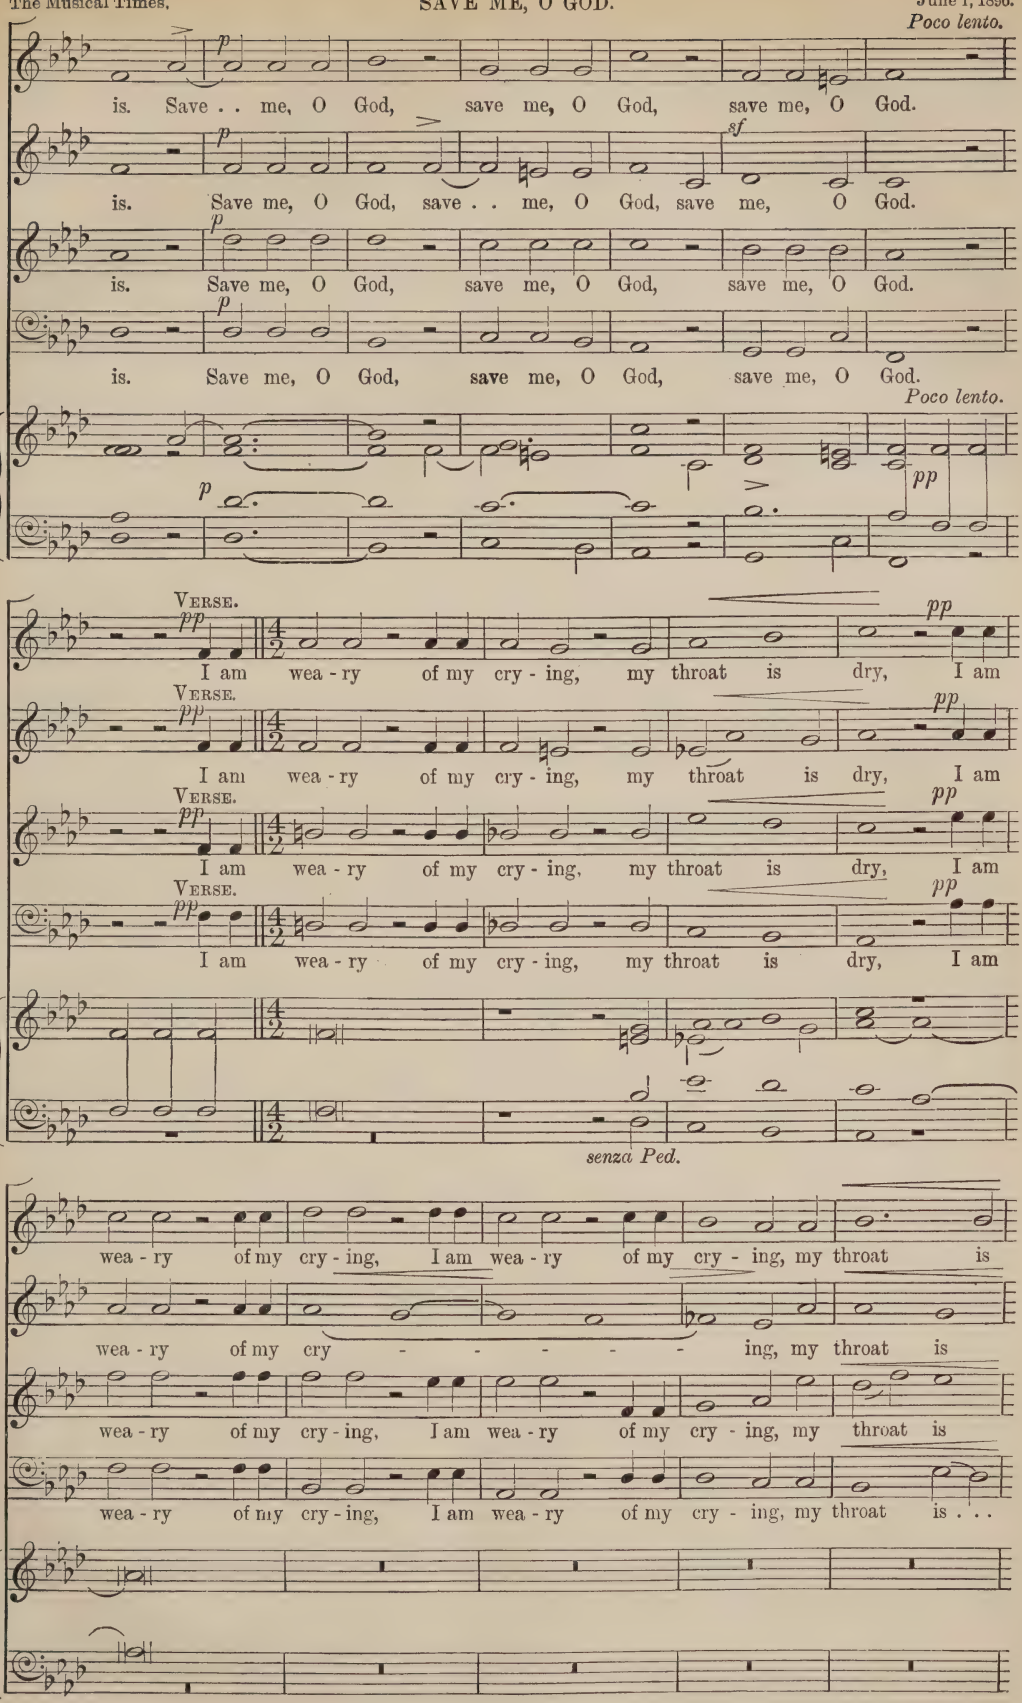
Save me, O God.



FULL ANTHEM FOR FOUR VOICES.

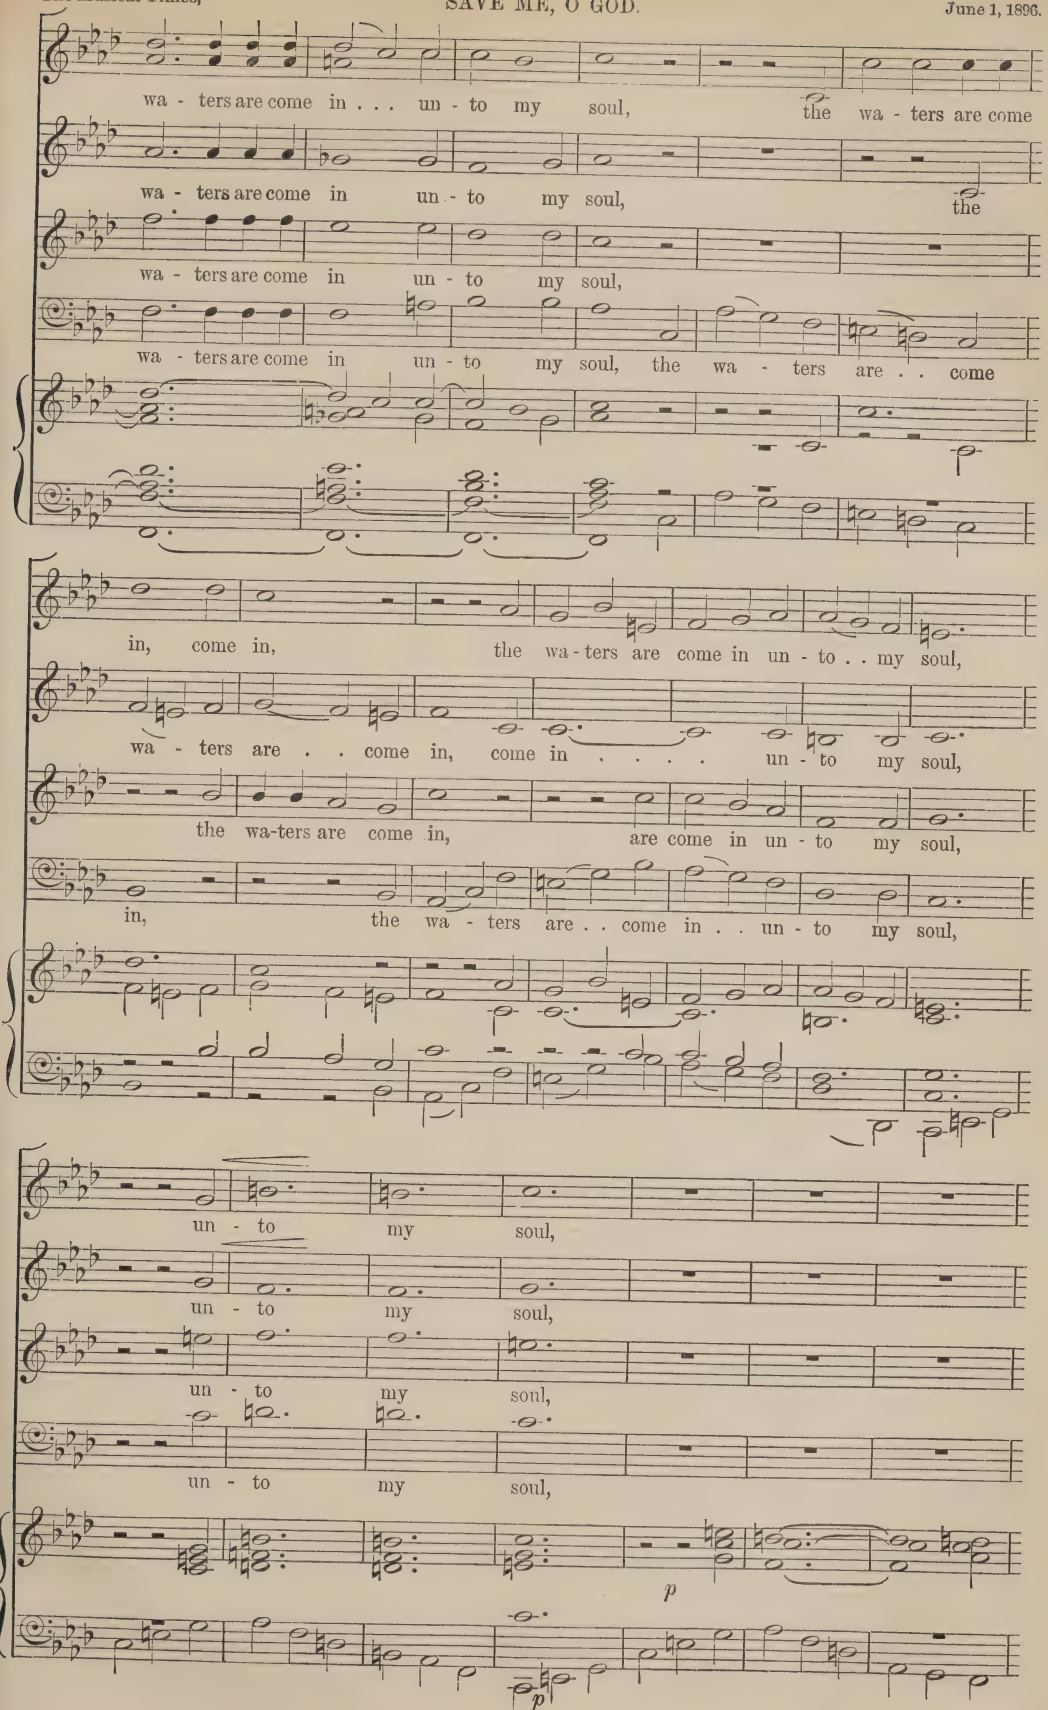


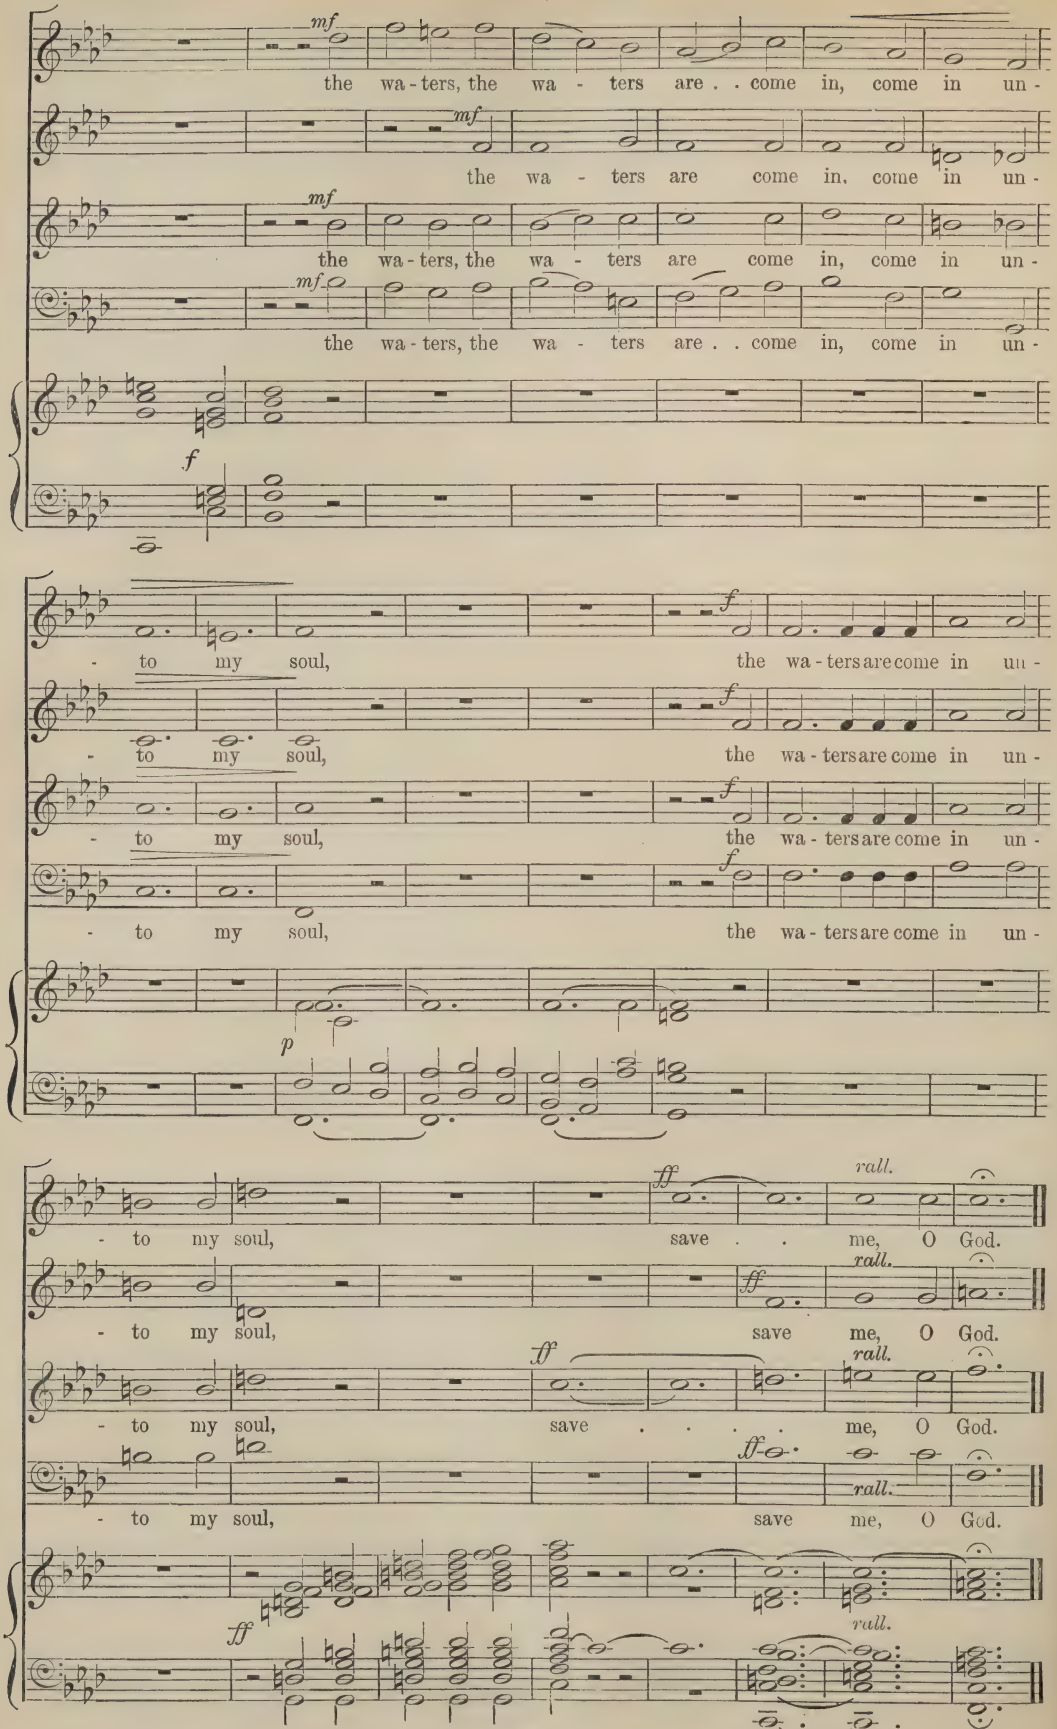
Psalm lxix. 1—3.



Composed by C. S. Jekyll.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); also in New York.





mf
soul, save me, O God, save me, O God.
mf
soul. save me, O God, save me, O God.
mf
soul, save me, O God, save me, O God. I stick
mf
soul, save me, O God, . . . save me, O God, O God. I stick fast, . .
senza Ped.
I stick fast, I . . stick fast, stick fast, I . . stick fast . . in the deep mire,
I stick fast, I stick fast, . . I stick fast . . in the deep mire, fast, . . I stick fast, I stick fast, . . I stick fast . . in the deep mire,
I stick fast, . . I stick fast . . in the deep mire,
Ped.
where no ground is, where no ground is, where no ground
where no ground is, where no ground . . is, . . where no ground . .
where no ground is, where no ground is, where no ground . .
where no ground is, where no ground is, where no ground . .

Poco lento.
is. Save . . me, O God, save me, O God, save me, O God.
is. Save me, O God, save . . me, O God, save me, O God.
is. Save me, O God, save me, O God, save me, O God.
is. Save me, O God, save me, O God, save me, O God.
Poco lento.
Verse.
I am wea - ry of my cry - ing, my throat is dry, I am
I am wea - ry of my cry - ing, my throat is dry, I am
I am wea - ry of my cry - ing, my throat is dry, I am
I am wea - ry of my cry - ing, my throat is dry, I am
senza Ped.
wea - ry of my cry - ing, I am wea - ry of my cry - ing, my throat is wea - ry of my cry - - - - - ing, my throat is wea - ry of my cry - ing, I am wea - ry of my cry - ing, my throat is wea - ry of my cry - ing, I am wea - ry of my cry - ing, my throat is . . .

pp dry, I am wea - ry of my cry - ing, my throat is dry, my throat is dry, my throat is dry.
p
Save me, O
God, save me, O
Ped.
senza Ped.
Tempo 1mo.
FULL.
mf
cres.
O save me, O God.
Save . . me, O God, for the God, O save me, O God.
God, O save me, O God. Save me, O God, save me, O God, for the wa - ters are come in . . . un - to my soul, the wa - ters are come wa - ters are come in un - to my soul, the wa - ters are come in un - to my soul, wa - ters are come in un - to my soul, the wa - ters are . . come in, come in, the wa - ters are come in un - to . . my soul, wa - ters are . . come in, come in . . . . un - to my soul,

the wa-ters are come in, are come in un - to my soul,
in, the wa - ters are . . come in . . un - to my soul,
un - to my soul,
un - to my soul,
un - to my soul,
un - to my soul,
p p

mf
the wa - ters, the wa - ters are . . come in, come in un -
mf
the wa - ters are come in, come in un -
mf
the wa - ters, the wa - ters are come in, come in un -
mf
the wa - ters, the wa - ters are . . come in, come in un -
f
f
- to my soul, the wa - ters are come in un -
f
- to my soul, the wa - ters are come in un -
f
- to my soul, the wa - ters are come in un -
f
- to my soul, the wa - ters are come in un -
p ff
rall.
- to my soul, save . . me, O God.
ff
rall.
- to my soul, save me, O God.
ff
rall.
- to my soul, save . . . me, O God.
ff
rall.
- to my soul, save me, O God.
ff
rall.

FOREIGN NOTES.

Amsterdam.—The exceedingly active Wagner Society here, under the zealous conductorship of M. Henri Viotta, gave, on the 8th ult., a complete performance of "Tristan und Isolde" at the Municipal Theatre. The somewhat daring undertaking, supported as it was in the principal solo parts by Mesdames Staudigl and Sucher, Herren Alvary, Staudigl, and Betz, proved in every way highly successful, the performance being repeated two days later.

Arnstadt.—The "Bach Organ" of the Church of St. Boniface, one of the finest in Thuringia, which, one would fain believe, still harbours some lingering vibrations from the master's touch, stands in urgent need of complete restoration. A committee has just been formed with that purpose in view, and with the additional object of placing a commemorative tablet at the house inhabited by the great cantor during his residence here. A choir festival, to be held in the town during the present summer, is to contribute towards the fund required.

Arras (France).—Preparations are going forward for a series of festivities in honour of Adam de la Halle, the brilliant troubadour, who flourished in the thirteenth century, and whose quaint sottie, "Jeu de Robin et de Marion," for the couplets in which he also wrote the music, may be said to mark the beginning of French comic opera. A statue to Adam de la Halle is to be unveiled here in the autumn.

Bari (Italy).—A new opera, "Doña Flor," by the Neapolitan Maëstro, Nicolo van Westerhout, was brought out on the occasion of the dedication of a new theatre here recently, when it met with an enthusiastic reception. The composer is a native of this town. On the 12th ult. the new work was also produced at the San Carlo Theatre, Naples, with equal success.

Berlin.—An anonymous donor has placed the sum of 5,000 marks at the disposal of the municipal authorities as the nucleus of a fund for the erection of a worthy memorial to Wagner in this capital. His suggestion is that a new bridge should be constructed over the Spree, dedicated to the Bayreuth master, and ornamented at the extremities by groups of statuary representing principal characters of his music-dramas. "Da ist doch Einer dem noch mal was einfällt!" probably would have been Wagner's own comment, as it often was when he happened to meet with a truly original idea in others.——The directors of the Opera have acquired the right of performance of Goldmark's "Cricket on the Hearth," which will be produced before long, probably at the whilom Krollsche Theater, now called "New Royal Opera House." Two "jubilee" performances were recently recorded at the Opera—viz., on April 28, the one hundredth representation of "Die Walküre," and, on the 2nd ult., the fiftieth of "Tristan und Isolde." A special performance of Lortzing's "Waffenschmied," with a view to the fiftieth anniversary of that popular work, was announced to be given on the 30th ult., the proceeds to be handed to the descendants of the composer, who are none too well off. The example will probably be followed by many other German theatres, as well as in Vienna, where the work was first brought out. ——A very fine performance of Schumann's music to Byron's "Manfred" was given at the final Concert of the season of the Philharmonic Society last month. Dr. Wüllner, the gifted son of the Cologne musical director, recited the part of Manfred with admirable effect.—— Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Grand Duke" was brought out at the Theater-unter-den-Linden, on the 20th ult., with much success, particularly as to the music, the libretto being less appreciated.——Herr Philipp Rüfer's new opera, "Ingo," which had been looked forward to with considerable interest for some time past, was brought out at the Royal Opera on the 21st ult. and well received, the composer being called after every act.

Breslau.—A special performance of Lortzing's popular opera "Der Waffenschmeid" was given on April 26, at the Stadt-Theater, to signalise the forthcoming fiftieth anniversary of the first production (at Vienna) of the work. On the same occasion a little-known one-act opera, "Die Obernprobe," by the same composer, met with its first performance here and pleased immensely.

Brussels.—M. Gevaërt, the highly esteemed director of the Conservatoire, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his accession to the chair on April 27, amidst congratulations from musical quarters all over the world. There was a reception at the Conservatoire in which the committee and professorial staff took part, the proceedings including the unveiling of a marble bust of the director in the vestibule of the Institution, the work of the sculptor M. Lelaing. The season at the Théâtre de la Monnaie closed on the 5th ult. with "Tannhäuser," an ovation being offered to M. van Dyck, the interpreter of the titular part. That artist has just been decorated by the king with the Leopold order, a rare distinction in the case of an operatic singer.

Budapesth.—A four-act opera, "Alar," the libretto and music by Count Geza Zichy, the famous one-armed pianoforte virtuoso and distinguished amateur, was brought out recently at the Royal Theatre and well received. It is to be produced shortly, in a German version, at the Carlsruhe Hof-Theater.

Carlsruhe.—A really charming impression was produced by the performance, on the 8th ult., at the Court Theatre, of Haydn's comic opera "Der Apotheker," in the version by Dr. Hirschfeld, of Vienna, its resuscitator. The conductor was Herr Mottl.

Cologne.—A new opera, "Elsi," the libretto (founded upon one of the popular tales by Jeremias Gotthelf) from the pen of Herr H. Wette, the music by Herr Arnold Mendelssohn, a resident musician, was very favourably received on its recent first performance at the Stadt-Theater. The score is the work of a distinctly gifted artist, who is likely to render himself even greater justice if he happen to light upon a more dramatically effective libretto.

Darmstadt.—A complete performance of "Der Ring des Nibelungen" was given at the Grand Ducal Theatre last month, under the direction of Capellmeister de Haan, attracting full houses. The whole of Goethe's "Faust," with Lassen's music, and divided over three evenings, was likewise ventured upon by the active management recently, and proved a complete success.

Dessau.—Fräulein Marie Joachim, a daughter of the distinguished violinist, who has gained much favour with the public for the last two years as a member of the Hof-Theater, has been engaged as prima donna at the Court Theatre of Weimar. The gifted young vocalist has been greatly admired in her assumption here recently of the part of Brunhilde in "Siegfried."

Dresden.—An interesting competition has just been opened, under the auspices of the Principal of the Dresden Conservatorium, by Dr. Alfred Stelzner, who it appears has constructed two new string instruments, intermediaries respectively between double-bass and violoncello (called "Cellone"), and between the violoncello and viola (the "Violotta"), the latter ranging a fourth below the viola and the former a fourth below the violoncello. The new instruments have met with the approval of the authorities of the Conservatorium, and in order to encourage their practical use two prizes of 500 marks each have been offered by the inventor for a quartet for violin, viola, violotta, and violoncello, and a sextet for two violins, viola, violotta, violoncello, and cellone. The new combination (or perhaps revival, in a novel form, of an old one) affords some fresh scope to composers of chamber music, and the result of the competition will be looked forward to with much interest by musicians. Further information concerning the conditions of the latter, which is international, may be obtained on application to the director of the Dresden Conservatorium.

Düsseldorf.—Following up the experiment successfully made last year, a Volks-Musikfest, or popular musical festival, was held here last month, when Haydn's "The Seasons" was given by the excellent local forces under the direction of Herr Steinhauser. There was an enormous and truly popular audience (there is still room for "papa Haydn" in the land of Wagner!) who, on payment of the uniform admission of sixpence, were presented with the tastefully got-up booklet, prefaced by historical remarks; something to carry away with them and analyse at leisure the impression received.

Geneva.—In connection with the International Exhibition to be opened here this month, a number of important Orchestral Concerts is to be given, under the conductorship of M. Gustave Doret. Amongst the works to be produced are Symphonies by Haydn, Mozart, and Beethoven; orchestral numbers by Gluck, Weber, and Wagner; modern French composers being likewise well represented in the prospective arrangements.

HAMBURG. — In consequence of the great success attending the series of Concerts given here last season by the Berlin Philharmonic orchestra, under Herr Weingartner, the Municipality has decided to grant an annual subvention of a thousand pounds for the establishment of a first-rate permanent orchestra under some experienced conductor. The new institution is to be available for other musical societies here, and will have to give five extra Concerts annually with classical programmes, at the popular price of sixpence. A grant has also lately been made, for a similar purpose, by the Senate of the neighbouring Hanse town of Lübeck.

LEIPZIG.—The projected performances by the Riedel-Verein of Handel's "Deborah" and "Hercules" (Dr. Chrysander's version) have had to be postponed until next autumn, on account of the severe indisposition of the conductor, Dr. H. Kretzschmar, greatly to the disappointment of music-lovers here. For the same reason Dr. Kretzschmar was unable to take part in the performances in connection with the meeting here of the Allgemeine Deutsche Musik-Verein, from the 29th ult. to the 1st inst., and Herr Nikisch was announced at the last moment as the principal conductor, in place of Herr Weingartner.

LEYDEN.—Sir Arthur Sullivan's "The Golden Legend," which was given here some time since with marked success, was again performed on the 15th ult., under the able conductorship of M. Willem van Iperen.

MANNHEIM.—Herr Weingartner's opera "Genesius" was brought out here on April 19, at the Court Theatre, and very well received, the composer, who conducted, receiving an ovation from the audience. The work, which at any rate is that of an earnest musician aiming at a very high ideal, was, it will be remembered, very coldly received on its first production last year at Berlin, partly, it was said, on account of an organised opposition in certain quarters.

MODENA.—A new Mass, scored for four voices, with organ and string quartet accompaniment, produced a highly favourable impression on its performance recently at the Church of San Carlo. It is the work of a young musician, Signor Giuseppe Massa.

MOSCOW. — In connection with the present coronation festivities, a Concert took place on the 20th ult., in Petroffski Park, in which the Russian Philharmonic Society, the orchestra of the Opera, and other societies took part, in all over two thousand executants, under the direction of Signor Altoni, the conductor of the Opera. The programme consisted entirely of music by Russian composers with the exception of two pieces only—viz., the "Chorus of Huntsmen," by Mendelssohn, and Gounod's "Night." — A new ballet, entitled "Daïta," is being most sumptuously mounted at the Grand Theatre at an expense, it is said, of over 100,000 roubles. The subject is Japanese, and the music is said to be constructed "entirely upon original Japanese themes"—the last-named statement being calculated to cause some uneasiness in "musical circles" here.

MUNICH. — Herr Cyrill Kistler's opera "Kunihild," already produced at several German lyrical theatres, met with a good reception on its first performance recently at the Royal Theatre.

PORTA WESTFALICA.—A Beethoven Festival Concert, in which several choral societies of Bückeburg, the Damen Gesang-Verein of Hanover, and the Detmold Kirchenchor took part, was given on the 3rd ult., under the direction of Professor Richard Sahla, the very able Bückeburg Court Capellmeister. The event, of somewhat rare occurrence here, had attracted a large audience from the neighbouring districts, among the works produced being the Choral Fantasia and the Ninth Symphony.

PRAGUE.—Stimulated by the tardy homage recently rendered to Mozart's genius in the Austrian capital, a committee has been formed here for the purpose of erecting a monument to the master also in this city, for ever associated with the first (and greatly appreciated) performance of his immortal "Don Giovanni." With that end in view, a capital performance of "Die Zauberflöte" was given on April 30, at the German Theatre, by members of the local choral societies, the solo vocalists being likewise amateurs, under the direction of Herr Heffler. The interesting undertaking was patronised by the élite of society, and produced an excellent financial result. At the same theatre a new one-act opera, "Stella," by a young composer, Herr Franz Kohout, was produced on April 26, and exceedingly well received. The libretto, by Herr C. Mahrberg, effectively deals with a subject somewhat resembling that of "I Pagliacci," and its musical setting reveals a composer of much dramatic power, from whose as yet inexperienced pen some still more satisfactory work is to be looked for in the future.——Antonin Dvorák has just completed three symphonic poems, entitled, respectively, "The Waterman," "The Mid-day Witch," and "The Golden Spinning-wheel," as well as two string quartets, in A flat major and G major, dedicated to the Bohemians.

ROME.—The new three-act tragic opera, "La sorella di Mark," by the young Maëstro Giacomo Setaccioli, was brought out on the 2nd ult., at the Costanzi Theatre, and received with high favour, Signora Gemma Bellincioni sustaining the principal part. The libretto, whereof the prima donna herself has furnished the scenario, while somewhat ultra-tragical, has the merit of being interesting and effective.

ST. PETERSBURG.—The first performance in the Russian language, on April 13, of Schumann's opera "Genoveva," in this capital, is an occurrence meriting record. It met with much appreciation.

VIENNA.—The Emperor Francis Joseph has conferred on Johannes Brahms the decoration for Arts and Sciences. This is the first time of a musician having been thus honoured, the distinction being the highest of its kind at the disposal of the crown, and rarely bestowed.——Professor Stanford's Mass in G was performed for the first time at the Hof-Kapelle, on April 26, and has been permanently placed in the répertoire.——Fraulein Marie Lehmann, the sister of the Berlin prima donna Lilli Lehmann, for nearly twenty years a leading and most popular member of the Imperial Opera, has just retired from that institution, greatly to the regret of opera-goers, she being still in the full possession of her great artistic qualities.——Herr Nicolas Dumba has had the good fortune to discover the autograph of a hitherto unknown overture by Franz Schubert, the authenticity of which has been confirmed by several experts.——A committee has been formed for the purpose of organising an Exhibition of Schubertiana, to be held in connection with the centenary of the composer's birth, in January next. It is hoped that all those in the possession of autographs, or other documents and objects bearing upon the life and work of Schubert, will contribute to render the interesting undertaking as representative and complete as may be.

WEIMAR.—Hans Sommer's one-act opera, "Der Meermann," was successfully brought out, on April 19, at the Court Theatre, under Herr Stavenhagen's direction, and proved a decidedly interesting novelty. The very effective libretto, compiled from an old Norse legend embodying an idea somewhat similar to that of "Der fliegende Holländer," is from the pen of Herr Hans von Wolzogen. The mounting of the work can scarcely be said to have contributed to its success.

WIESBADEN.—An interesting series of "Festspiele" was given here, at the Royal Theatre, during the 6th and the 19th ult., including "Preciosa," with Weber's evergreen incidental music; Wagner's "Tannhäuser," "Lohengrin," "Die Meistersinger," and "Walküre," the conductors being Dr. Hans Richter, Capellmeister Schuch, of Dresden, and Herr Rebicek. A performance of Shakespeare's "Julius Cæsar" also formed part of the scheme.

A THEATRICAL and Musical Exhibition, similar in its scope to the one held in Vienna in 1892, is to be opened in Paris next month, and will remain open till September.

THE Municipal Council of Venice granted a subvention of 4,000 lire for the performance, on several occasions last month, at the Teatro Fenice, of Gounod's oratorio "The Redemption."

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(From our own Correspondent.)

We have now entered upon our saison morte, and with the exception of one or two musical events of no special importance the month of May has been particularly free from Concerts of any kind. Mr. J. W. Turner completed a successful operatic season of English opera at his own locale, the Grand Theatre, on the 2nd ult., with an excellent performance of Macfarren's "Robin Hood," in which Mr. Turner took the title rôle. Of special interest was the revival of Weber's "Der Freischütz" and Boieldieu's "La Dame Blanche," which, however, failed to draw large audiences. In the way of an experiment, Mr. Turner for one night discarded opera and gave a grand Ballad Concert instead, in which his entire artistic personnel took part. This novel venture was crowned with complete success, the immense theatre being crowded from floor to ceiling.

The Birmingham Amateur Opera Society, which is now amalgamated to the Midland Institute, gave an excellent all-round performance of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Iolanthe," in the large Lecture Theatre, on the 5th and 6th ult. Mr. E. W. Priestley conducted, and both the orchestra and chorus did full justice to the charming music. For splendour of costumes and excellence of stage management it has not been surpassed by any previous efforts on the part of the Society. The list of principals included many of our well-known musical amateurs, who have so long been associated with the annual productions of Gilbert and Sullivan's operas.

The Musical Matinées in connection with the Royal Society of Artists, under Mr. Oscar Pollack's direction, attract large audiences every week, and have now become quite an established institution.

Mr. F. W. Beard's new Mass in G was produced for the first time, with full orchestra, organ, and chorus, at St. Catherine's Church, on the occasion of the Feast of St. Catherine. The choral writing is mainly in plain harmony, in four and eight parts, and the orchestration shows much promise for the future.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Welsh singers visited Bristol in March and gave an illustration to our citizens of their accomplishments and their ideas of the way in which glees and part-songs should be rendered. In return the Bristol Gleemen, one of the younger male-voice choirs in our city, went to Wales on April 23, and, in the Town Hall, Pontypridd, sang, under the direction of Mr. W. J. Kidner, to a numerous assemblage of residents of the Principality. Their performance of familiar compositions afforded much enjoyment to the audience, and also to several conductors of local choirs, who acknowledged the excellent qualities of the Bristol vocalists.

On April 27 Downend Choral Society gave a performance of Haydn "Creation" and Mendelssohn's "Loreley," the soloists being Miss Florence Cromey, Mr. E. T. Morgan, and Mr. W. Thomas. Directed by Mr. Harold Bernard, the performance was exceedingly meritorious.

A very large audience assembled at Colston Hall, on April 30, to bid farewell, for a time, to Miss Clara Butt, who is going to Continental cities for rest from Concert work and to study. The lady was assisted by Miss Mabel Berrey, Madame Alice Gomez, Mr. Mockridge, Mr. C. Copland, Mr. John Wolff, and Mr. J. S. Liddle. The Concert was of a miscellaneous nature.

At the May Temperance Festival in Bristol, on the 4th ult., a choir of 600 young people tastefully sang glees, part-songs, and other pieces under the guidance of Mr. G. T. Cooke.

The Clifton Pompadour Musical Society, a body of ladies who have been established for about three years, gave a performance of J. L. Roeckel's pretty cantata "The Gitana," on the 6th ult., the solos in the work being taken by Miss Marion Harris and members of the Society. The opportunity was taken of presenting a silver-mounted ivory bâton to Madame Probert Goodwin, the conductress, who has laboured hard and earnestly to secure the good results that have been achieved.

St. Paul's (City) Choral Society gave Mendelssohn's "Come, let us sing," in the church, on the 6th ult., under the guidance of Mr. J. Bending.

At the thirteenth annual Concert of St. John's (Redland) Choral Society, on the 12th ult., Sullivan's "On shore and sea" and Mendelssohn's "Loreley" were performed, Mr. A. E. Hill conducting. The principal vocalists were Miss E. Gath and Mr. A. E. Gough. Miscellaneous vocal and instrumental compositions were placed between the two larger works.

The Bristol Society of Instrumentalists, believed to be the largest body of amateur executants in the kingdom, gave its annual Concert on the 13th ult. Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony, Mendelssohn's "Athalie" Overture, Weber's "Freischütz" and Rossini's "Cenerentola" Overtures, and the ballet music from Gounod's "Faust" were performed, with admirable results, under the direction of Mr. George Riseley. The tone of the strings was particularly full, rich, and strong, and the intonation excellent, which indicated that the members have studied and practised to good purpose. Agreeable features of the Concert were a violin solo—De Bériot's "Tremolo"—by Mr. Theo Carrington, the leader, and songs by Miss F. Cromey, Mr. Gwilym Richards, and Mr. Arthur Wills. Mr. H. J. Fulford was the accompanist.

Mr. Emil Sauer gave a Pianoforte Recital, at the Victoria Rooms, on the 20th ult.

The Arthur Rousbey Opera Company undertook a week's representation of opera, commencing on the 4th ult. The works brought forward were "Maritana," "Cavalleria Rusticana," "I Pagliacci," the "Bohemian Girl," "Mercedes," "Galatea," "Don Giovanni," "Faust," and the "Daughter of the Regiment."

Radstock Choral Society made its first public appearance on the 4th ult., when it gave a very good performance of Sullivan's oratorio "The Prodigal Son." The principals were Miss Clara Spackman, Mrs. Richter, Mr. Wetten, and Mr. C. E. Poole. Mr. H. T. Sims conducted.

MUSIC IN DUBLIN.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Dublin Musical Society wound up its season with an excellent performance of Sullivan's oratorio "The Light of the World." The Concert took place in the Royal University Buildings, on the 6th ult., and was largely attended. Sir Arthur Sullivan, according to promise, returned from his sojourn abroad to conduct this Concert; but on his arrival in London his physician forbade the journey to Ireland, and many who had looked forward to his taking the bâton of the Dublin Musical Society for the second time were sadly disappointed. Nevertheless, in the capable hands of the Society's conductor, Dr. Joseph Smith, the Concert was a pronounced success. The choir and band maintained their usual high standard of execution, particularly the latter, whose beautiful performance of the Overture to Part II. ("Jerusalem") was peremptorily re-demanded by the audience. No better proof is needed that the time is rife for the Orchestral Concerts promised by this Society next year. The principal vocalists, Madame Marie Duma, Miss Sarah Berry, Mr. Lloyd Chandos, and Mr. Andrew Black (needless to say, a most satisfactory quartet), were assisted in the minor parts by Miss MacConnell and Mr. MacNevin, members of the choir. Mr. Horan presided at the organ and Herr Werner led the strings.

Two Violin Recitals by Herr Theodore Werner took place in the Antient Concert Rooms, on April 24 and 28. As usual, this distinguished artist gave an exposition of the various schools of violin composition and won the repeated plaudits of his audiences. The accompanist was Miss Florence Connor.

Other Concerts worthy of mention were a performance of Cowen's "Rose Maiden," by the Sackville Hall Choral Society, on the 5th ult., under the direction of Dr. T. R. G. Jozé, with miscellaneous second part; Haydn's "Spring," by the Rathmines Choral Society, under Mr. Raymond Revelle, on the 11th ult.; and Miss Corry-Tandy's Concert, at Kingstown Town Hall, on April 29.

Mr. Joseph Robinson was the recipient of an address and presentation from the members of the orchestral class at the Royal Irish Academy of Music, on the 8th ult. The address was read by Dr. Jozé, who succeeds Mr. Robinson in the direction of the class.

MUSIC IN EAST ANGLIA.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. Charles Fry, assisted by Miss Olive Kennett, gave Dramatic Recitals in the Agricultural Hall Assembly Room, Norwich, on the 1st and 2nd ult., which, artistically, were highly successful. With Mr. Kingston Rudd at the pianoforte, Mr. Fry was enabled to give Poe's "The Bells" with Stanley Hawley's illustrative music; the same kind help was also given to Miss Kennett in her declamation of Charles Kingsley's ballad, "Lorraine, Lorrée."

The annual Glee and Madrigal Concert given by the Norwich Cathedral Choir came off on the 5th ult., when St. Andrew's Hall was filled by a fashionable and enthusiastic audience. The programme contained examples by Morley (1585), Benet (1590), Wilbye (1595), as well as later writers, Pearsall, Callcott, Sullivan, Barnby, &c., sung with the refinement naturally expected from the Norwich choir. Songs were sung by Precentor Thomas and Chorister George White, which had to be repeated. The introduction of two clarinet solos, admirably played by an old chorister (Mr. E. Lake), made a pleasing variety to a most enjoyable evening.

The Norwich Orchestral Union gave its seventh Concert in St. Andrew's Hall on the 7th ult., conducted by Mr. Ernest Harcourt, Smieton's dramatic cantata "Ariadne" forming the staple of the programme. The principal parts were filled by Miss Lilian Foote, Miss Parsons Norman, Mr. J. G. Belamy, and Mr. Denham Barri. Of the ladies no fault need be found, but the tenor and bass were decidedly weak. The choruses were very well sung, but the picturesque accompaniments were beyond the ability of the band. A new Quintet for flute, oboe, clarinet, bass clarinet, and bassoon, from the pen of the conductor, was played for the first time. The work, consisting of an Allegro alla marcia, Andante pastorale, and Tarantella, was very creditably played by local amateurs.

Much interest centred in the Concert given by the Norwich "Gate House" Choir on the 8th ult., for it was the Jubilee of the Society, an age not frequently attained by musical societies. Under its energetic and talented conductor (Mr. Kingston Rudd) the choir shows no signs of decadence, the number and quality of the voices keep up, and the prospect of reaching a century of public appearances looks hopeful. Advantage was taken of the auspicious occasion to reproduce the madrigals and part-songs which have been composed by musicians connected with the city for the choir since its establishment.

Like many other growing centres, Ipswich has suffered, from a musical point of view, by too much division and discord among its component parts. Societies have been commenced by various interested persons only to languish for a year or two and die, and it is to be hoped the establishment of the Ipswich Choral Society, under the conductorship of Mr. B. H. Burton, Organist of St. Mary-le-Tower Church, will receive the united support of all interested in music and become a strong evidence that the county town of Suffolk is abreast of the times musically as it is in most other things. The initial performance of the Society took place on April 24, in the Public Hall, "The Messiah" being chosen for its début. With a chorus of 250 voices and a band of nearly sixty performers, Mr. Burton had under him a very powerful force and one that proved itself not only strong but competent. As a rule the leads were taken up crisply and decisively, while light and shade were not overlooked. The band was composed of the Ipswich Ladies' Orchestral Society, assisted by instrumentalists from London and Norwich. The solo quartet comprised Miss Florence Monk, Miss Gertrude Bevan, Mr. Charles Chilley, and Mr. Robert Grice.

During the winter months the village of Wood Norton has been the weekly rendezvous of those in the neighbourhood with musical tastes, where, under the direction of the Rector (Rev. H. C. Rogers), part-singing has been practised with such good results that the Society, aptly called the Wood Norton Warblers, has recently given highly successful performances of Darnton's pastoral cantata "Village Life." The solo parts were taken by friends not actually members of the Society: Miss Janet Hay, Mrs. Frank Bates, Mr. W. Anstice, and the Rev. W. Breffit. The execution of the work was most creditable to all concerned, and was a striking evidence of what can be done for the encouragement of music in rural districts if the right man is at hand to take the lead.

Swaffham is also fortunate enough to possess a musical Vicar, who, with a larger population to work upon, is able not only to attempt, but to effectively carry out more important ventures. On April 30, in the grand old Parish Church, Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" was given before a crowded congregation. Miss Broome and Mr. G. King Smith (both Ipswich residents) were responsible for the solos, of which they gave a satisfactory account; while Mr. Charles Cooke (also from Ipswich) led a small but capable band drawn from the same town, with help from Norwich. Dr. Frank Bates (Norwich Cathedral) conducted, but the credit of training the chorus, who sang with remarkable precision, is entirely due to the Vicar (Rev. Granville Smith). The lovely duet, "I waited for the Lord," was tastefully rendered by two of the choirboys—Walter Tennant and Herbert Banner.

A rich treat was afforded the inhabitants of Honingham and the neighbourhood on April 30, when the Rev. L. Meadows White gave a Recital on the organ in the Parish Church in his well known masterly manner. With the assistance of Miss Quayle (violin), Rev. W. J. Warrenne Blake (harp), and Miss Crawshay (soprano) a well-selected programme was most ably performed.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH.

(From our own Correspondent.)

St. Mary's Cathedral was crowded to overflowing, on the 7th ult., to hear Gounod's "Redemption." The Cathedral choir was reinforced on this occasion by the choirs of St. Paul's, St. Peter's, and Old St. Paul's, bringing the number of singers to 150. An excellent orchestra of forty-five players, assisted by the organ, did every justice to the beautiful accompaniments. Mr. Collinson's name is guarantee enough for the soundness and thoroughness of the preparations, and the results he obtained, with all the effect added by the solemnity of the surroundings, made a deep impression on the huge congregation.

The outstanding feature of interest in the Spring visit of the Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company this year was undoubtedly the first performance in Edinburgh by this combination of the "Meistersinger." It is scarcely possible to give too much praise to the manager, Mr. Friend, and to the conductor, Herr Eckhold, for such a singularly successful performance of the difficult work. All the singers played their parts excellently, especially Mr. Barton McGuckin as Walther, Mr. Pringle as Pogner, and Mr. Homer Lind as Beckmesser. The full house on the one evening on which the "Meistersinger" was given, and the large audiences when Mr. Hedmondt and Miss Ella Russell gave their striking readings of the chief rôles in "Tannhäuser," compared somewhat too favourably with the degree of interest taken in the new Godard opera "La Vivandière" (in which Mdlle. de Lussan had a part which suited her great gifts to perfection) and the other works billed by the management. "Faust," however, on the 16th ult. (Miss Estey and Messrs. Hedmondt, Pringle, and Paull), drew a very large and enthusiastic house.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW.

(From our own Correspondent.)

It is to be feared that the Saturday Evening Concerts under the auspices of the Abstainers' Union have fallen upon evil times. This is unfortunate, inasmuch as for more than forty years many of the leading artists of the day have been heard at the City Hall. The directors of the Union have been compelled to arrange for a reduction in the number of the Concerts rather than dispense with the services of leading artists and thereby lower the musical standard. It is, of course, no secret that the "Penny" Concerts provided by the Glasgow Corporation on Saturday afternoons have injured the far more important scheme so long and so honourably conducted by the Abstainers' Union.

The Smoking Concert recently given by the Glasgow Society of Musicians was remarkable for the novelties submitted to the large audience assembled in the Windsor Hotel. These included the first performance in this country of a Sonata for violin and pianoforte by Paderewski (a masterly composition), Sinding's fine Quintet for pianoforte and strings, and three numbers from a String Quintet by Mr. Otto Schweitzer, an esteemed member of the Society. Many local musicians contributed to the evening's programme, and with conspicuous success.

The annual Concert by the Glasgow Academy Choir had a signal record on the evening of the 1st ult., when the jubilee of our premier educational Institution was celebrated. Of late years, as The Musical Times has had occasion to note, the choir attached to the Academy has done excellent work, thanks to the musical intelligence of Mr. John McLaren, the conductor, and the sympathetic aid of his wife, a pianist of marked ability. On the occasion under brief notice the programme was interesting in several respects. Bottesini's cantata "Ali Baba" appealed, of course, to certain tastes—nothing very wrong in that—but the feature of the evening was Mr. Allan Macbeth's "Jubilee Chorus." The inspiriting words of Mr. Louis Barbé had evidently put the Principal of the Glasgow Athenæum School of Music on his mettle, and hence the vociferous applause which positively demanded a repetition of the little Ode.

On the 18th ult. Dr. A. L. Peace gave an interesting Organ Recital in the Glasgow Cathedral; and, on the same evening, the third of a series of four Recitals was given, in Anderston Parish Church, by Mr. J. K. Strachan, the organist of that well-known edifice.

The Glasgow Society of Musicians also submitted an attractive programme on the 18th ult., the chief pieces being a Quartet for four violoncellos, by Mercadante, a Duet for two violoncellos with pianoforte accompaniment, by Carl Schuberte, and a Valsette from the pen of Mr. Schweitzer. During the evening the "cello" programme was agreeably varied with songs composed by Messrs. J. W. Sharpe and Alexander Biggar, two members of the Society.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

At the annual meeting of proprietors of the Liverpool Philharmonic Society, held at the close of the most recent session, the loss which the Society had sustained in the death of Sir Charles Hallé was feelingly alluded to by the chairman, Mr. Elisha Smith, who also tendered to all concerned felicitations on the appointment of Mr. F. H. Cowen. The finances of the Society are in an unusually flourishing condition, the assets amounting to over £1,500, this being £800 more than at the same period last year.

Allusion has been made previously to the singing of the Goossens Choir, a unique body of singers called into existence by the late conductor of the Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company. On the 14th ult. this choir gave the first regular Concert of a proposed series, and an enthusiastic reception was accorded to each of its efforts. The singers number about fifty voices (tenors and basses only), and render all the music undertaken without book. One result of this is that the conductor, having the absolute attention of his forces, is able to evoke just such lights and shades as appear to him desirable, and the whole effect is, beyond a doubt, extremely good. The programme in question was mainly drawn from the répertoire of the Belgian School, with which we have not so far been as well acquainted as we might be in this country.

What is always an interesting affair, and one which is of distinct value as relative to an important side of art, took place on April 29, when an immense crowd of Welsh choristers gathered at Hengler's Circus to take part in the annual Psalmody demonstration of the Calvinistic body. Every church belonging to the denomination in question in the district was represented, Mr. T. Price, of Merthyr, being the conductor. An excellent and noteworthy departure in regard to this meeting was the employment of a not very large, but thoroughly efficient, orchestra in the accompaniments.

On the same evening the Rock Ferry Amateur Musical Society gave a good performance of Harford Lloyd's "Andromeda," under Mr. W. R. Pemberton, and this may be taken as the concluding effort of the suburban societies. On the 9th ult. a very pleasant performance was given by the Theodore Lawson String Quartet for the entertainment of the members of the Incorporated Society of Musicians, gathered together at its regular sectional meeting in the Concert Hall of the Adelphi Hotel.

On the 16th ult. the Lord Mayor (Earl Derby) presided at the annual presentation of awards in connection with the Liverpool Music School, at the Town Hall. In the course of the proceedings Mr. Courvoisier, chairman for the year, announced that some time previously the title, "Liverpool College of Music," had been registered by his co-directors, and that under this more dignified style the Institution would in future carry on its work.

Although one season is barely over the prospects of another are to some extent being discussed, and the first in the field is the Syndicate of the Winter Entertainments. Ten evenings of this series are promised on Wednesdays, and they run about fortnightly from October 21 to March 10. An excellent programme has been placed before the public by Mr. G. B. Rodway, to whom belongs the credit of floating this most commendable enterprise.

Since the retirement of Mr. W. T. Best the Recitals at St. George's Hall have been given by various organists, the majority of whom have been competent performers, though the fee offered by the Corporation does not appear to have been sufficient to tempt many men of acknowledged eminence to the renowned console. It has now been resolved to advertise for a regular City organist, who will receive a salary of £300 a year to begin with, and the selection is to be left in the hands of Sir Walter Parratt, Dr. E. J. Hopkins, and Dr. J. F. Bridge of Westminster.

MUSIC IN NORTHUMBERLAND AND DURHAM.

(From our own Correspondent.)

During the past season the Hexham Choral Society, which formerly existed under the conductorship of Mr. James Kirkley, has been revived, and the result of the season's work was brought to light on April 27, at a Concert given in the Town Hall, Hexham, when Mr. F. H. Cowen's cantata "The Rose Maiden" was performed, together with part-songs and other smaller works. The Society numbers about 100 active members, who, under the bâton of Mr. Jasper Gibson, gave a very creditable account of themselves. The solo vocalists were Madame Wilson, Miss Thornton, Mr. Tom Child, and Mr. Thornton. Mr. N. W. Robson presided at the pianoforte and Mr. R. N. Wilkinson at the organ.

The annual general meeting of the Alnwick Choral Union took place in the Duke's School, Alnwick, on Monday, April 27, Mr. Matthew Armstrong presiding. The members are to be congratulated upon having closed their season with a balance in hand, and upon having increased the number of their honorary members. Mr. C. E. Moore was unanimously re-elected conductor for next season, and Mr. C. Stanley Wise and Miss M. Wilson were re-appointed accompanists. The works chosen for performance next season are "Elijah" and Smart's "Bride of Dunkerron."

The annual meeting of the Sunderland Philharmonic Society took place on Thursday, the 7th ult., the Mayor of Sunderland presiding. Much dissatisfaction was expressed at the deplorable financial position of the Society, which is in debt to the extent of over £200. Various means of disposing of this liability were suggested and discussed, and it was understood that the matter will be energetically dealt with by the committee. Artistically the season has been fairly successful, but the enthusiasm which generally goes hand in hand with financial success was wanting. The services of Mr. N. Kilburn, the conductor of the Society, and of Mrs. Douglas, the accompanist, have been greatly appreciated and were acknowledged in appropriate terms. The Society has had an uninterrupted career of thirty-six years. Its present financial position is hardly creditable to the people of Sunderland.

The Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company commenced a series of seven performances of opera in the Tyne Theatre, Newcastle-on-Tyne, on the 18th ult. The operas performed were "Tannhäuser," "Mignon," "Faust," "Die Meistersinger," Godard's "La Vivandière," "Carmen," and "Lucia di Lammermoor."

MUSIC IN SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The musical season, which in this district has a fairly well defined period, is now practically terminated, and for the next four months choral and orchestral bodies will remain quiescent, and musical fixtures of any description will be very infrequent. Especially is this the case in the surrounding small towns and villages where, during the summer, there is an almost complete cessation of public music. In the city a few odd Concerts will occasionally be given, but nothing of any importance is announced until October, when the Sheffield Musical Festival will be, it is hoped, successfully inaugurated. Rehearsals are now in full swing, the choristers prove themselves to be excellent in tone and ability, and the utmost enthusiasm prevails.

Two important Concerts were given in Sheffield last month. On the 5th ult. the old-established Amateur Musical Society gave its sixty-fifth Concert in the Albert Hall, under the direction of Mr. Schollhammer. J. F. Barnett's "Paradise and the Peri" occupied the first part of the programme. The work has been twice previously performed by this Society, and its second repetition appears to indicate a lack of enterprise on the part of the committee. It is gratifying, however, to learn that Gounod's "Redemption" is to be given at the next Concert. This great work has not been heard in Sheffield for many years, and its performance by the senior Society will create considerable interest. At the Concert under notice, Barnett's melodious chorus-work was child's play to the members, and the singing was marked throughout with a high degree of finish and taste. Miscellaneous selections completed the programme.

On the following evening, the 6th ult., the Amateur Instrumental Society gave the last Concert of the season in the Montgomery Hall. The orchestra played the "Der Freischütz" Overture, Wagner's "Kaisermarsch," and a selection from "Mignon." Mr. E. R. Reynolds played Schumann's Pianoforte Concerto in A (Op. 54). His performance of this exacting work was the chief feature of the Concert, and stamped him as a pianist of high executive and artistic ability. The playing of the orchestra, too, in this work was highly creditable to Dr. Coward, the popular conductor of the Society.

Mr. Frederick Dawson's interesting series of Chamber Concerts have been continued during the past month. On the 6th ult. the clever pianist was associated with Mr. Edwin Thorpe (violoncello) in duets by Beethoven and Brahms. Solos were given by each performer. On the 20th ult. Mr. Dawson gave a Pianoforte Recital.

A promising little Choral Society has been formed at Dore, near Sheffield. The membership already numbers fifty, and, on the 11th ult., a successful Concert was given under the direction of Mr. G. A. Seed. The Society is in connection with St. John's (Abbeydale) Church, and, as it is under good management, a prosperous future is no doubt before it.

On the 12th ult. the Codnor Park and Ironville Choral Society performed Gaul's "Holy City," under the direction of the Rev. Dr. Hills (Vicar of Ironville).

MUSIC IN THE SOUTHERN COUNTIES.

(From our own Correspondent.)

On the 14th ult. (Ascension Day) the usual selection from "Elijah" was given in Salisbury Cathedral, when the choir was augmented by several members of the Sarum Choral Society. The performance was an admirable one, and the organ accompaniments, by Mr. South, were masterly in the extreme.——Mr. T. E. Spinney gave his annual Students' Concert in the Assembly Rooms, Salisbury, on the 19th ult. The programme was contributed to by Mrs. Beesley, the Salisbury Orpheus Society, and several of Mr. Spinney's pupils, all of whom acquitted themselves well. Mrs. Beesley's pianoforte solos were much admired.

The performance of "Elijah" by the Southampton Philharmonic Society, which took place on April 28, was an unqualified success. The choruses were well sung, and the refinement of the orchestral accompaniments was a special feature. The solo vocalists were Miss Ethel Winn, Miss Edith Leslie, Mr. Samuel Masters, and Mr. Bantock Pierpoint, who, in the double quartet, "For He shall give His angels," were joined by Miss Russell, Miss Douglas, Mr. A. J. Cheverton, and Mr. D. Douglas. Mr. H. M. Pike conducted.

At Newbury, Mr. J. S. Liddle commenced his eleventh series of Chamber Concerts on the 6th ult. Haydn's String Quartet in D minor (Op. 76, No. 2) and Herzogenberg's Sonata in A for pianoforte and violin (Op. 32) were included in the programme. Other Concerts took place on the 20th and 27th ult., and the series will be continued this month.

At Bournemouth, on the 5th ult., the St. John's Choral Society gave a performance of Dr. Wareing's cantata "The Wreck of the Hesperus," followed by a miscellaneous selection, under the conductorship of Mr. William Lee. The soloists were Miss E. M. Lemare, Mr. F. Williams, and Mr. G. M. Robins (vocalists), and Miss Maud Fletcher (violoncellist). The accompaniments were played by Mr. H. Pottle, junior.

The newly-formed Choral Society in connection with St. Mark's Church, Southampton, gave two very successful Concerts on the 13th ult., at which Macfarren's "May-Day" formed the chief feature of the programme, the soprano solos being sung by Madame Newling. The members of the Society, about fifty in number, did their share of the work in a manner which reflected great credit upon themselves and upon Mr. Frank Mather, the conductor. The accompaniments were played by Miss Carey (pianoforte) and Mr. Seymour Gubb (organ).

Mendelssohn's "St. Paul" was performed by the Basingstoke Choral Society, on April 23, in the Drill Hall. In selecting this work for the closing Concert of the Society's seventh season, the committee did wisely, for "St. Paul" had not been heard with orchestral accompaniment in Basingstoke before. The band and chorus numbered 120 performers, and the rendering of the Oratorio was in every way satisfactory. The principals were Miss Beatrice Stanley Lucas, Miss Emily Rasey, Mr. William Green, and Mr. Bantock Pierpoint. The orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. Charles Griffiths, did its work well, and Mr. C. H. W. Hickin, as organist, rendered material assistance. Mr. H. E. Powell conducted and is to be congratulated upon the advance which the Society is making under his direction.

Conducted by the Rev. W. H. Weekes, the Devizes Amateur Orchestral Society gave two Concerts, on April 29, in the Corn Exchange, Devizes. Beethoven's Symphony, No. 1, in C; two movements from Mozart's Pianoforte Concerto, No. 25, in C; and Grieg's "Peer Gynt" Suite (No. 1) were included in the programme, which, with a slight exception, was the same at both Concerts. Miss Mabel Lidbetter and Miss Hilda Harris appeared as vocalists, and violoncello solos were played by Mr. Algernon Salter. Mr. H. H. Baker was at the pianoforte and the orchestra was led by Mr. F. Morrell.

MUSIC IN PARIS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The first performance took place on April 24, at the Opéra, of the four-act opera "Hellé," the libretto from the joint-pens of MM. Camille du Locle and Charles Nuitter, the music by M. Alphonse Duvernoy. It required some positive courage at this time of day to produce an operatic work cast in the old orthodox mould, and at the same time not allow oneself to be influenced by Wagnerian doctrines. This, however, is what M. Duvernoy has achieved in writing this melodious score, essentially an opera for vocalists; and his interpreters seconded his efforts with such admirable zeal that the work was received with distinct favour by the public. From the critical standpoint, no doubt, some fault might be found—for instance, with the absence of any pronounced individuality in the melodies which abound in the work; but the audience did not trouble itself about this fact, while applauding the composer who, having to write music to be sung, did so in a manner really suitable to the human voice. The action of "Hellé," which is timed in 1343, presents some peculiarities. In the opening portion of the work the librettists introduce us to the rites of paganism still carried on, with a measure of security, on an island of Thessaly; and anon we are transferred into the midst of the revelry and popular festal display characteristic of the Florence of the period; while the ballet divertissement is nothing else but an illustration of the story of Herod and Salomé. Thus it will be seen that plenty of scope was afforded to the composer in the direction of local colour, and he might, as a matter of fact, have availed himself more fully of the opportunity to introduce that picturesque element. The work was most carefully staged, and the cast, which included Madame Caron, MM. Alvarez, Delmas, and Fournets, was an excellent one.

At the Opéra Comique, M. Messager's "Le Chevalier d'Harmental" was at length brought out on the 5th ult. It is a comic opera in five acts, the libretto, founded upon Alexandre Dumas and Auguste Maquet's drama, having M. Paul Ferrier for its author. The subject is somewhat stale, and although the different scenes are ably enough contrived, one finds it difficult to get up any interest whatever in the personages represented, or to experience any emotion in witnessing the time-honoured stage conspiracy, followed by the inevitable pardon and similar devices. The composer, M. Messager, is a highly-gifted musician, who writes with a sure hand, and moreover generally hits upon the musical expression most suitable to the situation. His present work abounds in happily inspired numbers, and proved in every way successful, aided as it was by a satisfactory interpretation. Mdlles. Marignan and Chevalier, MM. Leprestre, Isnardon, Fugère, and Marc-Nohel in leading parts received well-merited applause.

The season of our great Orchestral Concerts has come to a close. The members of M. Lamoureux's orchestra are delighted with the warm reception accorded them upon their recent visit to England. While their chef was introducing his forces to English audiences, M. Colonne had been conducting performances of French music at Copenhagen and Berlin, not, however, with his own, but with the respective orchestras of these capitals.

Pianoforte Recitals are still plentiful here, amongst their number being those of M. Delaborde, the well-known Professor at the Conservatoire, and of Madame Roger-Miclos. Nor should I omit to mention the Recital recently given by M. Henri Falcke, a gifted and sympathetic pianist, whose technique is irreproachable, and who, while in no way neglecting the classical masters, devotes himself in a great measure to the interpretation of modern composers. He was, on the occasion referred to, greatly applauded in a "Suite ancienne" by Moszkowski, some "Valses serieuses" by René Lenormand, and pieces by Grieg and others.

Amongst other Concerts, those given by M. Ysaye, the celebrated violinist, in conjunction with M. Pugno, have attracted much attention. The programmes of the three Concerts given by these artists consisted exclusively of Sonatas for pianoforte and violin, amongst the less known of these being works by Lalo, Fauré, and Castillon.

Señor Sarasate is likewise giving Recitals here, needless to say to delighted audiences.

M. Théodore Dubois, the new director of the Conservatoire, is a member of the "Institut," a composer of talent, organist of the Madeleine, and an eminent theoretical authority. The choice made is, in fact, an excellent one. M. Dubois is the author, inter alia, of that important work "Notes et Etudes d'Harmonie," which supplements and completes Reber's "Traité," the most highly esteemed work here on the subject.

M. Lenepveu has been nominated a member of the Institut de France, in the room of the late Ambroise Thomas, by nineteen votes, against sixteen given in favour of M. Joncières.

Madame Calvé has returned to Paris.

An interesting monography has just been published from the pen of M. Albert Jacquot, entitled "Les Mêdard," giving an account of that celebrated family of Lorraine luthiers.

MUSIC IN MONTREAL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The seventh annual Festival of the Montreal Philharmonic Society took place at the Windsor Hall on April 27, 28, and 29. The Festival, as usual, consisted of four Concerts, three in the evening and one in the afternoon. The programme was the most exacting one ever undertaken by the Society, and was carried out with great success. The first Concert consisted of Saint-Saëns's "Samson and Delilah," repeated from last year. Miss Gertrude May Stein and Mr. Barron Berthald gave splendid renderings of the title rôles, whilst the High Priest's music was ably interpreted by Dr. Carl E. Dufft. All these artists came from New York. The Matinée consisted of orchestral numbers and vocal and pianoforte solos. The most interesting number was Saint-Saëns's Concerto in G minor, played by Mr. Wm. H. Sherwood, of Chicago, supported by the Boston Festival Orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. Emil Mollenhauer. Mr. Sherwood is probably America's greatest pianist, and his rendering of this work was such as to endorse his claim to the title. A novelty was presented at the second evening Concert, when Mr. G. W. Chadwick, of Boston, conducted his dramatic poem "The Lily Nymph," which he had composed for, and dedicated to the Montreal Philharmonic Society. The work had been very carefully studied by the chorus, and its production was such as to give full satisfaction to the composer. The audience also testified their appreciation in a most enthusiastic manner. The balance of the programme was made up of orchestral numbers, the principal one being Beethoven's "Leonore" Overture (No. 3).

The audiences thus far had been less numerous than the merits of the Concerts deserved. The feeling was evidently pretty general that the Society was keeping the good wine until last in giving "Tannhäuser" at its final Concert; and, in absenting themselves from the earlier Concerts to be present in full force at the last, the public missed some of the finest music ever given in this city. The performance of "Tannhäuser" was a great event in the annals of Canadian musical history, this being the first occasion upon which this great opera of Wagner's has been heard in the Dominion either in concert or opera form. This work was given in full, excepting the usual cuts made on the operatic stage. The performance was a wonderfully good one, both performers and audience being perhaps a little surprised that the Society should be able to present such a stupendous work without the slightest hitch occurring. Mr. Barron Berthald made an excellent Tannhäuser, and Mrs. Kronold-Koert was satisfactory in the double rôles of Venus and Elizabeth. Mr. William Mertens's magnificent baritone voice was heard to great advantage in the part of Wolfram, and Mr. William H. Clarke, of Boston, was acceptable as the Landgrave. Local soloists acquitted themselves with honour in the minor rôles. Mr. Guillaume Couture, the conductor, had his forces well in hand from first to last. The singing of the chorus throughout the Festival was excellent, and as, in addition to the Festival Concerts, the Society has, during the season, given four oratorios—"Messiah," "Creation," "Elijah," and "Redemption"—the capacity of the chorus and the conductor for serious work must be acknowledged.

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The season of 1895-96 is over. The spring performances of opera at the Metropolitan were not more or less noteworthy than their predecessors of the winter, and the close of the concert season was somewhat unfortunate in that it brought to light an altogether unfortunate quarrel over the respective merits of the Boston and Chicago orchestras, from which no one emerges with any satisfaction. It will, however, probably have the effect of keeping Mr. Thomas away from New York in the future.

The last Concert of the Oratorio Society, at Carnegie Hall, was the occasion for the production of Mr. Henschel's "Stabat Mater," under the composer's direction. The work itself was already sufficiently known, and its performance showed it, when given under favourable circumstances, to be a most effective work.

Mr. Ffrangcon-Davies took the solo bass part in the "Stabat Mater" as well as in the "Parsifal" music which followed, and sang with delightful tone, quality, feeling, and finish. Mr. Davies, by-the-bye, made a notable success in the Western engagements which he filled before coming to New York.

The Hope-Jones Organ Company have appointed as their American representative Mr. Carlton G. Michell, of Boston, who has made an arrangement with the organ-building firm of Cole and Woodberry, of that city, to erect instruments on the Hope-Jones system, Mr. Michell being responsible for the voicing. He has just turned out quite a notable organ for the Church of St. Michael and All Angels, Baltimore. The instrument is one of ordinary size (three-manual and pedal), but it contains a number of devices which are sure to bring it into favourable notice, while the voicing, especially of the string stops, is in advance of anything heretofore done in this country.

Some months ago I gave a brief account of the theft of the "Duke of Cambridge" Stradivarius violin from its owner, Jean Bott, who died of grief over the loss of the instrument. Recently the dealer who was found with an instrument, claimed to be the missing one, in his possession was brought to trial on the technical charge of knowingly receiving stolen goods. The case was bitterly contested, and after a trial which consumed over three weeks and involved an enormous amount of expert testimony the dealer was convicted. As an appeal is allowed and has been taken, the end is not yet, but it is not believed that the decision of the trial court will be reversed. The evidence produced revealed some rather remarkable facts concerning the devious ways of violin makers in New York, one expert witness swearing that at least five hundred spurious "Strads" had been turned out by one establishment.

An appeal has been made, through the agency of the New York Evangelist, The Churchman, and other religious papers, for subscriptions to a fund in aid of the family of the late Sir Joseph Barnby. Organists and choirmasters throughout the country are urged to give "Barnby" Services, consisting entirely of works of the dead composer, the offertories to be devoted to the fund. Several such services have already been given in New York and vicinity.

Mr. Bruce Steane's sacred cantata "The Ascension" was well rendered on Ascension Day, at Calvary Church, Philadelphia, under the direction of the organist and choirmaster, Mr. W. H. Squires.

On the 7th ult. the Civil Service Vocal Union gave an interesting Ladies' Concert at the King's Hall, Holborn Restaurant. We congratulate the Society on its new honorary conductor, Mr. Alfred Furse, for we have had frequent opportunities of appreciating that gentleman's good work as honorary conductor of the Catford Choral Society. His enthusiasm, energy, and devotion to a self-imposed duty are qualities which, being combined with knowledge and a thorough savoir faire, have always produced most excellent results. That the example of Mr. Furse's enthusiasm was not wasted on the fine body of singers under his bâton was made manifest by the performances of Gernsheim's "Salamis" and Grieg's "Landkennung," which were sung with praiseworthy vigour and steadiness, and a fine rhythmical swing. Refinement, minute attention to dynamic details, and clear enunciation were displayed in several smaller pieces, such as Mr. C. Lee-Williams's "Peace," Dr. C. H. Lloyd's "Fly to my mistress," and a charming "Cradle Song," by Arthur Stenz. The programme contained a novelty in the shape of a "Patriotic Chorus," by Mr. J. H. Maunder, which we do not consider one of that clever composer's best efforts. He has rightly endeavoured to write music at once diatonic, straightforward, and what the Germans call volksthümlich; but the result approaches very nearly the commonplace, and the strongly marked march rhythm soon becomes monotonous. Messrs. Shiner, Wiggington, Hewitt, and Gould, forming the "Lieder" Quartet, sang a number of part-songs with much success; their voices are well trained and well matched, and nobody could style these gentlemen's efforts "Lieder ohne Worte," their articulation being, in fact, remarkably distinct. Miss Isabella Donkersley played F. Kiel's fine "Solostück" for violin (Op. 70, No. 1) and the Menuet and Tarantelle from Mr. E. German's delightful "Gipsy" Suite; and the other soloists were Master Sterndale Bennett, Messrs. Charles Chilley and George E. Holmes, of whom the last-named may be commended for his unhackneyed selection of songs. A small but thoroughly competent orchestra played the accompaniments in Gernsheim's, Grieg's, and Mr. Maunder's works, and the Concert, as a whole, was a genuine success.

The eleventh Examination for Certificate of Proficiency, bearing with it the title of Associate of the Royal College of Music (A.R.C.M.), was concluded on April 25. One hundred and eighty-eight candidates were examined. The following were declared by the examiners to have obtained the certificates:—Theory: John H. Bridger, Katherine M. Everett, Henry W. Weston. Composition: John W. Ivimey. Pianoforte (Solo Performance): Gertrude Dennis Allen, Bertha Broadhurst, Eleanor J. C. Davis, Katherine M. Everett, Madame Eleonore Frisk, Mrs. Eleanor S. Halkett, E. Howard Jones, Evelyn G. King, Charles H. A. Mann, Effie Smith, Gwendoline Walker. Pianoforte (Teaching): Mary C. Alment, Evelyn F. Baird, Alice E. Barnby, Arthur Bayliss, John H. Bridger, Alice M. Bulleid, Edith A. Capes, Rosetta J. Chapman, Herbert Codd, Eva C. Court, Ella L. Compère, Annie E. Crouch, Eleanor J. C. Davis, Grace E. Davis, Eleanor S. Deane, Alice S. de Veulle, Isabel A. Dove, Lily C. Fell, Helen Fielden, Edith E. B. Foster, Mary J. Gordon, Charles R. Girardot, Grace E. Harris, Marion Harrison, Mabel Hills, Marie T. Hinde, Rachel M. A. Hutchinson, John N. Ireland, Margaret I. Jones, Lila M. Kent, Ethel M. la Thangue, Blanche Limebeer, James H. A. McMenemin, Janet H. McNair, Charles H. A. Mann, Carlton W. Mason, Violet Overton, Dora I. Owen, Berthe M. A. Paulus, Edith M. Peachey, Annie Pitman, Edith R. Plante, Ethel M. Proudlock, Mrs. Agnes K. Punshon, Anna F. Rhind, Mary I. Richardson, Frederick R. Rickman, Mary Saxby, Mary I. Tanner, Dora Taylor, Helen Taylor, Edith E. Tebbutt, Edith M. Wallace, Gertrude Watson, Ewart G. West, Beatrice Whicker, Alice Wilden, Grace H. Wood, Harry Woodward, Florence Wright. Singing (Solo Performance): Florence H. Buckley, Jane S. Dempster, Mary M. Fraser, Robert Hall, Clara L. Harding, Agnes J. Jackson, Helen L. Jackson, Alice Oakeshott, G. Ruby M. Shaw, Oliver Tristram. Organ: Arthur H. Baker, John C. Bradshaw, Herbert W. Chuter, Harriett C. Dixon, Charles H. Duffield, Thomas Keighley, Herbert Sanders, Harry M. Sheaves. Violin: William Ackroyd, Katharine M. Baker, Thomas Jeavens. Viola: Gwynne Kimpton. Clarinet: Robert Smith, jun.

We were glad to notice some improvement in the performances at the Musical Artists' Society's Concerts, given at St. Martin's Town Hall on April 27 and the 11th ult. At the former we heard a Pianoforte Quintet in F minor by Miss Edith Swepstone, a well-written and effective work, well played by the composer, Messrs. Karl Henkel, Mistowski, Wright, and Albert. A Suite for violin and pianoforte, by Mr. Gerard F. Cobb, was performed by Mr. Percy Sharman and the composer. It contains some excellent music, and should be welcomed by violinists. Mr. Walter Fitton produced a Pastoral Romance and Rondo alla Tarantella for pianoforte from his own pen, two agreeable and musicianly specimens of the better class of salon music. Mr. Trevelyn David sang two inferior specimens of "shop songs" (whose composers shall be nameless) in a style which we can only describe as appropriate to the music. Miss Alice McFarlane attempted Lassen's "All Souls' Day" and Meyer Helmund's "Spanish Love Song." At the second Concert, on the 11th ult., the Hillier Quartet party, hailing from Belgium, and consisting of Messrs. L. H. Hillier, Jean Pirson, Leon Mozin, and Henri Derouette made their début before an English audience in Schumann's E flat Pianoforte Quintet, Miss Llewela Davies being the pianist. It cannot be said that our Belgian guests' playing was a revelation. Their tone was weak, their intonation sometimes faulty (though the Continental pitch was used), and their ensemble nothing out of the common. A new Pianoforte Trio in E minor, by Mr. Sidney R. Cole, proved a work of some interest and worth, though neither its subject-matter nor its workmanship presented any remarkable features. The other novelties were a "Canon" for mezzo-soprano and tenor and three Waltzes for vocal quartet, by Mr. E. Van der Straeten; but they were so badly sung that we will not do the composer the injustice of judging his pieces from such a performance. Glinka's Trio Pathétique for pianoforte, clarinet, and bassoon received an artistic rendering from Messrs. F. Peachey, L. W. Beddome, and James.

The South London Musical Club gave its fifty-second private Musical Evening at Gresham Hall, Brixton, on the 5th ult., before a crowded and most appreciative audience. The pièce de résistance of an interesting programme was Mr. Henry Gadsby's male-voice cantata "Columbus," of which a finished and appropriately dramatic performance was given. Gernsheim's spirited, massive "Salamis," Bishop's "Bold Robin Hood," Naylor's sympathetic and melodious setting of Christina Rosetti's beautiful "Where sunless rivers weep," Mr. Cummings's "Oh! the Summer night," and Beale's merry madrigal "This pleasant month of May" were all sung with unfailing taste and effect; but in one or two other part-songs the intonation was not perfect, and a little more finish could have been desired. A tuneful, captivating chorus, "Lo! our silver censers swinging" (words by Lord Lytton), by Mr. J. P. Attwater, a member of the club, was well rendered and warmly received, the solo being expressively sung by Mr. E. G. Richardson. The other soloists were Mr. Harper Kearton (in "Columbus") and Miss M. Garland, who has a good voice and method, but who spoiled the gentle rhythmical flow of Lassen's "All Souls' Day" by an excessive indulgence in tempo rubato. It is possible to be most expressive even while singing "streng im Zeitmass," to use Wagner's favourite phrase. When will performers learn that rhythm is, next to melody, music's greatest charm? There was a small but capable orchestra, led by Mr. Arthur Payne, who also played two solos—Raff's hackneyed Cavatina and Wieniawski's hardly less hackneyed Polonaise. Mr. Charles Stevens conducted with care and judgment.

The following gentlemen offered themselves as candidates for the Principalship of the Guildhall School of Music, rendered vacant by the death of Sir Joseph Barnby:—Dr. Horton Allison, Mr. J. Abram, Mr. W. S. Bambridge, Mr. J. M. Bentley, Dr. J. Bradford, Mr. O. Bradley, Mr. A. J. Caldicott, Mr. J. M. Crament, Mr. W. H. Cummings, Mr. R. Dunstan, Mr. E. Fowles, Mr. H. R. Gadsby, Mr. C. H. Allen Gill, Dr. F. E. Gladstone, Mr. C. J. Hargitt, Dr. Warwick Jordan, Mr. Li Calsi, Mr. H. Löhr, Herr Meyer Lutz, Dr. C. Maclean, Mr. J. McHardy, Mr. H. Morley, Mr. Hamish MacCunn, M. Lois Nicole, Dr. Joseph Parry, Mr. C. J. Phillips, Mr. J. L. Phillips, Dr. R. Rogers, Dr. F. J. Sawyer, Dr. Churchill Sibley, Dr. J. Smith, M. Isidore de Solla, Dr. E. H. Turpin, Dr. G. C. Verrinder, Mr. W. Wells, and Dr. C. L. Williams. The Music Committee of the Corporation of London met on the 18th ult. and selected five for submission to the Court of Common Council (with whom the appointment rests)—namely, Mr. A. J. Caldicott, Mr. William H. Cummings, Dr. F. J. Sawyer, Mr. William Henry Thomas, and Dr. E. H. Turpin. Curiously enough, this selection brings in representatives of the Royal College of Music, Royal Academy of Music, Guildhall School of Music, Trinity College, London College of Music, and Royal College of Organists.

The Bayreuth representations of "Der Ring des Nibelungen," which mark the twentieth anniversary of the original production of the Tetralogy, will commence on the 19th of next month. We have already specified in detail the order of performances, and are now able to give the definitely arranged list of artists taking part—viz., Mesdames Lilli Lehmann and Gulbranson (Brunhilde), Rosa Sucher (Sieglinde), Brema (Fricka), Schumann-Heink (Erda), Reuss-Belce (Gutrune), Weed (Freia), von Artner, Fremstadt, and another lady not yet chosen (Rhine Daughters); Herren Burgstaller, Gruning, and Seidel (Siegfried), Brauer (Mime), Perron (Wotan), Vogl (Loge), Friedrichs (Alberich), Grengg (Hagen), Gerhauser (Siegmund), Elmblad (Fafner and Hunding), Wachter (Fasolt), Gross (Gunther), Bachmann (Donner). Frau Cosima Wagner has secured the co-operation of Professor Carl Klindworth in the artistic management of the Festspiele, one of the oldest and most experienced of Wagnerian disciples, by whose services that institution cannot but be greatly benefited.

An attempt, deserving of every encouragement, is being made to establish an annual series of Concerts of chamber music in connection with the Croydon Conservatoire of Music, and the first Concert of the first season was given on the 12th ult., in the Small Public Hall. The programme was distinctly interesting, and included Sinding's Sonata for violin and pianoforte, Raff's Trio in G major, and a Quartet for pianoforte and strings, by Henry R. Rose, the composer himself taking the pianoforte part. This is a melodious and pleasing work in four movements, each of which displays a thorough command of the resources of the various instruments. The other artists taking part in the Concert were Mr. Frederiksen (violin), Mr. R. Carrodus (viola), Mr. W. C. Hann (violoncello), and Mr. Ernest Kiver (pianoforte), and Madame Clara Samuell's vocal contributions afforded agreeable variety. Intending subscribers to the second Concert, on the 26th ult., were invited to a short analytical Lecture on the previous Friday, at the Conservatoire, an excellent idea, which, no doubt, bore good results.

The Violin Recital given by Miss Irma Sethe at St. James's Hall, on April 30, was artistically very successful, the young lady violinist giving a very refined and piquant rendering of Max Bruch's clever and effective "Scotch" Fantasia, which is justly a favourite with Mr. Sarasate. She also played with much grace and charm pieces by Corelli, Chopin, and Sarasate. There was an efficient orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Gustav Ernest, which performed Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony in B minor and the Overtures to Beethoven's "Egmont" and Wagner's "Flying Dutchman" in fairly good fashion. At her second Recital, which took place on the 21st ult., in the same hall, Miss Sethe gave an interpretation of Bach's Chaconne in D minor for violin alone that may be said to have distinctly increased her reputation in England. Mrs. Fisher-Sobell, associated with the reciter, played in a sympathetic manner the pianoforte part of Grieg's Sonata in C minor (Op. 45) and Mr. Fisher-Sobell was the vocalist.

The Streatham Choral Society, which for several seasons has done excellent work, gave a spirited performance of "Elijah," on the 4th ult., in the local Town Hall. The tenors were exceedingly few in comparison with the other choral divisions, but those present zealously strove to prevent any serious shortcomings as regards balance of tone, and the result of their efforts was happier than might have been expected. In the rendering of the choruses generally, decision and steadiness were not wanting, and the Baal scene and "Be not afraid" were specially well given. The music of the title-part was conscientiously and expressively sung by Mr. Arthur Walenn. A decided success was achieved by Miss Greta Williams in "O rest in the Lord," Miss Mabel Berrey was not overtaxed in the soprano airs, and Mr. Braxton Smith tastefully sang the tenor solos. There was a professional orchestra, and Mr. Stewart Macpherson had complete control of his forces.

The Parks combined bands, consisting of ninety-two players, engaged by the London County Council for performances in open spaces of the Metropolis during this summer, were heard on the 20th ult., at Queen's Hall, in several of the pieces forming the répertoire for the season. The programme was of a popular description, the only composition offering difficulties worthy the name being the Overture to "Hansel und Gretel," arranged by Mr. W.

Short. With the exception of two or three double-basses and the drums, wind instruments solely were employed. Marches, dance movements, and light trifles predominated, nearly all of which were given with abundant spirit. A stronger infusion of higher-class music would have been more satisfactory to those who are desirous that the Parks bands should improve public taste and exercise an educational influence generally. Songs from Madame Florence Winn and others interspersed the orchestral performances.

Mr. Bonawitz gave two Concerts at the Queen's (Small) Hall, on the 9th and 16th ult. respectively. The first was a Historical Recital of keyboard music, on the lines made familiar by Mr. Bonawitz's previous efforts in this direction—that is to say, it commenced with a number of organ pieces composed in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, went on from these to the harpsichord music of the sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth, and wound up with a number of pianoforte pieces by representative composers for that instrument. These, numbering forty-five in all, were played from memory without a slip. The harpsichord pieces were played on a fine instrument lent by Messrs. Broadwood, who also supplied the pianoforte which Mr. Bonawitz used for the later pieces. The Concert of the 16th consisted exclusively of Mr. Bonawitz's own compositions and included a Quartet and Quintet for pianoforte and strings.

Mrs. Owen Lewis's programme at the Queen's (Small) Hall, on the 2nd ult., was particularly strong in its instrumental features. With the experienced Mr. Hans Wessely and Mr. Paul Ludwig the Concert-giver took part in Raff's Trio in A minor (Op. 155) for pianoforte, violin, and violoncello, the performance being thoroughly satisfactory. For her solo essay Mrs. Owen Lewis selected Chopin's Ballade in G minor (Op. 23), the grace and melodic charm of which were effectively brought out. Another acceptable piece was Saint-Saëns's Rondo Capriccioso (Op. 28), played with much spirit and breadth of style by Mr. Wessely. Miss Ethel Bevans successfully sang Goring Thomas's "A Summer Night" and Denza's "A May Morning," and for the final selection there was Rubinstein's Sonata for pianoforte and violoncello in D major (Op. 18), ably interpreted by Mrs. Owen Lewis and Mr. Paul Ludwig.

The Royal Engineers' String Band, following the example of the Royal Artillery Band, gave a Concert in Queen's Hall, on the 1st ult., under the conductorship of Herr Sommer. The programme was of a less ambitious character than is customarily presented by Cavaliere Zavertal and his efficient force; but three compositions called forth the highest powers of the executants, who, on the whole, were equal to the occasion. Mendelssohn's impetuous "Ruy Blas" Overture was played with spirit, a fair amount of delicacy marked the rendering of the Prelude to "Lohengrin," and there was no lack of care in the performance of Grieg's "Sigurd Jorsalfar" Suite. The ballet music from Goldmark's "Die Königin von Saba," Gounod's "Saltarello," and Wagner's "Träume" were also given with the regard for expression upon which so much of the effect of these pieces depends.

At St. Anne's Church, Soho, on Ascension Day, Bach's cantata "God goeth up" was sung at the eight o'clock Evensong, with orchestral accompaniment. Bach's Church cantatas are too rarely heard in our churches, and, to the best of our belief, this most interesting work has never before been given in London. The soloists were Master Bertie Miller (soprano), Master Tuck (alto), Mr. James Horncastle (tenor), and Mr. Thomas Sweeney (bass). The fine opening chorus, "God goeth up with shouting," was admirably sung—as was, indeed, all the first part of the work. In the second part the extremely difficult trumpet obbligati were not quite satisfactory, but the work—which makes great demands both on the band and the singers—would be heard to far greater advantage if given a second time. Mr. D. J. Caldwell was at the organ and Mr. E. H. Thorne conducted.

Miss Nora Boyle, who gave a Concert on the 9th ult., at the Queen's (Small) Hall, is a young violinist, who, although scarcely out of the advanced student stage, has acquired a technical command of her instrument which indicates considerable natural aptitude. Power of expression and the higher attributes which go to make up the artistic executant Miss Boyle has yet to gain, but having acquired so much, further study and judicious training should enable her to surmount the greater difficulties of her art. Miss Boyle's most successful effort was in Vieuxtemps's "Fantasia Appassionata," but much merit was attached to the renderings of Mendelssohn's Concerto in E minor and Saint-Saëns's "Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso." Some pianoforte solos were contributed by Mr. Sydney Hann and recitations were given by Mr. H. Legerton.

The well-known Monte Carlo Orchestra, directed by M. Léon Jehin, gave the first of a series of daily performances at the Imperial Institute on the 9th ult., when the Prince of Wales and other members of the Royal family were present. The works played were not of a kind to test the highest qualities either of conductor or orchestra, but they were sufficiently good to enable both to exhibit conspicuous merits. The players are obviously capable artists, and, being accustomed to play together constantly under the same chief, their ensemble is naturally excellent. They play with plenty of entrain and (as far as open-air conditions permit judgment) with sufficient delicacy. Their répertoire is large and varied and includes many works not known in this country. The Monte Carlo Orchestra will play at the Institute until the 24th inst.

Mr. and Mrs. Livesey Carrott's annual Concert in the Queen's (Small) Hall, on the 11th ult., brought the first performance of "Martha," a sacred cantata for ladies' voices. A vein of devotional feeling runs through Mr. Carrott's new work, and the effect of the whole is less monotonous than is often the case when no male voices are engaged in a composition consisting of over a dozen numbers. Both taste and skill are apparent throughout, and a fairly imposing climax is reached with a soprano solo and chorus, "O magnify the Lord." The three solo parts were adequately rendered by Miss Hilda Wilson (as a Narrator), Miss Alice Simons (Mary), and Mrs. Livesey Carrott (Martha), and the chorus was commendable. Mr. Carrott conducted. To the miscellaneous second part Mr. Joseph Norman contributed violoncello solos.

The following Concerts, by reason of their excellence, merit record:—Miss Eva Young, who gave her first Concert on the 8th ult., is a pianist of considerable promise, her playing on that occasion indicating conscientious study and an artistic temperament.—Messrs. Colson and Hill, who respectively affect the violin and violoncello, gave proofs of their abilities, on the 12th ult., at the Steinway Hall. They were assisted by Miss Rosa Leo, Miss Maggie Davies, Madame Himing, and Mr. Charles Copland. Miss Bonavia was the pianist.—Mr. Gordon Tanner, assisted by Mr. Siegfried, a Polish pianist, was heard in an interesting programme on the 21st ult., at St. James's Hall; and the same evening, at the Queen's (Small) Hall, Miss Isabel Hirschfeld proved herself worthy of artistic esteem as a pianist.

The following Competitions have taken place at the Royal Academy of Music recently: The Charles Mortimer Prize for composition was awarded, on April 28, to William H. Reed (Frome, Somerset). J. C. Holbrook and Elsie E. Horne were commended. On April 29, the Parepa-Rosa Scholarship was awarded to Emily Gertrude Drinkwater (Cardiff), and the examiners highly commended Liliano Isabel Newbiggin, Jessie Georgina Stewart, and Gertrude Annie Snow. The Sterndale Bennett Scholarship was awarded, on the same day, to Joseph Charles Holbrook (London), and the examiners highly commended H. W. Withers and C. H. W. Hickin. The Prize offered by the Magpie Madrigal Society for the composition of a madrigal has been awarded to Harriett Claiborne Dixon (Bradford).

Mr. Henry R. A. Robinson's annual Concert took place on April 28, at the Blackheath New Concert Hall. The artists engaged were Madame Isabel George, Miss Mary Morgan, Mr. Faithful Pearce, Mr. John Peachey, Mdlle. Adelina Dinelli (violin), Mr. Clement Hann (violoncello), and Mr. Henry R. A. Robinson (pianoforte). The Concert-giver gave an admirable performance of Schumann's Sonata in G minor (Op. 22) and a brilliant rendering of Weber's "Rondo Brillant." The programme also included the Air and Variations from Beethoven's "Kreutzer" Sonata, played by Mr. Robinson and Mdlle. Dinelli, and the Andante and Finale from Mendelssohn's Sonata for pianoforte and violoncello, played by Mr. Robinson and Mr. Clement Hann.

AN Industrial Exhibition, on a magnificent scale, was opened on the 1st ult., at Berlin, in the presence of the Emperor, and musically graced by the festal strains of Wagner's "Kaisermarsch" and of Beethoven's Hymn "Die Himmel rühmen," sung by the Liedertafel. The section representing musical instruments and their constituent parts is particularly interesting and exhaustive, giving a fairly complete picture of the progress made in the various branches of the industry. The Exhibition, which will continue during the summer, is replete with special attractions of a less technical order, amongst the orchestras performing in the spacious grounds being that of the Khedive, numbering sixty musicians, under the direction of Major Faltis Bey.

THE Lincoln and Peterborough Festival will be held in Lincoln Cathedral on the 17th inst. At the afternoon service Mendelssohn's "Elijah" will be performed, and at the evening service Rossini's "Stabat Mater" and Haydn's "Creation," Parts 1 and 2. The principal soloists will be Miss Anna Williams, Miss Lucie Johnstone, Mr. Ben Davies, and Mr. Watkin Mills. The orchestra will be under the leadership of Mr. Alfred Burnett, and the chorus of 500 singers will comprise the Lincoln and Peterborough Cathedral choirs, with contingents from Lincoln, Boston, Gainsborough, Grantham, Louth, Nottingham, and Sleaford. Dr. Haydn Keeton will preside at an organ erected for the occasion, and the conductor will be Dr. George J. Bennett.

THE Handel Society presented an excellent programme, on the 13th ult., at St. James's Hall. It contained Purcell's fine anthem "Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem"; Dr. Parry's vigorous setting of Shirley's funeral ode, "The glories of our Blood and State"; Mr. Somervell's "Forsaken Merman," the solo in which was rendered with artistic feeling by Mr. Francis Harford; Brahms's "Ave Maria" for women's voices (Op. 12); and Mendelssohn's setting of the 114th Psalm. The choir sang with intelligence, if not always with the precision and finish that were desirable, and Mr. E. J. Croager rendered valuable assistance at the organ. Mr. J. S. Liddle conducted.

MRS. COUPER CRIPPS'S Vocal Recital at Steinway Hall, on the 15th ult., introduced specimens of various styles. A good voice, telling method, and command of feeling were advantageously manifested by Mrs. Cripps in several contributions; but she did nothing better than the air from "Jephtha," "Scenes of horror, scenes of woe," in which evidence of dramatic power, no less than conscientious adherence to the text and high intelligence, was forthcoming. Other songs were furnished by Miss Emma Allitsen, Mr. Lawrence Kellie, and Mr. John Morley. The Sylvan Part-Singers distinguished themselves in Horsley's "By Celia's arbour."

AT Trinity College, London, the following Scholarships and Exhibitions will be competed for next month: The Henry Smart Organ Scholarship, Queen Victoria Composition Scholarship, one Pianoforte Scholarship, and one Vocal Scholarship, all tenable for three years; the Benedict Pianoforte Exhibition, Sims Reeves Vocal Exhibition, and one Exhibition in each of the subjects of Organ, Violin, Viola, Violoncello, and Double-Bass, all tenable for one year. These Scholarships and Exhibitions are open to all-comers under the regulations, and to-day is the last day on which the names of candidates will be received.

MISS FLORENCE HAWKINS'S Concert at Steinway Hall, on the 8th ult., included excellent performances on the violin and pianoforte by Miss Gertrude Collins and Miss Ada Calkin respectively. The hackneyed "Shadow Song" from "Dinorah" was creditably rendered by Miss Mabel Calkin, and Miss Florence Hawkins displayed some taste in songs by Bemberg, F. E. Bache, and Noel Johnson. The chief vocal honours were gained by Mr. Edwin Wareham, who gave with admirable effect Chaminade's "Viatique" and Oscar Meyer's "Du bist wie eine Blume" and "To the woods."

MADAME HELENE GRANDEDIERE, who was introduced to a London audience, on the 13th ult., at a Concert given at the Queen's (Small) Hall by her teacher, Madame Harrie Middleton, possesses a light soprano voice of pleasing quality, which, judging by her singing on this occasion of Mendelssohn's scena "Infelice" and "Io son Titania," has been excellently trained. Songs from Miss Adah Sivad, Miss Neil Fraser, and Mr. George Erskine, and pianoforte and violoncello pieces, respectively played by Mr. Algernon Ashton and Herr Gallrein, made up an agreeable evening.

THE Strolling Players' Amateur Orchestral Society concluded its season with what must be regarded as a successful performance, at Queen's Hall, on the 7th ult., when the scheme, admirably conducted by Mr. Norfolk Megone, included Beethoven's Symphony in B flat (No. 4), which was rendered with all the brightness which this cheerful work demands; Smetana's Overture to his picturesque opera "Die Verkaufte Braute," and a Suite by Mr. E. Matt, a member of the orchestra. Miss Marie Titiens, Mr. Novara, and Mr. Marini gave vocal selections.

THE annual Meeting of the Tonic Sol-fa College was held, on the 18th ult., at the Queen's Hall, Archdeacon Sinclair presiding. Mr. Robert Griffiths, the secretary, said the annual returns of the English and Scotch Education Departments showed an increase of Tonic Sol-fa children in the elementary schools of the three kingdoms of 222,344 for the year ending September, 1895. During the evening choruses and part-songs were rendered by two adult and one children's choirs, the latter singing at sight an anthem composed for the occasion by Mr. Proudman.

MISS LUCIE HILLIER and Miss Helen Buckley, assisted by M. Emile Sauret, gave an excellent Concert, on the 11th ult., at Steinway Hall. Miss Hillier and M. Sauret's renderings of Emile Bernard's Suite for pianoforte and violin (Op. 34) and Emil Sjögren's second Sonata in E minor (Op. 24) for the same instruments were fully appreciated by a numerous audience, and Miss Buckley's tasteful and finished singing of an attractive selection of songs was a feature of the evening.

THE Kyrle Choir, under the direction of Mr. F. A. W. Docker, gave a performance of "The Messiah," on the 5th ult., in Christ Church, Watney Street, St. George's-in-the-East. The soloists were Miss A. Wilmot-Briggs, Miss Erminie Tatham, Mr. Wilfrid Pepper, and Mr. Edgar Archer; and, on the 13th ult., the Choir gave a performance of "St. Paul" in All Hallows, Bromley-by-Bow. The solo parts were sung by Miss Cecilia Gray, Madame Lily Howard, Mr. Ager Grover, and Mr. William Irvine. Dr. E. H. Turpin accompanied on the organ.

THE programme of the Royal Amateur Orchestral Society, on the 13th ult., contained three interesting new movements by Dr. Creser, respectively entitled "The Greeting," "Conviviality," and "Merry Drollery," the themes of which are based upon folk-tunes. Other notable performances were those of Beethoven's "Pastoral" Symphony and Massenet's "Phèdre" Overture. Mrs. Katharine Fisk and Mr. J. A. Bovett were the vocalists, and Mr. Isidor Cohn played Weber's "Concertstück." Mr. George Mount conducted.

SIGNOR SIMONETTI gave an Orchestral Concert at St. James's Hall on the 12th ult., when this refined and artistic violinist was heard in Brahms's Concerto in D (Op. 77) and Mendelssohn's work of like form. Some violin solos by Tschaïkowsky and Wieniawski were also played with facility and appropriate expression. The orchestra, conducted by Mr. F. H. Cowen, gave effective renderings of Wagner's "Siegfried Idyll," Méhul's Overture to "Le Jeune Henri," and Beethoven's "Prometheus" Overture.

MISS ALLITSEN'S Concert, which chiefly consisted of her vocal compositions, attracted a large audience to St. James's Hall on the 4th ult. An excellent selection of this clever lady's lyrics was effectively sung, the artists engaged being Miss Macintyre, Miss Palliser, Miss Ada Crossley, and Messrs. Hirwen Jones, Edwin Wareham, Hayden Coffin, and Thorndike. Pianoforte and violin solos were respectively contributed by Miss Fanny Davies and M. Nachèz, and Mr. F. Upton recited.

A MEMORIAL tablet of beautiful design and workmanship, in memory of the late Mr. C. W. Lavington, late organist of Wells Cathedral, has been placed on the West wall of the South transept. The tablet bears the following inscription, surmounted by a St. Andrew's cross in gold: "Placed by the Dean and Chapter to the memory of Charles Williams Lavington, for fifty-three years Organist of this Cathedral, in life and office serving to the glory of God. Born, Feb. 20, 1819; died, Oct. 27, 1895."

THE seventieth birthday of Herr Carl Bechstein, the head and founder of the famous pianoforte manufactory, is to be specially celebrated to-day at Berlin. Herr Bechstein, who gained his practical experience at different factories in Berlin, Paris, and London, established the business in 1856, his instruments soon obtaining a world-wide reputation. Three of his sons are assisting in the management of the firm, which now turns out some 3,500 instruments annually.

THE first of three Vocal Recitals was given at Steinway Hall on the 21st ult., by Mr. Forrest Scott, a promising young baritone, who has studied with Signor Manuel Garcia. He was assisted in the performance of an artistically selected programme by Miss Appleby, Mr. Julian Pascal, and Mr. Charles Fry, who recited with excellent effect "The Raven," to the accompaniment of Mr. Stanley Hawley's music, played by the composer, who also officiated as accompanist to the songs.

MISS FLORENCE SHEE gave her annual Concert at the Queen's (Small) Hall on the 4th ult., when her expressive singing of songs by Somervell, Goring Thomas, Bizet, and Pergolesi testified to her artistic abilities. Other vocalists, whose efforts were equally appreciated by a numerous audience, were Miss Florence Oliver and Mr. Bispham. The programme also contained some pianoforte and violoncello solos, which were effectively rendered by Mr. Carl Weber and M. Hollman.

MISS HOLLAND'S estimable choir fully sustained its reputation on the 14th ult., at the St. Martin's Town Hall, when performances were given of Mr. Arthur Somervell's "Power of Sound," a setting by Miss Holland of some lines by Sir Alfred C. Lyall, entitled "After the Skirmish," and Mr. A. M. Goodhart's choral ballad "Sir Andrew Barton." The solos in Mr. Somervell's work were admirably sung by Mrs. Rice Holmes and Mr. Lynam Knight.

ON the 7th ult. Mendelssohn's "St. Paul" was given at St. Mary's, Newington, under the direction of Dr. Jacob Bradford, Mr. W. Rayment Kirby presiding at the organ and Mr. Percy J. Bradford at the pianoforte. The solos were entrusted to Master Frederick Beament, Messrs. P. J. Bradford, Sadleur Brown, and A. G. Cunningham. The chorus numbered one hundred and consisted of members of the Newington Choral Society and of St. Mary's choir.

THE Psalmody Class of Union Chapel, Islington, brought its season to a close on April 29, by giving an excellent performance of "Rebekah," by the late Sir Joseph Barnby, and the "Good Shepherd," by Mr. J. F. Barnett. The soloists were Miss Florence Monk, Miss Rose Dafforne, Mr. Iver McKay, and Mr. J. A. Macfarlane. Mr. R. Williamson conducted, and Mr. Fountain Meen accompanied both works upon the organ.

THE programme of Miss Louise Nanney and Mr. Arthur Barlow's Concert, which took place on the 11th ult., at Steinway Hall, acquired distinction by the inclusion of Schütt's brilliant Suite (Op. 46) for violin and pianoforte, which was admirably played by Miss Nanney and Mr. Stanley Hawley. The singing of Madame Clara Samuell and Mr. Barlow went to make up an enjoyable afternoon.

MR. BRUCE STEANE'S sacred cantata "The Ascension" was performed at St. Philip's Church, Battersea, on Ascension Day, and repeated the following Sunday, under the conductorship of the composer. Mr. Sidney Preston ably presided at the organ, and the solos were well rendered by Messrs. Ward, Haldane, and Squires, and Masters Williams and Winterflood.

MISS ALICE ROSELLI gave her annual Concert at Chelsea Town Hall, on the 6th ult., when she was assisted by Madame Agnes Larkcom, Madame Lena Law, Madame Enriquez, Mr. Henry Beaumont, Mr. J. A. Bovett, and Mr. Santley; also Miss Cecile Elieson (violin) and Mr. Julian Pascal (pianoforte). Miss Bessie Waugh was the accompanist.

THE annual Concert given by the Choir of the Chapel Royal took place at Bridgewater House on the 21st ult. A number of old English glees and madrigals were performed, and the programme included a song entitled "The Mother's vision" and an "Old English Suite," both by Dr. Creser, the organist and composer of the Chapels Royal.

MISS HARDING gave an attractive miscellaneous Concert, on the 13th ult., at the Steinway Hall. The Concert-giver sang an excellent selection of songs in a refined and sympathetic manner, and received admirable assistance from Mrs. Emslie-Cran, Mr. Theodore Byard, Mr. J. Robertson, and M. Nachèz.

THE Merchant Taylors' School Choral Society gave its twenty-first annual Concert in the large hall of the school, Charterhouse Square, on the 5th ult. The programme included Anderton's "The Norman Baron" and Fox's "Jackdaw of Rheims." Mr. Edmund Rogers conducted.

THE twenty-eighth of the monthly series of free Organ Recitals at the Dutch Church, Austin Friars, was given, on the 21st ult., by Mr. Rudolph Loman. The programme included pieces by Handel, Mozart, Bach, Guilmant, and Mendelssohn.

DR. LEMARE was presented, on the 15th ult., with a purse of gold, subscribed by members of the choir and orchestra of the Bournemouth Festival, in appreciation of his services in connection with that occasion.

AN interesting Lecture, entitled "Music and Mind," was delivered before the members and friends of the Guild of Church Musicians, on the 7th ult., by Mr. George A. Stanton.

OBITUARY.

IN WILLEM FREDERIC GERARD NICOLAÏ, the director of the Royal Conservatorium at The Hague, whose death occurred on April 25, Holland has lost one of her foremost and most widely-known musicians and highly meritorious teachers. He was born November 20, 1829, at Leyden, and studied at the music school of his native town and afterwards at the Leipzig Conservatorium, where he was a pupil of David and Moscheles. Returning to Holland in 1853, he became organist of the French Protestant Church in The Hague, and was appointed to a professorship at the Royal Conservatorium, and, on the death of Lubeck, in 1865, succeeded to the directorship of that State-subventioned institution, a position which he occupied until his death. He was also one of the founders and president of the "Nederlandsche Toonkunstenaars Vereeniging" and director of the "Toekomst," a society providing pensions for aged musicians, founded and endowed by Jenny Lind. The periodical Concerts in connection with the latter, conducted by Nicolaï, were amongst the first to introduce the works of Wagner and Berlioz in Holland. As a composer of Lieder the deceased takes high rank, many of them having achieved great popularity throughout the Netherlands, Germany, and elsewhere. His oratorio "Bonifacius" was repeatedly performed in Belgium and Germany; he was also the composer of a setting of Schiller's "Lay of the Bell"; of a cantata, "The Swedish Nightingale," dedicated to the memory of Jenny Lind; of a Symphony, and other orchestral works. For the last twenty-five years he had been the editor of the excellent musical periodical Cecilia.

The tenor VILLARET, for twenty years one of the most brilliant and popular singers at the Paris Opéra, died on April 27, at Suresnes, having all but completed his sixty-sixth year. He was originally employed as a workman at a brewery in Avignon, when his fine voice attracted the attention of Royer, then director of the opera, who forthwith engaged him at a commencing salary of 5,000 francs.

After only a few months' study under Delsarte, the former ouvrier was able to make his début in March, 1863, as Guillaume Tell in Rossini's opera, with enormous success, due not to the charm of his voice alone, but also to his intelligent appreciation of the part. From that time onward he became an established favourite at the Opera, successfully assuming one leading part after another, his acting improving with his singing—but, curiously enough, he never "created" a rôle. After twenty years' loyal service to the Institution which had raised him to the prominent and remunerative position he occupied, he retired in October, 1882, while yet in the zenith of his popularity and powers, and has since lived quietly at Suresnes.

Another once highly popular French operatic singer, who also appeared on several occasions in London, the tenor MICHOT, died on April 23, at Paris, at the age of sixty-six. A native of Lyons, he commenced his career by singing at second-rate theatres in the provinces, and eventually coming to the capital was obliged to accept employment at a café concert, where he was "discovered" by Adolphe Adam, who took him in hand. He was engaged at the Théâtre Lyrique, where he made his début in 1856 with great success in Gretry's "Richard Cœur de Lion," subsequently assuming many other parts, his splendid and sympathetic voice chiefly arousing the enthusiasm of his audience, while he had but little training and an unimposing stage presence. It was on the latter account that Gounod hesitated before entrusting him with the part of Roméo in the original performance of "Roméo et Juliette" in 1867, at the Théâtre Lyrique, when, however, he fully justified the composer's choice. Michot, who was also for some years engaged at the Grand Opéra, sided with the Commune in 1871, suffered imprisonment for a time, and his appearance subsequently at the Opera of his native Lyons being made the occasion of noisy political demonstrations, he retired from the lyrical stage, and for some years past resided at Chatou, having become totally blind.

The death is announced, on April 30, at Bergamo, of the distinguished Italian composer, ANTONIO CAGNONI. He was born at Godiasco in 1828, and studied at the Milan Conservatorio. At the age of nineteen he wrote the opera buffa in two acts, "Don Bucefalo," which became enormously popular and maintained itself in the repertory of Italian theatres for over twenty-five years. It remained his principal success, though followed by a large number of other works of a similar order, including "Michele Perrin," "Cappricio di donna," and "Papá Martin." The last-named was successfully produced in an English adaptation, by the late Carl Rosa, at the Lyceum, in 1875, with Madame Rose Hersee and Mr. Santley in the principal parts. An opera seria, "Ré Lear," written by the deceased, was never brought out. Some eighteen years since, Cagnoni accepted the musical conductorship of the Cathedral in Novara, and devoted himself exclusively to the composition of sacred music.

Dr. FRANZ GRANDAUR, who recently died at Munich, at the age of seventy-four, had been long associated, in a literary and artistic capacity, with the Royal Theatre of the Bavarian capital. He was stage manager for eighteen years, from 1869, and the able author of a German version of the librettos of Isouard's, Gounod's, and other French composers' operas, and of the revised German version of Mozart's "Don Giovanni," in use at the Munich Opera. He was also the author of the highly interesting and exhaustive work, "Chronik des Münchener Hoftheaters."

FRANZ GASSI, formerly the principal tenor at the Royal Opera, Budapesth, died on April 23, at the age of forty-five. He belonged to a wealthy Hungarian family, but had conceived a passion for the operatic stage, and, gifted with a very fine voice and splendid physique, he attracted the attention of Hans Richter, who, in 1875, introduced him to Wagner, at Bayreuth. The latter, designing him for the part of Siegfried at the impending Festspiele, personally superintended his studies for a time, but eventually changed his mind. Gassi thereupon accepted an engagement at the Budapesth Opera, where his career was highly successful until failing health compelled him to abandon it.

PAOLO ROTONDO, a distinguished musical amateur, highly esteemed in musical circles of Naples, died in that town last month, aged sixty-eight. He was an able violinist, and his quartet parties constituted a brilliant feature in Neapolitan society for the last forty years, being frequented by eminent musicians of the day, who frequently took part in the performances. He was a personal friend of Mercadante, Bottesini, and other celebrities, and a liberal patron of struggling talent. He leaves a most valuable musical library and one of the richest private collections of musical instruments and works of art. The funeral of the deceased was attended by all the most noted artists—musicians, painters, and sculptors—in the town.

A promising young musician, ERNESTO MAIANI, died at Bologna on the 7th ult. A pupil of the Liceo Musicale of Bologna, he gained a prize in one of the competitions opened by Signor Sonzogno, with a one-act opera, "Cavaliero d'amore," produced some three years ago at Milan with some success. He was also the composer of some pianoforte pieces and had but recently completed a new operatic work, entitled "La Peri," with a libretto by Professor Albini. The deceased was an ardent follower of Wagnerian doctrines.

We have to record the death, on April 26, after a three days' illness, of ANATOLKA VON HILLER, the widow of Ferdinand von Hiller, the eminent composer, held in such great personal esteem in England during his lifetime. Frau von Hiller was, in her earlier days, as Mdlle. Hogé, a much admired vocalist, and it was for her that Hiller wrote the well-known pieces for soprano and male quartet. She was married to the composer in 1841, in Italy, and on the death of her husband, in 1885, was granted a pension of three thousand marks a year by the municipality of Cologne. She was in her seventy-seventh year. Her daughter is the wife of the esteemed pianist, Professor Kwast, of Frankfort-on-Main.

On the 21st ult., HENRY HERSEE, aged seventy-seven, musical and dramatic critic on several papers and author of the English librettos of many operas, including "Carmen," "Aïda," "Merry Wives of Windsor," &c. He also wrote an original libretto for Mr. Cowen's first opera, "Pauline," founded on the "Lady of Lyons."

We have also to record the following deaths :—

On April 11, at Milan, STEFANO INTERDONATO, advocate, author of a number of operatic librettos, aged fifty-two.

On April 12, at Zurich, ARNOLD LANG, editor of the Schweizer Sängerzeitung, zealous promoter of singing in elementary schools, composer of popular "Singspiele," aged fifty-eight.

On April 15, at Utrecht, A. W. P. HANAU, for many years choral director, conductor of the choir of the Church of Saint Dominique, aged sixty-three.

Recently, at Zara (Dalmatia), Count NICOLO DE STERMICH DE VALCROCIATA, distinguished amateur, composer of the operas "Desiderio" and "La madre slava," the latter produced at Trieste in 1865.

Recently, at Brussels, AUGUSTE CHARLES, excellent flautist, professor at the Conservatoire, aged sixty-three.

On April 19, at St. Gall, EDUARD STEHLE, organist, professor at the Musical Academy, Winterthur, son of Cathedral Capellmeister E. F. Stehle, aged twenty-seven.

On April 20, at Naples, LUIGI GAVAUDAN, pianoforte teacher, composer of a Symphony, his only work, aged seventy-three.

On April 21, at Naples, MICHELE PELUSO, for many years first flautist at the Teatro Bellini, professor at the Conservatorio, aged eighty.

On April 21, at Vienna, EDUARD PREUSS, professor of music, aged fifty-four.

Recently, at Antwerp, PIET HOUBEN, violinist, professor at the Musical Academy.

On the 2nd ult., at Leipzig, JULIUS STURM, the well-known German poet, whose lyrics have met with innumerable musical settings, aged eighty.

On the 7th ult., at Posen, JULIUS TAUWITZ, director of music, able composer, aged seventy.

On the 8th ult., at Markneukirchen, ANTON GÜTTER, violin maker, aged forty.

Recently, at New York, GIOVANNI AMBROGIO, the ballet-master of the Frankfort Stadt-Theater, and afterwards of the Metropolitan Opera House, New York.

On May 10, at Giessen, GUSTAV ADOLPH FELCHNER, Musical Director of the University, aged sixty-four.

CORRESPONDENCE.

"SOME NEW CHROMATIC HARMONIES."

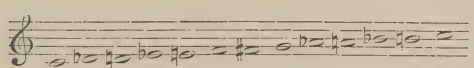
TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—The man who is able to make an addition "to the present resources of the composer" may well claim a niche in the temple of fame; but I fear Mr. Dunton's letter does not prove him to be such. The mediant triad major is nearly as old as the hills, and the mediant seventh is to be found in Wagner. The chromatic seventh on the super-dominant is employed by Mozart, and is at least as old as Purcell. The major triad on the leading note is by no means "at present unrecognised"; at all events, it was recognised by Schubert. The notation of these chords is a matter of dispute; but of their more or less frequent employment there can be no question.

I do not think Mr. Dunton will succeed in persuading musicians to abandon the notation of the two augmented sixths, seeing that these do not in the least sound like minor sevenths. But if he wishes for examples of the minor seventh on the subdominant and the minor subtonic ("minor third" in the last paragraph of his letter must be a misprint for the latter) he may find both in Grieg. The seventh on the minor subtonic also occurs in the first recitative of Beethoven's "Mount of Olives."—Your faithful Servant,

ARTHUR T. FROGGATT.

Grosvenor House, Dudley,
May 8, 1896.



TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—Nowadays an, unfortunately, increasing number of people seem to be under the impression that Handel did not know how to write, so it is perhaps not to be wondered at if one hears that the late Sir George Macfarren's writings on harmony are "old-fashioned," "out of date," &c.

In your May issue Mr. W. F. Dunton gives examples of "Some New Chromatic Harmonies," which he says cannot be accounted for by Macfarren. From this remark, however, I beg to differ.

Mr. Dunton bases his remarks on the supposition that his examples are each in one key only, while I contend that each necessitates a modulation, or, rather, transition. Viewed by this light the unaccountable chords become merely dominant sevenths and ninths.

To make my meaning clear, let us look at the chromatic scale of C:

This shows us that G♯ is foreign to the key of C, and therefore Ex. 1 modulates, and so on, with the rest.

I therefore hold that instead of being "new chromatic chords," they are only "old diatonic ones"; Exs. 1, 2, and 6, being in A; 3, in B; 4, in E; and 5, in G.

GERALD W. CRAWFORD.

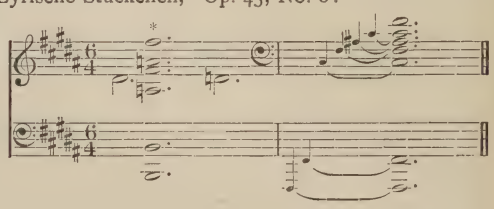
May 11, 1896.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—The "New Chromatic Harmonies" you publish in THE MUSICAL TIMES this month are no doubt interesting to a certain extent, as showing an enterprising spirit in the writer; but that they are all new, or "add to the resources of the composer," is questionable.

The composer, who is "born and not made," does not wait for chords like a bricklayer at a wall waiting for bricks; if a new chord be required he makes it himself on the spot. Such was Wagner, and such have been and are many others whose utterances are not in word only, but in power, and who therefore cannot be disregarded.

As to any particular chords being "unrecognised," this is merely the fault of the system which does not recognise them, for the best system of theory is that which can classify everything, leaving that which is bad to condemn itself.



Some of the harmonies on page 338 seem to suggest another key much too definitely for good chromatic harmony, which is probably the reason that they have not recommended themselves sufficiently to be used before—i.e., those that are new. That in No. 3 I call to mind as occurring in Gounod's "Faust," in the duet towards the close of Act 3:—

where I think it sounds better than with the hidden octaves

Your correspondent implies that he has accounted for chords of the seventh on each degree of the chromatic scale except the fourth and minor third, but makes no mention of one on the minor seventh.

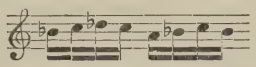
An instance of one on the fourth may be seen in Grieg's "Lyrische Stückchen," Op. 43, No. 6:—

Yours truly,

H. J. WRIGHTSON.

206, Manningham Lane, Bradford,
May 8, 1896.

A LETTER OF BEETHOVEN'S.



THE attention of readers of "A Letter of Beethoven's," which appeared in our last issue, is called to the following corrections overlooked in the revision of the proofs:

69th bar:

the semiquavers are in the second half of the bar:

334th bar:

the seventh semiquaver is C. And in the final quotation, p. 308:

the last group, preceding the trilled note, should be demi-semiquavers.

ORGAN APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. J. W. Jones, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Columba's Church, Nairn.—Mr. James Lyon, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Mark's, Surbiton.—Mr. Frank Dibb, Organist and Choirmaster to Wallasey Parish Church, Cheshire.—Mr. W. D. Pritchard, Organist and Choirmaster to Holy Trinity Church, Esclusham, Wrexham.—Mr. J. Mallitt Jones, Organist and Director of St. Mary's, Mortimer, Berks.

CHOIR APPOINTMENT.—Mr. W. Nash Cook (solo tenor), to St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

* Notices of Concerts, of which programmes must invariably be sent, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted.

Our correspondents will oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music is always kept in stock, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

Ashburne, Derbyshire.—The Orchestral Society gave the second Concert of the season on the 7th ult., when music for the harp with orchestra formed the specialty, and the appearance of Mr. John Thomas drew a large audience. The principal work presented was Nicolai von Wilm's Concertstück for harp, which received an admirable interpretation at the hands of the great harpist. Other works, in which he was associated with the band, were Mendelssohn's Overture to "Athalie," Gounod's "Marche Solennelle," and Suppé's tuneful "Poet and Peasant." The programme also included two movements from Mendelssohn's D minor Pianoforte Concerto, the solo part of which was well played by Miss Mabel Tutt. Mr. John Peck was first violinist and played, with the composer, Mr. John Thomas, a "Romance" and "Rondo piacevole" for violin and harp. Miss H. M. Stevenson was the vocalist. Mr. Tutt conducted.

Berkhamsted. — On April 23 the Church Choral Society gave a performance in the Parish Church of Brahms's "Song of Destiny" and Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise." The solos were sung by Miss Maude Ballard, Miss Riding, and Mr. W. Fell. A small band from London was engaged for the occasion. Mr. London presided at the organ with great ability, and the Rev. C. J. Langley conducted.

Cardiff.—On the 23rd ult. Mr. T. Davies gave a very successful Concert at the Park Hall. Dr. C. Vincent's operetta "Persian Princess," with orchestral accompaniment, was performed, preceded by a miscellaneous part comprising Schumann's Novelletten in F, well played by Miss Jenks; Cowen's "My heart's beloved"; Strelezki's "When twilight"; Duo for violoncello and pianoforte (Goltermann), given by Mr. E. Horne-Popham and Mr. Handley-Davies, the latter gentleman concluding the first part of the programme with an exceptionally fine rendering of Leonard's "Fantasie Militaire" for violin. Miss S. Davies took the title-rôle in the operetta, and sang with taste and expression. Mr. Handley-Davies led the orchestra, and Mr. T. Davies conducted.

Chard.—On the 7th ult. the Harmonic Society gave the concluding Concert of its recent season. The chief works were Stanford's "Revenge" and Mendelssohn's "Hear my Prayer." Miss M. Harris was the soprano soloist, Mr. R. Crawford, principal violin, and Mr. J. Edis Tidman conducted.

Dover.—An effective performance of Cowen's cantata "The Rose Maiden" was given on the 6th ult., by the Choral Union, in the Town Hall. The principal soloists were Miss B. Gough, Miss K. Allen, Miss K. Trueman, and Miss H. Wilson. The second part of the evening included a performance of two movements from a Sonata in D minor for violin, violoncello, and pianoforte, by the able conductor of the Society, Mr. H. J. Taylor, by whom, with the assistance of Mr. E. W. Barclay and Colonel Weckham, the numbers were effectively played.

Dudley.—The second Concert of the Choral Society was given in the Public Hall on April 29, under the conductorship of Dr. Froggatt. The programme included Beethoven's "Mount of Olives," three movements from Schubert's Octet for strings and wind, and Gade's "Spring's Message." The soloists were Miss A. Wathen, Mr. E. Kemp, and Mr. W. H. Smith.

Exeter.—Under the able conductorship of Mr. R. B. Moore, the Orchestral Society, on the 7th ult., gave a successful Concert in the Royal Public Rooms. The programme included Auber's Overture "Cheval de Bronze," Grieg's Concerto in A minor (the pianoforte part of which was played by Dr. Edwards), Beethoven's Second Symphony in D, and the Allegretto from Dvorák's Symphony in G. The vocalist was Miss K. T. Davy, whose singing was greatly appreciated. Mr. C. E. Bell was principal of the orchestra.

Fenny Stratford.—Two performances of Mendelssohn's "St. Paul" were given in the Town Hall, on the 6th and 7th ult., by the Musical Society. The solos were taken by Miss Downs, Mrs. Bailey, Mr. Hamlyn Crimp, and Mr. Sam Heath. Mr. Henley was leader of the band. Captain Levi conducted.

Handsworth.—The last Concert of the second series of the St. James's Choral Society's performances was held in the Public Buildings, Soho Road, on the 5th ult. The first part of the programme consisted of Gade's "Erl-King's Daughter," the solos in which were sung by Miss A. Wathen, Miss Madge Robottom, and Mr. Gervas Cooper. Miss Cleobury ably officiated as accompanist and Mr. Richard Richards conducted. The miscellaneous second part included an effective rendering of Beethoven's "Moonlight" Sonata, by Miss Cleobury, and the part-songs "Moonlight" (Faning) and "The Chough and Crow" (Bishop).

Herne Bay. — A meritorious performance of "The Messiah" was given on the 7th ult., in the Town Hall, by the Musical Society, under the conductorship of Mr. Mobbs. The solo vocalists were Miss H. Newcombe, Madame Wyatt, Mr. Pearson, and Mr. B. Dewhurst. Mr. E. Cocks was the principal of a small orchestra, and Mr. C. Scott presided at the organ.

Hillingdon.—A Concert was given on the 6th ult. by the Choral Society, under the direction of Mr. Louis A. Hamand, when the principal feature of the programme was Romberg's "Lay of the Bell." The soloists were Miss Ethel Hubi-Newcombe, Mrs. W. L. Eves, Mr. W. H. Evans, and Mr. G. A. Monk; Mr. Howard Button was at the pianoforte.

Loughton.—Two very successful performances of the "Sorcerer" (Gilbert and Sullivan), by the Loughton Operatic Society, attracted crowded audiences to the Public Hall on April 29 and 30. The principals were very efficient, and the band of strings and chorus were especially good. Mr. H. Norton (pianoforte) and Mr. Mowbray P. Balme (organ) accompanied. Mr. Ralph Thompson was the stage manager and Mr. Henry Riding conducted.

Newport, Mon.—The Philharmonic Society gave a performance of Sullivan's "Golden Legend" on April 23, in the Tredegar Hall. The soloists were Mr. T. Morgan (in the absence of Mr. Herbert Grover), Mr. David Bispham, Miss Florence Hoskins, Madame Medora Henson, Miss Hingston, and Mr. Hitchcock. —— The Gwent Ladies' Choir, conducted by Mrs. Alfred Morris, gave an excellent Concert, on the 7th ult., at the Town Hall Assembly Room. The part-songs included "God in Nature" (Schubert), "You stole my love" (Macfarren), "O, a joyous life" (Roeckel), and "The Ash Grove," as arranged by Mr. Emlyn Evans. The vocal solos were sung by Miss Day, Miss K. James, Miss N. Richards, Miss L. Tuplin, Miss A. Morday, and Mrs. J. P. Lewis. Miss A. Clayton played the Finale from Bach's "Italian" Concerto and Miss G. Rogers was a sympathetic accompanist.

Oundle.—A very successful Concert was given by the Choral Society on the 15th ult. Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" was given, followed by a miscellaneous programme. Madame Emily Squire and Mr. Braxton Smith were the solo vocalists, and Mr. Clement M. Spurling conducted.

Radstock. — The desire of the residents of North Somerset to have a good choral society would seem to be likely of realisation. On the 4th ult. the new Radstock and District Choral Society, the first rehearsal of which was held on January 8 last, gave its first performance in the Board School, under the conductorship of Mr. H. T. Sims, and, judging by the admirable manner in which the choruses of Sullivan's oratorio "The Prodigal Son" were sung, there is every prospect of this Society doing good work in the cause of a wider appreciation of music in this neighbourhood. The vocal solo parts were sung by Miss C. Spackman, Mrs. Richter, Mr. Wetten, and Mr. C. E. Poole, and the choruses rendered by about eighty vocalists. In the second part of the programme a pianoforte duet was excellently played by Messrs. Sims and Peake, and Mr. J. W. Duys contributed the slow movement from Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto.

Reading.—Sullivan's "Martyr of Antioch" was the chief work in the programme of the Philharmonic Society's Concert, which took place on the 5th ult., at the Town Hall. Miss E. Palliser, Miss C. Curnow, Mr. B. Smith, and Mr. D. Price formed a most capable quartet, and the choruses were excellently sung. The second part of the programme consisted of Harford Lloyd's cantata "Hero and Leander," in which the solos were most effectively sung by Miss Palliser and Mr. Price. Mr. A. F. Rippon headed the orchestra, and Mr. J. C. B. Tirbutt presided with skill at the organ.

Rhyl.—The Orchestral Society, under the able conductorship of Mr. Horace Haselden, gave an excellent Concert on April 27, in the Grand Pavilion. The principal vocalists were Miss J. Jones and Mr. T. A. Jones. The programme consisted of Haydn's Symphony in G, Suppé's Overture "La Pique Dame," Gavotte (Rimmer), and a very pleasing Romance by Mr. Haselden. Miss M. Lloyd-Price was solo violin, and Mr. A. E. Jones presided at the pianoforte.

Ruthin.—The United Choral Society, under the conductorship of Mr. R. Harris Jones, gave a Concert in the Town Hall on the 14th ult. The first part of the programme was miscellaneous and comprised several songs by Mrs. and Miss Cornwallis West, Mr. G. H. Denton, Mr. D. J. Williams, Messrs. T. C. Jones, H. Vaughan Davies, J. Edwards, R. Jones, and part-songs by the choir. The second part consisted of Jenkins's cantata "A Psalm of Life," which was well rendered by the choir of eighty voices. The accompanists were Miss Owen (pianoforte) and Mr. A. E. Jones (harmonium).

St. George's, Shropshire.—The Choral Union gave its Second Concert in the workmen's large dining-room of the Lilleshall Ironworks Company, on the 11th ult., when Sullivan's dramatic cantata "On Shore and Sea" was performed by a chorus and orchestra of 100 executants. The soloists were Miss Honeybone and Mr. Kemp, and the chorus-singing showed marked improvement on previous efforts. In the second part, violin, violoncello, and clarinet pieces were respectively played by Mr. F. Ward, Mr. J. Owen, and Mr. T. E. Pountney. Mr. Smart was the conductor.

Shettleston.—On the 1st ult. a very successful performance of Machardy's operetta "The Fairy Mother" was given by the members of the Shettleston and Tollcross Choral Union, in Hill Street Hall. The composer conducted, and the characters were taken by Miss Howieson, Miss N. G. Wilson, Miss J. Watson, and Miss Goodwin.

West Bromwich.—Three first-class performances of Messrs. Gilbert and Sullivan's comic opera "H.M.S. Pinafore" were given (by permission of Mr. R. D'Oyly Carte) on the 11th, 12th, and 13th ult., by the members of the Amateur Operatic Society. Miss Yeomans as Josephine, Mrs. Reece as Little Buttercup, and Mr. H. Duckworth as Ralph deserve special praise. Messrs. F. W. Stamps and C. Wilkes presided at the organ and pianoforte. Mr. J. Randell Cooke conducted.

Worcester.—Barnett's cantata "The Ancient Mariner" was meritoriously sung by the Musical Society on April 28, under the conductorship of Mr. W. M. Dyson. The soloists were Miss L. Taylor, Mr. J. E. Millward, Mr. J. W. Ineson, and Mr. H. Large.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

DYER, ARTHUR E.—"Saviour of the World" ("Salvator Mundi"). A Sacred Cantata. The words written and arranged from Holy Scripture by Frederick E. Weatherley. 2s. 6d.

GERMAN, EDWARD.—Valse Gracieuse. From the Suite in D minor. String Parts, 4s.; Wind Parts, 10s.

GOUNOD, CHARLES.—"Judex." From "Mors et Vita." A Sacred Trilogy. Arrangement for Orchestra alone. Full Score, 3s. 6d.; String Parts, 1s. 3d.; Wind Parts, 4s. 9d.

HAYNES, BATTISON.—"Westwood" Gavotte. For Full Orchestra. String Parts, 2s.; Wind Parts, 4s. 3d.

LEWIS, J. H.—Elements of Music. Cloth, 2s. 6d.

REYNOLDS, C. T.—"The Childhood of Samuel." A Sacred Cantata. 2s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.

SCHUBERT, FRANZ.—Mass in A flat. In Vocal Score. New Edition, revised in accordance with the decree concerning Church Music drawn up by the Sacred Congregation of Rites, and approved of by His Holiness Pope Leo XIII., on July 7, 1894. Paper cover, 1s.; paper boards, 1s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 2s. 6d.

SOMERVELL, A.—Elegy. Stanzas from a Poem entitled "Elegy on a Lady whom grief for the death of her Betrothed killed," written by Robert Bridges. For Alto Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra. 1s. 6d.

LLYFR ANTHEMAU NOVELLO. Detholdig O weithiau y prif gyfansoddwyr hen a Diweddar wedi en cyfaddasu i Eiriau Cymraeg O dan olygiaeth, John H. Roberts, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Pris Pum Swllt (Price Five Shillings).

—— Sol-Ffa. Pris Dau Swllt a Chwecheiniog (Price Two Shillings and Sixpence).

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW. No. 48. Contains the following Music in both Notations:—"The Rhineraft Song." For S.S.A. By Ciro Pinsuti. "Goosey, Goosey, Gander." Nursery Rhyme, with action. By J. W. Elliott. Two-part Studies. 1½d.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS.—Edited by W. G. McNaught. Published in two forms. A. Voice Parts, in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 8vo size; B. Voice Parts only in Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

	A.	B.
—— Book XXXII. Six Classical Songs. By Various Composers	—	3d.
—— Book XXXIII. Five Sacred Duets. By Various Composers	—	4d.
—— Book XLVI. Six Two-part Songs. By Various Composers	—	4d.

CLARKE, HAMILTON.—"Hornpipe Harry; or, The Squib and The Sunbeam." A Comic Opera, for Boys. In Two Acts. Book of words, 12s. 6d. per 100.

HENSCHEL, G.—"Stabat Mater." For Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. Book of words, 25s. per 100.

SELBY, B. LUARD.—"The Waits of Bremen." A Short Humorous Cantata, for Children. By Shapcott Wensley. Book of words, 10s. 6d. per 100.

ASHTON, A. T. LEE.—Vesper Hymn. On card. (No. 286. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1d.

ATTWOOD, T.—(in C). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 272. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

GOSS, SIR JOHN—(in E major). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 290. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

STURGES, EDWARD J.—Benedicite, omnia Opera Domini, Domino; or, The Song of the Three Children. 1½d.

JONES, J. MALLITT.—"Forward be our watchword" (392, Hymns Ancient and Modern). Processional Hymn. Words by Dean Alford. 3d.

EUAN-SMITH, LADY.—Two Flower Service Hymns. From "Thirty-one Original Tunes to Popular Hymns." (No. 281. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 2d.

ADLAM, F.—"Saviour, Who didst make Thy dwelling." Anthem. For Christmas, Epiphany, or General use. 3d.

BAKER, ALFRED S.—"The Lord send thee help from the Sanctuary." Ordination Anthem. 6d.

BARNBY, JOSEPH.—"Sing to the Lord." Anthem for Harvest-tide. (No. 542. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

—— "O Lamb of God." Anthem. For Solo and Chorus. (No. 543. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

GOSS, JOHN.—"Have mercy upon me, O God." Anthem for Lent. (No. 535. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

—— "These are they which follow the Lamb." (No. 66. Novello's Short Anthems.) 1½d.

GREENISH, FREDERICK R.—"And God shall wipe away." Quartet. From the Cantata "The Church Triumphant." 3d.

LLOYD, C. H.—"Let us come boldly." Short Anthem or Introit. (No. 65. Novello's Short Anthems.) 1½d.

MARTIN, GEORGE C.—"Hail, gladdening Light." An Evensong Anthem (suitable for Choral Festivals). (No. 545. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

STAINER, J.—"Jesus said unto the people." Short Anthem or Introit. (No. 64. Novello's Short Anthems.) 1½d.

POOLE, HENRY JAMES.—The Antiphonal Chant Book. A Collection of Anglican Chants, Single, Double, and Multiple. 2s. 3d.

BARNBY, JOSEPH.—"The Kiss." Part-Song. For Four Voices (A.T.T.B.). Words, circa 1599. (No. 297. The Orpheus.) 3d.

—— "In Laudem Amoris." Part-Song. For Four Voices (A.T.T.B.). Captain Hume's "First Book of Airs, 1605." (No. 298. The Orpheus.) 3d.

RENDALL, EDWARD D.—"The Three Jovial Huntsmen." Part-Song. For Three Male Voices and Three Horns. The words from CALDICOTT'S "Sketch Book." 3d.

—— "The Farmer's Boy." Part-Song. For Four Male Voices. The words from CALDICOTT'S "Sketch Book." 2d.

HAYNES, BATTISON.—"The ould plaid shawl." Song. The words written by FRANCIS H. FAHY. 2s.

WRIGHT, NORAH L. F. D.—"Sleep on, dear soul." Song. For a Medium Voice, with Accompaniment for the Pianoforte and Violin (ad lib.). 2s.

NOVELLO'S ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS for the ORGAN:—

		s.	d.
No. 246.	Postlude in G .. .. CHARLES STEGGALL	1	6

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS in the TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Edited by W. G. MCNAUGHT.

No. 917.	Ah, were I on yonder plain. Chorus. For Male Voices .. .. MENDELSSOHN	2d.
„ 919.	Now all gives way together .. ANTONIN DVOŘÁK	2d.
„ 920.	Rest here in peace .. .. .. J. S. BACH	1½d.
„ 922.	You stole my love .. WALTER MACFARREN	1d.

BEETHOVEN, L. VAN.—"The Mount of Olives." Choruses only. 6d.

MOORE & BURGESS MINSTRELS,
ST. JAMES'S HALL, W.

SPECIAL AMATEUR PRIZE SONG COMPETITION.

MOORE & BURGESS have pleasure in announcing a COMPETITION for the best MINSTREL SONGS (Comic or Sentimental) written and composed by Amateurs.

Prizes of Ten, Five, and Two Guineas will be awarded for the three most successful Songs.

Mr. Ivan Caryll has kindly consented to act as adjudicator.

MSS. (which should contain stamped addressed envelopes for return) to be sent to the General Manager, Mr. Lawrence Brough, at St. James's Hall, on or before Saturday, June 27.

The Prize Songs will be produced in the NEW AUTUMN PROGRAMME, on Monday, August 3 (Bank Holiday), and will become the sole property of Moore & Burgess.

DURHAM CATHEDRAL.

There is a VACANCY in the Choir of Durham Cathedral for an ALTO SINGER. Applications, accompanied by Testimonials and Certificates of Birth, must be sent, on or before June 30, to the Chapter Clerk, The College, Durham, from whom further information may be obtained.

Notice of the Day of Trial will be sent only to selected Candidates, and their travelling expenses, and other necessary expenses, will be paid by the Dean and Chapter.

Preference will be given to Candidates under thirty years of age.

The College, Durham, May 20, 1896.

THE "UBIQUE" CONCERT PARTY (under the direction of Mr. Egbert Roberts, Musical Director, Italian Church, Hatton Garden), Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, and Bass, accept Engagements for all the old and new Oratorios, Masses, and Cantatas; also for Choral Society performances of Operas. In addition to the above Vocalists a Solo Violinist, Solo Pianist, and a refined Humorist are added for a Miscellaneous Concert. For vacant dates, artists' names, and terms, apply to Mr. Egbert Roberts, 45, Pentonville Road, London, N.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Madame Schumann	369
"Elijah," Mr. F. G. Edwards's History of	370
The Baton in England	372
From my Study (with Fac-similes)	375
New Lights upon Old Tunes	378
Occasional Notes	379
Facts, Rumours, and Remarks	381
Royal Opera, Covent Garden	383
Philharmonic Society	383
Richter Concert	384
Mottl Concerts	384
The Bach Choir	384
Queen's Hall Choral Society	385
Bridlington Festival	385
Bristol Royal Orpheus Glee Society	386
Mr. Fritz Masbach's Concert	386
Thursday Subscription Concerts	386
People's Palace	386
Various Recitals	387
Mr. Bispham's Concert	387
Royal Institution	388
Gresham Lectures	388
Musical Association	389
Morecambe Music Competitions	390
Berlin Academy Bi-centenary	390
The Vienna Mozart Monument	390
Reviews	391
Foreign Notes	399
Music in Birmingham	401
„ Bristol	401
„ Dublin	401
„ East Anglia	402
„ Edinburgh	402
„ Glasgow	402
„ Liverpool	403
„ Northumberland and Durham	403
„ Sheffield and District	404
„ Southern Counties	404
„ Paris	404
„ Montreal	405
„ America	405
Full Anthem for Four Voices—"Save me, O God."—C. S. Jekyll	393
Anthem for Harvest-tide—"Sing to the Lord."—Joseph Barnby, and the Portrait of Mendelssohn, from F. G. Edwards's "History of 'Elijah'" (Extra Supplements).
General News (London)	406
Obituary	410
Correspondence	412
Brief Summary of Country News	413
List of Music published during the last Month	414

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in proper position Advertisements should reach the Office

NOT LATER THAN THE TWENTIETH of each Month.

MR. JOS. REED
(Principal Tenor, Trinity College, Cambridge).
"Mr. Reed's voice is one of singular sweetness and purity."
Terms, &c., Garden Walk, Cambridge.

THE TRAINING OF ALTOS.—Lessons in Voice Production and Singing given by MUNRO DAVISON, F.R.C.O., Solo Alto, Temple Church, &c. Many of Mr. Davison's pupils have obtained Professional appointments. 142, Stroud Green Road, N.

ALTO WANTED. St. John Baptist, Kensington. £15. Apply, Miller, 49, Philbeach Gardens, S.W.

TENOR VACANCIES in Choir of St. James's, Paddington, W. One £10 to £12; one £5 per annum. Usual duties. Address, Henry J. B. Dart, 14, Kilburn Priory, N.W.

ST. GEORGE-THE-MARTYR, Southwark.—ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER REQUIRED. Salary, £40. For particulars, apply to the Rector. Applications to be sent in not later than June 12.

LADY ORGANIST, A.R.C.O., wishes to undertake Organ during August, in exchange for rooms in bracing Seaside place. A. B., Dye Works, 282, Belgrave Gate, Leicester.

ORGANIST, Parish Church, Elgin, N.B., wishes to EXCHANGE House and Duties for July. WILLIS Organ. Charming neighbourhood. Good centre (England or Continent preferred).

TUNER WANTED. Must have first-class references and well up in Tuning. Married preferred. Good berth in Midlands. Reply, and say experience, age, salary, to M. N. W., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER (Blind) seeks SITUATION in Warehouse or Music Saloon. Good Pianist and Organist. Wages commence 25s. Apply, Secretary, School for Indigent Blind, Southwark.

GOOD TUNER requires SITUATION. Well up in repairs. Understands American Organs and Harmoniums. A. W., 5, Trinity Street, Hastings.

JUNIOR TUNER and REPAIRER, aged 20, seeks EMPLOYMENT. Five years' experience. Well up in American Organs, Harmoniums, and small goods. Late Organist. S Pidgen, Stantonbury, Bucks.

IMPROVER (Tuning and Repairing) requires SITUATION. Aged 22. Abstainer. Would not object to Africa. Tuner, 12, Victoria Street, Bristol.

ORGAN (fine-toned modern Two-Manual). Containing 970 speaking pipes, full couplers and composition pedals. All stops complete. Price £300. Warranted for seven years. Fincham's Organ Factory, 150, Euston Road, London.

PIANOFORTE and MUSIC PUBLISHING BUSINESS (Monopoly) for SALE (inclusive Standard Copyrights) in London. West Central position. Open to Partnership or Company. F. C., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

AN Old-established PIANOFORTE and MUSIC BUSINESS for DISPOSAL. Good hiring and tuning connection, situated in North-West London. Price £700. Further particulars, D. H., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

A SPECIALTY for CONCERTS.—SOLOS on a PEAL of SILVER BELLS, with Pianoforte or Orchestral Accompaniment. Bell effects in works undertaken. R. B. Hopkins, Royal Campanologist, 17, Kellett Road, Brixton, S.W.

"FORWARD BE OUR WATCHWORD"

(392 H. A. & M.)

Processional Hymn by Dean Alford

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

J. MALLITT JONES,

Organist and Director of the Choir, St. Matthias, Earl's Court, 1869-1888.

Price Threepence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

VOXOMETRIC REVELATION.

THE DISCOVERY OF THE HUMAN VOICE—AT LAST!!!

BY

ALFRED AUGUSTUS NORTH.

This work thoroughly explains everything hitherto a matter of doubt concerning the voice.

The first work ever published which supplies a complete and comprehendable system for the thorough training of every character of voice.

No one who takes any interest in vocal matters can afford to be without this volume. It reveals some astounding facts, and, briefly, is altogether the most wonderful work of the kind ever put before the public.

The price is One Guinea, but the value is priceless, as it will save everyone who studies it from simply wasting their money and time. It proves all other ideas of voice production utterly wrong.

Send for prospectus (Post-free) to the Publishers,

AUTHORS' AND PRINTERS' JOINT INTEREST PUBLISHING COMPANY,

3, Arundel Street, Strand, London, W.C.

PRICE, COMPLETE, 3s. 6d.

GIPSY SUITE

FOUR

Characteristic Dances

		s.	d.
1.	Valse Melancolique ("Lonely Life") ..	1	6
2.	Allegro di Bravura ("The Dance") ..	1	6
3.	Menuetto ("Love Duet")	1	6
4.	Tarantella ("The Revel")	2	0

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

ARRANGED FOR THE PIANOFORTE BY THE COMPOSER.

Full Score, MS.

String Parts, 7s.; Wind Parts, 14s.

Pianoforte Duet Arrangement, price 4s. 6d.

Violin and Pianoforte Arrangement, price 4s.

Military Band Arrangement, by DAN GODFREY, Jun., price 15s.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

PUBLISHED ON THE 1ST OF EVERY MONTH. Price 1½d. ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION, INCLUDING POSTAGE, 2s.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW FOR JUNE CONTAINS:—

GENERAL NOTES.
BEFORE AND AFTER MENDELSSOHN.
FELIX MENDELSSOHN AS A BOY. By F. G. EDWARDS.
THE CERTIFICATE EXAMINATION, 1896.—HELPS TO STUDENTS OF MUSICAL THEORY.
THE TONIC SOL-FA COLLEGE.
MORECAMBE MUSIC COMPETITION.
THE SALTAIRE CHOIR AT THE MORECAMBE CHORAL COMPETITION, APRIL 25.
GRADUATED EXERCISES FOR SCHOOL CLASSES.—STAFF NOTATION AND TONIC SOL-FA.
COMPETITION ITEMS.
LONDON GIRLS' CLUBS' COMPETITION.
REVIEWS.
MISCELLANEOUS.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

FOR JUNE

CONTAINS THE FOLLOWING MUSIC IN BOTH NOTATIONS:—

"O FOR THE WINGS OF A DOVE." Unison Song. From the Hymn (abbreviated) "Hear my prayer, O God." By F. MENDELSSOHN-BARTHOLDY.

"CRADLE SONG." Two-part Song. By J. BARNBY.

TWO-PART STUDIES IN BOTH NOTATIONS.

WITH OUR PRESENT ISSUE WE GIVE SEPARATELY, ON SPECIALLY PREPARED PAPER, A PORTRAIT OF MENDELSSOHN, TAKEN BY PERMISSION FROM "THE HISTORY OF MENDELSSOHN'S 'ELIJAH,'" BY F. G. EDWARDS (NOVELLO AND CO.).

The Music and Exercises can always be obtained separately. Price 1½d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Office: 1, Berners Street, W.

ARGRAFFIAD NEWYDD.

LLYFR

ANTHEMAU NOVELLO

DETHOLEDIG

O WEITHIAU Y PRIF GYFANSODDWYR

HEN A DIWEDDAR

WEDI EU CYFADDASU I

EIRIAU CYMRAEG

O DAN OLYGIAETH

JOHN H. ROBERTS

Mus. Bac., Cantab.

HEN NODIANT { PRIS PUM SWLLT. (Price Five Shillings.)

SOL-FFA { PRIS DAU SWLLT A CHWECHEINIOG. (Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.)

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Twenty-fourth Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION

OF

527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c.

EDITED BY

B. ST. J. B. JOULE.

Reduced price, 4s. 6d., paper cover; 6s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.
Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Score, 1s. 6d.

The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

THE

Psalter, Proper Psalms, Hymns, and Canticles

POINTED FOR CHANTING

BY

B. ST. J. B. JOULE.

Large type, price 2s. 6d.

Tenth Edition.

JOULE'S

DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM

18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S

DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM

4to, in cloth, elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

THE

Order for the Holy Communion

HARMONISED ON A MONOTONE IN A VERY SIMPLE MANNER FOR PAROCHIAL USE

BY

B. ST. J. B. JOULE.

Price Threepence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

POSTHUMOUS WORKS

OF

JOSEPH BARNBY.

SING TO THE LORD

ANTHEM FOR HARVEST-TIDE

Price Fourpence.
Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.

O LAMB OF GOD

ANTHEM FOR BASS SOLO AND CHORUS

Price Threepence.
Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THE KISS

PART-SONG FOR FOUR VOICES (A.T.T.B.)

Words, circa 1599.
Price Threepence.

IN LAUDEM AMORIS

("O love! they wrong thee much")

PART-SONG FOR FOUR VOICES (A.T.T.B.)

The words from Captain Hume's "First Book of Airs, 1605."
Price Threepence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Eleventh Edition.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY

DAILY SERVICE AND LITANY

TOGETHER WITH THE

VERSICLES FOR CERTAIN SPECIAL OCCASIONS

COLLATED FROM ANCIENT USAGES

BY

THE REV. S. FLOOD JONES, M.A.,

PRECENTOR

AND

J. FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus. Doc., Oxon.,

ORGANIST AND MASTER OF THE CHORISTERS.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

(Novello's Parish Choir Book, No. 281.)

TWO FLOWER SERVICE HYMNS

1. "HE DWELLS AMONG THE LILIES."
2. "FOR THE FRESHNESS OF THE MORNING."

BY THE

REV. W. ST. HILL BOURNE

FROM

THIRTY-ONE ORIGINAL TUNES TO POPULAR HYMNS

COMPOSED BY

LADY EUAN-SMITH.

Price Twopence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR HOSPITAL SUNDAY.

"Let not Thine Hand be Stretched out to Receive, and Shut when Thou should'st Repay."

THE WORDS SELECTED AND THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

JOHN STAINER.

CHORAL RECIT. (S.A.T.B.)—"Let not thine hand be stretched out to receive, and shut when thou should'st repay."
"Give unto the Most High according as He hath enriched thee."
"Reject not the supplication of the afflicted, neither turn thy face from a poor man."
"Be not slow to visit the sick, for that shall make thee to be beloved."

SOLO (Soprano or Tenor) AND CHORUS.

"Lord, shower upon us from above
The sacred gifts of mutual love;
Each other's wants may we supply,
And reign together in the sky."

SOLO (Bass).—"When thou hast enough, remember the time of hunger; and when thou art rich, think upon poverty and need."

Price 3d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.; Words only, 3s. per 100.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

WORKS
FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES AND CHOIRS.

	s.	d.
THE SILVER STAR. Cantata. Ladies' voices	1	6
THE LORD IS MY SHEPHERD. 8vo	0	8
BY THE WATERS OF BABYLON. 8vo	1	0
Both for Chorus, without Soloists.
EVENTIDE. Part-Song. 8vo	0	2

BY

N. KILBURN, Mus. B., Cantab.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ANTHEMS FOR TRINITYTIDE.

Almighty and everlasting God .. Gibbons	1½d.
Ascribe unto the Lord .. S. S. Wesley	8d.
Beloved, if God so loved us .. J. Barnby	1½d.
Beloved, let us love one another.. Gerard F. Cobb	1½d.
*Blessed is the man .. John Goss	4d.
Blessing and glory .. Boyce	1½d.
Blessing, glory .. Bach	6d.
*God came from Teman .. C. Steggall	4d.
*God so loved the world .. Matthew Kingston	1½d.
Grant, O Lord .. Mozart	1½d.
*Holy, holy, holy .. Crotch	3d.
How goodly are Thy tents .. F. Ouseley	1½d.
How lovely are Thy dwellings .. Spohr	1½d.
*I am Alpha and Omega .. J. Stainer	1½d.
I am Alpha and Omega .. J. Varley Roberts	3d.
I beheld, and lo! .. Blow	6d.
I know that the Lord is great .. F. Ouseley	1½d.
*In humble faith .. G. Garrett	1½d.
*In Jewry is God known .. J. Clarke-Whitfeld	1½d.
In sweet consent .. E. H. Thorne	3d.
In the fear of the Lord .. J. V. Roberts	3d.
I saw the Lord .. J. Stainer	6d.
I will magnify .. J. Shaw	3d.
*I will sing of Thy power .. Greene	4d.
I will sing of Thy power .. A. Sullivan	1½d.
I will sing unto the Lord .. H. Wareing	3d.
Let the peace of God .. J. Stainer	4d.
*Lord, we pray Thee .. J. V. Roberts	1½d.
O Father blest .. J. Barnby	3d.
O Lord, my trust .. King Hall	1½d.
*O taste and see .. J. Goss	3d.
*O taste and see .. A. Sullivan	1½d.
O taste and see .. A. H. Mann	3d.
O where shall wisdom be found? .. Boyce	6d.
Ponder my words, O Lord.. Arnold D. Culley	1½d.
*Praise His awful Name .. Spohr	2d.
Rejoice in the Lord .. G. C. Martin	6d.
*See what love hath the Father .. Mendelssohn	1d.
Sing to the Lord .. Mendelssohn	8d.
*Stand up and bless .. J. Goss	4d.
Teach me Thy way .. W. H. Gladstone	1½d.
*The Lord hath been mindful .. S. S. Wesley	3d.
*The Lord is my Shepherd .. G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
The Lord is my Shepherd .. J. Shaw	3d.
The Lord will comfort Zion .. H. Hiles	6d.
Thou shalt shew me the path of life .. Alan Gray	1½d.
Whatsoever is born of God .. H. Oakeley	3d.
Who can comprehend Thee .. Mozart	3d.

* Anthems marked thus (*) may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 2d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

HINTS ON CHOIR TRAINING FOR COMPETITIONS

BY

W. G. McNAUGHT.

REPRINTED, WITH ADDITIONS, FROM

"THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW."

"No choir-trainer need be ashamed to learn from that experienced musician, Mr. W. G. McNaught, whose 'Hints on Choir Training for Competitions' have just been issued as a little pamphlet, price 2d., by Messrs. Novello. Mr. McNaught's remarks are addressed more especially to conductors and choirs who are about to take part in the competitions at Kendal, Carlisle, and Morecambe this month, but they will be found equally serviceable by others; and it is astonishing to note how Mr. McNaught has succeeded in compressing into so small a space hints on almost every point of importance to choral conductors. The clear arrangement of paragraphs under the various headings, 'Tone—blend—attack—intonation—rhythm—pace—phrasing,' &c., adds to the value of the book."—Musical News.

Price Twopence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PRACTICAL HINTS ON BOY CHOIR TRAINING

By G. EDWARD STUBBS, M.A.,

Organist & Choirmaster of St. Agnes' Chapel, Trinity Parish, New York.

A treatise on the vocal training of Chorister Boys, embodying the views of standard writers on the voice.

Strictly scientific, the book deals with the subject in a plain and practical way, and will be found of great value to all intrusted with the training of boys' voices. Endorsed by the leading Choirmasters of England and America. Price 3s. 6d. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MUSIC

SUITABLE FOR USE AT THE

SERVICE OF HOLY MATRIMONY.

ANTHEMS AND HYMNS.	s.	d.
Blessed are all they that fear the Lord .. E. G. Monk	1	6
Vocal parts	1	0
Blessed are all they that fear the Lord .. Sidney Naylor	0	9
Except the Lord build the house .. F. A. G. Ouseley	0	6
Vocal parts	0	6
Father of Life. Hymn	0	3
Father of life .. W. Creser	1	6
God, be merciful unto us .. S. S. Wesley
Octavo	0	3
Vocal parts	1	0
Folio	1	6
O God, Thou art worthy .. Arthur Sullivan
Vocal parts	1	0
Octavo	0	4
Tonic Sol-fa	0	1½
Folio	1	6
O Perfect Love (Anthem) .. J. Barnby	0	3
Tonic Sol-fa	0	1
Ditto (Arranged as a Two-part Chorus). Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined	0	1½
Ditto (Hymn) .. J. Barnby	0	1½
Holy Ghost, to earth descending .. Antonin Dvorák	0	4
There was a marriage in Cana of Galilee .. J. Stainer	0	3
Protect them, Almighty. Chorus .. J. Barnby	0	3

ORGAN MUSIC.
Nuptial March .. B. Luard Selby	1	0
Wedding March (Gounod), No. 1. Arranged by G. C. Martin	2	0
Wedding March, No. 2.. Charles Gounod	2	0
Wedding March (Mendelssohn) .. Arranged by W. T. Best	2	0
Wedding March ,, Arranged by C. E. Willing	1	0
March in "Athalie" ,, Arranged by Ch. Steggall	1	6
March in "Athalie" ,, Arranged by W. T. Best	2	0
Benedictus (A. C. Mackenzie) Arr. by C. Palmer and J. B. Lott	1	6
Largo (Handel) .. Arranged by G. C. Martin	1	6
March in "Tannhäuser" .. Arranged by F. Archer	2	0
Processional Wedding March .. Henry R. Bird	1	0
A Wedding Piece .. A. C. Mackenzie	1	0
The Bride's March ("Rebekah," J. Barnby) Arr. by James Shaw	1	0
March in B flat .. E. Silas	1	0
Grand March ("Lohengrin," Act III., Wagner) .. W. Creser	1	0
Bridal Chorus ("Lohengrin," Wagner) .. W. Creser	1	0
Wedding March .. Composed by W. Creser	1	6

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

New Harvest Anthems.

Just Published.

SING TO THE LORD

BY

JOSEPH BARNBY.

Price Fourpence. Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.

In the Press.

THE EYES OF ALL WAIT ON THEE

BY

GEORGE J. ELVEY.

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THOU VISITEST THE EARTH

BY

J. W. ELLIOTT.

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

JOY IN HARVEST

BY

BRUCE STEANE.

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

LET US NOW FEAR THE LORD OUR GOD

BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price Three-Halfpence. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Seventh Edition.

The river floweth strong, my love

PART-SONG FOR S.A.T.B.

Words by E. Ridgway.

Music composed by ROLAND ROGERS.

Price Fourpence; Sol-fa, Twopence.

Sung with immense success by Eaton Faning's Select Choir at the Ballad Concerts, St. James's Hall; Wolverhampton Festival Choral Society, the Chester Festival Choral Society, the Cambrian Choral Society (Birkenhead), Huddersfield Glee and Madrigal Society, &c.

Also, New Part-Song, by same Composer.

THREE FISHERS WENT SAILING

Words by Kingsley.

Old Notation, Fourpence; Sol-fa, Twopence.

"An immense success."

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Third English Edition.

ON THE SENSATIONS OF TONE AS A PHYSIOLOGICAL BASIS FOR THE THEORY OF MUSIC.

By HERMANN L. F. HELMHOLTZ, M.D.

Translated and specially adapted to the use of Musical Students by Alexander J. Ellis, F.R.S., &c. With 68 Figures engraved on Wood, and 42 Passages in Musical Notes.

Royal 8vo, 28s.

London, New York, and Bombay: Longmans, Green and Co.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS. By A. Ben Allen.

Tom, the Piper's Son .. .. 3d.
Dickory, dickory, dock .. .. 4d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

JUDEX

FROM

MORS ET VITA

COMPOSED BY

CH. GOUNOD.

ARRANGED FOR THE PIANOFORTE BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price Two Shillings net.

ARRANGEMENT FOR ORCHESTRA ALONE.

	s.	d.
Full Score	3	6
String parts	1	3
Wind parts..	4	9

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

SOLEMN MARCH

FOR

FULL MILITARY BAND

Composed, by gracious permission of H.R.H. Princess Beatrice, as a Tribute to the Memory of

Col. H.R.H. Prince Henry of Battenberg, K.G.

BY

GEORGE MILLER, Mus. Bac.,

Bandmaster of Royal Marines.

Pianoforte Solo	2s. od.
Pianoforte Duet	2s. od.
Military Band Parts	3s. 6d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NOVELLO'S COLLECTION

OF WORDS

OF ANTHEMS.

PRICE 4s. 6d.

This is an entirely new and greatly enlarged edition of the Collection originally compiled by the Rev. W. Rayson, M.A., Sir John Stainer, M.A., Mus. Doc., and the Rev. J. Troutbeck, D.D.

This Book, which contains the Words of over 1,500 Anthems, besides being admirably adapted for the use of Choirs and Congregations, for which purpose it was originally compiled, will be found most valuable to Organists, Choirmasters, and the Clergy as a book of reference for the selection of Anthems suitable for Special days, seasons, or occasions. It also contains a list of Anthems suitable for Men's Voices, and Anthems with Latin words.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S

ALBUMS FOR PIANOFORTE

AND

STRINGED INSTRUMENTS

(Two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello).

The Pieces in these Albums are so arranged that if any Part, or Combination of Parts, in addition to the First Violin and Pianoforte are used they will sound complete.
They may also be played by a Quintet, or small Orchestra, of Stringed Instruments, with or without Pianoforte.

No. 1.

SUITE OF FOUR PIECES

BY ARNOLD DOLMETSCH.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 2.

SUITE OF FIVE PIECES

BY HENRY PURCELL.

The Pianoforte Accompaniment, Marks of Expression, Bowing, and Fingering by ARNOLD DOLMETSCH.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 3.

THREE DANCES

From the Music to "Henry VIII."

BY EDWARD GERMAN.

Price 5s. Separate String Parts, 1s. each.

No. 4.

GAVOTTE IN D

BY RAMEAU.

Arranged by BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 5.

SIX PIECES FROM THE WATER MUSIC

COMPOSED BY G. F. HANDEL.

Arranged by BERTHOLD TOURS.

1. Bourrée in F. | 3. Minuet in F. | 5. Aria in G.
2. Air in F. | 4. Hornpipe in F. | 6. Allegro in D.

Price 3s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 6.

TWO BOURRÉES

COMPOSED BY G. F. HANDEL.

Arranged by BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price 2s. Separate String Parts, 3d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PERFORMED AT THE PHILHARMONIC CONCERT,
Queen's Hall, London, March 19, 1896, under the direction of the COMPOSER.

SYMPHONY IN G

(No. 4)

FOR FULL ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

ANTONÍN DVOŘÁK.

(Op. 88.)

Full Score	30s.
String Parts	10s.
Wind Parts	22s.
Arrangement for Pianoforte Duet, by the Composer	10s. 6d.

In the Press.

The famous ALLEGRETTO GRAZIOSO from the above, arranged for Violin and Pianoforte, by S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR. Price 2s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

Performed with great success at the Leeds Triennial Musical Festival, 1895.

VALSE GRACIEUSE

FROM THE

SUITE IN D MINOR

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo	2s.
,, Duet	3s.
String Parts	4s.
Wind Parts	10s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

TWENTY-FOUR

VOCAL EXERCISES

FOR

MEZZO-SOPRANO

BY

MARCO BORDOGNI.

EDITED, WITH MARKS OF EXPRESSION AND PHRASING, BY

ALBERTO RANDEGGER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

A DREAM OF LOVE

SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

EDWARD OXENFORD

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

In C and A. Price Two Shillings each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PARIS: ALPHONSE LEDUC,

EDITEUR, 3, RUE DE GRAMMONT.

GRAND SUCCÈS

EMILE FISCHER

A CŒUR JOIE

POLKA.

	Pr. net.
Pour PIANO. Edition Simplifiée	0 85
,, PIANO. Edition Originale	1 65
,, PIANO. Edition à 4 mains	2 50
,, PIANO ET CLARINETTE	2 00
,, PIANO ET CORNET	2 00
,, PIANO ET FLUTE	2 00
,, PIANO ET VIOLON	2 00
,, ORCHESTRE	1 50
,, FANFARE	1 50

VOL. III. of "THE NEW MUSICAL EDUCATOR," a Library of Musical Instruction, by eminent specialists, edited by JOHN GREIG, Mus. Doc., Oxon., is now ready. The publishers wish to offer this through the profession and not through shops. Masters and Teachers, in London and Home Counties, wishing to support the new idea, fullest advantages, apply to W. R. Howell & Co., Bedford Row Chambers, Theobald's Rd., W.C.

NOVELLO'S

MUSIC FOR MILITARY BAND

ARRANGED BY

DAN GODFREY, JUN.,

AND

GEORGE MILLER.

		s.	d.
GIPSY SUITE	Edward German	15	0
THREE DANCES ("Henry VIII.")	Edward German	15	0
SIX SACRED PIECES	Ch. Gounod	10	6
THE REDEMPTION (Selection)	Ch. Gounod	15	0
BENEDICTUS ("Six Pieces for Violin")	A. C. Mackenzie	5	0
WEDDING MARCH	William Creser	3	6
BALLET MUSIC ("Colomba")	A. C. Mackenzie	15	0
MORS ET VITA (Selection)	Ch. Gounod	15	0
THE EMPIRE FLAG	A. C. Mackenzie	5	0
HUSARENRITT	Fritz Spindler	10	0
POLONAISE ("Life for the Czar")	M. I. Glinka	12	0
COURANTE ("Ravenswood")	A. C. Mackenzie	12	0
GAVOTTE	J. P. Rameau	4	6
ORCHESTRAL BALLAD	Stewart Macpherson	15	0
EMPEROR GAVOTTE (Cornflower)	Ch. Morley	2	6

Recent additions:—

WESTWOOD GAVOTTE	Battison Haynes	5	0
SOLEMN MARCH	George Miller	3	6
MARCHE MILITAIRE	P. Tschaïkowsky	15	0
OVERTURE TO "RICHARD III."	Edward German	15	0
GRANDE VALSE ("Faust" Ballet)	Ernest Ford	10	6

In the Press:—

FESTIVAL MARCH (Aennchen von Tharau)	H. Hofmann
MARCHE SOLENNELLE	Ch. Gounod
MARCH (from "St. Polycarp")	F. G. Ouseley
RUSTIC PICTURES ("Kirmess")	H. Hoffmann

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE LEITMOTIVES OF

DER RING DES NIBELUNGEN

FIRST NIGHT, "DAS RHEINGOLD"

BY

FRANKLIN P. PATTERSON.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence net.

The above book is by no means a scientific study, and being written in a popular style is designed to facilitate the comprehension of Wagner's eminent works.

Leipzig: BREITKOPF and HÄRTEL.

Just Published.

THE HESPERUS

CANTATA FOR SOPRANO, BARITONE, AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA

THE POETRY BY LONGFELLOW

THE MUSIC BY

J. F. H. READ.

Price 1s. 6d.; Vocal Parts also, in Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

By the same Composer:

THE

DEATH OF YOUNG ROMILLY

CHORAL BALLAD FOR CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA

THE POETRY BY WORDSWORTH.

Dedicated, by special permission, to H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES.

FOR MEN'S VOICES.

Sung by the STOCK EXCHANGE CHORAL SOCIETY.

IN THE FOREST

CANTATA FOR BARITONE SOLO, CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

In the Press.

OLD ENGLISH SUITE

FOR FULL ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED, AND DEDICATED, BY PERMISSION, TO

H.R.H. THE DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG AND GOTHA

(Duke of Edinburgh, K.G.)

BY

W. CRESER.

1. THE GREETING. 2. CONVIVIALITY.
3. MERRY DROLLERY.

Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo by the COMPOSER.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
String Parts, Four Shillings and Sixpence.
Full Score and Wind Parts, MS.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

In the Press.

MELODY IN A

FOR

VIOLIN (OR FLUTE)

With Accompaniment for the Pianoforte

COMPOSED BY

FRANK MOIR.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW ORCHESTRAL SUITE.

RURAL SCENES

BY

ALBERT E. MATT.

IN THREE MOVEMENTS.

No. 1. PASTORALE—In the Meadows.
„ 2. ROMANCE—Love Scenes.
„ 3. SCHERZO—Village Revels.

Full Orchestra, 6s.; Extra Parts, 8d. each.
A. Piano Solo (with orchestral indications), 2s. 6d.
B. Full Score (MS.) can be hired.

OTHER ORCHESTRAL PUBLICATIONS.	Orchestra.	Extra Parts.	Piano Solo.
MATT, A. E.—"Dawn." Idyll	2s. 0d.	3d.	2s.
—— "Sunset." Rêverie	2s. 0d.	3d.	2s.
—— "Devotion Rustique." Angelus	2s. 0d.	3d.	2s.
BENNETT, SIR W. STERNDALE.—"The Naiades" Overture	5s. 0d.	6d.	2s.
CZIBULKA, A.—"Serenade Italienne"	2s. 8d.	3d.	2s.
—— "Waldesflüstern." Idylle	3s. 4d.	4d.	2s.
ERVITI, JOSE.—"Saugre Torera." Marcia Espagnola	2s. 0d.	3d.	2s.

All the above can be performed in public without fee.

HAWKES AND SON, 28, Leicester Square, London, W.C.

WESTWOOD GAVOTTE

COMPOSED BY

BATTISON HAYNES.

For Pianoforte Solo, price Two Shillings.
For Violin and Pianoforte, price Two Shillings.

ARRANGEMENT FOR MILITARY BAND

BY

DAN GODFREY, JUN.

Price 5s.
Parts for Large and Small Orchestra in the Press.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

GRANDE VALSE

FROM THE

FAUST BALLET

COMPOSED BY

ERNEST FORD.

ARRANGED FOR THE PIANOFORTE BY

I. A. DE ORELLANA.

Price Two Shillings.

ARRANGEMENT FOR MILITARY BAND

BY

GEORGE MILLER.

Price Ten Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

DEDICATED, BY PERMISSION,

TO THE DUKE AND DUCHESS OF TECK.

ODE

ON THE

BIRTH OF PRINCE EDWARD OF YORK

BY

R. H. MANLEY, M.A.

MUSIC BY

E. M. LEE, B.A., MUS. BAC., F.R.C.O.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMPOSITIONS by C. S. JEKYLL,

ORGANIST AND COMPOSER TO HER MAJESTY'S CHAPELS ROYAL (retired).

	s.	d.
Almighty God	1	0
Save me, O God 9d.; 8vo	0	4
Arise, O Lord	2	0
Blessed is he	0	6
Communion Service, 2s.; vocal parts	1	0
Grand March for Organ	3	0

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Completion of Communion Service: Benedictus, Agnus Dei, &c.	0	4
The Lord is full of compassion	0	4
The righteous live for evermore	0	3
Twelve Kyries (various)	1	0
Amen elongatum	0	1

SONGS.

Remember me	4	0
Go, forget me	4	0
The mermaid's lullaby	2	6
In Memoriam	3	0
Now	4	0

PART-SONGS.

When twilight dews. S.A.T.B	0	6
On the sea. S.A.T.B.	0	4
After the battle. A.T.T.B.B.	0	8

PIANOFORTE.

Le Rêve à Galathée	4	0

WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, W.

Thou wilt keep him	0	4
O send out Thy light	0	8
The Lord is righteous, 4d. Tonic Sol-fa	0	2
Go forth, ye daughters (Jubilee Anthem)	0	8
Them that are meek	0	3
There the wicked cease	0	3
Marche Nuptiale	4	0

(Performed by the Composer at the Wedding of H.R.H. The Duchess of Fife.)

METZLER and Co.

The Lord hear thee	0	2

PATEY and WILLIS.

He hath shewed thee, O man	0	2

J. and R. PARLANE, Paisley.

Jubilee March	4	0

(Performed by the Composer, in Westminster Abbey, at Her Majesty's Jubilee.)

HOPWOOD and CREW, 42, New Bond Street, W.

Will be Published immediately.

THE CAPTIVE SOUL

CANTATA

FOR

SOPRANO, MEZZO-SOPRANO, CONTRALTO AND TENOR SOLI AND CHORUS OF FEMALE VOICES

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

ETHEL C. PEDLEY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

E. M. WOOLLEY.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

SUITABLE FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES AND CHURCH PURPOSES.

THE CHILDHOOD OF SAMUEL

A SACRED CANTATA

BY

C. T. REYNOLDS,

Mus. Doc., Oxon.

TO BE PRODUCED AT THE POWIS PROVINCIAL EISTEDDFOD, OSWESTRY, JUNE 11, 1896.

Price Two Shillings.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, One Shilling.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

WEBSTER'S

GROUNDWORK OF MUSIC. BOOK I.

4th Edition. 1s.; Key, 1s. 6d.

WEBSTER'S

GROUNDWORK OF MUSIC. BOOK II.

3rd Edition. 1s.; Key, 1s. 6d.

WEBSTER'S

CHILD'S PRIMER OF THE THEORY OF MUSIC.

3rd Edition. 1s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

METZLER'S HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

*Bold Turpin (Dr. Bridge). Mixed voices	4d.
*The Goose (Dr. Bridge). Mixed voices	6d.
*Hey Diddle Diddle (Vinning). Mixed voices	4d.
Shelter (Gladstone). Male voices	3d.
Humpty Dumpty (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	net 6d.
*Little Jack Horner (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed or Male voices	,, 6d.
Jack and Jill (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	,, 4d.
*The House that Jack built (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	,, 6d.
*The Haymakers (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	,, 4d.
Out on the Waters (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	,, 4d.
*Yule (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	,, 4d.
*The Sobbing Quartet (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	,, 3d.
*Poor Little Tom-ee (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	,, 6d.
*Where are you going to, &c.? (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	,, 6d.
*The Boy and the Bee (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	,, 6d.
The Spider and the Fly (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed or Male voices	net 6d.

Published in Tonic Sol-fa Notation, 2d. each.

SUCCESSFUL CANTATAS.

ROBIN HOOD (Soli and Chorus) .. .. T. L. Hatton.
Vocal score, 2s. 6d. net; Chorus parts, 6d. each net.

ST. URSULA (Soli and Chorus) .. .. F. H. Cowen.
Vocal score, 4s. net; Chorus parts, 1s. each net.

HARVEST HOME (Soli and Chorus) .. .. G. B. Allen.
Vocal score, 2s. 6d. net; Chorus parts, 6d. each net.

THE FISHERS (Soli and Chorus) .. .. J. M. Coward.
Vocal score, 4s. net; Chorus parts, 8d. each net.

BABES IN THE WOOD (Soli and Chorus) .. .. .. George Fox.
Vocal score, 2s. 6d. net.

London: METZLER & Co., Ltd., 40 to 43, Great Marlborough St., W.

EDITED BY J. S. SHEDLOCK.

SECOND EDITION.

BIBLE STORIES

MUSICALLY ILLUSTRATED IN

SIX SONATAS FOR THE HARPSICHORD

BY

JOHANN KUHNAU

(1700).

No. 1. DAVID AND GOLIATH.
„ 2. SAUL AND DAVID.

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence.

SELECTION OF PIECES

COMPOSED FOR THE

HARPSICHORD

BY

BERNARDO PASQUINI.

With a Preface and Two Fac-similes.

CONTENTS.

Ricercare.	Toccata con lo Scherzo del Cuccó.
Toccata.	Canzone Francese.
Partite diverse di Follia.	Partita 1.
Partite di Follia.	Partita 2.
Partite di Bergamasca.	Tre Arie.

Sonata a due Cembali.

Price Five Shillings.

An Edition with the Preface in German (translated by Dr. MAX SEIFFERT) is also published.

SELECTION OF PIECES

COMPOSED FOR THE

HARPSICHORD

BY

GAETANO GRIECO.

With a Preface and a Fac-simile.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

THREE PIECES

COMPOSED FOR THE

HARPSICHORD

BY

G. FRESCOBALDI,
J. J. FROBERGER,

AND

J. C. KERL.

With a Preface.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London an New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TO BE PERFORMED AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE ON JUNE 6.

KING HAROLD

AN HISTORICAL CANTATA

FOR

SOPRANO AND TENOR SOLI AND CHORUS

With Pianoforte (or Organ) Accompaniment

WORDS BY

REV. CHARLES KENT, M.A.

MUSIC BY

F. CUNNINGHAM WOODS, M.A.

Mus. Bac., Oxon.; F.R.C.O.; Organist of Highgate School, N.; late Organist of Exeter College, Oxford.

Specially written for performance at the Crystal Palace on June 6, 1896, by a Choir of 4,000 voices.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Tonic Sol-fa, Ninepence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

THE TRYST

SONG

WRITTEN AND COMPOSED BY

EVAN KREFE.

By the same Composer:

WHEN LOVE IS IN HER EYE

SONG

The Words by A. M. FAY.

LULLABY

The Words by ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON.

Price Two Shillings each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

PART-SONGS for TREBLE VOICES

SPECIALLY ADAPTED FOR HIGH SCHOOLS

EDITED BY

MRS. CAREY BROCK

AND

M. A. SIDEBOTHAM,

Editors of "The Children's Hymn Book."

PART 6.

Queen Margaret of Anjou, Prince Edward, and the Robber	M. A. Sidebotham.
Love wakes and weeps	„ Dr. Arne.
Under the greenwood tree	John Whittaker.
Winds gently whisper	Elizabeth Stirling.
Red leaves	Henry Smart.
The Wood Nymphs

Price One Shilling.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

SHORT CANTATAS.

THE PIED PIPER OF HAMELIN
By ROBERT BROWNING
Set to Music for Tenor and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
RICHARD H. WALTHEW.

Price Two Shillings.

THE BLACK KNIGHT
Cantata for Chorus and Orchestra
The Poem by UHLAND; translated by LONGFELLOW
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
EDWARD ELGAR.

Price Two Shillings.

THE POWER OF SOUND
Cantata for Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
The Poem by WORDSWORTH
THE MUSIC BY
ARTHUR SOMERVELL.

Price Two Shillings. Tonic Sol-fa, One Shilling.

YOUNG LOCHINVAR
Ballad by Sir WALTER SCOTT
Set to Music for Baritone Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
ETHEL M. BOYCE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

ROBERT OF SICILY
Cantata for Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
Poem by LONGFELLOW
SET TO MUSIC BY
F. KILVINGTON HATTERSLEY.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

JOHN GILPIN
Ballad for Chorus and Orchestra
Words selected from COWPER'S Poem
SET TO MUSIC BY
S. P. WADDINGTON.

Price Two Shillings.

THE BALLAD OF CARMILHAN
By HENRY LONGFELLOW
Set to Music for Baritone Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
A. DAVIDSON ARNOTT.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence. Tonic Sol-fa, 1s. 6d.

THE DREAM OF JUBAL
A Poem with Music
For Soprano and Tenor Soli, Chorus, Orchestra, and Accompanied Recitation
Written by JOSEPH BENNETT
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
A. C. MACKENZIE.
(Op. 41.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
Paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.

THE FORSAKEN MERMAN
Written by MATTHEW ARNOLD
Set for Bass Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
ARTHUR SOMERVELL.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE
ROMANCE OF THE ROSES
For Soprano and Tenor Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
The Words written by ELLIS WALTON
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY OLIVER KING.
(Op. 80.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

MANFRED
A Dramatic Poem, in Three Acts, by LORD BYRON
Composed for Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra, with Accompanied Recitation
BY
ROBERT SCHUMANN.

Price One Shilling. Cloth, gilt, 2s. 6d.

HERVÉ RIEL
A Poem by ROBERT BROWNING
Set to Music for Baritone Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
H. WALFORD DAVIES.

Price One Shilling.

THE INCHCAPE ROCK
Ballad by ROBERT SOUTHEY
Set to Music for Chorus and Orchestra
BY
J. FREDERICK BRIDGE.

Price One Shilling.

THE BRIDE
For Soprano and Tenor Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
The Words translated from the German of R. HAMERLING
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
A. C. MACKENZIE.

Price One Shilling.

ODE TO THE WEST WIND
A Poem by SHELLEY
Set to Music for Tenor Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY CHARLES WOOD.

Price One Shilling.

THE WRECK OF THE HESPERUS
By LONGFELLOW
Set to Music for Soprano, Tenor, and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
HERBERT W. WAREING.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE LAY OF THE BROWN ROSARY
The Words adapted from the Poem of ELIZABETH BARRETT BROWNING
Set to Music for Soprano and Contralto Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
ETHEL M. BOYCE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE BALLAD OF
SIR OGIE AND THE LADIE ELSIE
Englished from the 16th Century Danish Ballad "AAGE OG ELSE"
by FREDERICK YORK POWELL
Set to Music for Mezzo-Soprano and Baritone Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
CHARLES HARFORD LLOYD.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

JUST PUBLISHED.

BEETHOVEN AND HIS NINE SYMPHONIES

BY

GEORGE GROVE, C.B.

PRICE, CLOTH, GILT, SIX SHILLINGS.

THE TIMES.

Sir George Grove's analyses of Beethoven's Symphonies have long been familiar, not only to every frequenter of the Crystal Palace Concerts, for which they were at first designed, but to all lovers of music in England. They may most truly be said to have become household words, and it seems almost strange that a piece of musical literature so well known and so highly valued should never before have appeared in book form. The analytical programmes, with the musical examples, form the groundwork of the volume, published by Messrs. Novello under the title "Beethoven and his Nine Symphonies," but these have been amplified and their value largely increased by the addition of documents before only referred to.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

I recognise it, without the smallest hesitation, as one of the most important and valuable among recent contributions to musical literature. . . . The best informed of professional musicians may learn a great deal about the master-works of Beethoven from Sir George Grove, whose wide reading and acute perceptiveness have enabled him to marshal an astonishing array of facts, and whose intimate acquaintance with the spirit of the master has qualified him to throw light upon pages which, to many, are still obscure. . . . I must be satisfied with the remarks already made, earnestly recommending all who recognise Beethoven's greatness as shown in his immortal Symphonies to obtain Sir George Grove's volume, and walk in the luminous paths through which he is ready to conduct all who trust his guidance.

MORNING POST.

Sir George Grove's book is irresistibly fascinating. It is never unduly pedantic, and the information it contains is conveyed in a style at once terse and lucid, whilst its pages are interspersed with many anecdotes and interesting details of the great master's life.

GLOBE.

Sir George Grove seems to have discovered a good deal of new material, which forms by no means the least valuable part of the book. In his estimate of Beethoven Sir George Grove writes like an enthusiast, but his enthusiasm is tempered with sound judgment, and his style is always pleasant, and often eloquent in the best sense of the term.

ST. JAMES'S GAZETTE.

It would be difficult to say whether Sir George Grove's admirable volume is more to be esteemed for its biographical or its critical chapters. Probably for neither, but rather for those in which biography and criticism go hand-in-hand together. It needed an enthusiast gifted with industry and the spirit of research to produce such a work.

SPECTATOR.

The most important and valuable of his contributions to the literature of the concert-room have been developed into a book which for many years is likely to remain the standard work on the subject. . . . Sir George writes as a thorough-going hero-worshipper, but personally we find his enthusiasm infectious. No one can rise from the perusal of these fascinating chapters without an enhanced reverence—amounting almost to awe—for the dæmonic genius whose workings are here so vividly set forth.

SUNDAY TIMES.

No one can fail to have his enjoyment of the Symphonies enormously increased by reading the work which will henceforth be indispensable to every student of Beethoven.

THE PEOPLE.

Sir George Grove has performed his self-imposed task with such thoroughness that, after reading the volume, there will be little, if anything, left for amateurs to learn concerning the Nine Symphonies.

YORKSHIRE POST.

We might go on for long enough discussing points suggested by this delightful book, and must be contented with very cordially recommending it to all musically inclined persons, whether they want to become acquainted with the immortal Nine, or only to refresh their recollection of these unapproachable masterpieces.

BRISTOL TIMES AND MIRROR.

Amateurs and students will welcome the present volume as a very valuable contribution to the large store of information which has been published regarding the immortal Nine Symphonies of Beethoven. . . . The most valuable and most recent information about, and bearing upon, the Nine Symphonies is brought together and set forth in that masterly and scholarly way which characterises everything undertaken by the enthusiastic ex-director of the Royal College of Music.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO'S
OPERETTAS AND CANTATAS.

SUITABLE FOR PERFORMANCE IN THE OPEN AIR, OR AT BAZAARS, FANCY FAIRS, GARDEN FÊTES, &c.

YE OLDE ENGLYSHE PASTYMES

BY REV. F. W. GALPIN.

"The Rev. F. W. Galpin's skilful arrangement of 'Olde Englyshe Pastymes,' with its careful directions as to their performance, should be as successful in London as in the country, where the entertainment was first given. The music, mostly chosen from old sources and put together with real artistic ability, has an additional value as a collection of beautiful examples of English dances and songs."—The Times.

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, 1s. 6d.

DRUMS AND VOICES

OR,

THE GRENADIER CAP

AN OPERETTA FOR GIRLS, IN ONE ACT

WORDS AND MUSIC BY HAMILTON CLARKE.

"Mistresses of senior departments on the look-out for a work for entertainment purposes will find here a most effective operetta. Dialogue and music are bright and taking, and no difficulty should be found in delighting an audience with it."—Board Teacher.

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, 2s.
Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

THE ELFIN QUEEN

CANTATA FOR GIRLS ONLY

ARTHUR CHAPMAN. CLEMENT LOCKNANE.

"This cantata presents to us musically a most smooth bit of work of almost faultless execution, but being easy and tuneful throughout."—The Journal of Education.

Staff Notation, 2s. 6d.

RED RIDING-HOOD'S RECEPTION

EDWARD OXENFORD. THOMAS FACER.

"A pretty and well-written operetta. The work is well conceived and happily arranged for performance. The music is bright, tuneful, simple, and in both notations."—Bristol Times and Mirror.

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, 2s. 6d.
Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

THE

ENCHANTED PALACE

SHAPCOTT WENSLEY. ARTHUR SOMERVELL.

"Mr. Arthur Somervell's 'Enchanted Palace' is an exceedingly pretty treatment in easy operatic form of the Sleeping Beauty story; there is plenty of fun in it, the libretto by Shapcott Wensley provides speaking as well as singing parts, and the whole is as graceful an entertainment for the purpose as could be imagined. The Princess's last song has a deeper expression than the rest of the little work, and both it and the lovely waltz deserve to be heard apart from the piece as a whole."—The Times.

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, 2s.
Tonic Sol-fa, 8d.

THE HOURS

OPERETTA FOR FEMALE VOICES

SHAPCOTT WENSLEY. J. L. ROECKEL.

"In 'The Hours,' a cantata for female voices, by J. L. Roeckel, Mr. Shapcott Wensley has written a graceful little allegory, and collaborated with the composer of the melodious and dramatic music in producing a refined and charming work. The properties and scenes are easily attainable, and the number of the dramatis personæ may be readily increased by lengthening the series of 'The Hours.'"—Educational Times.

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, 2s.
Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

ALL THE YEAR ROUND

CHARLES KARLYLE & AMY BRIAND. } GUSTAV ERNEST.

"We are pleased to introduce to the notice of teachers a cantata so full of music, which, to say the least, is never meaningless or commonplace."—Schoolmaster.

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, 2s. 6d.
Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

THE DAISY CHAIN

WORDS AND MUSIC BY HAMILTON CLARKE.

"Both music and libretto show the composer is equally at home when handling music of a comic character as when treating more serious and instructive work."—Daily News.

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, 2s. 6d.
Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUES FREE ON APPLICATION.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

FOURTH EDITION.

KING ARTHUR

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

FOR

THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, & ORCHESTRA

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

JAMES SMIETON, M.A.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

JOHN MORE SMIETON.

The work takes about an Hour and Forty Minutes to perform, and has been given with conspicuous success at the following places:—

London (2)	Airdrie
Glasgow (2)	Hamilton
Newcastle	Helensburgh
Dundee	Ayr
Broughty Ferry	Kineton
Jersey	Byfield
Reading	Uckfield
Brondesbury	Wakefield
Chichester	Greasboro'
Peebles	Paisley
Stirling	Harrogate
Arbroath	Aylesbury
Montrose	Taunton (Mass.)

&c., &c.

OLD NOTATION, 2s. 6d.; TONIC SOL-FA, 1s.
Full Score and Band Parts on hire.
String Parts for Sale at 16s.

The celebrated Hymn from "King Arthur," "There is a land beyond the setting sun," arranged for S.A.T.B., price 2d. (Sol-fa, 1½d.), may be had separately.

SPECIALLY ADAPTED FOR

SMALL CHORAL SOCIETIES, CHURCH CHOIRS, &c.

FOURTH EDITION.

BY THE SAME AUTHORS.

ARIADNE

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

FOR

FOUR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

(Takes about One Hour to perform).

OLD NOTATION, 2s.; TONIC SOL-FA, 9d.
Full Score and Band Parts on hire.

Copies of either work will be sent free to Conductors, on application to the COMPOSER, 12, Victoria Chambers, Dundee.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just Published.

THE HISTORY
OF MENDELSSOHN'S ORATORIO
"ELIJAH"
BY
F. G. EDWARDS.

WITH AN INTRODUCTION BY SIR GEORGE GROVE, C.B.

And a number of Portraits, including a hitherto unpublished one of the COMPOSER.

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence.

THE TIMES.

Another work of distinct value to musical historians. . . . There are several portraits of those who took part in the original performance, and one most interesting portrait of Mendelssohn from a drawing in the possession of Mrs. Victor Benecke. The work of compiling the necessary information has been excellently done, and the publication comes as a fitting celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the production of the work.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

Mr. F. G. Edwards's "History of Mendelssohn's Oratorio 'Elijah'" comes with admirable propriety in the jubilee year of that great work. . . . Mr. Edwards's book contains, of course, much that is familiar to students of Mendelssohn, and even to the casual readers of musical biography, but the author is able to set forth no little which fairly claims attention as new. There are, for example, various letters from the composer not heretofore made public, and full of interest for those to whom the details of a great work are attractive. Herein lies the chief value of the book.

DAILY NEWS.

Those who wish to read a full and authentic account of the conception and production of this oratorio cannot do better than consult Mr. F. G. Edwards's "History of Mendelssohn's 'Elijah,'" which has just been published by Messrs. Novello. Much of the matter dealt with is, of course, already known, but Mr. Edwards has unearthed several new facts and a good deal of hitherto unpublished correspondence.

THE MORNING.

An interesting addition to musical literature has just been made in the shape of "The History of Mendelssohn's Oratorio 'Elijah,'" written by F. G. Edwards, and published by Novello, Ewer and Co. The work is largely made up of letters from and to Mendelssohn. . . . The earlier letters are particularly interesting, showing as they do the extraordinary pains taken by the composer to make the "Elijah" as perfect as possible.

THE QUEEN.

A very interesting History of that popular oratorio. The volume is issued in a cheap form, and consists of some hundred and forty pages. . . . Many of Mendelssohn's letters printed in the book are now made public for the first time, and Sir George Grove has written a brief introduction to the volume.

THE SCOTSMAN.

Mr. Edwards's story of the famous oratorio is well told, and its value is enhanced by the fact that many of the letters, as well as a new portrait and a fac-simile of a page of the correspondence with Bartholomew, now appear for the first time, and help to freshen the narrative of facts and dates.

BRISTOL TIMES AND MIRROR.

A more appropriate volume than this acceptable and opportune work could hardly be published at the present juncture. . . . Mr. Edwards, who is at all times a painstaking and trustworthy writer, has evidently discharged his task on the present occasion with zeal as well as care, and the result of his labours will be treasured by musicians as a valuable memento of the fiftieth anniversary of the production of "Elijah" in the capital of the Midlands. Those who have already read a good deal concerning Mendelssohn and his works will, in the volume under notice, find much that is new and of absorbing interest. . . . The book is made all the more valuable by a well and carefully-prepared index.

BIRMINGHAM NEWS.

It ought to find its way into the hands of all music-lovers, forming, as it does, one of the richest additions of recent years to musical literature. The value of the book is materially enhanced by the reproduction of the fac-simile of a letter written by Mendelssohn to Wm. Bartholomew, the English translator of "Elijah," from the original in the possession of Mr. F. G. Edwards.

BIRMINGHAM GAZETTE.

In all appropriateness, and certain of a wide welcome, comes "The History of Mendelssohn's Oratorio, 'Elijah,'" by F. G. Edwards, and published by Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. . . . We can only refer readers to Mr. Edwards's book, which will be found a critical and intelligent appreciation of the great composer, and a treasure-house of wealth in the matter of musical details of an historical character. It is supplied with portraits of Mendelssohn at the age of twenty-six, of Mr. Joseph Moore, and others, and fac-similes of various letters of an interesting character.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

CLOTH, SMALL DEMY 8VO. PRICE 3S. 6D.

NEW AND ENLARGED EDITION

OF

THE DAY SCHOOL HYMN-BOOK

EDITED BY

EMMA MUNDELLA.

Numerous Tunes have been written expressly for this Edition by

SIR JOHN STAINER | PROFESSOR J. F. BRIDGE
DR. C. HUBERT H. PARRY | DR. G. C. MARTIN

And others.

And it also includes a hitherto unpublished Tune by

REV. J. B. DYKES.

The Hymns have been selected from the Works of the best Ancient and Modern Writers of sacred verse, and a selection of the finest

FRENCH, GERMAN, AND LATIN HYMNS

(In their original language)

HAS ALSO BEEN INCLUDED.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

COMPOSED FOR THE PLAY AT THE LYCEUM THEATRE, SEPTEMBER, 1895.

(Played at the Philharmonic Society's Concert, Queen's Hall, London, on May 20, 1896.)

THE MUSIC

TO

ROMEO AND JULIET

BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

The following arrangements by the Composer are published:—

PAVANE (Dance from Act I.), for Pianoforte Solo, Pianoforte Duet, and Violin and Pianoforte, price 2s. each.

NOCTURNE, for Pianoforte Solo; PASTORALE, for Pianoforte; and Violin and Pianoforte; and SELECTION OF THEMES, for Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. each.

SUITE, consisting of—1. Prelude; 2. Pastorale; 3. Pavane; 4. Nocturne; 5. Dramatic Interlude, for Pianoforte Duet, price 5s. complete.

Now Ready.

String Parts, 10s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 27s. 6d.

The parts of each movement are published separately.

PRODUCED WITH GREAT SUCCESS AT THE LEEDS TRIENNIAL FESTIVAL, OCTOBER 3, 1895.

SUITE IN D MINOR

BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

1. Prelude (Allegro moderato, C).
2. Valse Gracieuse (Allegro, $\frac{3}{8}$).
3. Elegy (Andante, $\frac{3}{4}$).
4. Saltarelle (Presto, $\frac{6}{8}$)

String Parts, 13s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 26s. 6d.; Full Score, MS.

VALSE GRACIEUSE, from above, arranged for Pianoforte Solo, 2s., and Pianoforte Duet, 3s.; String Parts, 4s.; Wind Parts, 10s. (now ready).

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.

NOVELLO'S CHEAP EDITION

OF

THE CHORUSES ONLY

OF

CANTATAS, ORATORIOS, AND OPERAS.

		s.	d.
BACH.—"Passion" (St. Matthew)	.. ..	1	0
BEETHOVEN.—"Mount of Olives"	..(Paper boards, 1s.)	0	6
	(Tonic Sol-fa)	0	6
BENNETT.—"The May Queen" ..	(Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1	0
GLUCK.—"Orpheus"	(Tonic Sol-fa)	1	0
GRAUN, C. H.—"The Passion" ("Der Tod Jesu")		1	0
HANDEL.—"Messiah"	(Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0	8
—— "Solomon"		1	6
—— "Judas Maccabæus"	(Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0	8
—— "Saul"		1	0
—— "Hercules"		1	0
—— "L'Allegro, il Pensieroso, ed il Moderato"		1	0
—— "Samson"	(Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0	8
HAYDN.—"The Creation"	(Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0	8
—— "The Seasons"	(Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1	0
MACFARREN, G. A.—"May Day" ..	(Paper boards, 1s.)	0	6
MENDELSSOHN.—"Elijah" ..	(Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1	0
—— "St. Paul"	(Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1	0
—— "Hymn of Praise" ("Lobgesang")	(Paper boards, 1s.)	0	6
MOZART.—"Twelfth Mass"		0	8
PARRY, C. H. H.—"Judith"	(Tonic Sol-fa)	2	0
—— "Job"	Tonic Sol-fa)	1	0
ROSSINI.—"Stabat Mater"	..(Paper boards, 1s.)	0	6
SPOHR.—"The Last Judgment" ..	..(Paper boards, 1s.)	0	6
VERDI.—"Il Trovatore"	(Tonic Sol-fa)	1	0
WAGNER.—"The Flying Dutchman"		2	0
WEBER.—"Der Freischütz"		1	0
—— "Preciosa"		0	6

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

THE OULD PLAID SHAWL

SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

FRANCIS H. FAHY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

BATTISON HAYNES.

Not far from old Kinvara, in the merry month of May,
When birds were singing cheerily there came across my way,
As if from out the sky above an angel chanced to fall,
A little Irish colleen in an ould plaid shawl.
She tripped along right joyously, a basket on her arm;
And oh! her face, and oh! her grace the soul of saint would charm,
Her brown hair rippled o'er her brow, but greatest charm of all
Was her modest blue eyes beaming 'neath her ould plaid shawl.

I courteously saluted her, "God save you, Miss," says I,
"God save you kindly, Sir," says she, and shyly passed me by.
Off went my heart along with her, a captive in her thrall,
Imprisoned in the corner of her ould plaid shawl.
Enchanted with her beauty rare, I gazed in pure delight,
Till round an angle of the road she vanished from my sight,
But ever since I sighing say, as I that scene recall—
"The grace of God about you and your ould plaid shawl."

Oh, some men sigh for riches and some men live for fame,
And some on history's pages hope to win a glorious name;
My aims are not ambitious and my wishes are but small,
You might wrap them all together in an ould plaid shawl.
I'll seek her all through Galway, and I'll seek her all through Clare,
I'll search for tale or tidings of my trav'ler everywhere,
For peace of mind I'll never find until my own I call
That little Irish colleen in her ould plaid shawl.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

LAND OF THE LEAL. Song. By John Bulmer, Mus. Bac. 1s. 3d. net. Also, "Call the ewes to the knowes." Duet. 2s. net.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

PUBLISHED JUNE 1.

PERFORMED WITH GREAT SUCCESS AT ST. JAMES'S HALL, LONDON, May 11, 1896.

FOUR ENGLISH DANCES

IN THE OLDEN STYLE

COMPOSED BY

F. H. COWEN.

1. STATELY DANCE. | 3. GRACEFUL DANCE.
2. RUSTIC DANCE. | 4. COUNTRY DANCE.

Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo by the Composer.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence net.

THE TIMES.

A special attraction of the concert was the first performance, under the composer's direction, of a new Suite of "Four English Dances," by Mr. F. H. Cowen, a work no less effective and graceful than the Suite given last week at the Philharmonic. The opening movement, a "Stately Dance," is exceedingly characteristic and original; the second, a "Rustic Dance," has, among prominent parts for wood-wind instruments, a delightful flourish for oboe; the succeeding "Graceful Dance," though a good deal like several other compositions of Mr. Cowen, prepares well for the final "Country Dance," a most attractive measure.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

These pieces, written for the most part "in the old style," are agreeable examples of a composer who is never at fault when he sets himself to charm by simple and graceful means. Orchestral societies desiring to cultivate works that are not too heavily strewn with stumbling-blocks cannot do better than make the acquaintance of this pleasing little Suite.

STANDARD.

A feature of the evening was the first performance of Four English Dances, written for orchestra by Mr. F. H. Cowen. These are respectively named "Stately Dance," "Rustic Dance," "Graceful Dance," and "Country Dance," names which well describe their several characters. As may be imagined, they are all scored in a most picturesque manner. They were excellently played under the direction of the composer, and the double recall he received to the platform testified to the pleasure his work had afforded the audience.

DAILY NEWS.

These brief, but highly effective, pieces avowedly imitate the old style, and they are entitled respectively a "stately" dance, a "rustic" dance—very quaint and pretty, and not without its traces of humour—a graceful, and a country dance. The composer, who conducted, was recalled to the platform, and his new Suite will beyond much question be heard of again.

MORNING POST.

Additional interest was imparted to the programme by its inclusion of "Four English Dances" for orchestra, by Mr. F. H. Cowen, which were heard on this occasion for the first time. These are attractive imitations of the forms in which our forefathers took delight. They are all most effectively scored, and are of that graceful and refined character which is expected in works by this gifted writer. They were warmly received, and doubtless will be often heard at the concerts of amateur orchestral societies, for which they are very suitable.

GLOBE.

An orchestral concert, under Mr. Cowen, was given last night at the St. James's Hall. Four charming English Dances in the old style, by Mr. Cowen, were performed for the first time, and achieved an undoubted success.

Orchestral Parts in the Press; also Arrangements for Violin and Pianoforte, Military Band, and Small Orchestra.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO.'S

CIRCULATING MUSIC LIBRARY

1, BERNERS STREET, W.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

CLASS A - - - - - ONE GUINEA - - - - PER ANNUM.

CLASS B } - - - - - TWO GUINEAS - - - - PER ANNUM.
CLASS E }
Six Months, £1 5s.; Three Months, 15s.;
One Month, 8s.; One Week, 3s.

CLASS C } - - - - THREE GUINEAS - - - PER ANNUM.
CLASS F }
Six Months, £1 15s.; Three Months, £1 1s.;
One Month, 12s. 6d.; One Week, 5s.

CLASS D } - - - FIVE GUINEAS - - - PER ANNUM.
CLASS G }

TOWN.

CLASS A—Entitles the Subscriber to receive Six Pianoforte Pieces or Songs (ordinary sheet music), which may be exchanged once a week.

CLASS B—Entitles the Subscriber to receive Twelve Pieces (one copy of each), including Volumes or Collections of Music, each volume counting as three pieces. May be exchanged once a week. On the completion of each subscription in this Class, Annual Subscribers are entitled to receive Music of the value of Half-a-Guinea (half-price) without further charge.

CLASS C—Entitles the Subscriber to receive Eighteen Pieces (one copy of each), or a proportionate number of Volumes, WHICH MAY BE EXCHANGED TWICE A WEEK. On the completion of each subscription in this Class, Annual Subscribers are entitled to receive Music of the value of Half-a-Guinea (half-price) without further charge.

CLASS D—Entitles the subscriber to the same privileges as Class C, including the right of occasionally borrowing a sufficient number of INSTRUMENTAL PARTS for the use of a SMALL ORCHESTRA.

 The Special attention of Conductors and Secretaries of Musical Societies is called to this subscription.

COUNTRY.

CLASS E—Entitles the Subscriber to receive Twenty Pieces (one copy of each), including Volumes or Collections of Music, each volume counting as three pieces. May be exchanged twice a month. On the completion of each subscription in this Class, Annual Subscribers are entitled to receive Music of the value of Half-a-Guinea (half-price) without further charge.

CLASS F—Entitles the Subscriber to Thirty Pieces (one copy of each), or a proportionate number of Volumes (WHICH MAY BE EXCHANGED ONCE A WEEK). On the completion of each subscription in this class, Annual Subscribers are entitled to receive Music of the value of Half-a-Guinea (half-price) without further charge.

CLASS G—Entitles the Subscriber to the same privileges as Class F, including the right of occasionally borrowing a sufficient number of INSTRUMENTAL PARTS for the use of a SMALL ORCHESTRA.

 For still larger quantities of Music, special subscriptions can be arranged.

IN THE PRESS.

POSTHUMOUS WORKS

OF

SIR GEORGE J. ELVEY.

THE EYES OF ALL WAIT ON THEE

EASY ANTHEM FOR HARVEST

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

TEACH ME, O LORD

ANTHEM FOR SEXAGESIMA OR GENERAL USE

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

WHOM HAVE I IN HEAVEN BUT THEE

SHORT ANTHEM FOR GENERAL USE

Price Twopence.

THEY THAT GO DOWN TO THE SEA IN SHIPS

ANTHEM

Price Sixpence.

SHALL I, WASTING IN DESPAIR

A FOUR-PART SONG (S.A.T.B.)

The Words written by G. WITHER (1588-1667)

Price Twopence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

(No. 52. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Music Primers and Educational Series. Edited by Sir JOHN STAINER and Dr. C. HUBERT H. PARRY.)

A Description and History

OF THE

PIANOFORTE

AND

OF THE OLDER KEYBOARD STRINGED INSTRUMENTS

BY

A. J. HIPKINS, F.S.A.

Author of the Articles on the Pianoforte in the "Dictionary of Music and Musicians" and in the "Encyclopædia Britannica," also of "Musical Instruments, Historic, Rare and Unique."

THE WOOD ENGRAVINGS BY JOHN HIPKINS.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
In paper boards, Three Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

THE CHURCH CATECHISM

IN METRICAL FORM, FOR SINGING AS HYMNS

BY THE

RIGHT REV. BISHOP JENNER & AMABEL JENNER.

Price 1d. each; in Packets of 50, 3s. 6d.

ALSO,

FAITH DUTY AND PRAYER

An Abridged Version of above

BEING VERSES ON THESE ELEMENTARY CHRISTIAN VIRTUES

FOR THE USE OF

CHILDREN IN SCHOOL, AT WORSHIP, OR IN THE HOME.

Price 1d. each; in Packets of 50, 3s. 6d.

EDITIONS WITH MUSIC BY

MYLES B. FOSTER

In the Press.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOW READY.

NEW AND REVISED EDITIONS

OF THE

MASSES

COMPOSED BY

FRANZ SCHUBERT.

MASS IN F	.. ..	1s.
„ IN G	.. ..	1s.
„ IN B FLAT	.. ..	1s.
„ IN C	.. ..	1s.
„ IN E FLAT	.. ..	2s.
„ IN A FLAT	.. ..	1s.

EDITOR'S PREFACE.

In accordance with the Decree concerning Church Music, drawn up by the Sacred Congregation of Rites, and approved of by His Holiness, Pope Leo XIII., on the 7th of July, 1894, I have revised this edition of Schubert's Masses.

Article 10 of this Decree says:—"Every piece in which words are found to be omitted, deprived of their meaning, or indiscreetly repeated is forbidden."

Article 11 says:—"It is forbidden to break up into pieces, completely detached, the versicles which are necessarily interconnected."

While correcting the omissions which have been made in the text, I have altered the music as little as possible; but in no instance has the Composer's harmony been interfered with.

THOS. F. A. GALE, A.Mus., L.C.M.,
Organist and Director of the Choir,
St. Mary's, Clapham, London, S.W.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

TO BASS SINGERS.

WHEN VALIANT AMMON

AIR FOR A BASS VOICE

COMPOSED IN 1764 BY

JONATHAN BATTISHILL.

The Accompaniment arranged by MYLES BIRKET FOSTER.

ORCHESTRAL PARTS CAN BE OBTAINED ON APPLICATION.

London: BOOSEY and Co., 295, Regent Street, W.
9, East Seventeenth Street, New York.

CHAPPELL & CO.'S PUBLICATIONS.

THE BEHNKE VOICE-TRAINING METHOD.

Price, in paper covers, Two Shillings; in cloth, Three Shillings.

VOICE-TRAINING PRIMER

By MRS. EMIL BEHNKE AND DR. CHARLES W. PEARCE.

An easy Catechism of Vocal Physiology and Musical Theory, for the use of Vocal Students generally. This work is also intended as a Text-Book for preparing Candidates for Vocal Examinations, particularly those of the Associated Board of the R.C.M. and R.A.M., the Incorporated Society of Musicians, and Trinity College, London. It contains in one volume all the information required for answering the viva voce questions of Examiners.

Sixtieth Thousand. Price, in paper covers, One Shilling and Sixpence; in cloth, Three Shillings.

VOICE-TRAINING EXERCISES

In Six separate Books, for Soprano, Mezzo-Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, Baritone, and Bass.

By EMIL BEHNKE AND DR. CHARLES W. PEARCE.

Third and Improved Edition. Price, in paper covers, One Shilling and Sixpence; in cloth, Three Shillings.

VOICE-TRAINING STUDIES

In Six separate Books, for Soprano, Mezzo-Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, Baritone, and Bass.

By EMIL BEHNKE AND DR. CHARLES W. PEARCE.

"This work contains 24 Progressive Studies in different styles, and is intended as a companion or supplementary volume to 'Voice-Training Exercises.' Those of a more cantabile character are to be used as Solfeggi, the others are to be sung as Vocalises. In this Second Edition the accompaniments have been simplified. Highly favourable opinions of these Studies have been expressed by Sir John Stainer, Sir Robert Stewart, Mr. W. H. Cummings, and other eminent authorities."

POPULAR WORKS FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.

UP TO DATE; OR, THE CHILDREN OF THE 19TH CENTUREE. A Cantata for Children. By W. H. SONLEY JOHNSON and REGINALD ATKINS. Price 1s. 6d. net.

ALONZO THE BRAVE AND THE FAIR IMOGENE. Choral Ballad. By M. G. LEWIS and C. HOLLAND. 2s. 6d. net.

GRAY'S ELEGY. Cantata by A. CELLIER. Paper, 2s. 6d. net; cloth, 4s. net.

FAUST. Dramatic Legend by HECTOR BERLIOZ. New Edition. 3s. 6d. net; cloth, 5s. net; Tonic Sol-fa, 2s. 6d. net.

GOD IS LOVE. A Sacred Cantata by Mrs. JOSEPH ROBINSON. Paper, 3s. net; cloth, 10s. 6d. net.

KENILWORTH. Cantata by ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Paper, 3s. 6d. net.

LALLA ROOKH. Cantata by FREDERICK CLAY. Paper, 3s. 6d. net.

FRIDOLIN; OR, THE MESSAGE TO THE FORGE. A Dramatic Cantata by A. RANDEGGER. Paper, 4s. net; cloth, 6s. net.

THE JACKDAW OF RHEIMS. Comic Cantata, by THOMAS INGOLDSBY and GEORGE FOX. 2s. 6d. net. Voice parts, each 6d. net; Harmonium part, 1s. net; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s. 6d. net.

THE MARTYR OF ANTIOCH. Sacred Musical Drama by ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Paper, 5s. net; cloth, 8s. net.

TRIAL BY JURY. Comic Operetta by W. S. GILBERT and ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Paper, 3s. net.

POPULAR NUMBERS OF CHAPPELL'S PENNY OPERATIC PART-SONGS

FOR SOPRANO, ALTO, TENOR, AND BASS.

1. Hymn of the Fisherman's Children. Adapted to a Melody from Hérold's "Zampa."
2. Fays and Elves (In mia fe). From Flotow's "Marta."
3. Spring's bright glances (In Elvezia non v'ha). From Bellini's "La Sonnambula."
5. Here we rest (Qui la selva). From Bellini's "La Sonnambula."
6. Onward to battle (Squilli echeggi). From Verdi's "Il Trovatore."
7. Rataplan (Rataplan). From Donizetti's "La Figlia del Reggimento."
8. The Gipsy's Star (Vedi! le fosche). From Verdi's "Il Trovatore."
9. War Song of the Druids (Dell' aura tua profetica). From Bellini's "Norma."
11. Come to the Fair! (Accorete giovinette). From Flotow's "Marta."
12. Friendship (Per te d'immenso giubilo). From Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor."
13. Away, the morning freshly breaking (The Chorus of Fishermen). From Auber's "Masaniello."
14. Pretty Village Maiden (Peasants' Serenade Chorus). From Gounod's "Faust."
15. The soft winds around us (The Gipsy Chorus). From Weber's "Preciosa."
16. See how lightly on the blue sea (Senti la danza invitaci). From Donizetti's "Lucrezia Borgia."
18. On yonder rock reclining. From Auber's "Fra Diavolo."
19. Happy and light. From Balfe's "Bohemian Girl."
22. Come, old comrade (The celebrated Chorus of Old Men). From Gounod's "Faust."
23. 'Gainst the Powers of Evil (The Chorale of the Cross). From Gounod's "Faust."
28. The tuneful sound of Robin's horn. Tyrolese Chorus from Rossini's "Guglielmo Tell."
29. The Chorus of Huntsmen. From Weber's "Der Freischütz."
92. Hail to the bride! From Wagner's "Lohengrin."
34. A bridal wreath we twine. Chorus of Bridesmaids from Weber's "Der Freischütz."
35. Behold! how brightly breaks the morning. The Barcarolle from Auber's "Masaniello."
40. War Song. From Meyerbeer's "Les Huguenots."
43. The boats bound along o'er the bay. From Auber's "Masaniello."
47. The Harvest Home. From Mozart's "Le Nozze di Figaro."
48. By their songs so sweet and clear. From Auber's "La Bergère Châtelaine."
50. Hail to our Master! From Spohr's "Pietro von Abano."
51. All by the shady greenwood tree. From Rossini's "Maid of Judah."

NEW SERIES (8vo SIZE).

52. The Farandole. From Audran's "Olivette."
53. You swear to be good and true. From Cellier's "Dorothy."
54. From deep forest hoary. From Planquette's "Rip Van Winkle."

To be continued.

NEW SERIES OF CHAPPELL'S VOCAL LIBRARY OF PART-SONGS (8vo SIZE).

118. Venetian Song (F. Paolo Tosti). S.A.T.B. .. King Hall 3d.
119. Mighty Lord (Gounod's "Marche Religieuse"). S.A.T.B. King Hall 3d.
120. Soft and Low (from Gounod's "Mock Doctor"). S.A.T.B. King Hall 4d.
121. Crossing the Bar. S.S.A.T.B.B... .. Arthur M. Goodhart 3d.
122. Sigh no more, ladies. A.T.T.B.B. .. R. J. S. Stevens 3d.
123. Peace, perfect Peace. S.A.T.B... .. .. .. Gounod 3d.
124. Beauty's Eyes (Tosti). S.A.T.B. .. .. King Hall 3d.
125. Hark! my soul (Gounod). S.A.T.B. .. .. King Hall 3d.
126. Soldier's Chorus ("Faust"). S.A.T.B. .. Gounod 4d.

To be continued.

Complete Lists on application to

CHAPPELL AND CO., 50, NEW BOND ST., LONDON.

Printed by NOVELLO, EWER & Co., at 69 and 70, Dean Street (W.), and published at 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.). Sold also by KENT and Co., Paternoster Row (E.C.).—Monday, June 1, 1896.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 641.—Vol. 37.
Registered for transmission abroad.

JULY 1, 1896.

Price 4d.; Postage, 1½d.
Annual Subscription, Post-free, 5s.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,
ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG AND GOTHA, DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.

There are now VACANCIES in the Choir for Sopranos, Altos, Tenors, and Basses. Only those who have good powerful voices, and who can read music at first sight, will be accepted. Address, Assistant-Secretary, Royal Choral Society, Albert Hall, S.W.

BRISTOL
NINTH MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

Patron: HER MOST GRACIOUS MAJESTY THE QUEEN.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG-GOTHA.

WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY, FRIDAY, AND SATURDAY,
October 14, 15, 16, and 17, 1896.

WEDNESDAY MORNING—"ELIJAH" (Mendelssohn), Madame Albani, Master Frank Gardner, Miss Hilda Wilson, Fräulein Witting, Messrs. Edward Lloyd, Braxton Smith, and Andrew Black.

WEDNESDAY EVENING—Overture, "Leonora," No. 3 (Beethoven); "Blest Pair of Sirens," Ode by Milton (Dr. C. Hubert H. Parry); Scena, "Ocean, thou mighty monster"—"Oberon" (Weber), Fräulein Malten; Grand Symphony, "No. 2, in D major" (Brahms); Aria from "Armida" (Gluck), Fräulein Malten; Overture, "Othello" (MS.), (Walter Macfarren); Overture, "Carnival" (Dvorák); Selection from "Götterdämmerung,"—Funeral March and Closing Scene (Wagner)—Brünnhilde, Fräulein Malten; Rhapsodie in F minor and major (Liszt); Choral Ballad, "Sir Patric Spens" (Pearsall); Overture, "Tannhäuser" (Wagner). Vocal Solos by Mr. Braxton Smith, &c.

THURSDAY MORNING—Overture, "In Memoriam" (Sullivan); "REQUIEM MASS" (Gounod)—Posthumous Work, first performance in England—Madame Albani, Fräulein Witting, Messrs. Lloyd and Black; "Hear my Prayer" (Mendelssohn), Madame Albani; Symphony in C minor, No. 5 (Beethoven); Oratorio, "CREATION," Parts I. and II. (Haydn)—Madame Albani, Messrs. Lloyd and Black.

THURSDAY EVENING—Overture, "Manfred" (Schumann); New Cantata, "Hymn before Sunrise," Poem by Coleridge (P. Napier Miles)—Soloist, Mr. Plunket Greene; Song, "Lorelei" (Liszt)—Fräulein Malten; Orchestral Ballad, "Helen of Kirkconnell" (A. Somervell); Schmiedelieder, from "Siegfried" (Wagner)—Siegfried, Mr. Ben Davies; Mime, Mr. Braxton Smith; Orchestral Suite (E. German); Vorspiel and Liebestod, "Tristan and Isolde" (Wagner)—Isolde, Fräulein Malten; Overture, "Land of the Mountain and the Flood" (MacCunn); Selection from "Die Walküre," Act 3, including the Walkürenritt, Duet, the Feuerzauber, and Wotan's Abschied (Wagner)—Brünnhilde, Fräulein Malten; Wotan, Mr. Plunket Greene; Rhapsodie in D minor (Liszt); Overture, "Oberon" (Weber).

FRIDAY MORNING—Oratorio, "JOB" (C. Hubert H. Parry, Mus. Doc.)—Master Frank Gardner, Messrs. Ben Davies, Plunket Greene, and Montague Worlock; Organ Concerto in E flat (MS.) (Ebenezer Prout, M.A., Mus. Doc.)—Solo Organ, Mr. George Riseley; "GERMAN REQUIEM" (Brahms)—Miss Esther Palliser and Mr. Andrew Black.

FRIDAY EVENING—Overture, "Meistersinger" (Wagner); Dramatic Scene, "Siddartha," composed for this Festival (J. L. Roeckel)—Soloist, Mr. Andrew Black; Ballad for Orchestra, "La Belle Dame sans Merci" (Sir A. C. Mackenzie); Scena, Lohengrin's Farewell (Wagner)—Mr. Edward Lloyd; Rhapsodie for Alto Solo, Male-Voice Choir and Orchestra (Brahms)—Soloist, Fräulein Witting; Introduction, Second Act, "Flying Dutchman" (Wagner)—Chorus and Solos by Miss Palliser and Miss Boucher; "THE GOLDEN LEGEND (Sir A. Sullivan)—Elsie, Miss Esther Palliser; Ursula, Miss Hilda Wilson; Prince Henry, Mr. Edward Lloyd; Forester, Mr. Arthur Wills; Lucifer, Mr. Andrew Black.

SATURDAY MORNING—"MESSIAH," (Handel)—Mesdames Albani, Hilda Wilson, Messrs. Edward Lloyd and Andrew Black.

Chorus-master, Mr. D. W. ROOTHAM.

COMPLETE FESTIVAL ORCHESTRA, 90 PERFORMERS.
Conductor, Mr. GEORGE RISELEY.

The following Composers will conduct their own works at the Festival: Dr. C. Hubert H. Parry; Walter Macfarren, Esq.; Dr. Ebenezer Prout; Edward German, Esq.; Hamish MacCunn, Esq.; Arthur Somervell, Esq.; J. L. Roeckel, Esq.; P. Napier Miles, Esq.

Detailed programmes, free, on application to the Hon. Secs., Albion Chambers, Bristol.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,
TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Patrons: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN AND THE ROYAL FAMILY.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG AND GOTHA.
Principal: Sir A. C. MACKENZIE, Mus. Doc.

Orchestral Concert, at Queen's Hall, July 21, at 3.
Distribution of Prizes, at St. James's Hall, July 22, at 3.
Fortnightly Concert, July 11, at 8.
Michaelmas Term begins September 28. Entrance Examination therefor, September 24, at 10.
Prospectus, Entry Forms, and all information may be obtained from the Secretary. F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,
Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883.

PRINCE CONSORT ROAD, SOUTH KENSINGTON, S.W.
President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.
Director: C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Esq., M.A., Mus. Doc., D.C.L.
Hon. Sec.: CHARLES MORLEY, Esq., M.P.

The CHRISTMAS TERM will commence on September 28.
Syllabus and official entry forms may be obtained at the College, Prince Consort Road, South Kensington.
FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.—
Established by the Corporation of London, 1880. Principal, Mr. W. H. CUMMINGS.—Improvisation, Accompanying, Sight Singing, Elocution, Sight Reading (Instrumental), Choral, Orchestral, and Operatic Classes. Prospectus and further particulars of the Secretary.
By order of the Committee,
Victoria Embankment, E.C. HILTON CARTER, Secretary.

THE BURGON OPERA RECITAL COMPANY
UNDER THE DIRECTION OF
MR. W. H. BURGON,

Principal Bass, Royal English Opera House, Covent Garden Opera House, and Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company, &c.;
Also of the leading Choral Societies' Concerts.

The experienced Artists of the above Company can be engaged by Choral Societies for Oratorio, Concert, or Opera Recital.

Specimens of the special Programmes for which the Burgon Opera Recital Company has become so celebrated, viz.:—
PART I.—Ballad and Instrumental.
PART II.—Recital in Costume or Evening Dress, of Selections from a popular Opera ("Cavalleria Rusticana," "Pagliacci," "Flying Dutchman," "Il Trovatore," "Maritana," "Bohemian Girl," "Faust," &c.)—will be forwarded on application.

Address, W. H. BURGON,
8, Marlboro' Road, Bedford Park, London, W.

CHARLES FRY'S RECITALS FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.

MANFRED (Schumann).
DREAM OF JUBAL (Mackenzie).
ATHALIE, ANTIGONE, ŒDIPUS (Mendelssohn).
Address, 22, Albion Road, N.W.

THE MISSES TULLOCH'S
VOCAL, INSTRUMENTAL, AND DRAMATIC
RECITALS.
OPERATIC SCENAS AND ARIAS. BALLADS.
MANDOLINE AND GUITAR SOLOS AND DUETS.
ITALIAN, FRENCH, AND GERMAN SONGS.
SPANISH SONGS TO GUITAR ACCOMPANIMENTS.
RECITATIONS (POETIC AND HUMOROUS).

For Press notices and programmes, address, Miss D. Tulloch, 16, Linden Gardens, London, W.; or, usual Concert Agents.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS FLORENCE ARMRIDING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Mr. Shakespeare and Medalist, R.A.M.).
Oratorios, Concerts, Lessons, &c., at 20, Conduit Street. Address, Leicester Villa, Ealing, W.

MISS MAUDE BALLARD (Soprano)
"Messiah," Philharmonic Society, Southampton. — "The gems of the evening were Miss Ballard's rendering of 'Rejoice greatly,' 'I know that my Redeemer liveth,' and 'Come unto Me.'"—Hampshire Advertiser, Dec. 18, 1895. 13, Herbert Rd., Stockwell, S.W.

MADAME BARTER (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Westbury Road, Wood Green, N.

MISS LOUISE BELLAMY (Soprano)
Oratorios and Concerts. 2, Claremont Road, Handsworth, Birmingham.

MISS EMILY DAVIES (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, Severn House, Seven Sisters Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS JESSIE HOTINE (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, Operettas, Banquets, &c.
Address, Craignorth, 33, Upper Bedford Place, Russell Square, W.C.

MISS EDITH MARSHALL (Soprano)
Oratorio, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
380, Brixton Road, S.W.

MISS FLORENCE MONK (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 26, Portland Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS ANNIE NORLEDGE (Soprano)
For Oratorios and Ballad Concerts. For press notices and terms, address, 221, South Lambeth Road, London, S.W.
Telegrams: "Norledge," London.

MISS WINIFRED PEAKE (Soprano)
(Sainton-Dolby Scholar and Certificate, R.A.M.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Strathearn, Broadhurst Gardens, West Hampstead, N.W.

MISS FANNIE SELLERS (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Recitals, &c., Crag Cottage, Knaresbro'.

MISS LUCIE GOODWIN (Mezzo-Soprano)
(Pupil of Mr. Boulcott Newth; Exhibitioner, G.S.M.; of Crystal Palace Promenade Concerts).
For Concerts, At Homes, Oratorios, and Lessons. Address, Holly Bank, South Norwood Park.

MISS HULDA SIMONS (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, or Private Lessons.
Address, 17, Philbeach Gardens, S.W.
"Miss Hulda Simons, a clever mezzo-soprano singer, sang with much skill and taste Brahms's 'Von ewiger Liebe,' Rossini's 'Di tanti palpiti,' and other songs. Her voice is of most agreeable quality and well trained."—The Times, May 6, 1896.

MISS MARY WILLIS (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, or Private Lessons, address, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MISS BERYL CLIVE (Contralto)
"Prominent among the artists was Miss Beryl Clive, a vocalist of more than average ability. She possesses a rich contralto voice of excellent range, and sang with the skill and intelligence of an accomplished artist."—Nottingham Daily Guardian, Dec. 4, 1895.
"Messiah," Town Hall, Stourbridge.—"Miss Clive has a deep and powerful contralto voice, and her singing was marked by power, sweetness, and pathos. Although her interpretation of all her pieces was of a finished character, yet we think she reached her highest point of excellence in the exquisite air 'He shall feed His flock like a shepherd.'"—Stourbridge Advertiser, Jan. 4, 1896.
Address, 30, Pepys Road South, St. Catherine's Park, S.E.

MISS EMILY FOXCROFT, A.L.A.M. (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, At Homes, &c.
76, Calabria Road, Highbury Place, N.

MR. HERBERT CLINCH
Oratorios, Ballads, At Homes, &c.
Address, 41, Frederick Street, St. John's Wood, N.W.

MR. JOHN W. STOKER (Tenor)
(Llandaff Cathedral).
"Mr. Stoker possesses a remarkably sweet voice, which evidences careful training."—Western Mail.
For Concerts, &c., address, The Cathedral.

MR. NORMAN WALLS (Tenor)
(Pupil of Isidore de Solla).
Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, 109, Grosvenor Road, Highbury New Park, London, N.

MR. HERBERT ALDRIDGE (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, Saxonbury Villa, Buxton Road, Stratford, E.

MR. DANIEL PRICE (Baritone)
Westminster Abbey. Address, 18, Clarendon Road, W.

MR. TOM WATERHOUSE (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Operas, &c.
"Renders his songs in an artistic manner."—Era, June 6, 1896. Booked July 26 to August 15, the Pier, Morecambe. Return engagement. A few open dates. Terms, &c., 49, Tatton St., Stalybridge.

MR. ALFRED OSMOND (Bass)
(Pupil of Mr. Fred. Walker).
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 39, Gayton Road, Hampstead, N.W.

MISS VIOLET NICHOLSON
(Solo Mandolinist)
3, Upper Montagu Street, Hyde Park, W.

MISS HELEN BUCKLEY (Soprano). Monday Pops., Crystal Palace, Queen's Hall, leading London, Provincial, and American Concerts. Extensive répertoire. Send for latest prospectus. 298, Regent Street, London, W.

MR. W. CARTLEDGE-WHITE (Tenor) requests that all communications respecting Concerts, Oratorios, Operas, &c., be addressed to 7, Guildford Road, South Lambeth, S.W.

MR. WILLIAM WILD (Tenor), of the "Sir Charles and Lady Hallé South African Concert Tour, 1895." (Pupil of Andrew Black, Esq.) For Oratorios, Orchestral Concerts, &c. "Specially recommended by Sir Charles Hallé for concert work." Terms, Press notices, &c., Grosvenor Square, Stalybridge, near Manchester.

MR. GORDON HELLER.—"A powerful and high baritone. Many of his songs were well sung."—The Times. "Sings with taste and judgment."—The Morning. "Voice of musical quality and considerable power."—The Standard. "Good voice, which he knows how to employ."—Morning Post. "Sang with much artistic feeling and intelligence."—Truth. For Oratorios, &c., address, care of N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London, W.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass, Conductor, Italian Church, Hatton Garden) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Opera, or Concerts be addressed, 45, Pentonville Road, N.

MISS GRACE M. SMITH, L.R.A.M. and Gold Medalist, L.A.M., accepts ENGAGEMENTS for Concerts as Solo Pianist and Accompanist. Killiney, Sidcup.

MISS ADA LOARING
(SOPRANO)
Merrion, Wellington Road, Peckham, S.E.

MADAME LAURA SMART
(SOPRANO)
Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Ballad Concerts.
Address, 106, Bolingbroke Grove, Wandsworth Common, S.W.; or, 50, Church Street, Liverpool.

MADAME MARIE HOOTON
AND MR.
EDWARD BRANSCOMBE
Beg to announce that they will return from Australia by the end of September and are at liberty to accept Engagements for London and Provinces from October 1 onwards.
Please address, care of H. F. Salmon, Esq., The Woodlands, Etherow Street, East Dulwich, S.E.; or, Messrs. Healey and Son, 17, Great Marlborough Street, W.

MR. CHARLES CHILLEY
Begs to announce that he has REMOVED to 38, Carson Road, West Dulwich, S.E.

MR.
HAMLYN CRIMP
(TENOR)
For terms and vacant dates, please apply, The Woodlands, Heathfield Road, Birmingham.
Concert Parties arranged.

Communications for
MR. DOUGLAS POWELL
until his return in September from Australian tour, may be addressed 44, Dafforne Road, Upper Tooting, S.W.; or principal Agents.

MR. JOS. REED
Principal Tenor, Trinity College, Cambridge.
Queen's College Concert.—Soloists: Madame Clara Samuell and Mr. Jos. Reed.—"Mr Reed sang Newton's 'Ailsa Mine' and Balfe's 'Come into the garden, Maud,' and was enthusiastically encored for each."—Cambridge Express.
For terms, &c., Garden Walk, Cambridge.

CHARLES KNOWLES
(BARITONE)
For Oratorios and Ballad Concerts. Engaged Nov. 3, Leeds Choral Union ("Faust").
For terms, vacant dates, and Press notices, address, 61, Burley St., Leeds.

MISS ALICE MARY SMITH
(Mrs. Alfred Dymes),
Associate of the Royal College of Music,
HARPIST,
16, Lancaster Road, W.

SOLO BOYS.
LONDON TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CHORISTERS.
President: Mr. RANDEGGER.
Principal: Mr. JAMES BATES.
Solo Boys available for Church Festivals, At Homes, Concerts, &c. Boys trained for Cathedral Scholarships. Address, Mr. G. E. Jeffries, Secretary, Church House, Porchester Terrace, Hyde Park, W.

MR.
BLAXLAND'S SOLO BOYS
HIGHLY TRAINED. THOROUGHLY RELIABLE.
For Church Festivals, Concerts, Banquets, &c., are prepared with the principal Oratorios and Standard Works, Ballads, &c.
A Chorus of Fifty Boys available week-days.
Also the noted Soprano Solo Boy (pupil of Mr. Blaxland), Master
STERNDALE BENNETT
(Chester and Leeds Festivals, 1894, Queen's Hall, &c.).
Highly recommended by SIR JOHN STAINER, M.A., Mus. Doc., Oxon.; C. H. H. PARRY, Mus. Doc., Oxon. et Cantab.; JOSEPH BRIDGE, M.A., Mus. Doc., &c., and many other leading Musicians.
MASTER BENNETT is exceptionally gifted (he can sing a shake with ease) and has an extensive répertoire.
Mr. BLAXLAND recommends as a novelty for Concerts, Banquets, &c., his "BOYS' TRIO,"
whose répertoire consists of Trios, Duets, and Solos.
For terms, &c., address, Mr. BLAXLAND, 15, Tavistock Crescent, Westbourne Park, W.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) supplies Solo Boys, personally trained, for Church Festivals, Organ Recitals, At Homes, Garden Parties, Bazaars, Concerts, &c.
For vacant dates, terms, and further particulars, address—
Mr. HENRY J. DUTTON, 19, Alpha Road, New Cross, S.E.

MR. JOSEF CANTOR'S
"GEMS OF THE OPERAS"
CONCERT COMPANY.
All communications, Church Street, Liverpool.
Telegrams—"Cantor, Liverpool."

EDWARD LANGDON'S
"VOCAL GEMS"
OPERATIC CONCERT COMPANY, LIMITED.
"A most enjoyable Concert."—Scarborough Post.
"The audience was large and decidedly appreciative."—Yorkshire Post.
"Programme admirably carried out."—Leeds Mercury.
For terms, vacant dates, &c., apply, Registered Address, 1, Greenmount Place, Beeston Hill, Leeds.

THE COWARD-KEMPTON QUARTET.
ALTO: Mr. PERCY COWARD; TENOR: Mr. ARTHUR COWARD; BARITONE: Mr. RANDULPH COWARD; BASS: Mr. BELL KEMPTON.
For Concerts, &c. Terms on application to Arthur Coward (care of Metzler and Co., Ltd.), Great Marlborough Street, W.

ROYAL WINDSOR GLEE SINGERS
(Of St. George's Chapel Royal and Eton College Chapel).
For Concerts, Garden Parties, &c. Terms on application to D. Humphreys, 19, The Cloisters, Windsor.

THE ALBION CONCERT BUREAU, 298, Regent Street, London, W., provides reliable ARTISTS for high-class Concerts, Oratorios, and all social functions. Prospectus on application. Telegrams, "Intonale, London."

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.
Examinations for Degrees in Music are held in March and September. Full particulars, with copies of former papers, of Dr. Armes, The Bailey, Durham.

THE CONCERT AGENCY, LIMITED,
65, REGENT STREET, LONDON, W.
Telegraphic Address—"SONGCRAFT, LONDON."
The Concert Agency, Ltd., undertake the management of Concerts, Booking of Tours, and supply Artists for Oratorio, Operatic, and Miscellaneous Concerts, At Homes, and other Social Receptions, &c.
AUTUMN TOURS:—
THE BAND OF H.M. FIRST LIFE GUARDS.
M. JULES RIVIÈRE'S GRAND ORCHESTRA.
THE ENGLISH OPERA SINGERS.
Miss EDITH SERPELL. | Miss BLANCHE MURRAY.
Mr. WILLIAM BIRTLEY. | Mr. W. H. WEBB.
Original Musical Sketches: Mr. FREDERIC DALE.
All communications respecting dates, &c., for the above parties to be addressed to Mr. CECIL BARTH, Managing Director.

THE
ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.
The Solo-playing Tests for the Fellowship Examination in July will be:—Toccata in D minor, W. G. Wood (Novello and Co.); Prelude (in 3-2 time) and Fugue in G major, Bach (No. 2, Book 4, Peters, and in Book 7, Novello's edition); Finale, Sonata in C minor, Reubke.
The Midsummer Fellowship Examination will be held on July 13, (14, Paper Work day), 15, 16, 17; Diploma Distribution, 18.
The Associate Examinations will take place on July 20 (21, Paper Work day), 22, 23, 24; Diploma Distribution, 25.
All Candidates for the next Examinations, including those claiming exemption from fee, must send in their names for Fellowship by June 27; for Associateship by July 4. In the case of new Members, proposal forms, duly filled up, must be sent in by June 25.
The Annual College Dinner will take place on July 1, at 7, at the Holborn Restaurant. The Chair will be taken by J. W. Sidebotham, Esq., M.P., Mus. Bac., Vice-President of the College.
The Annual General Meeting will be held on July 28, at 8.
The College Library is open daily, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; also on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5 to 7.
Members desiring practice on the College Organ may obtain particulars on application.
The large Hall, and sundry smaller rooms, may be hired for concerts, meetings, &c.
E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.
Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

GUILD OF CHURCH MUSICIANS
(CHURCH CHOIR GUILD),
Founded 1888.
35, WELLINGTON STREET, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.
President: The Very Rev. FRANCIS PIGOU, D.D., Dean of Bristol.
Warden and Licensed Lay Chaplain: J. H. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.
Sub-Warden: F. J. KARN, Mus. Doc., F.G.C.M.

MUSICAL PATRONS:
Frederic H. Cowen, Esq.; George Riseley, Esq., R.A.M.; W. H. Longhurst, Esq., Mus. Doc., F.R.C.O.; Berthold Tours, Esq.; Edwin M. Lott, Esq., Mus. Doc., F.R.C.O.; G. Robertson Sinclair, Esq.; H. E. Ford, Esq., Mus. Doc.; J. M. W. Young, Esq.; Arthur Henry Brown, Esq.; Alfred J. Caldicott, Esq., Mus. Doc.; William Spark, Esq., Mus. Doc., F.R.C.O., &c.

Lecture.—June 4, at 5 p.m., "Sight-Singing Simplified," by John Taylor, Esq.
A.G.C.M. and F.G.C.M. Diploma Examinations, July 8 and 9, 1896. Names should be sent in not later than June 20.
Two French Lydall Exhibitions for Organ Accompaniment, each of the value of £5. Examination, July 9, 1896.
Annual Membership or Choir Enrolment, 10s. 6d. Life, £5 5s.
Calendar (7th edition), revised, now ready, 1s., post-free.
Set of last Examination Papers, 1s., post-free.
Representatives required in England and abroad.
Free Register for Organists requiring appointments.
For further particulars, apply to the Warden for a prospectus.
By Order of the Council.

THE HOLLAND ACADEMY FOR VOICE PRODUCTION AND SINGING.—84, New Bond Street, W.
Principal, Mr. EDWIN HOLLAND.
Michaelmas Term commences Oct. 2. Entrance Examination, Sept. 25, 3-5 p.m. The competition for the Holland Scholarship (one year's free tuition under Mr. Edwin Holland), open to all voices, will be held on Sept. 24. Entrance forms, prospectus, and all details can be obtained from E. L. Barry, Secretary.

THE VIRGIL CLAVIER PIANOFORTE METHOD. — Mr. STIEBLER COOK, A.R.A.M., gives LESSONS on the above system (recommended by Paderewski, Von Bülow, De Pachmann). By far the most rapid and certain means yet devised for acquiring a perfect technique. For particulars, address, 17, Keppel St., Russell Sq., W.C.; or, Secretary, Metropolitan College of Music, 415, Holloway Road, N., where Mr. Cook also receives Pupils.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Instituted by the Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.
Incorporated, 1891.

Patrons:
The Rt. Hon. THE MARQUIS OF LORNE, K.T.
The Rt. Hon. THE EARL OF DARTMOUTH.
Director:
J. H. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.
Registrar:
GEORGE PRIOR, Mus. Doc., Oxon.
Bursar:
W. F. W. JACKSON, Mus. Bac., Oxon.

Local and Higher (Practical) Examinations are now being held at various Local Centres.

METROPOLITAN EXAMINATION, in all Subjects, and for all Grades, including the Diplomas of Associate (A.V.C.M.), Associate in Music (A.Mus.V.C.M.), Licentiate (L.V.C.M.), and Licentiate in Music (L.Mus.V.C.M.) will be held on July 16, 1896.

Next Local Theoretical Examination at all Local Centres, July 15, 1896.

The Educational Department is under the direction of Dr. Prior.

Local Secretaries required for towns not already represented.

Full particulars on application.

GEO. A. STANTON, F.G.C.M., Secretary.

Central Office: 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

THE
WEST LONDON CONSERVATOIRE OF MUSIC,
75, THE GROVE, HAMMERSMITH, W.

Patrons: Sir LIONEL DARELL, Bart., C. J. MONK, M.P., F. H. COWEN, C. LEE WILLIAMS, HUGH BLAIR, and G. ROBERTSON SINCLAIR, Esqrs., Mrs. ELLICOTT, and Mrs. S. E. PHILLIPS.
Visitor: Sir ARTHUR SULLIVAN.
President: Miss HILDA WILSON.
Vice-President: WATKIN MILLS, Esq.

Professors: Mrs. Mary Davies, Mrs. Hutchinson, Madame Frickenhaus, Madame Annie Marriott, Misses Margaret Hoare and Agnes Wilson, Messrs. Johannes Wolff, W. H. Brereton, Bantock Pierpoint, Charles Fry, Franklin Clive, C. A. Connock, Wilfrid Bendall, W. H. Eayres, R. B. Addison, Septimus Webbe, Ernest Kiver, W. C. Hann, W. Stroud Wilson, Bernhard Carrodus, G. R. Betjemann, E. A. Carrodus, and others.

Directors of Studies: Miss Agnes Wilson and W. Stroud Wilson, Esq.

For further particulars, address Secretary.

FROM BRAIN TO KEYBOARD.

MACDONALD SMITH'S SYSTEM
FOR
TOUCH AND TECHNIQUE.

As acquired and in daily use by Professionals and Amateurs in all parts of the United Kingdom, in the United States, Canada, Australia, South Africa, &c.

"It is clear that Mr. Macdonald Smith has studied the subject carefully, and acts upon well-ascertained scientific grounds."—Daily Telegraph.

"The great, the supreme merit of Mr. Smith's system consists in the fact that it involves the total abolition and disestablishment of all that terrible scale practising and five-finger exercising."—Westminster Gazette, November 20, 1895.

"We make no comparisons, but say simply, from personal experience, that Mr. Smith's system of training does all that he claims for it. . . . The interest it immediately excited, and still sustains, bears witness to the value of Mr. Smith's researches in the science of physiology for the benefit of musicians."—Musical News.

COMPLETE COURSE OF SIX LESSONS
By Correspondence, £3 3s. Form on application.

Terms and conditions for Personal Lessons (Concert Players only) on application.

Lecture at Musical Association, Trinity College, &c.
Post-free, Seven Stamps.

ENLARGED PROSPECTUS, POST-FREE.

MACDONALD SMITH, STEINWAY HALL,
Lower Seymour Street, London, W.

A MUS. BAC., Cantab., teaches HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT by Correspondence. A., Clarence Villas, East Dereham, Norfolk.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. New House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who OBTAINED DEGREES OF MUS.D. AND MUS.B. at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, and Durham (1896) Universities, Diplomas of L.R.A.M. (1896, &c.), A.Mus. L.C.M., L.Mus. L.C.M., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O. (1895); Appointments at College and School of Music, and as Chapel Royal, Cathedral, and Parish Church Organists; Gold Medals, Prizes, "Honours" and Pass Certificates (of the Colleges of Music) to the number of 500. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Piano. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS. Dr. Horton Allison, Mus.D. 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or at 84, New Bond Street, W. Schools attended. Address, Willersley House, Old Charlton.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.Mus., T.C.L., prepares CANDIDATES for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; L.Mus. T.C.L., gives LESSONS Personally or by post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: A.R.C.M., 1896; Oxford, Mus. Bac., 1896, and First Exam., May, 1896; MUS. BAC., DURHAM, 1895, also 1894, 1893, 1892, and 1891; and FIRST EXAM., 1895, also 1894, 1893, 1892, 1891, and 1890; F.R.C.O. and A.R.C.O., 1896; L.R.A.M. (Pianoforte), 1895; CAMBRIDGE, MUS. BAC.; LONDON, MUS. BAC.; DUBLIN, MUS. BAC.; L.R.A.M.(Composition); Mus. Bac. and Mus. Doc., Toronto, Gold Medalists, 1890, 1892, and 1893; L.Mus., L.C.M.; L.Mus., T.C.L., and A.T.C.L., 1895; Senior Local R.A.M. and R.C.M. Special and individual attention given to Correspondents. Upwards of 350 Diplomas and Degrees and several Gold and Silver Medals gained by pupils. MSS. corrected and revised for publication. Terms moderate. Address, 70, Park Road. Haverstock Hill, London, N.W.

MR. W. E. PITMAN, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., teaches HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT, personally or by correspondence, and coaches for the Universities, Royal College of Organists, and other Musical Exams. Thorough grounding in the various subjects. For terms, address, W. E. Pitman, Waverley Hotel, London Bridge, S.E.

MR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., Lecturer on Harmony in King's College, Lond., Organist and Choirmaster, St. Stephen's, South Kensington. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS. HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., personally or by correspondence. Preparation for University, R.C.O., and other examinations. Classes. 54, Baron's Court Road, West Kensington, W.

MR. J. HARRAWAY SLAPE visits and receives PUPILS for ORGAN, PIANOFORTE, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Preparation for all Musical Exams. Recent successes, A.T.C.L., Certificated Pianist, Trinity College, 1895. Special facilities to Organ Students. Practice on 2 and 3-Manual Instruments. Terms moderate. 22, Camden Road, N.W.

MR. BRUCE STEANE prepares rapidly and systematically for MUSICAL EXAMS. in all subjects, personally or by post. Many past successes. Address, Greystone, Granville Road, Sevenoaks.

MR. R. STOKOE, Mus. Bac., Cantab., F.R.C.O., gives ORGAN LESSONS at Christ Church, Down Street, Piccadilly. Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., taught personally or by post. 86, Rossiter Road, Balham, S.W.

DR. TAYLOR, Mus.D., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.T.C.L. (Author of "Vocal Score Reading Exercises" and "Figured Bass and Melody Exercises," for R.C.O. Students), prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Address, Wolverhampton Road, Stafford.

DR. THOMAS (Mus. Doc., Oxon.; Org. and C.M., St. Clement's; Conductor, Phil.) has VACANCY for YOUTH as Resident Pupil. Thorough training; Univ. degree. Prep. for all exams. "Carlyle," Boscombe, Bournemouth.

MR. A. W. TOMLYN, Mus.B., Dunelm, L.T.C.L., Berwick-on-Tweed, COACHES CANDIDATES for University and all other Exams. by post. Every possible attention and assistance guaranteed. Many past successes.

DR. H. W. WAREING (Mus. Doc., Cantab.) PREPARES PUPILS by Correspondence for University and other Musical Exams. Latest successes:—Prelim. Mus. Bac., Cantab., May, 1896 (two passes: one first in first-class), and Final Mus. Bac., Oxon., Nov., 1895. Address, The Elms, King's Norton, Birmingham.

MR. W. H. TUTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, ACOUSTICS, &c., by Correspondence. Ashburn, Derbyshire.

MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS REVISED. HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT taught by Correspondence. W. Wolstenholme, Mus. Bac., Oxon., 86, Oswald Street, Blackburn.

TO MUSICAL COMPOSERS.—The Society of Authors is established for the MAINTENANCE and DEFENCE of LITERARY and MUSICAL PROPERTY. It advises Members on the Methods of Publishing, on the forms of their Agreements, and, when necessary, on the estimated cost of production. It investigates all questions of dispute connected with the above subjects and the Law of Copyright. Annual Subscription, £1 1s. Terms of Membership may be had from the Secretary,
G. HERBERT THRING,
4, Portugal Street,
Lincoln's Inn Fields, W.C.

ALTO SPECIALIST.—Mr. HAYDN GROVER, with fifteen years' continuous experience as a Solo Artist, accepts Pupils. Address, 141, Regent Street, W.

TO TEACHERS!!!

SUMMER SESSION.

THE

NORMAL or TEACHERS' COURSE

OF THE

VIRGIL PIANO SCHOOL

AND

SCHOOL OF PUBLIC PERFORMANCE.

A FOUR WEEKS' COURSE IN TECHNIC AND METHOD OF PIANOFORTE INSTRUCTION
FOR TEACHERS AND PLAYERS

TERM BEGINS TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 21, 1896;
CLOSES SATURDAY EVENING, AUGUST 15.

Special Classes will be arranged to accommodate any teachers who find it impossible to attend before the end of July.

A. K. VIRGIL .. .. PRINCIPAL.
Specialist in Pianoforte Technic.
Assisted by Competent Teachers trained in the Special Methods employed.
ALBERT BATE .. .. SECRETARY,
And Assistant Instructor.

(The Practice Clavier and Clavier Method gives a positive and perfect technic, and establishes a Complete System of Foundation Instruction.)

Send for Circular containing full particulars.

CLAVIER HALL,
12, PRINCES STREET, HANOVER SQ., LONDON, W.

P.S.—Circular of Practice Clavier and Professional Opinions, in regard to same, sent FREE to any address.

ST. GEORGE'S CHOIR SCHOOL, Windsor Castle.—An ELECTION will be held during the last week of July to TWO CHORISTERSHIPS. Candidates must be not less than eight years of age and the sons of gentlemen. The School is preparatory for the Public Schools. Particulars from H. F. W. Deane, Esq., M.A., St. George's School, Windsor Castle.

KING'S COLLEGE, Cambridge.—CHORISTERSHIPS.—The TRIAL of VOICES to fill vacancies in the Choir School will be held on August 6. Candidates must have a good ear and good voice, and should be between nine and twelve years of age. For particulars, apply to the Dean. Names to be sent in by July 30.

LINCOLN CATHEDRAL CHOIR.—BOYS WANTED, to supply VACANCIES. Competition, July 28. For particulars, apply to the Precentor, Lincoln.

FARM STREET CHURCH.—WANTED, Two TREBLES. Aged between 11 and 12. £8-£10 per annum. Apply, Conductor of Choir, 114, Mount Street, W.

BROMPTON ORATORY CHOIR.—ALTO and LEADING BOY WANTED. Salary, respectively, £25 per annum. Apply, personally, to Mr. Nolan, 48, Leicester Square.

WANTED, at once, an ALTO for West-End Church. Must be a good reader. £8 per annum. Apply, A. B., 57, Regent Street, W.

ALTO WANTED, for St. Botolph, Aldersgate. £10. Also, TENOR, £8. Must be Communicants. Good choir. Apply, at Church, to Mr. Walter E. Mansell, Monday or Thursday evenings, at 7.30 p.m.

ALTO and BASS WANTED, for Holy Trinity Church, Gray's Inn Road. Salary, £10 per year each. Apply to Organist.

TENOR and ALTO REQUIRED, in September, for West-End Church. Salary, £20. One month's holiday. Good voice and quick reader indispensable. Apply, by letter, Mr. Augustus Toop, 60, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, at once, SOLO TENOR for St. Saviour's Church, Upper Chelsea. Salary, £25 per annum. First-rate reader essential. Also Deputy-Organist (for Evensong, on Mondays and Thursdays, at 6 p.m.). Practice and Lessons given in return. Apply, by letter only, to H. A. Wheeldon, Mus. Bac., 5, Beauchamp Place, S.W.

TENOR WANTED, St. Mary's, West Kensington. Sundays, 11 and 7. Thursday rehearsal, 8.15. Address, Dr. Verrinder, 1, Finborough Road, S.W.

BANGOR CATHEDRAL.—TENOR WANTED. Choral Services on all Sundays (twice) and Saints' days. Evensong daily (once) for four months, and on all Saturdays and Vigils throughout the year. Stipend, about £37. Applications to be sent to the Chapter Clerk, with testimonials and references, stating age and experience, not later than July 3, 1896.

CHOIRBOYS available for permanent SUNDAY ENGAGEMENTS. Anglican Services. West or South-West London preferred. Address, Mr. G. E. Jeffries, Secretary, London Training School for Choristers, Church House, Porchester Terrace, Hyde Park, W.

FORTY thoroughly-trained Choirboys, holding appointments as soloists or leading boys in London Churches, are prepared to accept ENGAGEMENTS in provincial Churches during August and September. Terms extremely moderate. Address, Mr. G. E. Jeffries, as above.

ALTO (experienced) desires to join MALE-VOICE CHOIR. P., 38, Nightingale Road, Harlesden, N.W.

TENOR (good ballad singer and used to quartets) would like to join CONCERT PARTY during August or part of September. G. B., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

CHOIRMASTER (or Tenor Soloist). A professional musician, who has held present appointment as Choirmaster for ten years, wishes for a CHANGE. Conductor of Choral Societies, School Choirs, &c. Address, Excelsior, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 80 and 81, Queen Street, Cheapside, E.C.

WANTED, an ORGANIST, for St. Michael's Cathedral, Barbadoes, W.I., who is also to be responsible for the efficient training of the Choir. Salary, £150 per annum, with fees. There is also a fair prospect in the island of obtaining pupils for musical training generally.

Applications, accompanied by testimonials, addressed, Vestry Clerk's Office, James Street, Bridgetown, Barbadoes, W.I., must be forwarded to the undersigned not later than the 31st July next.

By order, C. BYRON WARREN,
Clerk to the Vestry of the Parish of St. Michael.
Vestry Clerk's Office, James Street, Barbadoes, W.I.,
May 30, 1896.

ORGANIST WANTED. Church of the Messiah, Birmingham (Unitarian). Applications, by letter only, stating age, experience, testimonials, salary. E. H. Lee, 18, Newhall Street, Birmingham.

DEPUTY-ORGANIST WANTED, for August. Rooms and attendance in return for duties. Episcopal service. Two-manual organ. Arthur Poyser, Dunblane, Perthshire.

ORGANIST.—PERCY H. FELL (late of St. Mark's, South Norwood) takes Vacation Duties, &c. Address, 1, Farquhar Road, Upper Norwood, S.E.

VACATION DUTIES.—Mr. CHAS. J. LEE, F.R.C.O., Organist and Choirmaster, is open to DEPUTISE, or Permanent Post. 14, Clarence Road, Kilburn, N.W.

ORGANIST (five years' experience), who at present holds a good appointment in the West of Scotland, is desirous of getting an APPOINTMENT near or in a large town. First-class testimonials. Apply, D. P. T., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TO PROVINCIAL ORGANISTS.—A London Organist would like to DEPUTISE during August or September, for use of Cottage (seaside preferred), or would exchange duties. A.R.C.O., 53, Leconfield Road, Highbury, N.

EXPERIENCED ORGANIST, F.R.C.O., A.R.A.M., will be at liberty to take VACATION DUTIES during August and September. On the East or North-East coast. Any service, Anglican or Gregorian. Apply, S. C., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST.—MR. F. J. MARCHMENT takes VACATION or occasional SUNDAY WORK, Oratorio Accompaniments, &c. Wingfield, Hamlet Road, Upper Norwood, S.E.

MUSIC MASTER of a First-class Preparatory School would like to DEPUTISE (fortnight or three weeks) at a country village Church, from about August 20. Choral Service; Anglican chants. Derbyshire or Yorkshire (inland) preferred. Address, Graduate, South C.C., 40, White Rock, Hastings.

EDGBASTON HIGH SCHOOL for GIRLS, Limited.—HEAD MUSIC MISTRESS (Piano) WANTED, in September. Apply, stating age, experience, and terms, with testimonials, to the Head Mistress, 34, Hagley Road, Birmingham, not later than July 9.

TUNER WANTED. Must be experienced and practical. State age, wages, and references. Enclose C.D.V., with stamped addressed envelope. Address, Provincial, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER WANTED. Thoroughly experienced practical man, gentlemanly address. Must be an efficient tuner of both Pianos and Organs. Good salesman. Send full particulars, C.D.V., to Concert Pitch, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

WANTED, TUNER, for town and country work. Steady, energetic, and good address. Must understand American Organs and Harmoniums. State age, salary required, references, &c. Music Warehouse, London House, Evesham.

TUNER WANTED. Must have first-class references and well up in Tuning. Married preferred. Good berth in Midlands. Reply, and say experience, age, salary, to M. N. W., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER (good) desires ENGAGEMENT, three days weekly, in or near London. Understands American Organs and Harmoniums. T., 173, Pentonville Road, N.

PIANOFORTE TUNER, reliable and steady, seeks ENGAGEMENT. Knowledge of American Organs and Harmoniums, &c. Tuner, F. E., Novello and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER seeks SITUATION, Out-door (35). Many years' experience. Good testimonials. Address, Alpha, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

EXPERIENCED TUNER seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT. Knowledge of Reed work, &c. Address, Tricord, Clevelands, Teddington, Middlesex.

YOUNG MAN, aged 20, seeks employment as IMPROVER to Tuning; can repair. 3½ years' experience. P. S., 22, Grosvenor Street, Camberwell.

WANTED, a Person to canvass ORDERS for a valuable Musical Work, in Wales and Border Counties. Apply, Phillips and Son, Express Office, Newtown, North Wales.

OUT-DOOR APPRENTICE, Music Warehouses, Devon. Proprietor a practical man of thirty years' experience. Every facility for all details. No premium if fairly good pianoforte player. Nicklin, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

GENTLEMAN requires APPOINTMENT as MANAGER or PIANOFORTE SALESMAN in a Music Business, in or near London or in the South of England, or as Traveller for a high-class firm of Pianoforte Manufacturers. Good address, twenty years' experience. Well-known by the best London firms. Speaks and writes fluently French and German. Knows the Continent well. Address, M. B. 5, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

YOUNG MAN (20) of good character, life abstainer, can play the Pianoforte and Organ, and has had moderate experience in Tuning Pianofortes, desires SITUATION in MUSIC SHOP. Willing to be generally useful. W. M. Senior, Westgate, Honley, Huddersfield.

ORGAN PRACTICE (City) 1s. per hour. Three manuals, C.O. pedals. Willis (from Minories), 2, Church Row, Aldgate, E.C.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals; independent pedals. Terms, One Shilling per hour. Specification post-free. Blennerhasset's Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, King's Cross, W.C.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN, blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depôt, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

CHURCH ORGAN for SALE, now standing in Trinity Presbyterian Church, Claughton, Birkenhead. Built by Brindley and Foster, 1873, containing 2 manuals, CC to A, and Pedal Organ, 30 notes: great, 7 stops; swell, 7 stops; pedal, 2 stops, 4 couplers, and 7 composition pedals. Designed by W. T. Best, Esq. To be sold to make room for larger instrument now in course of construction. Apply to W. H. Ziegler, Esq., 13, Romford Street, Liverpool; or, Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Builders, 46, Queen Victoria Street, London, E.C. Price £175.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand) for SALE, from £20, with pedals. Instruments for Church, Chapel, and College, built on the most modern principles, at Bedwell and Sons, Cambridge Organ Works, Cambridge.

CHURCH ORGAN for SALE, now standing in the Chapel of Trinity College, Oxford. To be sold to make room for new organ now in course of construction. Great organ, 7 stops; swell, 8 stops; pedal, 1 stop; couplers, 4 stops, and 4 composition pedals. Built by Holditch. Can be seen by appointment. Apply to Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Builders, 46, Queen Victoria Street, London; or, at Norwich. Price £125.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand), excellent for Church or Chapel, two manuals, modern compass and appliances, having 9, 12, 17 stops. W. E. Richardson and Sons, Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

ORGAN for SALE.—Now standing in the Parish Church, Malpas, Cheshire. Two manuals and pedals; 18 stops. To make room for larger instrument. Price £100. For particulars, address, R. C. Moore, The Groves, Malpas, Cheshire.

SMALL PIPE ORGAN, with Pedals, for SALE. Full particulars on application. Powell, Eggington, Leighton Buzzard, Beds.

AMERICAN ORGAN, 8½ guineas. 11 stops, including the two knee-stops, and the beautiful solo stops vox celeste and vox humana, two octave couplers. Handsome high case. Ten years' warranty. Easy terms. Packing and carriage free. T. D'Almaine and Co. (Established from 110 to 111 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, E.C. Open till 7; Saturdays, 3.

WANTED, to Purchase, a CHAMBER ORGAN, with two manuals and pedals. One built for a gentleman's house preferred. Address, A. Lusk, St. Moritz, Windsor.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easy to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus, with full description and price lists, on application to Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

FOR SALE.—A PEDAL PIANO, by Challen and Son. Fitted with Rushden's Pedals and Seat. Complete; in good order. Price very moderate. Would suit an Organ Student. Apply at 46, Oxford Street, London, W.

KAPS overstrung oblique; PANZER SYSTEM, Perfectly new. List price, £80. For prompt cash, £38 10s. BROADWOOD Oblique, ebonised ormolu, and solid brass case. List price, 105 guineas. For cash, £45. Gray, 43, Rathbone Place, Oxford Street, W.

PIANO, 12½ guineas. Solid iron frame, trichord, full compass, celeste action, in handsome walnut case. Ten years' warranty. Easy terms; approval; carriage free. D'Almaine (Established from 110 to 111 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, City. Open till 7; Saturdays, 3.

SPINET for SALE. Maker, Harriss. Date, 1770. Full particulars, post-free. A. M. Jarvis, Lavender Bank, Farningham.

VIOLIN STRINGS.—Send 9d. for samples of four best "E" Strings. Alphonse Cary, 3, Oxford Circus Avenue, London, W.

T. R. WILLIS (from Minories, est. 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Strings, Wire, Violins, Concertinas, &c. 2, Church Row, Aldgate, E.C.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications. Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. R. Willis (from Minories), 2, Church Row, Aldgate, London, E.C.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,

Organ Builders,

SPRINGWOOD WORKS,

HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,

ORGAN BUILDERS,

PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.

(ESTABLISHED 1841.)

Specifications and Estimates sent free.

HYDRAULIC ENGINES for Organ Blowing. Blennerhasset's Patent "Perfect" Prize Medal Engines are the best. 1B, Vernon Street, King's Cross Road, London, W.C.

Awarded Medal of Honour at the International Inventions Exhibition, London, 1885.

THE ONLY AWARD.

RUMMENS'
Organ Pedal Attachment
FOR PIANOFORTES.

DETACHABLE PEDAL BOARD.
EQUAL TO ORGAN PRACTICE.

Testimonials from all the Chief Organists of the day.
Write for particulars to
H. J. RUMMENS,
47, CHURCH ROAD, BRIXTON, S.W.

CASSOCKS.—500 new Tailor-made, Black, Red, Violet, Blue, 9s. to 20s.; SURPLICES, from 3s. to 12s. "Surplice," The Church Agency, Limited, Lombard House, E.C.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights, Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, and PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.
London: B. WILLIAMS, 19, Ivy Lane, Paternoster Row, E.C.

TO EDITORS of CHURCH MUSIC.—New Hymn Tunes, Chants, Kyries, &c., sent for free insertion by P. T. LUCAS, Yarlet Hall, Stafford.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE BOOK, with the additional Tunes as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Third Thousand.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in G. By ALFRED J. DYE. Price 4d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Fourth Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat, by WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F. By JOHN E. CAMPBELL, A.R.C.O. In the Press, price 4d. Specimen copies, free, from COMPOSER, 22, Vicarage Street, Hollinwood, Oldham, when ready.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS. By Rev. A. LUCAS. Recently published by NOVELLO and Co., London. Price 3d. Music simple and bright. Copies from NOVELLO, or from Composer, Rev. A. LUCAS, Fermoy, Cork, Ireland.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Creation." 1s. each book.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Revised Edition. Price 6s.

PARR'S PSALMODY: 402 Tunes, 345 Chants, and various Responses, free from modern tinkering, with Biographical and Historical information not to be found elsewhere.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now Ready. On the 1st of each Month. 228 Cols. 2d.; Post-free, 3½d.
MUSICAL OPINION and MUSIC TRADE REVIEW. 150, Holborn Bars, E.C.

THE GHOST OF SILVERTON ABBEY.—See Standard correspondence. Two nights in a "Haunted House."—Startling phenomena! 6d. H. A. Fitzmaurice, Avon Lodge, West Kensington.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS. By A. BEN ALLEN.
Tom, the Piper's Son .. .. 3d.
Dickory, dickory, dock .. .. 4d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE BRISTOL TUNE BOOK
COMPLETE EDITION, 1891,
CONTAINING
905 TUNES AND CHANTS.

A COMPANION TO ALL HYMN BOOKS.

		s.	d.
No. 17.	Limp Cloth	5	0
,, 18.	Cloth Boards, red edges	6	0
,, 19.	Small Edition	3	6
,, 20.	Tonic Sol-fa	3	6

Communications and enquiries as to copyright, and also as to supplying at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Bristol Publishers.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Bristol: W. and F. MORGAN, Clare Street.
And all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

CHURCH MUSIC
BY EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D., CANTAB.

SERVICES.

Two Settings of the Venite (in Chant Form). No. 1 (in G), No. 2 (in A)	2d.
Te Deum in E	3d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E	3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E	3d.
Cantate and Deus in E	3d.
Communion Service	9d.
Preces and Responses	4d.
Tonic Sol-fa.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F	1½d.
,, ,, ,, A	1½d.
,, ,, ,, E	1½d.

ANTHEMS.

The Lord hath prepared. Four Voices	3d.
The Lord is my Shepherd ,, ,, ...	3d.
I was glad. Four Voices	3d.
,, Tonic Sol-fa	2d.

TWO NEW SONGS.—Just Published.

"Market Day" (Mezzo-Soprano) .. .. net	2s.
"A toi, Marie" (Mezzo-Soprano) .. .. ,,	2s.

SONG—"By the wayside" (Soprano), with Violin Obbligato and Organ or Harmonium .. .. net 2s.
"The Last Prayer" (Contralto) .. .. .. ,, 2s.

ORGAN.

Twelve Short Easy Pieces .. .. net	2s. 0d.
Three Short Andantes .. .. ,,	2s. 0d.
Minuetto .. .. ,,	1s. 6d.
Ave Maria .. .. ,,	1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

IF FAR BEYOND THE SHADOW AND THE SLEEP
BY A. C. SWINBURNE
SET TO MUSIC BY
WILLIAM S. HANNAM.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEM.
FULL, EASY, EFFECTIVE.
THE LORD HATH BLESSED US WITH INCREASE
BY H. ERNEST NICHOL, Mus. Bac., Oxon.
Price Threepence.
Specimen copy, gratis and post-free, to any Choirmaster, on application to H. E. NICHOL, 19, Louis Street, Hull.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON.

FOR MUSICAL EDUCATION AND EXAMINATION.—INST. 1872.

President:
SIR RICHARD E. WEBSTER, G.C.M.G., Q.C., M.P.

Warden:
PROFESSOR E. H. TURPIN, Mus.D.

Director of Studies:
PROFESSOR BRADBURY TURNER, Mus.B.

Director of Examinations:
PROFESSOR JAMES HIGGS, Mus.B.

Michaelmas Term begins Thursday, October 1.

Local Examinations in Instrumental and Vocal Music are announced to be held at the following centres during July:—Aberystwith, Alton, Banbury, Bedford, Birmingham, Blackpool, Bodmin, Bradford, Bridgnorth, Brighton, Bromley, Cambridge, Cardiff, Carnarvon, Cheltenham, Croydon, Exeter, Fowey, Hereford, Leamington, Leeds, Liverpool, London, Lowestoft, Margate, Newport (Mon.), Norwich, Nottingham, Preston, Reading, Ramsgate, Sleaford, Southend-on-Sea, Stroud, Walsall, Ware, Wellington (Salop), Wisbech, Wolverhampton.

Any or all of the following printed papers may be had on application to the undersigned:—(a) Regulations and list of music to be performed for the local examinations in Instrumental and Vocal Music, and regulations for the (Theoretical) Local Examinations in Musical Knowledge; (b) List of Local Centres; (c) Regulations for the Higher Examinations for Diplomas and Certificates and list of music to be performed for the Higher Certificates in Vocal and Instrumental Subjects; (d) Prospectus of the Classes and Lectures Department; (e) General Prospectus, containing list of honorary officers; (f) Regulations for the Enrolment of Institutions in Union; (g) Regulations for Membership.

By order of the Academical Board,
SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

JUST PUBLISHED.

POSTHUMOUS WORKS
OF
JOSEPH BARNBY.

SING TO THE LORD
ANTHEM FOR HARVEST-TIDE
Price Fourpence.
Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.

O LAMB OF GOD
ANTHEM FOR BASS SOLO AND CHORUS
Price Threepence.
Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THE KISS
PART-SONG FOR FOUR VOICES (A.T.T.B.)
Words, circa 1599.
Price Threepence.

IN LAUDEM AMORIS
("O love! they wrong thee much")
PART-SONG FOR FOUR VOICES (A.T.T.B.)
The words from Captain Hume's "First Book of Airs, 1605."
Price Threepence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

John Broadwood & Sons

(ESTABLISHED 1732)

PIANOFORTE MAKERS

BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT TO

HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES
HER ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCESS OF WALES
HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH
(DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG AND GOTHA)

AND THE

REST OF THE ROYAL FAMILY.

John Broadwood & Sons

respectfully draw attention to, and invite inspection of, their newly introduced and improved straight and cross strung HORIZONTAL
AND
UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES.

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET (near Regent Street),
LONDON, W.

FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.

NOVELLO'S CHEAP EDITION
OF
THE CHORUSES ONLY
OF CANTATAS, ORATORIOS, AND OPERAS.

		s.	d.
BACH.—"Passion" (St. Matthew)		1	0
BEETHOVEN.—"Mount of Olives"	(Paper boards, 1s.)	0	6
	(Tonic Sol-fa)	0	6
BENNETT.—"The May Queen"	(Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1	0
GLUCK.—"Orpheus"	(Tonic Sol-fa)	1	0
GRAUN, C. H.—"The Passion" ("Der Tod Jesu")		1	0
HANDEL.—"Messiah"	(Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0	8
—— "Solomon"		1	6
—— "Judas Maccabæus"	(Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0	8
—— "Saul"		1	0
—— "Hercules"		1	0
—— "L'Allegro, il Pensieroso, ed il Moderato"		1	0
—— "Samson"	(Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0	8
HAYDN.—"The Creation"	(Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0	8
—— "The Seasons"	(Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1	0
MACFARREN, G. A.—"May Day"	(Paper boards, 1s.)	0	6
MENDELSSOHN.—"Elijah"	(Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1	0
—— "St. Paul"	(Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1	0
—— "Hymn of Praise" ("Lobgesang")	(Paper boards, 1s.)	0	6
MOZART.—"Twelfth Mass"		0	8
PARRY, C. H. H.—"Judith"	(Tonic Sol-fa)	2	0
—— "Job"	Tonic Sol-fa)	1	0
ROSSINI.—"Stabat Mater"	(Paper boards, 1s.)	0	6
SPOHR.—"The Last Judgment"	(Paper boards, 1s.)	0	6
VERDI.—"Il Trovatore"	(Tonic Sol-fa)	1	0
WAGNER.—"The Flying Dutchman"		2	0
WEBER.—"Der Freischütz"		1	0
—— "Preciosa"		0	6

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

With this Number is presented gratis an Extra Supplement, consisting of a Patriotic Chorus by Joseph Barnby, entitled "Victoria, our Queen!"

THE MUSICAL TIMES
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
JULY 1, 1896.

SIR F. A. GORE OUSELEY.*

PERHAPS there may be some who think that the life of the late Oxford Professor of Music must have been too uneventful and barren of incident to call for a lengthy biography. But Mr. Joyce has proved himself an admirable biographer; he has told the simple story of Ouseley's career in a manner which makes it certainly delightful reading. He has special qualifications for the task; his grandfather was tutor to Ouseley when a lad of fifteen, his father (Mr. Wayland Joyce, rector of Burford) was one of Ouseley's most intimate friends and advisers, and it is probable that Ouseley's choice of Tenbury as a site for his college was due to a wish to be near to one whom he valued so much. When the author of this biography succeeded his father as rector of Burford, which is within an easy drive of St. Michael's College, he inherited much valuable correspondence, notes, sketches, and other subject-matter, and he could, of course, be constantly in communication with those residents at St. Michael's who loved their Warden so well.

All that Mr. Joyce himself has done is so well done that we almost regret that he introduced appendices by other hands. All musicians are aware that Ouseley was a very remarkable child, and numerous stories have long been current as to his extraordinarily keen ear and musical sensibility. But in the account given by his sister, Miss Ouseley, of his childhood, several things are unintelligible as related by her; for instance, when five years old he was modulating from C minor to D flat minor, and in a report of the conversation with his sister she is said to have asked, "Why did you first strike the chord of C minor before you went to A sharp?" He replied: "Because I thought it sounded so pretty." We confess to be fairly beaten by this "going to A sharp" (p. 20). A little farther on Miss Ouseley writes that the child had been playing the cadence of D, and after repeating it two or three times he dwelt upon the following chord of the added sixth, bass G, with B flat, E and G in the treble stave above; but this is not a chord of the added sixth at all. On the same page she relates that "when asked to go from B sharp to C flat, he immediately remarked that they were the same note"; this fact is new to us; the child then innocently gave as a reason for their being one note that there was "no black note between them on the pianoforte"—this would, of course, make E and F and B and C the same note! Yet these cases are given to show that the child's replies were always "direct to the point." It seems also to us that very undue astonishment and praise are lavished on a simple repetition of C three times, followed by B! But setting aside an ample margin for the exuberant admiration young Ouseley received from his relations and their friends, it is impossible not to see that he had real genius; and when we compare the rich promise of his youth with the achievements of his mature age we are driven to the conclusion that something must have stood in the way as a bar between him and the high pinnacle of fame as a composer and executant which seemed to await him. Mr. Joyce's second chapter explains the mystery: instead of throwing himself into the musical world and securing the very best training it could possibly give him, Ouseley determined to go up to Oxford in the ordinary way, and then take Holy Orders. His mind had now of course to concentrate itself on the necessary classics and mathematics, and, in our humble opinion, he never recovered the loss of strict musical study at this critical period of his life. After due preparation he went to Oxford, where his musical gifts were fully appreciated. Many good stories of his pranks, when a high-spirited undergraduate, are to be found in Mr. Joyce's pages; we will not spoil his readers' pleasure by quoting them here. Ouseley's career as an undergraduate was not marked by anything very extraordinary, and having taken his B.A. degree he lived for two or three years in London, and then was ordained deacon, being licensed to a curacy at the Church of St. Barnabas, Pimlico, soon to be desecrated by the notorious anti-Puseyite riots. It is probable that at this church he conceived that strong dislike to Gregorian music which he retained for the rest of his life. He also felt some repugnance at the ritualistic practices then carried out in St. Barnabas. He was never afterwards a "ritualist" in the present acceptation of the term, although he thought nothing could be too beautiful for the services of the church. He remained to the day of his death what is now called an old-fashioned high-churchman.

In looking back upon the ten years which passed between Ouseley's determination to take orders and his entrance into church work as a pastor, every musician must naturally be tempted to look upon them as lost time, because unfruitful musically. We all know that from fifteen to twenty-five years of age the musician who desires to excel must practically be a slave to the technique of his art. Yet, on the other hand, when reading Mr. Joyce's most sensible remarks on this subject, we are constrained to admit that the path of life which Ouseley then laid out for himself was, in its way, most valuable and important—it certainly was then most uncommon, if not actually unique. The example he was about to set, as a graduate both in arts and music, as a baronet who esteemed it an honour to be a professor of music, as a church dignitary who could hold his own in a theological argument and then compose music for the next choral festival, was one deeply needed by the nation fifty years ago. Mr. Joyce states that when Ouseley took his Mus. Bac. degree, "some of the authorities in the University remonstrated with him. Not only did they point out that it was unfitting to take a lower after a higher degree, a Mus. Bac. (in 1850) after an M.A. (in 1849); but they seem to have urged that a man in his rank and position should scorn to take any musical degree at all" (p. 85). But in this respect Ouseley had not only to contend with contempt for musicians as a class, but also with the surviving tradition in the University of a strict order of precedence in degrees, that of Doctor of Divinity taking the highest rank, Doctors of Law and Medicine following next, then came Masters of Arts, below them Doctors of Music, then Bachelors of Arts, and, finally, Bachelors of Music. So firmly established was this etiquette, and so rigidly was it observed by our ancestors, that in one college, which shall be nameless, the Doctors of Divinity not only received higher stipends as Fellows, but, on proceeding into the Common Room after dinner, they sat at a separate table on a slightly raised platform, from which exalted position they smoked churchwarden pipes and sipped strong ale with greater self-respect than graduates in lower faculties! An old and well worn story may be repeated as illustrating this caste among graduates. When the Rev. Dr. Dodd was convicted of forgery, an M.A. remarked in his Common Room that it was a disgrace to an English University that one of its Doctors should be hanged; but a venerable D.D. interrupted him by saying, "Egad, Sir! it might have been worse; for you must remember, Sir, he was only a Doctor in Civil Law!" In setting his face against such absurd but at that time very real distinctions, Ouseley inaugurated a new phase in the life of English music, for which musicians, and the country generally, cannot be too grateful.

* "The Life of Rev. Sir F. A. G. Ouseley, Bart., M.A., Mus. D., &c." By F. W. Joyce, M.A., Rector of Burford. With portraits and illustrations. Methuen, 36, Essex Street.

Henceforward it was no longer to be a discredit to a well-bred and well-educated man to become a bonâ fide musician, or to receive fees and a stipend as such. The musical profession generally did not at all endorse Ouseley's appointment as Professor to the University of Oxford, which took place in 1855, he being then just thirty years old, and having been in Deacon's orders nearly six years; he was, it was said, a mere amateur, though no doubt to some extent gifted and accomplished. This antipathy of the musical profession, forty years ago, to the entrance of "fine gentlemen" into its ranks is lightly and delicately handled by Mr. Joyce; but it was very widespread, and doubtless was one reason why Ouseley did not receive that encouragement in the musical world which might very likely have drawn out his powers and have urged him to make greater efforts and aim at a higher standard as a composer. Some twenty years ago a well-known musician, since deceased, used in his weaker moments to boast that he was the only gentleman in the profession; in saying this he had not the least intention of casting a slur on Ouseley's escutcheon, he merely ignored him as being a "rank outsider." But let it be freely acknowledged that to Ouseley, though placed in the exceedingly difficult position of being in one sense a professional musician, while at the same time he was a good country parson and Cathedral dignitary, we largely owe the improved intellectual and social position of musicians. He felt that some test of general education would be necessary if musical graduates were to be duly respected in their own Universities, and he followed Dublin and Cambridge in the imposition of a literary examination, either Responsions, or Higher Locals, or School Delegates'. The choice thus given to candidates did not altogether turn out beneficially; it was found that by a little dexterity candidates could reach the musical examinations without a knowledge of any language but English; therefore for the last few years a special preliminary examination for students in music in any two of five given languages has been made compulsory with the best results. There has been no symptom of a falling off in the class of candidates, as prophesied by some of our newspapers; quite the reverse; and Ouseley's example of taking a lower degree after a higher has become remarkably common: not a year passes without several men being presented for their Mus. Bac. degree attired in the gown and hood of M.A. This is the more remarkable if it be remembered that for several years the late and the present Professor in Oxford were the only living graduates in arts and music, by examination. Perhaps the upward social tendency of the musical profession has now reached its proper limit; it would, perhaps, be an ideal state of things "if every gentleman were a musician and every musician a gentleman"; but we hope there is no truth in the story that a fashionable conductor lately expressed a doubt whether he ought to conduct the "Sinfonia Eroica," on the ground that Beethoven was not a gentleman! There need be no fear on this point, for wherever genius or talent is found it will always be assisted and helped up into its proper social sphere; not, perhaps, because society duly views a man of genius as a Prince among minds, but because society is exceedingly selfish, and is always ready to reward liberally and treat kindly any sort of animal which conduces to its pleasure.

The abilities and, perhaps, too, the physical strength of Ouseley were much taxed by his two-fold existence. Whilst doing his best for his University as a musician, he was pouring out liberally his private means on behalf of the college and church which he was building and founding. He had selected a most picturesque site, and on it he raised one of the most beautiful churches (for its size) to be found in England; nor is the college itself less remarkable for the elegance of its architecture. After his death, when his friends were subscribing and raising funds to add to the slender endowment he was only able to bestow on it, the question was often asked—What is the good of St. Michael's College? The very wording of this question witnesses to the utilitarianism of our age. We do not at all wish it to be thought that in our opinion the college is of no use; we do sincerely sympathise with its founder in his desire to raise "a thing of beauty" as an offering to God, not for the admiration of men, and to gather within its walls efficient musicians to carry on a daily full choral service, not for the pleasure of a large congregation (the church was often empty), but as offering and devoting his and their special gifts to God's glory. Yet it cannot be denied that it was a fatal mistake of Bishop Wilberforce to discourage Ouseley from building his church and college near Oxford (p. 83), where its influence would have been more widespread, and where unquestionably it would have received liberal pecuniary support. The Bishop's action is the more unaccountable and inconsistent if it is true that he was afraid, or unwilling, to have in his diocese an ex-curate of St. Barnabas, Pimlico.

The present isolated block of buildings near Tenbury gives a visitor the impression of a sort of cross between a monastery and a music school. This is, no doubt, exactly what Ouseley intended St. Michael's to be. He more than once said that he did not want it to be a large popular boys' school. On the other hand, its remote position cannot have a good effect on the musical education of the chorister-boys within its walls. They are too far off from any great centre of art-energy; where can they hear Beethoven's, Schubert's, or Schumann's symphonies? or the finest operas? or the choicest chamber music? Gibbons, Blow, Purcell, Wise, Boyce, Hayes, and others may be very satisfactory in their way; but a constant, almost daily reiteration of such composers' music cannot tend to expand young musical faculties.

Sir Frederick Ouseley devoted all he possessed in lands and money to the service of the Church of England, but the Church seemed to be very reluctant to bestow any one of its pecuniarily valuable offices on him; it was not till he had reached the age of sixty-one that he received an appointment with a stipend—namely, a Canonry in Hereford Cathedral; but as he had practically to rebuild the house attached to his office, it is doubtful whether he profited by it at all. Two years after this first substantial recognition of his worth and generosity he died suddenly of heart disease; he had suffered from it for several years.

The story of his last days and hours is told by his biographer with a touching simplicity; and here we wish we could bring our review to a close, for all that Mr. Joyce has said of Ouseley is so true and so well said that it needed no addition. But two chapters are appended on Ouseley "as a musician," from the pen of the gifted and amiable organist of Hereford Cathedral, himself an old St. Michael's chorister. He describes with truth the unsatisfactory condition of church music in Ouseley's earlier days, but we confess to being considerably puzzled by the statement that "the older music created by the English mind at its sanest moment was purely ideal." Perhaps Tye, Tallis, Bird, and Gibbons are alluded to; but is the English mind less sane than it was in their time? And is their music "purely ideal"? What is purely ideal music? And is not Mr. Sinclair allowing his affection and enthusiasm for his late friend to run away with his better judgment when he writes: "He was always a master of form, deeply learned in all the various modes adopted by the great composers." Ouseley was always regular in his periods and phrases, but as far as we remember he only turned out about half-a-dozen movements in binary form, and the book which he published on "Form" certainly does not testify to any "deep learning" on the subject. In speaking of Ouseley's Services and Anthems, Mr. Sinclair says: "Many are of a most elaborate nature, containing magnificent instances of contrapuntal writing which are only to be compared with the finest examples of the Madrigalian period"; this is rather a high-flown panegyric! The volume of Services and Anthems he published when twenty-eight years of age (1853) is full of blunders in harmony and faults in counterpoint of the most elementary kind. In later years he certainly improved greatly, a comparison of the 1853 volume with his contributions to the "Collection"—the first volume of which was published eight years later (1861), and the second five years later still (1866)—shows the change in the character of his technique to be very marked. But even then some of his best anthems are over-weighted with a ponderous fugue generally built on a well-worn if not commonplace subject. "No man had a higher ideal in music for the church than he had," says Mr. Sinclair, and he adds farther on that Ouseley "sought a style which should at once be lofty, devotional, passionless, and ethereal." No doubt "magnificent specimens of contrapuntal writing," and of fugal writing too, may be "lofty and passionless"; but is a stretto by inversion, or an answer by augmentation, or double counterpoint at the tenth, so very "devotional and ethereal"? We are seriously afraid that if we had to choose between a daily use of Ouseley's "ideal" music and what Mr. Sinclair terms "the flimsy church music of to-day," we should unhesitatingly pledge our allegiance to the "flimsy music of to-day" as exemplified by Garrett, Stanford, C. H. Lloyd, Martin, Gadsby, Prout, and others. Sullivan has become a confirmed writer of comic operas, but have there ever been two anthems more "devotional and ethereal" than "I will mention the lovingkindness of the Lord" and "Who is like unto Thee"? We evidently do not place before us the same ideal as Mr. Sinclair, so we will say no more: Ouseley's fame will not be enhanced by his too enthusiastic criticisms. But Mr. Sinclair is himself doing a good work; he is the right man in the right place at Hereford Cathedral; for, notwithstanding his admiration for his late friend, he welcomes new contributions to Church music, and they receive from the choir he directs, and from his masterly accompaniments on the organ, a rendering which is at once as "devotional and ethereal" as could be desired by those intimate friends of Ouseley to whom this admirable and well-written biography recalls vividly and affectingly the figure, manner, and very talk of one whose life was a model of simplicity, generosity, and self-devotion.

FROM MY STUDY.

The card, with autograph inscription, now reproduced, was addressed by Madame Christine Nilsson to a critic who had written approvingly of her representation of the character mentioned I scarcely need state that the Swedish artist's Marguerite was, at one time, the most refined and, generally, the most successful in her repertory. It sadly deteriorated during the later part of her career.

The second reproduction is of interest just now because the original shows the handwriting of Clara Schumann. Madame Schumann sometimes played selections from the Sonatas of Scarlatti at the Popular Concerts, and it was her custom to indicate her choice by quoting the opening bar, or bars, of each for the benefit of the programme annotator.

On further examination of the MSS. kindly presented to me by Miss Sabilla Novello, I find that, at one time, her distinguished father intended writing a biography of Mozart, and took active steps to carry out his purpose, which, however, he ultimately abandoned. While moving in the matter, Vincent Novello naturally sought to obtain materials from Attwood, the great master's pupil; but his request for information met with an unsatisfactory reply. Like the knife-grinder, Attwood had no story to tell. Here is a copy of his letter, written at "Norwood, Surrey," and dated May 19, 1828:

"My dear Sir: I shall be most happy to give you all the information in my power, but doubt much my ability to answer your expectations on so interesting a subject. It is now forty-two years since I took my farewell of my much revered master, and, not having calculated upon writing his life, I confess I cannot (at least immediately) recall to my mind the particulars you require. When the hurry of the season is over, I hope to have the pleasure of meeting you, when, probably, more may be elicited than I can at present anticipate. Wishing you every success in your meritorious undertaking, I remain, my dear Sir, Yours very truly, Thos. Attwood."

On the same subject, Novello communicated with Thomas Adams, and received the following response, headed "Camberwell, November 6" (year omitted):

"My dear Sir: I know not what satisfactory apology can be offered for my tardiness in replying to your very gratifying letter. Negligence I cannot plead; for, like many more persons, I have daily remembered what ought to be done, though I have omitted to perform it. May I hope that this candid avowal of my fault will induce you to overlook it, and to believe that, though my acknowledgement of the elegant compliment you have paid me in the dedication is much too late, I have still duly appreciated your politeness.

"Accept my congratulations on your having entered on a task at once so useful and so delightful as that of drawing up a complete biography of Mozart. Its utility will be felt by every musical student who aspires to excellence. The splendid example will awaken his enthusiasm, and call forth all his powers. Its delight will be experienced by yourself. I can readily imagine the ardour with which you will engage in your work, and the pleasure you will experience in tracing every circumstance connected with the pursuits and habits of him who has been as justly as beautifully designated 'The Shakespeare of music.'

"Though it is not very probable that I can produce any addition to such very extensive sources of information as you already possess, I will not, believe me, neglect your request. It would give me abundant pleasure to be instrumental in bringing before the public any fresh information, however trivial, on a subject so dear to every true musician.

"My admiration of Mozart and Haydn is unbounded. When satiated with the productions of other writers, I can always turn to their pages with the same delight as if they were perfectly new to me. There is a freshness about their compositions which we vainly seek elsewhere, and which arises from their most astonishing fertility of imagination. They were certainly the two most variously gifted musicians the world ever saw. But I must not trust myself on a subject where I am such an enthusiast. If I once set heartily about the work of eulogy, I shall not know when to leave off, which my paper now lets me know it is high time to do. Believe me, my dear Sir, your much obliged, Thomas Adams."

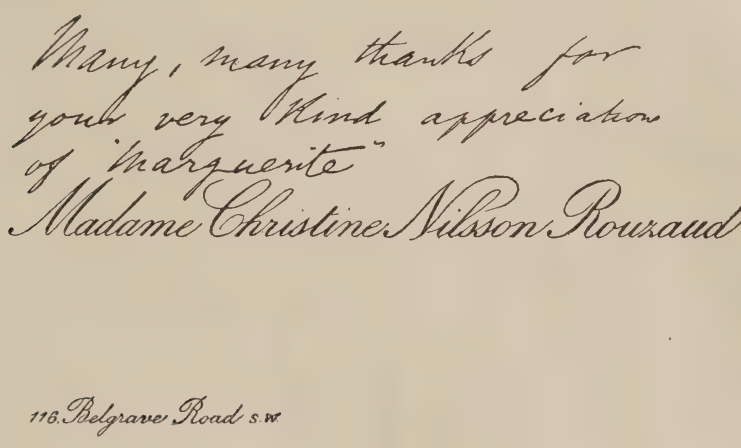
I now reproduce two letters akin in subject to those preceding. But it should first be pointed out, on the authority of Mrs. Cowden Clarke's interesting "Life and Labours of Vincent Novello," that, in 1829, Mr. and Mrs. Novello paid a visit to Salzburg, where Mozart's sister, Madame Sonnenberg, was then living "in poor health and poorer means." A subscription had been made in London for this lady's relief, and it was for the purpose of handing to her the amount collected that the Novellos went to the picturesque city. Only a few months after the discharge of this pious mission, news reached London that Madame Sonnenberg had passed quietly away. The following is a translation of a letter in which Madame Nissen, Mozart's widow, communicated the sad information to Mr. S. A. Stumpff, a friend of hers resident in London. The translation was made by Mr. Stumpff himself, and sent to Vincent Novello with a foot-note as below: "With S. A. Stumpff's most respectful compliments to Mr. and Mrs. Novello, and hopes they will excuse the above attempt, which was done under much interruption and in the greatest hurry. December 2, 1829. Great Portland Street."



Madame Nissen's letter is dated Salzburg, October 31, 1829:

"Most esteemed Sir: This day, the 31st October, being the Name-Day (Saint's-Day) of my never-to-be-forgotten Mozart, my dear sister-in-law, and only sister of Mozart, has been buried. I cannot sufficiently express how much I have been affected by the last charge I received from her, only two days before her death, who, with so much feeling of gratitude, desired me to inform you, my dear friend, of her deliverance from all her cares and troubles as soon as possible, and to express to you her most sincere thanks for the generous present you sent her through her friend, Mr. Novello. She likewise expressed herself thus: 'Oh, if I could but perform it myself, and tell my noble friend, Stumpff, that his generosity had saved me from the necessity of contracting debts, and enabled me to die in peace! Pray beg likewise of him that he will thank all those gentlemen who, at his instigation, have kindly contributed to such an act of benevolence.' Such were her last words, which I write down with a heart full of emotions and with tears in my eyes. I beg you will impart the melancholy intelligence to Mr. Novello and his worthy lady.

"And now a few words concerning my humble self. Your valued friend, Mr. Novello, and his amiable lady, for whom I entertain great affection, promised me during their stay here, more than once, to dispose in London, at the subscription price, of the 300 or 400 copies of the 'Life of Mozart,'* which lie with me without a prospect of sale; and that they would write about this business as soon as they should return to London, as well as about the lithographic prints which I offer to them at cost price, in order to get back my outlay. If I succeed in this, I shall be relieved; if not, Von Nissen (my late husband) and myself will have laboured in vain for Mozart's son these several years with anxious care and expense.

"Will you give my best respects to Mr. Novello, and consult with him as to what can be done under the above-stated circumstances?

"Your friend, Mr. Novello, likewise led me to entertain hopes that if I were to go to London myself and there perform some of Mozart's works he thought he could answer for £2,000. Are you, my worthy friend, also of that opinion? I confess that I am much inclined to believe it after

* The reference is, of course, to Madame Nissen's biography of her first husband.

what I have heard Mr. Novello say about the enthusiasm of the English for Mozart's genius. I beg to add, dear Sir, that the two Motets in my possession, which I spoke about to Mr. N., might be performed at my benefit concert in London, and might afterwards be published by subscription with the assistance of my friends. Farewell, and honour me soon with an answer, which I ardently expect. Pray give my best respects to Mr. Attwood, &c.—Constancia Nissen, late widow of Mozart."

Some correspondence appears to have passed between Vincent Novello and the bargaining widow prior to the date of the foregoing epistle. So much appears from the rough draft of a letter, addressed (in French) to Madame Nissen, under date February, 1830. I give an English translation:—

"My dear Madame: As you have had the goodness to promise me a letter containing particulars of Mozart's autographs, the Biography, &c., I have long been expecting to receive it according to your cordial intention. I assure you, Madame, that I was very jealous when I found that you had communicated with my friend, Mr. Stumpff, instead of myself; but as that good friend has told me all you said to him in your charming letter, I must needs be satisfied for the present, and hope that when next you write to London it will be my turn.

"As soon as I heard of the afflicting loss you had sustained by the death of Madame Sonnenberg, I made arrangements with certain professors for some mark of my regard for the memory of that most estimable lady, and caused the famous 'Requiem' of her illustrious brother to be performed. I know not whether this has been done in Vienna and Salzburg, &c., but I trust that the 'Requiem' will be given in all the great towns of Europe (and especially in those of Germany) by way of respectful homage to the memory of the much loved sister of the greatest musical genius that ever lived.

"I have not forgotten my promise to speak to the publishers here regarding your 'Life of Mozart,' but they think that the work, being in German, would not sell, since that language is so little cultivated in England. With regard to the letters and autographs, one of the publishers tells me that he would be pleased to buy a part of your collection, that he would give a guinea for each, and that, if the speculation turned out well, he would be tempted to take the remainder at the same rate.

"It is hardly needful to assure you, my dear Madame, that, if I were rich, I would purchase the entire collection for my own library, and, after my death, leave these precious documents to the British Museum, to be preserved with the veneration they merit. But, unhappily, it is out of my power to give myself such great happiness, and there only remains for me to communicate the result of my endeavours and inform you precisely what has been offered for these interesting manuscripts.

"As soon as your reply to the publisher's offer reaches me, be sure that I will do all that you desire for the promotion of your best interests. Your son (I ought rather to say my dear friend Amadeus, since he allows me to call him by a name so flattering for me) has also promised to send me the list and the price of the manuscripts written by his father's hand which he desires to sell. I have not yet had the pleasure of receiving his letter from Poland, but, if he will have the goodness to write me, I am ready to do all in my power to further his wishes. Perhaps you will tell him so from me when you have occasion to write, and ask that, when he sends me a letter, he will not enclose it in an envelope; the English post office being very particular and discourteous on that point. I shall be much obliged, Madame, if you will take the same precaution when you write to London.

"I have a higher idea of English musical taste and enthusiasm for Mozart than my friend, Mr. Stumpff; but as he fears that you would not be received by the English in a manner accordant with your unquestionable claims—or, perhaps, that you would not be recompensed for the fatigue, risk, and cost of so long a journey, I am afraid to encourage you to come and give concerts, with your son, in London, according to the plan we discussed together; for if, by chance, the result should not equal your wishes, I could never pardon myself for having given you bad advice.

"But should you not come to England, I am not without hope of seeing you at Salzburg, which is, in my opinion, the paradise of Germany. Never shall I forget the three happy days I spent with the widow and son of my idol, Mozart, and I trust to find some occasion for another short visit to 'liebe Deutschland,' and once more to enjoy your delightful society.

"Madame Novello continues in the enjoyment of excellent health, and joins me in the most cordial feeling for you and your estimable son, Amadeus. Impatiently awaiting the favour of a reply, believe me ever your much obliged and sincere and cordial friend, Vincenzo Novello."

The foregoing letters scarcely need comment, but it may be added that I have no information as to the further course of the correspondence.

From John Hackett's "Select and Remarkable Epitaphs" (1757), I take the following examples, as applying to music or musicians.

In York Minster:

Musicus et Logicus Wynal hic jacet ecce Johannes;
Organa namque loqui feceret ille quasi.

Hackett puts this into English clumsily:

Musician and Logician eke,
Wynal Lo! John lies here;
Who made the organs for to speak
Just e'en as if it were.

The following epitaph on "S. P.* a Child of Queen Elizabeth's Chapel," is attributed to Ben Jonson:

Weep with me, all you that read
This little Story,
And know for whom a Tear you shed,
Death's self is sorry.
'Twas a Child that did so thrive
In Age and Feature,
As Heav'n and Nature seemed to strive
Which own'd the Creature.
Yeeres he number'd scarce thirteen,
When Fates turn'd cruel.
Yet three full Zodiack's had he been
The Stage's Jewel.
And did act, what now we moane,
Old Men so duely,
As, sooth, the Parcæ thought him one,
He plaid so truly.
So, by Error, to his Fate
They all consented;
But viewing him since, alas, too late,
They have repented.
And have sought to give new Birthe,
In Bathes to steep him;
But, being so much too good for Earth,
Heav'n vows to keep him.

In York Minster is, or was, the subjoined inscription:

Here lyeth John Thorne, Musitian, most perfect in Art,
In Logyks Lore, who did excel all men who did set apart;
Whose Life and Conversation did all Men's Love alure,
And now doth reigne above the Skyes in Joys most firm and sure.
Who dyed 7 Decemb., A.D. 1573.

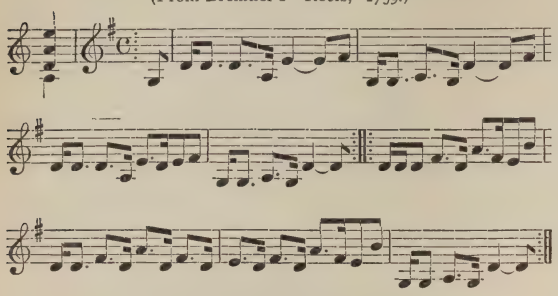
In Norwich Cathedral:

Here William Inglott, Organist, doth rest,
Whose Art in Music this Cathedral blest;
For Descant most, for Voluntary all,
He passed on Organ, Song, and Virginall.
He left this life at Age of Sixty-seven,
And now 'mongst Angels all sings St. in Heaven.
His Fame flies far, his Name shall never die,
See, Art and Age here crown his Memorie.
Non digitis, Inglotti, tuis terrestria tangis,
Tangis nunc digitis Organa celsa poli.
Anno Dom. 1621.

X.

NEW LIGHTS UPON OLD TUNES.

No. VI.



"Auld Lang Syne."

The authorship of the tune "Auld Lang Syne" has been frequently discussed, but too often from a patriotic rather than from an unbiassed point of view; Scotsmen to a man claiming it as purely Scottish, and Tynesiders as obstinately contending that Shield was its composer. To put the facts succinctly: The earliest likeness to the melody occurs in Playford's "Apollo's Banquet," under the title "Duke of Bucclugh's Tune"; but I must confess that the likeness by no means justifies the plea that it is the original of the air. In 1759 Robert Bremner published in his "Scots Reels

* Hackett suggests that "S. P." was most likely Sal. Pavy, who had a part in "Cynthia's Revels" and the "Poetaster."

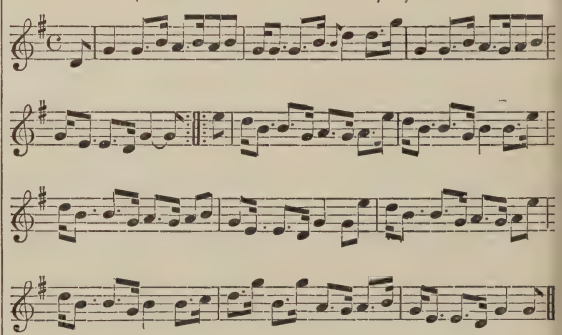
and Country Dances," ob. 4°, at page 41, the following :*

"THE MILLER'S WEDDING—STRATHSPEY."
(From Bremner's "Reels," 1759.)

There are two other strains very similar in character and melody.

In the early part of 1780 this Strathspey again appeared in Alexander McGlashan's "Collection of Strathspey Reels" (Edin., ob. folio, see page 5). Here its name is changed to "The Miller's Daughter"; and again, in 1780, under the old title, "The Miller's Wedding," we find it in Angus Cummings's "Collection of Strathspeys and old Highland Reels" (Edin., 1780, ob. folio). It is in both editions of this work, the first bearing the printed date 1780. These three sets of the tune are virtually the same, and they bear some resemblance to the modern "Auld Lang Syne," for this latter is really a Strathspey vocalised, with something of the "snap" taken away. Both the Strathspeys and it are like "Comin' thro' the rye."

The opera "Rosina" was acted at Covent Garden in 1783, and at the end of the overture (presumably by W. Shield) is the passage quoted in last January's Musical Times. This, perhaps, more nearly has a likeness to our modern air; but it may be questioned whether Shield, who wanted to produce a Scotch bagpipe effect, did not put down from memory some air which he had heard or seen. "Rosina" did not pretend to be entirely original in its music, for the bulk of the tunes are old melodies, and acknowledged as such. There is, therefore, no reason why Shield should not do in the overture what he did in the body of the opera.



Indeed, as the theory, set up by writers who claim Shield as author of the air, rests entirely on the fact that there is a passage in the overture which much resembles "Auld Lang Syne," it would have been better had they more carefully analysed the rest of the piece; for besides the one in question, the overture contains three distinct airs with their several variations. The first is, apparently, the German folk-melody "Frühlingsempfindung," another terminates with the closing phrase of "Maggie Lauder," and the third seems to be the final air from the body of the opera, there entitled in the old copies "French Tune." I found all my statements on the original copies of the opera, for in this matter the modern editions are unreliable.

The old air most nearly like "Auld Lang Syne" is "O can ye labour lea, young man," and this was printed in Vol. IV. of Johnson's "Museum," the preface of which is dated August 13, 1792.

In reference to this song there is a note said to be written by Robert Burns (who, it is stated elsewhere, made additions to the song), in Cromek's "Select Scottish Songs," Vol. II., 1810, p. 40, which informs us that the song was popular in Nithsdale and Galloway. If this is correct it augurs well for the age of the tune, for it is highly improbable that a traditional song should be sung by the peasantry of this part of Scotland to a fragment of an opera fashionable only in England, and that fragment only from an overture.

And now allow me to direct attention to a rather earlier tune resembling "Auld Lang Syne."

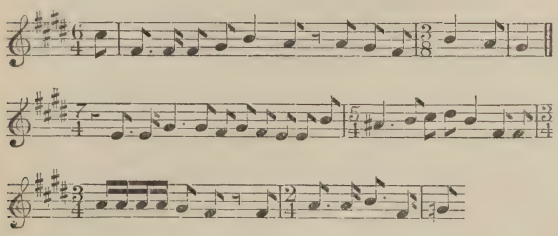
"ROGER'S FAREWELL."
(From Aird's "Third Selection," 1788.

I think this is independent proof that a vocal version of the Strathspey was common in Scotland pretty nearly contemporary with "Rosina."

James Aird's "Selection of Scotch, English, and Foreign Airs," from which the above is taken, is a set of six small volumes for the flute or violin, published in Glasgow at different dates. In the "Glen collection of Scottish dance music" the third book is proved, from an advertisement, to have been issued in 1788, and I am indebted to this work for fixing the date of McGlashan's Collection, 1780. Bremner's date, 1759, is found by advertisement in the Scots Magazine, to be seen in the original magazine, and quoted by Chappell. The Strathspey is in the sixth number. In other matters I have not taken second-hand evidence, as the works from which I have quoted are in my own library.

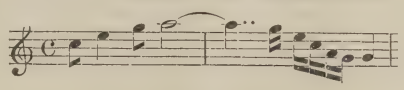
Of the words of "Roger's Farewell" I know nothing; if they could be turned up, possibly some more light might be shed on the subject.

* It may be as well to draw attention to the fact that the lower notes, set down as G and A, must be played A and B. Scotch and other early fiddlers were, in certain cases, accustomed, for facility of playing, to tune their G string to A, putting the tuning at the head of the notation of the melody, which, as regards the notes on this string, were falsely put down. The tune we are dealing with is set properly in McGlashan's "Reels." It is generally imagined that Paganini was one of the earliest violinists who adopted the system; but the old Scotch Reel books abound with examples, and an instance occurs in the "Dancing Master," Vol. II., 1719.



With regard to the words of "Auld Lang Syne," Robert Burns sent them to George Thomson, who was issuing a collection of Scottish songs, with the statement that they had never been in print or in manuscript, and that he had taken them down from the singing of an old man. The question of Burns's authorship has not been, probably will never be, definitely settled. Whatever share Burns had in the writing of the words, he intended them to be used with the old tune, and it was not until after his death we find the song and the air we now know united. This was in George Thomson's folio Collection, Vol. II., 1801, p. 68, with the remark: "From an old MS. in the editor's possession—air, 'Auld Lang Syne.'"

Regarding the old air for "Auld Lang Syne," it is as "For old lang gine, my joe," in the first and second editions of H. Playford's "Original Scotch Tunes," 1700 and 1701; also in "Musick for Allan Ramsay's collection of Scots Songs," circa 1725; in both editions of W. Thomson's "Orpheus Caledonius," 1725 and 1733, and in other places. It has recently appeared with excellent harmonies by Miss L. E. Broadwood, under the title "In Loyalty," with a selection from the old words which first appeared in James Watson's "Choice Collection of Comic and Serious Scots Poems, both Ancient and Modern, by several hands," originally printed at Edinburgh in 1706, though later editions are found.



THE appointment of Mr. William Hayman Cummings as third Principal of the Guildhall School of Music seems to have given general satisfaction, and there are good reasons for this sentiment. Mr. Cummings has long and faithfully served his art in many of its most important departments. In common with so very many musicians who have attained eminence in their profession, he commenced his musical career as a choirboy, and at St. Paul's Cathedral, when Hawes was master of the choristers. Mr. F. G. Edwards, in his "History of the 'Elijah,'" recently published by Messrs. Novello, relates that at the first performance of the revised version of the oratorio by the Sacred Harmonic Society at Exeter Hall, April 16, 1847, "Mr. W. H. Cummings, then a chorister at the Temple Church, sang alto in the chorus. . . . He and some other boys were asked to help, as the alto part lay rather high for the men's voices. Master Cummings, as he was then, sat in the front row of the altos, and his enthusiastic singing attracted the notice of Mendelssohn, who asked the Temple chorister his name, which he wrote on one of his (Mendelssohn's) visiting cards and gave to the youthful singer." The earnestness which thus attracted such memorable notice may be regarded as the secret of the young singer's subsequent success. His voice changed to that of a tenor of sympathetic quality, which, combined with his innate musical temperament and excellent training, quickly secured for him a prominent position on the concert platform and at provincial Festivals. At Birmingham, in 1864, he took the place of Mario, and sang at sight that artist's part in Sullivan's "Kenilworth," with a success that elicited a noteworthy testimonial from the composer. From St. Paul's Cathedral he went to the Temple, where he studied the organ under Dr. Hopkins, subsequently being appointed organist at Waltham Abbey, where he remained until admitted to the choir of Westminster Abbey. At this period he was an active member of several glee and madrigal societies, for which he composed a goodly number of excellently written part-songs, glees, and madrigals. Mr. Cummings's connection with the Royal Academy of Music began in 1879, and the manner in which he has discharged the duties of Professor and Director on the Committee of Management at this Institution would alone justify his appointment to the Guildhall School. The ability with which Mr. Cummings has served the Sacred Harmonic Society, the Philharmonic Society, the Royal Society of Musicians, the Incorporated Society of Musicians, the Musical Association, and other bodies connected with his art, are as well known as his "Rudiments of Music," "Life of Purcell," the useful "Biographical Dictionary of Musicians," and his contributions to "Grove's" great dictionary. Mr. Cummings is, moreover, a happy and fluent speaker, and his election in 1884 as Fellow of the Society of Antiquaries testifies to his intimate knowledge of the history of music. It would indeed be difficult to find a man who has had more varied experience, or been more successful in so many particulars, and this rare combination of qualifications is the best possible assurance that the teaching staff and pupils of the Guildhall School will have a discreet and sympathetic Principal.

SIR G. GROVE, in his recently published work, "Beethoven and his Nine Symphonies," refers to the unusual length of the "Eroica"; the public, the critics, and even the composer himself seem to have felt that the average length of a Symphony had been exceeded. The laws of evolution will account for the increase in the average length of movements, and, indeed, of works; by differentiation, subject-matter had been expanded, and this alone led to more extended developments. Still the "Eroica" was exceptionally long. To trace the growth of movements from the early days of instrumental music would prove interesting, and anyone undertaking such a study might find his labours lightened by consulting an article entitled "Remarks on the distinctive Character and essential Qualities of good Musick," signed "Oxoniensis," which appeared in The Gentleman's Magazine of 1818 (Vol. LXXXVIII., Pt. i., p. 414, and Pt. ii., pp. 30 and 587). The writer is utterly dissatisfied "with the general style of our modern instrumental music." He seeks in vain for melody, "the happy bond of union which combines several parts, making them conspire to the eventual production of a beautifully consistent whole." But our critic complains chiefly of the inordinate length of movements as compared with those of the old classic masters. It was not, however, the "Eroica" which had specially excited his wrath. The reader, he says, "has only to glance over the first and second Grand Symphonies of Beethoven, and he will therein find nine several movements average ('horresco referens') no fewer than 319 bars." To us, in these latter days, the figure does not appear excessive; but "Oxoniensis" was comparing it with the average number of bars in the Concertos of Corelli, Geminiani, and Handel: they, the great masters of the past, were content with sixty-six. Whether "Oxoniensis" lived to hear and to count the bars in the "Choral" we know not; if so, he certainly would have expressed his feelings in language other than the mild Virgilian exclamation quoted above.

The habitual concert-goer can hardly have failed to notice during the last ten years a remarkable development which has taken place in the matter of what we call time in music. For obvious reasons a solo performer has always taken more liberties with the time of his (or her) music than a member of an ensemble group. We all know how Mendelssohn used to rave against the prolonged high notes and tasteless rallentandos of his vocalists, but in spite of all protests this abuse has increased and increased until now a vocalist or violinist who paid any regard at all to the relative duration of notes would be considered to possess neither taste nor expression. What is gained by scrambling through the quick notes and doubling the length of the long ones in Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto, or by singing the recitatives in "Softly sighs" thus :— instead of as written, will always be a mystery to a musician, or person of sense, but it makes only too obvious the fact that a solo performer is often neither the one nor the other. The abuse in question has now invaded pianoforte playing, and instead of being satisfied with that elasticity in the sub-divisions of a bar which was Chopin's and Paganini's idea of rubato, the pianist of to-day is getting as unfeeling in his time as the vocalist. Will not the tasteless habit presently either render concerted music impossible or else invade this province also? Already the accompaniment of a Concerto is a feat which keeps the conductor's heart in his mouth; shall we not eventually get to performing, say, Beethoven's C minor Symphony like a Hungarian Czardas, or the "Leonora" Overture after this fashion—

On the 21st of this month there will be celebrated the hundredth anniversary of the death of the world's most popular song-writer, one of Britain's most remarkable men of genius, Scotland's patron Saint in the hierarchy of literature. Robert Burns was not, as the world considers it, a fortunate man; he was born a peasant and he died at the early age of thirty-seven, a liquor gauger in the Scottish Customs. He was not fortunate in one sense—but favoured above all mortals in another. Fletcher of Saltoun said, "he believed if a man were permitted to make all the ballads, he need not care who should make the laws of a nation," and in this sense, as Carlyle has put it, "we know not where to find one worthy of being second" to Robert Burns. The words of Shakespeare himself do not echo in more hearts to-day than do those of the simple Scotch peasant.

Rank is but the guinea's stamp,
The man's the gowd for a' that, sang the poet, and was a man compact of the purest gold of genius. And how rich the legacy he left us! Who can estimate, for probate or any other purpose, the value of that noble bequest? Which of us is not to be found among the legatees? As the poet of "The Cotter's Saturday Night," "Tam O'Shanter," and many other pieces, Burns has a place among our familiars; but as a song-writer, with "Auld lang syne." "A man's a man for a' that," "John Anderson, my Jo," "Ye banks and braes," "To Mary in Heaven," and dozens of others, he is welcomed into every home where English is spoken throughout the world. Song after song he wrote to old Scottish tunes, until the airs are now really known to us but by means of the words to which he wedded them. As a song-writer Burns had no competitor when he died, on July 21, 1796, and in the hundred years that have since passed there has not arisen a singer who may even be compared with him. To name his songs is unnecessary, they are verily "familiar in our mouths as household words"; technically they are in point of quality comparable but to some of the lyrical outbursts of Elizabethan poets and one or two of their immediate successors. The songs of Burns, indeed, to revert to Carlyle's masterly essay, "do not affect to be set to music; but they actually and in themselves are music." Numerous centennial celebrations are to take place, and many a "nicht wi' Burns" will be spent this month wherever there is spoken the language which he so greatly enriched.

The first performance in England of Schumann's Pianoforte Concerto has been attributed to the Rev. J. R. Lunn, at a Concert of the Cambridge University Musical Society, April 1, 1862; and also to Fräulein Marie Wieck, Madame Schumann's half-sister, at the Crystal Palace in 1864. As a matter of fact, the Concerto was played by the composer's wife—most probably for the first time in this country—at the New Philharmonic Concert of May 14, 1856, during her first visit to England. This beautiful and favourite work of Schumann's was anything but appreciated by some of the critics of the day. One of the best known said: "We cannot fancy the Concerto adopted by any other performers in London." Another, that it "bristles throughout with the conceits and eccentricities which belong so disagreeably to the new school now struggling for existence in Germany, and of which Wagner and Schumann are the principal upholders and illustrators. It would be impossible to admire such oddities of thought and expression"; and the Concerto was "a mere mechanical manufacture, disfigured by caprices of detail." The leading musical critic called it a "laboured and ambitious work," in which "many of the bravura passages are, indeed, utterly extravagant," and, in regard to its first performance, spoke of "the praiseworthy efforts of the gifted lady [Madame Schumann] to make her husband's curious rhapsody pass for music." The same hand may be traced in the record of a Musical Union Concert in 1856, at which Madame Schumann played, and which concluded thus: "The rooms were densely crowded by a well-perfumed audience." Whatever may have been the perfumery propensities of the audiences of those days, it is certain that some of the critics had not a very keen scent for novelties containing such inherent and lasting beauties as Schumann's noble Pianoforte Concerto.

In the old churchyard at Bonn, where nearly forty years ago the mortal remains of her gifted husband were interred, those of Clara Schumann were laid at rest on Whitsunday, May 24. Although only those specially invited had been admitted within the precincts of the friedhof, the number of those who attended the ceremony was very large, including many notabilities in the German artistic world, and amongst these some specially associated with the artistic career of the deceased lady: Johannes Brahms, Julius Stockhausen, Bernhard Scholz, Dr. Wüllner, and others. Many also—need it be said?—were the wreaths and other floral offerings sent by friends from far and near to introduce an element of brightness in a melancholy function, which here, at least, was not out of place. The ceremony was of the simplest, as befitted the occasion. In the small chapel, where the remains had been placed, a chorale was sung a capella, whereupon the officiating minister, Dr. Sell, professor of theology at the Bonn University, in a short address not unworthy of the occasion, specially dwelt upon the harmonious blending in the personality of the departed of the attributes of a great character and of a great artist; qualities which had, in a special degree, fitted her to be the helpmeet of a man and an artist like Schumann. At the conclusion of the address a procession was formed to the grave's side, and, amidst the solemn strains of a second chorale, the remains were gently lowered out of sight, and another inscription had to be added to the beautiful monument which long since the lovers of his music have caused to be erected over the grave of Robert Schumann.

According to the Greek philosopher, nothing on earth is sweeter than variety, and, within legitimate limits, no one can cavil at the application of this principle to the framing of a miscellaneous programme. Of late years recitations and dramatic duologues have become quite a familiar feature at afternoon Concerts, and we have even witnessed a skirt dance, sandwiched between two strictly musical numbers, performed on the platform of Steinway Hall. To the list of these alternatives there now remains to be added a wholly novel form of entertainment recently introduced with (so we are assured) great success at a metropolitan musical gathering—the blowing of smoke-rings. So far as we can gather, only one performer gave proof of his skill at the entertainment in question, but it is obvious that the beauty of the performance might be greatly enhanced by concerted action. A Smoke-Ring Quartet may be confidently expected ere long to enter into rivalry with the numerous vocal and instrumental quadrilaterals already in existence. Meantime it should be noticed that whistling is no longer in vogue. The reign of the siffleuse—belle or otherwise—has terminated for the time being. And the banjo has been somewhat ousted from its pride of place in select circles by the mandoline. It is really high time that some new and perfectly unnecessary instrument emerged above the fashionable horizon.

With reference to the article "The Baton in England," which appeared in our last issue, we have received a letter from Mr. A. T. Maling, of the "New English Dictionary" staff, which should receive the careful attention of our readers. Mr. Maling heads his communication, "Musical Contributors to the English Dictionary Wanted," and then proceeds:

> The writer of the interesting article in your last number, under the first of the above headings, concludes by observing that the "New English Dictionary's" earliest quotation for this sense of "Baton" is dated as late as 1867, and infers that the editor has not had many musical helpers. It is unfortunately the case that, in spite of all efforts, we have been unable in many instances to obtain the earliest occurrences of words connected with technical subjects—that of music among them. The fact does not do much credit to those acquainted with the literature of such subjects, who could have supplied the needed information if they would, by going through standard works and extracting quotations for the technical words. For the quotations, which form the staple of the Dictionary, we depend almost entirely on voluntary help of this kind. If any readers of The Musical Times should feel disposed to do their part in thus making the Dictionary as complete and accurate as possible in regard to musical terms, we should be very glad if they would undertake to do this. Will any such reader please communicate with Dr. Murray, Oxford, who will be pleased to furnish the needful instructions? I may point out that though the first quotation for this sense of baton is dated 1867, the next (from Grove's "Dictionary of Music") expressly mentions the date 1820 as probably the earliest when the baton was used in England.

Last month we referred to Dr. Callcott's oratorio of "Elijah." The Callcott collection of MSS. in the British Museum—which the Trustees purchased from the late Wm. Hutchings Callcott in 1867—consists of sixty volumes, of which thirty-six contain the materials collected by Dr. Callcott for a "Musical Dictionary," which, however, was never published. Amongst the musical MSS. are the composer's autographs of his well-known glees "Ye mariners of England" and "The Red Cross Knight," and the song "Friend of the brave." One of the commonplace books contains the account of "A Musical Graduates' Society," a resumé of which appeared in our issue of December, 1892.

In an oblong folio volume, similar to the "Elijah" score, is found the "Ode to Fancy," Callcott's exercise for his degree of Bachelor of Music at Oxford, and also an "Ode to the Humane Society." At the end of the book is a "Sinfonia in F," scored for strings, oboes, and horns, composed by Callcott when he was nineteen. A memorandum in the composer's writing states, "Boyce, basso," which must refer to Dr. Boyce's son, a double-bass player, and "Callcott, corno." If this should be Callcott himself—and there seems no reason to doubt it—the horn must be added to the clarinet and oboe as one of the instruments he could play. The Sinfonia was first performed at the "General Post Office, Lombard Street," where the chief office was then located, October 5, 1785. Concerts at the General Post Office would seem very strange to us now; but they were not unknown there long before Callcott's time. The ever-gossiping Pepys records in his "Diary," under date October 5, 1664: "Thence to the Musique-meeting at the Post Office, where I was once before." Perhaps one of the officials at the General Post Office, who is interested in music, could furnish us with some information in regard to these "musique-meetings" and concerts of the long ago.

Those who have been fancying recently that they have discovered chords "not down in the harmony books," might be reminded with advantage that a certain French theorist named Anatole Loquin published recently a work entitled "Harmony simplified," which consists chiefly of an exhaustive catalogue of what he calls "harmonic effects," these being all the possible combinations—harmonious or otherwise—of the twelve notes of the scale taken two, three, four—up to twelve together. M. Loquin is not content with this formidable list of 562 chords, but he also gives a complete list of nearly 6,000 harmonic successions—one dare not say resolutions—thus including not only every progression which has ever been or ever will be used by musicians, but many which could not find a place in music until human ears develop that cover to shut out external noises which biologists tell us we are slowly evolving. It is somewhat curious, too, at this time of day, to find theorists getting excited over the difference between G sharp and A flat, when for nearly a whole century equal temperament has reigned supreme in the minds of composers.

The English Education Department has recently issued the report for 1895 on music in Training Colleges in England and Wales sent in by the Inspectors, Sir John Stainer and Mr. McNaught. The report, on the whole, is highly satisfactory. The enthusiasm and interest of many of the teachers is fully recognised. There are under Government inspection fifty-eight Colleges in England and Wales, in which some 2,800 students are trained to become schoolmasters and school-mistresses. They remain two years under instruction. Only the second year students are individually examined by the music inspectors. Owing to a change made in the time for ending the educational year, a shortened syllabus was offered, but Sir John Stainer reports:

That in a large number of cases the teachers of music declined to take advantage of the reduced requirements, and made special efforts to bring their students up to the normal standard of excellence in class as well as in individual work. Such zealous teachers will probably reap their reward in having preserved unbroken the musical traditions of their particular colleges; for it must not be forgotten that a high ideal of work, coupled with a corporate pride in past successes, form as powerful an incentive to musical study as to any other portion of a college training.

In the detailed reports there is much commendation, but occasional weaknesses are shown in six-eight time, hesitation in answering ear-tests, and uncertainty in the minor key sight-tests are remarked. The Isleworth students are praised for their performance of Mee's "Horatius," the Edge Hill (Liverpool) students for their singing of "King René's Daughter," the Gray's Inn Road students for "a charming rendering" of Tours's "Titania," the Warrington students for creditable performance of "The May Queen," the Whitelands students for an excellent rendering of Cowen's "Village Scenes," and the Newcastle students for their performance of "The Rose Maiden." The highest average marks in the examination were gained by Swansea (98·) and Oxford (96·). There can be no doubt that the work now done in Training Colleges exercises a considerable direct and indirect influence upon the progress of music in the country. The report is given in full in the School Music Review for July.

FACTS, RUMOURS, AND REMARKS.

A cutting from what appears to be a journalistic organ of the music halls has come to hand with a revelation of the inanity which seems to find favour among the patrons of these establishments. I read, for example, that a certain young lady appeared in a song with the following refrain:

Oh, Sally! you're the apple of my eye,
Oh, Sally! don't you be so shy,
Your ankle's so much neater
Than your mistress's, you know;
Sally answered, "Yes, sir,
The coachman told me so."

Being encored, this "artiste" follows on with a reply to Miss Lloyd's "Johnny Jones"—

Wouldn't you like to know,
Wouldn't you like to know,
I could tell you straight away,
But Johnny Jones is not a jay;
All through you I got in such a row,
So I don't tell little girls
All I know now.

Surely such concoctions sound the deepest depths of human silliness! What sort of people can they be who pay to hear them?

From the same paper I learn about the Gotham Comedy Quartet. Says the journal: "These four have well-trained voices, and in tonic sol-fa language of Messrs. Novello, viz.: S.T.A.B." An interpretation is invited, and also a guess at the meaning of the sentence following: "These four gentlemen, in grotesque costumes, first introduce a melody, 'Out upon the Spree,' introducing harmonies of the highest order, and the way the different melodies, for which not only the arranger must be highly commended, but also the exponents." Such writing as this may be the dire result of over-much acquaintance with music hall ditties, and we must pity rather than blame the unfortunate scribe.

The terrible word "rendition" does not so often appear in musical criticisms as was once the case, but we are now threatened with a successor even more frightful—"rendency." I see this in a Kentish paper with justifiable alarm, for an out-and-out bad example is much more likely to do mischief than a mild one. Such assaults upon the Queen's English should be punished as treasonable.

The Rev. Edward Curling, of Downham, Clitheroe, has been sampling Wagnerian libretti and does not like them. So much have they disgusted him, in fact, that he lifts up a warning voice in the Church Times, imploring music-loving clergy and laymen to touch not the unclean thing. Of the "Walküre" he remarks, "The principal scene is, I dare to say it, the most infamous ever put upon any stage in heathen or in Christian times. It consists of a glorification of incest, mingled with adultery, and the betrayal of the commonest rites of hospitality. Siegmund is running off with his host's wife. Before they go, he discovers that she is his sister. He is nothing daunted, but together they chant the edifying refrain, 'Sister and bride; bride and sister,' to a charming bit of melody, which only the more emphasises the situation, in that it occurs after some fifty pages of (to me) dreary and hysterical recitative. Yet the papers review the performance as though it were a respectable one, and Royalty, including our young Princesses, calmly goes to witness what, to the pagan mind of Sophocles, was an intolerable sin and shame, even if committed, as in "Œdipus Tyrannus," unknowingly." Mr. Curling might have added that Wagner deliberately adopted the conscious incest, and ignored the Scandinavian version of the legend, which represents the connection as taking place unwittingly. Special pleaders on the opposite side will, of course, assure Mr. Curling that Wagner's characters are mythical beings having nothing to do with the ethics of humanity. In that case they have nothing to tell humanity. An audience should be found for them as "far removed" as themselves.

Truth, usually so well informed, made a strange mistake with regard to the recent procedure of the Dean of Lincoln in changing, for festival purposes, certain passages of the hymn "Stabat Mater dolorosa," so as to bring them into harmony with the tenets of the English church. "Such proceedings," remarked the all-observant journal, "imply that the performance of a piece of sacred music is a religious function." To this the committee answered in a Lincolnshire paper: "Exactly so. . . . The oratorio festivals in our Cathedral have, from the first, been intended to be 'religious functions.' It would be very wrong that any performance of sacred music in a sacred building should have any other character. It was the earnest wish of Dean Butler, at whose instance these festivals were first established here, that they should be looked on in the light of solemn religious services." That being the case, it is manifest that the mediæval hymn could not be used in its original form without offence against Church doctrine. Whether the "Stabat Mater" should have been placed in the programme at all is another question—one which, on my own part, I answer in the negative. There are plenty of sacred works available as they stand, and no adequate excuse for meddling with a masterpiece of religious poetry is possible. "Hands off."

In connection with the recent performance of Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto by the Philharmonic Society, I received some interesting notes from Mr. Edwards, author of the "History of 'Elijah.'" A reproduction here will certainly be acceptable:

"The first performance of Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto in England took place on December 23, 1845, at the Western Institution, 47, Leicester Square, in the room which is now the well-known sale-room of Messrs. Puttick and Simpson, and which was formerly the studio of Sir Joshua Reynolds. The performer was a Herr Kreutzer, 'Director of Music to the Grand Duke of Baden,' and the occasion was a musical lecture on 'Mendelssohn'—one of 'Evenings with the great composers'—given by the veteran, Mr. Henry J. Lincoln, formerly musical critic of the Daily News, who played the pianoforte accompaniment to the concerto. Mr. Lincoln remembers that an old gentleman, seated in the front row of the audience, persistently marked the rhythm of the last movement with his umbrella.

"The first performance of the Concerto in England, with orchestra, was at the Philharmonic Concert, Hanover Square Rooms, June 29 (printed '27th' in the programme), 1846, the 'Elijah' year, when the work was played by Sivori—'little, good-tempered, intelligent Camillo Sivori.' In this connection it may be interesting to quote from a letter (hitherto unpublished) written by William Bartholomew, the English translator of 'Elijah,' to Mendelssohn, dated 'July 9, 1846':—'Sivori played your splendid Violin Concerto very well indeed, and I assure you it was generally and highly admired. . . . I ought, in justice to Mr. Anderson [conductor of the Queen's private band] to inform you that he had a band rehearsal at the Palace [Buckingham Palace] expressly for Sivori to try your Concerto—Sivori, having only played it with the pianoforte, being fearful it might not be effective. I heard it then, and all present were charmed with it.'"

According to a letter in the Isle of Wight Observer, there is an old gentlemen still living who remarks to his friends: "If I want a thoroughly reliable opinion on the subject of music, I always get a copy of The Musical Times and read it all the other way round, and then I know I am right." Poor old gentleman! He must be very old indeed.

I am indebted to a correspondent for the following interesting note:—

The Law Times of May 23 in a reprint of an address by the Editor, Mr. F. O. Crump, Q.C., delivered at a Shakesperean night of "Our Club," entitled "A Lawyer's after-dinner study of Hamlet," which is by no means devoid of humour, contains a droll musical blunder. The learned lecturer, after drawing various excellent legal parallels, proceeds to say: "Then again it is curious that he should not call a flute-player a flute-player. Wedded to legal matters, he salutes the musicians as the Recorders—small local judges with £40 a year," alluding to the famous illustration taken from the flute in Act iii., scene 2. The Law Times is, for a legal paper, a good deal addicted to humour, even unintentionally, as in Mr. E. A. Jelf's articles "Where to find your Law"; but it appears to be actually the fact that the lecturer overlooked the stage direction, "Enter one with a recorder," forgot the reference by Shakespeare in the "Midsummer Night's Dream," and also overlooked the fact that this wind instrument actually existed and had a celebrated history.

It was reported, some time ago, that Verdi intended to establish a "House of Rest" for aged and decayed musicians and librettists. The first step towards that benevolent end has now been taken. I read that Verdi has just deposited a sum representing roughly in English money £16,000 towards the first cost of the institution, and has promised three times that amount for its completion and endowment. It is understood, moreover, that, after the death of Mrs. Verdi, should she survive her husband, a large portion of the residue of his estate will benefit the foundation. Happy Verdi to have won the means of doing good in the ways of art; happier still in having the disposition to benefit his less fortunate comrades for all time.

I have just read that Mr. E. C. Phelps, the American composer, has become deranged. It is reported of him that he startled a friend, one day, by declaring himself commissioned from heaven to compose only for celestial choirs. He spoke of visions also, through which instructions were given to take up music where Wagner left off. It is curious that, having said this, the poor gentleman asked for a loan of money. Mr. Phelps' speedy restoration must be desired by us all.

Mr. Paderewski has placed 10,000 dollars in the hands of trustees, who are directed to invest the sum and apply its interest to the encouragement of American composition through a series of triennial prizes—viz., 500 dollars for the best orchestral work in symphonic form, 300 dollars for the best piece written for a solo instrument and orchestra, and 200 dollars for the best example of chamber music. This is the result of a "desire to extend a friendly hand toward my American fellow-musicians." Excellent.

It is interesting to note that "recalls" on the operatic stage have defenders on their merits. Here is, for example, the advocacy of Sigmond Lautenberg:

I am for recalls, and I have my reasons. Beyond doubt it is offensive to a finely organised, æsthetic soul to see a hero and heroine, after a scene of violent passion, appear a minute or two later to receive the public applause and bow their thanks repeatedly; but, on the other hand, applause born from the feeling of the moment is so inspiriting to the artist, so effective on the whole "go" of the piece, that neither player nor actor would like to miss it.

Much might be said in continuation of this argument, and I, for one, do not see why we should be so anxious about realism in connection with a form of art which, in its very nature, is ideal.

Joseph Bennett.

On the 3rd ult., at the Royal Archæological Institute, a paper was read on "The Fitzwilliam (commonly known as Queen Elizabeth's) Virginal Book," by Mr. J. A. Fuller Maitland, who, after describing the volume and pointing out the historical importance of its contents, played a number of examples by Byrd, Morley, Peter Phillips, Giles Farnaby, and others, upon the fine sixteenth century virginal belonging to Mr. Dolmetsch, lent for the occasion.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

By far the most important event of the present opera season during the past month was the production of "The Meistersinger," on May 30. "The Meistersinger" has been heard pretty often of recent years at Covent Garden, with strong casts, including such singers as M. Jean de Reszké, M. Lassalle, and Madame Albani. But the cast of May 30 was not only the strongest yet associated with Wagner's work on the English boards; it included (for the first time in London) the Hans Sachs of M. Edouard de Reszké, an assumption of such merit as almost to merge the function of critic in that of the eulogist. M. Edouard de Reszké has appeared in this part in New York, where, strange to say, the attitude of the cognoscenti was by no means entirely laudatory. It was said of his impersonation that it was lacking in the "true German spirit." Of course it is hard for anyone not a Teuton to pronounce what the true German spirit is; but if a superb voice, an admirable vocal method whether in dialogue, declamation, or cantilena, a happy mixture of dignity and bonhomie, a fine presence, and a sense of humour fail to meet the exigencies of the situation, all we can say is that we find no great difficulty in reconciling ourselves to the absence of this mysterious factor. Certain it is, beyond cavil, that the music allotted to Hans Sachs has never been sung anywhere as it was sung by M. Edouard de Reszké. The only serious criticism that we have to offer is that he was "made up" to look rather too young for the part. The new Hans Sachs was unquestionably the great feature of this really memorable performance, but in no single instance did the representatives of the principal parts fall below a high standard of excellence. Exception may be taken to M. Jean de Reszké's phrasing of certain passages, but with all deductions he is a wonderfully engaging, gallant, and romantic Walther. Madame Eames was an exceedingly picturesque Eva, and sang with remarkable elegance and purity of style; if she could only conquer her frigidity as an actress, there would be little scope for fault-finding in her impersonation of the part. The Magdalena of Mdlle. Bauermeister is quite one of the very best rôles in her extensive repertory. M. Plançon's splendid voice and dignified bearing enabled him to give due prominence to Pogner. M. Bonnard, though not very happy in his make-up, was thoroughly efficient as David, and last, but not least, Mr. Bispham resumed his exceedingly clever impersonation of Beckmesser. At times we confess that he seemed inclined to overact the comedy of the part; at others he hardly brought out Beckmesser's bitter pedantry. But it was an undeniably effective piece of work, while nothing could have been better than the mordant incisiveness of Mr. Bispham's singing. In the matter of tempi, Signor Mancinelli occasionally discarded the Bayreuth traditions, but acquitted himself in the main with zeal and ability. The orchestra evidently enjoyed themselves, and the chorus sang very creditably. On the first night some of the accompaniments were too loud, but at subsequent performances a marked improvement in this respect was noticeable.

Though Flotow's "Marta" was dwarfed by juxtaposition to "The Meistersinger," the performance given on the night of the 2nd ult. was not only exceedingly meritorious, but fairly enjoyable. Flotow's genial little work has long lost its former vogue, and will soon possess a merely archæological interest. But so long as first-rate singers are anxious to appear in a work associated with the triumphs of some of the greatest artists of forty years and more agone, so long will "Marta" be accorded the honour of a casual revival. The last time it was done at Covent Garden, a few years back, Madame Mravina, a Polish singer, took the title rôle. On this occasion Miss Marie Engle, who hails from Chicago, was the heroine, and acquitted herself with much success. Miss Engle's vocal resources are extremely slender, so far as volume of voice is concerned. But the delicacy and purity of her singing, the extreme neatness of her execution of florid passages, and, above all, the charm and refinement of her acting, largely atone for these shortcomings, and her delivery of "The last rose of summer" was so thoroughly artistic and free from exaggeration that it received the compliment of not being encored. Madame Mantelli, who is as versatile as she is efficient, was an excellent Nancy; Signor Cremonini a pleasant Lionello, winning an encore for "M' appari tutt' amor"; Signor Pini-Corsi once more proved himself to be an excellent low comedian as Tristan; and M. Edouard de Reszké gave a wonderful display of his command of the bravura style in the song in praise of beer. Such a union of flexibility and strength is indeed rare in a bass singer. But it is whispered that M. Edouard de Reszké sometimes amuses his friends by singing "Una voce poco fa" with an agility almost equal to that of Madame Patti herself. The charming chain of quartets which culminated in the "Spinning-Wheel" Quartet were given with admirable precision, though the balance would have been better if M. Edouard de Reszké had sung behind the scenes. It was not that he shouted—as a matter of fact, he never "let out" his voice at all; but that the timbre of it was so far fuller and more sonorous than that of his colleagues.

In Verdi's "Traviata," which was given on the evening of the 8th ult., Madame Albani appeared as Violetta. Her performance, it is needless to say, was marked by her wonted skill in the management of her voice, as well as by that emotional fervour which is never absent from her acting. Signor Ancona sang admirably as Germont and Signor de Lucia did what in him lay to mitigate the essential mawkishness of Alfredo. The performance seemed to give pleasure to the "old guard" of Covent Garden habitués, but its reception cannot exactly be described as enthusiastic.

Of very different quality from "La Traviata" is Verdi's brilliantly romantic "Aïda," which was given on the evening of the 10th ult., with a cast of remarkable strength, so far as the male artists were concerned. Signor Alvarez sang with great force and even brilliancy as Radames, acting with a robust vigour welcome in a tenor, while it would have been difficult to improve on the Ramfis of M. Plançon or the Amonasro of Signor Ancona. Signor Arimondi, an excellent actor and very fair singer, made a dignified King. Madame Adini, an actress of experience and intelligence, was a massive Aïda, and sang with energy and spirit; but the quality of her voice and the method of its production leave a good deal to be desired in charm of tone and steadiness of emission. Madame Mantelli was an extremely conscientious and meritorious Amneris, but she also is lacking in the magic quality of charm. The opera was exceedingly well mounted and the chorus sang with more than usual precision. It was a pity, however, that M. Alvarez could not sing his part in Italian like all the other artists. Opera is an artificial enough product of itself, without extra incongruities of this sort.

The performance of "Die Walküre" in French on the evening of Saturday, the 13th ult., though not lacking in interesting features, could not be pronounced a success. In "Tannhäuser" the adoption of the French text makes far less difference, perhaps because of the pageantry and brilliancy of many of the scenes. But in "Die Walküre" it produces results that are often finicking and sometimes ridiculous. The genius of the French tongue is not attuned to the atmosphere of a Saga. Apart from this, the cast was by no means altogether satisfactory. Madame Mantelli, a most admirably conscientious and earnest artist, has neither the peculiar physique nor the quality of voice demanded by the arduous rôle of Brünnhilde; M. Castelmary, a most hard-working "utility" artist, was quite out of his element as Hunding; and Mdlle. Lola Beeth, the Sieglinde of the cast, appeals far more successfully to the eye than to the ear. She sings, it is true, with taste, but her voice is weak in the lower register, has little carrying power unless she sings forte, and is impaired by a good deal of tremolo. Still it is only right to say that her efforts were most cordially appreciated by the audience, and that, judged by the verdict of applause, her début was most successful. The feature of the performance, however, was undoubtedly the fine singing and powerful acting of M. Alvarez, whom we are inclined to think the most impressive and picturesque Siegmund yet seen on the London stage. M. Albers sang with taste as Wotan, but that rôle demands a voice of heavier metal and a histrionic method of greater breadth. Mdlle. Brazzi was efficient as Fricka; the ensemble of the Valkyries was decidedly above the average; and the absurd magic lantern slides were happily conspicuous by their absence. Signor Mancinelli conducted with vigour and ability, and the orchestra played excellently.

Madame Melba was the bright particular star of the week beginning the 15th ult. On Thursday, the 18th, she made her entrée in "Roméo et Juliette," the cast including the MM. de Reszké, M. Plançon, M. Albers, and M. Bonnard. A finer all-round performance has probably never been heard at Covent Garden. Madame Melba returns, as she left us, the most perfect soprano singer on the operatic boards; her voice is as fresh and her method as pure as ever, and the evening was one succession of triumphs for her and her associates. M. Jean de Reszké's voice sounded a little worn in the early part of the evening, but he was superb in the duel scene and the whole of the last two acts. Of his brother Edouard and M. Plançon, it is enough to say that they maintained their reputations as the two finest bass singers on the lyric stage. Mdlle. Bauermeister and Miss Hudleston lent useful aid as the Nurse and the page Stefano. Signor Mancinelli conducted, and the orchestra were in clover.

On Saturday, the 20th ult., Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor" served to illustrate Madame Melba's extraordinary accomplishments as a bravura singer. When Lucia goes mad, in robes of white accordion pleating, to the pyrotechnic accompaniment of the flute—an admittedly hopeless form of insanity—Madame Melba simply defies criticism. The audience were stirred to unwonted frenzy, and were not appeased until the prima donna had repeated her wonderful performance, in which, let us hasten to add, she was splendidly backed up by Mr. Frederic Griffith, the brilliant young Welsh flautist. For the rest, it may suffice to say that excellent representatives of Edgardo, Enrico, and Raimondo were forthcoming in Signori Cremonini, Ancona, and Arimondi, that the sestet was encored, and that Signor Bevignani conducted.

RICHTER CONCERTS.

The répertoire of these Concerts has been enriched by four works during the past month. At the second Concert, given on the 1st ult., Richard Strauss's Humoresque, "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks," and Dvorák's "New World" Symphony were heard in London, for the first time, under Dr. Richter's direction. Both were magnificently played, of course, but the frivolities of the Humoresque naturally elicited the great conductor's sympathies far less than the poetic charm of the Symphony, and Strauss's work was therefore played less "madly" than at the Crystal Palace. It gained a little—a very little—in dignity, but still failed to satisfy the careful listener as to its reason for existence. To use so noble an orchestra for the performance of such buffoonery is like engaging a Phelps or an Irving to play clown in a pantomime. Dvorák's beautiful Symphony, which the oftener one hears the more one likes, received an absolutely ideal rendering. The wonderful "atmosphere" of the slow movement, in particular, has never before been so marvellously preserved; and to this result the player of the important part for Corno Inglese (Mr. Davies) contributed not a little. The two remaining numbers of the programme were the noble and beautiful "Tragic" Overture of Brahms (Op. 81) and the tolerably familiar selection for orchestra from Wagner's "Ring." Brahms, Dvorák, Strauss, and Wagner—a Catholic programme indeed!

The third (and this year unfortunately the last) Concert, which took place on the 8th ult., began with Tschaïkowsky's Overture to "Romeo and Juliet," which had not been heard in England since its first performance here at the Crystal Palace in November, 1876, five years after its publication in Berlin. The composer was not satisfied with his work as first written, and prepared a second version; but owing to the non-arrival of the complete parts of the latter Dr. Richter was compelled to perform the earlier version. We agree with the composer in his dissatisfaction with this work—it is diffuse, inordinately long, and by no means easy to connect with the drama on which it is supposed to be based. The Tschaïkowsky whom we have learnt to admire during the past decade, through three magnificent Symphonies and other noble and beautiful works, is to be discerned in this Overture only by certain outward characteristics which are probably less individual than national. Following the Russian master's work came the Good Friday music from "Parsifal"; Dvorák's Overture, entitled "Otello," now played at a Richter Concert for the first time; the familiar Prelude and Closing Scene from "Tristan und Isolde," the "Walkürenritt," and Beethoven's noble C minor Symphony. The large audience manifested much enthusiasm throughout the evening, and at the close of the Concert Dr. Richter received a well-deserved ovation.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

The sixth Concert, which took place on the 3rd ult., began with Sir A. C. Mackenzie's "Twelfth Night" Overture (Op. 40). This work, which was written in 1888, and first produced at the Richter Concerts in that year, was spoken of at the time by an excellent critic as being "an admirable reflex of the delightful freshness, delicate grace and meaning of Shakespeare's comedy, abounding, moreover, in addition to consummate mastership, in original and captivating instrumental effects"; an opinion with which all who heard the Overture at the Concert now under notice must surely have agreed. The remaining purely orchestral works were Beethoven's "Eroica" Symphony and Saint-Saëns's Symphonic Poem "Le Rouet d'Omphale." That gifted young artist, Mark Hambourg, gave an extraordinarily brilliant and powerful rendering of Rubinstein's difficult Concerto in D minor. The technique and verve displayed were, for so youthful an executant, quite remarkable. Vocal pieces were contributed by the Sisters Ravogli. Mdlle. Giulia Ravogli sang "Connais tu le pays," from Thomas's "Mignon" (in Italian, however), and, in response to an encore, her cheval de bataille, "Chè Faro"; and her sister was heard in Cherubini's beautiful "Ave Maria," which the programme oddly enough described as being from the composer's opera "Medea"! If the "printer's boy" was the culprit he may be congratulated on the perpetration of a quite exceptionally successful example of "Incongruity as a fine art."

The seventh Concert, on the 17th ult., brought the eighty-fourth season to a close. Its programme consisted of a string of masterpieces—i.e., Mr. MacCunn's Overture "Ship o' the Fiend" (given for the first time at the Philharmonic Concerts), Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto, Berlioz's beautiful song "La Captive," Beethoven's C minor Concerto for pianoforte, and the colossal C major Symphony of Schubert. The solo part in Mendelssohn's work was played by the youthful and talented violinist, Mr. Louis Pecskai, with much skill and taste, but scarcely sufficient "authority" for a Concert of such calibre. Mr. Reisenauer's playing in Beethoven's work was far too modern. There is a wide gulf between the styles of Beethoven (early middle period) and Chopin or Liszt, which, however obvious, was certainly ignored by the pianist on this occasion. The exponent of "La Captive" was Mdlle. Landi, an artist who touches nothing without adorning it, and whose admirable singing was supported by an equally perfect rendering by the orchestra of the rich and delicate accompaniment. A refined and spirited performance of the Symphony was given, at the close of which Sir Alexander Mackenzie was recalled. This Concert, like former ones given by the Society, was far too long—it lasted from eight till past eleven—and was made longer by the pianist, who, at the close of Beethoven's Concerto, was weak enough to accept an encore.

MOTTL CONCERT.

The third and last Mottl Concert, given at Queen's Hall, on the 11th ult., consisted of the "Schmiedelieder" and closing scene from "Siegfried" and the Prelude and closing scene from "Die Götterdämmerung." As this and the previous Concert were announced as "intended not as ordinary Concerts, but as a preparation for the ensuing Bayreuth Festival," it is unnecessary to point out that these excerpts are quite unsuited to the concert-room. Otherwise we should have to show that, as music, their full beauty and significance can be realised only when costume, scenery, and gesture (the last especially) are as evident to the eye as voices and orchestra are to the ear. This, as every tyro knows, is the essence of Wagner's art. But his music is often so beautiful, so satisfying, that many are content to enjoy it for itself alone. Their weakness may be condoned, but it must not be encouraged. The characters represented were distributed as follows:—Brünnhilde, Fräulein Doxart; Siegfried, Herr Emil Gerhäuser; Mime, Herr Bussart; and the three Norns, Mesdames Mottl, Gelber, and Agnes Janson.

WESTMINSTER ORCHESTRAL SOCIETY.

THE concluding Concert of the eleventh season of the Westminster Orchestral Society, which took place on the 3rd ult., at the Westminster Town Hall, acquired distinction by the first performance of a Symphony in C minor by Mr. Barclay Jones, the director of music at the Brompton Oratory. Mr. Jones had previously attracted favourable notice as a composer by an Overture in C minor, produced at the Crystal Palace Saturday Concerts on October 22, 1892, but the Symphony in question is far in advance of that work. It consists of an impressive Introduction, which leads into an Allegro vivace, remarkable for loftiness of conception, sustained vigour, and powerful expression of deep sentiment. This is followed by an Adagio built upon impressive themes, which are skilfully treated and effectively contrasted by an episode towards the close of passionate character. The Minuet is lighter in spirit and forms an agreeable relief after the seriousness of the preceding matter. In the Finale a return is made to the style of the first movement, to which, however, it is inferior as a whole, but it contains many most effective passages, and shows the composer's remarkable power of writing effective crescendos and working up powerful climaxes. The Symphony was enthusiastically received, and should be heard again at an early date. Another novelty of the evening was a graceful and expressive "Aubade" in A for violin and orchestra, by Mr. Arthur Gilbertson, the solo part of which was effectively rendered by Mr. W. A. Easton. The rest of the programme comprised the first movement from Thomas Wingham's Serenade in E flat, Mendelssohn's second Concerto in D minor (Op. 40), the pianoforte part of which was played with taste and brilliancy by Madame Amina Goodwin, and an excellent selection of songs, which were well interpreted by Miss Curnow and Mr. Bantock Pierpoint. With the exception of the Symphony, which was conducted by its composer, the Concert was under the direction of Mr. Stewart Macpherson, who led his estimable forces with his usual skill.

PIANOFORTE RECITALS.

MR. ERNEST HUTCHESON gave a Pianoforte Recital on the 10th ult., at the Steinway Hall, when he proved himself an executant of great ability. He has yet to acquire the subtleties of touch upon which the charm of pianoforte playing so largely depend, but his interpretations of Schumann's Fantasia in C (Op. 17), and Mr. Eugene d'Albert's arrangement of Bach's well known Prelude and Fugue in D, were characterised by artistic qualities which promise to secure for this young musician an esteemed position in the future.

If it cannot be said that Mr. Fritz Masbach, who gave a Recital, on the 1st ult., at St. James's Hall, may take rank among the foremost artists of his time, he is a sound and conscientious player, as was proved at his Orchestral Concert three weeks earlier. The programme of his Recital was formed chiefly of familiar compositions, including Mozart's Fantasia in C minor, Beethoven's Sonata in A flat (Op. 26), with the Funeral March, Schumann's "Faschingsschwank aus Wien," and pieces by Chopin, Grieg, Godard, and Liszt.

Mr. Eugene d'Albert's fourth Recital took place on the 2nd ult., the programme commencing with Beethoven's Sonatas in E (Op. 109) and A flat (Op. 110), both of which were admirably rendered. Brahms's difficult Variations on a theme by Handel (Op. 24) and Liszt's extraordinary Sonata in B minor served still further to display Mr. d'Albert's command of his instrument. Then came pieces by Chopin, in which he was not quite so successful—that is to say, in bringing out the poetic feeling in the Polish composer's music.

Mr. Albert Lockwood, who we believe is American by birth, gave a Recital in St. James's Hall, on the 14th ult., and showed himself an able and vigorous if not a great player. There were too many arrangements, or rather disarrangements, in his programme; but he showed fine technique and intelligence in Beethoven's Sonata in F minor (Op. 57) and pieces by Bach and Brahms. There was a fairly good attendance, considering that Mr. Lockwood was a stranger in our midst.

On the 10th ult. a Recital was given by Mr. Slivinski in the Queen's Hall. It commenced with Beethoven's Sonata (Op. 110), this being followed by a creditable, if not brilliant, performance of Schumann's Carnaval. The artist also played several of Chopin's compositions, including the Sonata in B flat minor (Op. 35), with the Funeral March, which was taken a little too fast. There were also pieces by Mendelssohn, Schubert, and Liszt. Mr. Slivinski's playing was marked by soundness and general conscientiousness rather than individuality of style. A second Recital, of equal interest, was given on the 20th ult.

Mr. d'Albert has concluded his series of five Pianoforte Recitals, and has succeeded in rehabilitating himself in the estimation of the English public. The last Recital was given at St. James's Hall, on the 9th ult., commencing with Beethoven's huge Sonata in B flat (Op. 106), of which he gave a truly magnificent rendering, showing phenomenal powers of execution in the extraordinary fugue which concludes the work. He also played with great effect Schumann's Sonata in G minor (Op. 22), two of Scarlatti's Sonatas, and pieces by Weber, Rubinstein, and Liszt. We trust he has been satisfied with the result of his return after many years' absence to what he was pleased to term "The Land of Fogs," but there have been no fogs to trouble him of late.

On Thursday evening, the 18th ult., at the Queen's Hall, a fairly successful Pianoforte Recital was given by Mr. Edgar Hulland. Perhaps the principal piece in the programme was Schumann's "Faschingsschwank aus Wien," of which he gave a good interpretation, especially of the last two movements. There was a Suite for pianoforte and violoncello by a Russian composer named Napravnik, in which Mr. Hulland was joined by Miss Mabel Chaplin. It is a characteristic Slavonic work and was much appreciated, being strongly rhythmical and generally bright and melodious. There were various other pieces in the programme, some of them new, including a pleasing Caprice by Miss Theresa Beney, an equally agreeable Nocturne by Miss Frances Allitsen, and a Romance by Mr. Hulland himself. Miss Mary Forrest was pleasant in songs by Brahms, Meyer Helmund, and Wekerlin.

VIOLIN RECITALS.

THE popularity of the violin continues to increase, and this is not surprising, for the number of first-class executants is now exceptionally large. Many Recitals have been given during the past few weeks, some of them, however, being virtually chamber concerts. The first to be noticed is that of Mr. Jan van Oordt, who, as his name indicates, is of Dutch nationality. He is a sound though by no means striking player, and the puff preliminary could have done him no good. His chief efforts were Paganini's Concerto in D, the accompaniments of which had been arranged for pianoforte by M. César Thomson, Mr. van Oordt's preceptor. It is very difficult but not very interesting as music. Bach's favourite Chaconne, and pieces by Max Bruch, Corelli, and Wieniawski were included in the programme. The artist was much applauded and will probably return to London next season. Miss Regina de Sales sang soprano airs in a very refined and agreeable manner.

Two days later, May 28, Mr. Pecskai, another newcomer, this time from Hungary, appeared for the first time in England at St. James's Hall, and proved himself a performer of commanding ability, his style recalling that of Herr Joachim, than whom no better model could be found. His bright tone and vigorous execution were displayed in several pieces of minor dimensions, though not of minor difficulty, and to the greatest advantage in Mendelssohn's Concerto, played with the composer's own pianoforte accompaniment.

On the following day Mr. Ysaye gave the first of three performances at the Queen's Hall, this being an orchestral concert. The Belgian violinist, whose talents may be fairly described as phenomenal, had not been with us for a considerable period; but that his powers have not declined was proved by his magnificent interpretation of Beethoven's and Mendelssohn's Concertos, tone and breadth in phrasing being well-nigh faultless. Mr. Robert Newman's Queen's Hall orchestra, under Mr. Randegger, showed what improvement it has made since its formation in Grieg's "Peer Gynt" Suite (No. 1) and two overtures.

It was unfortunate that the other Recitals clashed with those of Mr. Sarasate at St. James's Hall. At the second of Mr. Ysaye's, on the 6th ult., he was associated with his brother, Mr. Théophile Ysaye, who proved himself a competent if not a great pianist in Grieg's Duet-Sonata in G and the accompaniments to Vieuxtemps's Concerto in D minor. Mr. Ysaye, sen., also played Sarasate's "Zigeunerweisen."

The Spanish violinist has dispensed with an orchestra this season, and he has been associated with a pianist named Dr. Otto Neitzel, who, though a neat player, cannot be named in comparison with Madame Bertha Marx, now Madame Goldschmidt. Mr. Sarasate's programme was headed by Bach's Sonata in B minor for violin and clavier (No. 1), of which Philipp Spitta speaks, with perfect justice, in the most eulogistic terms; and this was followed by the Duet-Sonata in A minor (No. 2), a melodious if somewhat unequal work. The rendering of both Sonatas can scarcely be described as perfect, but Mr. Sarasate was fully himself in pieces by Wieniawski and in his own "Peteneras." Of course encores were demanded and readily conceded.

Mr. Sarasate's second Recital, on the 13th ult., commenced with Bach's second Sonata in A for violin and clavier, and this was followed by Goldmark's Suite (Op. 11), which appears to be a favourite with him. It is a bright, showy work, but "made" rather than inspired music. His solos, or rather those which were set down for him, for he had to grant encores, were his own "Zigeunerweisen" and the melodious "Sérénade Andalouse." Dr. Otto Neitzel was again the pianist. He is a good musician, but he was scarcely well advised to essay Schumann's "Carnaval," his reading of which was dull and uninteresting. Two English pianists might be named who would have rendered far more justice to the work.

Again this Recital clashed with the third and last of Mr. Ysaye, which was a great pity, for Saturday afternoon during the summer months is certainly not the most favourable time for giving Concerts. However, the Belgian fiddler secured a good audience, and he was again assisted by his brother, Mr. Théophile Ysaye, the principal pieces in the programme being a well-written and effective Duet-Sonata in A minor by Gabriel Fauré, Saint-Saëns's Concerto in B minor, and Bach's unaccompanied Prelude and Fugue in G minor.

Miss Beatrice Langley gave a successful Recital, on the 10th ult., at St. James's Hall, her playing being marked by good tone and artistic feeling. She was heard in pieces by Bach, Leclair, Wieniawski, and joined Mr. Frederick Dawson in Schubert's melodious Rondeau Brillant in B minor (Op. 70). Her interpretation of Bach's music was characterised by admirable breadth of phrasing and a dignity of expression that indicated thorough sympathy with the old master, and the appropriately lighter style adopted in the rendering of the excerpts from the other composers showed the possession of considerable versatility. Mr. Dawson was praiseworthy in pianoforte solos by Bach, Hubert Parry, and Chopin, and so was Miss Hélène l'Amy in high-class vocal numbers.

Mr. Sarasate concluded his summer season on the 20th ult., when he introduced, in conjunction with Dr. Otto Neitzel, Mr. Saint-Saëns's new Sonata for violin and pianoforte, first played by the composer and Mr. Sarasate at the Salle Pleyel in Paris, on the 2nd ult. It reveals no new phase of its author's genius; but the themes are for the most part agreeable, and the treatment is of course symmetrical and musicianly to the fullest possible degree. The Sonata will doubtless be heard again in the autumn. The programme likewise contained Bach's Sonata in E for violin and clavier (No. 3), and solos both for Mr. Sarasate and Dr. Neitzel, by Saint-Saëns, Chopin, and the Concert-giver.

Another Recital, as it was termed, though it would be more suitably placed under the heading of chamber concert, was given by Messrs. Pecskai, violinist; Mr. Marix Loevensohn, violoncellist; and Mr. Carlo Ducci, pianist, at St. James's Hall, on the 15th ult. The programme included Beethoven's "Kreutzer" Sonata, Mendelssohn's Pianoforte Trio in D, and an uninteresting Violoncello Concerto by August Lindner, which, however, was well played. It is curious that no one seems capable of writing a really fine Concerto for the violoncello. There were solo pieces for the artists, but these do not call for remark.

MAGPIE MADRIGAL SOCIETY'S CONCERT.

THIS amateur Society, which, for the last ten years or so has devoted itself, under the guidance of Mr. Lionel Benson, to the practice and performance of madrigal music, chiefly of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, gave a most successful Invitation Concert in St. James's Hall on the evening of the 5th ult. Out of a programme which was rich in Elizabethan, Old Italian, and Netherlandish compositions, one may select for special mention Orlando Lasso's wonderfully fresh and entertaining "O là, che buon Eco" (encored), Wilbye's splendid "When shall my wretched life," Dowland's exquisite "Shall I sue,' Orazio Vecchi's dainty "Leggiadretto Clorino," and Gastoldi's "Al mormorar." Contemporary composers were admirably represented by three of Brahms's beautiful trios for female voices, horns, and harp; by Dr. Hubert Parry's dignified "There rolls the deep" (encored), with its remarkable concluding cadence; and by Mr. Henschel's elaborate and effective part-song "To Music," which was originally composed for this Society. It is enough to say that the efforts of the choir were worthy of the music selected. The tone of the female voices is especially excellent, and the precision of the singers reflects great credit on their conductor. Apart from their unnecessary accentuation of unimportant syllables in German, the Magpies, who sang in four languages, may be congratulated on their linguistic versatility. The soloists were Mrs. Hutchinson, who gave with remarkable distinction of style Mr. Stanford's "Bower of roses"—accompanied by the composer on the pianoforte and Miss Timothy on the harp—and Schubert's exquisitely touching "Gretchen am Spinnrade"; Miss Donkersley, who was loudly and deservedly applauded for her clever playing of Max Bruch's Romance for violin in A minor and two of Stanford's "Irish Fantasies," including the poetic and beautiful Lament; and Mr. Kennerley Rumford, who was encored for his sympathetic singing of two of Dr. Hubert Parry's songs, "Why so pale and wan" and "To Althea." Mr. Bird was, as usual, an impeccable accompanist.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

PERHAPS the most noteworthy feature of the Concert given on the evening of the 11th ult. was the sympathy and intelligence which marked the performance of the various instrumental numbers in the programme. No amount of technical excellence will make up for the absence of the qualities mentioned, which are indispensable if justice is to be done to the gentle pathos of Arensky's Trio in D minor, the tender serenity of Brahms's Clarinet Sonata in E flat, and the romantic beauty of Schubert's Quintet in C major. Yet, despite certain obvious shortcomings, these works were all interpreted in a manner which entitled the young players to warm commendation. Miss Mary Noverre's sweet and refined, if small, tone was particularly to be admired; and high promise was shown by Miss Marie Motto and Mr. F. Moss. Of the singing it is, unfortunately, not possible to speak so favourably; indeed, Mr. J. McInnes alone seemed to possess such natural gifts as would encourage the hope of real success in his profession. But in this, of course, we may have been deceived.

The Pupils' orchestra was in excellent form at the Concert of the 19th ult. The programme included Beethoven's "Leonora" Overture (No. 1), the Prelude and Liebestod from Wagner's "Tristan," and Dvorák's Symphony "Aus der neuen Welt." The performance of the first-named was a little ragged, but the Wagner excerpt received a really fine interpretation. The glow and passion, the yearning and exultation were all reproduced in a remarkable degree. Professor Stanford's handling of the orchestra, the way in which he led up to and then produced the climaxes, as well as the success with which he made the parts of the complex score stand out, were admirable, and almost worthy of Hans Richter himself. We were pleased to see this piece in the programme and to know that at this Institution it is not considered a part of the master's duty to "warn the pupils of an acquaintance with the productions of the Bayreuth school and its revolutionary tendencies," as the worthy Principal of the Berlin Hochschule does. Any student intending to become a professional orchestral player would fare badly indeed if he left his alma mater without having become acquainted with the difficulties (as well as the beauties) of the greatest writer for the orchestra since Beethoven. Dvorák's Symphony went with immense spirit. It was an exhilarating performance of a merry, rollicking work. The lovely slow movement suffered somewhat through the faulty intonation of the wind instruments. The Choral Class sang Schumann's "Gipsy Life" to an orchestral accompaniment, and Mr. Emlyn Davies's fine voice did full justice to Spohr's "To thoughts of war" ("Jessonda"). Miss Otie Chew, a clever young violinist hailing from the Antipodes, distinguished herself greatly by a performance of Saint-Saëns's Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso—at once correct, spirited, and what the Germans call "temperamentvoll."

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

The students of the Royal Academy of Music introduced at their Chamber Concert, at St. James's Hall, on the 18th ult., four compositions by members of their own body. Percy Hilder Miles (Macfarren scholar) must be credited with clever workmanship in three movements from a Trio in C minor for pianoforte, violin, and violoncello (played by Mr. Claud F. Pollard, Mr. P. H. Miles, and Miss May Mukle), but it was placed too far down in the long programme to receive the close attention deserved. Mr. William H. Reed's Romance and Minuet from a Trio for two violins and viola (Messrs. W. H. Reed, Percy H. Miles, and Vernon Addison) was much better situated and won hearty commendation. Wesley Hammet's song, "Love's Foundation," shows skill in the expression of feeling, and was admirably sung by Miss Isabel Jay. Two part-songs by Janet S. Aldis (settings of poems by D. G. Rossetti) for female voices, with the rather unusual accompaniment of three violoncellos and a pianoforte, undoubtedly pleased the listeners. Rubinstein's Romance in F and Study in C for pianoforte were well played by Miss Edith O. Greenhill; with the Intermezzo and Finale from Schumann's "Faschingsschwank aus Wien" Miss Elsie E. Horne justified the expectations of her friends, and Mr. Gwilym Richards sang very tastefully Goring Thomas's "Under thy window."

The Competition for the Robert Newman Prize (organ playing), at the Royal Academy of Music, took place on the 22nd ult. The prize was awarded to Kate A. Field (London), and the examiners highly commended Harriett Claiborne Dixon and George D. Cunningham.

GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

On the 18th ult., at Drury Lane Theatre, the Guildhall students gave a Matinée performance of Goring Thomas's opera "Esmeralda." The choice of a work by a native composer was, in itself, commendable, but something less difficult than "Esmeralda" should have been chosen. Apart from the exactions of the music, which are considerable, the characters of Victor Hugo's imaginative story make tremendous demands on the histrionic talents and experience of their impersonators. Claude Frollo, Quasimodo, Gringoire Clopin, Phœbus, Esmeralda herself, who that has once read "Notre Dame" can fail to see that to place such characters in the hands of students is to court failure? Nor could it be honestly said either of the acting or singing (the former especially), even as far as it went, that it did much credit to the school. The gestures of several of the principals were singularly wanting in grace and appropriateness. The most satisfactory feature of the performance was the stage management and the intelligent behaviour of the chorus, who entered into the spirit of the various scenes with a heartiness that made one wish they could be permanently retained at Covent Garden, where the phrase "an intelligent chorus" is supposed to involve a contradiction in terms. The conductor was Mr. Neill O'Donovan, who, on this occasion, took the place that, had he lived, would have been filled by Sir Joseph Barnby, who selected "Esmeralda" for this year's performance.

THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND TEMPERANCE CHORAL SOCIETY.

This Society, numbering about 4,000 voices, performed at the Crystal Palace, on the 6th ult., Mr. F. Cunningham Woods' new cantata "King Harold." The work, though by no means lengthy, is laid out for two soloists—Harold and Edith the Fair (tenor and soprano respectively)—and a chorus representing knights, monks, camp followers, women and children, spirits of the sea, and Norman and Saxon saints, so that considerable diversity is secured during the musical illustration of a stirring national story. Keeping in view the purpose for which it was composed, Mr. Woods has avoided anything likely to occasion difficulty or hesitation in interpretation, wisely preferring to rely upon smooth and broad melodies and harmonic effects well calculated to kindle the enthusiasm of youthful vocalists. The result at Sydenham was so successful that "King Harold" is certain to be heard ere long in many other quarters. The tenor solos are well laid out for the voice and well within the abilities of average amateur vocalists. The same may be said of the solos written for Edith the Fair, that entitled "Within a convent wall" being an extremely tasteful little ditty and containing a touch of pathos which greatly adds to its effectiveness. There is plenty of energy in the camp scene, in which bold soldiers' choruses have for pendant the solemn chant of the monks, and the interest thus early aroused is not diminished through the scenes of the Royal tent (where Harold has a vision), of the battle, and of the search for Harold's body. The choruses were creditably sung, under the conductorship of the composer, the solos being effectively given by Miss Emily Davies and Mr. James Leyland. Mr. W. Hedgcock was at the organ, which furnished the only accompaniment.

LINCOLN ORATORIO FESTIVAL.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

This solemnity—so it may truthfully be called—took place in Lincoln Cathedral on the 17th ult., and was the third of the series connected with that glorious temple of Christianity. The reader may be reminded that, for the purpose of these gatherings, the Cathedrals of Lincoln and Peterborough are associated, the Festival being held in them alternately, as is the case with the mother churches of Gloucester, Hereford, and Worcester. There are, however, certain differences between the Western and the North-Eastern leagues. The Three Choir Festivals have a charitable purpose in view, and, notwithstanding changes made of late years, partake somewhat of the nature of Concerts, there being an interval for refreshment, and so on. But the Festivals of the smaller group are not concerned with charity, and a "collection" forms no part of their procedure. They are intended to be, and succeed in being, solemn religious services, having as their chief feature the offering of praise in the form of some great religious work, rendered with all the completeness possible. There is no "interval," in the ordinary sense; merely a brief pause, during which the congregation sit still and silent. Against such services it seems almost impossible to conceive opposition, nor, I understand, is there any to speak of in Lincoln diocese; but rumour states that some of the capitular body at Peterborough are likely to give trouble on the next occasion. New men, new opinions. I will not enter into the matter more closely, because it may turn out better than is expected; but let us hope that there will be no occasion, when the time comes, to complain of insistence in personal likes and dislikes in connection with a matter upon which it is obviously possible for good men to differ and still be good.

The Lincoln Festival is worked by the usual machinery, and has its financial basis in an ample guarantee fund. It occupies one day only, in the course of which there are two services, conducted, as to the music, by the organist; as to other exercises, by the Cathedral clergy, but no sermon is preached. The orchestra consists of between sixty and seventy instruments, with an organ specially erected; the performers being drawn from London, Birmingham, Leeds, and other places. This force might be enlarged with advantage, as there is a manifest disproportion between it and the chorus, which numbered 500 voices. Much of the interest of the Festival centres in the chorus, since we do not often have an opportunity of judging the status of the North-Eastern counties in the department of choral singing. The Lincoln 500 are made up of contingents from the city itself, from Peterborough, Boston, Gainsborough, Grantham, Louth, Nottingham, and Sleaford. That body, therefore, represents a wide district, musically not very famous, but, in my belief, steadily improving. The voices, like those of a similar chorus in the Eastern counties, are not the most sonorous, but, for the most part, the quality is good, especially among the tenors and contraltos. It can be said of them that they know their work and do it in no half-hearted way.

The music at the morning service on the 17th ult. was, apart from one hymn, limited to "Elijah," regard being had, in choosing that work, to the fact that the present is its jubilee year. Naturally there was a large attendance, the spacious nave being well filled. The robed clergy were many, while the Mayors of Lincoln and various neighbouring towns made up a dignified procession. All this must strike everyone as right and proper. In England we are often careless about even seemly display, and much is lost to our ceremonials in consequence. In the present instance, seemly display was entirely fitting, and comported with the admirable order of the entire proceedings. There were no laggards at Lincoln, or, if there were, they found the doors shut against them; that conclusive operation having been performed five minutes before each service began. "Too late, too late, ye cannot enter now." The performance of "Elijah" was thus able to run its entire course without distraction, while its enjoyment was possible without interruption. Miss Anna Williams, Miss Lucie Johnstone, Mr. Ben Davies, and Mr. Watkin Mills were the principal soloists. As to three out of these four, it is needless to say more than that high reputation was fully sustained, and success easily achieved in each case. Miss Johnstone, though not unfamiliar in London concert-rooms, was new to me in a conspicuous capacity. She is a promising artist, with a voice of most sympathetic quality in the lower part of its range. Considerable feeling marked her performance, and I have not often heard "Woe unto them" given with more expression. The orchestra, with very little opportunity of welding itself into a homogeneous body, did wonderfully well, after the manner of English players in such circumstances, and the chorus, on ground familiar to them, marched confidently and in good order.

There were sixpenny seats—the lowest Festival price on record—at the evening service, and it "goes without saying" that a large crowd attended. The music on this occasion was that of Rossini's "Stabat Mater," with two parts of the "Creation." I shall not follow the example of a Yorkshire colleague, who filled much of his article with abuse of Rossini's work, nor need I take up the cudgels on behalf of music which has long enjoyed popular favour in this country, albeit animated by a typically Italian spirit, and wrought out in the unmistakable Italian manner. It is, however, somewhat too florid for the staid associations of an English Cathedral, while the Hymn cannot be used in the services of the English Church without alterations which are, from various points of view, regrettable. Apropos, a valuable feature in the service book was a literal translation of the Hymn, as used, expressly done by the Dean of Lincoln. It made the meaning of the Latin text much more obvious than do the paraphrases generally provided. The performance of the "Stabat," if not equal to that of "Elijah," was generally commendable, all things considered, and the principal vocalists were, of course, quite at home with their task. Mr. Ben Davies's rendering of "Cujus animam" was a special achievement and deserves particular mention. The Welsh tenor took his high notes with ease, and achieved quite a tour de force in the cadenza. I need not detain the reader over the "Creation" music, which ran almost of itself, and worthily brought the exercises of the day to an end.

It may be objected to the programme that it contained only hackneyed works. A hackneyed work is generally a good one; but the best reply to the criticism is that festival managers know their public, and that it is better to have works which the people will hear than even better ones from which they will stay away. For my own part, I believe that the Lincoln Festival was, in a musical sense—and not in that alone—an improving occasion, which has quickened public interest over a wide area. This notice may close with congratulations to the conductor, Dr. George J. Bennett, upon the success won, and especially upon the manner in which, as a Festival débutant, he directed the performances. Any signs of indecision which appeared may be accounted for by an oppressive sense of responsibility. The rest needs no apology, and, so far as he is concerned, the Lincoln meeting may be looked upon as safe.

SOUTH WALES MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

The existence in Cardiff of a triennial Festival, managed and supported chiefly by English people, naturally led to searchings of heart among the musicians of South Wales, and from the first it was only a question of time when they would start a similar enterprise, to show that they also were capable of equal things. It has been said that the suggestion came from the late Sir Joseph Barnby, who was to have conducted the first meeting; but matters had been ripening for some time, and at last the project seemed to be taken up over South Wales and Monmouthshire with good will. Local trainers were willing to act, more chorus singers were forthcoming than could be accepted; patriotic feeling, it was thought, would help the national love of music to achieve great results. Under these circumstances the managers made extensive preparations. They raised a guarantee fund of near upon a £1,000, engaged a numerous and efficient orchestra, with Mr. Manns as conductor; secured the co-operation of the best Welsh soloists and some who were not Welsh; made arrangements for four performances, occupying two days; and placed on the platform a very large chorus, assumed to be the pick of one half the Principality. The spirit of all this deserved an ample return, which seems to have been reckoned upon, since, according to one statement, only full audiences could give a profit.

As the time (1st and 2nd ult.) drew near grave doubts as to the attitude of the Welsh population and signals of distress appeared in the columns of the newspapers. Could it be possible that the music-lovers of Wales would turn their backs upon a Festival designed to promote the honour and glory of their own country, and to show that she was as capable as her big neighbour? It could not be possible, thought some, while others, less sanguine, rushed into print with urgent pleadings for support. The first of June arrived; the imposing mass of executants took their places on the orchestra, but where were the thousands whom fond imaginings had anticipated? To say that the huge, ungainly, and wholly unsuitable hall called after Lord Rosebery was empty of people would be wrong, but it was chiefly filled with empty benches. Nothing could be more disheartening, and the aspect of the place must have given a most painful shock to everybody interested in the fortunes of the enterprise. Of course, it "The Messiah" could not draw an audience in religious and music-loving Wales, neither could the Orchestral Concert given in the evening, nor the miscellaneous selection of instrumental pieces and songs, &c., presented on Tuesday afternoon. Tuesday evening's Concert fared better, "Elijah," with Mr. Edward Lloyd, Mr. Andrew Black, Miss Crossley, and Miss Maggie Davies, bringing £600 to the treasury as against £30 in the afternoon. Thus was settled, for the present, the question whether Wales cares for musical festivals, and numberless were the guesses as to the reason. Instead of guessing, I will make a statement of fact. The Monday being what is called "Mabon's Day," and a holiday, meetings of various kinds took place in the district, including an Eisteddfod at Brynmawr. All these were well attended, and only the poor Festival piped in vain. The inference is easy, and I leave it to the reader. As to financial results, there was, I am told, a deficit of £900, absorbing the whole, or nearly the whole, of the guarantee fund.

There is no need to say that the interest of the Festival, whether recognised or not, lay in the chorus put forward as representative of what South Wales can do in that line. This, also, was in great measure a disappointment. It has been explained to me that sufficient time was not allowed for working up the music. Sufficient time! How much does a Welsh choir need for the preparation of "The Messiah," "Elijah," and a few separate choruses? The fact is that the singers did not know even "The Messiah" as they should. In both oratorios they sang the numbers frequently associated with Eisteddfodic competitions in admirable style. With the others they did little deserving of praise, and in the Welsh music, composed for the occasion, they sang badly. Yet this was the chorus to which some Welshmen looked as destined to rival those of Leeds and the great English Festivals! When will our friends of the Principality see things as they are, and recognise that, if the Cardiff chorus was the best obtainable after months of preparation, there must be something wrong somewhere? Apropos, I will ask one question: Why does not the Eisteddfod offer prizes for sight-singing? Welsh passion and capacity for music are realities, and great results are possible with them, but we get—the singing of the Cardiff chorus!

Mr. Manns's fine orchestra played a considerable number of works in capital style, and the handful of people who came to hear them were delighted. But why were only a handful there to cheer, and why, when new music by Welsh composers was performed, was it received by the smallest audience of all? In presence of these anomalies and disappointments, in presence of utter apathy where enthusiasm was looked for, and of inefficiency which Eisteddfodic experience did not lead me to anticipate, though the Eisteddfod system may have something to do with it, I am not in heart for details of the performances. Wales, after such a fiasco, should take counsel with herself, ascertain where the weakness lies, and, with grim resolution, set about removing it.

MUSICAL ASSOCIATION.

The twenty-second session of the Musical Association was terminated on the 9th ult., when Dr. Charles Maclean read a paper on "The Tendencies of Form as shown in the most modern compositions." The lecturer preceded the subject proper of his paper by the explanation of a series of symbols which he had adopted to facilitate reference to the various forms of music and their developments. Thus, the lecturer divided his survey of the musical form under the headings of "The monopoeic" or "simply uttered," "Strophic," "Episodic," and "the Balanced"; the last-named class being sub-divided into "Balance by mere opposition," "Balance by repetition as soon as heard," "Balance by re-introduction after break," "Balance by transmutation of key."

The symbols employed were letters of the alphabet, which indicated the various portions of the above-named classes. This system was shown to embrace the entire productions of the old masters, and this having been set forth the lecturer applied the same method to modern compositions, the point of the Lecture being to show that the basis of the forms adopted even by Mozart and Wagner were the same. In support of this Dr. Maclean analysed a comprehensive selection of the most characteristic works by Dvorák, Brahms, Richard Strauss, and other writers of modern tendencies, many of the most advanced works showing, in the estimation of the lecturer, an improper use of, rather than a revolt against long established forms. The secret source of the metamorphosis of themes was alleged to be the endeavour to present in the same rhythm motives originally announced in various rhythms. Thus, for 380 bars in the "Rhinegold" there was no change of beat, although many important subjects, each possessing individuality of rhythm, were introduced. In conclusion, the lecturer said that the man who could combine the forms of Wagner and Brahms would have the world at his feet, and that to talk of the negation of form was tantamount to advocating negation of reason.

Owing to the great length of the paper the subsequent discussion was very brief; but Professor Bridge, who occupied the chair, spoke in high terms of its research and value as a work of classification. Mr. Banister seemed to think that the developments of some modern writers were only the presentation of old forms in new guises. Mr. Gilbert Webb maintained that the marks of repetition placed before the first double-bar by the old masters was a device to impress the principal themes on the listeners, and not from a desire to establish balance, in which contention he was supported by Mr. E. F. Jacques.

ROYAL INSTITUTION.

Franz Liszt formed the subject of Mr. Frederick Corder's concluding Lecture on "Three Emotional Composers" at the Royal Institution. Franz Liszt, the lecturer said, was one of the most remarkable figures, both as artist and man, in all human history. In artistic and general culture he was hardly surpassed by those two heroes of romance, the admirable Crichton and Leonardo da Vinci; in personal charm and nobility of character he had no compeer. The actual incidents of his public life were neither many nor striking, but his private history was a record of unselfishness, benevolence, and loving-kindnesses that would fill many volumes. He was believed to be a descendant of a noble family, but the perpetual wars of his native land, Hungary, prevented genealogical researches. His father, Adam Liszt, occupied the post of steward to Count Esterhazy, as his father had done before him; but he was a thwarted genius; he had a passion for music, but circumstances had never allowed him to indulge it, save in a little practising on the pianoforte. His wife seemed to have been the pattern of everything that was sweet and womanly, and from her the child Franz certainly derived much of the best side of his character. The young prodigy, who was to fill the yearnings and aspiration of both his parents, was born in that year of marvels, 1811, when the great comet stood high in the heavens. From infancy his beauty was remarkable, and his powers of mind developed very early. At six his father began to teach him the pianoforte and the elements of music, which were learnt with startling rapidity. At nine he was an artist. At that age he made his first appearance at a Concert given in aid of a blind musician. Franz played a Concerto by Ries with the orchestra, and then extemporised, to the amazement of his audience. From that moment his career knew no obstacles The best teacher his father could think of was Hummel, who then was considered to be the greatest of pianists. But Hummel declared, though willing to aid one so remarkably gifted, he really could not lower his terms, which were a guinea a lesson—a prohibitive price. Some sixty years later the people of Presburg wanted to build a monument to Hummel, but could not raise the money. Liszt was then nearly seventy, and had long retired; but out of honour to a once famous man he came forward and, by giving a single Concert, earned all the money required. After studying under Charles Czerny it was decided that Liszt should go to Paris to complete his education at the famous Conservatoire, but Cherubini refused him admission on the ground of his nationality. However, this did not matter; he had good introductions, played in the salons of the aristocracy, and became their darling at once. Liszt always regarded Paris as his home, and no wonder, for Paris in the thirties was the "hub" of the Universe, where all men of genius congregated, and Liszt knew and admired them all and was their idol. In 1849, wearied of his uncontested triumphs as a virtuoso, he surprised everyone by accepting the post of Opera Director in the little town of Weimar, in Saxony. This he did with the settled intention of aiding young German musicians. It was here that he produced Wagner's "Lohengrin," and, by doing so, laid the foundation of a friendship with its composer which lasted until death. Wagner had himself borne witness to how greatly he was indebted to Liszt. The letters which passed between them during Wagner's exile showed that Liszt practically supported his wayward and spendthrift friend in his long period of persecution. Liszt was also believed to have abandoned original composition—which he did for ever at this time—not because of non-recognition, but in order to avoid any sense of rivalry with his friend. At Weimar his life was devoted to giving gratuitous lessons to pianists; but only those who were considered to have completed their technical studies dared to appear before him. Those who did left him his slaves for evermore. During the last twenty-five years of his life his public appearances were few and far between, and then always for some charitable object. He died in 1886 at Bayreuth, where he was buried at the wish of his only surviving daughter, Madame Wagner. In personal appearance there was something regal in the dignity of his carriage and the masterful yet calm power of his glance; and when those blazing eyes softened and the austere face relaxed into a benign smile you simply felt, whoever you were, that you must kneel at his feet and worship him—surely never was a man gifted with such a magnetic attraction. As a pianist, judging from many trustworthy accounts, he must have been quite unique. To a sympathetic touch and a boundless technique he added a power possessed by none before or since—that of improvising the most fabulously difficult cadenzas and ornamental passages. If he played a show piece, whether his own or anyone else's, he never rendered the passages as written, but always invented fresh ones on the spur of the moment, and his invention in this department was really boundless. As a composer he consistently adhered to one method of composition which had, at least, the merit of entire originality, but which had found few imitators. This method, probably suggested by his powers of improvisation, was to take a short but powerful phrase, and, by alteration of relative lengths of the notes, convert it into other phrases of widely different character. This idea was also used by Schumann, and largely by Wagner, but Liszt employed it quite differently to anyone else. His compositions might be said to be all in variation form, the metamorphosed phrase always standing out apart from the context. This inability to make it throw out branches and continue itself was the one serious weakness in Liszt's original work. The foundation phrase was often extremely striking, but it never developed—it was only varied by accompaniments of infinite ingenuity, and, after several repetitions, what followed was a cadenza, a change of key, and a fresh start. No man had written more gorgeously for the orchestra, and his Symphonic Poems all possessed truly poetical programmes. His finest orchestral work was the "Faust" Overture, in which the legend was regarded from three points of view: that of Faust, Gretchen, and Mephistopheles. The themes were the same in each of these divisions, and the musical portrayal of the conception of the three respective parts was entirely dependent upon their treatment, the result being a striking example of Liszt's method of composition. As might be imagined from Liszt's religious tendencies, his sacred music contained his most serious and earnest work; but it was by his songs and pianoforte arrangements that he was most popularly known. His transcription of Schubert's songs, Beethoven's symphonies, and various operas marked a new departure in musical art and were without parallel. Musical illustrations were given by Miss Katie Thomas and Miss Peppercorn, the former giving examples of Liszt's vocal style and the latter playing with remarkable ability Liszt's Study in D flat and the wonderful transcription of the Overture to "Tannhäuser."

SIR AUGUSTUS HARRIS.

It is with extreme regret that we record the death of Sir Augustus Harris, which occurred at the Pavilion Hotel, Folkestone, on the 22nd ult. The event had been foreseen for some days, but the illness which preceded it came with a suddenness that surprised all who were unaware of Sir Augustus's dangerous power of overworking himself. It was not the first time that this habit had prostrated the popular manager, but his was scarcely the temperament to allow considerations of health to curb activity, and once more we have the sad but familiar spectacle of a scabbard worn out by the sword within. Augustus Harris has ended his brilliant career at an age when that of most men who attain eminence by sheer hard work has little more than begun—he did not live to celebrate his forty-fourth birthday. He was born in Paris in 1852, where his father was then directing Italian Opera. He received an excellent education and began life as foreign correspondent in the firm of Erlanger and Co.; but the stage soon exerted its fascinations upon him, and at his father's death he entered the dramatic profession, making his first appearance at Manchester in 1873. His first connection with operatic affairs took place soon after, when Mr. Mapleson engaged him as stage manager to his Italian Opera Company. In 1879 Harris obtained the lease of Drury Lane, being supported financially by Mr. Rendle, the father of Lady Harris. His success at the National Theatre with pantomime and melodrama laid the foundation of his fame and fortune; and from this time until his death his career is an extraordinary history of successful achievements. The most memorable of these was his placing on a firm basis Italian Opera at a time when many other managers had repeatedly failed. By acquiring the two largest theatres in central London he practically shut out all rivals from the operatic field, and his management of both houses has been a wonderful exhibition of sustained energy and acumen. His success as an operatic manager may be attributed to lavish mise-en-scène and the engagement of the most celebrated artists, combined with an intuitive sympathy with the spirit of the day. No manager ever felt the pulse of the public with more sagacity than Sir Augustus Harris. We owe to him the removal of many of the absurd customs of Italian opera, the popularisation, by repeated performances, of Wagner's dramatic works, and the visits of the Comédie Française and Saxe-Meiningen opera companies. Amongst the operas of recent times which were produced in England under his management were: in 1891, Bruneau's "Le Rêve"; in 1892, Mascagni's "L'Amico Fritz," Isidore de Lara's "La Luce dell' Asia," Bemberg's "Elaine," and Emil Bach's "Irmengarda"; 1893, Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci," Mascagni's "I Rantzau," Bizet's "Djamileh," De Lara's "Amy Robsart," and Villiers Stanford's "Veiled Prophet"; 1894, Verdi's "Falstaff," Bruneau's "L'Attaque du Moulin," Puccini's "Manon Lescaut," Massenet's "Werther" and "La Navarraise," Cowen's "Signa," and Emil Bach's "Lady of Longford." Last year Cowen's "Harold" was the only novelty produced, but this performance acquired peculiar distinction by being the first English opera sung in English during the Italian opera season, a striking testimony to Sir Augustus's earnestness in the cause of English operatic art. May the seeds he has sown in this field bear abundant fruit.

Mascagni's last work, "Zanetto," founded on Coppée's "Le Passant," was sung for the first time in England on the 23rd ult., at 7, Chesterfield Gardens (by permission of Mrs. Beer), its chief exponents being the sisters Giulia and Sofia Ravogli. "Zanetto" was produced on March 2 last, at Pesaro, during the festivities in honour of Rossini's birthday anniversary, and has since also been played at La Scala Milan. It is a charming little work that should become popular, since it needs for performance only two principal artists and a small (invisible) chorus and it lasts only about three-quarters of an hour. The music is throughout melodious and passionate to a high degree, but shows more refinement and sublety than certain strains from the same pen that have become widely known, and though not actually divided into numbers, three or four of the pieces might easily be sung separately. The composer has used several themes as Leitmotive, without, however, subjecting them to much elaboration. The locale of the performance being a drawing-room, the orchestral portions were played on a grand pianoforte by Signor V. Ricci, the harp accompaniment to Zanetto's Serenade (one of the gems of the work) being kindly undertaken by Mr. John Thomas. The chorus (without words), which forms the opening number of the score—there is no instrumental Prelude—was sung by Royal Academy students. Mascagni's strains suit the voices and temperaments of the Ravogli sisters admirably, and the performance was a great success. It was given without scenery, but with action and in costume. The guests were numerous, and at the close of the entertainment it was unanimously hoped that the Misses Ravogli would repeat the performance at an early date in a theatre, when Mascagni's work could be given with scenery and orchestra.

A PROGRAMME of quite old-fashioned magnitude was presented at the Concert given in St. James's Hall, on the 4th ult., by the South Hampstead orchestra. To play the Overture to "Oberon" and two such difficult Symphonies as Brahms's No. 4 in E minor and Schubert's No. 9 in C is no trifle even for a professional orchestra; but it denotes the possession of pluck and contempt of danger for amateurs to attack so formidable a task. However, Mrs. Julian Marshall, the gifted conductor, is nothing if not plucky, and she possesses in a striking degree that enthusiasm without which, according to Schumann, nothing genuine is accomplished in art; besides which she appears to know how to infect others with her own enthusiasm. As her orchestra, moreover, consists of very competent players, it is not surprising that the Concert was interesting as well as enjoyable. Some slips were noticeable, of course; the tone was sometimes wanting in sonority when that quality was greatly needed, and the attack occasionally lacked crispness. We also feel inclined to quarrel with Mrs. Marshall on account of some of the tempi she adopted, especially those of the first movement of Brahms's work and the Andante of Schubert's. But these were trifles, and detracted little from the success of the Concert. That an amateur orchestra of over eighty performers, half of them ladies, can do such a large measure of justice to two great and elaborate Symphonies and the difficult "Oberon" Overture is a matter for rejoicing and congratulation, for such performances, and especially the preliminary rehearsals, do more to spread a love for all that is noblest and best in our art than all the essays and newspaper articles that were ever indited. Mr. David Bispham sang Spohr's "Der Kriegeslust ergeben" and Beethoven's beautiful song cycle "An die entfernte Geliebte" with his wonted mastery.

THE students of Trinity College, London, made a good display, at Queen's Hall, on the 8th ult., alike as regards vocal and instrumental ability. The Concert was announced as orchestral, but included several operatic airs and fugitive songs. Under Mr. Frederick Corder the band, numbering about eighty performers, gave an excellent account of themselves in the overture to "Die Meistersinger," Sullivan's overture "Di Ballo," in the accompaniments generally, and in a new Suite by Mr. A. W. Ketelbey. The last-named is a composition student who has written several works exhibiting more than ordinary promise. The favourable opinion thus gained is not forfeited by this Suite, consisting of three movements—Scherzo, Elegie, and Tarantelle—each instinct with freedom, freshness, and perception of the means most suitable for the production of desired effects. The novelty was exceedingly well received. In Weber's Polonaise in E (Op. 72), with Liszt's orchestration, Mr. Frederick Peachey was proved to be an able pianist, and at the same instrument Miss Maud Agnes Winter (in the Finale from Beethoven's Concerto in C, Op. 15), and Miss Marion Clapton (in Chopin's Polonaise in E flat, Op. 22) gained distinction. Miss Florence Brotherhood and Mr. C. S. Fenigstein were the solo violinists. The vocal efforts of Miss Grosvenor Gooch and Miss Janie Bridges were warmly approved.

THE Nonconformist Choir Union had a successful gathering at the Crystal Palace on the 13th ult., over 150 choirs being represented among the 4,000 singers at the afternoon Concert in the centre transept. The two choral competitions were interesting features of the day's proceedings, and in each case victory went to the provinces. In the contest of choirs (from twenty-six to forty voices) the Colne Road Wesleyan Chapel, Burnley, contingent was first, whilst the winner among the smaller choirs (fifteen to twenty-six voices) was Rushden Old Baptist Chapel. At the subsequent Concert the Burnley choir sang the test-piece, Joseph Bridge's "It was a lover and his lass." The full chorus gave with marked effect Mendelssohn's 13th Psalm, R. F. Lloyd's anthem "Let the righteous be glad," Vicars's "Blessed are the merciful," Gounod's "Nazareth," Barnby's madrigal "Whilst youthful sports," Minshall's "I heard the voice of Jesus say," Briscoe's "All Thy works praise Thee," and other pieces. On the whole, the standard of efficiency attained was higher than at any previous Festival of this Union. Solos were contributed by Madame Belle Cole and Mr. Alexander Tucker, and Mr. E. Minshall conducted. Orchestral pieces were conducted by Mr. T. R. Croger.

THE London Sunday School Choir held its twenty-fourth annual Festival, at the Crystal Palace, on the 17th ult. The rapid increase of youthful members a few years ago led to the formation of a junior choir, which, on this occasion completely packing the Handel orchestra, sang with praiseworthy steadiness several sacred, patriotic, and humorous pieces, under the conductorship of Mr. J. Rowley. Later there was a Concert by the choir of 4,000 selected voices, the programme being of a more imposing character than its predecessor. The chorus from "Elijah," "He that shall endure to the end," the prayer from "Moses in Egypt," Dr. Warwick Jordan's "Jubilate," Tours's anthem "O come, let us sing," Barnby's anthem "Break forth into joy," and Stevens's glee "The cloud-capt towers" were among the pieces in which careful training and close observance of the conductor (Mr. W. Whiteman) were specially manifested. To secure completeness of effect more tenors and basses were desirable, but by sustained vigour those present strove to make up for smallness of numbers. The choruses and part-music were interspersed by orchestral compositions played by the London Sunday School orchestras united with that of the Crystal Palace, the bâton being in the hands of Mr. David M. Davis.

DISTINCTION was imparted to Mr. Gerald Walenn's Violin Recital, on the 9th ult., at the Queen's (Small) Hall, by the inclusion in the programme of César Cui's Suite Concertante for violin and pianoforte, and two songs, severally entitled "The Minstrel," by Arenski, and "A kingdom for a smile," by De Bach, for all of which "first time of performance in London" was claimed. The Suite consists of an Intermezzo, Scherzando, Canzonetta, Cavatina, and Tarantella, the most interesting of which are the last two, the Canzonetta containing some highly expressive passages and the Tarantella being brilliantly written. The work as a whole, however, has little in common with the modern Russian school. The song by Arenski, described as a "dramatic ballad," is in the style of Loewe's compositions in that form, but it is decidedly gloomy in character and not a very successful effort. The Suite was excellently played by Mr. Gerald Walenn and Mr. Joseph Speaight, and the songs admirably delivered by Mr. Arthur Walenn. Madame Clara Samuell also sang with her usual charm, and Mr. Gerald Walenn's other violin pieces included Bach's famous Chaconne in D minor, the performance of which attested this young artist's great ability.

MR. ARNOLD DOLMETSCH gave, on the 9th ult., the first of a fresh series of three Chamber Concerts at his house, 6, Keppel Street, Bloomsbury. As on many previous occasions, the programme presented a rare and interesting selection of music of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, which was rendered upon instruments beloved by our forefathers. This, combined with the fact of the Concert being given in a private house, enabled one to form a very fair estimate of the musical effects common to the days of the music discoursed, and the soft sounds and vague tonalities, especially when they proceeded from the gentle-tongued clavichord, seemed like veritable echoes of voices long silent. The most notable work was a Sonata for the violin by John Jacob Walther, who did much for the development of the technique of the violin. Much musical interest was also attached to a graceful and expressive Suite for the viol da gamba by Marin Marais, a famous composer for this instrument and renowned executant in Paris during the reign of Louis XIV. The performers were Mr. Dolmetsch, Mrs. Elodie Dolmetsch, Miss Hélène Dolmetsch, and Mr. W. Cooper.

THE establishment of a Conservatoire of Music in the West of London, and situated at 75, The Grove, Hammersmith, is to be regarded with satisfaction, for from the long list of teachers on its staff this institution promises to exercise important influence on the progress and cultivation of music in this neighbourhood; and it is to be hoped that the initial Concert given by this Academy on May 28, at the Kensington Town Hall, will prove the commencement of a long and successful career. The programme was chiefly carried out by the professors of the school, amongst them being Mrs. Mary Davies, Mrs. Hutchinson, Miss Agnes Wilson, Miss Kate Chaplin, Mr. W. H. Brereton, Mr. Kiver, Miss Mabel Chaplin, and Mr. Charles Fry, the last-named gentleman reciting the Courtship scene from Shakespeare's "Henry V." in his best manner. In addition to the above artists, songs were contributed by Miss Hilda Wilson and Mr. Edward Lloyd (who was enthusiastically welcomed), and Messrs. W. Stroud Wilson and Mr. Lane Wilson gave an effective performance of Niels Gade's genial Second Sonata in D minor for violin and pianoforte.

MESSRS. GILBERT AND SULLIVAN'S opera "The Grand Duke" is proving a source of attraction at the Theater Unter den Linden, in Berlin. The libretto, it is true, partly on account of its weak German translation, and partly, no doubt, owing to its subject, is meeting with but qualified appreciation, but there can be no question as to the latter being accorded with a full measure to the music, both by the general public and by the critical voices in the press. "The music," says the Allgemeine Musik Zeitung, "is of an exceeding gracefulness, full of finesse in its invention and attractive in its instrumentation." Again, in the Neue Musikalische Presse, we read "After the ever-recurring valse and polka measures of our own recent operetta productions, it was a refreshing experience to listen to this music. Sullivan's couplets at once attract attention by the originality of their rhythm, his choruses by their harmonic beauty. The work once more contains a finely wrought quintet, which, however, demands better interpreters than are to be found amongst the general run of operetta companies."

THE Kneisel String Quartet party brought with them a great reputation, gained in the principal musical cities of the United States; but it was demonstrated at the St. James's Hall, on the 15th ult., that rumour had not exaggerated their proficiency as exponents of a special branch of composition. In Sgambati's Quartet in C sharp minor (Op. 17), not well known in this country, and, therefore, scarcely a good choice for an initial essay, Messrs. Franz Kneisel, Otto Roth, L. Svecenski, and Alwin Schroeder played with an evenness of tone, executive finish, and perfect understanding respecting points of detail only obtainable by constant association and the complete subordination of personal display to the general effect. Their ensemble playing was virtually without a flaw, and to an unwonted extent succeeded in holding attention for a composition that, as a whole, is undoubtedly clever, though here and there a trifle dull. Correspondingly good, and much more attractive, was their rendering of Beethoven's Quartet in G major (Op. 18) and of Schumann's Quartet in A major (Op. 41, No. 3).

THE 158th Anniversary Festival of the Royal Society of Musicians of Great Britain was held on the 20th ult., at the Whitehall Rooms of the Hotel Métropole, Mr. Val Prinsep, R.A., in the chair. The report stated that during the last season nearly £4,000 was expended in providing for the maintenance of the widows and orphans, and in solacing the declining years of the Society's poorer members, who in old age, having worked hard, had been precluded from continuing the exercise of their profession. The relief had also been afforded to many deserving persons who had no claim on the Society's funds. Excellent music was discoursed by Madame Amy Sherwin, Miss Muriel Elliot, Mr. Norman Salmond, Mr. Tivadar Nachèz, Mr. Edwin Wareham, and the Westminster Glee Singers. Subscriptions and donations to the amount of £1,300 were announced. During the evening opportunity was taken of congratulating the Honorary Treasurer, Mr. W. H. Cummings, on his appointment as Principal of the Guildhall School of Music.

MR. AND MRS. W. H. BRERETON'S Concert on the 10th ult., in the Queen's (Small) Hall, was not restricted to any particular branch of superior composition. Miss Fanny Davies, Miss Kate Ould, Mr. Clinton, and Mr. Henry Bird were responsible for instrumental pieces and some standard part-music was admirably rendered by the Westminster Glee Singers. Mrs. Brereton made a good impression by her sympathetic singing of Miss Carmichael's "A Cradle Song," "A June Song," and Spohr's "The Bird and the Maiden." She was also associated with Miss Esther Ambler in a couple of duets, one of which, "The Sunset Hour," was from the pen of Miss Charlotte Ambler. The telling method of Mr. Brereton was advantageously displayed in Handel's "Si tra i ceppi" and Purcell's "Arise, ye subterranean winds!" His third song, delivered with cheery vigour, was "Richard of Taunton Deane." Several songs were given by Miss Esther Palliser, Mr. J. Robertson, and Mr. Santley with their accustomed success.

AN attractive Concert was given on the 22nd ult., at the Queen's (Small) Hall, by Madame Kate Lee. The entire vocal portion of the programme consisted of English and Irish songs, the latter being chiefly settings by Professor Villiers Stanford or his admirable arrangements of original ditties. Two new excellently-conceived Irish songs, severally entitled "Love at my heart came knocking" and "Heigho, the morning dew!" the text of which had been written by Mr. A. P. Graves and the music by Dr. Charles Wood, also proved pleasure-giving. A selection from J. A. Fuller Maitland and Lucy Broadwood's "English County Songs" were no less a feature of the evening. Madame Lee sang with great charm and vivacity, and her successful efforts were well seconded by Miss Evangeline Florence and Mr. John Sandbrook. Pianoforte, violin and violoncello pieces, respectively contributed by Miss Ethel Sharpe, Madame Sethe, and Mr. Herbert Walenn, added to the enjoyment of the Concert.

THE London Gregorian Choral Association's Annual Festival Service in St. Paul's Cathedral, on the 4th ult., brought together a choir of about 1,200 voices. Dr. George C. Martin had specially composed an anthem, "Hail, gladdening light!" appropriately broad and dignified, whilst thoroughly telling. A work better suited for the purpose could not be desired. Mr. Charles Macpherson conducted and Dr. Warwick Jordan presided at the organ. The service music was, of course, principally Gregorian. Psalms 146 and 147 were respectively chanted to Tone v. (Bourges), 15, and Tone vii., 12, the Antiphons being taken from the Sarum Psalter and the Namur Vesperal. The Canticles were severally sung to Tone iv. (Aix-la-Chapelle) and Tone iii., twenty-first ending, both being harmonised by Dr. Jordan. There were several hymns, those during the procession being supported by brass instruments, and Canon Newbolt preached the sermon, taking for his text the seventh verse of the eighty-seventh Psalm.

MR. WALTER FORD, a tenor whose refined style has lately won commendation, gave a Concert in the Queen's (Small) Hall on the 15th ult., when his programme contained several interesting pieces besides his own solo efforts. For instance, there was the late Madame Schumann's Pianoforte Variations on a theme by her husband, played by Miss Fanny Davies with careful regard for their abundant grace and fancy. Another important feature was Schumann's beautiful "Spanisches Liederspiel" (Op. 74), the varying sentiment of which was excellently brought out by Mrs. Hutchinson, Madame Hope-Glenn, Mr. Walter Ford, and Mr. Herbert Thorndike. Among Mr. Ford's contributions combining taste with spirit were Franz's "Stille Sicherheit" and Jansen's bright "Margreth am Thore." Mr. Gompertz joined Miss Davies in Brahms's first Sonata for pianoforte and violin, in G major, ably rendered by both, and Mr. Henry Bird did good service as accompanist.

Mr. Forrest Scott's second and third Recitals were given at Steinway Hall on May 28 and the 11th ult. He was assisted on the first occasion by Mr. Julian Pascal (pianoforte), Mr. Gallrein (violoncello), and Mr. Brunton Steel (reciter), who gave very effectively Davidson's "Ballad of Hell," with Mr. Stanley Hawley's accompaniment. The Concert-giver was heard in several songs, including Bemberg's "Aime moi" and Massenet's "Herodiade." At his last Recital Mr. Scott gave, as a special feature and with success, several Scotch songs, sympathetically arranged by Mr. Hamish MacCunn, who accompanied them admirably. The artists who assisted were Miss Jeannie Appleby (vocalist), Mr. Percy Elliott (violin), Miss Ada Hall (reciter), and Herr Arthur van Dooren (pianist), who made his first appearance in England and displayed intelligence and good technique in Schumann's "Aufschwung" and Raff's "Rigaudon." Mr. Stanley Hawley accompanied at both Recitals.

Mr. Louis H. Hillier's annual Concert took place on May 29, at the Steinway Hall, when the programme was largely made up of his own compositions, the merit of which proclaim him to be a talented and cultured musician. These pieces comprised several tasteful violoncello solos, which were effectively played by Señor Rubio; two movements from a Sonata for pianoforte and violin, in which Mr. Gustave Ernest and the composer took part; and a number of songs of melodious and refined character which were admirably sung by Miss Hammacott, a very promising young singer, and the Misses Salter. An agreeable feature of the evening was a praiseworthy interpretation by the Hillier Belgian Quartet of Grieg's String Quartet in G minor (Op. 27). This work, which was probably new to most of the audience, consists of four movements, and in themes and development is highly characteristic of the Scandinavian composer.

Madame Svetloffsky, who gave a Vocal and Instrumental Concert at St. James's Hall, on the afternoon of the 8th ult., has slightly modified her name, if we do not mistake, since she first appeared in London. This is a matter of no consequence, and it must certainly be recorded that the artist's efforts in Russian contralto songs by Tschaïkowsky, Glinka, Rubinstein, Seroff (a composer scarcely known in this country though he died a quarter of a century ago), Borodin, and several non-Slavonic composers, were all well rendered by a vocalist of high attainments whose voice might be described as a robust soprano or a contralto. Arensky's effective Pianoforte Trio in D minor (Op. 32) headed the programme, the executants being Mdlle. Irma Sethe and Messrs. Parsons and Gerald Walenn, who all played solos with considerable success.

Miss Marie Weingärtner, who made her début in England, on the 11th ult., at the Steinway Hall, is a young pianist of rare promise. Her playing indicated a musical and sympathetic temperament, and although she has only passed through seventeen summers, she possesses a technical command of the keyboard that very many matured players have failed to acquire. The dignity of her rendering of Liszt's arrangement of Bach's well-known Organ Prelude and Fugue in A minor was remarkable, and albeit that the interpretation of Beethoven's Appassionata Sonata was lacking in depth of sentiment, the phrasing and reading of the work as a whole showed intelligence of a high order. No less meritorious were the performances of Chopin's Sonata in B flat minor (Op. 35) and pieces by Rubinstein, Godard, Liszt, and Pugno.

An agreeable Chamber Concert was given by Miss Margaret Wild, at St. James's Hall, on the 4th ult. The principal works in which she took part were Beethoven's "Kreutzer" Sonata and Brahms's Trio (Op. 87) in C, her associate artists being Messrs. Richard Barth and Paul Ludwig. Perhaps the most interesting feature of the Concert was Schumann's Sonata in F minor (Op. 14), which is rarely played, but which, although it is not one of his best works, deserves to be heard from time to time. Miss Wild also played solos in a satisfactory manner—pieces by Slavonic composers, including Chopin, Borodin, Glazounow, Zarzycki, and Leschetitzky; an air from Mozart's little-known opera "La Clemenza di Tito" and other songs were sung with effect by Miss Edith Miller.

Miss Mary Forrest, who gave a Concert on May 29, at the Queen's (Small) Hall, is a vocalist who probably will be often heard in London Concert-rooms, her singing being distinguished by beauty of vocal tone and an artistic and refined style which is now sure to meet with prompt recognition and appreciation. The lady was heard at her best in an Aria by Emanuel d'Astorga and an Arietta by G. Paisiello, both of which were rendered with the utmost finish. Other songs by Schumann, Schubert, Gounod, Brahms, and Henschel were sung with equal sympathy with the spirit of the music. Miss Forrest received most able assistance in some duets from Mrs. Katharine Fisk, and Mr. Edgar Hulland contributed some pianoforte solos.

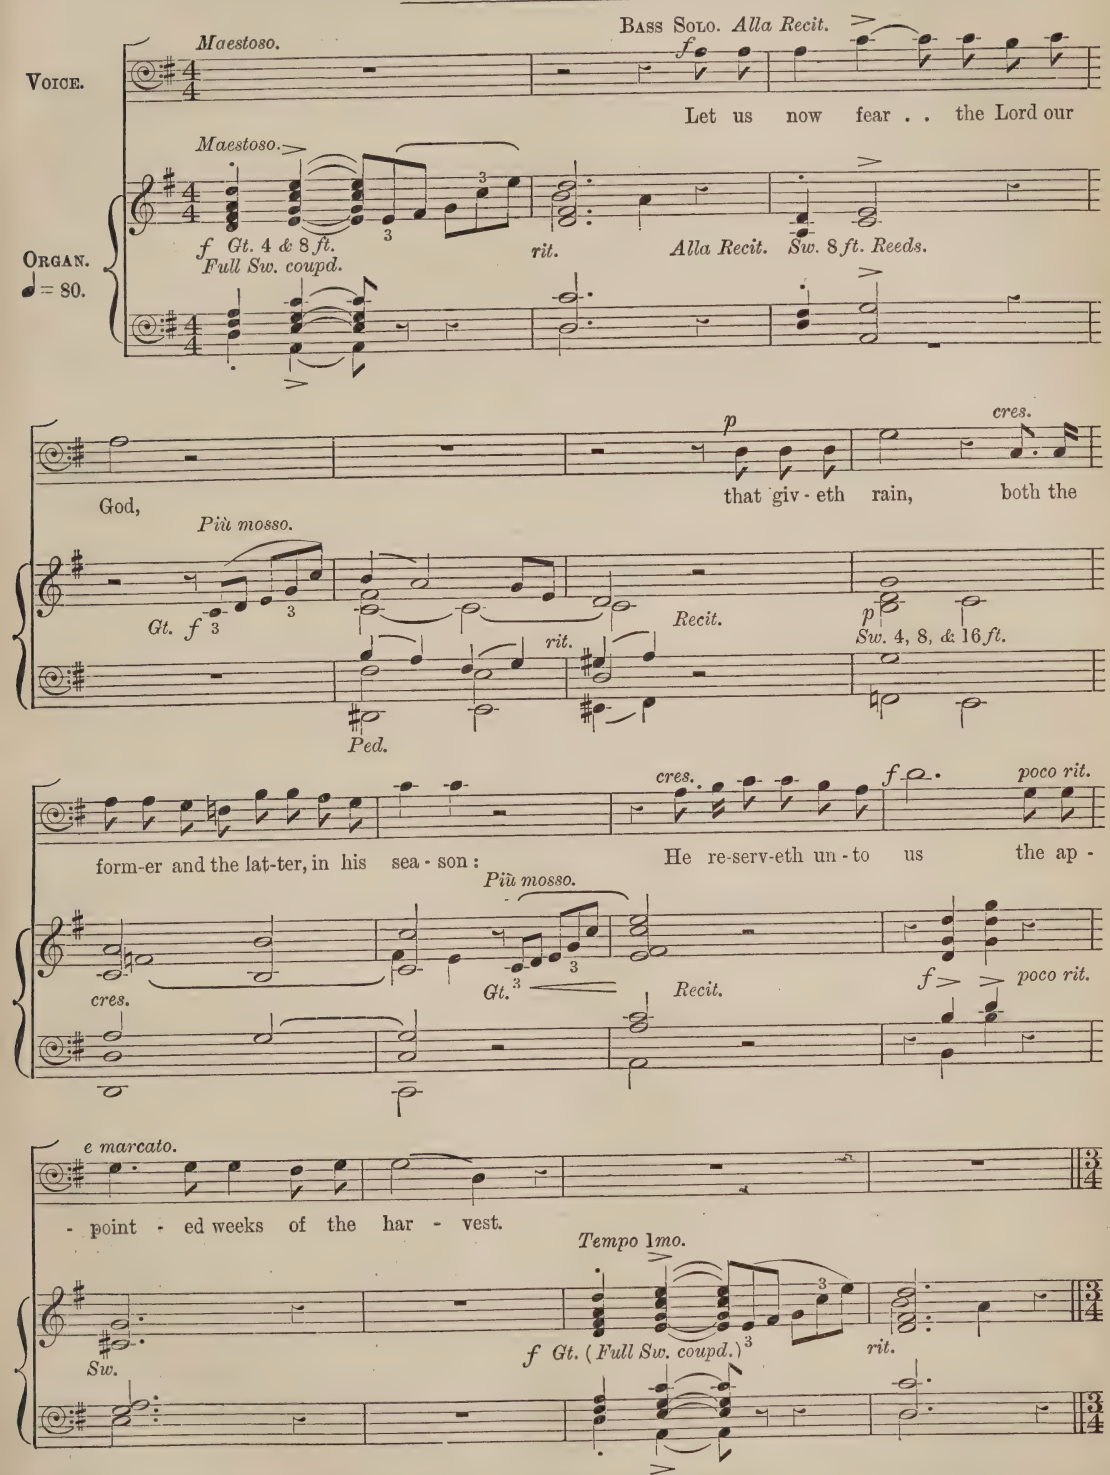
Among younger Concert-room vocalists a foremost place has been taken by Miss Landi, who gave a Concert, with the valuable assistance of Miss Chaminade, on Friday, the 12th ult., at St. James's Hall. A Pianoforte Trio in A minor by the French composer named was placed at the head of the programme, and proved to be a graceful and refined work, the composer, who is a very charming if not a very great pianist, being assisted by Messrs. Johannes Wolff and Hollman. Miss Landi's solos included a scena from the last act of "Le Prophète," and various songs by Mr. Tosti, Mr. Saint-Saëns, and Miss Chaminade. The artists mentioned, together with Mr. Theodore Byard, filled up an agreeable programme. Mdlle. Landi's second Recital was given on the 23rd ult., when she sang "O del mio dolce ardor" (Gluck), an unpublished song by Gounod (with Mustel organ accompaniment, played by Mr. J. M. Coward), an aria, "Prendi frei me sei libro," of De Beriot, and songs by Fauré and Massenet. Mdlle. Landi has a superb voice, her lower notes being very beautiful, and her efforts were received with enthusiasm. She was assisted by Mr. Theodore Byard, M. Pecskai, M. Marix Loevensohn, and Mr. Mark Hambourg, the latter creating almost a furore by his splendid playing of Brahms's Variations on a Theme of Paganini.

Miss Leila K. Smith gave a Concert, at the Queen's (Small) Hall, on the 6th ult., when the programme included Godard's Trio (Op. 32) and Gade's Novelletten. In these pieces the Concert-giver was assisted by Mr. Oswald Laston (violin) and Mr. A. Gallrein (violoncello). Miss Smith played several solos, and displayed much delicacy of touch and expression, notably in Chopin's Fantasie Impromptu, Henselt's "Si oiseau j'étais," and Schumann's Caprice (No. 2, Op. 3), in all of which she was warmly applauded. Mr. Gallrein's solos were also received with much favour. The vocalists were Miss Beatrice Gough and Mr. Percy Bright.

Miss Eldina Bligh gave what was foolishly termed a "grand" evening Concert, at St. James's Hall, on May 28. Miss Bligh is a pupil of Dr. Joachim, and proved it to much advantage in Schumann's last Sonata for pianoforte and violin in D minor (Op. 121) and in Raif's (not to be mistaken for Raff) Sonata in G minor for the same combination of instruments. The Concert-giver plays the fiddle with much power and brilliancy, and she had a worthy associate in Miss Fanny Davies. Mr. Henschel contributed some fine songs in his best manner, and it was certainly an agreeable Concert.

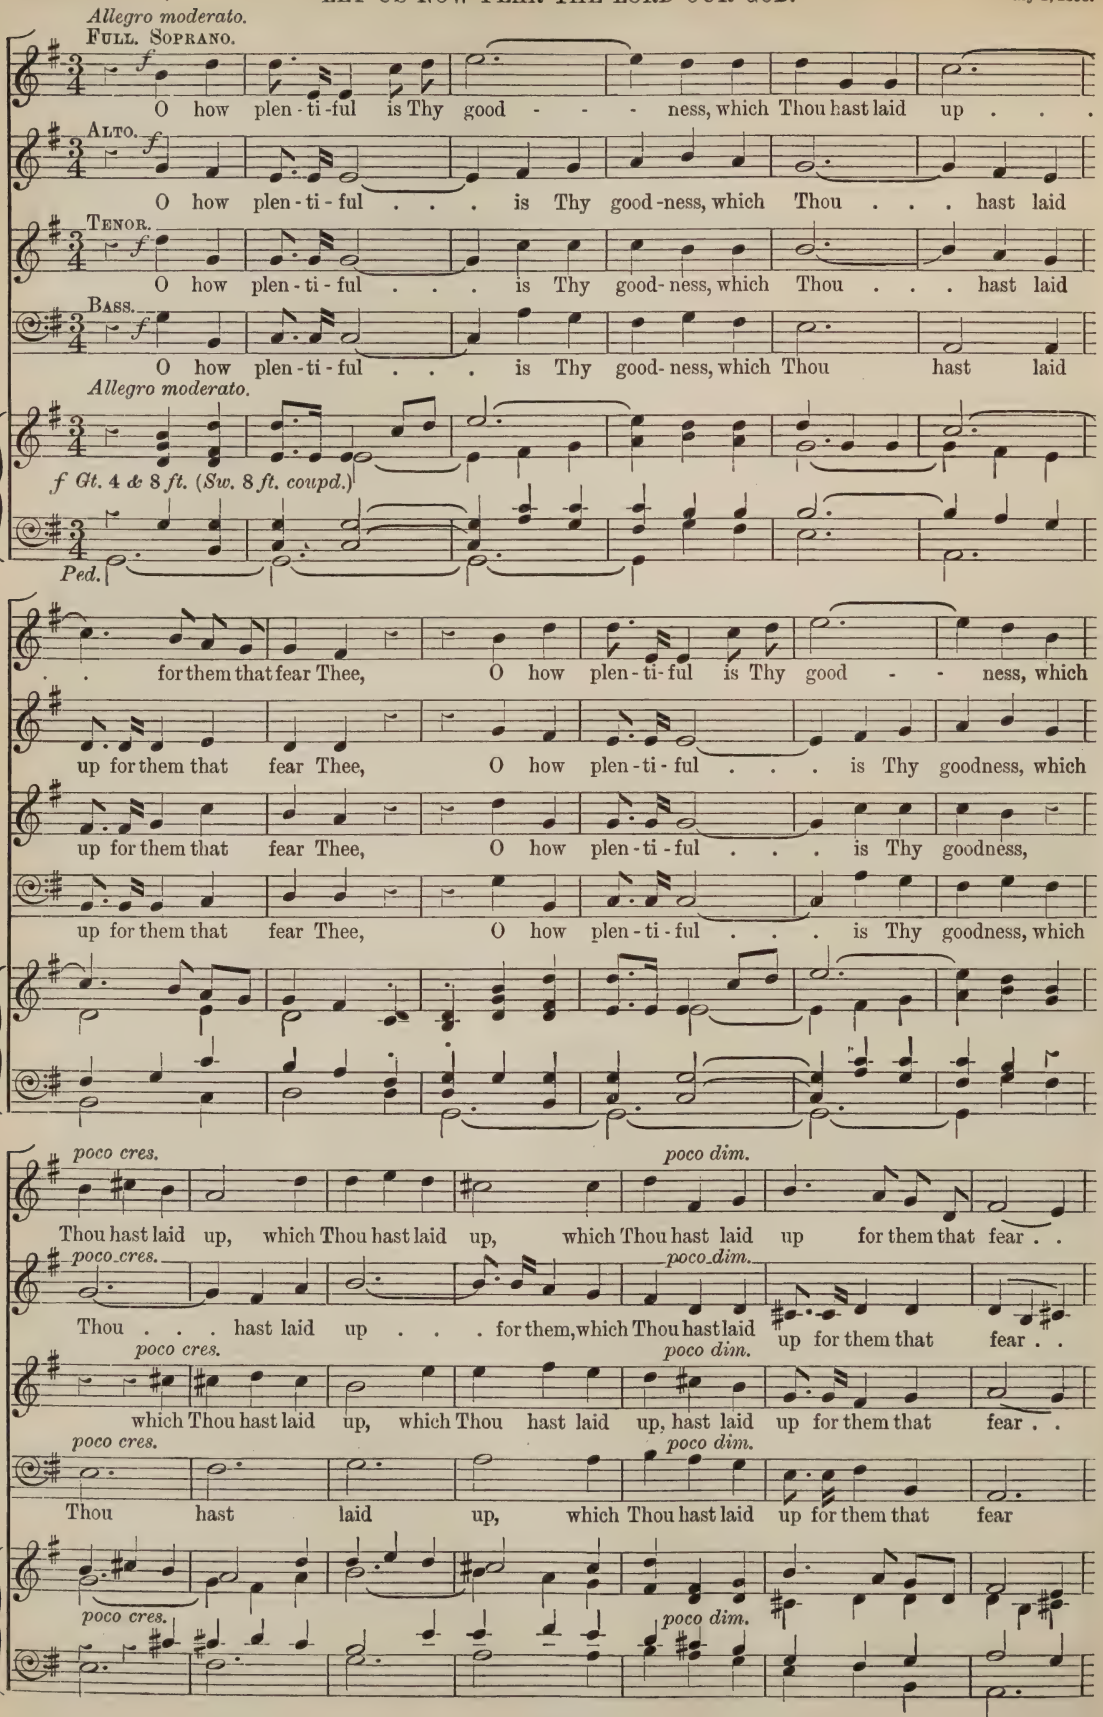
Mdlle. Jeanne Douste, whose effective impersonation of the heroine of Humperdinck's fairy opera "Hansel und Gretel" has attracted wide-spread attention, gave her first Vocal Concert on the 9th ult., at the Steinway Hall. Her singing on this occasion of a number of lyrics by various composers was characterised by tasteful and refined expression, but its effectiveness was impaired by indulgence in vibrato. A pleasing feature of the Concert was the rendering by Mdlle. Douste de Fortis and Mr. J. Wolff of Grieg's second Sonata in G minor (Op. 13) for pianoforte and violin.

Mr. Charles Gardner secured a numerous audience at his Concert on the 13th ult., at the Queen's (Small) Hall. A good performance was given of Schumann's Pianoforte Quintet by the Concert-giver and Messrs. Ludwig, Oldaker, Henkel, and W. E. Whitehouse, and Mr. Gardner and Herr Ludwig also rendered in an admirable manner Goldmark's Suite in E (Op. 11) for pianoforte and violin.

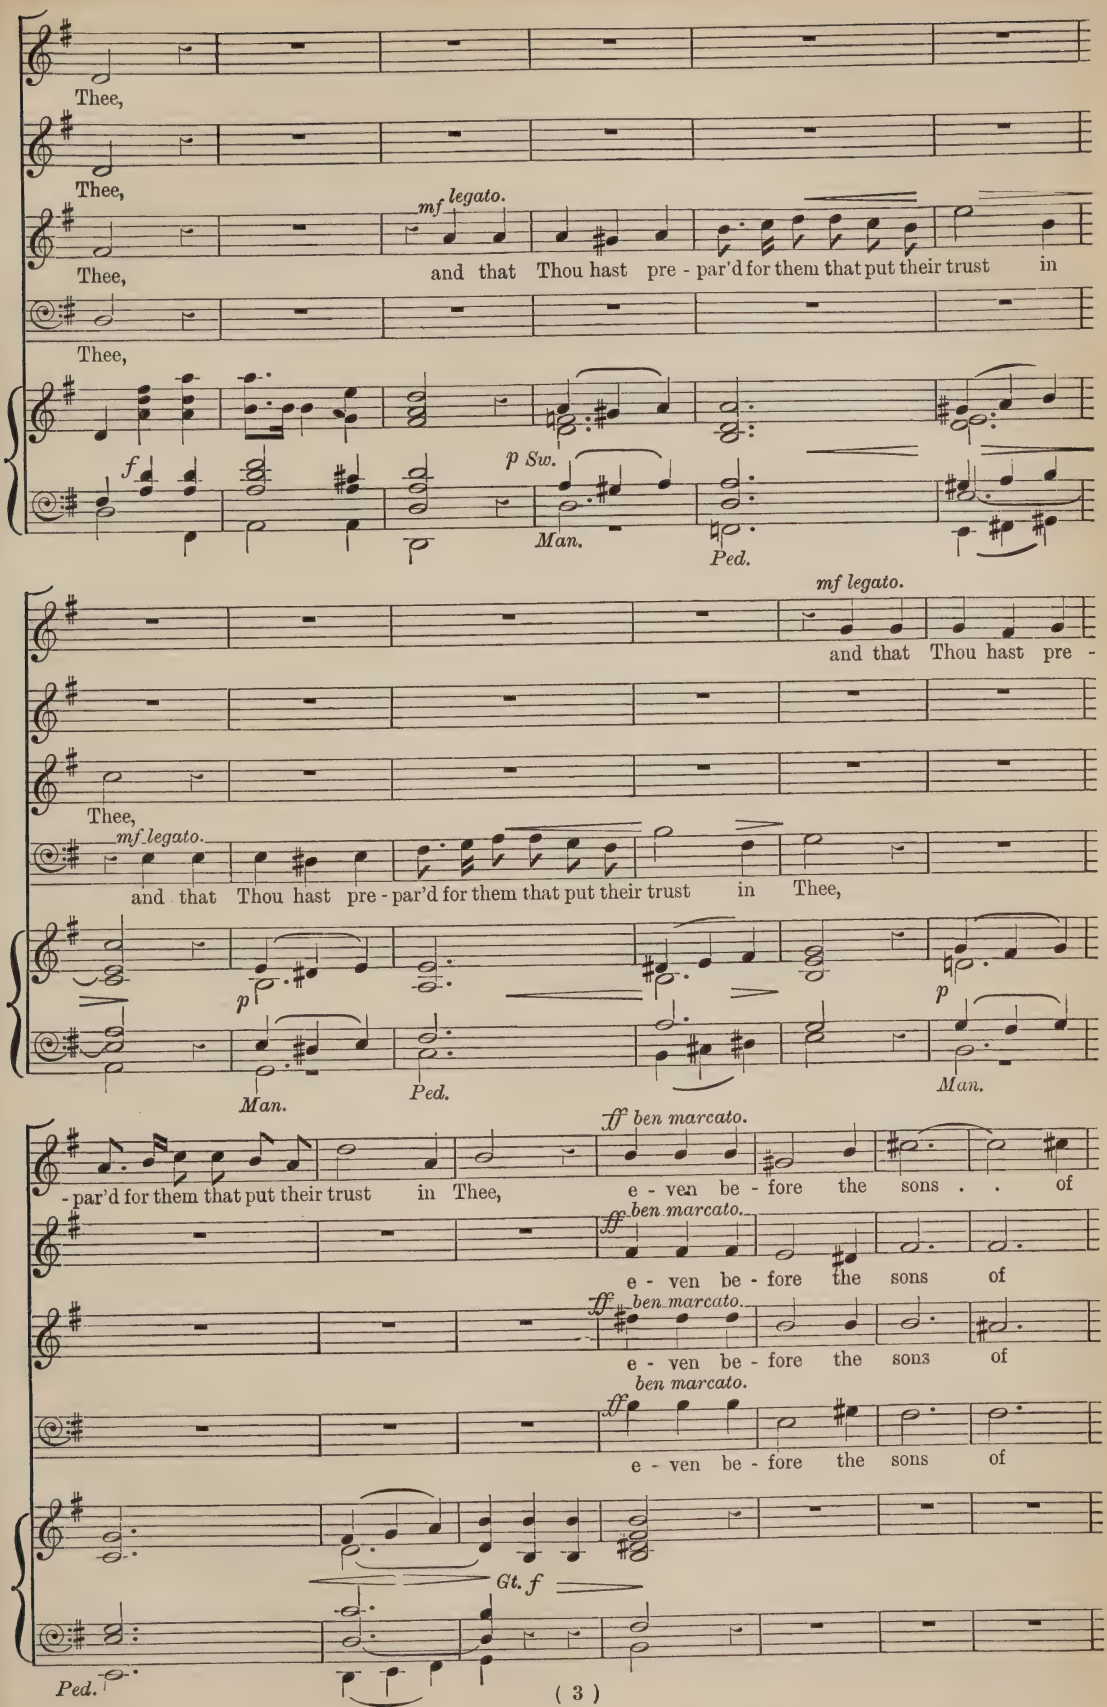


Let us now fear the Lord our God.

ANTHEM FOR HARVEST.

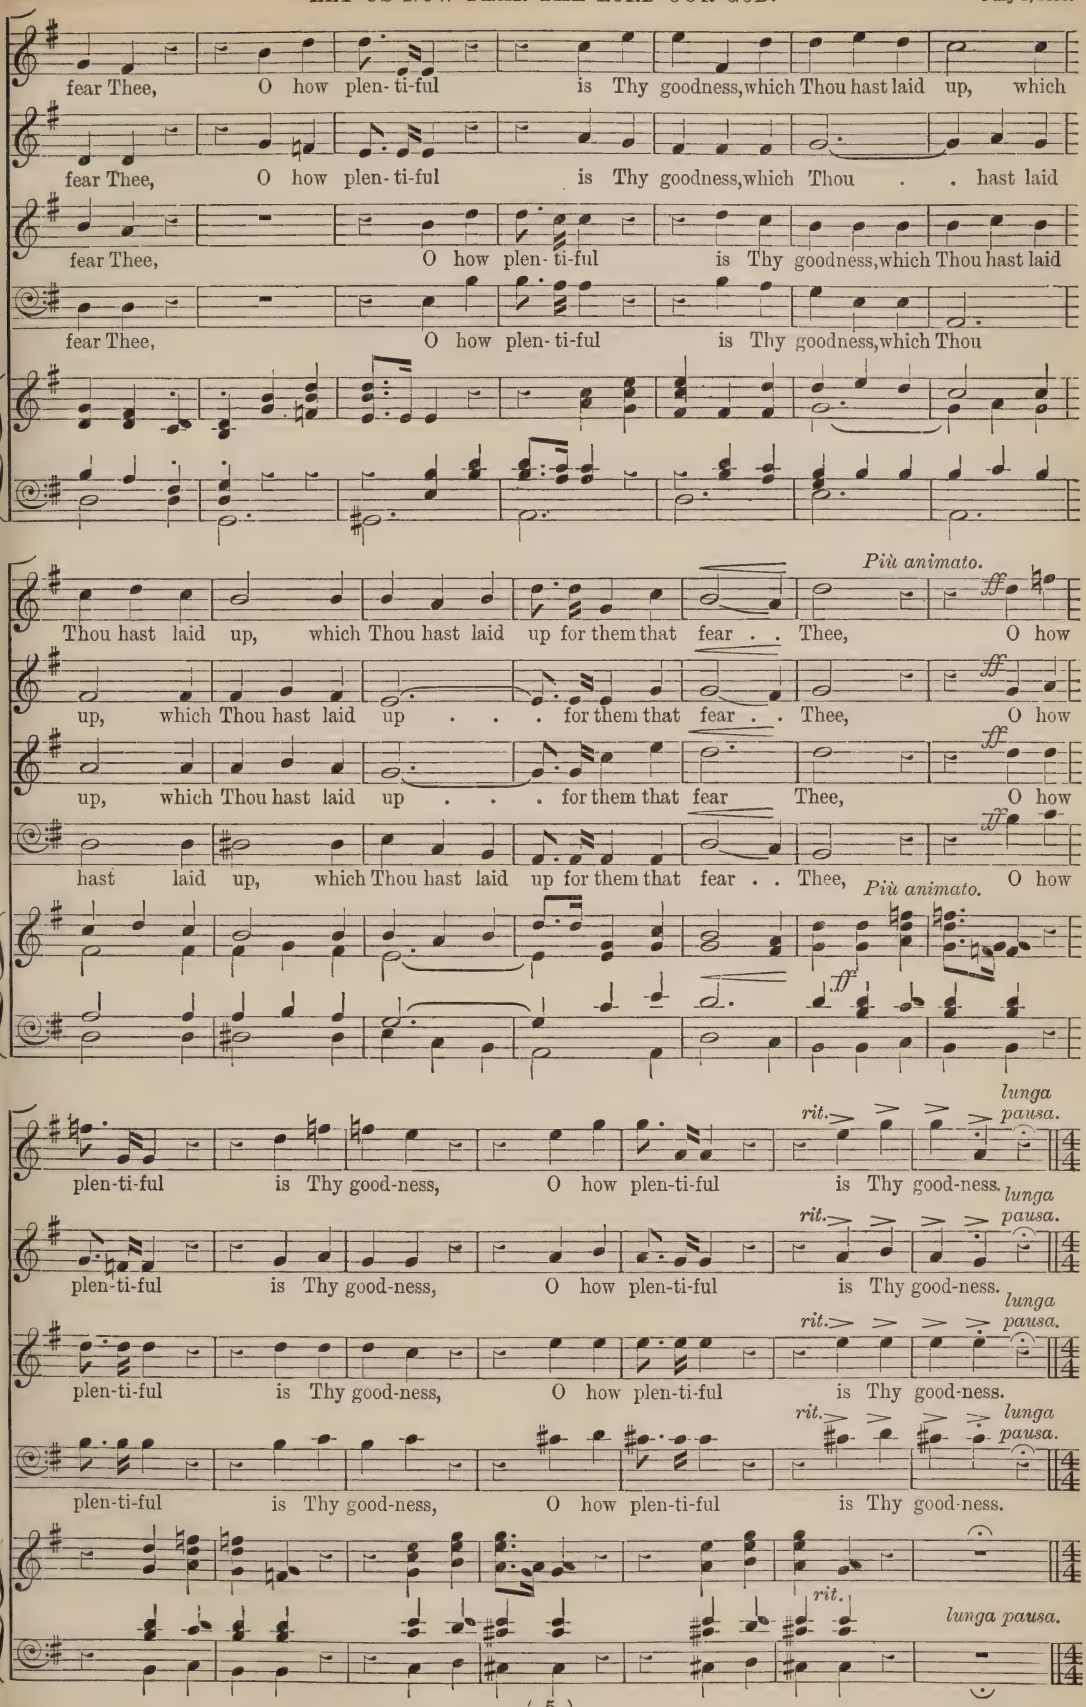


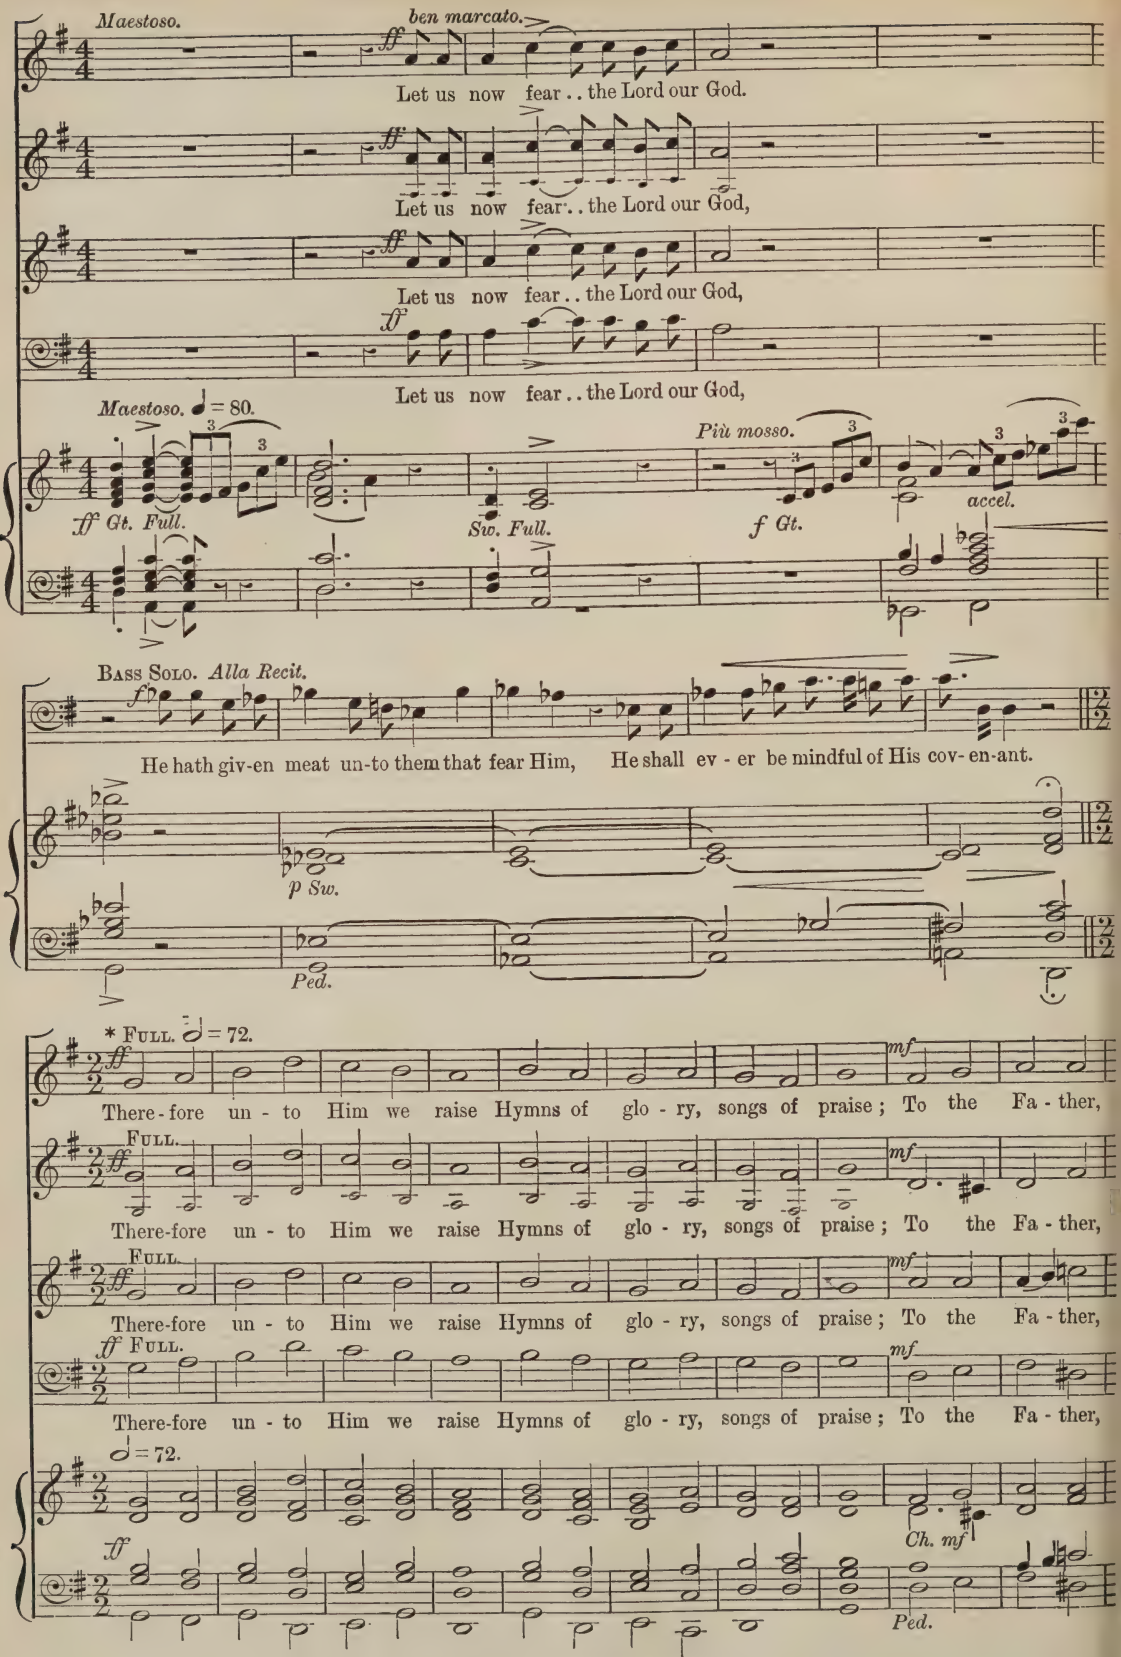
Jer. v. 24; Ps. xxxi. 21; cxi. 5; and Doxology from a Hymn.



Composed by JOHN E. WEST.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); also in New York.





Copyright, 1896, by Novello, Ewer and Co.

Allegro moderato.
Full. Soprano.
O how plen - ti - ful is Thy good - - - ness, which Thou hast laid up . . .
Alto.
O how plen - ti - ful . . . is Thy good - ness, which Thou . . . hast laid
Tenor.
O how plen - ti - ful . . . is Thy good - ness, which Thou . . . hast laid
Bass.
O how plen - ti - ful . . . is Thy good - ness, which Thou hast laid
Allegro moderato.
f Gt. 4 & 8 ft. (Sw. 8 ft. coupd.)
Ped.
. . for them that fear Thee, O how plen - ti - ful is Thy good - - ness, which up for them that fear Thee, O how plen - ti - ful . . . is Thy goodness, which up for them that fear Thee, O how plen - ti - ful . . . is Thy goodness, up for them that fear Thee, O how plen - ti - ful . . . is Thy goodness, which poco cres.
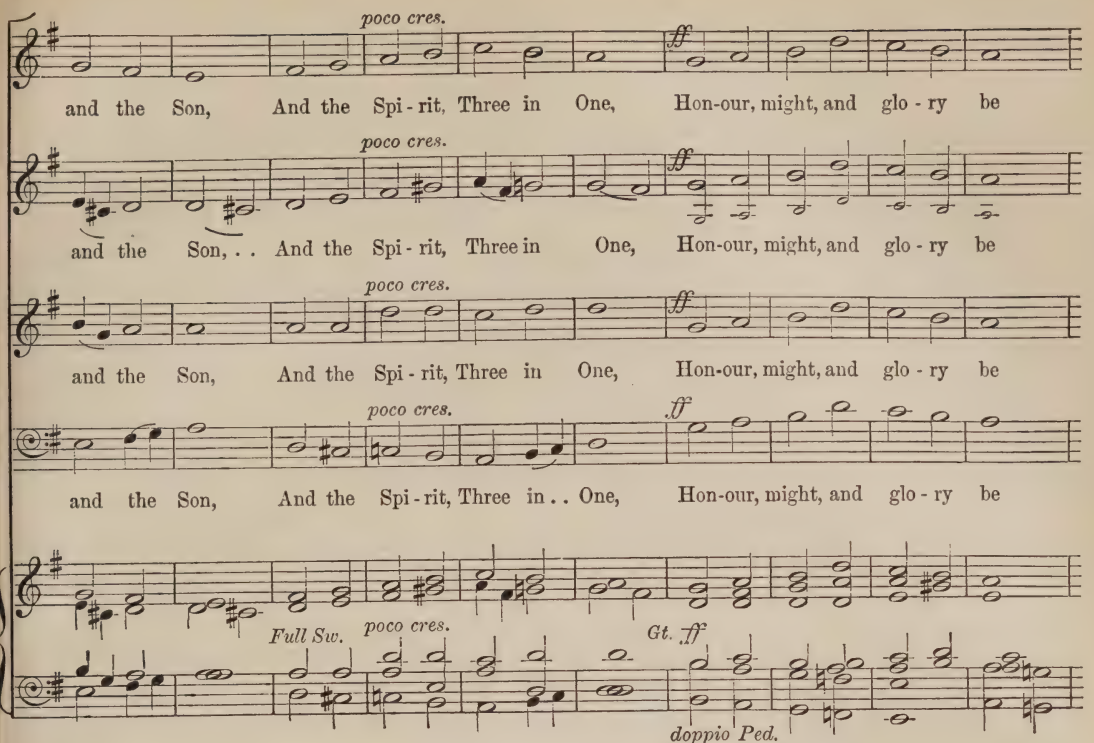
poco dim.
Thou hast laid up, which Thou hast laid up, which Thou hast laid up for them that fear . .
poco cres.
poco dim.
Thou . . . hast laid up . . . for them, which Thou hast laid up for them that fear . .
poco cres.
poco dim.
which Thou hast laid up, which Thou hast laid up, hast laid up for them that fear . .
poco cres.
poco dim.
Thou hast laid up, which Thou hast laid up for them that fear
poco cres.
poco dim.



Thee,
Thee,
mf legato.
Thee,
and that Thou hast pre - par'd for them that put their trust in Thee,
f
p Sw.
Man.
Ped.
mf legato.
and that Thou hast pre -
Thee,
mf legato.
and that Thou hast pre - par'd for them that put their trust in Thee,
p p
Man.
Ped.
Man.
ff ben marcato.
- par'd for them that put their trust in Thee,
e - ven be - fore the sons . . of
ff ben marcato.
e - ven be - fore the sons of
ff ben marcato.
e - ven be - fore the sons of ben marcato.
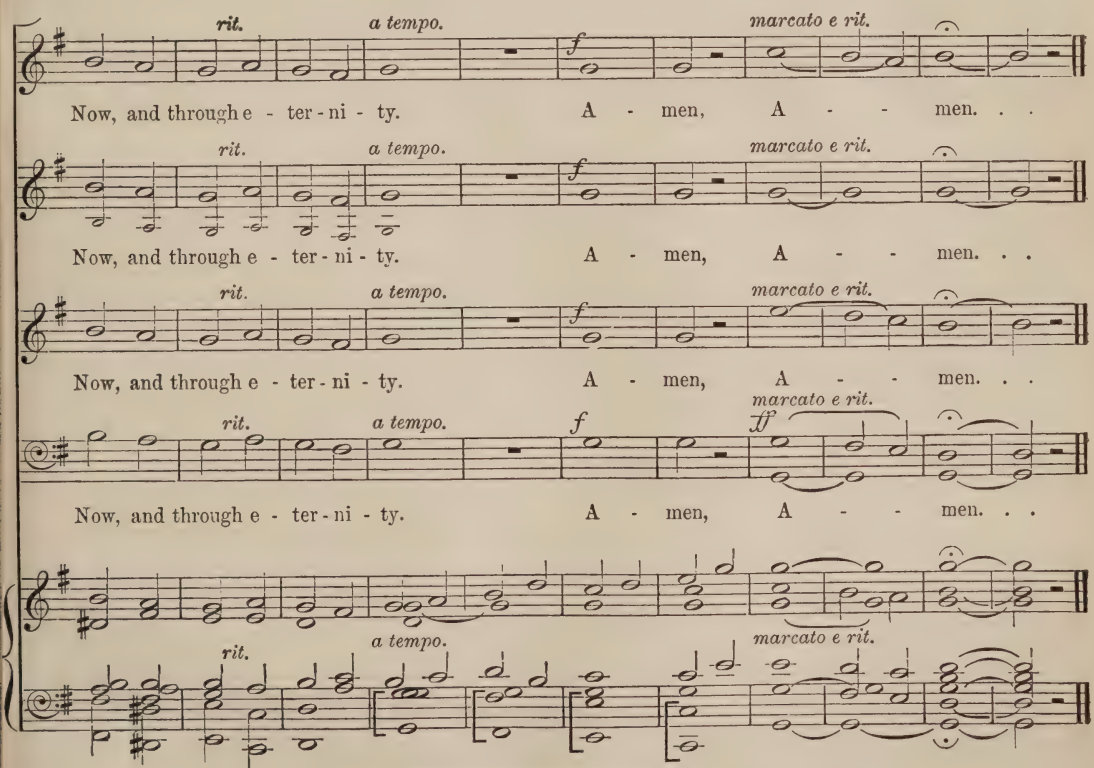
ff
e - ven be - fore the sons of
Gt. f
Ped.



ben marcato.
men, e - ven be - fore the sons . . . of men, e - ven be - fore the sons of men, e - ven be - fore the sons of men, e - ven be - fore the sons of ff
men,
men,
men,
men,
rit.
f
cres.
a tempo.
O how plen-ti-ful is Thy good - - ness, which Thou hast laid up . . . for them that
O how plen-ti-ful . . . is Thy goodness, which Thou . . . hast laid up for them that
O how plen-ti-ful . . . is Thy goodness, which Thou . . . hast laid up for them that O how plen-ti-ful . . . is Thy goodness, which Thou hast laid up for them that f a tempo.

fear Thee, O how plen- ti-ful is Thy goodness, which Thou hast laid up, which fear Thee, O how plen- ti-ful is Thy goodness, which Thou . . hast laid fear Thee, O how plen- ti-ful is Thy goodness, which Thou hast laid fear Thee, O how plen- ti-ful is Thy goodness, which Thou
Più animato.
Thou hast laid up, which Thou hast laid up for them that fear . . Thee, O how up, which Thou hast laid up . . . for them that fear . . Thee, O how up, which Thou hast laid up . . . for them that fear Thee, O how hast laid up, which Thou hast laid up for them that fear . . Thee, O how Più animato.
rit.
lunga pausa.
plen-ti-ful is Thy good-ness, O how plen-ti-ful is Thy good-ness.
plen-ti-ful is Thy good-ness, O how plen-ti-ful is Thy good-ness.
plen-ti-ful is Thy good-ness, O how plen-ti-ful is Thy good-ness.
plen-ti-ful is Thy good-ness, O how plen-ti-ful is Thy good-ness.
rit.
lunga pausa.

* German Chorale.

Also published in Novello's Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 925, price 1½*d.*

RECENT NUMBERS.

THE MUSICAL TIMES (Sacred).

606. O God, who is like unto Thee .. .. .. Myles B. Foster.
609. There were shepherds .. .. „ „
612. Now is Christ risen .. .. John E. West.
614. Lord, I call upon Thee .. .. Arnold D. Culley.
617. Jesu, priceless treasure .. .. J. Varley Roberts.
618. Thou crownest the year .. .. Josiah Booth.
621 With all Thy hosts .. .. John E. West.
622. There was silence in Bethlehem's fields .. John Stainer.
624. O saving Victim .. .. F. Kœnig.
625. Hearken unto me .. .. Myles B. Foster.
628. I will sing unto the Lord .. .. H. Purcell.
629. The eyes of all wait upon Thee .. .. A. R. Gaul.
633. The night is far spent .. .. Bruce Steane.
634. Thou wilt keep him .. .. A. D. Culley.
636. Worthy is the Lamb .. .. .. J. Francis Barnett.
638. If I go not away .. .. Thomas Adams.
640. Save me, O God .. .. C. S. Jekyll.
641. Let us now fear the Lord our God .. .. John E. West.

Price Three-Halfpence each.

THE MUSICAL TIMES (Secular).

608. A lover's counsel .. .. Frederic H. Cowen.
610. In a drear-nighted December .. .. .. G. A. Macfarren.
611. { Soldier, rest! thy warfare o'er .. .. Hamish MacCunn.
{ I love my Jean .. .. George J. Bennett.
613. It was a lover and his lass (Morley) .. .. J. F. Bridge.
615. Blow, ye gentle breezes, blow .. J. Christopher Marks, Junr.
616. O'er the woodland chace .. .. .. Herbert W. Wareing.
619. Ballad of Earl Haldan's daughter .. .. Robin H. Legge.
620. Softly the moonlight .. .. F. Iliffe.
623. Spring.. .. .. Frederic H. Cowen.
626. The shades of night .. .. J. Varley Roberts.
627. Now the wearied sun declining .. .. R. F. Lloyd.
630. Under the greenwood tree .. .. .. James Shaw.
631. Autumn .. .. J. Booth.
632. A Shadow .. .. Jacques Blumenthal.
635. To Sylvia .. .. Schubert-West.
637. O happy eyes .. .. E. Elgar.
639. Pack, clouds, away .. .. W. A. C. Cruickshank.

Price Three-Halfpence each.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO ANTHEMS.

533. Christ is risen .. .. J. Varley Roberts 3d.
534. The first day of the week .. .. .. Bruce Steane 3d.
535. Have mercy upon me, O God .. .. .. John Goss 4d.
536. O joyful light .. .. B. Tours 4d.
537. I declare to you the Gospel .. W. A. C. Cruickshank 4d.
538. When Christ, Who is our life .. .. J. Varley Roberts 2d.
539. I am Alpha and Omega .. .. .. „ „ 3d.
542. Sing to the Lord .. .. J. Barnby 4d.
543. O Lamb of God .. .. J. Barnby 3d.
544. If ye love Me .. .. Bruce Steane 2d.
545. Hail! gladdening light .. .. .. G. C. Martin 4d.
547. The eyes of all .. .. G. J. Elvey 3d.
548. Joy in harvest .. .. Bruce Steane 3d.
549. Thou visitest the earth .. .. .. J. W. Elliott 3d.
551. O sing unto the Lord .. .. W. A. C. Cruickshank 4d.

To be continued.

NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK.

736. Lie down, poor heart .. .. .. F. C. Woods 3d.
737. How sweet the moonlight sleeps .. .. D. Emlyn Evans 1½d.
738. A red, red rose .. .. J. Varley Roberts 2d.
739. I prithee send me back my heart .. .. „ „ 3d.
740. Evening Hymn .. .. .. Jacques Blumenthal 3d.
741. Gather ye rosebuds .. .. .. „ „ 4d.
742. The loyal Lover .. .. .. „ „ 3d.
743. The Butterfly .. .. .. „ „ 4d.
744. Good-night .. .. R. O. Morgan 3d.
745. The Song of Victory (King Arthur) .. Henry Purcell 4d.
747. Upon my lap my soveraigne sits .. Martin Peerson 2d.
748. The Widow Bird .. .. Charles Wood 2d.
749. Evening Breezes .. .. G. R. Vicars 2d.
750. There rolls the deep .. .. .. C. H. H. Parry 2d.
751. Shall I, wasting in despair .. .. .. G. J. Elvey 2d.

To be continued.

NOVELLO'S PARISH CHOIR BOOK

277. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F .. J. Baptiste Calkin 6d.
278. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D .. .. E. Prout 6d.
279. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis (3rd Series). (Greg. Tones) J. Stainer 2d.
280. Ride on, ride on in Majesty (Hymn) .. A. H. Brown 1½d.
281. Two Flower Service Hymns .. .. Lady Euan-Smith 2d.
282. Te Deum laudamus (3rd Series). (Greg. Tones) J. Stainer 3d.
283. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F .. A. H. Brewer 3d.
284. Two Concluding Amens .. .. Ch. Gounod 1d.
286. Vesper Hymn .. .. A. T. Lee Ashton 1d.
288. Te Deum and Benedictus in E flat .. .. F. Adlam 4d.
290. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E .. .. John Goss 4d.
292. The Church Catechism .. .. .. Myles B. Foster 3d.
298. Abide with me! fast falls the eventide .. .. W. T. Best 1½d.
299. Dies iræ, Dies illa (Day of wrath, O day of mourning) .. 1½d.
300. Te Deum laudamus (2nd Series.) (Greg. Tones) J. Stainer 3d.

To be continued.

THE ORPHEUS (New Series).

284. At that dread hour (Faith) .. .. S. S. Wesley 6d.
285. The Ivy .. .. C. Lee Williams 3d.
286. A red, red rose .. .. J. Varley Roberts 2d.
287. In the pleasant summer day .. .. William Beale 4d.
288. I prithee send me back my heart .. J. Varley Roberts 4d.
289. What care I how fair she be .. Jacques Blumenthal 4d.
290. While my lady sleepeth .. .. .. Percy Pitt 3d.
291. A Cavalier's Song .. .. „ „ 3d.
292. The Flirt .. .. J. F. Bridge 3d.
293. The leaves to one another say .. .. C. H. Döring 3d.
294. The moon looks down .. .. .. „ „ 2d.
295. Far down the green valley .. .. „ „ 2d.
296. Street music .. .. Hamilton Clarke 4d.
297. The kiss .. .. J. Barnby 3d.
298. In laudem amoris .. .. J. Barnby 3d.
299. There's life to be seen .. .. .. George Miller 4d.

To be continued.

NOVELLO'S SHORT ANTHEMS.

50. The Lord opened the doors of Heaven .. F. C. Woods 1½d.
51. Watch ye and pray .. .. G. R. Vicars 2d.
52. The path of the just .. .. J. V. Roberts 1½d.
53. O Lord, correct me .. .. James Coward 1½d.
54. I will arise .. .. Charles Wood 1½d.
55. The Angel of the Lord .. .. Alan Gray 1½d.
56. Jesu, Saviour, I am Thine .. .. .. Bruce Steane 1½d.
57. O Lord, Who hast taught us .. .. A. G. Iggulden 1½d.
58. Almighty and Everlasting God .. John Stafford Smith 1½d.
59. Come, let us worship .. .. Palestrina 1½d.
61. Lead me, Lord .. .. S. S. Wesley 1½d.
64. Jesus said unto the people .. .. .. J. Stainer 1½d.
66. These are they which follow the Lamb .. .. John Goss 1½d.
67. O Lord, give ear unto my prayer .. W. H. Cummings 2d.
68. Whom have I in Heaven but Thee .. G. J. Elvey 2d.

To be continued.

NOVELLO'S COLLECTION OF
TRIOS, QUARTETS, &c.
FOR FEMALE VOICES.

296. Hymn to nature .. .. L. Streabbog 3d.
297. Dickory, dickory, dock .. .. Herbert W. Schartau 3d.
298. Whither away? .. .. C. Villiers Stanford 8d.
299. Summer .. .. Hamilton Clarke 4d.
300. To the woods .. .. „ „ 4d.
301. Noble be thy life .. .. Beethoven 3d.
302. So the world goes round .. .. .. Marie Wurm 2d.
303. Softly the moonlight .. .. F. Iliffe 3d.
304. You stole my love (arranged by F. Maxson) W. Macfarren 2d.
305. Moonlight .. .. Hamilton Clarke 4d.
306. The Snow .. .. E. Elgar 6d.
307. Fly, singing Bird .. .. „ 6d.
308. To-day and to-morrow .. .. Hamilton Clarke 4d.

To be continued.

Some violoncello solos by Mr. Whitehouse and the singing of Mrs. Helen Trust and Mr. Arthur Oswald were enjoyable numbers of the afternoon.

THE Ladies' Concert Society, a body which permits no males to assist at its performances, gave a Chamber Concert, on the 10th ult., at the Queen's (Small) Hall. The most notable performance was that of Schütt's Pianoforte Trio in C minor (Op. 27), which was meritoriously rendered by the Misses Emily Christie, Winifred Robinson, and Kate Ould. The two last-named ladies respectively played violin and violoncello solos with much skill, and a number of songs were contributed by Miss Alice Crawley, Miss Ethel Barnard, and Mrs. Matthay.

MISS LARGE, from New Zealand, made a fairly successful début in London at a short Concert given, on May 30, at the Brinsmead Galleries. Miss Large has a well-trained soprano voice, and her renderings of Haydn's canzonet "My mother bids me bind my hair" and songs by Cowen and Luzzi indicated the possession of musical taste. Other performers were Miss Marion Gordon, Miss Beatrice Pratt, and Mr. Adolf Schmid.

AMONGST notable inventions and methods designed to assist pianoforte students to acquire technical facility and accuracy, "The Practice Clavier," designed by Mr. Virgil, occupies a prominent place. Those teachers and students who may wish to test its efficacy will have an admirable opportunity of doing so by the proposed four weeks' course of training in the system, which will be commenced on the 21st ult., at Clavier Hall, Princes' Street, Hanover Square.

THE twenty-ninth of the monthly series of Free Organ Recitals was given at the Dutch Church, Austin Friars, on the 18th ult., by Mr. Rudolph Loman, when the programme included pieces J. S. Bach, Mendelssohn, Dubois, Guilmant, and Merkel.

AT a Soirée Musicale given at the Horns Assembly Rooms, Kennington Park, on the 4th ult., the programme included the first performance of an operatic cantata entitled "The Brother Knights," the words by Mr. A. W. Durrant, set to music by Mr. W. S. Hinchliff. The somewhat trite and silly subject has been ably dealt with by the composer, the work commencing with a spirited overture and containing some effective airs and choral writing combined with picturesque instrumentation. It was well produced, with an efficient orchestra and well-trained choral forces, under the energetic direction of the composer, the solo parts being given by Miss Agnes Molteno, Mr. M. C. Malony, and Mr. Gerald Joyce.

A FREE Musical Entertainment was given on Whit-Monday at St. Stephen's Schools, Hampstead, for the purpose of introducing an element of refinement in the numerous amusements provided for the crowds assembled in the locality on that day. Among the ladies and gentlemen who kindly volunteered their services may be mentioned Miss Binney, whose violin contributions were much appreciated, and Madame Vestella Gordon, whose fine and well-trained soprano voice and judicious selection of songs rendered her a favourite with the numerous audience. The excellent undertaking, ventured upon for the first time on this occasion, was entirely successful.

MR. JOHN W. IVIMEY gave a Concert in the Assembly Rooms, Surbiton, on the 1st ult., when the programme was made up entirely of his own compositions. These included a Trio in D, played by the composer and Messrs. Joseph Ivimey and Arthur Blagrove; a "Graceful Dance" and "Gigue" for pianoforte, played by the composer; a "Song without words" and "Humoresque" for violoncello, played by Mr. Arthur Blagrove, and several vocal pieces selected from complete works and sung by Miss Pattie Hughes, Miss Minnie Chamberlain, Mr. Reginald White, and Mr. Broughton Black.

THE sixth annual Festival of the Highgate Rural Deanery Church Choir Association took place at Hornsey Parish Church, on the 9th ult., about 200 voices taking part. The service included Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D (A. J. Dye), with anthems, "Sing, O Heavens" (Sullivan), and "Hallelujah" Chorus ("Mount of Olives"). The singing, on the whole, was bright and effective, evincing careful rehearsal. The conductor was Mr. Henry J. Baker, of Hornsey; and Mr. Herbert J. Gresham rendered efficient service at the organ.

A RECITAL of sacred music was given at St. Simon's, Chelsea, on the 8th ult., to mark the thirty-eighth anniversary of laying the memorial stone. A small orchestra of strings and wood-wind, with Mr. G. Hardcastle at the organ, accompanied. The solo vocalists were Miss Maud Tucker, Mr. R. P. Parker, Mr. Munroe Stewart, and Mr. W. J. Appleby; and Mr. F. E. Sparrow played two organ solos. The choir sang an anthem, and the whole Recital was conducted by Mr. Thomas Curry, organist and choirmaster of St. Simon's.

MENDELSSOHN'S "Hymn of Praise" was sung with full orchestra at St. Mark's, Kennington, on the 10th and 14th ult., by the choir of the church, augmented for the occasion. Miss Georgina Tear, Masters Wilson, Shaughnessey, and Rice, and Mr. Albon Nash were the soloists. Mr. Barwell led the band of about thirty, Mr. Hamilton Robinson presided at the organ, and Mr. Warren Tear (organist and choirmaster of St. Mark's) conducted.

AT St. Joseph's Retreat, Highgate Hill, on Sunday morning, the 14th ult., Henry J. Wood's Mass in E flat was given, the soloists being Masters Balfre, Beard, and Turnbull Sinclair, Messrs. Herbert Grover, Herbert Linwood, Thomas Seadon, and William Ludwig. In the evening Rossini's Stabat Mater was given. Mr. Volanti Armitage accompanied on the organ at each service.

AT Holy Trinity Church, Wandsworth, Parts 2 and 3 of Gounod's "Redemption" were sung as the anthem on Trinity Sunday (Dedication Festival). The choir was augmented for the occasion, and, supported by trumpets, trombones, drums, harp, and organ, gave a good performance of the work. Mr. W. C. Carter conducted, and Mr. Henry W. Weston, organist of the church, presided at the organ.

AT All Saints' Church, North Peckham, Mr. Selfe Fowles gave an Organ Recital on the 17th ult. The programme included Introduction and Prelude to "Lohengrin," Introduction to Act III. of "Tannhäuser," Pastorale in E (Lemare), Marche Religieuse ("Lohengrin"), and Fantasia in E major (A. Hesse). The vocalist was Mr. H. Rebbeck.

REVIEWS.

Denkmäler der Tonkunst in Osterreich. Vol. II. Georg Muffat. Florilegium Secundum. [Artaria and Co.]

THE Florilegium Secundum was published at Passau in 1698. Georg Muffat, the author, was the father of August Gottlieb Muffat, whose Componenti Musicali formed the subject of a special article in our March, 1895, number. In the composer's preface, which, by the way, is written in four languages (Latin, German, Italian, and French), the great success of the first set of these pieces is given as a reason, and a very good one too, for the issuing of another set. And the composer is so anxious that his music shall be properly executed that he gives rules and hints with regard to fingering, bowing, ornaments, &c. M. Baptiste de Lully was evidently his model in all that concerned violin playing (it may be mentioned that the sixty-two numbers in this volume were written for volin, violetta, viola, quinta parte, and violone). The original title speaks of a basso continuo ad lib. for clavier. A pianoforte score is added for convenience, and accordingly he tells his readers many things concerning "la belle méthode" of the French musician. And then Muffat proceeds to speak of the necessity for pure intonation and to give certain rules to be observed in bowing. Among certain customs of the Lullists he mentions the tuning of instruments before the arrival of the audience (a good custom, alas! which has gone out of fashion), or of doing it as quickly and quietly as possible. And, further, he remarks that they abstained from preludes, confusing the ear, and causing it annoyance greater than the pleasure which it afterwards receives. The question of ornaments he treats at length, and, considering the important part which they played in music of those days, the comments are welcome. In speaking of the Pincement or tremblement coupé, he reminds players that the lower note is generally played a semitone below, and often, on that account, has to be raised by means of a sharp. This shows of what little use the mere notes are in old music; they are letter, not spirit. And, again, Muffat remarks that pincements may be introduced almost everywhere (se peuvent faire presque partout). It has been often asserted that ornaments were introduced in great quantities into harpsichord music on account of the fleeting nature of the tone of that instrument. Yet Muffat, speaking of music for strings, declares that without them melody and harmony are naked (nuës). Before closing his preface the composer modestly requests his readers to attribute any fault in the music to his incapacity; anything good, to Divine Goodness, source of all gifts. The pieces in this volume are divided into eight collections. No. 1 opens with an Overture quite à la Lulli, both in form and character, followed by short dance movements; a "Gigue for the English," a "Gavotte for the Italians," &c. In the third collection there are various dance movements in so-called Italian style. Among curious titles in the other collections we may mention: Les Ramonneurs, Les Gendarmes, Les Bossus. Among the predecessors of Bach and Handel, Georg Muffat holds a distinguished place; this careful reprint, under the editorship of Dr. Heinrich Rietsch, will, therefore, be welcome to musicians.

Selection of Pieces composed for the Harpsichord. By Bernado Pasquini. Edited by J. S. Shedlock.

[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

It is not too much to say that this volume is one of the most important contributions to antiquarian music which has been made for many years past. Few musicians probably have seen any music by the once famous composer, Bernado Pasquini, for his works have long reposed in private and public libraries. Yet he composed operas, cantatas, songs, and chamber music, which not only brought their composer renown, but are said to have influenced contemporary German musicians. Dr. Franz Gehring, of Vienna, describes Pasquini's music as being "terse, vigorous, and, at the same time, graceful," and "having much in common with that of Handel." Mr. Shedlock, in an admirable and most instructive preface, shows that Bernado Pasquini was born on December 8, 1637, at Massa de Valnevola, Tuscany, and says that in the British Museum are three volumes of this composer's chamber music, in the first of which is written in pencil: "These are original MSS. by the hand of Bernado Pasquini, 1637-1710, the greatest organist of Italy in the second half of the seventeenth century, and written for his nephew, B. Ricordati." From these volumes Mr. Shedlock has selected the most characteristic examples of this old master, the most important being a "Sonata a due Cembali." This specimen affords a remarkable proof of the conscientious and painstaking manner in which Mr. Shedlock has done his work. Not only are the harmonies written out from the figured bass with admirable regard to the character of the music, but in the preface before referred to the figured basses are printed exactly as written by Pasquini. Much interest is also attached to two sets of variations on "La Follia," probably an old Spanish dance, in reference to which the editor has drawn attention to some remarkable resemblances of phraseology between Pasquini, Corelli, and Alessandro Scarlatti, and recommends comparison with Frescobaldi's "Variations Sopra la Follia" and Froberger's Variations, entitled "Auf dei Mayerin," contained in the MS. volume in the Vienna Court Library, and which have been published by Messrs. Novello. From a volume, dated 1702, in the Berlin Royal Library, Mr. Shedlock has extracted a "Toccato con lo Scherzo del Cuccó," the music of which is written on two staves, the upper one of six and the lower one of seven lines. The inclusion in fac-simile of a portion of the MS. gives some idea of the laborious and difficult task of transcribing which has been so ably accomplished in this work. Five other pieces have been taken from the above-mentioned volume in the Berlin Library, all of which well merit attention, not only by reason of their great antiquarian value, but also by reason of their musical interest. The inclusion now and again of some of them at pianoforte recitals would provide a most effective contrast to works of more modern date.

Novello's Parish Choir Book, Nos. 255-271.

[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

It is evidently the intention of Messrs. Novello to provide our Parish Church choirs with an extensive and varied repertory. In No. 255 the Te Deum is set by Sir John Stainer in Gregorian form. To quote from a note which accompanies this setting, "In this arrangement the melodists are voices (boys and men) set apart to sing the Tones throughout; the choir is a body of singers qualified to sing in harmony when directed." By this means effective variety is imparted to the music while the dignity of the Gregorian measure is maintained. The Magnificat and the Nunc dimittis are set in the same manner in Nos. 260 and 271. A convenient arrangement of the music for the marriage service, edited by the Rev. James Baden Powell, will be found in No. 256. Those who want a fresh tune for the hymn "Through the day Thy love has spared us," may be recommended to examine No. 257, provided by J. Tilleard. The Evening Canticles are arranged in a manner that will rejoice the heart of trained vocalists in No. 258, by Sir George Elvey, and a simple setting, in chant form, of the same Canticles, by Alfred H. Littleton, will be found in No. 259. Nos. 261 and 264 are vesper hymns to be sung kneeling after the blessing, the first being by Bruce Steane and the second by A. L. Vingo. The former is the simpler of the two, but the latter, which concludes with a four-fold Amen, is the more effective. No. 262 is a setting of the Te Deum by M. J. Monk, specially composed for the Exeter Diocesan Choral Festival of the present year. It is written in four-part harmony, is of diatonic character, and possesses considerable dignity. No. 263 is "The Office for Holy Communion" in G, by Leighton George Hayne, and consists of the Kyrie, Doxology, Nicene Creed, Sursum Corda, Sanctus, and Gloria in Excelsis. The music is simple and diatonic, and, sung by a well-balanced choir, would be impressive. The Rev. E. V. Hall has set the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in a very effective fashion in No. 265. The music, however, will present no difficulties to the average choir. The last remark is also applicable to a "Festival Communion Service," by T. Tallis Trimnell (No. 266). It should be stated that this setting only comprises the Sanctus, Kyrie, and Nicene Creed. No. 267 is an arrangement of the Te Deum in unison, by Sir John Goss, which has already been widely accepted. No. 268 gives the voice parts of Marbeck's Nicene Creed, arranged by Sir John Stainer. Four melodious Easter Carols, composed by J. T. Field, are contained in No. 269. These are all excellent. They are in four-part harmony, and the music breathes the exultation of the season. An effective Processional Hymn, entitled "The King of Saints," and a musicianly setting of an Offertory Sentence, "He that soweth," by Dr. Warwick Jordan, will be found in No. 270.

Three Nocturnes. For the Pianoforte. By Graham P. Moore. L'Ancien Régime Gavotte. For the Pianoforte. By Stanley Hawley. Mazurka Impromptu. For the Pianoforte. By Beatrice Parkins. [Robert Cocks and Co.]

Mr. Moore always writes in sympathy with the genius of the household instrument, and his three Nocturnes are pleasing little pieces, appropriately romantic and placid in character. They will present no difficulty to the average pianist.

Mr. Hawley commences his Gavotte with a chord which would have condemned his music in the ears of our forefathers—a major seventh on the supertonic of the scale—but doubtless this will rather heighten than diminish the interest of his piece with many modern players, who will find it rhythmic, melodious, and effective.

There is little suggestive of an impromptu in Miss Beatrice Parkins's Mazurka, which goes the way in which mazurkas should, and is built upon graceful and symmetrical melodies. It is worthy of note that the composer, although manifestly writing for the home, has had the courage to adopt the signature of six flats.

The Student's Harmony. By Orlando A. Mansfield. [Weekes and Co.]

The aim and character of this book is well described by its title. The theory adopted may be said to be that advanced by Professor Prout, and it is unfolded in a lucid and straightforward manner. An excellent selection of examples of the uses by the great masters of the chords described accompany the explanations, and a feature of the book is the series of questions appended to each chapter, which are admirably calculated to prepare the student for the successful passing of examinations. An exhaustive index is also provided, and the sub-divisions of the chapters into sections permit of the frequent use of cross references, the value of which will be quickly appreciated by those who adopt this volume as their text book.

Four English Dances in the Olden Style. By F. H. Cowen. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

This is an arrangement for pianoforte solo of the four English Dances recently written for the orchestra by Mr. F. H. Cowen, and heard for the first time in public on May 11 last, at Mr. Fritz Masbach's Orchestral Concert at St. James's Hall. The first of them is called "Stately Dance," a title which is well justified by the character of the music. It is in A minor, with a middle episode in the tonic major, which forms an effective contrast to the preceding and following matter. Very different in style is the next number, a "Rustic Dance," which possesses all the vigour and sprightliness expected in a composition of this kind; but, apart from this, it has considerable individuality, and is a merry and pulse-quickening piece. The "Graceful Dance" which follows is one of those melodious and charming examples of light music which no one knows better how to write than Mr. Cowen. It is dainty and tasteful in the highest degree, and the music is alike charming to play and to hear. The final number of this volume is a "Country Dance," which by its spirit takes one back to the days of blue dress coats and brass buttons. It is not so easy to play as the preceding Dances, requiring a firm touch and vivacious execution to do it full justice, but it will amply repay any extra practice it may demand of its executants. As a whole, the bright and pleasing character of this volume will doubtless render it exceptionally welcome to a large number of amateur pianists.

When valiant Ammon. Air for a Bass voice. By Jonathan Battishill. The Pianoforte Accompaniment by Myles Birkett Foster. [Boosey and Co.]

This song is from the opera "Almena," which was composed by Battishill in conjunction with Michael Arne in 1764. It is an excellent example of its composer's bold and masculine style, and could be made highly effective by a well trained bass voice. Mr. Foster's pianoforte arrangement of the accompaniment has been made from the orchestral score, and will interest the skilled pianist.

FOREIGN NOTES.

Athens.—M. Spiro Samara, the composer of the successful operas "Flora Mirabilis" and "La Martire," is about to establish here an orchestra of one hundred executants, chiefly Italian and French artists, for the performance of high-class music under his direction. M. Samara, though for many years residing in Italy, is a native of Greece.

Barcelona.—At a Concert recently given under the direction of M. Nicolau, the programme included the "Grail scene" from "Parsifal," sung with excellent effect, in Spanish, by the choral society "Orfeo Catalá," the conductor receiving a perfect ovation.

Berlin.—A complete cycle of Wagner's operas, from "Rienzi" to "Götterdämmerung," was given at the Royal Opera last month.——The projected performances here, under the direction of Herr Loewe, of Breslau, of Rubinstein's sacred opera "Christus," have been interdicted by the authorities in accordance with an old law prohibiting the representation of the person of the Saviour on the stage.——A non-scenic partial representation of the poet-composer Herr Adalbert von Goldschmidt's remarkable operatic trilogy, "Gœa," took place recently at the Hôtel Kaiserhof, before a distinguished audience, including many members of the aristocracy and of the diplomatic corps. The declamatory portions were given by Fräulein Rosa Poppe and Herr Reicher, the vocal by Mesdames Meyerwisch, Engelmann, and Eberlin, while Director Behm presided at the pianoforte. The fragments of the work performed, particularly a love scene between Eros and Gœa, and the death of the former, produced a deep impression, and the earnest desire was expressed on all sides that the stage representation of the entire work (which is the object of an influential committee recently formed) may be speedily realised.——Herr Philipp Rüfer's opera "Ingo," first produced at the Royal Opera, as already announced by us, on May 21, met with an equally favourable reception on its second performance a few days later. The composer, a Belgian by birth, has been resident here for a number of years, and became favourably known as an operatic composer by his opera "Merlin," produced some years ago. The libretto of the new work is founded upon a novel of the same title by Gustav Freitag, and is divided into four acts, the score being replete with interesting details and highly dramatic in parts. Frau Egli, Herren Sylva and Bulss were able representatives of the principal characters.——In the early part of last month the members of the Philharmonic Orchestra, the foremost members of the Royal Opera, and other musicians (including Herren Sauer and Stavenhagen) left for Moscow to take part in a Concert to be given by Prince Radolin in honour of the Russian Imperial couple.——The Emperor has raised the annual subvention granted to the Royal Theatre (for opera and drama) to one million of marks.

Bologna.—Leoncavallo's new opera "Chatterton" was brought out here on the 1st ult., and achieved a brilliant success.

Brussels.—A new ballet by M. Camille Saint-Saëns, entitled "Aliboron," the scenario by M. J. L. Croze, will be the first novelty to be brought out at the Théâtre de la Monnaie in the coming season.——A very interesting Lecture on the music of ancient Greece was delivered on May 25, at the Conservatoire, by the director, M. Gevaert. It was interspersed with a number of illustrations given on original instruments, skilfully restored by M. Victor Mahillon; and also included a performance of the famous "Hymn to Apollo" with the accompaniment of the Kithara. There was a privately invited audience, who followed the proceedings with the closest interest.

Budapesth.—The directors of the Royal Opera have decided to present to visitors during the present Millennium Exhibition two complete cycles of Wagner's operas, with the exception only of "Die Feen" and "Tristan und Isolde," which are not included in the repertory of that establishment. One of the two series will be given this month and the second during August.

Buenos Ayres.—A handsome new Opera House has recently been opened here with a performance of Verdi's "Otello," and Signor Tamagno in the titular part. Apropos of the visit of the great Italian tenor to the Argentine Republic, a local paper, L'Italia a Plata, informs its readers, "upon the very best authority," that Tamagno is about to purchase an estate here, and, retiring altogether from the lyrical stage, devote himself in future to agriculture.

Copenhagen.—The veteran and highly esteemed composer, Professor Emil Hartmann, celebrated his ninety-first birthday on May 14, in excellent health and spirits; the King of Denmark in person presenting his congratulations on the occasion.

Dresden. — The well-known composer Herr August Bungert has been for some years past engaged upon a series of music-dramas representing, under the general title of "Homeric World," various episodes in the two great epic poems of the Greek bard. One of these, entitled "Odysseus' Heimkehr," is to be brought out at the Royal Theatre here during the coming season. Of the remaining five similar works, each filling one evening, three are already completed. It is to be hoped that the success attending this gigantic undertaking will be proportionate to the labour involved thereby. Herr Bungert is his own librettist.——A one-act opera, "Runenzauber," by the well-known composer, Herr Emil Hartmann, is shortly to be brought out here, the work having likewise been accepted for performance at the Royal Opera, Berlin.

Frankfort-on-Main.—An excellent performance took place on the 7th ult., at the Hoch'sche Conservatorium, under Professor Julius Stockhausen's direction, of Johann Sebastian Bach's so-called "Coffee Cantata," for soli, chorus, and orchestra. The seldom-heard humorous work was immensely appreciated.——The new opera on a Japanese subject, "Lili Tsee," by Herr Franz Curti, already successfully produced at Mannheim, was brought out at the Stadt-Theater on the 2nd ult., and exceedingly well received. Herr Humperdinck, in the Frankfurter Zeitung, speaks most highly of both libretto and music, which latter he describes as "truly original and graceful, and rich without being over-loaded in its instrumentation; an altogether welcome addition to the répertoire."——It is stated here that the late Frau Clara Schumann has left in the hands of her daughter a diary she has kept for a period of forty years, the contents of which, if ever published, cannot fail to prove highly interesting and valuable alike to the music historian and amateur.

Geneva.—The cantata composed by M. Otto Barblan to verses by M. Jules Cougnard, for the inauguration of the Exhibition now being held here, was performed last month with great success by a very fine chorus of 200 voices, under the composer's direction. A great number of Concert performances have been arranged for during the course of the Exhibition, notably those of the orchestra conducted by M. Gustave Doret, at the Victoria Hall, with excellent programmes of classical and modern music.

Heidelberg.—At a Concert given last month by the Bach-Verein, for the benefit of a new organ fund, some orchestral numbers from Humperdinck's just completed music to Rosmer's drama "Königskinder," were produced for the first time, under Dr. Wolfrum's direction, and enthusiastically received.

Leipzig.—A new ballet by Herr Richard Heuberger, with the title, familiar to the nursery-room, of "Struwelpeter," is being mounted for the coming season at the Stadt-Theater.——A two-act opera, "La Festa del Carro," by Signor Buongiorn, was brought out, with a German version of Golisciani's libretto, on May 24, under Capellmeister Panzer's direction, with moderate success. The composer is a young musician, resident in Dresden.——The recent performance at St. Thomas's Church of Bach's "St. Matthew" Passion, for the first time, under Herr Nikisch's direction, attracted an enormous audience, who were roused to unwonted enthusiasm by the masterly interpretation the familiar work met with on this occasion. ——Professor Jadassohn, the learned contrapuntist and professor at the Conservatorium, celebrated, on May 15, the fiftieth anniversary of his appointment at that world-famed institution.

Mannheim.—The new comic opera "Der Corregidor," by the young Viennese composer, Herr Hugo Wolf, was performed for the first time on the 7th ult., at the Court Theatre, and achieved a decided success. The composer to a great extent follows the direction pointed in Wagner's "Die Meistersinger," and, according to a competent critic of the Frankfurter Zeitung, does so with perfect freedom and without sacrificing his own distinctive individuality.

Milan.—Verdi has deposited the sum of four millions of lire with a banking-house here for the erection, in the Piazzale Michelangelo, of a Casa di Reposo, or home for aged musicians. Signor Camillo Boito, brother of the composer of "Mefistofele," is the architect of the building.

Munich.—The long-prepared model performances of Mozart's "Don Giovanni," at the Royal Residenz-Theater, which commenced on May 29, are likely to prove one of the principal attractions in the special operatic scheme now annually presented to visitors of the Bavarian capital during the summer months. The immortal work is a typical one. Originally described as "dramma giocoso," it has been practically the forerunner of romantic opera, whereas, in the course of time, fashion and operatic impresarios combined have invested it more and more with the character of what is known as "grand opera." In the present Munich performances the individuality of the work has been restored, and it is being presented as closely as possible in accordance with the original production, under the composer's direction, in 1787, at Prague; divided into two acts, with an orchestra of only twenty-six performers, and under the more intimate local conditions offered by the small Residenz-Theater. The cast is an excellent one, with Frau Senger-Bettaque as Donna Anna, Fräulein Ternina as Donna Elvira, Herr Gura, jun., as the Don, and Herren Fuchs and Vogl as pre-eminently satisfactory representatives respectively of Leporello and Don Ottavio. The German version of Da Ponte's libretto has been specially revised for the occasion by Capellmeister Levi. Herr Richard Strauss conducted the first performance.

Pescia.—The birth centenary of the composer Giovanni Pacini, the friend of Rossini and Donizetti, was celebrated here on May 31 by a Concert at the theatre bearing his name, and an open-air Festival held at the Piazza Vittorio Emmanuele, in which several orchestras took part. Numerous excerpts from Pacini's operas, "Medea," "Il Saltimbanco," and others, were played on the occasion.

Pienza.—A new three-act comic opera, "Urbano," libretto and music by Signor Carlo Leoni, was brought out here recently with conspicuous success.

The Hague.—M. Henri Viotta has been appointed to the post of Principal of the Royal Conservatoire vacated by the death of M. Nicolaï. M. Viotta, a lawyer by profession, is a very capable musician and the author of an excellent biographical and technical musical dictionary entitled "Lexikon der Toonkunst."

Toulouse.—Bach's St. Matthew Passion, which is not too frequently heard in France, was performed for the first time here last month by the "Cecilia" Society, and proved so great an attraction that the performance had to be twice repeated subsequently.

Vienna.—The Imperial Opera closed its doors for the annual vacation on the 12th ult., and will re-open on August 15. Among the works to be mounted during next season may be instanced Smetana's "The Bartered Bride," Messager's "Chevalier d'Harmenthal," and Leoncavallo's "Chatterton." A special performance of Lortzing's "Der Waffenschmied" took place on May 30 to signalise the fiftieth anniversary of the original first performance here of that evergreen work, with Frau Forster and Herr von Reichenberg in the principal parts, a similar performance being given on the same day at Prague to a crowded audience.——According to a summary just published, the number of Concerts which took place at the Saal Bösendorfer during the season just concluded has been 119, an unusually high one here.

Mdlle. Janotha has addressed an interesting letter to the American papers in regard to the true date of Chopin's birth, which it appears is wrongly stated in biographies of the pianist-composer and musical dictionaries (March 1 or 2, 1809, being the date usually given), but may now be considered as finally ascertained. Miss Janotha's authority is the Rev. Father Bielawski, the present curé of the Brochów Parish Church of Zelazowa Wola, who writes: "From most authentic documents, as well as from baptismal testimony, and from the record of his birth made in the civic books of the Parish of Brochów, we know that Frédéric François Chopin, a son of Nicholas Chopin and Justine Krzyzanowska, was born in Zelazowa Wola, district of Sochacsew, on February 22, 1810, and was baptised in the church at Brochów, on April 23 of the same year."

A demonstration of the Combination Clarinet was given by the inventor, Mr. James Clinton, on the 23rd ult., at the Royal College of Music. In the unavoidable absence of Sir Arthur Sullivan, an explanation of the instrument and its purpose was given by Sir George Grove, who said that the inconveniences and difficulties arising from the necessity of changing a B flat clarinet for one pitched in A, or vice versâ, were entirely removed by Mr. Clinton's new instrument, in which the conversion was effected by a simple twist of the body of the tube, the finger-holes remaining at precisely the same spacing. Mr. Clinton subsequently played a piece specially written for the occasion by Signor Pizzi. This contained frequent changes between the keys of A and B flat, and showed the instrument to possess a remarkably fine tone.

MUSIC IN BELFAST.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

GREAT improvement is noticeable here lately in the matter of church music. The pioneer church in this respect (St. George's Parish Church) has lately spent a large sum of money on its organ. The instrument, originally of two manuals, built by Walker, of London, in 1863, from a specification by the late Dr. Chipp, the then organist of this church, has been rebuilt and enlarged to the specification of Dr. Price, the present organist (who, by a coincidence, was Dr. Chipp's assistant while organist of Ely Cathedral), by Mr. George Benson, of Manchester. The additions include a new manual (choir and solo) of eleven stops and the increase of the great and pedal organs, new action throughout (pneumatic), and two new hydraulic engines to feed the wind supply. The organ is now a fine example of sonority, balance, and refinement of tone. Dr. W. G. Price's excellent reputation has attracted large numbers to hear the weekly Recitals, which have been given since its completion in May; and the performances, which have been of the highest merit, bid fair to become a regular institution.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE Midland Institute Madrigal Choir, under Mr. George Halford's able direction, gave an Invitation Concert in the large Lecture Theatre on May 18, in the presence of a crowded audience. The programme included madrigals by Festa (1541), Benet (1601), Orlando Gibbons (1612), and part-songs by Sydenham, Barnby, and Smart. A steady advance towards proper realisation of light and shade and artistic interpretation was perceptible in the rendering of most of these examples; but the greatest success was attained with Barnby's "Sweet and low" and Pearsall's piquant part-song "You stole my love." Several members also contributed songs, which, however, do not call for special comment. The instrumental pieces consisted of two violin solos, played in good style by Miss Hayward.

The Musical Matinées in connection with the Royal Society of Artists terminated on Saturday, the 6th ult., and will be resumed again with the Autumn Exhibition of Paintings.

The band of H.M. Second Life Guards attracted a very large and fashionable audience to the beautiful grounds of the Edgbaston Botanical Gardens on Saturday, the 13th ult. Two Concerts were given, one in the afternoon, from 3.30 to 5.30, and one in the evening, from 6.30 to 8.30. Mr. Chas. W. H. Hall conducted an admirably well-balanced military orchestra, and gave some attractive selections from operas by Gounod, Verdi, Wagner, Meyerbeer, and Sullivan. The ever-popular three Dances from "Henry VIII.," by German, without which no military band Concert is complete, met, as they always do, with special favour.

The committee of the Edgbaston Botanical Gardens are trying a new experiment in giving a series of Concerts every Wednesday and Saturday during the summer months. So far the fixtures for June included a grand Banjo and Mandoline Concert, vocal entertainments given by Randell's Choir, a Vocal and Instrumental Concert under Mr. Oscar Pollack's management, &c. The principal Concert of this month will take place on the 4th inst., when the band of the Royal Horse Guards (Blue) is coming to the Gardens.

Mr. Thomas Facer, a well-known local musician, who is the composer of several cantatas and choral works, has just completed his newest and most important composition—a dramatic cantata for soli, chorus, and orchestra, entitled "Maid of Lorn," the words adapted from Sir Walter Scott's poem "The Lord of the Isles," by Mr. Andrew Deakin. The first public performance is to take place, under the composer's own direction, at the Crystal Palace, on the 11th inst., on the occasion of the Tonic Sol-fa Festival. The cantata consists of twenty-four numbers, divided into four parts, with a prologue and epilogue. Part I., "The Bridal Morn"; Part II., "The Bridal Feast"; Part III., "The Bivouac"; Part IV., "The Battle." The dramatis personæ are Edith, Maid of Lorn (soprano); Ronald, Lord of the Isles (tenor); the Lord of Lorn (baritone); and Robert Bruce (bass). The chorus represents Retainers, Soldiers, Monks, Maidens, &c.

Dr. George Fiedler, of Mason's College, has given three Lectures on Wagner's "Ring des Nibelungen," in the large Lecture Theatre of the Midland Institute. The musical illustrations have been supplied by Mr. George Halford (pianoforte) and Mr. C. W. Perkins (organ).

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

MUSICAL performances by the numerous Choral and the several Orchestral Societies in and around Bristol have come to an end, and, until the autumn, there will be only the Promenade Concerts, which take place twice weekly in the beautiful gardens of the Bristol and Clifton Zoological Society. Two events remain to be recorded. On the 2nd ult. the annual Festival of Parish Choirs was held in Bristol Cathedral. Twenty-six choirs, comprising 707 voices, took part; and, under the direction of Mr. John Barrett, the musical service was rendered with intelligence and impressive effect.

The newly-formed Clevedon Philharmonic Society gave its second Concert towards the end of May, when Niels Gade's cantata "The Erl-King's Daughter" was performed, under the guidance of Mr. Edward Cook.

The first issue of the scheme of the Bristol Musical Festival, for which the choir is rehearsing thrice weekly, has been issued. The committee have substituted Brahms's Requiem for Beethoven's Mass in D, as the choirmaster thinks there is insufficient time to adequately rehearse the latter work.

MUSIC IN CAMBRIDGE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE May Term is the "season" of Cambridge, but it cannot be said that a musical correspondent's duty is a heavy one. It is true that the two main choral societies of the place—The Cambridge University Musical Society and Dr. Mann's choir—gird themselves for a big effort, but the other Concerts that require recognition are few.

The Cambridge University Musical Society Choral and Orchestral Concert took place on the 15th ult. It was rendered memorable by the presence of the University Professor, who conducted his fine and dramatic ode "The Bard," as well as the orchestral selections. The latter included Mendelssohn's "Scotch" Symphony and Mackenzie's sparkling "Britannia" Overture. The programme was completed by Brahms's immortal "Song of Destiny," which was conducted by Dr. Gray. In spite of the great heat, the performance of chorus and orchestra in all these works was admirable, the chorus singing their trying part in "The Bard" with all needful vigour, and displaying remarkable beauty of tone in the peaceful opening section of the "Song of Destiny." Mr. Plunket Greene in the former work gave a powerful rendering of the titular part. His voice seems to have acquired fresh beauty and force.

The rendering of the "Elijah" in King's Chapel, two days later, by Dr. Mann's choir, was marked by the excellent singing that may always be expected from this choral body. The work was chosen for the reason that this is the jubilee year of its production, and, often as it has been heard, its attractions seem in no way to diminish, if we may judge from the size of the audience. The solo parts were taken by Miss Agnes Nicholls, Miss Lilian Hovey, Mr. J. Leland, and Mr. R. Grice.

The only other open Concert needing notice here was the Chamber Concert of the Cambridge University Musical Society on May 20. The programme included Schumann's Quintet in E flat, Beethoven's String Quintet in C, Chopin's Sonata in B flat minor, and Bach's Concerto for two violins. Messrs. Gompertz, Inwards, Kreuz, Tomlinson, Ould, and Miss Zimmermann were the performers, and Mr. Kennerley Rumford made a highly favourable impression in songs by Brahms and Maude White.

The College Societies seem to have been less enterprising than usual in the matter of the production of lengthy works. The exception is the St. John's College Society, who made a very ambitious attempt in attacking Somervell's "Forsaken Merman" and Goetz's "Nœnia." The other Societies, as a rule, provided programmes of a miscellaneous order.

The University Musical Club celebrated its entry into new and admirable rooms by a dinner, on April 30. Among the guests were Professor Stanford, Dr. C. W. Pearce, the Rev. Dr. Mee, Mr. Hugh Blair, and others.

MUSIC IN DUBLIN.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The "Feis," or Irish Musical Festival, promises at last to become an accomplished fact and the movement a permanent success. At the public meeting held in the Mansion House, Dublin, on the 15th ult., under the presidency of Alderman Sir Robert Sexton, in the absence of the Lord Mayor, the report stated that one-fourth of the necessary guarantee fund had already been subscribed, and a substantial number of subscriptions and guarantees were handed in on the spot. It appears from the report that some misconceptions as to the nature and scope of the movement had hindered its progress at the outset, but that now the project has the active support of the principal professional musicians of Ireland. The programme of the inaugural performances includes Concerts of ancient and modern music, choral and orchestral competitions, competitions for composers, and lectures. Dr. Joseph Smith, conductor of the Dublin Musical Society, predicted that the Feis, if carried to a successful issue, would revolutionise musical education in Ireland. Dr. J. C. Culwick, organist of the Chapel Royal, likened the project in its possible developments to the Welsh Eisteddfod. Mr. Brendan Rogers, Cathedral organist, dwelt with eloquence on Ireland's heritage of song. Mr. Joseph Seymour and Miss Edith Oldham, hon. secretaries, also represented the professional element; while Sir Christopher Nixon, Count Plunkett, Mr. Molloy, Commissioner of Education, and Mr. Chas. Eason, junr., moved or spoke to resolutions. The week commencing May 16, 1897, is provisionally chosen for the opening of the Feis.

The Leinster Section of the Incorporated Society of Musicians wound up its season with a very enjoyable Conversazione in the Antient Concert Rooms on the 6th ult. A programme of music was rendered during the evening, consisting of two pianoforte compositions by Mr. J. van Craen; songs by Sir Robert Stewart, Mr. C. O. Grandison, and Dr. T. R. G. Jozé; a charming chorus, "Fairy-Song," by Dr. J. C. Culwick, and a stirring male-voice arrangement of "The Boys of Wexford," by Mr. J. Seymour, which last received the compliment of an encore.

The Pupils' Concert of the Royal Irish Academy of Music was held at the Royal University on the 9th ult. Special mention is due to the capital performance of the Overture to "Oberon," a movement of Schubert's B minor Symphony, and the Introduction to the third Act of "Lohengrin," by the orchestral class of the Academy, recruited by students of the Municipal School of Music and led by the instrumental professors and other Dublin artists, under the direction of Dr. T. R. G. Jozé.

The closing Concert of the Dublin University Choral Society took place in the Dining Hall, Trinity College, on the 10th ult. Bennett's "May Queen" and Gade's "Psyche" were excellently performed, but an orchestra was dispensed with, Miss Edith Oldham undertaking a pianoforte accompaniment instead. Mr. Melfort d'Alton was principal vocalist and Mr. Charles Marchant conducted.

"The Messiah" was performed in Athy Parish Church, on the 14th ult., under the direction of Mr. Frank Manley, the principal vocalists being Miss Frengley, Miss McConnell, Mr. Rathbone, and Mr. L. Mooney. Mr. W. T. Sheppard presided at the organ, and Mr. P. Griffith was leader of the band.

MUSIC IN EAST ANGLIA.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Norwich Philharmonic Society made its ninety-first appearance on May 21, with its usual programme of classical instrumental music. The band, led by Mr. F. W. B. Noverre, although short of several first violins, was numerically up to its usual strength, and did ample justice to the various pieces, the principal being Beethoven's "Pastoral" Symphony. Perhaps it is hardly fair to the composer's memory that this grand work should be undertaken by amateurs, but the ambition was justified on the present occasion, for a very good performance was much enjoyed by the audience. A new Overture, composed by the conductor of the Society, Dr. Horace Hill, was heard for the first time. Six similar compositions from the same pen have been introduced to the public at previous Philharmonic Concerts, but the new one, entitled "Dawn to Sunset," is far in advance of the earlier ones, both in melodious expression and instrumental colouring. The Overture is descriptive of an early dawn, gradually approaching the busy day. The various themes are cleverly woven together as day comes on, merging into a joyous hymn as sunset appears, finally subsiding into the repose of evening. The work was capitally played and enthusiastically received.

The other work for the band included Auber's Overture to "Masaniello" and Mendelssohn's Wedding March, both played with spirit. Mr. A. E. Coe, a clever local clarinettist, gave a solo on that instrument, while Miss Rayson and Mr. W. N. Ladell contributed several songs.

The Ladies' Orchestral Society gave its eighth annual Concert on May 28, much to the enjoyment of a large and fashionable audience. The fair instrumentalists have made considerable progress under the drilling of their conductor (Mr. F. W. B. Noverre), and may now boast that their annual performances are second to no other similar Society in the district. In all fairness it should be said that Mr. Noverre has to obtain outside assistance for flute, oboe, and clarinet, no lady residents having yet taken up wind instruments. The other wind parts were filled in by pianoforte and harmonium. The Concert opened with Mozart's Symphony in D, which received a very spirited rendering, the fugue passages in the final movement being crisply and decidedly given. Two pieces for strings by Grieg, "Herzwunden" and "Der Fruhling," were delightfully played, every mark of expression being faithfully noted. The Overtures to "Maritana" and "Marco Spada" were also in the programme. The Norfolk scholar at the Royal College of Music (Miss Mary Noverre) gave a brilliant and artistic rendering of Max Bruch's Violin Romance (Op. 42) with the orchestral accompaniments, and Miss Amy Flood-Porter contributed two violoncello solos with her usual taste and ability. The vocal department was in the safe hands of Mrs. Frank Bates and Miss Jennie Harris, two residents possessing sweet and powerful contralto voices.

With the Ladies' Orchestral Concert the season may be said to close in Norwich, and till the Triennial Festival in October next but little music will be heard, with the exception of al fresco Concerts in our public gardens, at which the bands attached to some of the factories take part.

The Festival Chorus is hard at work practising under the chorus-master (Dr. Horace Hill), but at the date of writing particulars of the new works to be produced in October are not to hand.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The eighth season of the Edinburgh Bach Society, which closed last month, has been in many respects the busiest and most important in the Society's history. The membership is considerably larger than in any previous year and the attendance of members at the meetings averages over a hundred. Besides the usual number of instrumental and vocal excerpts from Bach's works at the ordinary meetings, the members had in January the privilege of hearing the Dolmetsch party with their quaint instruments in a specially selected programme; at the meeting in March Mr. Leonard Borwick, honorary member of the Society, was kind enough to make a special journey in order to be present and to bear a part in the programme.

The Bucher Scholarship for students at the University Music Classes, which, as was stated in THE MUSICAL TIMES of April, is open this year for the first time, was awarded last month, but the decision of the University Court has not yet been made public.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE Philharmonic programme for 1896-97 has been pretty well decided upon, so far as the greater choral works are concerned, and four of these will, according to custom, be undertaken in the following order: Sullivan's "Golden Legend," Mendelssohn's "Elijah," Cowen's "Transfiguration," and a composition by Berlioz, which, it is stated, has not yet been heard in English, and which will probably be "The Trojans in Carthage." There has been some talk of carrying out an examination of the members of the chorus, but nothing official has been announced, nor is it likely that anything of the sort will be, for a time at least, seriously contemplated. There can be no doubt, however, that the process of weeding is wanted, and must be performed within a not very remote period if prestige is to be maintained by our premier Society.

Nothing definite has yet been the result of the recent resolution of the City Council to appoint a successor to Mr. W. T. Best as Corporation organist. In the meantime the organ in St. George's Hall, which is by no means a modern instrument, has been examined and reported upon by Mr. Willis, who states that a sum of £3,000 will be required to thoroughly repair and bring it down to date. The expenditure of a sum of £1,100 had previously been sanctioned by the Corporation for this purpose, apparently without great deliberation or the calling in of expert evidence.

MUSIC IN PARIS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE performances of "Hellé" at the Opéra, which have been interrupted by the departure for London of M. Alvarez, are to be resumed in September next. Meanwhile there has been a very successful revival, on May 21, of "Hamlet" at that Institution, with Madame Melba, Madame Deschamps-Jehin, and M. Renault in the leading parts, the work being ably conducted by M. Paul Vidal, the new chef d'orchestre. There was a gratuitous performance on May 24, in honour of the Coronation of the Czar of Russia. On the 4th ult. a very satisfactory reprise of M. Camille Saint-Saëns's "Samson et Dalila" took place; four days later Mr. Van Dyck once more resumed his admirable interpretation of the titular part in "Lohengrin."

At the Opéra Comique, Meyerbeer's "Le Pardon de Ploërmel" ("Dinorah") was revived on the 6th ult., and very well received. Gluck's "Orphée," with Madame Delna in the title rôle continues to attract large audiences at this house. The director, M. Carvalho, has accepted for performance a new lyrical work in four acts entitled "Florizel et Perdita," by M. Emile Michelet, set to music by M. Roberteau.

A series of representations of operas by Russian composers, never before produced in Paris, was announced to commence on the 25th ult., at the Bodinière, under the management of a Russian vocalist, Madame Nirwana (Countess de Pethion). The opening work was to be Tschaïkowsky's "Eugène Onégin."

An interesting Concert was given on May 27 by the violinist, M. Weingartner, assisted by his daughter, the brilliant young pianist, known also to London audiences, where she successfully appeared recently at Steinway Hall.

I have already referred more than once to the great success achieved here by Mr. Harold Bauer. This artist gave his final Concert here on May 27, and was, as usual, greatly applauded. There can be no doubt that, amongst the many pianists that have made their appearance during this season, Mr. Bauer must be accorded a foremost place, his interpretations of Bach, Chopin, Raff, and other test-composers having been indeed altogether admirable.

Mdlle. Hortense Parent, a pianist greatly esteemed in the profession here, and whose method of teaching has obtained for her a considerable reputation, has just given two interesting Lectures, at the Sarbonne, for the purpose of explaining and illustrating her system. The lady, whose exposition was eloquent and instructive, was greatly applauded on both occasions.

Several Recitals recently given by M. Maurel, of songs of various countries, were extremely well attended.

The fiftieth anniversary of the first appearance in public of M. Camille Saint-Saëns was celebrated in highly artistic fashion at the Salle Pleyel, on the 2nd ult. The eminent composer himself played a number of pieces of his composition with that well-known perfect mechanism of his, which the course of years has not been able to diminish. An ovation was accorded him on his rendering of the fifth Pianoforte Concerto (first time of performance), a most brilliant and charmingly coloured composition. Another very fine new work, a Sonata for pianoforte and violin, played as it was, moreover, by its composer and Señor Sarasate, was received with enthusiasm. Some verses, written for the occasion and charmingly declaimed by M. Saint-Saëns, varied the interesting proceedings, which also included an excellent speech by M. Lyon, the principal of the firm of Pleyel. Expressing himself highly gratified at being called upon to preside on the occasion in question, M. Lyon in felicitous terms alluded to the fact that fifty years ago the celebrated Camille Pleyel had presided at the first Concert given by the little virtuoso whom to-day they delighted to honour in his ripe musicianship, and that he had then confidently predicted the brilliant career actually accomplished. The receipts of this Festival-Concert, amounting to some ten thousand francs, are to be handed over to the fund of the "Association des Artistes Musiciens."

M. Gabriel Fauré, the able composer, has been appointed to the organistship at the Madeleine, in place of M. Théodore Dubois.

An interesting illustrated work, "Histoire de la Musique Allemande," has just been published here, from the pen of M. Soubies.

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE Cincinnati May Festival, which came just too late for mention in my last letter, is now too far past to do duty as an item of current news. So far as press reports may be trusted, it was not so good as some of its predecessors, particularly in the chorus work. As has always been the case since these biennial festivals began, Mr. Theodore Thomas was in charge of the final rehearsals and performances, and the instrumentalists were drawn from his Chicago band. No choral novelty was brought forward, the least hackneyed work being Tinel's "St. Franciscus," to the rendering of which no great praise is given. There seems to have been a change in public estimation of the work itself since it was first given in New York a few years ago. It was then hailed as being little short of inspired. After a second performance the enthusiasm has perceptibly cooled.

It would not be surprising if the Cincinnatians should at their next May Festival make more use of their home resources than they have done heretofore. Their permanent orchestra is getting well established under Mr. Van der Stucken (who is a conductor thoroughly capable of taking the helm at the May Festivals), and could be easily enlarged to meet all the demands of such occasions.

About the only event which at time of writing is relieving the deadly dulness of the American summer is the twenty-eighth Festival of the North American Sängerbund, which opened on the 8th ult., in Pittsburgh. The home contingent of the chorus numbered about 1,000 voices, and reinforcements from Cincinnati, St. Louis, Indianapolis, and many other points swelled the chorus to a number bordering close upon 3,000. It is estimated that this year delegates from about 113 different German singing societies took part in various portions of the Festival. The director was Mr. Heinrich Zoellner, who came to New York last year to take charge of one of the largest and most influential German singing societies in the city, and the band numbered seventy-five men, picked from the Damrosch, Seidl, and Philharmonic orchestras of New York.

The sixth annual Festival of the Choir Guild of Massachusetts was held recently in Boston. Some years ago the Guild was found to have grown so large as to be unwieldy when formed into a single chorus, so the plan was adopted of dividing it into two sections, each singing the same festival music in different churches on different dates. This year the first section held its service in the Church of the Advent, on the evening of May 27. The choirs taking part were those of the Advent, Boston; St. Mary's, Dorchester; Christ Church, Hyde Park; St. John's, Jamaica Plain; Holy Trinity, Marlboro; and Grace Church, Medford. Mr. S. B. Whitney, organist of the Church of the Advent, conducted, and Mr. H. E. Wry was the organist. The second section of the Guild held its service in St. Paul's Church, Boston, on the 3rd ult. The following choirs participated: St. Peter's, Beverley; St. Paul's, Boston; St. John's Chapel, Cambridge; Groton School, Groton; St. Ann's, Lowell; St. Paul's, Malden; and Emmanuel, Somerville. Mr. Warren A. Locke, organist of St. Paul's, Boston, and of Harvard University, was the conductor, with Mr. W. R. Spalding at the organ. The service music was by Gadsby and Oliver King, with anthems by Martin, Costa, Elvey, Sydenham, Mozart, and Barnby.

The American Guild of Organists has, after considerable difficulty, succeeded in perfecting its organisation on a basis which seems to promise substantial agreement among the members. Its membership is to be divided into Founders, Fellows, and Associates. The Founders are to consist of organists of recognised ability and prominence, who shall have been elected as Founders prior to November 1, 1896, at which date the list of Founders will be closed, and no more members will be admitted to that class. The standard of acquirements for the Fellowship has been set well up, so that the letters "F.A.G.O." may, in due season, be expected to carry respect as well abroad as at home. Provision is made for the admission to fellowship of an organist holding an approved academic degree. So far the only person who has been admitted under this provision is Mr. A. G. Mitchell, of Rochester, New York. Associates of the Guild are to be admitted upon election by the Founders and Fellows, after due proof of their capability in the practical work of organists and choirmasters. The Guild has now about 150 members, and it is expected that by the end of the year the number of Associates received will increase it to several hundred. The best organists in the country are giving it their hearty support, and it bids fair to become an organisation of high standing and influence. Mr. Dudley Buck has been elected president, Henry G. Hanchett, M.D., secretary, and Mr. Walter J. Hall, treasurer.

THE SEVENTY-THIRD LOWER RHENISH MUSICAL FESTIVAL AT DÜSSELDORF.

(By our Special Correspondent.)

It was in 1878 that I made my first acquaintance with the Festivals of the Lower Rhine, and, at the same time, with one of the most beautiful of modern orchestral works—to wit, Brahms's Second Symphony, then still in MS. The superb performance of this masterpiece, conducted by Joseph Joachim, was, in many respects, the great event of the Festival; and well do I remember the wild delight with which the lovely Allegretto grazioso and the splendid final Allegro con spirito were received. I was strongly reminded of the enthusiastic scene of eighteen years ago, when, at the Festival of last Whitsuntide, another living composer, and one of the youngest and best-maligned of modern Germany, was made the hero of an ovation such as can scarcely have been surpassed even in the history of these famous musical gatherings. Richard Strauss, whose name has lately become better known to English musicians through the production of his "Till Eulenspiegel" at the Crystal Palace and Richter Concerts, had been invited to conduct no less than three of his most important works, and this bold step of the Festival committee was justified by the results, both financial and artistic. For the audiences were as large as they were enthusiastic, and it seemed as if, in Düsseldorf, at any rate, unknown works by living composers did not frighten music-lovers away, as is, alas! so often the case at our best concerts at home.

But I must deal with the events of the Festival in something like chronological order. Before proceeding with my remarks, however, I would fain say a few words about Düsseldorf, the birthplace of that strange and wonderful genius, the musicians' poet par excellence, Heinrich Heine, and the sometime home of Mendelssohn, Schumann, the painter Peter von Cornelius (uncle of the composer of the "Barber of Bagdad"), and many other artists of note. No one who has ever been present at one of these Festivals can doubt that the charming "Garten-Stadt" on the Rhine is an almost ideal place for such meetings; and as the success and enjoyment of the latter depend largely on the surroundings and the "atmosphere," more or less congenial, in which the visitor finds himself, it will be imagined that Düsseldorf, with its lovely leafy parks, fine, broad and well-built streets, excellent hotels and "gemüthliche" restaurants ("Kneipen" they call them); with its general look of comfort and cleanliness, its utter absence of noise and stir and bustle; and last, but not least, with its fine "Tonhalle," can hardly be surpassed as a place for a great musical festival. In the said "Tonhalle" this fair town possesses a building which is the envy of its neighbours. And well it may be, for, in addition to the "Kaisersaal," in which the Festivals are now held, a large (but poorly and tastelessly decorated) room of remarkably fine acoustic properties, it includes two smaller rooms, one of which, the "Rittersaal," is the identical place where Mendelssohn's "St. Paul" was produced exactly sixty years ago. The cloak-rooms and foyers are on a scale of amplitude altogether undreamt of in the philosophy of the architects of London concert-halls, and, best of all, one of the boasted advantages of the Bayreuth Festival Theatre can here be enjoyed, as the building is surrounded on three sides by a beautiful garden, where, during the long pauses between the parts, refreshments are served al fresco, and amid a gay and animated scene mind and body can recuperate till a trumpet signal (another reminiscence of Bayreuth) summons the audience to the second part. As explained in the admirable preface to the programme book for the Festival (analytical programmes are as yet unknown on the Rhine), the music for the first day was selected with due reference to the fact that the twenty-fifth anniversary of the foundation of the new German Empire was celebrated a few months ago throughout the length and breadth of the Fatherland. Handel's Coronation Anthems, Nos. 1 and 4, Bach's great Magnificat in D, Wagner's Kaisermarsch, and Beethoven's Choral Symphony were supposed to offer "an echo of the day which, lately, so deeply moved and filled with pride as well as humility every German heart." That these works were admirably suited for such a purpose cannot be gainsaid, but that their performance was remarkable for the very qualities, such as enthusiasm and dash, which the remembrance of a great time might be expected to call forth, cannot be asserted. In fact, the most appropriate piece, Wagner's Kaisermarsch, was played and sung in a listless and unimpressive manner; the tempi adopted by the conductor, Herr Julius Buths, were uncomfortably slow, precision and brilliancy were sadly lacking, and the chorus sang the Volkslied at the end in a strangely insipid manner. True, the melody which Wagner intended to be sung by audience and chorus in unison is not very singable, and can never become popular, in spite of its beauty and dignity; for it is far from "volksthümlich," and its compass quite against its being used for unison singing. The four-part arrangement, which I heard some years ago at a Richter Concert, is, in reality, much more effective, though it is not Wagner's.

The chorus had a better opportunity of distinguishing itself in the great works of Handel and Bach, but its performances were in no way remarkable, unless I except the sopranos on account of their fine, rich tone. They formed by far the best portion of the choir, while the tenors were ridiculously few in number—only eighty-six out of a grand total of 634 singers—and very poor in quality. As better singing than that of the Düsseldorf Festival Choir can be heard at any one of the Royal Choral Society's Concerts at the Albert Hall, not to mention our best Festival Choirs, I will not waste space in dwelling upon its efforts.

The orchestra, a picked body of 130 players, was in every way worthy of the fame of these Festivals, and distinguished itself greatly when called upon for a great effort. The instrumental portion of the Choral Symphony received full justice, if I except a few trifling slips by individual players. The Tuttis were superb in strength and sonority, and the solos for the wind, notably the difficult passages for the fourth horn in the Adagio, including the famous scale of C flat, were given with a smoothness and purity of tone which I have never heard surpassed. The performance possessed special interest for me because Herr Buths had the courage (the impertinence some may call it) to adopt Wagner's suggested change in the instrumentation of the passage in the Scherzo where the second subject is played by the wood-wind against the ff figure—for all the strings in four octaves. Nobody who has heard this passage played by a modern orchestra of, say, sixty or seventy strings against eight or twelve wood-wind instruments can affirm that he has heard the effect which Beethoven intended. For either the theme is altogether drowned by the strings or the latter must play piano, which I fancy is not in the least what the composer wanted. For to me it is clear beyond any doubt that Beethoven at this passage wished for an outburst of unbridled, boisterous gaiety, and to make the strings play softly appears a ludicrous misinterpretation of his intentions. To remedy this miscalculated orchestral effect of Beethoven's, Wagner suggested that the horns, which are only employed to mark the already very pronounced rhythm, should strengthen the wood-wind, and this is what Herr Buths did. He made his eight horns play the theme ff, and his eighty-eight strings hammered out their "figure" with all their might without being able to cover the melody. The effect was one of tremendous, elemental force. Here was Beethoven indeed in an "unbuttoned" mood, to quote Sir George Grove's favourite phrase. Some of my readers may hold up their hands and mutter the word "sacrilege." But I am happy that in this glorious passage in Beethoven's masterpiece I have at last heard something like the effect which he, the poor deaf master, must have wished to produce. Herr Buths' reading of the work offered other interesting points. Thus, in the wonderful Tutti of the opening Allegro, where the whole orchestra hurls the great first subject ff through space, as it were, he had the pedal D in the drum, lasting through thirty-eight bars, "rolled" by two players who relieved each other at intervals of four or eight bars! One single player's physical strength would not have been equal to the demand which his conductor's inexorable dictum made upon it. As it was, this important pedal point was heard victorious above the clamour of the whole large orchestra, without for one moment diminishing in force. The passage, which to me has always seemed the most stupendous in all orchestral music, sounded more stupendous than ever; the effect was, indeed, overwhelming. The Scherzo was taken very fast, yet the rhythm was most distinctly marked, every dotted crotchet receiving its full value. The Adagio received a soulful, poetic interpretation, but the Finale was, as usual, the weak spot in the performance; the chorus was frequently ineffective and even chaotic, and the soloists only passable.

The second day's programme opened with Richard Strauss's symphonic poem "Don Juan." Here we had a work which was calculated to set the enemies of musical progress by the ears! To begin with, they might have disliked the subject. A few lines from Lenau's poem, put into the mouth of his delectable "hero," will indicate its main idea:

> Den Zauberkreis, den unermesslich weiten,
> Von vielfach reizend schönen Weiblichkeiten
> Möcht ich durchzieh'n im Sturme des Genusses,
> Am Mund der Letzten sterben eines Kusses.

Strauss handles such a subject in no half-hearted manner. His music simply glows with unfettered passion and tremendous, restless energy; his orchestration is unprecedented for richness, variety, and novel effects; and conception and execution alike are daring, strong, and masterly. The piece is divided into a number of sections, dealing with the hero's own personality, several "love scenes," varying in mood and mode of expression, and, in the Coda, his death. Those who only know the composer's "Eulenspiegel," with its little scraps of Motive, will be interested to hear that in "Don Juan" there is no lack of melodies of the regulation lengths. Some of these are striking and even beautiful (I refer especially to the passage between letters G and I), though Strauss, who is still a young man, is not likely to have reached his final development as a melodist. That will come with years, for melodists are not born ready made. The melodic gift, though it must, of course, be innate, is indeed the last to develop, even in composers of genius, a fact which is too often forgotten by critics judging the works of so young, but so fully, so phenomenally equipped a musician as Richard Strauss! Upon me the effect of his "Don Juan" was such that everything which came after it appeared cold and colourless, though it included Liszt's A major Concerto, superbly played by Signor Feruccio B. Busoni, Schumann's "Paradise and the Peri" (a fair performance), and, on the third day, Tschaïkowsky's wonderful Pathetic Symphony, Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto (soloist, Sarasate), Strauss's own "Wanderer's Sturmlied" for six-part chorus and orchestra, and "Till Eulenspiegel." Tschaïkowsky's work did not fare well at the hands of Herr Buths. The tempi, especially in the stupendous first movement, were ill-judged, and the work was shorn of much of its heartrending pathos. Of the eight performances of this unique Symphony which I have heard so far, the one under notice was, on the whole, the least impressive. So much depends on the conductor! Strauss's "Sturmlied," an elaborate, strenuous, and massive setting of a somewhat unintelligible poem by Goethe, is the work of an enormously clever musician and a thinker; it has moments of great power and even inspiration, but is difficult to judge as a whole after a single hearing. Its reception was enthusiastic, and the composer appeared delighted. It was, however, after the performance of "Till Eulenspiegel," which, like "Don Juan," was played under the inspiriting direction of the composer in the most perfect manner imaginable, that the enthusiasm of the packed audience broke forth like a veritable torrent. The applause was deafening; the orchestra indulged in the strange but exhilarating cacophony called a "Tusch"; the ladies of the choir, to whom the young master, with the slight figure, the pale, sensitive face and soulful eyes, was, no doubt, an exceptionally interesting object of admiration, threw their bouquets and nosegays at him, and an extraordinary scene continued till the blushing and bewildered hero of the ovation by signs conveyed his intention of making a speech. He forthwith expressed, in a few well-chosen, unaffected words, how great an honour it had been for him to be permitted to present his "modest" art to so kind and friendly an audience, that he thanked them from the bottom of his heart, &c. Whereupon he stepped off the conductor's platform and embraced and kissed his colleague, Herr Buths, coram publico, amid great laughter and another outburst of cheering on the part of the audience. A very German scene! If it is borne in mind that Strauss has had almost as many hard things said about his art as Wagner himself, his triumph on such a conspicuous occasion as this Festival must, indeed, have been sweet to him. May he continue to go his way and ignore his detractors. I have no space left in which to refer at length to the solo singers of the Festival. They were Frau Wilhelmy, Fräulein Schauseil, Mdlle. Marcella Pregi (a very gifted young artist of whom we shall hear more, if I am not greatly mistaken), Fräulein Haas and Herren von zur Mühlen and Messchaert, both excellent singers, who are already known in England. The pianist, Signor Busoni, is a marvel even in these days of transcendent technique, and he will, no doubt, reach these shores ere long to give us a taste of his quality. He played the solo part in the last piece on the programme (Beethoven's Choral Fantasia); but as this had not begun when half-past ten o'clock struck, and the Concert began at six, I fled with a jaded feeling that I had had too much of a good thing, and that in any case such a second-rate specimen of the Bonn master's genius would be but a poor finish to so exciting an evening and so very interesting, because so "modern," a Festival.

THE MUSICAL FESTIVAL AT LEIPZIG.

THE thirty-second meeting of the Allgemeine Deutsche Musik-Verein was held at Leipzig, from May 29 to the 1st ult., the gathering having been as usual well attended by musicians from all parts of Germany and from other countries. Those amongst the latter visitors to the musical Saxon city who, from the title of the Society, were led to expect an enlargement of their acquaintance with the musical status of the country, will scarcely have found their expectation realised as far as the Concert performances in connection with the meeting were concerned. The programmes of the latter, indeed, so far from being representatively German, presented a somewhat miscellaneous aspect, of a semi-international description; and however excellent from an executive point of view, hardly justified the collective title given them, we believe, for the first time this year, of "Deutsches Musikfest." The proceedings practically opened on the evening of May 28, when an excellent special performance took place at the Stadt-Theater of Herr von Reznicek's charming comic opera "Donna Diana," with Frau Doxat in the titular part, under the direction of Capellmeister Panzner. The latter, a very able and conscientious musician, also shared with Herr Nikisch the responsibility of conducting some of the subsequent concert performances. The latter opened, on May 29, with a Concert of chamber music in the morning, at the Gewandhaus, including a Quartet in E minor (Op. 35) by Herr Felix Draeseke, which met with general appreciation, the executants being Herren Prill, Rother, Unkenstein, and Wille; Brahms's Sonata for pianoforte and clarinet (Op. 120, No. 2), played by Mr. d'Albert and Herr Mühlfeld; and a Pianoforte Quartet by Prince Heinrich, of Reuss; Mdlle. Adrienne Osborne and Herr Scheidemantel contributing vocal numbers. In the evening an Orchestral Concert took place at the Gewandhaus, under the direction of Herr Nikisch, when, with the splendid forces under his command, Brahms's C minor Symphony, Richard Strauss's symphonic poem "Don Juan" (founded on Lenau's poem), and a second Orchestral Suite by Herr von Reznicek were given, the latter a graceful work, without exhibiting, however, much originality; while Mr. d'Albert roused the audience to enthusiasm by his well-known rendering of Liszt's "Danse macabre," that artist being also represented in the programme by a duet from his opera "Ghismonda," well interpreted by his wife and Herr Anthes, of Dresden. The Concert concluded with Wagner's "Kaisermarsch." The second day (May 30) opened in the morning with a Chamber Concert by the well-known Bohemian Quartet Party, and included works by Bendl, Dvorák, and Tschaïkowsky, the performance taking place in the small hall of the Gewandhaus. In the evening an Orchestral Concert, devoted exclusively to Russian composers, took place in the theatre, when the works obtaining a hearing included the B minor Symphony by Borodin (conductor, Herr Panzner), the suite symphonique entitled "Scheherezade," by Rimsky Korsakoff; Glinka's orchestral fantasia "Kamarinskaja" (conductor, Herr Nikisch), and vocal numbers by Rubinstein, Glinka, and Tschaikowsky. There was a highly interesting historical Chamber Concert at the Gewandhaus, under the direction of Dr. Paul Klengel, on the third day (May 31). The programme was most ably compiled by Dr. Hermann Kretzschmar, the conductor of the Riedel-Verein, whose inability to take a leading part in the proceedings of the meeting, on account of illness, was generally regretted. The numbers included were three madrigals by L. Marenzio, Th. Morley, and Hasler; a Suite in E minor for strings by G. Muffat, a Sonata for violoncello by A. Scarlatti, and other instrumental pieces by Quantz, Carissimi, Caldara, Bach, and others, concluding with Handel's Concerto Grosso in F, for stringed instruments. In the instrumental interpretation, given on original instruments, some of them forming part of Herr de Witt's famous museum, Herren G. Wille (violoncellist), Max Schwedler (flautist), and Carl Prill (violinist), all first-rate artists, took part, and there was a small select choir. The performance elicited the greatest possible interest. The final day was devoted, in the morning, to a capital performance, by the pupils' orchestra of the Conservatorium, under the conductorship of Herr Hans Sitt, of Robert Volkmann's incidental music to Shakespeare's "Richard III.," and the proceedings terminated with the production in the evening, at the St. Thomas's Church, by the famous Riedel-Verein, under Herr Nikisch's direction, of Liszt's "Graner Festmesse" and Berlioz's "Te Deum."

OBITUARY.

WE much regret to have to record the death, on the 14th ult., after a protracted illness, of Mr. LEWIS THOMAS, the once highly popular bass singer and able musician. Born at Bath in April, 1826, of Welsh parentage, William Lewis Thomas may be said to have combined in himself some of the best characteristics of the Celt and the Englishman. Originally apprenticed to a wood-carver, for which art he showed considerable aptitude, the art of music offered superior attractions to him, especially when in the course of time he developed a remarkably fine resonant bass voice of exceptional range. After studying under Bianchi Taylor, a teacher then in high reputation at Bath, he became a lay clerk at Worcester Cathedral in 1850, and two years later was appointed master of the choristers. In 1854 Thomas made his first appearance in London, at St. Martin's Hall, under John Hullah, in a performance of "The Messiah," with the solo bass part in which he became permanently associated for many years after. In 1855 the Sacred Harmonic Society invited him to Exeter Hall, and in the following year he was appointed to the choir of St. Paul's Cathedral, a position which, in 1857, he exchanged for a similar one in the Temple Church, when also he became a gentleman of the Chapel Royal, St. James's. His appearance on the operatic stage was but a transitory one, while for a period of nearly thirty years he remained one of the leading English oratorio singers. On his retirement from his most honourable career, Mr. Thomas turned his attention to musical journalism. He was one of the critics of The Musical World, was for some years editor of The Lute, and, down to the time of his death, one of the reviewers of music and occasional musical critic on the staff of the Daily Telegraph. One of the sons of the deceased, Mr. W. Henry Thomas, a Professor at the Guildhall School of Music, came out second in the recent voting for the post of Principal of that Institution; while another, Mr. Frank L. Thomas, is an able conductor and organist at Bromley.

The distinguished Brazilian composer, CARLOS GOMES, died on May 19, at Pará, where he had just arrived for the purpose of taking over the directorship of the Conservatorio. He was a native of Brazil, having been born on July 11, 1839, at Campinos, and showing great musical aptitude under the hands of native professors, was, at the expense of the late Emperor of Brazil, sent to Milan to complete his studies under Lauro Rossi, then the director of the Milan Conservatorio. With his first piece, an operatic trifle, written in the Milanese dialect and entitled "Se sa minga," the young Brazilian at once caught the ear of his audience at the Teatro Fossati, one of its airs in particular becoming immensely popular. In 1870 his first grand opera, "I Guarany," was produced at La Scala, with Madame Sasse and M. Maurel in the principal parts, and obtained a great success. This opera was brought out in 1872 at Covent Garden, with Mdlle. Sessie, M. Faure, Signor Cotogni, and Signor Nicolini in the cast, and is the work which has been most generally produced outside of Italy.

Mr. WINDEYER CLARK, a Licentiate of the Royal Academy of Music, died of consumption at Delamere Terrace, W., on the 13th ult. He was an able musician, and was held in high esteem by the late Sir George Macfarren, for whom he acted as amanuensis for a number of years. He also edited some of Novello's editions for pianoforte and harmonium. He was only thirty-seven years of age.

Gustav Siehr, the excellent bass singer of the Royal Opera, Munich, who sang the part of Hagen in the original Bayreuth performances of "Der Ring des Nibelungen," died in the Bavarian capital on May 18, in his fifty-ninth year. His most successful assumptions were associated with Wagner's operas, including King Henry in "Lohengrin," Pogner in "Die Meistersinger," and Hunding in "Die Walküre," he being also a much valued oratorio singer.

Johannes Diemer, one of the veterans of the Oberammergau Passion Play, died at his native village, on May 8, aged sixty-six. He succeeded his father as Director and Chorführer in the Passions Spiel, in 1860, and by his noble presence, fine voice, and delicate artistic instincts invested the part of Chorführer with a truly classical dignity.

M. Dulaurens, the once highly popular tenor of the Opéra, died last month in Paris, at the age of sixty-eight. While yet a corporal in an infantry regiment stationed at Versailles, he made his début in that town in "Guillaume Tell," and soon after was engaged at the Opéra, where he achieved his greatest successes in Meyerbeer's operas, owing chiefly to his brilliant voice, as he was but an indifferent actor. For many years past he had been engaged in teaching.

Antonietta Untersteiner, a pianist and composer who had obtained some distinction in Italy, died on May 28, in Milan, aged fifty. Born at Constantinople, she studied at the Milan Conservatorio, and soon established a considerable reputation as a pianist and teacher of her instrument.

Vincent Joseph van Steenkiste, better known under the name of Dorus, the distinguished flautist, and brother of the recently-deceased prima donna, Madame Dorus-Gras, died recently at Etretat, aged eighty-four. He obtained a first prize for flute-playing at the Conservatoire in 1828, and for many years held the post of first flute at the Concerts of that institution, as well as at the Opéra and the Chapelle Impériale. In 1858 he succeeded Tulou in the professorship of his instrument at the Conservatoire there—amongst others, M. Taffanel was his pupil. M. Dorus, who was born at Valenciennes in 1812, has written a great number of pieces for his instrument.

The death is announced, on the 9th ult., in Paris, of Adolphe Leopold Danhauser, for many years a distinguished vocal professor at the Conservatoire, and principal inspector of the singing classes in the Communal Schools. He was a pupil at the Conservatoire, where he obtained first prizes in harmony and composition, and in 1862 gained the second prix de Rome. M. Danhauser was in his sixty-second year.

The death, at the age of fifty-three, of Dr. Hans Paumgartner, one of the most highly esteemed musicians in the Austrian capital, is announced on May 23, in Vienna. He was a brilliant pianist, especially distinguished as a Beethoven interpreter and masterly accompanist, while he was also a successful professor of composition, and for a number of years filled the position of director of singing at the Imperial Opera. Dr. Paumgartner was musical critic of the official Wiener Zeitung and an early champion of the cause of Richard Wagner, at a time when that cause had but few advocates in the Austrian capital. He was the composer of some instrumental music and of a number of songs.

The death is announced, on the 11th ult., at Hamburg, of Friedrich Gottlieb Schwencke, for many years organist at the Nikolai-Kirche, in his seventy-third year.

We have also to record the following deaths:—

On May 10, at Philadelphia, Hermann Peters, choral director and teacher, aged sixty-four.

On May 15, at Scranton (U.S.), Frederick Kopff, conductor of the Liederkranz, aged thirty-four.

On May 19, at Klingenthal, Richard Scheufler, senior professor at the Musikschule of that town.

On May 20, at Madrid, Teodora Lamadrid, noted Spanish dramatic artist, professor of elocution at the Conservatorio.

On May 24, at Ladbroke Grove, London, P. E. van Noorden, teacher of music.

On May 29, at Budapesth, Dr. Carl Hubay, brother of Jenö Hubay, the eminent violinist, director and one of the founders of the important music publishing society "Harmonia," in his forty-second year.

Recently, at Rio de Janeiro, Charles Lucien Lambert, for many years resident pianist and teacher, composer of pianoforte music.

On the 1st ult., at Philadelphia, Hermann Mohr, choral director, composer of the highly popular male chorus "Jauchzend erhebt sich die Schöpfung."

On the 5th ult., at Paris, Camille de Roddaz, successful librettist of operettas and ballets.

On the 5th ult., at Palermo, Rosario Termini, popular operatic tenor, aged twenty-nine—assassinated.

On the 6th ult, at Vienna, Josef Dachs, for many years a most highly valued professor of pianoforte playing at the Viennese Conservatorium, aged seventy-one.

Recently, at Belleville, André Maria Oray, violinist, conductor at the Folies-Dramatiques, Paris, composer of operettas, aged eighty-one.

Recently, at Paris, M. Delahaye, chorus-master of the Opéra. Composer of merit, aged fifty-two.

On the 8th ult., at Reichenberg, Friedrich Maschek, professor at the Viennese University, musical author, aged forty-six.

On the 8th ult., at Vienna, Madame Rosenthal, mother of Moritz Rosenthal, the distinguished pianist.

On the 8th ult., at Brescia, Alessandro Cavana, for forty years organist of the Cathedral in that town.

On the 9th ult., at Bautzen, Anton Bergmann, musical director at the Catholic seminary, composer of two masses and author of a violin school, in his sixty-third year.

CORRESPONDENCE.

SOME NEW CHROMATIC HARMONIES.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—In reference to this discussion may I point out that at least one theorist, Dr. Hiles, holds that a minor seventh may be added to any major or minor triad proper to a given key, without necessarily producing a change of key, and also that every note of the chromatic scale, except the augmented fourth, may be used as the root of a chord, major or minor, some being more naturally connected with the major, others with the minor mode.

It may interest your correspondents to know that if, in the chromatic scale of C, F sharp be made the true leading note of G (C G, G D true fifths, and D F sharp a true major third), then if A flat be taken a true major third under the C the harmonic seventh of the root A flat is almost exactly the aforesaid F sharp. This enharmonic relation is shown in the following diagram:—

where G flat 7 means the harmonic seventh of A flat, and octave relations are disregarded.

The difference of effect produced by the "augmented sixth" and the "harmonic seventh" cannot be due to a difference of ratios, as they are the very same notes; but it is easily accounted for by the relation of the root to the keynote.—I am, dear Sir, yours truly,

R. C. Phillips.

The Arts Club, Manchester,
June 4, 1896.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—I have noticed a letter of Mr. Dunton's in another paper, in which he calls in question the relevancy of my quotation from "Faust" last month as a chromatic chord on the leading note.

I have only to add to my previous letter that the chord, as well as being the dominant seventh of F minor, must be regarded as chromatic to the key of D flat, to which it immediately effects a modulation, for the following chords are undoubtedly in that key.

It is the link between the two keys, and, according to the context, is even more closely connected with the one in which it is chromatic than with the other.

Yours truly,
H. J. Wrightson.

206, Manningham Lane, Bradford,
June 9, 1896.

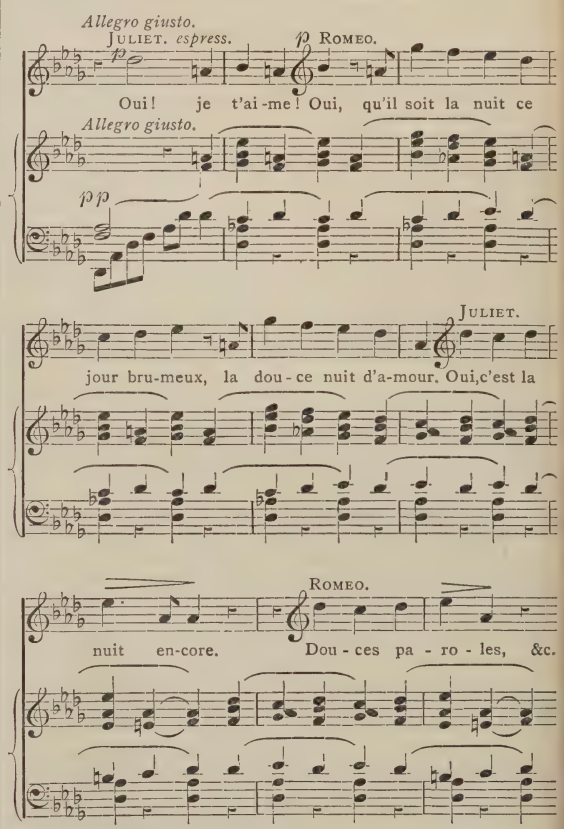
Replies to Critics.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—In your current issue there are three letters criticising my remarks of the month before. Two of them are principally concerned with showing that some of the chords I put forward as new are to be found in the works of well-known composers. Now the chief point of my two letters (only one of which you have so far been able to find space for) is that the resources of the composer, according to the teaching of the late Professor Macfarren, do not include more than two chromatic sevenths; while there are really eleven such chords that can be used with perfectly good effect. As far as I was aware at the time, the chords I instanced might have been new to practice; but I laid most stress upon the fact that they were unavailable according to the current theory. This important point would remain, even if everyone of my chords could be found in pre-existing compositions. Mr. Froggatt seems to think I have been anticipated by composers in a good many instances, though he gives no very definite references. Mr. Wrightson quotes two examples, but he is in error in thinking that the chord marked with an asterisk in his extract from Gounod is a chromatic minor seventh on the sub-tonic, it being simply a dominant seventh in F. Doubtless he has been misled by the key signature, which is that of D flat.

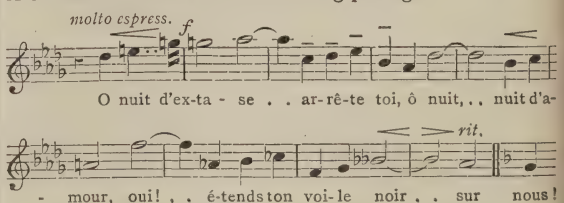
When Mr. Froggatt says that the "augmented sixths . . . do not in the least sound like minor sevenths," he forgets that they may become minor sevenths by a mere change of notation, and thus introduce a new key. In fact, when we hear the combination of sounds that may be an "augmented sixth," we cannot be sure that it is not a modulating minor seventh until we hear the following chord. Evidently, then, the two chords are one as regards sound, and the "augmented sixth" notation simply throws a difficulty in the way of theorists and students without serving any useful purpose whatever.

Mr. Crawford argues that all my examples show a modulation. But each chord instanced by me is preceded and followed by chords that are indisputably in one key, and therefore, as Macfarren himself would admit, the whole passage must be in that key. The notation of the chromatic scale given in Mr. Crawford's letter is simply a begging of the question.



Yours respectfully,
W. F. Dunton.

21, Newington Crescent, S.E.,
June 13, 1896.



TSCHAÏKOWSKY'S "ROMEO AND JULIET" OVERTURE.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—In his analysis of Tschaïkowsky's "Romeo and Juliet" Overture (or rather "Ouverture-Fantaisie," to give the work its correct designation), played at the Richter Concert of the 8th ult., the writer of the analytical notes says that the composer "beyond the mere title, has furnished no clue as to the particular points of the drama which it has been his aim to translate into music." With your permission I should like to correct this statement, for it is not strictly accurate. Tschaïkowsky left the sketch of a duet for soprano and tenor, which was completed by M. S. Tanéïew, and published under the following title: "Duo, 'Romeo et Juliette' (Soprano et Tenor), composé par P. Tschaïkowsky, Œuvre posthume achevée d'après les esquisses conservées, et instrumentée par S. Tanéïew. London & New York: Novello, Ewer & Co." A perusal of this interesting piece reveals the fact that a great deal of the music has been used in the Overture almost without altering a note. I may first remark that the text of the duet seems to be a more or less free adaptation of the scene in Juliet's chamber (Act iii., scene 5), the words being repeated a good deal to suit the composer's purpose. The piece should really be called a Trio, for there is also a part for the Nurse, and this makes me wonder whether Tschaïkowsky did not, perhaps, intend this scene to form part of an opera on the subject of Shakespeare's tragedy. After a few pages of very melodious recitative-like dialogue referring to the lark and the nightingale, we come to the strange series of chords of which so much use is made in the Overture:—

A climax is reached at the following passage—which will be recognised as the second subject proper of the Overture. It is interesting to observe that in the Overture the order of these two passages is reversed, as if Tschaïkowsky had intended to first fix the situation by quoting, as it were, the words "O nuit d'extâse," &c., and giving the music to the same the significance of a Leitmotiv before proceeding with the treatment of this subject and its pendant. I fancy, with the aid of this clue, it is not difficult to draw conclusions as to the poetical contents of the Overture. But even without it, it appears not a little strange that the clever analyst does not interpret any portion of the work as referring to the love element in Shakespeare's drama. He only speaks of Juliet's obsequies, the feud and combats between the two rival houses of Montagues and Capulets, the Prince's attempt to reconcile them, and the reconciliation on the death of the lovers. Did he not look for such love-music, or has Tschaïkowsky so signally failed in his attempt to pourtray "la grande passion" that it required a clue before intentions could be rightly interpreted? Now we have heard the Overture, perhaps some enterprising singers will give us an opportunity of enjoying the duet. It seems to me well worthy of their attention, especially as the great Russian master's vocal music, with the exception of a few songs, is almost unknown here.

I am, Sir, yours, &c.,

A. J. Jaeger.

16, Margravine Gardens, W.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

 Notices of Concerts, of which programmes must invariably be sent, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted.

Our correspondents will oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music is always kept in stock, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

Miss F. E. Leigh.—The best Life of Liszt is that by L. Ramann, of which the first portion has been translated by E. Cowdery. Liszt's letters, translated by C. Bache, are in two volumes. Second-hand copies of both works can be had of W. Reeves, 185, Fleet Street, London.

C. H. Horner.—The probable value of the Lacote guitar referred to would be from £10 to £15, but we should advise your referring the matter to experts, such as Messrs. Beare and Son, Rathbone Place.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

Bishop Auckland.—The report of the committee of the Musical Society, which has just been issued, shows the successful result, both financially and musically, of last season's work, the balance in the hands of the treasurer being about £20.

Brighton.—The annual Meeting of the Sacred Harmonic Society, which was held on the 1st ult. in the Pavilion, was of peculiar interest, owing to this being the jubilee year of the Society and to the reading of a paper by Mr. Taylor, the conductor, detailing the history of this excellent choral body. According to Mr. Spearing, the former conductor of the Association, its origin was in the union in 1827 of the choirs of the Parish Church, the Countess of Huntingdon's Church, and Bond Street Chapel; but it was not until 1846 that an Association was formed for the practice of sacred music. Mr. Taylor became the conductor in 1870, when he brought with him the Musical Union, which was amalgamated with the Sacred Harmonic Society. Since that period the Association had passed through several vicissitudes, but it had outlived its rivals and was now in a flourishing condition. It had given 224 Concerts, had performed seventy oratorios—forty of which it had presented for the first time in Brighton—and had given over £400 to various charities.

Burghclere.—An impressive Choral Festival was celebrated in the Parish Church, on the 10th ult., under the direction of Mr. A. H. Drury, to whom great credit is due for the excellence of the ensemble. Six choirs from the churches at Burghclere, Highclere, Kingsclere, East Woodhay, Woolton Hill, and Kingsclere Woodlands took part, the voices numbering in all about 130. The anthem was Stainer's "What are these arrayed in white robes?"

Durban (Natal).—The Durban Musical Association gave its first Concert of the season, in the Town Hall, on May 23, when a miscellaneous selection and Mendelssohn's "Athalie" were performed. The choir and stringed orchestra, numbering 200, were under the bâton of Mr. R. H. Macdonald, the Borough organist. Mr. A. Hawes read the verses in "Athalie" very effectively, the solo singers being Mrs. McBride, Miss Noble, and Mrs. Lucas.

Eastbourne.—A Pianoforte Recital was given at the Town Hall, on the 13th ult., by Miss Agnes Zimmermann. The programme comprised Beethoven's Sonata in C major (Op. 2, No. 3), Mendelssohn's Andante and Variations in E flat, Brahms's Rhapsodie (Op. 79) and Intermezzi from Op. 119, Schumann's "Faschingsschwank aus Wien" (Op. 26), Chopin's Ballade in G minor, and pieces by Agnes Zimmermann, Sgambati, Arthur Hervey, Henselt, and Liszt. The Brahms and Schumann pieces especially received a fine rendering. In a duet for two pianofortes, Reinecke's Impromptu on a Theme from Schumann's "Manfred," Miss Zimmermann was associated with Mr. Charles Williams, who proved himself an accomplished pianist.

Isle of Dogs.—The "Creation" was performed, on the 3rd ult., in St. John's Church, by the Kyrle Choir under the direction of Mr. F. A. W. Docker. The soloists were Miss A. Wilmot-Briggs, Mr. John Probert, and Mr. Albert Orme. Dr. E. H. Turpin accompanied on the organ.

Malvern (Australia).—The Malvern Choral Society gave its second Subscription Concert for the year 1895-6 in the local Shire Hall. Gade's cantata "The Crusaders" occupied the first part of the programme, the solo parts being well sustained by Miss Maggie Stirling, Mr. A. J. Pallett, and Dr. Hugh Murray, while the choral numbers were capitally rendered by the Society, under its conductor, Mr. J. Hasler. The accompaniments were well supplied by Mrs. J. P. Clarke and Mr. H. J. Inge, who presided at the pianoforte and organ respectively. The second part was devoted to a miscellaneous selection. Sterndale Bennett's Trio (Op. 26) was well played by Messrs. J. Hasler, A. Zelman, jun., and C. Harrison; Miss Maggie Stirling sang Braga's "La Serenata," with violin obbligato by Mr. A. Zelman; and Dr. Murray sang Blumenthal's song "Thinking of thee." The Society contributed two part-songs—"A Spring Song" (Pinsuti) and "The Belfry Tower" (Hatton)—and the Concert was brought to a conclusion by the singing of the National Anthem.

Melbourne (Australia).—A performance of Sir Joseph Barnby's "Rebekah" was given, on April 28, in the South Yarra Presbyterian Church. The solos were sung by Miss A. Simmons, Mr. E. Lenthal-Oldfield, and Mr. Thomas Watson. The choir was largely augmented for the occasion and the performance was directed by the choirmaster, Mr. Thomas J. Hammond, who presided at the organ.

Middlesbrough.—The annual report of the Middlesbrough Musical Union, which has just been issued, states that "the musical work of the past season has been satisfactory; the Concerts have been well attended, and the reputation of the Society well maintained. The falling off in the subscriptions, mentioned in last year's report, has been checked and the committee trusts this is the beginning of a considerable improvement in the Society's finances." The valuable services of Mr. Kilburn, as conductor of the Society, were referred to in terms of grateful thanks.

Nuneaton.—Praiseworthy performances of Sterndale Bennett's "May Queen" and T. Anderton's "Wreck of the Hesperus" were given on the 9th ult., in the Drill Hall, under the conductorship of Mr. John Ding. The soloists were Master A. Gamstow, Miss R. Hutt, Miss L. McQueen, Mr. T. White, and Mr. E. W. Taylor. Valuable assistance was rendered by the Nuneaton Amateur Orchestra.

Rochester.—The twenty-sixth Festival for church choirs in the Archdeaconry of Rochester was held on the 17th ult., in the Cathedral. About 800 voices took part in the Service. The processional hymn was set to Mr. C. Lucas's adaptation of Costa's March in "Eli." The Psalms chosen were four of the Gradual Psalms and were set to chants by Barnard, Bunnett, Thomas Purcell, and Tours. The pointing was that of the Cathedral Psalter and the Bishop of Durham's instructive headings from his Paragraph Psalter were given. The Magnificat and Nunc dimittis were Dr. C. H. Lloyd's well known simple setting in F, which was excellently sung. S. S. Wesley's "Blessed be the God" was the first anthem, and the second anthem, sung immediately before the blessing, was Attwood's "Teach me, O Lord," which was wrongly described in the book as a quartet from an anthem, whereas it is the opening chorus. It was sung without accompaniment and was very well rendered, save for a slight flattening which made it impossible for the organist to play the Coda at the end. The hymns during the collection were sung, the first to a calm and dignified tune of Goudimel's (A.D. 1562) and the second to Dr. E. J. Hopkins's tune to "Saviour, again to Thy dear Name," in unison, with varied accompaniment, as in Brown-Borthwick's book. After the blessing Basil Harwood's "Amen" was sung, the plainsong in the tenor being taken by all the choirs, the harmonies by the Cathedral choir. After this a processional hymn, "Word of God Eternal," to J. Baptiste Calkin's tune in The Hymnary, was rendered while the choirs left the nave, where the Service had been held, and marched into the chancel, where David Watkins's Te Deum in B flat was sung. The accompaniments were played with consummate taste and skill by the veteran organist of the Cathedral, Mr. John Hopkins, who has just completed his fortieth year of service at Rochester. The Service was chanted by the Rev. E. J. Nash, Precentor of the Cathedral and of the Association, the latter part of the prayers being taken by the Rev. E. M. Blackie, Minor Canon. The conductor was the Rev. A. L. Coates, formerly Precentor of the Cathedral, who has conducted for the last twelve years. The intricate arrangements for the processions were carried out with admirable organisation by the Rev. John Bailey, musical secretary of the Association.

Organ Appointments.—Mr. H. C. Morris, Organist and Choirmaster to St. David's Cathedral.—Mr. Kenneth G. Burns, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Mary's, Greenwich Park.

MR.

A. MONTAGUE BORWELL

L.R.A.M., G.S.M. (BARITONE).

Prize-winner, Solo Singing and Sight Reading, Stratford Musical Festival.

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. 16, Springfield, Upper Clapton, N.E.

MR. and MRS. HENRY BEAUMONT (Madame Adelaide Mullen) beg to announce CHANGE of ADDRESS to 1A, Oxford and Cambridge Mansions, Hyde Park, W. Choral Societies are invited to write for en route and vacant dates.

DR. J. M. BENTLEY, Hon. F.R.A.M.—Instruction in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, and ORCHESTRATION per post. Address, Messrs. Novello and Co.

PROFESSOR of MUSIC has VACANCY for RESIDENT PIANOFORTE (and Organ) PUPIL to prepare for L.R.A.M. and A.R.C.M. Exam. South Coast. River and sea. S. M. H., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MUSICAL PROFESSION.—The Organist of an important Parish Church in the Midlands requires an ARTICLED PUPIL to train for the Profession. Premium required. Daily services; choral communions. Large three-manual organ. H. Compigné Andrews, Mus. Bac., Cantab., The Yews, Retford, Notts.

SALISBURY CATHEDRAL.—There will be a COMPETITION for Two CHORISTERSHIPS, on Tuesday, July 28, 1896, at 12 noon, at the Organist's house. Candidates must, as a rule, be between the ages of 8 and 10, but exceptions may be made. Apply, as soon as possible, for information as to references required, payments, &c., to Rev. E. E. Dorling, The Close, Salisbury.

CONTRALTO (Lady) and TENOR for City Church. Stipend, £5 each. M. A., 8, Brownlow Street, Holborn.

TENOR and BASS WANTED, at once, for St. Paul's, Hampton Court. Choral service. £12 per annum. Good readers. Vicar, St. Paul's Vicarage, East Molesey, Surrey.

SECOND BASS VACANCY in MALE-VOICE QUARTET. Must be experienced. Address, Quartet, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MUSICAL PRIZE COMPETITION.—The Glasgow Society of Musicians offer a PRIZE of £20 for the best TRIO, QUARTET, or QUINTET for Piano and Strings, or Piano and Wind Instruments. Works intended for competition must be in the hands of the Secretary not later than December 1, 1896. The Judges are Dr. A. C. Mackenzie and Professor E. Prout, B.A., with whom another may be associated. Conditions and full information from H. A. Stirling, Solicitor, 133, St. Vincent Street, Glasgow, Secretary of the Society.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

ADAMS, JOSEPH H.—"A Day in Summer." A Juvenile Cantata. Specially composed for the use of Schools and Classes, or Juvenile Concerts and Entertainments. The Words written by Antony Templemore. Paper cover, 1s. 6d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 8d.

WOOLLEY, E. M.—"The Captive Soul." Cantata. For Soprano, Mezzo-Soprano, Contralto, and Tenor Soli and Chorus of Female Voices. The words written by Ethel C. Pedley. Paper cover, 2s. 6d.

COWEN, F. H.—Four English Dances in the Olden Style. Pianoforte Solo, 2s. 6d.; 1st Violin, 1s. 6d.; 2nd Violin, 1s. 6d.; Viola, 1s. 6d.; Violoncello and Bass, 1s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 12s.

CRESER, W.—Old English Suite. For Full Orchestra. Pianoforte Solo, 2s. 6d.; 1st Violin, 1s.; 2nd Violin, 1s.; Viola, 1s.; Violoncello and Bass, 1s. 6d.

FORD, ERNEST.—Grande Valse from the "Faust" Ballet. Military Band Arrangement. By George Miller. 10s. 6d.

GERMAN, EDWARD.—Overture to Shakespeare's "Richard III." Military Band Arrangement. By George Miller. 12s. net.

HAYNES, BATTISON.—"Westwood Gavotte." For small orchestra. String parts, 2s.; wind parts, 2s. 9d.

MOIR, FRANK.—Melody in A. For violin (or flute) and pianoforte. 2s.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW. No. 49. Contains the following Music in both Notations:—"O for the wings of a dove." Unison Song. By Mendelssohn. "Cradle Song." Two-part Song. By Barnby. Two-part Studies. 1½d.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS.—Edited by W. G. McNaught. Published in two forms. A. Voice Parts, in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 8vo size; B. Voice Parts only in Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

	A.	B.
—— Book XLVIII. Six Two-part Songs. By Various Composers	—	4d.
—— Book LVIII. Ten Unison Songs for Juveniles. By Various Composers	—	3d.
—— Book LXI. Six Two-part Songs. By Various Composers	—	3d.
No. 419. Within Thy sacred fane. Solo and Three-part Chorus from the Cantata "The Day of Rest" .. .. Josiah Booth	2d.	—

ADLAM, FRANK—(in E flat). Te Deum laudamus and Benedictus. (No. 288. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

BARNBY, J.—(in D). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis (arranged for Four Voices from the Unison Service in C). (No. 293. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

BREWER, A. HERBERT—(in F). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 283. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 3d.

HEWITT, CHARLES H.—(in E flat). A complete and easy Musical Setting of the Office of Holy Communion. 6d.

JORDAN, WARWICK.—Communion Service in E. Drum Part. 1s. 6d. net.

HUTCHINSON, THOMAS.—Kyrie. 1½d.

MEACHAM, C. J. B.—(in F major). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 3d.

STAINER, J.—Te Deum laudamus. Second series (Gregorian Tones). (No. 300. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 3d.

STEANE, BRUCE—(in F). Te Deum laudamus. (No. 273. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 3d.

TOZER, FERRIS.—"Come, weary pilgrims, come." Communion Hymn. The words written by Henry Knight. Words only, 2s. per 100.

ANTOINE, ADOLPHUS.—Vesper Hymn ("Lord, keep us safe this night"). 2d.

DIES IRÆ, DIES ILLA (Day of wrath, O day of mourning). (No. 299. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1½d.

BEST, W. T.—"Abide with me." (No. 298. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1½d.

LUCAS, P. T.—Eight Hymn Tunes. 6d.

NOVELLO'S WORDS OF ANTHEMS for Harvest. Part I. 1d.

BEALE, WILLIAM.—"In the pleasant summer day." Glee. For Men's Voices (A.T.T.B.). The poetry written by W. E. Baker. (No. 287. The Orpheus.) 4d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

ELVEY, G. J.—"The eyes of all wait on Thee." Easy Anthem. For Harvest. (No. 547. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

—— "Whom have I in heaven but Thee." Short Anthem. For general use. (No. 68. Novello's Short Anthems.) 2d.

—— "Shall I, wasting in despair." A Four-part Song. The words written by G. WITHER (1588—1667). (No. 751. Novello's Part-Song Book—Second Series.) 2d.

ELLIOTT, J. W.—"Thou visitest the earth." Anthem. For Harvest. (No. 549. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

WEST, JOHN E.—"Let us now fear the Lord our God." Anthem for Harvest. 1½d.

MILLER, GEORGE.—"There's life to be seen." Sailors' Chorus. For A.T.T.B. From the Cantata "The Armada." (No. 299. The Orpheus.) 4d.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW. Index to Vol. IV., June, 1895, to May, 1896.

TOURS, BERTHOLD.—"A Dream of Love" (No. 2, in A). Song. The words written by EDWARD OXENFORD. 2s.

HAMMOND, ELIZA.—Minuet (in A flat). For the Pianoforte. 2s.

HOYTE, W. S.—March (in E flat). For the Organ. 2s.

NOVELLO'S ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS for the ORGAN:—

	s. d.
No. 246. Postlude in G .. .. CHARLES STEGGALL	1 6

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS in the TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Edited by W. G. McNAUGHT.

No. 925. Let us now fear the Lord our God
JOHN E. WEST 1½d.

GAUL, A. R.—"The Birds":—

No. 3.	The Dove	(Tonic Sol-fa)	1d.
„ 4.	The Skylark	„ „	1d.
„ 5.	The Owl	„ „	1d.
„ 6.	The Swallows	„ „	1d.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

PUBLISHED ON THE 1ST OF EVERY MONTH. Price 1½d. ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION, INCLUDING POSTAGE, 2s.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW FOR JULY CONTAINS:—

GENERAL NOTES.
MUSIC IN EDINBURGH SCHOOLS.
THE CERTIFICATE EXAMINATION, 1896.
REPORT FOR 1895 ON MUSIC IN TRAINING COLLEGES IN ENGLAND AND WALES.
GRADUATED EXERCISES FOR SCHOOL CLASSES.—STAFF NOTATION AND TONIC SOL-FA.
OPINIONS ON THE RECENT SCHOOL MUSIC STATISTICS.
MALVERN MUSIC COMPETITION.
CORRESPONDENCE.
THE LONDON SUNDAY SCHOOL CHOIR.
MISCELLANEOUS.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

FOR JULY

CONTAINS THE FOLLOWING MUSIC IN BOTH NOTATIONS:—

"O LOVELY NIGHT." Two-part Song. From the Cantata "The Hours." By J. L. ROECKEL.
"BRIGHTLY, SWEET SUMMER." Round for Three Voices. By J. STAINER.
"THE SOFT-SHELL CRAB." Humorous Unison Song. By J. W. CHADWICK.
UNISON SIGHT-SINGING TESTS.

ALSO, AN EXTRA MUSIC SUPPLEMENT, CONTAINING A CANZONET, "THE MERMAID'S SONG." BY HAYDN.

The Music and Exercises can always be obtained separately. Price 1½d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SILVER BELLS.—Spécialité for Garden Parties, Dinners, and Concerts. Silver Bell Solos, with Pianoforte or Orchestral Accompaniment. R. B. Hopkins, Royal Campanologist, 17, Kellett Road, Brixton.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Sir F. A. Gore Ouseley	441
From my Study (with Fac-similes)	444
New Lights upon Old Tunes	447
Occasional Notes	449
Facts, Rumours, and Remarks	452
Royal Opera, Covent Garden	454
Richter Concerts	455
Philharmonic Society	455
Mottl Concert	455
Westminster Orchestral Society	456
Pianoforte Recitals	456
Violin Recitals	456
Magpie Madrigal Society's Concert	457
Royal College of Music	457
Royal Academy of Music	458
Guildhall School of Music	458
The Church of England Temperance Choral Society	458
Lincoln Oratorio Festival	458
South Wales Musical Festival	459
Musical Association	460
Royal Institution	460
Sir Augustus Harris	461
General News (London)	461
Reviews	473
Foreign Notes	475
Music in Belfast	477
„ Birmingham	477
„ Bristol	477
„ Cambridge	477
„ Dublin	478
„ East Anglia	478
„ Edinburgh	478
„ Liverpool	479
„ Paris	479
„ America	479
The Lower Rhenish Musical Festival at Düsseldorf	480
The Musical Festival at Leipzig	482
Anthem for Harvest—"Let us now fear the Lord our God"—John E. West	465
Patriotic Chorus—"Victoria, our Queen"—Sir Joseph Barnby (Extra Supplement).
Obituary	482
Correspondence	483
Answers to Correspondents	485
Brief Summary of Country News	485
List of Music published during the last Month	486

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£ s. d.
Two Lines	0 3 0
Three Lines	0 3 4
For every additional Line	0 0 10
Half a Column	2 0 0
A Column	4 0 0
A Page	7 10 0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in proper position Advertisements should reach the Office

NOT LATER THAN THE TWENTIETH of each Month.

WANTED, a First-class TUNER and REPAIRER. Good references indispensable. Apply, H. T. Bywater, Chapel Ash, Wolverhampton.

A THOROUGHLY experienced PIANOFORTE, HARMONIUM, and AMERICAN ORGAN TUNER, REPAIRER, and REGULATOR desires RE-ENGAGEMENT for a permanency. Aged 35. Married. Excellent references and testimonials. Address, Tuner, Beethoven House, Clevedon, Somerset.

GOOD TUNER, over 25 years' experience. Well up in all kinds of Organs; also Repairer. Disengaged end of June. F. D., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER-IMPROVER wants EMPLOYMENT. Wages, 25s. Knowledge of Repairs. J. B., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

YOUNG MAN desires SITUATION as TUNER and REPAIRER. Tuner, Novello and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

SALESMAN.—Young Man, fair Tuner and abstainer, with fair knowledge of the Pianoforte trade, desires SITUATION as SALESMAN or MANAGER of small Music Business. Apply to A. Brantom, The Lawns, Leighton Buzzard.

CHURCH PIPE ORGAN, 10 feet high. Bargain. Substantially built. Modern design. 8 stops. Full compass independent pedal organ. Lead 500 persons. First-class instrument. Price only £75 (part can remain). 52, Hazlewood Crescent, Westbourne Park, London.

ORGAN (fine-toned modern Two-Manual). Containing 970 speaking pipes, full couplers and composition pedals. All stops complete. Price £300. Warranted for seven years. Fincham's Organ Factory, 150, Euston Road, London.

SHORT GRAND PIANO, by WORNUM, with Coll. Org. Pedals attached. Good touch and tone. Price, with stool, £16. P., 26, Lawn Crescent, Kew Gardens.

HARPSICHORD. — Fine old Instrument, by KIRKMAN, in perfect working order, £40. Harp, double-action, ERAT. Perfect order. £25. Morley, Harp Maker, South Kensington Station.

VOXOMETRIC REVELATION.

THE DISCOVERY OF THE HUMAN VOICE—AT LAST!

THE HUMAN VOICE EXPLAINED FOR THE FIRST TIME IN THE WORLD'S HISTORY

BY

ALFRED AUGUSTUS NORTH,

Professor of Vocal Science; Examiner in Music to the New Zealand Government for thirteen years.

It is impossible that there can be more than one true and perfect explanation of any one Science; consequently there is, and can only be, one way to truthfully produce and efficiently cultivate the Human Voice, just as there is only one principle of harmony, one principle of arithmetic, and so forth. Hence all erroneous ideas must give place to the fixed and unalterable laws of Nature when these laws (applying to any particular art or science) are once discovered and proved absolute. The Voxometric Revelation is, therefore, the first and only work to furnish the true, comprehendable, and complete system of instruction for the thorough training of every character of voice in Song and Speech.

IMPORTANT NOTICE—VOXOMETRIC REVELATION.

In consequence of the large number of orders already received for this book since the day of publication—May 7—(before a single review of the work had yet appeared in the public press), and more especially on account of the phenomenal demand that has been made from people in so many walks of life for a cheaper edition, the publishers, having succeeded in making satisfactory arrangements for a very large output, have decided to supply copies to fill all future orders for the volume, received on and after June 1, 1896—in precisely the same style and binding as the first edition—at half the original published price, now making the rate 10s. 6d. net. By this means it is hoped to disseminate the Voxometric theory far and wide.

NOTE.—In consequence of this decision, and in fairness to the purchasers of the first edition at 21s., the proprietors of the copyright further beg to announce that a refund equal to the difference between these two rates will be made to all who purchased at the higher rate, provided properly authenticated application is made through the various channels whence the books were supplied.

AUTHORS' AND PRINTERS' JOINT INTEREST PUBLISHING CO.,
3, Arundel Street, Strand, London, W.C.

Dated June 1, 1896.

MERRILY, MERRILY

SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

GEORGE EDWARD MONCKTON, M.A.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

MARGUERITE MARIGOLD.

Price Two Shillings net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE

Robert Burns Centenary.

LYRICS BY ROBERT BURNS

SET TO MUSIC BY

THE FOLLOWING COMPOSERS:

		s.	d.
Although my bed were in yon moor (in a Book of Fourteen Songs)	R. Franz	2	6
Bonnie Mary	G. A. Macfarren	1	3
Bonnie wee thing (in a Book of Ten Songs)	G. J. Bennett	2	6
Castle Gordon	W. S. Bennett	1	6
Come, let me take thee (in a Book of Ten Songs)	G. J. Bennett	2	6
Gentle Zephyr	John Knapp	1	0
Gentle Zephyr	W. S. Bennett	1	6
Had I a cave	H. H. Pearson	1	0
Here is the glen (in a Book of Ten Songs)	G. J. Bennett	2	6
Hey Baloo	Schumann	0	9
Highland Widow's Lament	Schumann	1	0
How can my heart be glad? (in a Book of Fourteen Songs)	R. Franz	2	6
I love my Jean (in a Book of Ten Songs)	G. J. Bennett	2	6
It is na, Jean, thy bonnie face (in a Book of Ten Songs)	G. J. Bennett	2	6
Musing on the roaring ocean	W. S. Bennett	1	6
My ain kind dearie, O (in a Book of Ten Songs)	G. J. Bennett	2	6
My bonny Mary (in a Book of Fourteen Songs)	R. Franz	2	6
My heart is sair (in a Book of Fourteen Songs)	R. Franz	2	6
My heart's in the Highlands (in a Book of Fourteen Songs)	R. Franz	2	6
My heart's in the Highlands	Schumann	1	0
My love is like a red, red rose (in a Book of Fourteen Songs)	R. Franz	2	6
No one	Schumann	0	9
O, how can I be blythe and glad	Schumann	1	0
Oh! wert thou in the frozen blast (in a Book of Fourteen Songs)	R. Franz	2	6
O my luve's like the red rose (in a Book of Ten Songs)	G. J. Bennett	2	6
Out over the Forth	Schumann	0	9
O were my love yon lilac fair (in a Book of Ten Songs)	G. J. Bennett	2	6
Phyllis the fair (in a Book of Fourteen Songs)	R. Franz	2	6
Phyllis the fair (in a Book of Six Songs)	A. C. Mackenzie	2	6
So far away (in a Book of Fourteen Songs)	R. Franz	2	6
Some one	Schumann	0	9
The captain's lady	Schumann	0	9
The Highland lassie (in a Book of Fourteen Songs)	R. Franz	2	6
The lovely lass of Inverness (in a Book of Fourteen Songs)	R. Franz	2	6
Thou hast left me ever, Jamie (in a Book of Ten Songs)	G. J. Bennett	2	6
Thou hast left me ever, Jamie (in a Book of Fourteen Songs)	R. Franz	2	6
To Chloe in sickness	W. S. Bennett	1	6
To Chloe in sickness	John Knapp	1	0
Twa sweet e'en (in a Book of Fourteen Songs)	R. Franz	2	6
Wilt thou be my dearie? (in a Book of Ten Songs)	G. J. Bennett	2	6
Ye banks and braes (in a Book of Fourteen Songs)	R. Franz	2	6

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co

ALFRED R. GAUL'S WORKS.

VOCAL SCORE, OLD NOTATION. 31ST TO 35TH THOUSAND.

RUTH

A HARVEST CANTATA

WORDS BY

EDWARD OXENFORD.

"'Ruth' has been set to music by several composers; none, however, has become so worthily popular as the Cantata under notice. . . . It contains some charming music, and is highly characteristic of the story it so vividly illustrates."—South Wilts Express.

PERFORMED IN THE TOWN HALL, BIRMINGHAM, ON TWELVE OCCASIONS.

Vocal Score, paper cover, 2s.; ditto, paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 4s.

The Choruses (only) in Vocal Score, for Musical Societies, paper cover, 1s. Words, 5s. per 100.

Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 9d. Band Parts on loan.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HARVEST ANTHEMS.

O CLAP YOUR HANDS

FOR FOUR VOICES

With Solo for Treble or Tenor.
Price Fourpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.

ALSO,

BLESSED BE THOU

FOR FOUR VOICES

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

HARVEST HYMNS.

COME, YE THANKFUL

AND

SING TO THE LORD

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D.

One Penny each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HARVEST MUSIC

BY

J. H. MAUNDER

IN USE IN ALL PARTS OF THE UNITED KINGDOM AND THE COLONIES.

ANTHEMS.	Staff.	Tonic Sol-fa.
While the earth remaineth	3d.	2d.
Sing to the Lord of Harvest (difficult)	3d.	2d.
Sing unto the Lord (abridged edition)	3d.
Blessed be the name of the Lord (In the Press)	3d.	2d.
SERVICES, &c.
Te Deum in Chant Form	3d.	2d.
Te Deum in B flat	3d.	2d.
Communion Service in G	8d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C	3d.	1½d.
" " in D	3d.
ORGAN.

Voix Seraphique (In the Press) (for Organ Recitals, &c.). 2s.

Specimens of Anthems and Services from the COMPOSER, San Remo, Bromley, Kent.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

4,000 copies sold within four months after publication.

HARVEST THANKSGIVING CANTATA

FOR SOLO VOICES (S.A.T.B.), CHOIR, AND CONGREGATION

MUSIC COMPOSED AND ARRANGED BY

GEO. SHINN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.

Time taken for performance about fifty minutes.

The first performance took place in Concert Room of Crystal Palace on June 19, 1895.

Paper covers, 1s.; paper boards, 1s. 6d.; Sol-fa edition, 6d.

London: HART and Co., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.

SPECIMEN COPIES will be sent, post-free (for short time only), on the following terms:—Paper covers, 8d.; paper boards, 1s. Address, GEO. SHINN, 234, Stockwell Road, Brixton, S.W.

POPULAR HARVEST ANTHEMS

BY

E. A. SYDENHAM.

FULL, EASY, EFFECTIVE.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.

O GIVE THANKS.
SING UNTO THE LORD.
GREAT IS THE LORD.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ALBERT LOWE'S HARVEST ANTHEM

THE EARTH IS THE LORD'S

Price Threepence.

Short, easy, full, and effective.
Composed expressly for Parish Choirs.

BY THE SAME COMPOSER.

HARVEST CAROL

HOLY IS THE SEED-TIME

Composed expressly for Harvest Festivals.
Price Twopence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CANTATA FOR HARVEST FESTIVALS.

A SONG OF PRAISE

BY EDMUND ROGERS.

"A work of singular beauty."—Bayswater Chronicle. "A sterling piece of writing."—Sun. Price One Shilling and Sixpence net.

W. WHITTINGHAM, 13, Little Marlborough Street, W.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEMS, &c.

BY CALEB SIMPER.

Interesting, attractive, popular, easy, melodious, and effective.

*HIS WORKS OF LOVE. Just Published.. .. .. 4d.
*THE EYES OF ALL WAIT UPON THEE .. .. 3d.
*HIS NAME IS EXCELLENT. 5th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
The above are three New Harvest Anthems, all extremely interesting and melodious.
*THE EARTH IS FULL OF THY RICHES. New. 7th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Brilliant Choruses and effective Solos.
*THOU OPENEST THINE HAND. 13th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Very attractive and pleasing. Contains vigorous Choruses, with Solos for Bass and Soprano (or Tenor). Band Parts issued.
*PRAISE THY GOD, O ZION. 8th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
Easy, varied, short, melodious, and pretty.
*HE WATERETH THE HILLS. 17th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
An exceedingly favourite Anthem. Band Parts issued.
*WHILE THE EARTH REMAINETH. 11th 1,000.. .. .. .. 3d.
*ALL THY WORKS PRAISE THEE. 13th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
*LET US THANK THE LORD. 8th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
*I WILL FEED MY FLOCK. 36th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Sung at a Choral Festival at Woodstock.
*WHAT SHALL I RENDER. 9th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Sung at a Choral Festival at Llandrindod Wells.
THE EARTH IS THE LORD'S. 10th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
*FEAR NOT, O LAND. 33rd 1,000 .. .. 3d.
*PRAISE THE LORD, O MY SOUL. 27th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
Sung at several Choral Festivals.
*THE LORD IS LOVING. 16th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
MAKE A JOYFUL NOISE. 28th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
Sung at several Choral Festivals.
*O LORD, HOW MANIFOLD. 17th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
THEY THAT SOW IN TEARS. 20th Edition .. .. 3d.
*AND GOD SAID, LET THE EARTH. 73rd Edition .. .. .. 3d.
TE DEUM in G. 13th Edit. 4d. TE DEUM in F. 31st Edit.. 3d.
NEW FESTAL MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in B flat .. 4d.
CELEBRATED MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in F. 69th Edit. 4d.
Sung at fourteen Choral Festivals.
FAVOURITE MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIM., in E flat. 25th Edit. 4d.
Sung at two Choral Festivals.
NEW MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in G. 10th Edition .. 4d.
EASY HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE in E flat. 13th 1,000 .. 4d.
*EASY HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE in G. New. 4th 1,000 .. 4d.
EASY HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE in F. 9th Edition .. .. 6d.
Each Service is complete, with Agnus Dei and Benedictus.
FESTAL TE DEUM in A flat (Chants). 7th 1,000 .. .. .. 2d.
*TRUST IN HIM ALWAYS. New. 4th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
*THEY SHALL MOUNT UP WITH WINGS AS EAGLES. 11th 1,000.. 4d.
"Full, free, extremely pleasing, and effective. It is just the kind of music choirs revel in."—West Cumberland Times.
NEW TE DEUM in E flat (Service). 6th Edition .. .. 3d.
NEW JUBILATE in E flat (Service). 4th Edition.. .. .. 3d.
FAVOURITE FLOWER SERVICE. Music, 2d. Words, 3s. 6d. per 100. 31st 1,000. Containing six pretty Hymns.
*ANNIVERSARY SELECTION. Music, 2d. Words, 3s. 6d. per 100. 20th 1,000. Contains seven pretty Hymns.
NEW No. 3 FLOWER SERVICE. Music, 2d. Words, 3s. 6d. per 100.

NEW HARVEST CAROLS.

Price 1d. each. Nos. 7 to 12 are just published.

1. Come, ye thankful.
2. We thank Thee.
3. Wheat and barley.
4. Seedtime and harvest.
5. Glad Harvest-tide.
6. Hail! harvest's King.
7. Joyful praise is ringing.
8. His mercies still endure.
9. Harvest thanksgiving.
10. Golden sheaves.
11. His faithful promise.
12. Give thanks and sing.

Those marked (*) are also published in Tonic Sol-fa.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.
Chicago, U.S.A.: CLAYTON F. SUMMY, 220, Wabash Avenue.

HARVEST ANTHEMS.

*Achieved is the glorious work	Haydn	1½d.
All Thy works	J. Kent	4d.
*All Thy works shall praise Thee	George H. Ely	4d.
All Thy works praise Thee	E. H. Thorne	3d.
All Thy works praise Thee	J. Barnby	6d.
*Blessed be the God and Father	S. S. Wesley	4d.
*Bless thou the Lord	Oliver King	3d.
*Blessed be the name of the Lord	H. Gadsby	1½d.
Blessed be Thou, Lord God	J. Kent	4d.
*Break forth into joy	Oliver King	1½d.
Bring unto the Lord, O ye mighty	F. E. Gladstone	3d.
*Fear not, O land, be glad and rejoice	J. Goss	6d.
*Fear not, O land	C. H. Lloyd	1½d.
*Fear not, O land	C. W Jordan	6d.
Give the Lord	J. Kent	6d.
Give the Lord	C. H. Lloyd	8d.
Give thanks unto God	Spohr	4d.
God be merciful	C. F. Lloyd	6d.
God be merciful	S. S. Wesley	3d.
*God said, Behold I have given you every herb	G. A. Macfarren	6d.
*Great is the Lord	Bruce Steane	3d.
Great is the Lord	F. A. Gore Ouseley	6d.
*Great and marvellous are Thy works	J. F. Bridge	4d.
He in tears that soweth	F. Hiller	1½d.
He that soweth	C. W. Jordan	3d.
*Honour the Lord with thy substance	J. Stainer	4d.
*I will alway give thanks	J. Baptiste Calkin	1½d.
*I will feed My flock	J. F. Bridge	1½d.
I will give thanks unto Thee	E. J. Hopkins	6d.
*I will give thanks unto Thee	J. Barnby	4d.
I will greatly rejoice in the Lord	W. A. C. Cruickshank	4d.
*I will magnify Thee	J. B. Calkin	4d.
I will magnify Thee	J. Shaw	3d.
*I will magnify Thee, O God	J. Goss	3d.
I will magnify Thee	Oliver King	4d.
*I will open rivers in high places	Edgar Pettman	3d.
I will sing a new song	P. Armes	8d.
*Joy in Harvest	Bruce Steane	3d.
*Let us now fear the Lord our God	John E. West	1½d.
*Let all men praise the Lord	Mendelssohn	1½d.
*Lo! summer comes again	J. Stainer	6d.
Lo! the winter	B. Farebrother	3d.
*Lord of the Harvest	J. Barnby	4d.
Lord of the rich and golden grain (Harvest Hymn)	F. Tozer	2d.
Make melody within your hearts (Carol)	F. A. J. Hervey	3d.
Man goeth forth	Arthur Carnall	3d.
*My mouth shall speak the praise	J. E. West	4d.
*O come let us sing to the Lord	B. Tours	1½d.
O give thanks	W. Tucker	1½d.
O give thanks unto the Lord	W. Jackson, Jun.	1½d.
*O give thanks unto the Lord	Bruce Steane	3d.
*O God, who is like unto Thee	Myles B. Foster	1½d.
*O how plentiful is Thy goodness	T. M. Pattison	3d.
*O Lord, how manifold are Thy works	J. Barnby	1½d.
*O Lord, how manifold are Thy works	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
O praise God in His holiness	Hugh Blair	1½d.
*O praise God in His holiness	J. Weldon	1½d.
O praise the Lord	Mozart	1½d.
O praise the Lord	W. G. Wood	4d.
*O praise the Lord, all ye heathen	Earl of Wilton	1½d.
*O praise the Lord of Heaven	J. Goss	6d.
O pray for the peace of Jerusalem	Dr. B. Rogers	1½d.
O sing unto the Lord	W. A. C. Cruickshank	4d.
O sing unto the Lord	T. Palmer	4d.
O that men	R. Bartholomew	1s.
*O taste and see	J. Goss	3d.
*O taste and see	A. S. Sullivan	1½d.
Our God is Lord of the harvest	Emma Mundella	3d.
O worship the King	E. V. Hall	4d.
*Praise, my soul, the King of Heaven	E. V. Hall	3d.
*Praise, O praise our God and King	E. V. Hall	1½d.
*Praise the Lord	G. Elvey	4d.
Praise the Lord	Julius Benedict	8d.
Praise the Lord	J. M. Crament	4d.
*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	E. V. Hall	4d.
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	W. Hayes	4d.
*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	J. Scott	1½d.
*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	W. H. Bliss	3d.
*Praise the Lord, O my soul	H. Lahee	1½d.
Praise the Lord, O my soul	T. P. Royle	3d.
Praise the Lord, O my soul	J. W. Elliott	3d.
*Praise ye the Lord for His goodness	G. Garrett	1½d.
Praised be the Lord	C. Steggall	1/-
Praised be the Lord daily	T. Ebdon	1½d.
*Rejoice in the Lord	B. Tours	1½d.
Rejoice, O ye righteous	J. Rheinberger	3d.
*Sing praises to God	H. W. Wareing	1½d.
*Sing praises unto the Lord	W. A. C. Cruickshank	1½d.
*Sing to the Lord	J. Barnby	4d.
*Sing we merrily	F. A. W. Docker	4d.
Sing we merrily	E. V. Hall	4d.
Sowing and reaping (Carol)	J. Maude Crament	2d.
The earth is the Lord's	T. T. Trimnell	4d.
*The eyes of all wait on Thee	A. R. Gaul	1½d.
*The eyes of all wait on Thee	George J. Elvey	3d.
The eyes of all wait upon Thee	O. Gibbons	4d.
The eyes of all wait upon Thee, O Lord	Thomas Adams	3d.
The fostering earth, the genial showers	J. L. Hopkins	3d.
*The harvest-tide thanksgiving (Words, 1/6 per 100)	J. Barnby	1½d.
*The Lord hath been	S. S. Wesley	3d.
The Lord hath been mindful of us	E. T. Chipp	3d.
*The Lord hath done great things	H. Smart	4d.
*The Lord is loving unto every man	G. Garrett	3d.
The Lord is loving unto every man	A. W. Batson	3d.
*The souls of the righteous	W. Rea	6d.
*The sower went forth (hymn)	J. Barnby	1½d.
Thou art worthy	F. E. Gladstone	4d.
*Thou crownest the year with Thy goodness	Josiah Booth	1½d.
Thou, O God, art praised in Zion	E. V. Hall	3d.
*Thou visitest the earth and blessest it	W. H. Callcott	2d.
*Thou visitest the earth	J. Barnby	4d.
*Thou visitest the earth	J. W. Elliott	3d.
*Thou visitest the earth	M. Greene	1½d.
Thou visitest the earth	J. Baptiste Calkin	4d.
To Thee, O Lord	C. L. Williams	3d.
While the earth remaineth	C. Swinnerton Heap	4d.
*While the earth remaineth	B. Tours	1½d.
While the earth remaineth	C. Lee Williams	3d.
*Ye shall dwell (Trio, S.S.A.)	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Ye shall dwell in the land. S.A.T.B.	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Ye shall go out with joy	J. Barnby	4d.

 Also published in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 4d. each.*

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

DEMY 8VO, PRICE 6D.

A

Harvest Festival Book

CONTAINING

TALLIS'S PRECES AND RESPONSES

THE CANTICLES AND SPECIAL PSALMS

POINTED FOR CHANTING

And Set to New and Appropriate Chants by

SIR J. BARNBY, MYLES B. FOSTER,
DR. A. C. MACKENZIE, SIR J. STAINER,
AND OTHERS.

TOGETHER WITH

FOUR NEW HYMN TUNES

COMPOSED EXPRESSLY BY

SIR J. BARNBY, SIR J. STAINER, & J. E. WEST.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

THE CHURCH CATECHISM

IN METRICAL FORM, FOR SINGING AS HYMNS

BY THE

RIGHT REV. BISHOP JENNER & AMABEL JENNER.

Price 1d. each; in Packets of 50, 3s. 6d.

ALSO,

FAITH DUTY AND PRAYER

An Abridged Version of above

BEING VERSES ON THESE ELEMENTARY
CHRISTIAN VIRTUES

FOR THE USE OF

CHILDREN IN SCHOOL, AT WORSHIP, OR IN THE HOME.

Price 1d. each; in Packets of 50, 3s. 6d.

EDITIONS WITH MUSIC BY

MYLES B. FOSTER

Price Threepence each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

New Harvest Anthems.

Just Published.

SING TO THE LORD

BY

JOSEPH BARNBY.

Price Fourpence. Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.

O SING UNTO THE LORD

BY

W. A. C. CRUICKSHANK.

Price Fourpence.

SING WE MERRILY

BY

F. A. W. DOCKER.

Price Fourpence. Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.

THE EYES OF ALL WAIT ON THEE

BY

GEORGE J. ELVEY.

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THOU VISITEST THE EARTH

BY

J. W. ELLIOTT.

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

JOY IN HARVEST

BY

BRUCE STEANE.

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

LET US NOW FEAR THE LORD OUR GOD

BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price Three-Halfpence. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TWELVE HYMNS WITH TUNES FOR HARVEST

SELECTED FROM "THE HYMNARY."

PRICE ONE PENNY.

Sing to the Lord a joyful song	J. Barnby.
O Lord, the heaven Thy power displays	F. Ouseley.
Father, blessing every seed-time	J. B. Dykes.
Lord, in Thy Name Thy servants plead	W. Metcalfe.
The wintry time hath ended	H. J. Gauntlett.
Come, ye thankful people, come	George Elvey.
God, the Father, whose creation	H. Smart.
Lord of the harvest, Thee we hail	Anonymous.
Lo, summer comes again	E. B. Whyley.
Praise, O praise our Heavenly King	German.
Summer ended, harvest o'er	J. Adcock.
O Lord of heaven, and earth, and sea	S. S. Wesley.

London and New York: NOVELLO EWER and Co.

HARVEST CANTATAS

&c.

HARVEST SONG OF PRAISE

BY C. LEE WILLIAMS.

For Soprano and Contralto Soli and Chorus.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence; Words, 5s. per 100.

Orchestral Parts can be hired.

SEED-TIME AND HARVEST

BY JOHN E. WEST.

For Soprano and Tenor Soli and Chorus.

Price 2s.; Words, 5s. per 100, or 2d. each with Music to the Hymns.

Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.

HARVEST CANTATA

BY GEORGE GARRETT.

For Chorus, Semi-Chorus, and Organ.

Price 1s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 6d.; Words, 5s. per 100, or 2d. each with Music to the Hymns. Orchestral Parts may be hired.

HARVEST-TIDE

BY HUGH BLAIR.

For Tenor and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Organ or Small Orchestra.

Price One Shilling.

THE JUBILEE CANTATA

BY C. M. VON WEBER.

Vocal Score, 1s.; Full Score, 21s.; Orchestral Parts, 15s.; Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

THE GLEANERS' HARVEST

BY C. H. LLOYD.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

TWELVE HYMNS FOR HARVEST

Selected from The Hymnary.

Price One Penny.

SOWING AND REAPING

HARVEST CAROL BY J. MAUDE CRAMENT.

Price 2d.; Words only, 1s. per 100.

CHORUS AND DANCES OF REAPERS AND GLEANERS

BY F. H. COWEN.

From the Oratorio "Ruth."

Price Eightpence.

THE LAST LOAD

FOUR-PART SONG BY J. HAMILTON CLARKE.

Price Threepence.

THE HARVEST FEAST

FOUR-PART SONG BY A. R. GAUL.

Price 3d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.

THE HARVEST DANCE

TWO-PART SONG BY MYLES B. FOSTER.

Price Three-Halfpence.

HARVEST THANKSGIVING MARCH

BY J. B. CALKIN.

For the Organ.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Eleventh Edition.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY

DAILY SERVICE AND LITANY

TOGETHER WITH THE

VERSICLES FOR CERTAIN SPECIAL OCCASIONS

COLLATED FROM ANCIENT USAGES

BY

THE REV. S. FLOOD JONES, M.A.,

PRECENTOR

AND

J. FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus. Doc., Oxon.,

ORGANIST AND MASTER OF THE CHORISTERS.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

(Novello's Parish Choir Book, No. 281.)

TWO FLOWER SERVICE HYMNS

1. "HE DWELLS AMONG THE LILIES."
2. "FOR THE FRESHNESS OF THE MORNING."

BY THE

REV. W. ST. HILL BOURNE

FROM

THIRTY-ONE ORIGINAL TUNES TO POPULAR HYMNS.

COMPOSED BY

LADY EUAN-SMITH.

Price Twopence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ANTHEMS FOR TRINITYTIDE.

Almighty and everlasting God	Gibbons	1½d.
Ascribe unto the Lord	S. S. Wesley	8d.
Beloved, if God so loved us	J. Barnby	1½d.
Beloved, let us love one another	Gerard F. Cobb	1½d.
*Blessed is the man	John Goss	4d.
Blessing and glory	Boyce	1½d.
Blessing, glory	Bach	6d.
*God came from Teman	C. Steggall	4d.
*God so loved the world	Matthew Kingston	1½d.
Grant, O Lord	Mozart	1½d.
*Holy, holy, holy	Crotch	3d.
How goodly are Thy tents	F. Ouseley	1½d.
How lovely are Thy dwellings	Spohr	1½d.
*I am Alpha and Omega	J. Stainer	1½d.
I am Alpha and Omega	J. Varley Roberts	3d.
I beheld, and lo!	Blow	6d.
I know that the Lord is great	F. Ouseley	1½d.
*In humble faith	G. Garrett	1½d.
*In Jewry is God known	J. Clarke-Whitfeld	1½d.
In sweet consent	E. H. Thorne	3d.
In the fear of the Lord	J. V. Roberts	3d.
I saw the Lord	J. Stainer	6d.
I will magnify	J. Shaw	3d.
*I will sing of Thy power	Greene	4d.
I will sing of Thy power	A. Sullivan	1½d.
I will sing unto the Lord	H. Wareing	3d.
Let the peace of God	J. Stainer	4d.
*Lord, we pray Thee	J. V. Roberts	1½d.
O Father blest	J. Barnby	3d.
O Lord, my trust	King Hall	1½d.
*O taste and see	J. Goss	3d.
*O taste and see	A. Sullivan	1½d.
O taste and see	A. H. Mann	3d.
O where shall wisdom be found?	Boyce	6d.
Ponder my words, O Lord	Arnold D. Culley	1½d.
*Praise His awful Name	Spohr	2d.
Rejoice in the Lord	G. C. Martin	6d.
*See what love hath the Father	Mendelssohn	1d.
Sing to the Lord	Mendelssohn	8d.
*Stand up and bless	J. Goss	4d.
Teach me Thy way	W. H. Gladstone	1½d.
*The Lord hath been mindful	S. S. Wesley	3d.
*The Lord is my Shepherd	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
The Lord is my Shepherd	J. Shaw	3d.
The Lord will comfort Zion	H. Hiles	6d.
Thou shalt shew me the path of life	Alan Gray	1½d.
Whatsoever is born of God	H. Oakeley	3d.
Who can comprehend Thee	Mozart	3d.

 Anthems marked thus (* may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 2d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PERFORMED AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE ON JUNE 6.

KING HAROLD

AN HISTORICAL CANTATA

FOR

SOPRANO AND TENOR SOLI AND CHORUS

With Pianoforte (or Organ) Accompaniment

WORDS BY

REV. CHARLES KENT, M.A.

MUSIC BY

F. CUNNINGHAM WOODS, M.A.

Mus. Bac., Oxon.; F.R.C.O.; Organist of Highgate School, N.; late Organist of Exeter College, Oxford.

Specially written for performance at the Crystal Palace on June 6, 1896, by a Choir of 4,000 voices.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

Tonic Sol-fa, Ninepence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MUSIC

SUITABLE FOR USE AT THE

SERVICE OF HOLY MATRIMONY.

ANTHEMS AND HYMNS.

		s.	d.
Blessed are all they that fear the Lord	E. G. Monk	1	6
Vocal parts		1	0
Blessed are all they that fear the Lord	Sidney Naylor	0	9
Except the Lord build the house	F. A. G. Ouseley	0	6
Vocal parts		0	6
Father of Life. Hymn	Jas. Turle	0	3
Father of life	W. Creser	1	6
God, be merciful unto us	S. S. Wesley
Octavo		0	3
Vocal parts		1	0
Folio		1	6
O God, Thou art worthy	Arthur Sullivan
Vocal parts		1	0
Octavo		0	4
Tonic Sol-fa		0	1½
Folio		1	6
O Perfect Love (Anthem)	J. Barnby	0	3
Tonic Sol-fa		0	1
Ditto (Arranged as a Two-part Chorus). Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined		0	1½
Ditto (Hymn)	J. Barnby	0	1½
Holy Ghost, to earth descending	Antonin Dvorák	0	4
There was a marriage in Cana of Galilee	J. Stainer	0	3
Protect them, Almighty. Chorus	J. Barnby	0	3

ORGAN MUSIC.

Nuptial March	B. Luard Selby	1	0
Wedding March (Gounod), No. 1.	Arranged by G. C. Martin	2	0
Wedding March, No. 2.	Charles Gounod	2	0
Wedding March (Mendelssohn)	Arranged by W. T. Best	2	0
Wedding March ,,	Arranged by C. E. Willing	1	0
March in "Athalie" ,,	Arranged by Ch. Steggall	1	6
March in "Athalie" ,,	Arranged by W. T. Best	2	0
Benedictus (A. C. Mackenzie)	Arr. by C. Palmer and J. B. Lott	1	6
Largo (Handel)	Arranged by G. C. Martin	1	6
March in "Tannhäuser"	Arranged by F. Archer	2	0
Processional Wedding March	Henry R. Bird	1	0
A Wedding Piece	A. C. Mackenzie	1	0
The Bride's March ("Rebekah," J. Barnby)	Arr. by James Shaw	1	0
March in B flat	E. Silas	1	0
Grand March ("Lohengrin," Act III., Wagner)	W. Creser	1	0
Bridal Chorus ("Lohengrin," Wagner)	W. Creser	1	0
Wedding March	Composed by W. Creser	1	6

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

EDWYN A. CLARE'S

NEW HARVEST ANTHEMS, &c.

These compositions are very effective and not difficult.

HOW GREAT IS HIS GOODNESS. 5th 1,000. New For Parish Choirs, easy and effective. .. 3d.
FEAR NOT, O LAND. 4th 1,000. New and pretty .. .. .. 3d.
*THOU CROWNEST THE YEAR. 6th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
SING UNTO GOD WITH THANKSGIVING. 10th 1,000.. .. .. 4d.
Varied, effective, and pleasing for the Choir.
*THE EYES OF ALL WAIT UPON THEE. 24th 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.
Sung by 1,500 voices at Newcastle-on-Tyne.
PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. 16th 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.
Sung by 400 voices at Doncaster.
O LORD, HOW MANIFOLD ARE THY WORKS. 4th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
*THE LORD REIGNETH. 5th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in D. 8th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Sung at a Festival at Petersham, New South Wales.
Those marked (*) are also published in Tonic Sol-fa.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ARGRAFFIAD NEWYDD.

LLYFR

ANTHEMAU NOVELLO

DETHOLEDIG

O WEITHIAU Y PRIF GYFANSODDWYR

HEN A DIWEDDAR

WEDI EU CYFADDASU I

EIRIAU CYMRAEG

O DAN OLYGIAETH

JOHN H. ROBERTS

Mus. Bac., Cantab.

HEN NODIANT { PRIS PUM SWLLT. (Price Five Shillings.)
SOL-FFA { PRIS DAU SWLLT A CHWECHEINIOG. (Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.)

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HYMNS FOR SOLDIERS

SUITABLE FOR USE AT ALL

MILITARY SERVICES

SELECTED CHIEFLY FROM "THE HYMNARY"

BY THE

REV. ARTHUR ROBINS, M.A.

PRICE ONE PENNY.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

SUITABLE FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES AND CHURCH PURPOSES.

THE CHILDHOOD OF SAMUEL

A SACRED CANTATA

BY

C. T. REYNOLDS,

Mus. Doc., Oxon.

PRODUCED AT THE POWIS PROVINCIAL EISTEDDFOD, OSWESTRY, JUNE 11, 1896.

Price Two Shillings.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, One Shilling.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Twenty-fourth Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION

OF

527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c.

EDITED BY

B. ST. J. B. JOULE.

Reduced price, 4s. 6d., paper cover; 6s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.
Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Score, 1s. 6d.

The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

THE

Psalter, Proper Psalms, Hymns, and Canticles

POINTED FOR CHANTING

BY

B. ST. J. B. JOULE.

Large type, price 2s. 6d.

Tenth Edition.

JOULE'S

DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM

18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S

DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM

4to, in cloth, elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

THE

Order for the Holy Communion

HARMONISED ON A MONOTONE IN A VERY SIMPLE MANNER FOR PAROCHIAL USE

BY

B. ST. J. B. JOULE.

Price Threepence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

HINTS ON CHOIR TRAINING FOR COMPETITIONS

BY

W. G. McNAUGHT.

REPRINTED, WITH ADDITIONS, FROM

"THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW."

"No choir-trainer need be ashamed to learn from that experienced musician, Mr. W. G. McNaught, whose 'Hints on Choir Training for Competitions' have just been issued as a little pamphlet, price 2d., by Messrs. Novello. Mr. McNaught's remarks are addressed more especially to conductors and choirs who are about to take part in the competitions at Kendal, Carlisle, and Morecambe this month, but they will be found equally serviceable by others; and it is astonishing to note how Mr. McNaught has succeeded in compressing into so small a space hints on almost every point of importance to choral conductors. The clear arrangement of paragraphs under the various headings, 'Tone—blend—attack—intonation—rhythm—pace—phrasing,' &c., adds to the value of the book."—Musical News.

Price Twopence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

POSTHUMOUS WORKS

OF

SIR GEORGE J. ELVEY.

Just Published.

THE EYES OF ALL WAIT ON THEE

EASY ANTHEM FOR HARVEST

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

WHOM HAVE I IN HEAVEN BUT THEE

SHORT ANTHEM FOR GENERAL USE

Price Twopence.

SHALL I, WASTING IN DESPAIR

A FOUR-PART SONG (S.A.T.B.)

The Words written by G. WITHER (1588-1667)

Price Twopence.

In the Press.

TEACH ME, O LORD

ANTHEM FOR SEXAGESIMA OR GENERAL USE

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

THEY THAT GO DOWN TO THE SEA IN SHIPS

ANTHEM

Price Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

COMPLETE MORNING AND COMMUNION SERVICE

IN A

BY

MYLES B. FOSTER.

TE DEUM	6d.
BENEDICTUS	4d.
JUBILATE	3d.
COMMUNION	1s.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

Dedicated to, and performed by, G. RISELEY, Esq., Organist of the Cathedral and Colston Hall, Bristol.

POSTLUDE ALLA MENUETTO

FOR THE ORGAN

BY

J. WARRINER, MUS. DOC.

Trinity College, Dublin.

Post-free for One Shilling and Sixpence net, from the COMPOSER, Denmark Hill, London, S.E.

NOW READY.

NEW AND REVISED EDITIONS

OF THE

MASSES

COMPOSED BY

FRANZ SCHUBERT.

MASS IN F	1s.
„ IN G	1s.
„ IN B FLAT	1s.
„ IN C	1s.
„ IN E FLAT	2s.
„ IN A FLAT	1s.

EDITOR'S PREFACE.

In accordance with the Decree concerning Church Music, drawn up by the Sacred Congregation of Rites, and approved of by His Holiness, Pope Leo XIII., on the 7th of July, 1894, I have revised this edition of Schubert's Masses.

Article 10 of this Decree says:—"Every piece in which words are found to be omitted, deprived of their meaning, or indiscreetly repeated is forbidden."

Article 11 says:—"It is forbidden to break up into pieces, completely detached, the versicles which are necessarily interconnected."

While correcting the omissions which have been made in the text, I have altered the music as little as possible; but in no instance has the Composer's harmony been interfered with.

THOS. F. A. GALE, A.MUS., L.C.M.,
Organist and Director of the Choir,
St. Mary's, Clapham, London, S.W.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Suitable for Choir Festivals.

PRAISE THE LORD

ANTHEM

Composed, by request, for the Annual Festival in aid of the Burnley Victoria Hospital, 1896

BY

W. A. C. CRUICKSHANK,

Mus. Bac., Oxon.

Price Fourpence.
Full Score and Band Parts may be hired from the COMPOSER.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MESSRS. MOWBRAY have recently acquired the whole of the Copyrights and Publications of the late Mr. W. R. Bowden, Music Printer and Publisher, Oxford, including

THE MAGDALEN PSALTER

THE CANTICLES, CREED, PSALTER, AND PROPER PSALMS FOR FESTIVALS AND HOLY DAYS

Pointed for use in Magdalen College Chapel, Oxford.

BY THE REV. L. S. TUCKWELL, M.A.

(Formerly Precentor of the College), and

SIR JOHN STAINER, M.A., MUS. DOC.

Demy 18mo, cloth boards, 1s. 6d.; Demy 8vo, large type, cloth boards, 3s.

Canticles and Creed only, large size, 4d.; small size, 2d.

MOWBRAY and Co., Oxford; 64 and 65, Farringdon St., London, E.C.

WORKS

FOR

CHORAL SOCIETIES AND CHOIRS.

	s.	d.
THE SILVER STAR. Cantata. Ladies' voices	1	6
THE LORD IS MY SHEPHERD. 8vo	0	8
BY THE WATERS OF BABYLON. 8vo	1	0
Both for Chorus, without Soloists.
EVENTIDE. Part-Song. 8vo.	0	2

By N. KILBURN, Mus. B., Cantab.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

SHORT CANTATAS.

THE PIED PIPER OF HAMELIN
By ROBERT BROWNING
Set to Music for Tenor and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
RICHARD H. WALTHEW.

Price Two Shillings.

THE BLACK KNIGHT
Cantata for Chorus and Orchestra
The Poem by UHLAND; translated by LONGFELLOW
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
EDWARD ELGAR.

Price Two Shillings.

THE POWER OF SOUND
Cantata for Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
The Poem by WORDSWORTH
THE MUSIC BY
ARTHUR SOMERVELL.

Price Two Shillings. Tonic Sol-fa, One Shilling.

YOUNG LOCHINVAR
Ballad by Sir WALTER SCOTT
Set to Music for Baritone Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
ETHEL M. BOYCE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

ROBERT OF SICILY
Cantata for Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
Poem by LONGFELLOW
SET TO MUSIC BY
F. KILVINGTON HATTERSLEY.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

JOHN GILPIN
Ballad for Chorus and Orchestra
Words selected from COWPER'S Poem
SET TO MUSIC BY
S. P. WADDINGTON.

Price Two Shillings.

THE BALLAD OF CARMILHAN
By HENRY LONGFELLOW
Set to Music for Baritone Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
A. DAVIDSON ARNOTT.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence. Tonic Sol-fa, 1s. 6d.

THE DREAM OF JUBAL
A Poem with Music
For Soprano and Tenor Soli, Chorus, Orchestra, and Accompanied Recitation
Written by JOSEPH BENNETT
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
A. C. MACKENZIE.
(Op. 41.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
Paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.

THE FORSAKEN MERMAN
Written by MATTHEW ARNOLD
Set for Bass Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
ARTHUR SOMERVELL.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE
ROMANCE OF THE ROSES
For Soprano and Tenor Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
The Words written by ELLIS WALTON
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY OLIVER KING.
(Op. 80.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

MANFRED
A Dramatic Poem, in Three Acts, by LORD BYRON
Composed for Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra, with Accompanied Recitation
BY
ROBERT SCHUMANN.

Price One Shilling. Cloth, gilt, 2s. 6d.

HERVÉ RIEL
A Poem by ROBERT BROWNING
Set to Music for Baritone Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
H. WALFORD DAVIES.

Price One Shilling.

THE INCHCAPE ROCK
Ballad by ROBERT SOUTHEY
Set to Music for Chorus and Orchestra
BY
J. FREDERICK BRIDGE.

Price One Shilling.

THE BRIDE
For Soprano and Tenor Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
The Words translated from the German of R. HAMERLING
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
A. C. MACKENZIE.

Price One Shilling.

ODE TO THE WEST WIND
A Poem by SHELLEY
Set to Music for Tenor Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY CHARLES WOOD.

Price One Shilling.

THE WRECK OF THE HESPERUS
By LONGFELLOW
Set to Music for Soprano, Tenor, and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
HERBERT W. WAREING.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE LAY OF THE BROWN ROSARY
The Words adapted from the Poem of ELIZABETH BARRETT BROWNING
Set to Music for Soprano and Contralto Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
ETHEL M. BOYCE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE BALLAD OF
SIR OGIE AND THE LADIE ELSIE
Englished from the 16th Century Danish Ballad "AAGE OG ELSE"
by FREDERICK YORK POWELL
Set to Music for Mezzo-Soprano and Baritone Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
CHARLES HARFORD LLOYD.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

CLOTH, SMALL DEMY 8VO. PRICE 3S. 6D.

NEW AND ENLARGED EDITION

OF

THE DAY SCHOOL HYMN-BOOK

EDITED BY

EMMA MUNDELLA.

Numerous Tunes have been written expressly for this Edition by

SIR JOHN STAINER — PROFESSOR J. F. BRIDGE

DR. C. HUBERT H. PARRY — DR. G. C. MARTIN

And others.

And it also includes a hitherto unpublished Tune by

REV. J. B. DYKES.

The Hymns have been selected from the Works of the best Ancient and Modern Writers of sacred verse, and a selection of the finest

FRENCH, GERMAN, AND LATIN HYMNS

(In their original language)

HAS ALSO BEEN INCLUDED.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

COMPOSED FOR THE PLAY AT THE LYCEUM THEATRE, SEPTEMBER, 1895.

THE MUSIC

TO

ROMEO AND JULIET

BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

The following arrangements by the Composer are published:—

PAVANE (Dance from Act I.), for Pianoforte Solo, Pianoforte Duet, and Violin and Pianoforte, price 2s. each.

NOCTURNE, for Pianoforte Solo; PASTORALE, for Pianoforte; and Violin and Pianoforte; and SELECTION OF THEMES, for Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. each.

SUITE, consisting of—1. Prelude; 2. Pastorale; 3. Pavane; 4. Nocturne; 5. Dramatic Interlude, for Pianoforte Duet, price 5s. complete.

Now Ready.

String Parts, 10s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 27s. 6d.

The parts of each movement are published separately.

PRODUCED WITH GREAT SUCCESS AT THE LEEDS TRIENNIAL FESTIVAL, OCTOBER 3, 1895.

(Played at the Philharmonic Society's Concert, Queen's Hall, London, on May 20, 1896.)

SUITE IN D MINOR

BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

1. Prelude (Allegro moderato, C).
2. Valse Gracieuse (Allegro, $\frac{3}{8}$).
3. Elegy (Andante, $\frac{3}{4}$).
4. Saltarelle (Presto, $\frac{6}{8}$)

String Parts, 13s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 26s. 6d.; Full Score, MS.

VALSE GRACIEUSE, from above, arranged for Pianoforte Solo, 2s., and Pianoforte Duet, 3s.; String Parts, 4s. Wind Parts, 10s. (now ready).

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

(No. 52. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Music Primers and Educational Series. Edited by Sir JOHN STAINER and Dr. C. HUBERT H. PARRY.)

A Description and History

OF THE

PIANOFORTE

AND

OF THE OLDER KEYBOARD STRINGED INSTRUMENTS

BY

A. J. HIPKINS, F.S.A.

Author of the Articles on the Pianoforte in the "Dictionary of Music and Musicians" and in the "Encyclopædia Britannica," also of "Musical Instruments, Historic, Rare and Unique."

THE WOOD ENGRAVINGS BY JOHN HIPKINS.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
In paper boards, Three Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

Performed with great success at the Leeds Triennial Musical Festival, 1895.

VALSE GRACIEUSE

FROM THE

SUITE IN D MINOR

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo	.. ..	2s.
String Parts .. .. " Duet	.. ..	3s.
Wind Parts		4s.
		10s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

A DREAM OF LOVE

SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

EDWARD OXENFORD

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

In C and A. Price Two Shillings each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

THE CAPTIVE SOUL

CANTATA

FOR

SOPRANO, MEZZO-SOPRANO, CONTRALTO AND TENOR SOLI AND CHORUS OF FEMALE VOICES

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

ETHEL C. PEDLEY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

E. M. WOOLLEY.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

LETTERS FROM BAYREUTH

DESCRIPTIVE AND CRITICAL

OF WAGNER'S

"DER RING DES NIBELUNGEN"

WITH AN APPENDIX

BY

JOSEPH BENNETT

(Special Correspondent of the Daily Telegraph).

Price One Shilling.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

JUDEX

FROM

MORS ET VITA

COMPOSED BY

CH. GOUNOD.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE PIANOFORTE, AND VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE, BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price Two Shillings each net.

ARRANGEMENT FOR ORCHESTRA ALONE.	s.	d.
Full Score	3	6
String parts	1	3
Wind parts	4	9

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PARIS: ALPHONSE LEDUC,

EDITEUR, 3, RUE DE GRAMMONT.

GRAND SUCCÈS

EMILE FISCHER

A CŒUR JOIE

POLKA.

	Pr. net.
Pour PIANO. Edition Simplifiée	0 85
„ PIANO. Edition Originale	1 65
„ PIANO. Edition à 4 mains	2 50
„ PIANO ET CLARINETTE	2 00
„ PIANO ET CORNET	2 00
„ PIANO ET FLUTE	2 00
„ PIANO ET VIOLON	2 00
„ ORCHESTRE	1 50
„ FANFARE	1 50

Just Published.

MELODY IN A

FOR

VIOLIN (OR FLUTE)

With Accompaniment for the Pianoforte

COMPOSED BY

FRANK MOIR.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO'S OPERETTAS AND CANTATAS.

PRESS NOTICES OF RECENT PUBLICATIONS.

THE WAITS OF BREMEN.

A SHORT HUMOROUS CANTATA FOR CHILDREN.

SHAPCOTT WENSLEY. B. LUARD SELBY.

"'The Waits of Bremen,' humorous cantata for children, published in the School Music Series, is an exceedingly captivating work. Shapcott Wensley has admirably 'versified' the fable found in the pages of Grimm, and Bertram Luard Selby has set it to bright, and in some respects, sparkling music in both notations. The charming and amusing cantata should become a general favourite with juveniles."—Bristol Times.

"The music is simple and catching, and specially suitable for children, for whom it is written."—Glasgow Herald.

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, 1s. 6d.
Tonic Sol-fa, 6d.

THE HOURS.

OPERETTA FOR FEMALE VOICES.

SHAPCOTT WENSLEY. J. L. ROECKEL.

"In 'The Hours,' a cantata for female voices, by J. L. Roeckel, Mr. Shapcott Wensley has written a graceful little allegory, and collaborated with the composer of the melodious and dramatic music in producing a refined and charming work. The properties and scenes are easily attainable, and the number of the dramatis personæ may be readily increased by lengthening the series of 'The Hours.'"—Educational Times.

"There are ample directions for an effective stage representation, and some capital tableaux could be arranged. Beautiful music, and withal well contrasted, pervades the work."—Liverpool Courier.

"'The Hours,' by J. L. Roeckel, is melodious and very graceful."—The Times.

"It is admirably suited for its purpose."—Scotsman.

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, 2s.
Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

THE ENCHANTED PALACE.

OPERETTA FOR FEMALE VOICES.

SHAPCOTT WENSLEY. ARTHUR SOMERVELL.

"Mr. Arthur Somervell's 'Enchanted Palace' is an exceedingly pretty treatment in easy operatic form of the Sleeping Beauty story; there is plenty of fun in it, the libretto by Shapcott Wensley provides speaking as well as singing parts, and the whole is as graceful an entertainment for the purpose as could be imagined. The Princess's last song has a deeper expression than the rest of the little work, and both it and the lovely waltz deserve to be heard apart from the piece as a whole."—The Times.

"We must commend a charming operetta by Shapcott Wensley and Arthur Somervell."—Daily Telegraph.

"There are numbers in this operetta, quite equal, if not superior in point of originality and effectiveness to what one can only hope to find in a serious attempt at composition."—Musical Opinion.

"The story of the Sleeping Beauty retold by eight singing and three spoken parts. The music, while thoroughly modern, is not beyond the ability of children. It is musicianly and charming in the highest degree."—Schoolmaster.

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, 2s.
Tonic Sol-fa, 8d.

AROUND THE WINTER FIRE.

CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES.

SHAPCOTT WENSLEY. A. R. GAUL.

"The music is bright and well devised for tender voices."—Manchester Guardian.

"The music is most beautifully written, especially the delightful sixth solo, ''Twas when the grass with dew was sweet,' but this is only one out of many good numbers."—Church Times.

"Mr. Gaul has done his work well, the cantata being brightly written and full of melodic beauty."—Liverpool Courier.

Staff Notation, 2s. Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

THE ROSE OF LIFE.

CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES.

CLIFTON BINGHAM. F. H. COWEN.

"Mr. Cowen is evidently fond of flowers generally, and of roses particularly; and he always writes happily when they inspire him. He does so decidedly in this instance, and we strongly recommend the gracefully sentimental little work to moderately well trained ladies' classes."—Manchester Courier.

"Mr. Cowen is never happier than when writing for female voices. The work contains solos for three voices, and there is also an instrumental intermezzo; but the gem of the cantata is the last chorus ''Tis the Rose, the Rose of Sharon.' A finer chorus has seldom been written for female voices alone."—Church Bells.

"A highly meritorious work."—Bristol Times.

"A delightful cantata for female voices."—Daily Telegraph.

Staff Notation, 2s.
Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

HORNPIPE HARRY;

OR THE "SQUIB" AND THE "SUNBEAM."

A COMIC OPERA FOR BOYS, IN TWO ACTS.

WORDS AND MUSIC BY HAMILTON CLARKE.

"This will be found a very entertaining work. The subject is of the fraternization of two boats' crews that have been thrown by accident upon adjacent islands, and it is treated very humorously. But it is to the music that most interest will attach. It is of course to be expected that this would be of a more or less 'hornpipy' or nautical character. But we were totally unprepared for the boisterous jocularity that appears in one part of the work in which are introduced snatches from well-known sailors' songs following each other in the composition of a spirited melody that cannot fail to bring down the house."—The Journal of Education.

"The operetta is breezily scored with an appropriate nautical flavour in all the music, a feature of which is the brightly-written hornpipe which also figures in the overture."—Liverpool Courier.

"There is a healthy ring in the music and words that cannot fail to appeal to all hearers."—Musical Opinion.

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, 2s. 6d.
Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUES FREE ON APPLICATION.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S

ALBUMS FOR PIANOFORTE

AND

STRINGED INSTRUMENTS

(Two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello).

The Pieces in these Albums are so arranged that if any Part, or Combination of Parts, in addition to the First Violin and Pianoforte are used they will sound complete.
They may also be played by a Quintet, or small Orchestra, of Stringed Instruments, with or without Pianoforte.

No. 1.

SUITE OF FOUR PIECES

BY ARNOLD DOLMETSCH.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 2.

SUITE OF FIVE PIECES

BY HENRY PURCELL.

The Pianoforte Accompaniment, Marks of Expression, Bowing, and Fingering by ARNOLD DOLMETSCH.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 3.

THREE DANCES

From the Music to "Henry VIII."

BY EDWARD GERMAN.

Price 5s. Separate String Parts, 1s. each.

No. 4.

GAVOTTE IN D

BY RAMEAU.

Arranged by BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 5.

SIX PIECES FROM THE WATER MUSIC

COMPOSED BY G. F. HANDEL.

Arranged by BERTHOLD TOURS.

1. Bourrée in F. | 3. Minuet in F. | 5. Aria in G.
2. Air in F. | 4. Hornpipe in F. | 6. Allegro in D.

Price 3s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 6.

TWO BOURRÉES

COMPOSED BY G. F. HANDEL.

Arranged by BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price 2s. Separate String Parts, 3d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PERFORMED AT THE PHILHARMONIC CONCERT,
Queen's Hall, London, March 19, 1896, under the direction of the COMPOSER.

SYMPHONY IN G

(No. 4)

FOR FULL ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

ANTONÍN DVOŘÁK.

(Op. 88.)

Full Score	30s.
String Parts	10s.
Wind Parts	22s.
Arrangement for Pianoforte Duet, by the Composer	10s. 6d.

In the Press.

The famous ALLEGRETTO GRAZIOSO from the above, arranged for Violin and Pianoforte, by S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR. Price 2s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO'S

MUSIC FOR MILITARY BAND

ARRANGED BY

DAN GODFREY, JUN.,

AND

GEORGE MILLER.

		s.	d.
GIPSY SUITE	Edward German	15	0
THREE DANCES ("Henry VIII.")	Edward German	15	0
SIX SACRED PIECES	Gounod	10	6
THE REDEMPTION (Selection)	Gounod	15	0
BENEDICTUS ("Six Pieces for Violin")	A. C. Mackenzie	5	0
WEDDING MARCH	William Creser	3	6
BALLET MUSIC ("Colomba")	A. C. Mackenzie	15	0
MORS ET VITA (Selection)	Gounod	15	0
THE EMPIRE FLAG	A. C. Mackenzie	5	0
HUSARENRITT	Fritz Spindler	7	6
POLONAISE ("Life for the Czar")	Glinka	12	0
COURANTE ("Ravenswood")	A. C. Mackenzie	12	0
GAVOTTE	Rameau	4	6
ORCHESTRAL BALLAD	Stewart Macpherson	15	0
EMPEROR GAVOTTE (Cornflower)	Ch. Morley	2	6

Recent additions:—

WESTWOOD GAVOTTE	Battison Haynes	5	0
SOLEMN MARCH	George Miller	3	6
MARCHE MILITAIRE	Tschaïkowsky	15	0
OVERTURE TO "RICHARD III."	Edward German	12	0
GRANDE VALSE ("Faust" Ballet)	Ernest Ford	10	6

In the Press:—

FOUR ENGLISH DANCES IN THE OLDEN STYLE	F. H. Cowen
FESTIVAL MARCH (Aennchen von Tharau)	H. Hofmann
MARCHE SOLENNELLE	Gounod
MARCH (from "St. Polycarp")	Ouseley
RUSTIC PICTURES ("Kirmess")	H. Hofmann
CALVARY (Selection)	Spohr

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

GRANDE VALSE

FROM THE

FAUST BALLET

COMPOSED BY

ERNEST FORD.

ARRANGED FOR THE PIANOFORTE BY
I. A. DE ORELLANA.
Price Two Shillings.

ARRANGEMENT FOR MILITARY BAND
BY
GEORGE MILLER.
Price Ten Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE LIFE OF

Sir Frederick Gore Ouseley

BY

F. W. JOYCE, M.A.

WITH PORTRAITS AND ILLUSTRATIONS. Crown 8vo, 7s. 6d.

"The book contains some good stories."—Daily News.
"An admirable and interesting memoir."—Scotsman.
"A life of a very remarkable man."—Family Churchman.
"It places on record the services rendered by Ouseley to music in England. We are grateful to Mr. Joyce for making us acquainted with such an interesting personality."—Pall Mall Gazette.

Messrs. Methuen's Catalogue and "Book Gazette" sent to any address.

METHUEN and Co., 36, Essex Street, W.C.

Just Published.

OLD ENGLISH SUITE

FOR FULL ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED AND DEDICATED, BY PERMISSION, TO

H.R.H. THE DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG AND GOTHA
(Duke of Edinburgh, K.G.)

BY

W. CRESER.

1. THE GREETING. 2. CONVIVIALITY.
3. MERRY DROLLERY.

Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo by the Composer.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
String Parts, Four Shillings and Sixpence.
Full Score and Wind Parts, MS.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

WESTWOOD GAVOTTE

COMPOSED BY

BATTISON HAYNES.

For Pianoforte Solo, price Two Shillings.
For Violin and Pianoforte, price Two Shillings.

ARRANGEMENT FOR MILITARY BAND

BY

DAN GODFREY, Jun.

Price 5s.
String Parts for Full or Small Orchestra, price 2s.
Wind Parts: Full Orchestra, 4s. 3d.; Small Orchestra, 2s. 9d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

A DAY IN SUMMER

A JUVENILE CANTATA

FOR SOLO VOICES AND TWO-PART CHORUS

Specially composed for the use of Schools and Classes or Juvenile Concerts and Entertainments.

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

ANTONY TEMPLEMORE

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

JOSEPH H. ADAMS.

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, price 1s. 6d.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 8d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

WEBSTER'S
GROUNDWORK OF MUSIC. Book I.
4th Edition. 1s.; Key, 1s. 6d.

WEBSTER'S
GROUNDWORK OF MUSIC. Book II.
3rd Edition. 1s.; Key, 1s. 6d.

WEBSTER'S
CHILD'S PRIMER OF THE THEORY OF MUSIC.
3rd Edition. 1s.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

VOL. III. of "THE NEW MUSICAL EDUCATOR," a Library of Musical Instruction, by eminent specialists, edited by John Greig, Mus. Doc., Oxon., is now ready. The publishers wish to offer this through the profession and not through shops. Masters and Teachers, in London and Home Counties, wishing to support the new idea, fullest advantages, apply W. R. Howell & Co. Bedford Row Chambers, Theobald's Rd., W.C.

JUST PUBLISHED.

PERFORMED WITH GREAT SUCCESS AT ST. JAMES'S HALL, LONDON, May 11, 1896.

FOUR ENGLISH DANCES

IN THE OLDEN STYLE

COMPOSED BY

F. H. COWEN.

1. STATELY DANCE. | 3. GRACEFUL DANCE.
2. RUSTIC DANCE. | 4. COUNTRY DANCE.

Pianoforte Solo ..	2s. 6d.	String Parts	6s. od.
Violin & Pianoforte	3s. od.	Wind Parts	12s. od.

Arrangements for Military Band, and Small Orchestra, in the Press.

THE TIMES.

A special attraction of the concert was the first performance, under the composer's direction, of a new Suite of "Four English Dances," by Mr. F. H. Cowen, a work no less effective and graceful than the Suite given last week at the Philharmonic. The opening movement, a "Stately Dance," is exceedingly characteristic and original; the second, a "Rustic Dance," has, among prominent parts for wood-wind instruments, a delightful flourish for oboe; the succeeding "Graceful Dance," though a good deal like several other compositions of Mr. Cowen, prepares well for the final "Country Dance," a most attractive measure.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

These pieces, written for the most part "in the old style," are agreeable examples of a composer who is never at fault when he sets himself to charm by simple and graceful means. Orchestral societies desiring to cultivate works that are not too heavily strewn with stumbling-blocks cannot do better than make the acquaintance of this pleasing little Suite.

STANDARD.

A feature of the evening was the first performance of Four English Dances, written for orchestra by Mr. F. H. Cowen. These are respectively named "Stately Dance," "Rustic Dance," "Graceful Dance," and "Country Dance," names which well describe their several characters. As may be imagined, they are all scored in a most picturesque manner. They were excellently played under the direction of the composer, and the double recall he received to the platform testified to the pleasure his work had afforded the audience.

DAILY NEWS.

These brief, but highly effective, pieces avowedly imitate the old style, and they are entitled respectively a "stately" dance, a "rustic" dance—very quaint and pretty, and not without its traces of humour—a graceful, and a country dance. The composer, who conducted, was recalled to the platform, and his new Suite will beyond much question be heard of again.

MORNING POST.

Additional interest was imparted to the programme by its inclusion of "Four English Dances" for orchestra, by Mr. F. H. Cowen, which were heard on this occasion for the first time. These are attractive imitations of the forms in which our forefathers took delight. They are all most effectively scored, and are of that graceful and refined character which is expected in works by this gifted writer. They were warmly received, and doubtless will be often heard at the concerts of amateur orchestral societies, for which they are very suitable.

GLOBE.

An orchestral concert, under Mr. Cowen, was given last night at the St. James's Hall. Four charming English Dances in the old style, by Mr. Cowen, were performed for the first time, and achieved an undoubted success.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO'S COLLECTION
OF WORDS
OF ANTHEMS.

PRICE 4s. 6d.

This is an entirely new and greatly enlarged edition of the Collection originally compiled by the Rev. W. Rayson, M.A., Sir John Stainer, M.A., Mus. Doc., and the Rev. J. Troutbeck, D.D.

This Book, which contains the Words of over 1,500 Anthems, besides being admirably adapted for the use of Choirs and Congregations, for which purpose it was originally compiled, will be found most valuable to Organists, Choirmasters, and the Clergy AS A BOOK OF REFERENCE FOR THE SELECTION OF ANTHEMS SUITABLE FOR SPECIAL DAYS, SEASONS, OR OCCASIONS. It also contains a list of Anthems suitable for Men's Voices, and Anthems with Latin words.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Seventh Edition.

The river floweth strong, my love

PART-SONG FOR S.A.T.B.

Words by E. RIDGWAY.

MUSIC COMPOSED BY ROLAND ROGERS.

Price Fourpence; Sol-fa, Twopence.

Sung with immense success by Eaton Faning's Select Choir at the Ballad Concerts, St. James's Hall; Wolverhampton Festival Choral Society, the Chester Festival Choral Society, the Cambrian Choral Society (Birkenhead), Huddersfield Glee and Madrigal Society, &c.

Also, NEW PART-SONG, by same COMPOSER.

THREE FISHERS WENT SAILING

Words by KINGSLEY.

Old Notation, Fourpence; Sol-fa, Twopence.

"An immense success."

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

METZLER'S HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

*Bold Turpin (Dr. Bridge). Mixed voices	4d.
*The Goose (Dr. Bridge). Mixed voices	6d.
*Hey Diddle Diddle (Vinning). Mixed voices	4d.
Shelter (Gladstone). Male voices	3d.
Humpty Dumpty (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	net 6d.
*Little Jack Horner (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed or Male voices	„ 6d.
Jack and Jill (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	„ 4d.
*The House that Jack built (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	„ 6d.
*The Haymakers (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	„ 4d.
Out on the Waters (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	„ 4d.
*Yule (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	„ 4d.
*The Sobbing Quartet (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	„ 3d.
*Poor Little Tom-ee (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	„ 6d.
*Where are you going to, &c.? (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	„ 6d.
*The Boy and the Bee (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed voices	„ 6d.
The Spider and the Fly (A. J. Caldicott). Mixed or Male voices	net 6d.

Published in Tonic Sol-fa Notation, 2d. each.

SUCCESSFUL CANTATAS.

ROBIN HOOD (Soli and Chorus) .. .. T. L. Hatton.
Vocal score, 2s. 6d. net; Chorus parts, 6d. each net.

ST. URSULA (Soli and Chorus) .. .. F. H. Cowen.
Vocal score, 4s. net; Chorus parts, 1s. each net.

HARVEST HOME (Soli and Chorus) .. .. G. B. Allen.
Vocal score, 2s. 6d. net; Chorus parts, 6d. each net.

THE FISHERS (Soli and Chorus) .. .. J. M. Coward.
Vocal score, 4s. net; Chorus parts, 8d. each net.

BABES IN THE WOOD (Soli and Chorus) .. .. .. George Fox.
Vocal score, 2s. 6d. net.

London: METZLER & Co., Ltd., 40 to 43, Great Marlborough St., W.

Just Published.

THE HISTORY
OF MENDELSSOHN'S ORATORIO
"ELIJAH"
BY
F. G. EDWARDS.

WITH AN INTRODUCTION BY SIR GEORGE GROVE, C.B.

And a number of Portraits, including a hitherto unpublished one of the COMPOSER, and Fac-similes.

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence.

THE TIMES.

Another work of distinct value to musical historians. . . . There are several portraits of those who took part in the original performance, and one most interesting portrait of Mendelssohn from a drawing in the possession of Mrs. Victor Benecke. The work of compiling the necessary information has been excellently done, and the publication comes as a fitting celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the production of the work.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

Mr. F. G. Edwards's "History of Mendelssohn's Oratorio 'Elijah'" comes with admirable propriety in the jubilee year of that great work. . . . Mr. Edwards's book contains, of course, much that is familiar to students of Mendelssohn, and even to the casual readers of musical biography, but the author is able to set forth no little which fairly claims attention as new. There are, for example, various letters from the composer not heretofore made public, and full of interest for those to whom the details of a great work are attractive. Herein lies the chief value of the book.

DAILY NEWS.

Those who wish to read a full and authentic account of the conception and production of this oratorio cannot do better than consult Mr. F. G. Edwards's "History of Mendelssohn's 'Elijah,'" which has just been published by Messrs. Novello. Much of the matter dealt with is, of course, already known, but Mr. Edwards has unearthed several new facts and a good deal of hitherto unpublished correspondence.

THE MORNING.

An interesting addition to musical literature has just been made in the shape of "The History of Mendelssohn's Oratorio 'Elijah,'" written by F. G. Edwards, and published by Novello, Ewer and Co. The work is largely made up of letters from and to Mendelssohn. . . . The earlier letters are particularly interesting, showing as they do the extraordinary pains taken by the composer to make the "Elijah" as perfect as possible.

THE QUEEN.

A very interesting History of that popular oratorio. The volume is issued in a cheap form, and consists of some hundred and forty pages. . . . Many of Mendelssohn's letters printed in the book are now made public for the first time, and Sir George Grove has written a brief introduction to the volume.

THE SCOTSMAN.

Mr. Edwards's story of the famous oratorio is well told, and its value is enhanced by the fact that many of the letters, as well as a new portrait and a fac-simile of a page of the correspondence with Bartholomew, now appear for the first time, and help to freshen the narrative of facts and dates.

BRISTOL TIMES AND MIRROR.

A more appropriate volume than this acceptable and opportune work could hardly be published at the present juncture. . . . Mr. Edwards, who is at all times a painstaking and trustworthy writer, has evidently discharged his task on the present occasion with zeal as well as care, and the result of his labours will be treasured by musicians as a valuable memento of the fiftieth anniversary of the production of "Elijah" in the capital of the Midlands. Those who have already read a good deal concerning Mendelssohn and his works will, in the volume under notice, find much that is new and of absorbing interest. . . . The book is made all the more valuable by a well and carefully-prepared index.

BIRMINGHAM NEWS.

It ought to find its way into the hands of all music-lovers, forming, as it does, one of the richest additions of recent years to musical literature. The value of the book is materially enhanced by the reproduction of the fac-simile of a letter written by Mendelssohn to Wm. Bartholomew, the English translator of "Elijah," from the original in the possession of Mr. F. G. Edwards.

BIRMINGHAM GAZETTE.

In all appropriateness, and certain of a wide welcome, comes "The History of Mendelssohn's Oratorio, 'Elijah,'" by F. G. Edwards, and published by Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. . . . We can only refer readers to Mr. Edwards's book, which will be found a critical and intelligent appreciation of the great composer, and a treasure-house of wealth in the matter of musical details of an historical character. It is supplied with portraits of Mendelssohn at the age of twenty-six, of Mr. Joseph Moore, and others, and fac-similes of various letters of an interesting character.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just Published.

THE OULD PLAID SHAWL

SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

FRANCIS H. FAHY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

BATTISON HAYNES.

Not far from old Kinvara, in the merry month of May,
When birds were singing cheerily there came across my way,
As if from out the sky above an angel chanced to fall,
A little Irish colleen in an ould plaid shawl.
She tripped along right joyously, a basket on her arm;
And oh! her face, and oh! her grace the soul of saint would charm,
Her brown hair rippled o'er her brow, but greatest charm of all
Was her modest blue eyes beaming 'neath her ould plaid shawl.

I courteously saluted her, "God save you, Miss," says I,
"God save you kindly, Sir," says she, and shyly passed me by.
Off went my heart along with her, a captive in her thrall,
Imprisoned in the corner of her ould plaid shawl.
Enchanted with her beauty rare, I gazed in pure delight,
Till round an angle of the road she vanished from my sight,
But ever since I sighing say, as I that scene recall—
"The grace of God about you and your ould plaid shawl."

Oh, some men sigh for riches and some men live for fame,
And some on history's pages hope to win a glorious name;
My aims are not ambitious and my wishes are but small,
You might wrap them all together in an ould plaid shawl.
I'll seek her all through Galway, and I'll seek her all through Clare,
I'll search for tale or tidings of my trav'ler everywhere,
For peace of mind I'll never find until my own I call
That little Irish colleen in her ould plaid shawl.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

THE HESPERUS

CANTATA FOR SOPRANO, BARITONE, AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA

THE POETRY BY LONGFELLOW

THE MUSIC BY

J. F. H. READ.

Price 1s. 6d.; Vocal Parts also, in Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

By the same Composer:

THE

DEATH OF YOUNG ROMILLY

CHORAL BALLAD FOR CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA

THE POETRY BY WORDSWORTH.

Dedicated, by special permission, to H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES.

FOR MEN'S VOICES.

Sung by the STOCK EXCHANGE CHORAL SOCIETY.

IN THE FOREST

CANTATA FOR BARITONE SOLO, CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TWENTY-FOUR

VOCAL EXERCISES

FOR

MEZZO-SOPRANO

BY

MARCO BORDOGNI.

EDITED, WITH MARKS OF EXPRESSION AND PHRASING, BY

ALBERTO RANDEGGER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

	s.	d.
ANDERSEN, J.—Three Pieces. For Flute and Piano. Op. 57:—
No. 1. Le Calme	3	0
„ 2. Sérénade mélancolique	3	0
„ 3. Le Tourbillon	3	0
—— Deuxième morceau de Concert. For Flute and Pianoforte. Op. 61 .. .. net	3	0
—— Introduction et Caprice sur des airs hongrois. For Flute and Pianoforte. Op. 58 .. .. net	3	0
—— Swedish Polska-Lieder. For Flute and Pianoforte. Op. 50. Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 .. .. each	3	0
BACH, J. S.—"Le Clavecin bien tempéré." New edition, by F. WOUTENS. Two Vols. .. .. each, net	4	0
BLOCH, JOS.—Suite. For String Orchestra. Op. 6.:—
Score .. .. net	6	0
Parts .. .. „	10	0
—— 2nd Suite. For String Orchestra. Op. 10:—
Score .. .. net	8	0
Parts .. .. „	14	0
BOELLMANN, L.—Symphonie (in F major):—
Full Score .. .. net	15	0
—— Two Pieces. For Violoncello and Pianoforte:—
No. 1. Valse lente	5	0
„ 2. Menuet	6	0
BOISDEFFRE, R. DE.—Troisième Sonate. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 67	16	0
—— Sérénade. For Flute, Violin, and Pianoforte. Op. 85 ..	7	0
CLAUS, H.—Three Pieces. For Harmonium. Op. 31:—
Ave Maria, Kyrie, Gloria	4	0
FRANK, R.—Trio. For Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello. Op. 20 .. .. net	8	0
FRITZSCH, E.—Two Pieces. For Violin and Pianoforte. No. 1. Love Song; No. 2. Boléro .. .. each, net	1	6
FUCHS, A.—Sonata. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 27 net	7	6
GIGOUT.—Three Pieces. For Organ .. complete net	5	0
No. 1. Prelude et Fugue .. .. „	2	0
„ 2. Andante varié .. .. „	1	6
„ 3. Allegro con brio .. .. „	2	6
GLAZOUNOW, A.—Deuxième Valse. For Pianoforte Duet. net	3	0
GRETCHANINOW, A.—"Regrets." For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 9	3	0
HANDEL.—Three Fugues. For Harmonium. No. 1. F major; No. 2. B minor; No. 3. C minor .. .. each	2	0
HEINISCH, V.—Romanza. For Harp and Violin (Viola or Violoncello) .. .. each	4	0
HERZOG, J. G.—Sonata (in F minor). For the Organ. Op. 69 net	3	0
HOFMANN, R.—Deux danses espagnoles. For Violin (or Violoncello) and Pianoforte. Op. 76 .. .. each, net	2	0
—— Duets for Two Violins, from the Works of the Old Masters. For Beginners:—
Book I. (In the First Position). Nos. 1 to 45 .. net	2	0
„ II. Do. Do. Nos. 46 to 86 .. „	2	0
„ III. Nos. 87 to 110 .. .. „	2	6
„ IV. Nos. 111 to 128 .. .. „	2	6
HUBER, HANS.—Quartet. For Pianoforte, Violin, Viola, and Violoncello .. .. net	15	0
ILINSKY, A.—"Noure et Anitra." Suite. Arranged as a Duet for Two Pianofortes .. .. net	10	0
No. 1. Le Paladin à cheval; No. 2. Le château mystérieux; No. 3. Gnomes; No. 4. La princesse enchantée. Tentation; No. 5. Danse féerique; No. 6. Rêveries; Paladin et princesse; No. 8. L'Orgie.
—— "La Princesse enchantée." Rêverie et Berceuse, from "Noure et Anitra." Suite. Arranged for Pianoforte Solo	3	0
LIAPOUNOW, S.—Seven Preludes. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 6 .. .. net	4	0
—— Impromptu. Op. 5 .. .. „	2	0
OMÁCKA, JOS.—"Bagatelles." For Two Violins, Violoncello, and Pianoforte .. .. net	8	0
POPP, W.—Caprice concertante (Morceau de Bravoure). For Flute and Pianoforte	5	0
RADEĆKI, C. VON.—Sonata. For Pianoforte and Violoncello. Op. 22 .. .. net	3	0
SAINT-SAËNS.—Caprices sur des airs danois et russes. For Two Pianofortes. Op. 79 .. .. net	4	0
—— Three Preludes and Fugues. For Two Pianofortes. Op. 90 .. .. net	6	0
SOKOLOW, N.—Suite. For Violoncello and Pianoforte (Prelude, Nocturne, Scherzo) .. .. complete, net	4	0
STRAUSS, JOH.—"Waldmeister." Operette:—
Pianoforte Score .. .. net	8	0
—— "Trau-Schau-Wem!" Waltz, from above. For Pianoforte Solo	4	0
STRUSS, F.—Three Pieces. For Violin and Pianoforte. each, net	2	0
SUK, J.—Serenade. For String Orchestra:—
Score .. .. net	12	0
Parts .. .. „	10	0
WAGHALTER, H.—School of Scales. For Violoncello „	4	0
WERMANN, O.—Two Pieces. For Clarinet and Pianoforte (or Harmonium). No. 1. Slumber Song; No. 2. Larghetto religioso .. .. each	3	0
WIESNER, R.—Elegie. For Violin and Pianoforte (or Organ)	3	0
WIHTOL, JOS.—Four Pieces. For Pianoforte (Etude, Meditation, Impromptu, Prelude) .. .. complete, net	2	6

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

SECOND EDITION, REVISED, NOW READY.

BEETHOVEN AND HIS NINE SYMPHONIES

BY

GEORGE GROVE, C.B.

Price, cloth, gilt, Six Shillings.

THE TIMES.

Sir George Grove's analyses of Beethoven's Symphonies have long been familiar, not only to every frequenter of the Crystal Palace Concerts, for which they were at first designed, but to all lovers of music in England. They may most truly be said to have become household words, and it seems almost strange that a piece of musical literature so well known and so highly valued should never before have appeared in book form. The analytical programmes, with the musical examples, form the groundwork of the volume, published by Messrs. Novello under the title "Beethoven and his Nine Symphonies," but these have been amplified and their value largely increased by the addition of documents before only referred to.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

I recognise it, without the smallest hesitation, as one of the most important and valuable among recent contributions to musical literature. . . . The best informed of professional musicians may learn a great deal about the master-works of Beethoven from Sir George Grove, whose wide reading and acute perceptiveness have enabled him to marshal an astonishing array of facts, and whose intimate acquaintance with the spirit of the master has qualified him to throw light upon pages which, to many, are still obscure. . . . I must be satisfied with the remarks already made, earnestly recommending all who recognise Beethoven's greatness as shown in his immortal Symphonies to obtain Sir George Grove's volume, and walk in the luminous paths through which he is ready to conduct all who trust his guidance.

MORNING POST.

Sir George Grove's book is irresistibly fascinating. It is never unduly pedantic, and the information it contains is conveyed in a style at once terse and lucid, whilst its pages are interspersed with many anecdotes and interesting details of the great master's life.

GLOBE.

Sir George Grove seems to have discovered a good deal of new material, which forms by no means the least valuable part of the book. In his estimate of Beethoven Sir George Grove writes like an enthusiast, but his enthusiasm is tempered with sound judgment, and his style is always pleasant, and often eloquent in the best sense of the term.

ST. JAMES'S GAZETTE.

It would be difficult to say whether Sir George Grove's admirable volume is more to be esteemed for its biographical or its critical chapters. Probably for neither, but rather for those in which biography and criticism go hand-in-hand together. It needed an enthusiast gifted with industry and the spirit of research to produce such a work.

SPECTATOR.

The most important and valuable of his contributions to the literature of the concert-room have been developed into a book which for many years is likely to remain the standard work on the subject. . . . Sir George writes as a thorough-going hero-worshipper, but personally we find his enthusiasm infectious. No one can rise from the perusal of these fascinating chapters without an enhanced reverence—amounting almost to awe—for the dæmonic genius whose workings are here so vividly set forth.

SUNDAY TIMES.

No one can fail to have his enjoyment of the Symphonies enormously increased by reading the work which will henceforth be indispensable to every student of Beethoven.

THE PEOPLE.

Sir George Grove has performed his self-imposed task with such thoroughness that, after reading the volume, there will be little, if anything, left for amateurs to learn concerning the Nine Symphonies.

YORKSHIRE POST.

We might go on for long enough discussing points suggested by this delightful book, and must be contented with very cordially recommending it to all musically inclined persons, whether they want to become acquainted with the immortal Nine, or only to refresh their recollection of these unapproachable masterpieces.

BRISTOL TIMES AND MIRROR.

Amateurs and students will welcome the present volume as a very valuable contribution to the large store of information which has been published regarding the immortal Nine Symphonies of Beethoven. . . . The most valuable and most recent information about, and bearing upon, the Nine Symphonies is brought together and set forth in that masterly and scholarly way which characterises everything undertaken by the enthusiastic ex-director of the Royal College of Music.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO, EWER & CO.'S

CIRCULATING MUSIC LIBRARY

1, BERNERS STREET, W.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

CLASS A - - - - - ONE GUINEA - - - - PER ANNUM.

CLASS B } - - - - - TWO GUINEAS - - - - PER ANNUM.
CLASS E }
Six Months, £1 5s.; Three Months, 15s.;
One Month, 8s.; One Week, 3s.

CLASS C } - - - - THREE GUINEAS - - - PER ANNUM.
CLASS F }
Six Months, £1 15s.; Three Months, £1 1s.;
One Month, 12s. 6d.; One Week, 5s.

CLASS D } - - - FIVE GUINEAS - - - PER ANNUM.
CLASS G }

TOWN.

CLASS A—Entitles the Subscriber to receive Six Pianoforte Pieces or Songs (ordinary sheet music), which may be exchanged once a week.

CLASS B—Entitles the Subscriber to receive Twelve Pieces (one copy of each), including Volumes or Collections of Music, each volume counting as three pieces. May be exchanged once a week. On the completion of each subscription in this Class, Annual Subscribers are entitled to receive Music of the value of Half-a-Guinea (half-price) without further charge.

CLASS C—Entitles the Subscriber to receive Eighteen Pieces (one copy of each), or a proportionate number of Volumes, WHICH MAY BE EXCHANGED TWICE A WEEK. On the completion of each subscription in this Class, Annual Subscribers are entitled to receive Music of the value of Half-a-Guinea (half-price) without further charge.

CLASS D—Entitles the subscriber to the same privileges as Class C, including the right of occasionally borrowing a sufficient number of INSTRUMENTAL PARTS for the use of a SMALL ORCHESTRA.

 The Special attention of Conductors and Secretaries of Musical Societies is called to this subscription.

COUNTRY.

CLASS E—Entitles the Subscriber to receive Twenty Pieces (one copy of each), including Volumes or Collections of Music, each volume counting as three pieces. May be exchanged twice a month. On the completion of each subscription in this Class, Annual Subscribers are entitled to receive Music of the value of Half-a-Guinea (half-price) without further charge.

CLASS F—Entitles the Subscriber to Thirty Pieces (one copy of each), or a proportionate number of Volumes (WHICH MAY BE EXCHANGED ONCE A WEEK). On the completion of each subscription in this class, Annual Subscribers are entitled to receive Music of the value of Half-a-Guinea (half-price) without further charge.

CLASS G—Entitles the Subscriber to the same privileges as Class F, including the right of occasionally borrowing a sufficient number of INSTRUMENTAL PARTS for the use of a SMALL ORCHESTRA.

 For still larger quantities of Music, special subscriptions can be arranged.

Printed by NOVELLO, EWER & Co., at 69 and 70, Dean Street (W.), and published at 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.). Sold also by KENT and Co., Paternoster Row (E.C.).—Wednesday, July 1, 1896.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 642.—Vol. 37. AUGUST 1, 1896. Price 4d.; Postage, 1½d.
Registered for transmission abroad. Annual Subscription, Post-free, 5s.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,
ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG AND GOTHA, DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.

There are now VACANCIES in the Choir for Sopranos, Altos, Tenors, and Basses. Only those who have good powerful voices, and who can read music at first sight, will be accepted. Address, Secretary, Royal Choral Society, Albert Hall, S.W.

BRISTOL
NINTH MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

Patron: HER MOST GRACIOUS MAJESTY THE QUEEN.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG-GOTHA.

WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY, FRIDAY, AND SATURDAY,
October 14, 15, 16, and 17, 1896.

WEDNESDAY MORNING—"ELIJAH" (Mendelssohn), Madame Albani, Master Frank Gardner, Miss Hilda Wilson, Fräulein Witting, Messrs. Edward Lloyd, Braxton Smith, and Andrew Black.

WEDNESDAY EVENING—Overture, "Leonora," No. 3 (Beethoven); "Blest Pair of Sirens," Ode by Milton (Dr. C. Hubert H. Parry); Scena, "Ocean, thou mighty monster"—"Oberon" (Weber), Fräulein Malten; Grand Symphony, "No. 2, in D major" (Brahms); Aria from "Armida" (Gluck), Fräulein Malten; Overture, "Othello" (MS.), (Walter Macfarren); Overture, "Carnival" (Dvorák); Selection from "Götterdämmerung"—Funeral March and Closing Scene (Wagner)—Brünnhilde, Fräulein Malten; Rhapsodie in F minor and major (Liszt); Choral Ballad, "Sir Patric Spens" (Pearsall); Overture, "Tannhäuser" (Wagner). Vocal Solos by Mr. Braxton Smith, &c.

THURSDAY MORNING—Overture, "In Memoriam" (Sullivan); "REQUIEM MASS" (Gounod)—Posthumous Work, first performance in England—Madame Albani, Fräulein Witting, Messrs. Lloyd and Black; "Hear my Prayer" (Mendelssohn), Madame Albani; Symphony in C minor, No. 5 (Beethoven); Oratorio, "CREATION," Parts I. and II. (Haydn)—Madame Albani, Messrs. Lloyd and Black.

THURSDAY EVENING—Overture, "Manfred" (Schumann); New Cantata, "Hymn before Sunrise," Poem by Coleridge (P. Napeir Miles)—Soloist, Mr. D. Bispham; Song, "Lorelei" (Liszt)—Fräulein Malten; Orchestral Suite in D minor (E. German); Schmiedelieder, from "Siegfried" (Wagner)—Siegfried, Mr. Ben Davies; Mime, Mr. Braxton Smith; Vorspiel and Liebestod, "Tristan and Isolde" (Wagner)—Isolde, Fräulein Malten; Overture, "Land of the Mountain and the Flood" (MacCunn); Selection from "Die Walküre," Act 3, including the Walkürenritt, Duet, the Feuerzauber, and Wotan's Abschied (Wagner)—Brünnhilde, Fräulein Malten; Wotan, Mr. D. Bispham; Rhapsodie in D minor (Liszt); Overture, "Oberon" (Weber).

FRIDAY MORNING—Oratorio, "JOB" (C. Hubert H. Parry, Mus.Doc.)—Master Frank Gardner, Messrs. Ben Davies, Plunket Greene, and Montague Worlock; Organ Concerto in E flat (MS.) (Ebenezer Prout, B.A.)—Solo Organ, Mr. George Riseley; "GERMAN REQUIEM" (Brahms)—Miss Esther Palliser and Mr. Andrew Black.

FRIDAY EVENING—Overture, "Meistersinger" (Wagner); Dramatic Scene, "Siddartha," composed for this Festival (J. L. Roeckel)—Soloist, Mr. Andrew Black; Orchestral Ballad, "Helen of Kirkconnell" (Somervell); Scena, Lohengrin's Farewell (Wagner)—Mr. Edward Lloyd; Rhapsodie for Alto Solo, Male-Voice Choir and Orchestra (Brahms)—Soloist, Fräulein Witting; Introduction, Second Act, "Flying Dutchman" (Wagner)—Chorus and Solos by Miss Palliser and Miss Boucher; "THE GOLDEN LEGEND" (Sir A. Sullivan)—Elsie, Miss Esther Palliser; Ursula, Miss Hilda Wilson; Prince Henry, Mr. Edward Lloyd; Forester, Mr. Arthur Wills; Lucifer, Mr. Andrew Black.

SATURDAY MORNING—"MESSIAH" (Handel)—Mesdames Albani, Hilda Wilson, Messrs. Edward Lloyd and Andrew Black.

Chorus-master, Mr. D. W. ROOTHAM.

COMPLETE FESTIVAL ORCHESTRA, 100 PERFORMERS.
Conductor, Mr. GEORGE RISELEY.

The following Composers will conduct their own works at the Festival: Dr. C. Hubert H. Parry; Walter Macfarren, Esq.; Dr. Ebenezer Prout; Edward German, Esq.; Hamish MacCunn, Esq.; Arthur Somervell, Esq.; J. L. Roeckel, Esq.; P. Napier Miles, Esq.

Detailed programmes, free, on application to the Hon. Secs., Albion Chambers, Bristol.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,
TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Patrons: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN AND THE ROYAL FAMILY.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG AND GOTHA.
Principal: Sir A. C. MACKENZIE, Mus. Doc.

Michaelmas Term begins September 28. Entrance Examination therefor, September 24, at 10.

Prospectus, Entry Forms, and all information may be obtained from the Secretary. F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,
Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883.

PRINCE CONSORT ROAD, SOUTH KENSINGTON, S.W.
President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.
Director: C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Esq., M.A., Mus. Doc., D.C.L.
Hon. Sec.: CHARLES MORLEY, Esq., M.P.

The CHRISTMAS TERM will commence on September 28.

Syllabus and official entry forms may be obtained at the College, Prince Consort Road, South Kensington.

FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.—Established by the Corporation of London, 1880. Principal, Mr. W. H. CUMMINGS.—Improvisation, Accompanying, Sight Singing, Elocution, Sight Reading (Instrumental), Choral, Orchestral, and Operatic Classes. Prospectus and further particulars of the Secretary. By order of the Committee,
Victoria Embankment, E.C. HILTON CARTER, Secretary.

WORCESTER MUSICAL FESTIVAL,
SEPTEMBER 6, 8, 9, 10, AND 11, 1896.

SUNDAY MORNING, Sept. 6.—GRAND OPENING SERVICE. TUESDAY MORNING—"ST. PAUL." TUESDAY EVENING—"THE LIGHT OF LIFE," composed for the occasion by EDWARD ELGAR, and Selections from "SAMSON." WEDNESDAY MORNING—BACH'S CHRISTMAS ORATORIO, SCHUBERT'S "GREAT IS JEHOVAH," GOETZ'S "BY THE WATERS," and SPOHR'S "GOD, THOU ART GREAT." WEDNESDAY EVENING—(Public Hall)—BEETHOVEN'S PASTORAL SYMPHONY, and Miscellaneous Selection. THURSDAY MORNING—VERDI'S REQUIEM, SCHUMANN'S RHENISH SYMPHONY, and BLAIR'S ADVENT CANTATA. THURSDAY EVENING—"THE ELIJAH." FRIDAY MORNING—"THE MESSIAH." FRIDAY EVENING—SPECIAL CLOSING SERVICE.

Principal Vocalists: Madame ALBANI, Miss ANNA WILLIAMS, Miss HILDA WILSON, Miss JESSIE KING, Mr. EDWARD LLOYD, Mr. HIRWEN JONES, Mr. WATKIN MILLS, and Mr. PLUNKET GREENE.

Programmes, containing full particulars, may be obtained either from Messrs. Deighton and Co. or Mr. E. J. Spark, High Street, Worcester.

THE BURGON OPERA RECITAL COMPANY
UNDER THE DIRECTION OF
MR. W. H. BURGON,

Principal Bass, Royal English Opera House, Covent Garden Opera House, and Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company, &c.;
Also of the leading Choral Societies' Concerts.

The experienced Artists of the above Company can be engaged by Choral Societies for Oratorio, Concert, or Opera Recital.

Specimens of the special Programmes for which the Burgon Opera Recital Company has become so celebrated, viz.:—
PART I.—Ballad and Instrumental.
PART II.—Recital in Costume or Evening Dress, of Selections from a popular Opera ("Cavalleria Rusticana," "Pagliacci," "Flying Dutchman," "Il Trovatore," "Maritana," "Bohemian Girl," "Faust," &c.)—will be forwarded on application.

Address, W. H. BURGON,
8, Marlboro' Road, Bedford Park, London, W.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS FLORENCE ARMRIDING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Mr. Shakespeare and Medalist, R.A.M.).
Oratorios, Concerts, Lessons, &c., at 20, Conduit Street. Address, Leicester Villa, Ealing, W.

MISS MAUDE BALLARD (Soprano)
Haydn's "Seasons," Bungay Choral Society.—"Miss Ballard has a fine, rich, and well-trained voice."—East Suffolk Gazette, April 28, 1896. 13, Herbert Road, Stockwell, S.W.

MADAME BARTER (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Westbury Road, Wood Green, N.

MISS LOUISE BELLAMY (Soprano)
Oratorios and Concerts. 2, Claremont Road, Handsworth, Birmingham.

MISS EMILY DAVIES (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, Severn House, Seven Sisters Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano)
"Has a powerful, highly cultivated voice."—Daily Telegraph.
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 237, Katherine Street, Ashton-under-Lyne.

MISS BEATRICE GOUGH (Soprano)
Gloucester Musical Festival, 1895; Cheltenham, 1893.
"No better performance of 'The Messiah' can be conceived. From first to last it was superb. . . . To Miss Gough and Miss Jessie King fell a small share of the work, and each did her share well."—The Times, Sept. 14, 1895.
"Miss Gough's singing of 'How beautiful are the feet' was conscientious and artistic."—Daily Graphic. "The solo part in 'Hear my prayer' was effectively sung by Miss Gough."—Morning Post.
"Mendelssohn's 'Hear my prayer,' the solo part being rendered with chasteness and simplicity by Miss Gough."—Standard.
"Miss Gough sang the solo in the 'Magnificat' admirably."—Daily Chronicle. "Miss Gough has made an excellent impression this week."—Birmingham Daily Post. For terms, Press notices, and répertoire apply to 42, Dyne Road, Brondesbury, N.W.

MISS JESSIE HOTINE (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, Operettas, Banquets, &c.
Address, Craignorth, 33, Upper Bedford Place, Russell Square, W.C.

MISS EDITH MARSHALL (Soprano)
Oratorio, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
380, Brixton Road, S.W.

MISS FLORENCE MONK (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 26, Portland Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS ANNIE NORLEDGE (Soprano)
For Oratorios and Ballad Concerts. For press notices and terms, address, 221, South Lambeth Road, London, S.W.
Telegrams: "Norledge," London.

MISS WINIFRED PEAKE (Soprano)
(Sainton-Dolby Scholar and Certificate, R.A.M.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Strathearn, Broadhurst Gardens, West Hampstead, N.W.

MISS FANNIE SELLERS (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Recitals, &c., Crag Cottage, Knaresbro'.

MISS KATE SHIELDS (Soprano)
(Medalist, Royal Academy of Music).
"Miss Kate Shields, who left the Royal Academy of Music three years ago, and has since been heard on many provincial platforms, was, the other day, introduced to a London audience by Mr. Manns, of the Crystal Palace Concerts. She is young, just out of her teens, and her provincial reputation, backed up by her success at the Crystal Palace, would seem to point in the direction of her having a brilliant future on the concert platform. She was born at Hull, where, in her school days, she displayed rare talent as a child vocalist, and the cultivation of her superior gifts has been attended to by the best masters. Mr. Manns, perhaps the best judge of vocalisation in the country, was charmed with her rendering of Gounod's 'Jewel Song' from 'Faust,' and 'Through sunny Spain,' an extremely fetching little song, both of which difficult pieces he himself selected for her first appearance before a Crystal Palace audience. The young vocalist had a promising first appearance."—To-day, July 4, 1896.
For terms, address, 4, Osborne Mansions, Willesden Green, London.

MISS MARY WILLIS (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, or Private Lessons, address, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MISS BERYL CLIVE (Contralto)
"Prominent among the artists was Miss Beryl Clive, a vocalist of more than average ability. She possesses a rich contralto voice of excellent range, and sang with the skill and intelligence of an accomplished artist."—Nottingham Daily Guardian, Dec. 4, 1895.
"Messiah," Town Hall, Stourbridge.—"Miss Clive has a deep and powerful contralto voice, and her singing was marked by power, sweetness, and pathos. Although her interpretation of all her pieces was of a finished character, yet we think she reached her highest point of excellence in the exquisite air 'He shall feed His flock like a shepherd.'"—Stourbridge Advertiser, Jan. 4, 1896.
Address, 30, Pepys Road South, St. Catherine's Park, S.E.

MISS FLORENCE CROFT (Contralto)
MR. D'ARCY CLAYTON (Tenor)
88, Lady Margaret Road, N.

MISS EMILY FOXCROFT, A.L.A.M. (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, At Homes, &c.
76, Calabria Road, Highbury Place, N.

MADAME JENNY HOLDEN (Contralto)
Oratorio, Concerts, &c. Ashlynne, Ashton-under-Lyne.
"Madame Jenny Holden's rich contralto voice was heard to perfection in the 'Enchantress' (Hatton)."—Oldham Chronicle, Nov. 30, 1895.
"Madame Jenny Holden possesses a rich contralto voice of even quality."—Huddersfield Examiner, Dec. 9, 1895.

MISS LUCIE JOHNSTONE (Contralto)
13, Cromwell Grove, West Kensington Park, W.
Lincoln Cathedral Festival, June, 1896.—". . . Miss Lucie Johnstone has a fine contralto voice and a power of pathetic expression which is remarkable."—Daily Telegraph.
". . . Miss Lucie Johnstone's cultured singing added in no small degree to the completeness of the performance."—Nottingham Guardian.

MR. TOM CHILD (The Yorkshire Tenor)
(Principal Tenor, Parish Church, Leeds.)
Winner of the 100 Guineas Prize, Music Trades Exhibition, 1896.
For terms and vacant dates, address, Hollingside, Horsforth.

MR. HERBERT CLINCH
Oratorios, Ballads, At Homes, &c.
Address, 41, Frederick Street, St. John's Wood, N.W.

MR. GWILYM RICHARDS (Tenor)
Winner of Joseph Maas Memorial Prize,
" " Goldberg Prize,
" " Evill Prize,
At the Royal Academy of Music.
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts. 30, Redburn Street, Chelsea, S.W.

MR. NORMAN WALLS (Tenor)
(Pupil of Isidore de Solla).
Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, 109, Grosvenor Road, Highbury New Park, London, N.

MR. HERBERT ALDRIDGE (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, Saxonbury Villa, Buxton Road, Stratford, E.

MR. NATHAN LINLEY (Baritone)
Oratorios, Concerts, Masonic Banquets, &c.
Address, 14, Durley Road, Stamford Hill, N.

MR. WILLIAM RILEY (Baritone), Huddersfield.
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Address as above.

MR. ALFRED OSMOND (Bass)
(Pupil of Mr. Fred. Walker).
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 39, Gayton Road, Hampstead, N.W.

MISS VIOLET NICHOLSON
(Solo Mandolinist)
3, Upper Montagu Street, Hyde Park, W.

MISS HELEN BUCKLEY (Soprano). Monday Pops., Crystal Palace, Queen's Hall, leading London, Provincial, and American Concerts. Extensive répertoire. Send for latest prospectus. 298, Regent Street, London, W.

MR. FRANK BELTON (Alto) (Assistant Lay-Vicar, Westminster Abbey) begs to notify his CHANGE of ADDRESS to 11, Elm Grove, Hammersmith, W.

MR. LAWRENCE FRIAR (Tenor), St. Paul's Cathedral, begs to announce his REMOVAL to "Kelross," Park Road, West Dulwich, S.E.

MR. WILLIAM WILD (Tenor), of the "Sir Charles and Lady Hallé South African Concert Tour, 1895." (Pupil of Andrew Black, Esq.) For Oratorios, Orchestral Concerts, &c. "Specially recommended by Sir Charles Hallé for concert work." Terms, Press notices, &c., Grosvenor Square, Stalybridge, near Manchester.

MR. GORDON HELLER.—"A powerful and high baritone. Many of his songs were well sung."—The Times. "Sings with taste and judgment."—The Morning. "Voice of musical quality and considerable power."—The Standard. "Good voice, which he knows how to employ."—Morning Post. "Sang with much artistic feeling and intelligence."—Truth. For Oratorios, &c., address, care of N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London, W.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass, Conductor, Italian Church, Hatton Garden) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Opera, or Concerts be addressed, 45, Pentonville Road, N.

MADAME LAURA SMART
(SOPRANO)
Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Ballad Concerts.
Address, 106, Bolingbroke Grove, Wandsworth Common, S W. or, 50, Church Street, Liverpool.

MISS ADA LOARING
(SOPRANO)
Merrion, Wellington Road, Peckham, S.E.

MADAME MARIE HOOTON
AND MR.
EDWARD BRANSCOMBE
Beg to announce that they will return from Australia by the end of September, and are at liberty to accept Engagements for London and Provinces from October 1 onwards.
Please address, care of H. F. Salmon, Esq., The Woodlands, Etherow Street, East Dulwich, S.E.; or, Messrs. Healey and Son, 17, Great Marlborough Street, W.

MR.
EDWARD BRANSCOMBE
(TENOR)
(Of Westminster Abbey).
Specially engaged during July and August for the Sydney Oratorio Festival: "Elijah," "Spectre's Bride," "Judas"; Melbourne Oratorio Festival: "Elijah," "Samson," "Lobgesang"; Adelaide Oratorio Festival: "Elijah," "Spectre's Bride," "Messiah."
All communications to Messrs. Healey and Son, 17, Gt. Marlborough Street, W.; or, H. F. Salmon, Esq., The Woodlands, Etherow Street, East Dulwich, S.E.

MR. CHARLES CHILLEY
Begs to announce that he has REMOVED to 38, Carson Road, West Dulwich, S.E.

MR.
HAMLYN CRIMP
(TENOR)
For terms and vacant dates, please apply, The Woodlands, Heathfield Road, Birmingham.
Concert Parties arranged.

Communications for
MR. DOUGLAS POWELL
until his return in September from Australian tour, may be addressed 44, Dafforne Road, Upper Tooting, S.W.; or principal Agents.

MR.
A. MONTAGUE BORWELL
L.R.A.M., A.G.S.M. (BARITONE).
Prize-winner, Solo Singing and Sight Reading, Stratford Musical Festival. Medalist, Soc. Arts.
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. 16, Springfield, Upper Clapton, N.E.

MR. ROLAND HOYLE
(BARITONE)
(Of Sir Charles Hallé's and Provincial Concerts).
Press notices, terms, &c., 22, Queen Street, Cheetham, Manchester.

CHARLES KNOWLES
(BARITONE)
For Oratorios and Ballad Concerts. Engaged Nov. 3, Leeds Choral Union ("Faust").
For terms, vacant dates, and Press notices, address, 61, Burley St., Leeds.

MR. DANIEL PRICE
(BARITONE)
Westminster Abbey. Address, 18, Clarendon Road, W.

MR.
HUGO GÖRLITZ
Director of all PADEREWSKI Tours abroad.
On Tour with
MADAME AMY SHERWIN'S OPERATIC CONCERT COMPANY in South Africa.
Returns to London about November 1, 1896.
All communications to be sent to 19, Old Burlington Street, W.

MISS ALICE MARY SMITH
(Mrs. Alfred Dymes),
Associate of the Royal College of Music,
HARPIST,
16, Lancaster Road, W.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) supplies Solo Boys, personally trained, for Church Festivals, Organ Recitals, At Homes, Garden Parties, Bazaars, Concerts, &c.
For vacant dates, terms, and further particulars, address—
Mr. Henry J. Dutton, 19, Alpha Road, New Cross, S.E.

MR.
BLAXLAND'S SOLO BOYS
HIGHLY TRAINED. THOROUGHLY RELIABLE.
For Harvest and Church Festivals, Concerts, Banquets, &c., are prepared with the principal Oratorios and Standard Works, Ballads, &c.
A Chorus of Fifty Boys available week-days.
Also the noted Soprano Solo Boy (pupil of Mr. Blaxland), Master
STERNDALE BENNETT
(Chester and Leeds Festivals, 1894, Queen's Hall, &c., and is also booked for Sheffield Festival, October, 1896).
Highly recommended by Sir JOHN STAINER, M.A., Mus. Doc., Oxon.; C. H. H. PARRY, Mus. Doc., Oxon. et Cantab.; JOSEPH BRIDGE, M.A., Mus. Doc., &c., and many other leading Musicians.
MASTER BENNETT is exceptionally gifted (he can sing a shake with ease) and has an extensive répertoire.
Mr. BLAXLAND recommends as a novelty for Concerts, Banquets, &c., his "BOYS' TRIO,"
whose répertoire consists of Trios, Duets, and Solos.
For terms, &c., address, Mr. BLAXLAND, 15, Tavistock Crescent, Westbourne Park, W. Letters during August will be forwarded.

SOLO BOYS.
LONDON TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CHORISTERS.
President: Mr. RANDEGGER.
Principal: Mr. JAMES BATES.
Solo Boys available for Church Festivals, At Homes, Concerts, &c. Boys trained for Cathedral Scholarships. Address, Mr. G. E. Jeffries, Secretary, Church House, Porchester Terrace, Hyde Park, W.

MR. JOSEF CANTOR'S
"GEMS OF THE OPERAS"
CONCERT COMPANY.
All communications, Church Street, Liverpool.
Telegrams—"Cantor, Liverpool."

THE COWARD-KEMPTON QUARTET.
Alto: Mr. PERCY COWARD; Tenor: Mr. ARTHUR COWARD; Baritone: Mr. RANDULPH COWARD; Bass: Mr. BELL KEMPTON.
For Concerts, &c. Terms on application to Arthur Coward (care of Metzler and Co., Ltd.), Great Marlborough Street, W.

EDWARD LANGDON'S
"VOCAL GEMS"
OPERATIC CONCERT COMPANY (Ltd.).
All communications to 1, Greenmount Place, Beeston Hill, Leeds.

ROYAL WINDSOR GLEE SINGERS
(Of St. George's Chapel Royal and Eton College Chapel).
For Concerts, Garden Parties, &c. Terms on application to D. Humphreys, 19, The Cloisters, Windsor.

THE CONCERT AGENCY, Limited,
65, REGENT STREET, LONDON, W.
Telegraphic Address—"Songcraft, London."
The Concert Agency, Ltd., undertake the management of Concerts, Booking of Tours, and supply Artists for Oratorio, Operatic, and Miscellaneous Concerts, At Homes, and other Social Receptions, &c.
AUTUMN TOURS:—
THE BAND OF H.M. FIRST LIFE GUARDS.
THE ENGLISH OPERA SINGERS.
Miss Edith Serpell. | Miss Blanche Murray.
Mr. J. Willey. | Mr. W. H. Webb.
Original Musical Sketches: Mr. Frederic Dale.
All communications respecting dates, &c., for the above parties to be addressed to Mr. Cecil Barth, Managing Director.

SILVER BELLS.—Spécialité for Garden Parties, Dinners, and Concerts. Silver Bell Solos, with Pianoforte or Orchestral Accompaniment. R. B. Hopkins, Royal Campanologist, 17, Kellett Road, Brixton.

THE MISSES TULLOCH'S
Vocal, Instrumental, and Dramatic
RECITALS.
OPERATIC SCENAS AND ARIAS. BALLADS.
MANDOLINE AND GUITAR SOLOS AND DUETS.
ITALIAN, FRENCH, AND GERMAN SONGS.
SPANISH SONGS TO GUITAR ACCOMPANIMENTS.
RECITATIONS (POETIC AND HUMOROUS).
For Press notices and programmes, address, Miss D. Tulloch, 16, Linden Gardens, London, W.; or, usual Concert Agents.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

Examinations for Degrees in Music are held in March and September. Full particulars, with copies of former papers, of Dr. Armes, The Bailey, Durham.

THE HOLLAND ACADEMY FOR VOICE PRODUCTION AND SINGING.—84, New Bond Street, W.

Principal, Mr. Edwin Holland.

Michaelmas Term commences Oct. 2. Entrance Examination, Sept. 25, 3-5 p.m. The competition for the Holland Scholarship (one year's free tuition under Mr. Edwin Holland), open to all voices, will be held on Sept. 24. Entrance forms, prospectus, and all details can be obtained from E. L. Barry, Secretary.

THE VIRGIL CLAVIER PIANOFORTE METHOD. — Mr. STIEBLER COOK, A.R.A.M., gives LESSONS on the above system (recommended by Paderewski, Von Bülow, De Pachmann). By far the most rapid and certain means yet devised for acquiring a perfect technique. For particulars, address, 17, Keppel St., Russell Sq., W.C.; or, Secretary, Metropolitan College of Music, 415, Holloway Road, N., where Mr. Cook also receives Pupils.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Instituted by the Victoria College Corporation, Ltd. Incorporated, 1891.

Patrons:
The Rt. Hon. The Marquis of Lorne, K.T.
The Rt. Hon. The Earl of Dartmouth.

Director:
J. H. Lewis, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.

Registrar:
George Prior, Mus. Doc., Oxon.

Bursar:
W. F. W. Jackson, Mus. Bac., Oxon.

Local and Higher (Practical) Examinations are now being held at various Local Centres.

Metropolitan Examination, in all Subjects, and for all Grades, including the Diplomas of Associate (A.V.C.M.), Associate in Music (A.Mus.V.C.M.), Licentiate (L.V.C.M.), and Licentiate in Music (L.Mus.V.C.M.) will be held.

The Educational Department is under the direction of Dr. Prior.

Local Secretaries required for towns not already represented.

Full particulars on application.

GEO. A. STANTON, F.G.C.M., Secretary.

Central Office: 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C

FROM BRAIN TO KEYBOARD.

MACDONALD SMITH'S SYSTEM

FOR

TOUCH AND TECHNIQUE.

As acquired and in daily use by Professionals and Amateurs in Europe, Asia, Africa, America, and Australia.

"It is clear that Mr. Macdonald Smith has studied the subject carefully, and acts upon well-ascertained scientific grounds."—Daily Telegraph.

"The great, the supreme merit of Mr. Smith's system consists in the fact that it involves the total abolition and disestablishment of all that terrible scale practising and five-finger exercising."—Westminster Gazette, November 20, 1895.

"We make no comparisons, but say simply, from personal experience, that Mr. Smith's system of training does all that he claims for it. . . . The interest it immediately excited, and still sustains, bears witness to the value of Mr. Smith's researches in the science of physiology for the benefit of musicians."—Musical News.

COMPLETE COURSE OF SIX LESSONS
By Correspondence, £3 3s. Form on application.

Terms and conditions for Personal Lessons (Concert Players only) on application.

Lecture at Musical Association, Trinity College, &c. Post-free, Seven Stamps.

ENLARGED PROSPECTUS, POST-FREE.

MACDONALD SMITH, Steinway Hall,
Lower Seymour Street, London, W.

GUILD OF CHURCH MUSICIANS,

35, WELLINGTON ST., STRAND, LONDON, W.C.

Under the Patronage of the Bishops and Clergy of the Church of England.

President: The Very Rev. Francis Pigou, D.D., Dean of Bristol.
Warden and Licensed Lay Chaplain: J. H. Lewis, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.
Sub-Warden: F. J. Karn, Mus. Doc., F.G.C.M.

Musical Patrons:
Frederic H. Cowen, Esq.; George Riseley, Esq., R.A.M.; W. H. Longhurst, Esq., Mus. Doc., F.R.C.O.; Berthold Tours, Esq.; Edwin M. Lott, Esq., Mus. Doc., F.R.C.O.; G. Robertson Sinclair, Esq.; H. E. Ford, Esq., Mus. Doc.; J. M. W. Young, Esq.; Arthur Henry Brown, Esq.; Alfred J. Caldicott, Esq., Mus. Doc.; William Spark, Esq., Mus. Doc., F.R.C.O., &c.

A.G.C.M. and F.G.C.M. Diploma Examinations, January, 1897.
Two French Lydall Exhibitions for Organ Accompaniment, each of the value of £5. Examination, January, 1897.
Annual Membership or Choir Enrolment, 10s. 6d. Life, £5 5s.
Calendar (7th Edition), revised, now ready, 1s., post-free.
Set of last Examination Papers, 1s., post-free.
Representatives required in England and abroad.
Free Register for Organists requiring appointments.
For further particulars, apply to the Warden for a Prospectus.
By Order of the Council.

THE
WEST LONDON CONSERVATOIRE OF MUSIC,

75, THE GROVE, HAMMERSMITH, W.

Patrons: Sir Lionel Darell, Bart., C. J. Monk, M.P., F. H. Cowen, C. Lee Williams, Hugh Blair, and G. Robertson Sinclair, Esqrs., Mrs. Ellicott, and Mrs. S. E. Phillips.
Visitor: Sir Arthur Sullivan.
President: Miss Hilda Wilson.
Vice-President: Watkin Mills, Esq.

Professors: Mrs. Mary Davies, Mrs. Hutchinson, Madame Frickenhaus, Madame Annie Marriott, Misses Margaret Hoare and Agnes Wilson, Messrs. Johannes Wolff, W. H. Brereton, Bantock Pierpoint, Charles Fry, Franklin Clive, C. A. Connock, Wilfrid Bendall, W. H. Eayres, R. B. Addison, Septimus Webbe, Ernest Kiver, W. C. Hann, W. Stroud Wilson, Bernhard Carrodus, G. R. Betjemann, E. A. Carrodus, and others.

Directors of Studies: Miss Agnes Wilson and W. Stroud Wilson, Esq.

For further particulars, address Secretary.

THE NONCONFORMIST CHOIR UNION.

The Committee of the Nonconformist Choir Union invite composers (all of whom must be either an organist, choirmaster, or other member of a Nonconformist Church or congregation) to send in MS. original compositions for performance at the annual festival to be held at the Crystal Palace next year. For accepted works the following honoraria will be given—viz., Five guineas for an anthem, five guineas for a secular piece, one guinea for a hymn tune. Anthems must be written in four parts, without solos. Unison passages allowed. They must be of a festival character, and must not take more than seven minutes in performance, preference being given to those suitable for ordinary church use.

Secular compositions must be written in four parts, and not exceed six minutes in performance.

The selection of the hymn is left to the composer, but it must be non-copyright. Preference will be given to those of a Festival character.

The copyrights of the accepted compositions shall be the property of the Nonconformist Choir Union on payment of the honorariums.

Each composition to be signed with a motto, the same to be written on a sealed envelope, which shall contain the name and address of the composer. Unaccepted compositions will be returned if stamped addressed envelopes are sent for the purpose.

Compositions must be delivered to the Hon. Sec., Mr. T. R. Croger, 114, Wood Street, London, E.C., on or before October 1.

DR. HOCH'S CONSERVATOIRE for all branches of Music, in Frankfort-on-the-Maine. The Winter Term commences September 1. Director, Professor Dr. B. Scholz. Tuition is given by Frau P. Bassermann, and by Messrs. Director Dr. B. Scholz, Professor J. Kwast, L. Uzielli, F. Meyer, E. Engesser, Music Director A. Glück, G. Trautmann, and K. Friedberg (in Pianoforte); Mr. H. Gelhaar (in Organ); Professor H. Heermann, Professor Naret-Koning and F. Bassermann, Concertmeister A. Hess (in Violin and Viola); Professor B. Cossmann, Professor Hugo Becker (in Violoncello); W. Seltrecht (in Contra-Bass); M. Kretzschmar (in Flute); R. Müns (in Oboe); L. Mohler (in Clarinet); F. Thiele (Fagotto); C. Preusse (in Horn); J. Wohllebe (in Trumpet); Frau Professor Schroeder-Hanfstaengl u.d. Herren Kammersänger Max Pichler, C. Schubart, S. Rigutini, and Frl. Cl. Sohn (in Singing); Director Dr. Scholz and Messrs. Professor J. Knorr, and G. Trautmann (in Theory and Composition); Professor V. Valentin (in German Literature); Mr. K. Hermann (in Declamation and Mimics); Frl. del Lungo (in Italian Language). Prospectus to be had, gratis and franco, from the Secretaryship of the Dr. Hoch's Conservatoire, 4, Eschersheimerlandstrasse.

A MUS. BAC., Cantab., teaches HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT by Correspondence. A., Clarence Villas, East Dereham, Norfolk.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. New House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who OBTAINED DEGREES OF MUS.D. AND MUS.B. at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, and Durham (1896) Universities, Diplomas of L.R.A.M. (1896, &c.), A.Mus. L.C.M., L.Mus. L.C.M., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O. (1895); Appointments at College and School of Music, and as Chapel Royal, Cathedral, and Parish Church Organists; Gold Medals, Prizes, "Honours" and Pass Certificates (of the Colleges of Music) to the number of 500. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Piano. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS. Dr. Horton Allison, Mus.D. 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or at 84, New Bond Street, W. Schools attended. Address, Willersley House, Old Charlton.

DR. J. M. BENTLEY, Hon. F.R.A.M.—Instruction in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, and ORCHESTRATION per post. Address, Messrs. Novello and Co.

A R.C.M. TEACHERS' EXAM.—MISS B. FURZE, A.R.C.M. (Double Diploma), COACHES by CORRESPONDENCE in "Physiology of the Voice." Address, Northnd. College of Music, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

DR. ALBERT HAM, F.R.C.O., L.T.C.L., gives LESSONS in the THEORY OF MUSIC by Post. Recent successes: F.R.C.O. and A.R.C.O., 1896; First Mus.B., Oxon.; L.R.C.M. (Singing); A.T.C.L., &c. Park Street, Taunton.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.Mus., T.C.L., prepares CANDIDATES for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; L.Mus. T.C.L., gives LESSONS Personally or by post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: A.R.C.M., 1896; Oxford, Mus. Bac., 1896, and First Exam., May, 1896; MUS. BAC., DURHAM, 1895, also 1894, 1893, 1892, and 1891; and FIRST EXAM., 1895, also 1894, 1893, 1892, 1891, and 1890; F.R.C.O. and A.R.C.O., 1896; L.R.A.M. (Pianoforte), 1895; CAMBRIDGE, MUS. BAC.; LONDON, MUS. BAC.; DUBLIN, MUS. BAC.; L.R.A.M. (Composition); Mus. Bac. and Mus. Doc., Toronto, Gold Medalists, 1890, 1892, and 1893; L.Mus., L.C.M.; L.Mus., T.C.L., and A.T.C.L., 1895; Senior Local R.A.M. and R.C.M. Special and individual attention given to Correspondents. Upwards of 350 Diplomas and Degrees and several Gold and Silver Medals gained by pupils. MSS. corrected and revised for publication. Terms moderate. Address, 70, Park Road, Haverstock Hill, London, N.W.

MR. W. E. PITMAN, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., teaches HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT, personally or by correspondence, and coaches for the Universities, Royal College of Organists, and other Musical Exams. Thorough grounding in the various subjects. For terms, address, W. E. Pitman, Sundridge, Sevenoaks.

MR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., Lecturer on Harmony in King's College, Lond., Organist and Choirmaster, St. Stephen's, South Kensington. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS. HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., personally or by correspondence. Preparation for University, R.C.O., and other examinations. Classes. 54, Baron's Court Road, West Kensington, W.

MR. J. HARRAWAY SLAPE visits and receives PUPILS for ORGAN, PIANOFORTE, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Preparation for all Musical Exams. Recent successes, A.T.C.L., Certificated Pianist, Trinity College, 1895. Special facilities to Organ Students. Practice on 2 and 3-Manual Instruments. Terms moderate. 22, Camden Road, N.W.

MR. BRUCE STEANE prepares rapidly and systematically for MUSICAL EXAMS. in all subjects, personally or by post. Many past successes. Address, Greystone, Granville Road, Sevenoaks.

MR. R. STOKOE, Mus. Bac., Cantab., F.R.C.O., gives ORGAN LESSONS at Christ Church, Down Street, Piccadilly. Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., taught personally or by post. 86, Rossiter Road, Balham, S.W.

DR. TAYLOR, Mus.D., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.T.C.L. (Author of "Vocal Score Reading Exercises" and "Figured Bass and Melody Exercises," for R.C.O. Students), prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Address, Wolverhampton Road, Stafford.

DR. THOMAS (Mus. Doc., Oxon.; Org. and C.M., St. Clement's; Conductor, Phil.) has VACANCY for YOUTH as Resident Pupil. Thorough training; Univ. degree. Prep. for all exams. "Carlyle," Boscombe, Bournemouth.

MR. A. W. TOMLYN, Mus.B., Dunelm, L.T.C.L., Berwick-on-Tweed, COACHES CANDIDATES for University and all other Exams. by post. Every possible attention and assistance guaranteed. Many past successes.

DR. H. W. WAREING (Mus. Doc., Cantab.) PREPARES PUPILS by Correspondence for University and other Musical Exams. Latest successes:—Prelim. Mus. Bac., Cantab., May, 1896 (two passes: one first in first-class), and Final Mus. Bac., Oxon., Nov., 1895. Address, The Elms, King's Norton, Birmingham.

MR. W. H. TUTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, ACOUSTICS, &c., by Correspondence. Ashburn, Derbyshire.

MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS REVISED. HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT taught by Correspondence. W. Wolstenholme, Mus. Bac., Oxon., 86, Oswald Street, Blackburn.

THE TRAINING OF ALTOS.—Lessons in Voice Production and Singing given by MUNRO DAVISON, F.R.C.O., Solo Alto, Temple Church, &c. Many of Mr. Davison's pupils have obtained Professional appointments. 142, Stroud Green Road, N.

DEPPE TECHNIQUE.—Experienced Teacher of PIANO, SINGING, HARMONY, and COUNTERPOINT has a VACANCY for good SCHOOL. Address, Music, Lines's Library, 79, Fairfax Road, N.W.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC.—Grand opportunity for Professor to increase his connection in S.W. London, by opening a SCHOOL of MUSIC in Putney. Rooms vacant in August, above an old-established Pianoforte and Music Business in main road, between two railway stations. Write, Walter Phillips, High Street, Putney, S.W.

TO MUSICAL COMPOSERS.—The Society of Authors is established for the MAINTENANCE and DEFENCE of LITERARY and MUSICAL PROPERTY. It advises Members on the Methods of Publishing, on the forms of their Agreements, and, when necessary, on the estimated cost of production. It investigates all questions of dispute connected with the above subjects and the Law of Copyright. Annual Subscription, £1 1s. Terms of Membership may be had from the Secretary,

G. HERBERT THRING,
4, Portugal Street,
Lincoln's Inn Fields, W.C.

ARTICLED PUPIL.—MR. W. S. HOYTE (Organist and Director of the Choir, All Saints', Margaret Street) has a VACANCY for a Resident ARTICLED PUPIL. Exceptional advantages offered. Address, 68, Boundary Road, N.W.

KING'S COLLEGE, Cambridge.—CHORISTERSHIPS.—The TRIAL of VOICES to fill vacancies in the Choir School will be held on August 6. Candidates must have a good ear and good voice, and should be between nine and twelve years of age. For particulars, apply to the Dean. Names to be sent in by July 30.

CHOIRBOYS.—FREE EDUCATION and BOARD.—There will shortly be VACANCIES in the Choir of the American Church, Paris. Cathedral Service. New Choir School, on English model. Every care and supervision. References permitted. Musical Representative: Mr. Augustus Toop, 60, Berners Street, W., to whom all communications should be addressed.

BOYS WANTED, for St. Mark's, Myddelton Square, E.C. Payment according to voice and ability. Apply at Church, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, 7 to 9; also voluntary Tenor, Basses, and Altos. Full Cathedral Service. Apply, as above, to the Organist, either personally or by letter.

SOPRANO, TENOR, and BASS, as Soloists and Leaders, WANTED, for large Nonconformist Church in North London, in the Autumn. Address, stating qualification and salary required, to T. S., care of Davies and Co., Advertising Agents, Finch Lane, Cornhill.

WANTED, CONTRALTO, as ARTICLED PUPIL to leading Artist. Undeniably exceptional opening for future career.—Write, Nemo, Willing's, Piccadilly.

SOLO BASS WANTED, for a Church, West-End. Musical service. £10 per annum. Address, A., 57, Regent Street.

DEPUTY-TENOR is DISENGAGED during August and September. Yates, 32, Oxford Road, Islington.

ORGANIST.—First-class ORGANIST and PROFESSOR of INSTRUMENTAL and VOCAL MUSIC WANTED, for Sligo Cathedral and the College of the Immaculate Conception, Sligo. Engagement to take effect from the 1st of September. Testimonials and references to be forwarded to the Very Rev. M. Shannon, Adm., Sligo.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER REQUIRED, for Ryde Parish Church, Isle of Wight. Churchman and Communicant. Good Choir-trainer. Fine three-manual organ by Willis. Salary, £65. Apply, Vicar, Ryde Parish Church, I.W.

WANTED, in October, ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER for St. Michael's, Stoke (suburb of Devonport). Salary, commencing at £40. Quickly increasing population. Address, Rev. W. Mantle, Stoke, Devonport. Applications must be received before August 10.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, at Christmas, for St. Antholin's, Peckham Rye. Salary, £40. Apply to the Vicar, by letter, stating age and experience.

ORGANIST WANTED, for a Church twenty-one miles from London. Superior musician and Choirmaster. Salary, £40 per annum. Address, with reference and two testimonials, the Vicar, Egham, Surrey.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for Hope Park United Presbyterian Church, Edinburgh. Salary, £60 per annum. Conditions of engagement may be had from John Russell, Church Officer, 3, Lord Russell Place, with whom applications and testimonials (addressed to the Convener of the Organist Committee) must be lodged by August 17.

WANTED, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, for Richmond Hill Congregational Church, Bournemouth. Salary, £50 per annum. Address, J. R. Ridley, North Wold, Bournemouth.

ALL SAINTS', Scarborough.—ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, at Michaelmas. Salary commencing at £60. Organ cost £2,500. Splendid Library of Music. Beautiful church. Full Choral Services. Missa Cantata and Anthem every Sunday. Church noted for its Music and Ritual. Capital teaching. Dr. Naylor was organist here for many years before leaving for York Minster. Address, Vicar.

ORGANIST.—PERCY H. FELL (late of St. Mark's, South Norwood) takes VACATION DUTIES, &c. Address, 1, Farquhar Road, Upper Norwood, S.E.

ORGANIST.—MR. F. J. MARCHMENT takes VACATION or occasional SUNDAY WORK, Oratorio Accompaniments, &c. Wingfield, Hamlet Road, Upper Norwood, S.E.

ORGANIST desires ENGAGEMENT in London or South of London. Last post nearly eight years. Good testimonials. Sussex, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER desires APPOINTMENT. Ritualistic Church. Choral celebrations. Anglican or Gregorian. Good accompanist, &c. Recitals. Exc. ref. H., 35, High Street, Lewes.

EXPERIENCED ORGANIST and CHOIR-TRAINER DISENGAGED, after August 15, for vacation or regular work. Gregorian, 5, Bloomfield Terrace, Ebury Street, S.W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER requires RE-ENGAGEMENT. Several years' experience. Good Testimonials. J., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 80 and 81, Queen St., E.C.

TO CLERGY and ORGANISTS.—Exp. Organist offers £5 Bonus for introduction, with appointment. Any good seaside town. Young. Excellent testimonials. F. G. C. M., 8, Richmond Street, Plaistow, Essex.

A THOROUGHLY competent and successful ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER requires POST where Choral Services, Oratorio Selections, and Organ Recitals are appreciated. Experienced Choir-trainer, accustomed to large organs and the management of voluntary choirs. Highest references. Address, Organo, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

EXPERIENCED DEPUTY-ORGANIST.—M. F. GARRARD, A.R.C.O., Organist, St. Michael's, Sydenham. At liberty to deputise during the summer. Newstead, Champion Park, Sydenham, S.E.

A GENTLEMAN, MUSICMASTER of first-rate School, would like to take ORGAN DUTIES at a country church for a fortnight, during August or September, or would assist Organist with a view to increasing experience. Isle of Thanet district preferred. Graduate, 2, Waterloo Villas, Reading St., Broadstairs.

A YOUNG DUTCH MUSICIAN, director of one of the best Orchestras in Holland, already well known as a Composer of Operettas and popular music, wants an ENGAGEMENT as a director of a Theatre or an Orchestral Institution. First-rate references from leading musicians can be given. Apply to De Nieuwe Muziekhandel, 46, Leidsche Straat, Amsterdam.

WANTED, a Young Man of gentlemanly appearance and good address, as TUNER and REGULATOR, with knowledge of American Organs, Sheet Music, and Small Goods. Able to try over Instruments. Good salesman, to take part management of branch business. Highest references indispensable. Apply, with photo, stating experience, age, height, and salary required, to J. Herbert Marshall, Leicester.

TUNER WANTED. Chiefly Out-door work. Address, stating age, previous experience, references, and salary required, Messrs. Harrison, Music Warehouse, Birmingham.

TUNER WANTED (married) (25 to 30). Good salesman, pushing man. Only those whose character and work will bear investigation need apply. Permanency. T. A. Z., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, Young Man as PIANOFORTE TUNER, with knowledge of American Organs, &c. State age, reference, and salary required; enclose photo. U'Glow, Music Stores, Falmouth.

TUNER and REPAIRER, PIANOS, HARMONIUMS, &c. WANTED, for a permanency. Must be steady, of good address, energetic, and willing to extend a good-class connection. Arnfield's Music Warehouse, Dolgelley, N. Wales.

WANTED, a good TUNER and REPAIRER of PIANOS and ORGANS. Send references, C.D.V., and full particulars to Presto, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

FIRST-CLASS TUNER desires RE-ENGAGEMENT. Thorough knowledge of Organs and Harmoniums; all kinds of Repairs. A., 27, Humber Street, Weaste, Manchester.

PIANOFORTE TUNER desires ENGAGEMENT. Reliable references. Practical knowledge of American Organs, ordinary repairs, &c. F., Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANO TUNER desires BERTH at end of September, with practical man, where more experience in organs and harmoniums, &c., could be gained. London preferred. Good reference. Permanency desired. Particulars, &c., Diatonic, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER REQUIRES two or three days' WORK a week, in or near Brighton. Country work preferred. Understands repairs and American organs. E. Ireland, 7, Richmond Place, Brighton.

TUNER seeks ENGAGEMENT. Eleven years' experience. Understands American organs. Address, C. W. L., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

OUT-DOOR TUNER. Permanency to steady, reliable man; married. From 27. Country. Must know his work. Apply, P. T., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

IMPROVER. — Young Man, fair Tuner, desires SITUATION where he can improve in the General Music Business, Tuning, and Repairs. No objection to distance. A. Brantom, The Lawns, Leighton Buzzard.

WANTED, an ASSISTANT to the GENERAL MUSIC BUSINESS. Must have good knowledge of sheet music and be able to play at sight. Apply, with references, salary required, &c., to C. R., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MANAGER or HEAD SALESMAN'S POST REQUIRED in the PIANOFORTE TRADE, London or Provinces. Twenty years' experience. Good Pianist, Organist, and well up in the Revision of Manuscripts, &c. Six years' excellent reference from one of the first houses in London. Address, S. F., Piano, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

GENTLEMAN requires APPOINTMENT as MANAGER or PIANOFORTE SALESMAN in a Music Business, in or near London or in the South of England, or as Traveller for a high-class firm of Pianoforte Manufacturers. Good address, twenty years' experience. Well-known by the best London firms. Speaks and writes fluently French and German. Knows the Continent well. Address, M. B. 5, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MANAGER.—RE-ENGAGEMENT REQUIRED by Gentleman, recently Manager for one of the largest houses in the country. Highest references. T. K. B., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

SALESMAN requires SITUATION. Four years' first-class experience. Well up in Catalogues, &c. Good sight-reader, organist, violinist. Excellent reference. Abstainer. X., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGAN PRACTICE (City) 1s. per hour. Three manuals, C.O. pedals. Willis (from Minories), 2, Church Row, Aldgate, E.C.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals; independent pedals. Terms, One Shilling per hour. Specification post-free. Blennerhasset's Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, King's Cross, W.C.

ORGAN PRACTICE. Three manuals and pedals. One shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN, blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depôt, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

WANTED, a good ORGAN (two-manual), reasonable price, for a Congregational Church seating 450. Apply, Rev. Samuel Nutton, Tunstall, Staffordshire.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand) for SALE, from £20, with pedals. Instruments for Church, Chapel, and College, built on the most modern principles, at Bedwell and Sons', Cambridge Organ Works, Cambridge.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand), excellent for Church or Chapel, two manuals, modern compass and appliances, having 9, 12, 17 stops. W. E. Richardson and Sons, Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

ORGAN, good Second-Hand; 2-manual, 13 stops, for SALE.—G. Field, 58, Erskine Street, Hulme, Manchester

ORGANS for SALE (Second-hand) or HIRE.

1. Two-manual, 17 stops. Full compass. Pine case, with front pipes of zinc. Depth, 6 ft.; width, 9 ft. 6 in. By Flight and Robson. £100.
3. Three-manual organ. Re-built by Bishop. Now standing in St. John's Church, Kingston-on-Thames. Must be sold at once, to make room for larger instrument now being erected. Price £250. Apply to H. Kendra Baker, Esq., 4, Grove Crescent, Kingston-on-Thames; or, Norman Bros. and Beard, 46, Queen Victoria Street, London, E.C.
8. Two-manual, 21 stops. Built by Telford, Dublin. In handsome Gothic case. Full compass. In first-rate order. £200.

For full particulars, apply to Norman Bros. and Beard, 46, Queen Victoria Street, London; and Norwich.

FESTIVAL ORGAN for SALE.—The Fine-Toned ORGAN, consisting of two Manuals (CC to A) and Pedal Organ (CCC to F), which will be used at the forthcoming Musical Festival in Worcester Cathedral, will be for disposal in September next. The instrument can be heard in the Factory any time until the end of August. For full particulars, apply to the Builders, Nicholson and Co., Palace Yard, Worcester.

ORGAN, to be SOLD at a sacrifice, for Church or Chamber. 2 manuals, 14 stops; beautiful tone, well decorated. £85. F. W. Hulme, 121, Hanover Street, Sheffield.

ORGAN for SALE. Two manuals, 13 stops, Bourdons, and pedals. Organs tuned and repaired. R. Cope, Jardin Street, Camberwell, S.E.

CHURCH PIPE ORGAN. 10 ft. high. Modern design. 8 stops. Full compass. Independent pedal organ. Lead 500 persons. Sound, serviceable instrument. Price only 65 guineas. M. T., 52, Hazlewood Crescent, Westbourne Park, London.

PEDAL ORGAN, by Estey and Co., with 11 stops, full compass pedals of 30 notes, side and foot-blowers, stool included. Catalogue price, 70 guineas; now offered for £28. W. White, Grantham.

AMERICAN ORGAN, 8½ guineas. 11 stops, including the two knee-stops, and the beautiful solo stops vox celeste and vox humana, two octave couplers. Handsome high case. Ten years' warranty. Easy terms. Packing and carriage free. T. D'Almaine and Co. (Established from 110 to 111 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, E.C. Open till 7; Saturdays, 3.

AN Estey walnut American PEDAL ORGAN for SALE. Two manuals, 13 stops, 4 composition pedals. Equal to new. Price £45. List price, 90 guineas. Apply, K., Eastle's Farm, Bradwell, Great Yarmouth.

TWO-MANUAL and PEDAL AMERICAN ORGAN, by Mason and Hamlin, for SALE. Price £55. Excellent tone. First-rate condition. T. H. A. G., 19, Grant's Avenue, Bournemouth.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easy to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus, with full description and price lists, on application to Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

VIRGIL PRACTICE CLAVIER, TECHNIQUE TABLE, and INSTRUCTION BOOK. All new. Offers to A. C. Cragg, Cirencester.

HARPSICHORD. — Fine old Instrument, by Kirkman, in perfect working order, £40. Harp, double-action, Erat. Perfect order. £25. Morley, Harp Maker, South Kensington Station.

PIANO, 12½ guineas. Solid iron frame, trichord, full compass, celeste action, in handsome walnut case. Ten years' warranty. Easy terms; approval; carriage free. D'Almaine (Established from 110 to 111 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, City. Open till 7; Saturdays, 3.

FOR SALE.—HAND-BELLS.—Set of 19, in good order, in box. Makers: Mears and Stainbank. Price £5 5s. Original price, without box, £7 9s. 3d. Apply to Mrs. L., Dean's Court, Wimborne.

VIOLIN STRINGS.—Send 9d. for samples of four best "E" Strings. Alphonse Cary, 3, Oxford Circus Avenue, London, W.

PIANOFORTE and MUSICAL INSTRUMENT BUSINESS, with good tuning connection, for DISPOSAL, as a going concern, in Derbyshire. Established about sixty years. Stock, fixtures, &c., at valuation. Rare opportunity for practical tuner. Owner retiring. B. C. A., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TO be DISPOSED OF immediately, or at March, 1897, that Old-Established BUSINESS carried on since 1872 by Morfey Brothers, of 10, Waterloo Road, Burslem, as a PIANOFORTE, HARMONIUM, and MUSIC WAREHOUSE. There is a good Hiring, Teaching, and Tuning connection. Also a Quadrille Band Business attached to it. The rental is £40 per year. Satisfactory reasons for giving up. Terms, £300. Inquiries invited. Address, Morfey Brothers, 10, Waterloo Road, Burslem, Stoke-on-Trent.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,

Organ Builders,

SPRINGWOOD WORKS,

HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,

ORGAN BUILDERS,

PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.

(ESTABLISHED 1841.)

Specifications and Estimates sent free.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications. Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. R. Willis (from Minories), 2, Church Row, Aldgate, London, E.C.

HYDRAULIC ENGINES for Organ Blowing. Blennerhasset's Patent "Perfect" Prize Medal Engines are the best. 1B, Vernon Street, King's Cross Road, London, W.C.

T. R. WILLIS (from Minories, est. 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Strings, Wire, Violins, Concertinas, &c. 2, Church Row, Aldgate, E.C.

CASSOCKS.—500 new Tailor-made, Black, Red, Violet, Blue, 9s. to 20s.; SURPLICES, from 3s. to 12s. "Surplice," The Church Agency, Limited, Lombard House, E.C.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights, Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, and PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.
London: B. Williams, 19, Ivy Lane, Paternoster Row, E.C.

WANTED (Second-hand), some forty copies of Barnett's "ANCIENT MARINER." F. Rogers, Lamorva, Falmouth. Write on or after August 20.

HANDEL'S COMPLETE WORKS, in thirty-two large and expensively-bound vols. Price twenty-five guineas. Apply, Johnson Hicks, Glen View, Torquay.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE BOOK, with the additional Tunes as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Third Thousand.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in G. By Alfred J. Dye. Price 4d.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Fourth Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat, by William S. Vinning, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F. By John E. Campbell, A.R.C.O. Price 4d. "Decidedly melodious and vocal."—James Langran, Mus.B., Oxon. "Should be very effective."—H. Percy Richardson, F.R.C.O. Copies may be obtained from Composer, at 22, Vicarage Street, Hollinwood, Oldham.

EVENING SERVICE in D (Unison). By C. H. Kitson, B.A. (Cantab.). Price 3d. "Decidedly novel. We can cordially recommend it."—Musical News.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Creation." 1s. each book.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Now Ready. On the 1st of each Month. 228 Cols. 2d.; Post-free, 3½d.
MUSICAL OPINION and MUSIC TRADE REVIEW. 150, Holborn Bars, E.C.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON.

For Musical Education and Examination.—Inst. 1872.

President:
Sir RICHARD E. WEBSTER, G.C.M.G., Q.C., M.P.
Warden:
Professor E. H. TURPIN, Mus.D.
Director of Examinations:
Professor JAMES HIGGS, Mus.B.
Registrar:
Professor GORDON SAUNDERS, Mus.D.

HIGHER EXAMINATIONS.

At the FORTY-SIXTH HALF-YEARLY HIGHER EXAMINATIONS, held in July, 1896, the following Candidates passed:—

Licentiates in Music.—Nellie B. Harris, George Woodhouse.

Associates in Music.—Dora J. Bamforth, Maria K. Bell, Elizabeth A. Blackler, Edith B. Blight, Elsie E. Chard, Arthur Duxbury, S. Alice Fish, Beatrice M. Gibbs, Laurence R. Glenton, Benjamin Higham, Margaret Page, Daniel Patterson, junr., Owen Price, Margaret H. Settle, Edmund R. Snape, Georgina M. Symington, Mrs. Harriet A. Trebilcock, Sarah E. Underhill, John E. Watson, Mary S. Wheeler, Florence G. Wintle.

Preliminary Certificates for Associate in Music.—Ada S. Hughes, Gertrude Payne.

Matriculation Certificates. — Honours. — Arthur Duxbury, Beatrice M. Jones, Mrs. Rose Mesham, John E. Watson, Margaret L. Wilcox, Maud A. Winter. Pass.—Mrs. J. Fisher Alexander, Dora J. Bamforth, George W. Lloyds, Edith A. Murray, Hilda C. Nichols, Lué Shipway.

Harmony Certificates.—Honours.—Clarence E. Ryall-Davis. Pass.—Mabel Cowie, Annie E. Davies, Ada E. Saville.

Counterpoint Certificates.—Annie E. Davies, Nellie Peacock, Ada E. Saville.

Choir-Training Certificate.—Charlotte L. Welham.

Associate Pianists.—Grace H. R. Beale, Amy Biffen, Winifred E. Donn, Louisa S. Dunstan, Alfred Harriss, Helen M. Kendrick, Alice J. Norton, Lilian G. Smith, Edith Wilkins, Flora L. Willoughby, L.T.C.L.

Certificated Pianists.—Constance M. Ashfield, Kate Baxter, Mary G. Blackwell, Ellen R. Bocock, Winifred Brown, Elizabeth Burn, Thomas B. Croxall, Ella G. Dougharty, Edith M. Glendinning, A.T.C.L., Edith Green, Emily B. Guest, Mabel S. Halliday, Edith E. Hayward, Hilda B. Hellier, Margaret Hicks, Grace A. Horwill, Eleanor A. Hughes, Annie S. James, Ethel M. G. R. Long, Ethel M. Lydall, Mary C. Marsh, Florence Medwin, Clarice A. A. Miller, Clarisse M. A. Newton, Kate F. Osborn, Florence L. Pacey, Amy J. Perry, Catherine A. Prankerd, Gertrude Race, Frances J. Radcliffe, Edith E. Robbins, Beatrice J. Sabine, Mary Scott, Mabel E. Spry, Georgia M. Stokes, Annie Terrill, Effie G. Wilson.

Associate Vocalist.—Adelaide M. Lambe.

Certificated Vocalist.—Edith E. Crick.

Certificated Violinists.—Kate E. Anderson, Cicely C. Hide.

Certificated Organists.—Leonard Hart, Margaret E. Thomas.

Number of Candidates entered, 203; total number of passes, 98.

Examiners: G. E. Bambridge, L.T.C.L.; Henry R. Bird, L.T.C.L.; William Creser, Mus.D.; F. A. W. Docker; A. E. Drinkwater, M.A.; L. Duloup; Charles Edwards; Myles B. Foster, L.T.C.L.; Charles Gardner; Alfred Gilbert; Arthur J. Greenish, Mus.D.; Prof. James Higgs, Mus.B.; Robert Hilton; C. Warwick Jordan, Mus.D.; A. H. Mann, Mus.D.; C. W. Pearce, Mus.D.; Prof. Gordon Saunders, Mus.D.; Prof. E. Turpin, Mus.D.; and A. H. Walker, B.A., Mus.D.

By order of the Academical Board,
SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

Just Published.

THE CHURCH CATECHISM

IN METRICAL FORM, FOR SINGING AS HYMNS

BY THE

Right Rev. BISHOP JENNER & AMABEL JENNER.

Price 1d. each; in Packets of 50, 3s. 6d.
Edition with Music by Myles B. Foster. Price 3d.

ALSO,

FAITH DUTY AND PRAYER

An Abridged Version of above

BEING VERSES ON THESE ELEMENTARY CHRISTIAN VIRTUES

FOR THE USE OF

CHILDREN IN SCHOOL, AT WORSHIP, OR IN THE HOME.

Price 1d. each; in Packets of 50, 3s. 6d.
Edition with Music by Myles B. Foster. Price 2d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

John Broadwood & Sons

(ESTABLISHED 1732)

PIANOFORTE MAKERS

BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT TO

HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES

HER ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCESS OF WALES

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH (DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG AND GOTHA)

AND THE

REST OF THE ROYAL FAMILY.

John Broadwood & Sons

respectfully draw attention to, and invite inspection of, their newly introduced and improved straight and cross strung

HORIZONTAL

AND

UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES.

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET (near Regent Street),
LONDON, W.

Established 1780.

ERARD ROYAL PIANOS

WITH NEW

RESONATOR.

Patent 20764/94.

THE Musical Invention of the age.

NOTICE.

This patent, by its marvellous utility, has, as is usually the case, raised a storm of opposition from certain Pianoforte Manufacturers who are debarred from applying it to their instruments. Messrs. ERARD, therefore, will be happy to give those who desire to test this wonderful invention every facility to form their own judgment of its extraordinary merits, by proving it any day at their Establishment in

GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET.

Particulars and Prices sent Post-free on application.

With this Number is presented gratis an Extra Supplement, consisting of an easy Anthem for Harvest, by George J. Elvey, entitled "The eyes of all wait on Thee."

THE MUSICAL TIMES
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
AUGUST 1, 1896.

JOSEPH ALFRED NOVELLO.

Born 1810; Died July 16, 1896.

Extract from "Life and Labours of Vincent Novello, by his Daughter, Mary Cowden Clarke," p. 33:

"It was in the following year (1829) that the family removed to 67, Frith Street; and it was here that Vincent Novello's eldest son, Alfred, first commenced business. A very modest beginning, in appearance—a couple of parlour windows and a glass door, with a few title-pages bearing composers' names of sterling merit, and Vincent Novello's as editor; but conscientious faith in promoting the diffusion of the best music on the part of him who edited; industry, punctuality, and zeal on the part of the young publisher, with practical counsel, moral encouragement, and untiring sympathy on the part of her who aided husband and son in their public endeavours, as in their private hopes and aims, made that original, simple parlour-shop the germ of the mart for supplying England—nay, the world, with highest-class music. It was at 67, Frith Street, and subsequently, at 69, Dean Street (to which latter place he removed in 1834) that Vincent Novello had the gratification of seeing his sons and daughters around him in the exercise of those talents which nature had given, and which himself and wife had fostered."

Of the family born to Vincent Novello—seven daughters and four sons—five died in infancy, childhood, or early manhood, leaving six—five daughters and one son—to reach maturity. Of the six, four still remain—that is to say, Mary Victoria (Mrs. Cowden Clarke), Clara Anastasia (Countess Gigliucci), and Emma Aloysia and Mary Sabilla, neither of whom married. They are now mourning the death of the one brother spared to them beyond the days of youth, and it is with him, in memoriam, that we here have to do.

Alfred Novello had an artistic as well as a business career, and for a long time was conspicuous as a bass vocalist at festivals and concerts. The record of his doings in that capacity is easily accessible in the columns of the Musical World and other journals of the period, but it was not as a singer that the eldest son of Vincent Novello wrote his name upon enduring brass, and best served the cause of music. There is nothing of greater interest connected with him than the "parlour-shop" in Frith Street. Passers along that thoroughfare during the early thirties may scarcely have noticed the modest place of business, with its few respectable and costly volumes exposed for sale. But often do vast changes begin in this humble way. "Every revolution," says Emerson, "was once a thought in one man's mind," and it was nothing less than a revolution in music-selling which sprang from the mind of the young Frith Street publisher. How the idea reached him, whether communicated and fostered by his father or evolved from his own prevision of possibilities, we do not know, nor is it very material to enquire. Enough that he possessed it, or, rather, it possessed him, and that he worked it out with results for which we all have reason to be grateful.

It is difficult to imagine the state of music, as regards the publication of musical works, which obtained when Alfred Novello entered upon his beneficent career; and it now appears almost inconceivable that reforms of the most obviously useful character met with opposition from the very men they were adapted to serve. By way of evidence on this point, take a passage from "A Short History of Cheap Music," published in 1887 by Novello, Ewer and Co.:

"It is a somewhat singular fact that when Alfred Novello furnished separate vocal parts for the use of choirs, each part complete as far as it went, the older singers strongly objected to the innovation, as it was called. They preferred to sing from the old imperfect manuscript copies, or from the printed scores of Boyce, Green, Croft, Arnold, Page, &c. The neatly engraved oblong editions of the Masses of Haydn and Mozart, which were given to the world at what was then a very cheap rate—the cost of these cheap editions ranging from two shillings to nine and sixpence, each Mass being priced according to size—were looked upon with suspicion, as representing a somewhat dangerous form of revolution in the musical world."

This state of things would be inexplicable but for the fact that the singers of those days were nearly all professionals of some grade or other, and for the probability that they scented danger to their craft in every attempt to simplify or popularise the practice of music. In the same little volume we read that the members of the Cecilian Society "were obliged to sing from manuscript copies made by themselves, or, if they possessed them, from the old scores printed by Randall, Harrison, or Arnold, or from the new editions of certain of Handel's oratorios, edited by Dr. John Clarke, of Cambridge (Clarke-Whitfeld), printed from engraved plates, and published in volumes at two guineas each, by Button and Whitaker, 75, St. Paul's Churchyard, in 1809." It is no wonder that, under such conditions, music made slow progress. The art was cribbed, cabined, and confined. It awaited a deliverer, who appeared when Alfred Novello took the first step towards making its masterpieces accessible to the poorest votary. His first task was, of course, to lessen the expense of production, and, after that, to create and expand a market for his wares. He set about the former with a resolution that overcame very formidable obstacles; while his method in the second case had in it so much originality and attractiveness that the advance towards success was made easy and rapid.

Literature of every kind bore weighty burdens in the "thirties." Advertisements, we read in the "Short History," had to pay a heavy duty, often capriciously assessed. "This was only one among the many vexatious taxes upon knowledge. Some of them, imposed in the reign of Queen Anne, were originally intended to secure accuracy of information, and to facilitate measures of tracing authorship, but had grown into harassing obstructions. Every publication which contained any item of news must bear a stamp; every advertisement must pay a duty to the Government. There was also a heavy excise duty on paper, and an import duty on books and music." Alfred Novello, as may be imagined, was a determined enemy of these imposts, with all their obstructive and limiting influences. But no Government enters lightly upon experiments with its fiscal system, and the abolitionists of taxes upon knowledge (who formed themselves into a society, with Mr. Novello as treasurer) had an up-hill task before them. They were not dismayed, but, like Abraham Lincoln, went on "pegging away." In 1850 we find Alfred Novello petitioning the House of Commons single-handed, and, by a simple statement of facts, reducing the system then in vogue to absurdity. The petition is too long for reproduction here, but its concluding paragraph may be quoted:

"Your petitioner therefore prays that the excise tax upon paper, the tax upon advertisements, and the stamp tax upon newspapers may be abolished, leaving the authorities to fix a small charge for the transmission of newspapers by post."

These demands were all granted in time. In 1855 the compulsory stamp upon newspapers was swept away. The advertisement duty and other imposts of a like nature died and were buried, without tears, the printing press was freed from its shackles, and there was an instant forward movement along the entire line.

Another and very troublesome obstacle which Alfred Novello had to encounter was set up by Trade Union rules. On this matter the "Short History" says:

"Continuous efforts, strenuously made, might in time induce the Government to yield to the demand for a free and unfettered press, but only the determined action of a few capitalists who had found a market for their goods could break down the rules of the trade—rules which kept men idle at times and often deprived them of bread. The press, as an instrument of enlightenment, was not fulfilling all its functions, because the workers hindered the power of development by their self-imposed rules."

One of those rules was directed against the use of music type, which Messrs. Clowes, after carrying out various improvements, sought to introduce, and the means adopted were to charge nearly double the usual price for setting up words in connection with music type. This had such an effect that, at one time, Messrs. Clowes threatened to destroy their fount.

Alfred Novello was not the man to be stopped by trade rules, as convincingly appeared when The Musical Times was projected in 1844. The little sheet promised so small a quantity of work that printers did not feel justified in risking trouble with their men on its account. "Oh! very well," Mr. Novello may be supposed to have said; "if you won't print it I will do the job myself." And he did, becoming what was known as an "outside the trade printer," and employing non-union men. Having at length freed himself from trammels, Mr. Novello found it "possible to produce a readable page of music in an octavo size, suitable for use by performers at a concert, available as text-books by audiences, and a cheap book of reference at all times."

Reference has been made to the measures adopted to secure a market for the cheap music. It need hardly be demonstrated that Alfred Novello met with little assistance from the trade, which was slow to understand the revolution effected or threatened. It became necessary to establish direct communication, as far as possible, between producer and consumer, and who so fit to open it up as the man who had most interest in the result? Novello was quite shrewd enough to see that, under such new conditions, he had better become his own "traveller." He did so, and soon won the good opinion of the customers he courted. A vocalist himself, a genial companion, and with rare power of adaptability, he was sure of a welcome from the music-loving populations of the North. "Alfred Novello's commercial tours," we read in the "Short History," "were exalted to the dignity of musical missions. His knowledge of music and wide sympathies constituted him an authority in cases of appeal or advice. . . . The publisher in his progress was always cordially received, and often concerts were given in his honour, the performers making extra exertions to show their advancement since his last visit. The cause thus received its greatest help from Alfred Novello, not only by his valuable and useful publications, but by his personal influence." Meanwhile the "catalogue" of the house went on lengthening and its prosperity increasing till, in 1857, the hard-working principal found that he could rest from the labours of twenty-seven years. He then saw the consummation of his hopes and endeavours, and who could grudge him the satisfaction with which he transferred the cares of business to his faithful lieutenant (soon to be successor), Henry Littleton, and settled down in the land of his paternal ancestors. He was then forty-seven years of age—an early period for retirement from the battle of life—but Alfred Novello had varied sympathies and means of enjoyment. These he could afford to indulge, and he lived an ideal life for forty years; dying, at last, in the very fulness of time and with some of those around his bed who had been united to him by the closest ties of blood and affection from the long past days when Vincent Novello's children were like olive branches round about his table. Mr. Novello's venerable appearance must be remembered by all who saw him during his last visit to the country for which he did so much. He seemed to embody Young's idea of an old age which walks

> . . . thoughtful on the silent, solemn shore
> Of that vast ocean it must sail so soon.

FROM MY STUDY.

With regard to the autographs reproduced in the present issue little need be said. I do not know to whom Ernst wrote his acknowledgment, but am disposed to think that the donor of the "magnifique present" was the great artist's old friend, W. Davison. The letter, as will be observed, bears neither date nor address. Madame Christine Nilsson's album-inscription is interesting as containing the opening phrase of the Scandinavian melody introduced by Ambroise Thomas into his "Hamlet." Many a reader can recall the charm with which the Swedish artist used to invest the song when playing Ophelia.

I have not yet done with the MSS. forwarded to me by Miss Sabilla Novello, though the more interesting have passed under notice. One now lying before me contains what are obviously memoranda made by Vincent Novello for the Life of Mozart which, we know, he intended to write. At the head of the first page of a sheet of letter paper appears the following:

"Concert Room, King's Theatre, 1st time. 'Requiem' performed, Thursday, 28 May, 1812, in commemoration of Dussek—for the benefit of Pio Ranchetino. Mrs. Bianchi Lacy, Sig. Tremezzani, Mr. Goss, Mr. Lacy; Leader, Mr. Salomon; Organ, Mr. Novello."

Dussek died on March 20, in the same year; hence the commemoration. The identity of Ranchetino I have not yet succeeded in discovering. It would appear that, when making the entry above quoted, Vincent Novello counted this performance of the "Requiem" as the first in England. Even were he right in doing so our country would have no reason for special shame. The score of the "Requiem" was first published in 1800, in which same year the work was performed by the Singakademie, Berlin. But it does not appear to have been heard in Vienna till 1826. Twelve years after the issue of the score would, therefore, have been a creditable date for London. As a matter of fact, however, the "Requiem" was produced here in 1801; the evidence to this effect being a concert word-book now before me, and having on its title-page a pencilled inscription in the handwriting of Vincent Novello: "This pamphlet was given to me by Mr. Shield, Friday, August 15, /28." The little book is thus entitled:

"The Requiem, or Grand Funeral Anthem, composed by W. A. Mozart, late Maëstro di Capella in the Church of St. Peter, and Compositeur de la Chambre to the Emperor at Vienna, and L'Allegro il Pensieroso (sic), written by Milton and composed by G. F. Handel. As performed under the direction of Mr. Ashley at the Theatre Royal, Covent Garden, during Lent, 1801."

Thus it is proved that in order of performance, as far as available records serve, London came next after Berlin. Thanks to Mr. Ashley for this honourable distinction. Who was Mr. Ashley? The answer is that John Ashley, senior, was a bassoon player, whose name occurs in the story of the Handel Commemoration of 1784 as an assistant-conductor to Joah Bates. He became director of the Lenten "oratorios" at Covent Garden in 1795, and afterwards, with his four sons, was famous in the provinces, where he regularly organised what were called "grand musical festivals." It is said of him that he degraded the oratorio concerts at Covent Garden by introducing miscellaneous selections, both sacred and secular. Against that offence should be placed, as no inconsiderable set-off, his early introduction of Mozart's immortal work. The four sons were, first, General Ashley, a violinist, pupil of Giardini. Second, Charles Jane Ashley, a cellist, who carried on the "oratorios" after his father's death. As an accompanist, Charles was accounted as second only to Lindley. He helped to found the Glee Club in 1793, was an original member of the Philharmonic Society, Secretary to the Royal Society of Musicians, and, for nearly twenty years, a resident within the rules of the King's Bench prison. The third son, John James, became a well-known organist, pianist, and singing master; while the fourth, Richard, played the viola in the principal London orchestras. The whole family assisted at the performance of the "Requiem"; the father as director; General as principal violin; John, junior, as organist; Charles as principal cellist, and Richard as tympanist. Let their united names be held in honour.

The "Requiem" was preceded by a Dead March, probably that in "Saul," and the solos were sung by Mrs. Second, Mrs. Dussek, Charles Smith (then a boy pupil of John James Ashley), Mr. Dignum, and Mr. Denman; while the orchestra was made up of strings, two bassoons, three trumpets, two corni di basetto, a bass trumpet (played by Mr. Attwood), two oboes, two flutes, three trombones, two double bassoons, two horns and drums. There was also an instrument described as a "Serbano," played by Mr. Sickle. The term may be a printer's mistake for Serpente.

I am inclined to consider the book now before me as the first example of its kind with historical notes. On the second page appears an "advertisement" in the form of a short address to the public, beginning: "Mozart. So little is the merit or the history of this extraordinary character known in this country that I have been induced by a sense of duty, as well as gratitude to a generous public, to compile a short sketch of his life, partly from German biographers and periodical publications, and partly from the information of those who were personally acquainted with him." This is signed by John Ashley, who then fills $3\frac{1}{2}$ pages with details of the master's career and a special reference to the "Requiem." Though not always accurate, the little sketch is sufficiently so to excite surprise considering the imperfect materials then at command. With regard to the orchestra mentioned above, it should not be supposed that Ashley had parts for all of them. Those not in Mozart's score were needed for the Handelian selection which followed.

The remaining memoranda in Vincent Novello's MS. may be transcribed without comment:

"1806. 29th March. Mozart's 'La Clemenza di Tito' for the first time, for the benefit of Mrs. Billington, in which Mr. Braham sung."

"1812. Mozart's 'Le Nozze di Figaro' performed for the first time, Thursday, 18 June, 1812, for the benefit of the Scottish Hospital." Among the artists were Madame Catalani (Susannah), Mrs. Dickons (La Contessa), and Naldi (Figaro).

"1811. Mozart's 'Cosi fan Tutti' performed, 1st time, for Madame —— (not decipherable) benefit, 9th May."

"1811. Mozart's 'Zauberflöte' performed first time, for Signor Naldi, 6th June."

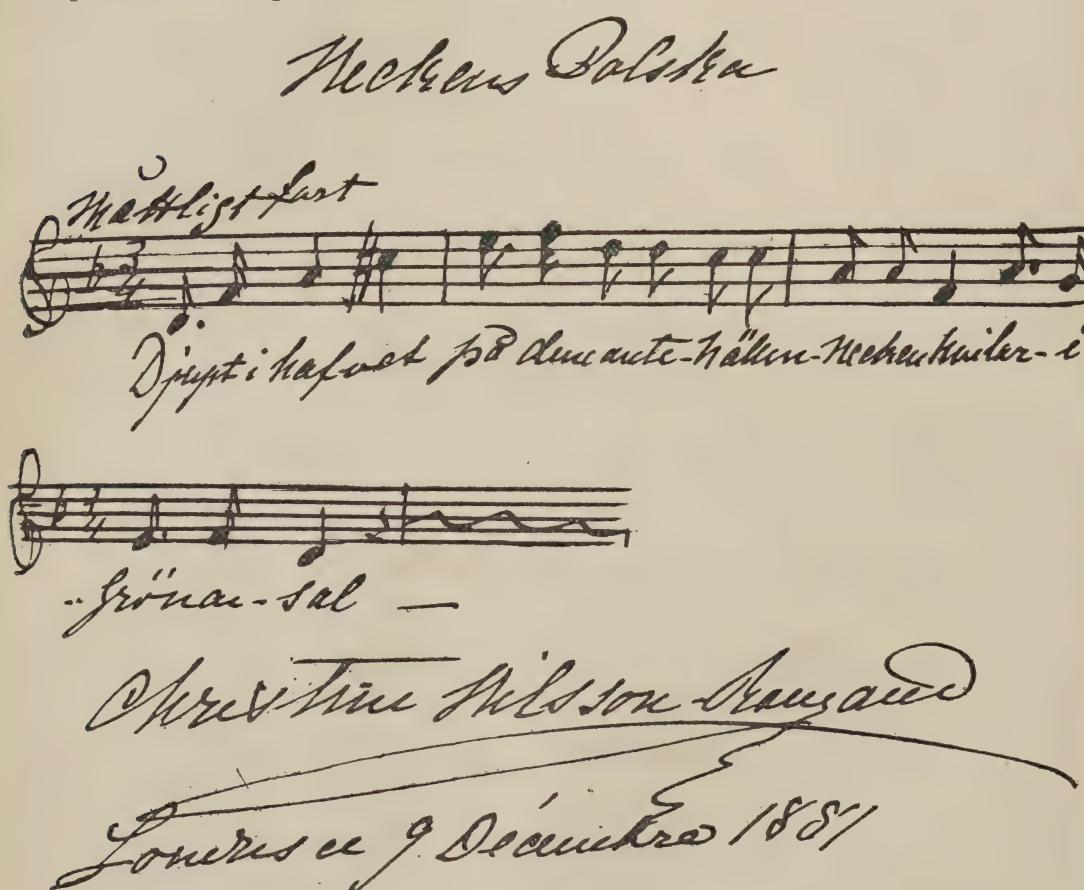
"1813. Mozart's 'Il Don Giovanni' first performed as a Concert by a party of gentlemen amateurs at the 'Crown and Anchor' Tavern, April 13th."

"The above opera performed at the King's Theatre 1st time, April 12, 1817." In the cast on this occasion were Ambrogetti (Don Giovanni), Crevelli (Don Ottavio), Naldi (Leporello), and Madame Fodor (Zerlina).

The American Art Journal of the 4th ult. contains an article on "The Star-Spangled Banner" from the pen of Mr. J. Fairfax McLaughlin, in which the writer comes to this conclusion: "The air as well as the words of our national anthem appear to belong, not to England, but to the United States." I cannot exhaustively discuss the question thus raised within the space now at command, and will limit myself to a part thereof, proposing to show that, so far, Mr. McLaughlin is altogether in the wrong.

It is not denied in any quarter that the words of "The Star-Spangled Banner" were set to the tune of a song known as "To Anacreon in Heaven," and Mr. McLaughlin is quite shrewd enough to see the importance of demonstrating that this song, words and music, had its origin in America. For my part, I claim that if I can prove the words to have been known and sung in England long before their first publication in

Mon cher ami



Merci, mille fois merci de votre magnifique présent. Ma santé n'est malheureusement pas encore en assez bon état pour que je puisse en jouir complètement; mais je jouirai en tout cas de la votre ~~[illegible]~~ ne sera jamais oubliée.

Mille amitiés pour votre femme et pour vous, de nous deux.

Tout à vous

Ch. Gounod

the United States, the fact is reasonable ground for at least a suspicion that the air traditionally associated with them, by whomsoever composed, is English also. I intend now to put in such proof. But first let me quote Mr. McLaughlin. He says: "In the 'Vocal Companion,' published at Philadelphia in 1796 by Matthew Carey, the words and music of the song were first printed. The name of the author was not given. I challenge any man to point out its publication in England prior to that date." In another place the writer says: "More than a quarter of a century after it had been published and re-published in the United States, 'The Universal Songster,' published at London from 1825 to 1834, printed the song 'To Anacreon in Heaven' for the first time that I have been able, after a rather exhaustive search, to discover its publication in Great Britain, and gave the name of Ralph Tomlinson as author." It is true that "The Universal Songster" did all this, but, alas for Mr. McLaughlin's "rather exhaustive search," which evidently did not extend to a by no means obscure collection of songs published in London in 1778, and entitled: "The Vocal Magazine, or British Songster's Miscellany. Containing all the English, Scotch and Irish Songs, Cantatas, Glees, Catches, Airs, Ballads, &c., deemed in any Way worthy of being transmitted to Posterity." Two volumes, with Frontispiece and Portraits. The 566th song in this collection is "To Anacreon in Heaven," and it was, Mr. McLaughlin will observe, printed in London eighteen years before its first publication in the States. What becomes now of Mr. McLaughlin's challenge?

I go on to another point. The American writer says: "The words of the ballad indicate that it was written for a Bacchanalian club, but where the club flourished or when it was established are vexed questions which the most indefatigable research has never been able to solve." Let us see if this be not another rash statement. The song, as printed in the "British Songster's Miscellany," is headed "Anacreonic Society." Now what was the Anacreonic Society in 1778, where did it meet, and what specially connected it with "To Anacreon in Heaven"? I invite Mr. McLaughlin's attention to the following extract from W. T. Parke's "Musical Memoirs," Vol. I., p. 80:

"This season (1786) I became an honorary member of the Anacreonic Society, and, at the first meeting, played a concerto on the oboe, as did Cramer on the violin. The assemblage of subscribers was, as usual, very numerous, amongst whom were several noblemen and gentlemen of the first distinction. Sir Richard Hankey (the banker) was the chairman. This fashionable society consisted of a limited number of members, each of whom had the privilege of introducing a friend, for which he paid in his subscription accordingly. The meetings were held in the great ball-room of the 'Crown and Anchor' tavern in the Strand, once a fortnight during the season, and the entertainments of the evening consisted of a grand Concert, in which all the flower of the musical profession assisted as honorary members. After the Concert an elegant supper was served up, and when the cloth was removed, the constitutional song, beginning 'To Anacreon in Heaven,' was sung by the chairman or his deputy. . . . The late chairman, Mr. Mulso, possessed a good tenor voice, and sang the song alluded to with great effect."

Mr. McLaughlin will scarcely contend now that there is any doubt as to the "Bacchanalian club," for which "To Anacreon in Heaven" was written. Parke speaks of the "constitutional song" which, if the term means anything, implies that the Anacreontic ditty belonged in a special manner to the organisation of the Anacreonic Society. This is supported by the formal use of the song at every meeting.

I have never seen the Philadelphia version of "To Anacreon in Heaven," which Mr. McLaughlin supposes to be the earliest, and am inclined to fancy that it differs from the one published here in 1778, because the last-named contains local references which would have given my American colleague pause. The second verse, as printed in the "British Songster's Miscellany," contains this line:

A fig for Parnassus! to Rowley's we'll fly and in the third verse we have:

To the hill of old Lud will incontinent flee.

I have not yet been able to locate "Rowley's," but the name is known to have been common as applied to taverns, in honour of the so-called "merry monarch," Charles II. The "hill of old Lud" is, of course, Ludgate Hill. It is reasonable to suppose that the Anacreonic Society's first home was on Ludgate Hill, and it would seem that, when they removed to the "Crown and Anchor" in the Strand, the necessary changes were made in the song. At any rate, the corresponding lines to those above quoted appear in Crosby's "English Musical Repository," circa 1806, as, first:

Away to the sons of Anacreon we'll fly next:

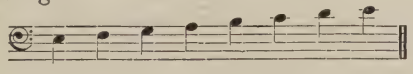
From Helicon's banks we'll incontinent flee.

Will Mr. McLaughlin, whose only desire, I feel convinced, is to get at the truth, kindly forward a copy of the Philadelphia version?

Mr. McLaughlin seems disposed to make fun of Ralph Tomlinson, to whom, in the "Universal Songster," the authorship of the words is ascribed. He says: "No critic or antiquarian in the field of ballads, sonnets, and madrigals has been able to discover the slightest clue to that individual. His failure to materialise argues strongly against this putative father of the song." But how many songs of the period were written by men now equally incapable of materialisation! Knowing that Mr. Tomlinson was an Englishman, I by no means despair of running him to earth, with the assistance of my readers. It is not unlikely that he was a member of the Society and a person of some social distinction, because, while the "Miscellany" calls all other poets "Mr.," Tomlinson is dubbed "Esquire"—a title then reserved for persons of mark, and not indiscriminately used, as now. But, quite apart from the question whether Tomlinson can "materialise" or not, I have proved that "To Anacreon in Heaven" was a well-known British song years before Carey introduced it to America. I may find something to say about the music later on. X.

INDIAN MUSIC.

A treatise on Indian music, particularly that of the Southern Indian or Karnatic music, entitled "Oriental Music in European Notation," with words in English, Telugu, and Tamil characters, edited by A. M. Chinnaswami Mudaliyar, M.A., printed at the Ave Maria Press, Pudupet, Madras, and published in 1893, shows prominently and yet unobtrusively the advance in musical knowledge and criticism made of recent years in India. This extensive work has been anticipated, so far as English readers are concerned, by the equally comprehensive one on the same subject by Captain C. R. Day, of the Oxfordshire Light Infantry (published, beautifully illustrated, by Novello and Co., 1891), who availed himself of the opportunity Indian service afforded him to thoroughly investigate the subject and sufficiently cover the ground. But the treatise of Chinnaswami Mudaliyar presents a new side to that based upon harmonic music we are accustomed to, the latest of all the arts, from which eminence we are too apt to depreciate all non-harmonic systems forming, amongst others, the melodic art of the East at the present day as well as the music of the past of the whole world. The educated Indian of to-day criticises our modern harmonic art from his non-harmonic or purely melodic and rhythmic standpoint, and this criticism reveals the limitations of our modern art, based upon harmony or the combination of musical sounds, and the restrictions to its development in certain directions, along which, owing to harmonic necessities, modern Europeans may not look.



The musical art of India is best considered in its Southern manifestation, purer than that of the North, where Persian and Mahommedan influences have served to modify it. In its present aspect it is rather Dravidian than Sanskrit, although claiming a Sanskrit origin, and this connects it with ancient Greek music precisely as the Sanskrit language is related to the dialects which formed the language of ancient Greece. As in the old Greek, so in Indian music we find an octave divided into twelve semitones, just as in the modern pianoforte which corresponds exactly with the arrangement of the frets of the Vina. There is also the prohibition to let more than three such chromatic notes succeed or be placed together. In both are the still finer divisions into quarter-tones, in modern India used only for grace; but in ancient India as in Greece, but with a slight difference in their number, as the quantitatively smallest tone-measurement. Again there are the Diatonic modes of five tones and two semitones in the octave, identical in Greece and India, although much more diversified and numerous in varieties of position in the latter. Our author does not venture too far in claiming the origin of Greek music, already allowed to be Oriental, for India. The old Greek had no aversion to the Tritone—it characterised the Hypolydian and Mixolydian modes; nor has the Indian. Thirty-six of his seventy-two modes are distinguished by its presence in the lower tetrachord; but with the Indian, unlike the Greek, whose Lydian modes were reckoned plaintive, the mode KALYĀṆI, which starts with the tritone or sharp fourth, is the merriest and liveliest of all. In Greece the chromatic was a melodic fashion only, in India it assumes an importance that is fundamental, the MĀYĀMĀḶAVA GAUḶA or written without transposition signs—

having semitones next to the limiting notes of the tetrachords and minor thirds between them, is the most favoured mode, the first taught, and the one the Indian, according to our author, is madly in love with. It is obviously melodic and the notion of harmony can have no place in it. The Indian delights also in the old Greek Dorian (HANUMA TŌḌI) in which the semitone occurs as the first interval ascending—

This mode might lend itself to harmony, but notes sounding together are absent throughout Indian music with the exception of drone notes—the "Point d'Orgue" we have inherited from the far East, the persistent fourth, fifth, or octave upon which a melody is played, as in the drone of a bagpipe or hurdy-gurdy.

It would require a more searching investigation than can be entered upon here to identify or compare the Indian Ragas or melody types with the Greek Nómoi; it is possible that like causes may have led to their common invention although the development may have been different. The first care of Chinnaswami Mudaliyar appears to be the collection, by means of a suitable notation, of the national music of Southern India. To best accomplish this he has had to choose a suitable system, and after considering the native literation, the German tablature, the English Tonic Sol-fa, he dismisses them all in favour of the common Staff notation, finding it for his purpose the best available—malleable, clear, and all-embracing. The time, species, and values of notes are more diversified in Indian than in European music; richness in rhythmic devices being fettered by the necessities of harmony; but the Staff notation is adequate to the representation even of Indian rhythmic exuberance. There are thirty-five TĀḶA composed of five species of time multiplied by seven classes of measurement—the five species being Quadruple, Triple, Septuple, Quintuple, and Nonuple. The last three are unrecognised in our time systems. Naturally, where melody is alone cultivated, it tends to a diversity and luxury which Harmony does not allow. Our author explains with much clearness why Europeans dislike, or fail to appreciate, Indian music. He says they rarely hear it in its refined expression, and quotes an Englishman, an able musician, who, after fifty years' residence in the country, could say: "I am quite ready to believe that there is more in Oriental music than Westerns give it credit for. I know that it possesses very pretty melodies, and though, I confess, I for a long time thought, in spite of my wish to find the contrary, that anything like refined artistic music was not to be heard, I must tell you that about a year ago I was most agreeably disabused of my fancy on hearing a Tanjore musician whom I met in the railway play and sing on one or two instruments. His execution was admirable, the melody charming, and his singing and accompaniment excellent."

A similar experience befell the present writer some ten years ago when there was an Exhibition in Regent Street announced as India in London. One of the excellent native musicians engaged there, a vina player from Jeypore, performed upon his instrument with an expression and virtuosity that charmed and astonished, and this entirely without the aid of harmony. Our author urges upon us to remember that our Western perfection of style is chiefly due to the possession of a written language for music, more capable of definite expression than the written systems of any of our European languages. He continues:

"Not only has the Eastern no written language of a sufficiently intelligible type for his music, but he is barely able to understand, much less to master the endless subtleties and intricacies of the Celestial art as cultivated by his ancestors; he is overwhelmed by his strenuous endeavours to retain in his memory and hand down to posterity the unwritten melodies of his great masters, most of which he has learnt solely by the ear and in a mutilated form."

Why Orientals do not appreciate European music, he says, is because they are soon tired of the constant repetition of the major and minor scales, are confused by accidentals, and by modulations which upset their recognition of the pitch or key to be observed in a composition. The Indian may modulate through different modes, but his key-note (ṣruti) remains unaltered throughout.

"The Indian finds the avenues to his heart are innumerable, and the chords which are there struck and the passions excited are endless; he lies buried in an ocean of ever-varying delight created by his numerous modes (mēḷakarta) and melody-moulds (rāga), and is unable to appreciate the more warlike and spirit-stirring excitement produced by a combination of simultaneous sounds, however sweetly or concordantly arranged as in European harmony."

Another noteworthy difference between Indian and modern European music is in the use made of the voices of men and women. The Indian runs them together, as no doubt the old Greek ran them together, thus materially restricting the vocal compass. The European separates and distinguishes them from the requirements of his harmony into bass, tenor, alto, and soprano. It is true the Indian may give a chorus to low voices, another to high, and reserve stanzas for medium voices; but the same melody runs through each variety of compass, from the lowest bass to the highest treble.

As already said, the Hindustani music of the North of the Indian peninsula differs from the Karnatic through Persian and other foreign admixture, and is becoming grafted upon that of the South, which native musicians deplore. Still the monodic style prevails, as in Persia and Arabia; and with a fundamental difference also in China, Japan, Java, Siam, and the Hindo-Chinese race generally, who differ from the Indian in not accepting the Diatonic scale in its pure form. Enough has probably been said to show that we have under notice a very remarkable book, whether as written in English by a native, or as a contribution to that store-house wherein is gathered all that can be found concerning the most ideal of the arts.

OPERA UNDER SIR AUGUSTUS HARRIS.

The late Sir Augustus Harris's reign over opera in England embraces a remarkable period of its history. When, in 1887, Augustus Harris opened his first lyric season, Italian opera was passing through that darkest hour which proverbially precedes the dawn of brighter times. For several years its managers had failed to sufficiently recognise the advance in taste and intelligence of its supporters. The old generation, which was content with a performance that contained little else of merit save some brilliantly sung arias, had been slowly but surely passing away, and those who filled the vacated seats attached as much importance to the dramatic as to the vocal side of operatic art. These called, and with good reason, for reform, for greater completeness of representation; and, seeing few signs of these things, said, with the impatience that is one of the characteristics of the new mind, that Italian Opera, as an art, was dead. The more lethargic the public became, the more desperate grew the managers, and from 1884 to 1887 thousands of pounds were scattered in more or less vain efforts to reinstate Italian Opera in its old form. In the last-named year Mr. Mapleson began an opera season at Covent Garden in March, and the following May Mr. Lago opened a season at the same theatre, which he managed to keep going until July 16. Mr. Mapleson also twice tried, beginning on June 4 and 25 respectively, to give a series of operatic performances at Her Majesty's Theatre, but without success. In addition to the above ventures, the Royal Carl Rosa Company gave a series of operatic performances, commencing on April 30, at Drury Lane, the chief success of which was achieved by the presentation of "Lohengrin," the stage management of which had been entrusted to Mr. Harris. This performance was the first gleam of the coming dawn. Harris, with the astuteness which was the secret of his success, saw what was needed, and forthwith entered the lists as an operatic manager with a performance at Drury Lane, on June 13, of Verdi's "Aïda," which was presented with an attention to detail and lavishness of stage mounting that became the talk of the town. Other operas, including "Lohengrin," were presented with the best singers available and a like regard to scenic effect, the result being that when he closed his season on July 23 he had laid the first stone of the revival of Italian opera. The next year saw the sagacious manager at Covent Garden supported by an influential syndicate, and the commencement of a policy that may be briefly described as a clever appreciation of the law of supply and demand. Thus the late impresario may be said to have assisted the natural development of opera rather than to have dictated its course. That which was asked for was given, and in a manner most likely to appeal to the majority. Although "Lohengrin" had proved so attractive, no other work by Wagner was ventured upon until 1889, when, on July 13, "Die Meistersinger" was mounted in Italian, with Madame Albani as Eva and M. Jean de Reszké and M. Lassalle in the respective parts of Walther and Hans Sachs. The following year Mr. Harris had so far gained the confidence of his patrons as to be able to dispense with the preliminary prospectus hitherto issued at the commencement of operatic seasons. This year saw the departure in favour of works being presented in their original language, and Gounod's "Roméo et Juliette" and Bizet's "Carmen" were sung in French"; Goring Thomas's "Esmeralda" was, however, also given in French. Five years were to elapse before an English opera dare be presented in the vernacular during the grand season; which was not ventured upon until 1895, when Mr. Cowen's "Harold" was produced. The autumn of 1890 was remarkable for the revival by Mr. Lago, at Covent Garden, of Gluck's "Orfeo," with Miss Giulia Ravogli in the title rôle, both work and artist being promptly secured by Mr. Harris for his season of 1891. The same policy was pursued with regard to Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana," which was produced in England by Mr. Lago on the first night of his autumn season of 1891 at the Shaftesbury Theatre, and which, combined with Gounod's "Philémon et Baucis," formed the bill of Sir Augustus Harris's opening night of the "Italian Season" of 1892. In the autumn of 1891, however, another departure in the history of operatic art had been made by the importation to Covent Garden by Sir Augustus of a French company chiefly drawn from the Paris Opéra Comique, and under the conductorship of M. Léon Jehin. This company gave the first performance in England of Gounod's "Philémon et Baucis," which took place on October 24. The production, five days later, of Bruneau's "Le Rêve" also served to make this season memorable. The visit of these French artists did more, however, than make us acquainted with these works. The perfection of their ensemble and the dramatic intensity of their acting taught us many lessons, and must have cultivated taste for completeness of detail. The year 1892 saw the beginning of a remarkable phase in operatic art—the rapid production of new works. The origin of this was, of course, the phenomenal success of "Cavalleria Rusticana." Composers saw a possible "Eldorado" in a new opera, and employed their pens accordingly. Those who judged the success of Mascagni's work to be owing to the dramatic intensity of its libretto, sought the most blood-curdling incidents wherewith to attract the public ear; the climax being reached by Massenet in "La Navarraise," originally produced at Covent Garden in 1894, and in which gunpowder played almost as important a part as the music. Mascagni, however, turned his back on sensational libretti, apparently looked through his portfolio, and presented "L'Amico Fritz," the most dramatic episode of which was a girl on a ladder picking cherries. This came to Covent Garden in 1892, during which season were also produced Isidore de Lara's "Light of Asia" and Bemberg's "Elaine"—three works which may be said to severally represent the domestic, voluptuous, and sentimental phases of operatic art. In this year another impetus was given to the spreading popularity of Wagner's music-dramas by their performance at Drury Lane by a German company, containing several leading Wagnerian artists, under the conductorship of Herr Mahler. Speaking broadly, these representations would have been well-nigh perfect if the vocalisation of the principal artists had been equal to their histrionic abilities. In 1893 Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci," the only successful imitation of "Cavalleria Rusticana," was presented, together with another domestic opera by Mascagni, entitled "I Rantzau." Other novelties were Isidore de Lara's "Amy Robsart," Bizet's "Djamileh," and Villiers Stanford's "Veiled Prophet"—the last-named being hustled in at the close of the season. The following year the production of new works surpassed all record, the list comprising Verdi's "Falstaff," Bruneau's "L'Attaque du Moulin," Puccini's "Manon Lescaut," Massenet's "Werther" and "La Navarraise," Cowen's "Signa," and Emil Bach's "Lady of Longford." At the same time a second German company was performing Wagner's masterpieces at Drury Lane. The chief effect of so much activity was, however, to bring into prominence the dramatic rather than the lyric side of the art, and the works were judged by the public more by their libretti than by the merit of the music. Such a result was inevitable, for the better the libretto is, the more instantly it appeals and impresses; but the more lofty the music, the longer it takes to gain due appreciation. Apart from this, however, the impetus given to operatic production by the success of Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" was not calculated to produce masterpieces. Nor has it. The only two works which stand out with distinctness to the musician are "Falstaff" and "L'Attaque du Moulin," the composers of both having probably been uninfluenced by the operatic fever. Last year novelties were eschewed, with the exception of Mr. Cowen's "Harold"; but the visit to Drury Lane of the Saxe-Coburg Company again brought into prominence the advantages of a good ensemble. This also was enforced by the performances given in English at the commencement of the year, at Daly's Theatre, by the Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company. The production by this company, at the same theatre, on December 26, 1894, of Humperdinck's "Hänsel und Gretel," and the recent success attained by Professor Villiers Stanford's "Shamus O'Brien," require mention for the completeness of this survey.

Looking back over the past nine years, it is seen that progress has been chiefly made in consistency of stage mounting and dramatic reasonableness. Both these particulars are capable of, and indeed call for, greater development; but for that which has been accomplished there is cause to be thankful. The great attention given to the dramatic side of the art has freed music from many paralysing conventionalities. Composers are, however, in reality bound by far more rigid fetters. Formerly, appropriateness of subject-matter was of little moment, but now suitability for musical treatment is insisted upon, and at the same time the limits of musical expression are daily becoming more clearly defined. He who would write a great opera now-a-days must consequently be master of many subjects. The orchestra has already become the exponent of psychical complexities, inasmuch as it endeavours to convey to the listeners the thoughts which are supposed to be dominant in the mind of the singer; and the inflections of the vocal part must have a rational connection with the habitual rise and fall of the voice when the emotions are excited. Thus operatic music, formerly content to express vague feelings, now strives to attain greater definiteness of expression, and to indicate the process of thought. Hence it is probable that operatic art is now in a transitional stage preceding a still more distinct differentiation than at present exists between its various forms, the most important of which, apparently, will be the further development of the principles set forth by Wagner in "Tristan and Isolde."

F. G. W.

MUSIC AND CULTURE.

In the course of an interesting article on the peculiarities of the musical temperament and its manifestations, in the current number of Blackwood, Mr. Hutchings touches upon the subject of musical genius and general education. "The lives of the great composers do show," he writes in one passage, "unwelcome as the truth may be, that music of a very high order has been produced by men who were indisputably dunces, if not simpletons. Hence the degraded alliances which noble music has contracted with mean and foolish words; hence, too, the little that has been done by composers of the first rank in the way of elucidating the laws which their genius has evolved."

Now, as a matter of fact, we very much doubt whether, with one solitary exception at the present day, a single instance of the inspired dunce can be discovered in the musical annals of the nineteenth century. Even Schubert himself, though his surroundings were bourgeois, showed a considerable literary flair in his choice of words. Weber, though certainly not fortunate in his choice of librettos, was a well educated man. Mendelssohn was a regular admirable Crichton. Schumann, Berlioz, and, in a minor degree, Liszt, had all remarkable literary gifts. Of the accomplishments of Wagner it is not necessary to speak. At the present day the cultured musician is especially represented by Saint-Saëns, Boïto, Dr. Hubert Parry, and many others; but Brahms is known to be well versed in the masterpieces of classical and modern literature, while Verdi's choice of subjects — of late years — certainly furnishes no instance of those "degraded alliances" of which Mr. Hutchings speaks. Indeed, as he himself admits, "at present the composer is as often as not a more or less competent critic." And he supplements this admission by the bold remark that the instances of Schumann, Berlioz, Liszt, and Wagner "show little more than that in days of widely diffused education even musical genius lacks the opportunity, or can hardly dare, to be ignorant." We take it that the advance, assuming that it is an advance, is not confined to music alone, but to other callings, and that the average level of general culture to be found among, say, doctors, greengrocers, and commercial travellers would exhibit a similar elevation in the course of the last hundred years. The danger that besets a musician now-a-days is not so much that of knowing too little outside his own sphere as of knowing too much. It is so hard for him to isolate himself, and, as an illustrious writer once said, "though conversation may enrich the intellect, isolation is the true school of genius." Some well-known modern musicians have presented the extraordinary spectacle of men who combined musical composition with special scientific studies—Borodin and César Cui are, perhaps, the most remarkable cases in point. And one cannot help feeling that this terrible enchevêtrement, as Daudet calls it, of modern life tells against the quality of the work produced. One would not be in the least surprised now-a-days if a fine Symphony were to be written by the author of an exhaustive work on bimetallism, or if a Senior Wrangler were to compose a particularly lurid one-act opera. As a proof of our versatility, it is no doubt very gratifying; but one is sometimes beset by the awkward suspicion that if we were not quite so "good all round" we might go considerably farther in special directions.

Two men distinguished in musical art, whose names are associated, in different ways and a different degree, with the music of Handel, have celebrated their seventieth birthday last month—we are referring to Dr. Friedrich Chrysander and Herr Julius Stockhausen. Dr. Chrysander, who was born on July 8, 1826, has been for the last thirty years a resident of Bergedorf, near Hamburg, where he has founded an establishment for the cultivation on a large scale of market fruit and roses, and in the midst of which exhilarating surroundings he has written a part of his, as yet unfinished, Handel biography, and has added volume upon volume to his famous critically revised edition of the complete works of the master issued by the German Handel Society. Only two more volumes remain to be added, and the task is done; how well done all musicians know. Then, doubtless, Dr. Chrysander will take up his Handel biography again, which has yet to deal with the most important portion of the master's career, and the necessary material for which he has long since collected. For the modest and genial savant of Bergedorf is still full of work, and enjoying, we believe, excellent health. May he long continue to do so!—Julius Stockhausen was for a long time by far the most accomplished oratorio singer and Handel interpreter in Germany, as well as an unrivalled Lieder singer. But he was, and is, much more than that, and those who have had the privilege of studying under him the choruses of Handel—or, for the matter of that, of Bach—and of witnessing the performances conducted by him at Hamburg and at Berlin, know how thoroughly all-round a musician the great German baritone is. He conducted the Philharmonic Society and the Singakademie in Hamburg in the sixties, and as conductor, from 1874 to 1878, of the Berlin Sternsche Gesangverein, raised the performances of this institution to a standard of perfection which it has not since been able to approach. Since 1879 Herr Stockhausen has directed a Gesangschule in Frankfort-on-the-Main, amongst his many distinguished pupils being M. Johannes Meschaërt, whose interpretation of the baritone solos in last year's Mayence performances of Handel's "Deborah" and "Hercules" (in Dr. Chrysander's version) was so greatly appreciated. Julius Stockhausen numbers a great many admirers amongst the older generation of concert-goers in this country, who will hear of his celebration, on the 22nd ult., in full vigour of body and mind, of his seventieth birthday, with sincere satisfaction.

Managing committees of prominent musical societies seldom have a more difficult and delicate task to perform than when they are called upon to elect a conductor. Not only is it important that a thoroughly competent musician should be chosen, but it is equally desirable that such an one should excite the confidence of the members and the public. Such was peculiarly the case in the election of a conductor to take the bâton at the Albert Hall from the hand of the late Sir Joseph Barnby. Music-lovers expect much from the Royal Choral Society. They have had it in the past, and their demands are likely to be equally exacting in the future. The choristers also have a high opinion of their abilities, collectively and individually, and recognise their responsibility to sustain the reputation which the choir gained under the direction of its late chief. The anxieties of the Committee consequently were doubtless considerably allayed when Professor Bridge intimated that he was willing to be a candidate for the post, the manifold duties of Sir Alexander Mackenzie making it impossible for him to continue to direct the choir after the close of the recent season. Professor Bridge's appointment is a matter for mutual congratulation. No man is more fitted, by talent, training, and experience, to occupy the position. Like his predecessor, he is an organist—itself no slight guarantee of ability—his musical compositions are widely known, and on several occasions he has shown his power to conduct large choral bodies. Moreover, his Gresham lectures have made him one of the most popular men in the art world of London, and his keen sense of humour and readiness of speech ensure his speedily gaining the allegiance of the Kensington Gore choristers. The Committee of the Cardiff Festival of 1898 is no less to be congratulated on the appointment of Mr. Frederic H. Cowen as conductor. Mr. Cowen's music has travelled round the world; his songs are to be found wherever St. Cecilia is worshipped; and amateur choral and orchestral societies are indebted to him for many charming works which are too well known to require naming. Moreover, the ability with which he has discharged his duties as successor to the late Sir Charles Hallé would alone justify the action of the Cardiff Committee. In short, two important appointments have seldom been made that have created so much satisfaction in the music-loving world, and the future should be rich in artistic results.

The enthusiasm which attended the early performances of Mendelssohn's "Elijah" in England soon found its way across the Atlantic. Within a few months of the publication of the oratorio in London, "Elijah" was performed at Boston on nine successive Sunday evenings! The actual dates were February 13 to April 9, 1848, inclusive, and the performances were given by the now venerable Handel and Haydn Society of Boston. The conductor at that time was Charles Edward Horn, the composer of "Cherry Ripe." There were six rehearsals for the first representation, and the orchestra and chorus numbered nearly 200 performers. "Such a success," we are told, "was never before known to attend a first performance. The hall was crowded, and the applause, not customary on Sunday nights, hardly restrainable." A newspaper called the Chromatype criticised the exponent of the Prophet's part in words which deserve to be quoted: "Mr. Ball, who made his début, sang with feeling, power, and dignity; but in 'Is not His word' he wanted fire; in a word, his musical boots were a little tight." The critic might have continued his leathery similes by speaking of some of the other vocalists as singing with or without "soul"; of a certain voice in regard to the "upper" notes, and so on.

The excellent "History of the Handel and Haydn Society," Boston, Mass., from which we have extracted the above information, says that the success of the "Elijah" performances was due in a great measure to the said Mr. Ball, who sang gratuitously. Three years later, in 1851, the Society presented him with a purse containing "a hundred dollars in gold" and a watch. On the latter was inscribed: "With best wishes for your health and prosperity, and our hopes that your purse, like the widow's cruse of oil, may fail not, till Time, in his course round the dial of your watch, shall find you, like the Elijah of old, ready to die. We remain, &c." The "History" also records that John Liphet (sic) Hatton sang the tenor solos in "The Messiah" and "Elijah" at the Society's Concerts in 1848 and 1849. Those who remember J. L. Hatton in his later days can hardly realise the jovial musician as an exponent of the tenor music in these two favourite oratorios.

One of our contemporaries recently published a highly interesting supplement in the form of a nearly complete list of the programmes of the Philharmonic Society from the first Concert, on June 17, 1813, to the end of the present season. An examination of this catalogue (which only lacks one programme) reveals many striking facts. The Society has given, during its eighty-four years of existence, 642 Concerts of the best instrumental music, and one naturally looks to see how the greatest of all symphonic writers has been represented there. Beethoven's name occurs, in fact, 834 times in 597 of the programmes. Most of those from which it is absent were of a special character, either containing one large choral work or being devoted to the compositions of some particular composer. On 410 occasions has one or other of the Nine Symphonies been performed. Nine performances are without particulars, but outside these the C minor was played sixty-eight times, the Pastoral sixty-seven, and the A major sixty. The others indicate their relative popularity thus: No. 4, in B flat, forty-six times; No. 8, in F, forty-five times; No. 3 ("Eroica"), forty-three times; No. 2, in D, thirty-nine times; No. 1, in C, nineteen times; and the "Choral" only eight and a half times, in spite of the fact that it was specially written for the Society, which should have been so proud of the fact. The explanation of the fraction is that on one occasion only the Scherzo and last movement were performed. On March 25, 1816, was played a "Finale MS. composed for this Society, and never before performed"; but whether this was the "Namensfeier" Overture or the unhappy "Battle" Symphony it is impossible now to ascertain. On March 21, 1825, was produced the Choral Symphony, described as a "New Grand Characteristic Sinfonia, with Vocal Finale." Altogether as noble a record of art-work as can be found in this world.

The Arietta "L'espoir renait dans mon cœur," at the close of the first act of "Orfeo," though acceptable to the public, has often tried the patience of critics zealous for dramatic propriety. Yet the latter felt somewhat consoled when they read that Gluck, to gratify the vanity of a vocalist, introduced the air in question, but merely borrowed it from an Italian contemporary. Gluck himself was accused of appropriating an air from one of Bertoni's operas, but he made no reply. Early in the sixties Berlioz returned to the charge, and proved to his own satisfaction, and to that of many of his readers, that Gluck had borrowed it from Bertoni. But now M. Saint-Saëns tells us just the contrary in the Revue de Paris. Berlioz gave reasons for his assertions; M. Saint-Saëns, in an article on "Orphée," merely states that recent investigations prove that the air in question was written, not by Bertoni, but by Gluck. The matter is of interest, and it is to be hoped that the eminent French composer will vouchsafe further details. It seems most unlikely that M. Saint-Saëns would make such a bold statement unless he was prepared to back it up by strong evidence.

It is curious to note that Bertoni produced an "Orfeo," after Gluck. A perusal of the score shows that he evidently copied his great contemporary, yet so cleverly that no formal charge of plagiarism can be brought against him. The air in question is, however, not in the opera, nor any imitation of it; the first act concludes rather in the spirit of Gluck's Italian version produced at Vienna.

If it be true that Bertoni appropriated the "Orfeo" air for his "Tancrède," he was, at any rate, not the only composer who was tempted to pick a page from Gluck's score. Philidor appears to have done the very same thing. Handel, as we all know, was in the habit of taking and using other men's thoughts, but he returned them to the musical world so improved, so polished that it would not be fair to compare him with the common garden robber of the Philidor, and perhaps we shall have to add, of the Bertoni species.

The Spring Concert season in America, so we have heard it seriously stated on expert authority, suffered materially from the prevailing cult of the cycle, and the same complaint has been latterly heard in London. Nine-tenths of our metropolitan concert-goers are ladies, and the enormous increase in the ranks of feminine votaries of the wheel has certainly been the great feature of cycledom within the last year. The new hobby, however, operates disadvantageously to music in more ways than one. It not only lures ladies from the concert-room, and induces them to spend their leisure and their pocket money on pastime instead of art, but it is already alleged to be impairing the dexterity and suppleness of their digits. An expert in palmistry has discovered that "the bicycle hand is a thing of ugliness and a horror for ever. It becomes flattened, bulges out at the sides, gets lumpy and out of shape, and the fingers all become crooked," results which are due to the habit of clutching the handle of the machine. We have not yet seen in any of the medical papers whether the practice of bicycling exerts any influence, deleterious or otherwise, on the human voice; but of its popularity amongst operatic vocalists there can be no longer any doubt. Only the other morning we saw Kurwenal gaily careering down Pall Mall.

Of course it stands to reason that instrumentalists, in comparison with vocalists, are considerably handicapped, as regards indulging in athletic pastimes, by the necessity of keeping their fingers supple. It would never do for Mr. Borwick to keep wicket to Richardson's "expresses," or for Sarasate to field point when Mr. Stoddart is batting. Still there are open-air pastimes in which even instrumentalists can take part in moderation, notably golf, and we are glad to see that at the recent match at Furzedown, the musicians, though defeated, made a very fair show against the actors. Conductors and composers, so long as they are in the happy position of being able to devote themselves exclusively to conducting and composing, suffer from no such drawbacks as those inherent in the status of instrumental performers. Indeed, one can well imagine Herr Mottl attaining to eminence as a heavy-weight boxer or a forward in the Rugby game.

Long has war raged between intellectualists and emotionalists, and, according to a man's temperament, so will he incline towards the one or the other side. Herr William Wolf, in his recently published first volume of "Musik-Aesthetik," lays stress on the important rôle which emotion plays in the art of tones. Some object that the feelings which music excites are indefinite. Our author retorts: the feelings are definite enough, only language is inadequate to describe them. Others, again, complain that music cannot explain the causes of the feelings which it awakens. He answers: music expresses feelings, not thoughts. Herr Wolf recognises, with Spencer, that "no kind of feeling, sensational or emotional, can be wholly freed from the intellectual element"; only he bids us notice that the subject-matter on which intellect is engaged is feeling itself, and not circumstances and thoughts connected with the external world. He is speaking, naturally, only of pure instrumental music. Our author analyses Beethoven's C minor Symphony, and more particularly the opening movement, with regard to its emotional contents. We are shown how feelings are expanded, grouped, contrasted; how, in fact, the laws which govern the world of thought, govern also that of feeling; the plan of nature is everywhere the same. With Beethoven, however, the emotional contents were determined by pre-established forms, and by laying too much stress on the former, Herr Wolf becomes almost as one-sided as those who see in music nothing but form. The art of tones is a mysterious combination of emotion and form, and any attempt to enhance the one at the expense of the other is an exaggeration. Considering, however, the intellectual tendency of the present age, and the attention paid to the technical analysis of music, Herr Wolf's "Musik-Aesthetik," written in a wonderfully clear and simple manner, may prove a useful antidote.

Matters move so fast in this rushing age of ours that what is hinted at in joke one day is a fait accompli a few weeks later. Thus it was only the other day when Mr. Asquith, M.P., facetiously expressed the opinion that the amenities of Parliamentary life would be greatly promoted by the occasional interpolation of a "musical hour." Well, this suggestion has already been carried out, thanks to the enterprise of Sir George Osborne Morgan. That amiable baronet was acting as cicerone at St. Stephen's to a party of Welsh constituents, and on their expressing a desire to signalise the occasion by an outburst of melody, accepted the responsibility of the innovation. The Welshmen sang several national songs and hymns—they ought to have played the Dead March in honour of the illustrious promoter of the Burials Bill—and departed; not, however, without having attracted the attention of Mr. Richards, M.P., who subsequently asked at question time whether the privilege of singing at St. Stephen's was reserved exclusively for Welsh choristers, or whether arrangements could not be made for performances by London choirs as well. For our own part, we cannot hail the prospect of parliamentary concerts with equanimity. Music does not gain from association with politics. Members are already adequately provided with recreation in the shape of tea parties on the terrace. The Whips find their work hard enough as it is; think how difficult it would be to bring in their men if the Royal Choral Society was singing on the terrace.

We learn from Mr. C. Dobson Collett that, at the weekly meeting of the Travelling Tax Abolition Committee, at Essex Hall, on the 20th ult., the following Memorial Notice was resolved upon: "Again our ranks are thinned by death, and, by no means for the first time, our loss extends far beyond our limited circle. Alfred Novello died on July 17 (sic), 1896, at Genoa, in the eighty-sixth year of his age. He had retired some years from the musical world, to which he had been so great a benefactor. His membership of our Committee was, in his retirement, only a reminiscence of his active services in his earlier life. He was an earnest though not a prominent member of the Anti-Corn Law League, and, as the Treasurer of the Association for the Repeal of the Taxes on Knowledge, he was the backbone of the undertaking; not only by his wise, kind, and prudent counsels, but by the generosity with which he supplied whatever funds were required: a generosity without which the movement might have broken down, and the Newspaper Stamp might perhaps have survived till this day."

FACTS, RUMOURS, AND REMARKS.

A Nottingham paper issued on Monday, the 20th ult., contained a critical notice of a musical service which did not take place till the Sunday following. This is go-ahead journalism indeed!

It is too late to mention as news the amalgamation which has taken place between the Leeds Philharmonic Society and the Leeds Subscription Concerts. But there is always a time for sincere congratulations upon any attempt to show that union is strength. Congratulation, however, must be provisional to some extent. I have known musical amalgamations which, the stimulus of rivalry being lost, resulted simply in lethargy. It is for the Leeds people to guard against any approach to such a result, and I hope for them all success in their efforts to avoid it.

Mr. Bantock Pierpoint sends particulars of a very interesting match. He writes:

It may interest you to know that, on the 2nd ult., a golf match was played between a team of vocalists and a team of actors. Mr. Rutland Barrington got together the actors and I the singers.

The match was played at Tooting Bec, by kind permission of the Committee, who had made us all members pro tem.

The sides were as follows:—Vocalists: Mr. Norman Salmond, Mr. Plunket Greene, Mr. Bantock Pierpoint, Mr. W. A. Peterkin, Mr. Arthur Wills, Mr. Sydney Jamieson, Mr. Dalgety Henderson. Actors: Mr. Herbert Ross, Mr. H. Reeves Smith, Mr. Rutland Barrington, Mr. Lewis Waller, Mr. W. H. Denny, Mr. Du Maurier, Mr. Allan.

In the morning singles were played, when the actors finished with five holes to the good; but in the afternoon, in foursomes, the singers were eight holes to the good, thus being three holes to the good on the day's play.

It was altogether a most enjoyable day, and it is hoped to make it an annual match.

"So mote it be."

Since the remarks upon "To Anacreon in Heaven," which appear in another column, were written, a letter of enquiry from Mr. Hubert P. Main, of East Ninth Street, New York, has come under notice. Mr. Main desires to know when the Anacreonic Society was founded. For myself, I cannot answer without further research. Mr. Main is not under the delusion which afflicts Mr. McLaughlin, and he speaks of the song as "said to have been set to music about 1765 by John Arnold; also accredited to John Stafford Smith between 1770 and 1775; and to Mr. Bannister about 1792." He adds: "The music was published in the fifth book of 'Canzonets, Catches, &c.,' between 1770-1775, words by Ralph Tomlinson; also in 'A select collection of the most approved English, Scots and Irish Songs, London: 1788' (words only, not words and music); also in 'Edinburgh Musical Miscellany,' 1792."

Mr. William F. Biddle has been putting to himself, and answering, in the Atlantic Monthly, the question whether opera can be true to life. The query seems to me wholly futile, and is sufficiently "sat upon" by a writer in the Boston Transcript, who says:

Mr. Biddle's arraignment is simply a tenuous re-assertion of the old Philistine plea in opposition to the stage as the perpetrator of untold offences against so-called "reason" and "common-sense." Why does not Mr. Biddle come out plainly and denounce opera solely because it is "not true to life"? Of course opera is not "true to life." Its ideality forms its very basis; it is full of artistic conventions which may or may not be "crimes against nature," as Mr. Biddle gently calls them, and it may be arraigned before the court of reason, if anyone chooses to attempt so futile a task. As well destroy all sculpture because it only partially represents life; as well burn all our paintings because they are restricted to the conventions of canvas and colour; as well annihilate our poetry because its relation to reality and nature is narrowly circumscribed by the necessities and conventions of language.

It may be in recollection that at a recent Concert of the Ryde Musical Society, Dr. Parry's "Blest Pair of Sirens" was encored by the conductor, Mr. J. Godfrey Luard. That gentleman has since written to the local press explaining his reasons for an unusual step. He says, inter alia:

Dr. Parry has often insisted, at his Lectures, on the desirability of repeating music that is heard for the first time, unless it is so simple as to be easily intelligible at the first hearing. I mentioned this at the Concert, and then said that I was going to ask the members of the Musical Society to be kind enough to repeat the work for the benefit of those among the audience who wished to make some effort to understand it. I am well aware that this course was not usual, and was likely to be distasteful to those who have a dislike to anything unconventional; but, as was pointed out by The Musical Times, there is precedent for it, and precedent which would probably be followed by many, were it not that they are afraid of meeting with opposition and adverse criticism from those who prefer to misinterpret their motives.

It is better, I should say, not to make experiments upon an audience, to whom they would hardly be recommended because of unconventionality. There is no argument in an epithet.

A Ladies' Committee has been formed in connection with the approaching Bristol Festival. Are there enough ladies free from the "bike" craze to guarantee a quorum?

The Exeter Oratorio Society is this year celebrating its jubilee. The organisation dates from October 22, 1846, when about twenty gentlemen met, under the presidency of Mr. Michael Rice, and took the preliminary steps. Congratulations to the Society on its long life and prosperity.

The Printer's Boy, lazy of late, has just resumed operations, this time on the Ormskirk Advertiser. He makes that respectable journal mention the performance of a piece called "Cugis's Animum," by Rossini!

Mr. Charles Wood writes to the Catholic Times advising the engagement of Catholic organists in churches of the Roman communion, they being more likely to "understand the mind of the Church with regard to the music better than those Protestants and Freemasons, who in so many instances succeed in obtaining these appointments." Very likely, but what on earth has the harmless masquerading which constitutes Freemasonry in England got to do with the matter?

The cause of music in the army is now served by four brothers out of six who wear the Queen's uniform. They are: George Augustus Iddenden, born November 28, 1871, serving in the 14th Hussars as a musician; John Morres Iddenden is a musician in the 1st Royal Dragoons, and was born November 16, 1874; Francis Charles Iddenden, born February 12, 1878, is with the 9th Batt. Field Artillery, at Agra, India, as a trumpeter; Harry Hector Iddenden, born December 14, 1881, is a musician in the 1st Royal Dragoons.

A writer in the Welsh Baner has had the bad taste to express himself in terms of which the following translation appears in the Western Mail:

We could have done without the praises "Cadvan" bestowed upon the gentry who patronised the Eisteddfod. To a Welshman, who loves his language and country more than the smiles of the Saxons, the protest of the crowd against English was very agreeable. We wish to draw attention to an incident in connection with the chairing of the successful bard on Thursday, which we hope will not again happen on the platform of the national festival of a nation that has fought so heroically for ages against the arrogance of the Saxons. Some of the bards, noticing that Sir Watkyn Wynn—the president of the day—Lord Mostyn, and others, had not returned after the adjournment, the Archdruid and other bards wished to postpone the ceremony until their arrival. We do not begrudge to the baronet of Wynnstay, or the lord of Mostyn, the respect that is due to them, but the dignity of the Eisteddfod must not suffer to suit the convenience of any aristocrat, whoever he may be.

This is baneful stuff at a moment when the Eisteddfod needs wisdom in council and unity amongst its friends.

An art-publisher in Dresden is trying to get a hold upon the English market. Very good, but I hope his pictures are better than his English, of which the following is a sample:

"The house is my world." Mindfuly of those words I have it made to my problem to conduct in the trade to the adorning of this home charming newnesses in walldecorations in beautifuly and elegant plushframe with silk-lace to be suspended.

These are choosed to bring forth agreeable and effectfuly alternations in the decoration and adorning of the rooms, and to restore all the other kinds of pictures.

I am quite convince, that those my newnesses will find a good reception, because they are without any concurrence in the foreign country. Samples are to be required to any price and to any time. I am expecting with pleasure yours estimable orders and remain, yours very truly, ——

In the "Choir Corner" of the Grace Church Visitor (New York) I read: "Our seventy-third choir festival service took the character of a memorial service in recognition of the great work in the cause of Church music of the late Sir Joseph Barnby, of England. All the hymns, chants, canticles, and anthems were selected from the compositions of the talented composer. The principal numbers were Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E; anthem, 'O, how amiable,' and the great 'Gloria Patri' march and chorus in D, which closes Barnby's superb setting of the 97th Psalm."

Grace Church sends its choir, men and boys, into camp for their annual holiday. This summer the tents will be pitched "in the heart of the greatest forest in America, scores of miles from cultivated farms, with the nearest house a dozen miles away." The boys wear uniform on these outings—a navy blue sweater, double sailor collar, white stripes, navy blue knee pants, red belt and cap. Is it wise to permit them to equip themselves with air-guns and Winchester and Ballard rifles?

Joseph Bennett.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

Boïto's "Mefistofele," a work which holds the boards, though it has never become exactly popular, was revived on the 1st ult., with M. Edouard de Reszké in the title rôle, and Miss Macintyre as Margarita and Helen. A work which depends so much for its success on artistic mounting and careful stage management can never make its full effect when it is given once in three or four years; still, there were many excellent points about the performance. M. de Reszké's invincible bonhommie handicapped him in certain scenes, but in the main his impersonation was most effective, while his singing was as superb as ever. The Margarita of Miss Macintyre, again, is quite one of her happiest achievements, and in the prison scene she acted and sang with a pathos and fervour that were most impressive. Signor Cremonini sang very pleasantly as Faust, but his reading of the part lacked passion until the Epilogue, in which he displayed welcome and unexpected force. Madame Mantelli and Signor Rinaldini completed the cast, and Signor Mancinelli conducted with spirit and sympathy. The scenery was excellent, and the chorus sang very fairly; but the stage management left a good deal to be desired.

On the following night "Carmen" was given for the first time this season, Mdlle. Zélie de Lussan making her rentrée in the title rôle. Her impersonation, which was always clever and effective, has gained in breadth of style, and is no longer so feverishly restless as it used to be. The final scene was acted with perhaps an excess of violence, but with this deduction Mdlle. de Lussan emerged from the ordeal of inevitable comparisons with credit—even with distinction. Her voice was in excellent order, and she sang with charm as well as fluency. The Don José of M. Alvarez was powerful and impressive, both vocally and histrionically; Signor Ancona sang admirably as Escamillo, though his make-up violated the traditions of the bull-ring; and Madame Eames made a graceful and plaintive Michaela. The minor parts were fairly filled and the opera showily mounted.

At the second performance of "Aïda," on the 10th ult., a new-comer, Signor Lucignani, made his début as Radames. We regret to be unable to pronounce him an acquisition to the Covent Garden Company. Neither as regards voice nor physique is he adequately equipped for the part of a heroic tenor. Miss Macintyre sang with considerable success as Aïda, Madame Mantelli was a conscientious and efficient Amneris, and Signor Ancona and M. Edouard de Reszké shone conspicuously above their colleagues by their fine singing in the parts of Amonasro and Ramfis.

Massenet's "Manon," given on the 16th ult., was undoubtedly the finest performance of that work yet given in this country. Madame Melba, who assumed the title rôle for the first time on the English boards, if she hardly realised the irresponsible capriciousness of the heroine, sang with incomparable beauty of tone and felicity of execution. The Des Grieux of M. Alvarez, again, was consistently excellent, and in the scene at St. Sulpice he provoked genuine enthusiasm by his impassioned declamation. Extremely effective aid was lent by M. Plançon as the elder Des Grieux, by M. Albers as the rakish Lescaut, by M. Jacques Bars as De Bretigny, and by that excellent comedian, M. Gillibert, as Guillot. Full justice was done to the delicate instrumentation of M. Massenet's score by the band under the able direction of Signor Mancinelli.

In the "Huguenots," which was given in a severely abridged form on the night of the 18th ult., Signor Lucignani was given a second trial in the rôle of Raoul, but it cannot be said that he succeeded in improving upon the impression created at his first appearance. Madame Melba sang brilliantly as the Queen, and Madame Albani displayed all her wonted earnestness in the part of Valentina; but Mdlle. Brazzi was only moderately successful as the page. The lack of a first-rate contralto has been seriously felt throughout the season. M. Plançon, as Marcel, was as dignified and sonorous as usual, Signor Ancona sang excellently as Nevers, and Mr. Bispham's assumption of the rôle of St. Bris was full of promise. The choruses were sung with a good deal of rough vigour—the tone of the men's voices in the "Rataplan" was quite painfully strident—and the whole performance directed somewhat perfunctorily by Signor Bevignani.

"Don Giovanni" was mounted on the 23rd ult., when Madame Albani and Signor Ancona respectively sustained, for the first time, the parts of Donna Anna and the Don.

THE BAYREUTH FESTIVAL.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

Bayreuth, July 22.

It is a little less than a quarter of a century since the foundation-stone of the Wagner Theatre at Bayreuth was laid with all due ceremony, and not quite twenty years since the first performance of the "Nibelungen" trilogy, on August 13, 14, 16, and 17, 1876. Since that year, in which three cycles were given at a serious financial loss, the "Ring" has not been heard here, although it has made its way all over the civilised world. It was most fitting to celebrate the twentieth year of its existence by a revival of the work, upon which all the pains should be bestowed that have made memorable the successive productions of "Parsifal," "Tristan and Isolde," "Die Meistersinger," "Tannhäuser," and "Lohengrin." This year's performances are the first to which the title of "revival" can be properly applied, and it is satisfactory to find that, on the whole, the principles adopted by the master's representatives are to be commended; no slavish adherence to the details of stage arrangement has turned Wagner's fine pictorial imaginings into cold and conventional replicas; and, on the other hand, the traditions started in 1876 have been duly respected.

To enter into the merits of the work itself in the present year of grace would be quite unnecessary, but it may not be entirely superfluous to point out to those readers of The Musical Times who rarely have the opportunity of hearing the cycle on four consecutive days, the enormous increase in interest, beauty, and musical clearness which result from the performance under the conditions designed by the author. The all-essential recognition of the crowd of "leading motives" is assisted, to a degree that can hardly be realised, by this arrangement, which allows them to be gradually assimilated, from those which are introduced, with a decision and clearness that admit of no mistake, in "Das Rheingold," down to the highly complex web of varying emotional factors that has been woven by the time the final drama is reached. That the conditions not only of the Bayreuth theatre, with its perfect acoustic properties and its unconventional surroundings, but of the ordinary life in the dull Bavarian town, materially assist the mental faculties of those who attend the performances, cannot be doubted for a moment, and even those who long ago went through the requisite preliminary studies of the scores receive new light upon them from the way in which they are given here. One great secret of the impression they produce is that they are given entire, so that, in accordance with a principle that is only just beginning to be understood, so paradoxical does it at first appear, the works seem actually shorter than they do when hewed and hacked about in deference to the wishes of a fashionable London audience. The old sneer, levelled against every great opera-writer from Mozart downwards, that the statue is placed in the orchestra, the pedestal upon the stage, may seem almost justified in these performances; for, although the proportions between the voices and instruments are so perfectly preserved that the latter never come within measurable distance of overpowering the singers, yet the general standard of the vocal performances is so low, and that of the orchestral playing so high, that the latter cannot fail to make the deeper impression. And to hear Herr Richter conduct the trilogy is to receive a pleasure that can never be surpassed or forgotten.

The standard of the "Rheingold" performance, given on the 19th ult. for the first time, was exceptionally high, and the scenic effects, which are here of the utmost importance, were completely successful. Here, and in "Die Walküre," the Fricka of Miss Marie Brema was an impersonation of very remarkable beauty, both vocally and dramatically. Herr Carl Perron, as Wotan, began without making much impression, but on the third day, in the disguise of the Wanderer, his singing was far better, and his acting more dignified than before. As Alberich, Herr Friedrichs achieved a distinct success, though he is par excellence an actor rather than a singer, and his parlando delivery of the part becomes a little tiresome in certain passages. Both he and Mime (Herr Breuer, a student of the Bayreuth school of dramatic singing) made their greatest effect in "Siegfried," in the second act of which their dispute was given with splendid vigour and point. In all the smithy scene of the latter drama, Herr Breuer made the most of the part of the timid, malicious dwarf, and, considering that it was his first appearance in public, his success must be pronounced complete. Another pupil of the Bayreuth institution, Herr Burgstaller, who was only allotted the part of Froh in the first cycle, has an admirable tenor voice and capital stage presence; the great things expected of his Siegfried were realised sooner than could have been hoped. The chief sensation of the opening night was the Loge of Herr Vogl, not on account of its novelty, for it is the only impersonation remaining from 1876, but on the score of its artistic maturity and the extraordinary animation of the actor, whose voice, so far from having suffered from the ravages of time, is in far better condition than it was a few years ago. As the two giants, Herren Elmblad and Wachter were first-rate; the latter also sang the part of Hunding on the second night with success. Frau Schumann-Heink's beautiful mezzo-soprano voice was of great service in the weird music of Erda, and the three Rhine-maidens were delightfully represented by Frl. von Artner, Rösing, and Fremstad. The scene in which they appear is now a triumph of stage illusion, and the first of many beautiful pictures exhibited this year for the first time. The wild heath in the second act of the "Walküre" and the first scene in the last act of "Siegfried" are of quite remarkable beauty, and the effects of cloud and storm, and of lighting generally, are still unsurpassed.

In "Die Walküre" the guilty twins were impersonated by Herr Emil Gerhäuser, whose entire want of phrasing and cantabile spoilt many of the finest passages in the drama, and Frau Sucher, whose Sieglinde must rank with her finest assumptions. The intensely expressive manner of singing and acting the pathetic love music, the self-abandonment to all-powerful fate, the delineation of a terror that almost reaches frenzy in the second act, and, above all, the rapture with which she receives the news that Brünnhilde gives her of the future birth of Siegfried, one and all were points of the highest excellence, and as the glorious voice still retains all its power and very much of its rich quality, the performance was in every way a memorable one. Beside it, the Brünnhilde of Frau Lilli Lehmann-Kalisch seemed, on the "Walküre" evening, comparatively tame. The music was finely sung, but the acting was stiff and inexpressive, and in many passages the singer showed herself to be scarcely letter-perfect. In "Siegfried" she was much better, and, in the final duet, which is the dramatic and musical climax of the whole trilogy, her magnificent singing carried all before it; the breadth of her phrasing made the audience forget, or pardon when this was impossible, the want of inspiration in her gestures. The difficult concerted music of the "Walküren" was admirably sung, and the effect of the "ride" was a good deal better than usual, the management being quite successful, as the figures in the sky were only seen indistinctly, and were moved in different directions through the clouds.

Herr Grüning, the Siegfried of the third day, is a very capable singer as German tenors go, and he has the important advantages of a good figure and gestures that are always expressive. On the whole, the performance of this work was the most perfect of the cycle, for all the artists were at their best. The Dragon, too, was by no means ridiculous, though his whole body was exposed to view. The utterances of the wood-bird were fairly well sung by Frl. von Artner, though the words could not be distinctly heard.

Those who attended the first cycle had a welcome opportunity of seeing two Siegfrieds; for a short time before the commencement of "Die Götterdämmerung" the news was circulated that Herr Burgstaller would sing. The first public appearance of this young artist in so important a part was a complete success. In addition to the fine, manly quality of voice, he possesses the indefinable element of personal charm; and in all the music, but more especially in the pathetic narration just before the hero dies, he made a wholly favourable impression. The Brünnhilde of Frl. Lehmann was far better than on either of the preceding days, and in the tragic opening scenes, as the outraged wife of the second act, and finally in the rapturous utterances of the closing scene, she was splendid. The Waltraute of Frl. Schumann-Heink was wholly delightful, and gave new beauty to one of the most pathetic scenes of the trilogy, which, for some reason or other, is always left out in London. Another noble scene is that of the Norns, which was splendidly given. The Gutrune of Frau Reuss-Belce is an impersonation of some charm, and as Gunther and Hagen Herren Gross and Grengg were entirely successful, the latter being one of the noblest assumptions of the trilogy. The mise-en-scène was excellent in every respect, the whole of the last act being superlatively fine.

For the four remaining cycles, beginning on succeeding Sundays, every seat has long ago been sold; the last, like the one just concluded, is to be conducted by Herr Richter, two others by Herr Mottl, and the remaining one (possibly) by Herr Siegfried Wagner. In the arduous parts of Siegfried and Brünnhilde, the artists already mentioned are to be relieved by Dr. G. Seidel, of Prague, in the tenor part, and Frl. Ellen Gulbranson in the soprano rôle, a young Swedish singer whose appearance is awaited with interest. Other slight changes in the cast, which will be made from time to time, do not require notice in this place.

The ultimate result of this first cycle has unquestionably been to place "Der Ring des Nibelungen" in a higher position than it has ever occupied; of late years, imperfect and partial performances have tended, at least with English amateurs, to make them less enthusiastic about it than about any of the other mature works of the master; but restored to its original surroundings and given with all the care that the Bayreuth management can bestow, it speaks as eloquently as ever to those whose ears are open to impressions produced by modern dramatic music; and the wonderful drama, as it unfolds itself in its rational, if somewhat leisurely development, is felt to be nothing less than one of the supreme artistic creations of the century.

"ELIJAH" AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE.

The annual performance of an oratorio at the Crystal Palace, under Handel Festival conditions, in those years in which the Triennial celebration does not take place, has become an important feature of the summer season. Mendelssohn's "Elijah" having been produced at Birmingham in 1846, the appropriateness of its selection for performance this year at the Crystal Palace was obvious. No oratorio has taken a deeper hold on English-speaking people, and how widely the work is still esteemed, was shown by the enormous audience which attended its interpretation on June 27, under the conductorship of Mr. August Manns. The oratorio, as sung on this occasion, differed in many important details from the version sung fifty years before. Mr. F. G. Edwards, in his valuable "History of Mendelssohn's oratorio 'Elijah,'" has shown that the composer began to improve his work almost immediately after its first performance. In a letter to Klingemann, dated December 6, 1846, Mendelssohn writes: "I have again begun to work with all my might at my 'Elijah,' and hope to amend the greater part of what I thought deficient at the first performance. . . . The parts that I have already remodelled prove to me again that I am right not to rest until such work is as good as it is in my power to make it; even though very few people care to hear about such things, or notice them, and even though they take very much time; yet the impression such passages, if really better, produce in themselves and on the whole work, is such a different one, that I feel I cannot leave them as they now stand." How sagacious and truly "right" was Mendelssohn, Time, the greatest of all critics, has proved; and no little of the widespread popularity which "Elijah" now enjoys may be ascribed to the composer's artistic conscientiousness. The unique conditions which prevail at the Crystal Palace when the great orchestra is filled by executants put the music performed to a severe test. "Elijah," however, came out of the ordeal triumphantly. Much of the success, of course, is to be attributed to the intelligence and abilities of the singers and the care and watchfulness of Mr. Manns. The huge choir was excellently balanced, and the tone of the voices very fine. The effect of the cry of the suffering people, "Help, Lord," was stupendous, and the body of tone with which the chorus "Thanks be to God" was delivered was almost overwhelming. Several passages in the magnificent series of Baal choruses were given with no less impressiveness, and the dramatic character of the music was most effectively recognised throughout. Mr. Santley was once more the incomparable exponent of the part of the Prophet, and sang with the greatest animation. Madame Albani rendered the principal soprano solos with her usual fervour, Miss Clara Butt's magnificent voice gave effective utterance to the chief contralto numbers, and Mr. Edward Lloyd sang in his usual finished style. The other soloists were Madame Clara Samuell, Miss Jessie King, Mr. Harper Kearton, Mr. Robert Grice, and Mr. W. H. Brereton, all of whom discharged their duties in a praiseworthy manner.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

The prizes gained during the past year were distributed on the 21st ult., at St. James's Hall, by Lady Glenesk. Before the distribution of the prizes Sir Alexander C. Mackenzie, addressing Lady Glenesk and the company, said he was happy to state, at the end of a most prosperous and highly satisfactory session, that they had every reason to be gratified at the results of their labours. Like every other art institution they had been severely touched by the sudden removal of several great artists—Leighton, Hallé, Barnby, and Sir Augustus Harris, than whom they had no kinder or better friend. The encouragement given to their students in the form of scholarships and exhibitions was increasing, and he was delighted to state that the Costa scholarship was now at last under the protection of the Academy. After acknowledging the kindness of other prize-givers, he alluded with regret to the loss of their colleague, Mr. W. H. Cummings, whom, however, he congratulated on his appointment as Principal of the Guildhall School of Music. In celebration of his jubilee as a professor, Mr. Walter Macfarren, for the purpose of perpetuating his name in the Academy, had given two gold medals, which would be awarded to the two best pianoforte students, male and female. Lady Glenesk then presented the prizes. The Charles Lucas silver medal, for the composition of a slow movement and Rondo for violin and pianoforte, to William H. Reed; the Musicians' Company's medal, for the most distinguished student in the Academy, to Percy H. Miles; the Parepa-Rosa gold medal, for the singing of a piece selected by the committee, to Clara Williams; the Sterndale Bennett prize (ten guineas), for the playing of a pianoforte composition by Sir William Sterndale Bennett, to Lily West; the Llewelyn Thomas gold medal, for declamatory English singing, to Ethel Newcombe; the Heathcote Long prize (ten guineas), for the playing of a pianoforte piece, to Claude F. Pollard; the Bonamy Dobree prize (ten guineas), for the playing of a violoncello piece, to Audrey E. Chapman; the Evill prize (ten guineas), for declamatory English singing, to Gwilym Richards; the Sainton-Dolby prize (five guineas), for singing a piece chosen by the committee, to Amy Sargent; the Rutson prizes (purses of six guineas), for clear enunciation of words and steadiness of intonation in singing pieces chosen by the committee, to Mary A. Howard (contralto) and Frederick B. Ranalow; the Louisa Hopkins Memorial prize (ten guineas), for the playing of a pianoforte piece, to Gertrude Peppercorn; Messrs. Robert Cocks and Company's prizes (purses of ten guineas), for the playing of pianoforte pieces, to Lily West and Charles H. W. Hickin; the Charles Mortimer prize (five guineas), for the composition of a Romance and Valse for pianoforte duet, to William H. Reed; the Goldberg prize (six guineas), for the best rendering of a composition chosen by the committee, to Gwilym Richards; the Norman Salmond prize (five guineas), for the best rendering of a piece chosen by the donor, to Sarah A. Gomersall; Messrs. Hill and Sons' prize (a violin, with bow and case), to Stephen Champ; the Robert Newman prize (ten guineas), to Kate A. Field; and the Magpie Madrigal Society's prize (ten guineas), to Harriett C. Dixon.

The Orchestral Concert given by the students on the 20th ult., at the Queen's Hall, reflected great credit on the intelligence of the performers and the teaching staff of the Academy. Much interest was evinced in a setting for soprano solo, female chorus, and orchestra, by Mr. John B. McEwen, of a scene from Shelley's "Hellas." The composer has made but little attempt at "local colour," but his music is graceful and refined, and both the voice and orchestral parts show skill in contrapuntal writing and appreciation of effect. Miss Sadie Kaiser sang the solo prettily, and the choir and orchestra were manifestly animated by a desire to present the work of their fellow student in a favourable manner and secure its acceptance by the audience, in both of which aims they fully succeeded. The most successful of the pianists was Miss Gertrude Peppercorn, who played the solo part of Saint-Saëns's Concerto in C minor with remarkable firmness and intelligence. Mr. Charles H. W. Hickin gave a neat rendering of the pianoforte part of Schumann's Concertstück in G (Op. 92), and Mr. P. H. Miles displayed admirable command of the violin in Vieuxtemps's Concerto in D minor. Miss Amy Sargent, Miss Louise Atkinson, and Mr. Robert Hyett each gave proofs of having studied under competent singing instructors; and Mr. H. C. Dixon attacked the big organ with considerable success in two movements from Guilmant's Sonata in D minor (Op. 42). A feature of the Concert was the performance of Grieg's melo-drama "Bergliot," the text of which was recited by Miss Maude Lupton. This lady failed to convey the full pathos of Björnsen's tragic poem, but her declamation and gestures had much that is worthy of praise. Sir Alexander Mackenzie conducted with his usual care and ability, and is to be congratulated on the efficiency displayed by the forces he so successfully directed.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

The thirteenth annual general Meeting of the Royal College of Music was held, on the 17th ult., at Marlborough House. The Prince of Wales (President) occupied the chair. Mr. Charles Morley, M.P., hon. secretary, read the annual report of the Council to the Corporation, which showed the continued and steady progress of the College. The number of pupils—scholars and students—on the registers during the College year ending April 30, 1896, had been 414, and there were at the close of the year 322—viz., sixty-one scholars receiving free musical education and 261 students or paying pupils. The Prince of Wales, in proposing the adoption of the report, said: We find that the College is prospering, and I think under the able management of those who give so much of their time and attention to it, we may look upon this institution as a most useful one for the country. We have every reason to lament the loss of many kind friends, and I would specially refer to the late Sir William Gilstrap, who from the commencement has given the College very large sums, while we greatly regret the loss of Lord Leighton, Sir Joseph Barnby, and Sir George Johnson. With respect to the loss of Mr. George Watson, I could not improve upon the words contained in the report. I can only say that all who knew him must deeply regret his death. In his successor, Mr. Frank Pownall, I believe we shall find one who will successfully carry on his duties and walk in his footsteps. I have again to thank Mr. Samson Fox for his continued munificence. I think without his help we should not on many occasions have found ourselves in so prosperous a condition. I also have to thank those gentlemen who give their services as honorary officers and the Council, and especially have to congratulate Dr. Parry, the Director, in his first year of office, on the manner in which he has discharged his duties.

In following Sir George Grove, who for so many years was Director, I feel little doubt that Dr. Parry will do everything he can for the prosperity of the College. I have great pleasure in moving the resolution. (Applause.) The Prince of Wales then presented the Hopkinson gold medal for pianoforte playing to Mr. E. Howard Jones (Foundation Scholar) and the Challen and Son gold medal for pianoforte playing to Miss E. Gertrude King (Morley Scholar).

The pupils of the College have been so busy concert-giving since our last issue that we can only notice the most striking of their performances. Amongst these was the production, on June 25, of a new String Quartet in D minor, by S. Coleridge-Taylor, although, judged by the high standard of this gifted young composer's own previous achievements, it proved somewhat disappointing. Not that it displayed less unconventionality or constructive power, but it appeared less spontaneous in invention, and here and there it seemed to us as if Mr. Taylor were developing something like a mannerism, where he sacrificed beauty to obtain his favourite "barbaric" effects, as they have been termed. These remarks do not apply to the first movement, Allegro agitato ed energico, which is built on two fresh and engaging themes. The slow movement, a Romance and a Waltz, standing in place of the Scherzo, are as unlike the general run of romances and waltzes as can be, but they lack charm. The Finale is a set of ingenious and, in places, highly effective variations on a most melancholy but expressive theme. There is some capital, original music in these variations, but it is here that the aforesaid barbaric effects are laid on with somewhat too lavish a hand, so that they are liable to become monotonous. The performance, by Samuel Grimson, Maude Harper, Edward Behr, and Ethel Uhlhorn-Zillhardt was fair, but the tone was thin, the violoncello being sometimes all but inaudible. The programme included Mozart's String Quintet in G minor, some pianoforte solos well played by Miss B. Cerasoli, two songs by Dvorák and Grieg (expressively sung by Miss Lily Thatcher), and part-songs for female voices for the choral class. The chief feature of the Concert of the 8th ult. was a remarkably good performance of Svendsen's String Octet. Ensemble, attack, expression, and emotional variety were alike excellent, and deserving of the highest praise. Miss Marie Motto led in admirable style. Brahms's Pianoforte Trio in C minor (Op. 101), Chopin's Pianoforte Sonata in B minor, thoughtfully played by Mr. William Trehearne; and Handel's "Ombra mai fù," in which Miss Ruby Shaw displayed a beautiful voice and good style, were contained in the programme.

A supplementary Concert, given on the afternoon of the 16th ult., at which a number of the pupils performed, each in his or her secondary subject of study, is hardly a proper subject of criticism; but attention may be legitimately drawn to a piece, entitled "Trials of an English Composer"—a "Decimino," that is, a piece for ten instruments, by T. Dunhill, a student of the College. This piece, which is a musical illustration of a poem by Fritz B. Hart, is practically what used to be known as a medley, and takes the form of a fantasia on various scraps of English and German popular tunes. It is only natural and right that in an institution presided over by the composer of the music to "The Frogs," musical humour should be allowed a place, and there is certainly some humour both in the conception and execution of Mr. Dunhill's piece; but having said so much, we may, perhaps, suggest that, for the present, the young composer would do well to continue his studies in the serious branches of his art, leaving the development of his humorous faculty till the time when his technical training shall be a good deal more complete.

An interesting, because unhackneyed, programme had been arranged for the final Concert of the term, which was, as usual, orchestral. It opened with a correct but somewhat unsympathetic performance of Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony, and included the first Suite from Bizet's music to Alphonse Daudet's "L'Arlésienne"; Liszt's First Rhapsody; the air "O tu, Palermo," well sung by Mr. Harry Dearth; Ernst's difficult Concerto in F sharp minor, finely played by that clever young violinist, Mr. Samuel Grimson; and last, but not least, two excerpts from Wagner's "Parsifal"—viz., the enchanting Chorus of Flower-maidens, from the second act, and the Verwandlungsmusik from Act III., which precedes the final scene of the wonderful "Bühnenweihfestspiel." The former piece, it will be remembered, is written for two groups of three soloists each and chorus in six parts, and presents difficulties to the singers for which only the exquisite beauty of the music can compensate. It was excellently sung, but the use of the original German words, well pronounced though they were, seemed to cause a slight lack of that "airy-fairy" grace which is so remarkable a feature of this unique conception. The orchestral excerpt, one of the most gloomy—not to say dismal—pieces of music which Wagner ever penned, is magnificently effective at Bayreuth, but seems out of place in a concert-room; yet we were thankful even for this reminiscence of the Festspielhaus. The orchestra, under Professor Stanford, was in excellent form throughout the evening.

The following exhibitions and prizes were awarded at the conclusion of the Midsummer Term, on the 22nd ult.: Council Exhibitions—£7 10s. to Muriel Foster (singing), £7 10s. to Edith E. Stapley (violin), £20 to Rosina Cerasoli (pianoforte), and £20 to Ada Thomas (pianoforte); the London Musical Society's Prize for singing to Robert E. Davies, and the Brinsmead Pianoforte Prize for pianoforte playing to Edith Foster.

THE ASSOCIATED BOARD.

The annual distribution of certificates to the successful candidates at the London and Croydon centres of the Associated Board of the Royal Academy of Music and the Royal College of Music took place, on the 9th ult., at the Royal Academy of Music. The Duchess of Albany presented the certificates. On her arrival Her Royal Highness was received by Lord Charles Bruce on behalf of the Associated Board. His lordship stated that the successful candidates present came from two out of the 106 centres in the United Kingdom at which the local examinations were conducted. With reference to the London centre, by a very curious coincidence there was the same number of candidates entered this year as last year—namely, 521. It was also remarkable that the average of passes in the senior grade was in 1896 the same as in 1895—namely, 52 per cent. He was able to congratulate the candidates in the junior grade on a vast improvement in the number of passes, which showed 66 per cent., as against 61 last year. In honours the senior candidates had made a considerable advance, over 12 per cent. of those who had passed having taken honours, as compared with only 3 per cent. in 1895. On the other hand, the junior candidates had not done so well as in 1895 in honours, there having been a falling off of nearly 2 per cent. As to the Croydon centre, the entries this year had been fifty, as against thirty-seven last year. In the passes in the senior grade there had been an increase since 1895 from 40 to 54 per cent. He was sorry to say that in the junior grade there had been a very considerable decrease in the percentage of passes. Last year two senior and one of the junior candidates carried off honours, but this year they could only report one in the senior grade to whom that distinction had been awarded.

The annual general Meeting of the Board and of the honorary local representatives of the Associated Board of the Royal Academy of Music and the Royal College of Music was held, on the 17th ult., at Marlborough House. The Prince of Wales presided. Lord Charles Bruce (Chairman of the Board) read the annual report, which stated that the total number of candidates entered for various subjects at the local centre and the local school examinations from the first amounted to 29,847, as against 23,707 at the end of the previous year. In 1896 the candidates entered for the local centre examinations numbered 2,775, as against 2,488 in 1895. Of these ninety-one took up two subjects. The Prince of Wales, in moving the first resolution, said: I think we may consider the report we have heard read as highly satisfactory. I entirely endorse every word contained in the latter part, and we have to return our thanks to Sir Charles Ryan for having so kindly given his services as hon. auditor. I would also say how deeply we regret the death of Mr. George Watson, and the pleasure we have in seeing his successor, Mr. Aitken.

In the evening the seventh annual dinner of the Associated Board was held in the Whitehall Rooms, Hôtel Métropole, Lord Russell of Killowen, Lord Chief Justice, presiding.

BANQUET TO MR. W. H. CUMMINGS.

Rarely has any musician been the recipient of so great a compliment as that paid to the new Principal of the Guildhall School of Music by his fellow-artists, at the Hotel Cecil, on the 16th ult., when over 200 ladies and gentlemen sat down to the Banquet in his honour. Very few names of eminence in the musical world were missing, and these few were represented by letters, including one from the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha expressing his regret that he could not attend and his sympathy with the object of the gathering. Sir Alexander Mackenzie presided, and was supported by Dr. Hubert Parry, Sir John Stainer, Sir John Hassard, Professors Bridge and Prout, Mr. August Manns, Mr. Randegger, Judge Meadows White, Q.C., and others; while foremost among the ladies present were Lady Mackenzie, Madame Lemmens-Sherrington, Mrs. Cummings, Miss Anna Williams, and Madame Amy Sherwin. Sir Alexander Mackenzie, in proposing the toast of the evening, said: I cannot mention a tithe even of the details of an exemplary professional career, but I must touch upon the beneficial influence of his work as a teacher in all the prominent musical institutions, in the Royal Academy, in the Guildhall School, in the Royal College for the Blind. Indeed, where has he not made his amiable presence felt? His record as a teacher alone is a tolerably fair one for a man who is now about to enter upon an entirely new sphere of action. And I must refer to that large and engrossing part of his work which we can only call his labours of love, his honorary work on behalf of the Philharmonic Society, the Royal Society of Musicians, the Incorporated Society of Musicians, the Royal Academy, of work—why attempt to swell the long list of services which are not keenly appreciated by those who stand near enough to be able to estimate them at their real value during his lifetime, but which will be remembered with gratitude by his profession at large in the future years? There is hardly a field of our art in which he has not laboured successfully. We know him as an artist, teacher, conductor, composer, antiquary, and musical historian. The great City school of music is to be congratulated upon having acquired the use of these gifts by securing their possessor as its chief administrator and counsellor. (Loud cheers.) We who occupy similar responsible positions hail his principalship with great pleasure, since we know him as a man of spotless integrity, of calm dispassionate judgment, a trusty and genial friend whose word is his bond, whose heart is just old enough to sympathise with the old, and, happily, young enough to go out towards the young.

Mr. Charles Fry then recited a poetical Ode, written in eulogy of Mr. Cummings by Miss Florence Attenborough. At the conclusion of the Ode, which was loudly applauded, the toast given by the Chairman was enthusiastically received with musical honours, the audience standing.

Mr. Cummings, who was much touched by his reception, and spoke with considerable feeling, concluded his reply as follows: I regret extremely that my connection with the Royal Academy as a professor must now cease and be severed, but I trust that there will remain a link so long as life lasts. I also regret very deeply that, as regards the Royal College of Music, I shall no longer have the honour of attending there to examine for diplomas. My colleagues, I may add, were most conscientious, most true, most loyal. I have now a tremendous task before me, when you remember that there are 3,600 students at the Guildhall, that there is a staff of 144 professors or more, and that the institution pays away to them £25,000 per annum. I intend to devote my entire energies to that work, and to perform the task in the most able manner that I can. We must advance there, for I believe that if we do not progress, we go back. Music above all other arts must be in a state of advancement. The future of our art none can see, but I honestly think that there is a tremendous future for it. This, of course, depends very much on what we Principals do. The responsibility, I confess, is very great, for the endeavour to improve the taste of our students must ever be before us. If we put before them good food, their appetites will doubtless improve. I am eclectic enough to appreciate and delight in every school of music if it be a good one. It will be my endeavour to improve the class of music and the taste of the students, and in every respect to elevate not only the pupils, but the professors and myself as well. I do not believe in pinning my faith on what has gone before.

Speeches were made during the evening by Mr. Walter Macfarren, Mr. Threlfall, Sir John Stainer, Mr. H. C. Banister, Professor Bridge, and Dr. Hubert Parry.

MR. HENSCHEL'S LOEWE CONCERT.

One of the most interesting Chamber Concerts of the summer season was that given at the German Embassy, on the afternoon of the 10th ult., in aid of the fund for the erection in his native place of a memorial to Carl Loewe, who was born in 1796 and died in 1869. It has been asserted that Loewe was the inventor of the German "art ballad," but this claim can be disputed, for surely Mozart, Schubert, Schumann, and Robert Franz wrote what may be strictly termed art ballads. But unquestionably Loewe did much in this direction, and this was manifested at Mr. Henschel's Concert, the programme of which included "Die verfallene Mühle," "Erl-König," and "Heinrich der Vogler," sung by Mr. Henschel; "Hochzeitlied," by Mr. Hayden G. Bailey; "Goldschmid's Töchterlein," by Mrs. Henschel; and "Archibald Douglas," by Mr. David Bispham. The lively trio, "Frühlingsverein," delightfully rendered by Mrs. Henschel, Miss Fanny Kreuz, and Miss Gondar also pleased greatly. The examples from the chamber works presented by Miss Fanny Davies, Mr. Maurice Sons, Mr. Paul Ludwig, Mr. Emil Kreuz, and Miss Marie Motto were not so acceptable, the music at a first hearing being little better than a weak compound of Mozart and Spohr. The Concert, however, was a conspicuous artistic success.

THE KNEISEL STRING QUARTET.

These accomplished executants had a numerous audience for their third and final Concert, at St. James's Hall, on the 2nd ult. Beginning the programme with Beethoven's taxing work in C sharp minor (Op. 131), they commanded the closest attention by a perfection of ensemble that caused the manifold beauties of this remarkable composition to be heard under singularly advantageous conditions. In the loftier intellectual attributes of interpretation, no less than in details of execution, Messrs. Franz Kneisel, Otto Roth, L. Scevenski, and Alwin Schroeder showed thorough acquaintance and sympathy with a recognised masterpiece. Finished and exceedingly delicate, too, was their rendering of the beautiful variations on "Death and the Maiden," from Schubert's posthumous Quartet in D minor. The concluding work was Mendelssohn's Quartet in D major (Op. 44, No. 1), into the bright and joyous spirit of which the Boston artists entered as completely as had been the case with respect to its more subdued predecessors. The effect upon the listeners was marked. The players have been so well received that they purpose paying England another visit next year. They will be heartily welcomed.

TONIC SOL-FA FESTIVAL AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE.

The Tonic Sol-fa Association, with praiseworthy enterprise, gave three great Concerts at the Crystal Palace on the 11th ult. At the first Concert, given in the morning, a children's choir filled the Handel orchestra and performed a fairly effective programme of unison songs, two-part and three-part pieces. Rather too much of the music was of the ad captandum order, and the programme was absolutely devoid of any choice selection. It is easier, no doubt, to criticise a fête-day children's programme—in which, as a first condition of success, the singers and the audience must be interested and even amused—than it is to construct one that would gratify a musician as well as the holiday seeker. But people with a mission should discover a mean. A trio, "Fly not swallow," by W. T. Deane, was one of the best pieces performed at this Concert. Mr. S. Filmer Rook conducted with ability, and Mr. C. H. Rowcliffe accompanied on the organ.

At the second Concert, given in the afternoon, 2,500 Welsh singers performed the cantata "A Psalm of Life," by David Jenkins, under the direction of the composer. It is a striking testimony to the vitality of the tonic sol-fa movement in Wales and to the popularity of Mr. Jenkins that this great number of singers could be brought from many distant places to perform together. Of the work itself we wrote when it was performed for the first time at the Cardiff Festival in 1895. On that occasion the cantata was in a sense pitted against the works of great composers, and, it must be confessed, somewhat suffered by the comparison. But at the present performance it stood alone, to be judged upon its merits, and it may be said to have been far more successful. The form and general construction of the music incline somewhat too much to scholastic models, and, in consequence, the work is not likely to be popular. Here and there, in places where the composer has chosen to write dramatically, the effect was excellent. We especially note the chorus "And He saved them," which exhibits Mr. Jenkins at his best. The performance, so far as the choir was concerned, was often magnificent. Rarely, even at Handel Festivals, has a fuller and richer tone been heard at a great Crystal Palace Concert. The basses were especially fine, the altos were resonant and, as is often the case in Welsh choirs, rather unsympathetic in quality, and the sopranos and tenors, notwithstanding a tendency to scoop to high notes, were often thrilling. The accompaniments were played by the Crystal Palace band, augmented by numerous amateurs. Mr. Bryceson Treharne was at the organ.

The third Concert was given in the evening by an entirely distinct choir of about 3,000 singers, gathered from metropolitan and provincial centres. A new work, entitled "Maid of Lorn," a dramatic cantata for soli, chorus, and orchestra, specially written for this Festival by Mr. Thomas Facer, of Birmingham, was produced with considerable popular success. The words of the new cantata are adapted by Mr. Andrew Deakin from Sir Walter Scott's poem "The Lord of the Isles," and they afford ample scope for varied and effective musical treatment. The chief characteristics of Mr. Facer's style are its obvious spontaneity and rhythmic life and its flowing melody and general simplicity. At times the composer has allowed his fluency to develop into redundancy, and there are evidences of haste in composition which in future he would do well to avoid. No one will deny that Mr. Facer has talent, but if he does not cultivate the gift by earnest study his garden of flowers will grow weedy. The first chorus of maidens shows Mr. Facer at his best, and the choruses "Fill the bright goblet" and "Merrily goes the bark" are equally commendable. The performance was fairly good, but the work will gain greatly when given on a smaller scale. On the Crystal Palace orchestra many of the delicate orchestral effects in the solos were almost entirely missed, and in the choruses the organ was permitted to play so loudly that the band was simply inaudible, and might just as well have been dispensed with. The organist was no doubt competent, but being strange to the instrument he could hardly have been aware that he was making a record in the power of his accompaniments. The solos were adequately rendered by Miss Annie Roberts, Mr. Sinclair Dunn, Mr. Charles Courtney, and Mr. William Evans. Mr. Samuel Simms, of Birmingham, was at the organ. Mr. Facer conducted his work, and showed great capacity in controlling his unwieldy resources. On the whole, the Tonic Sol-fa Association deserves great credit for the day's doings. The encouragement they give to native and especially to provincial composers by performing important works on a complete scale is most laudable.

CHOIR FESTIVAL IN YORK MINSTER.

The North-East Cathedral Choir Association is an institution whose primary object is the general improvement of church music in the North of England. This it endeavours to effect by inducing parochial choirs in the four dioceses of York, Durham, Ripon, and Wakefield to join the nucleus formed by the Cathedral choirs of those cities in annual services, at which both the music and the performance are of a nature to form a sort of object-lesson to all taking part. The Association has now been in existence a good number of years, and can hardly fail to have had a beneficial effect, not only on the humbler choirs of the Northern dioceses, but upon the paid Cathedral choirs, whose unvarying daily routine naturally enough inclines them to fall into a groove, and is too apt to result in slipshod habits. The music chosen for this year's Festival, which took place in York Minster on the 9th ult., must be judged in the light of the main object of the Association to be rightly understood and appreciated. Anthems by Greene, Goss, Boyce, and Croft, with a service by Walmisley, though admirable in themselves as examples of Anglican church music of the most staid and decorous kind, are, if the truth be spoken, apt to pall when heard in very rapid succession. When, however, it is remembered that the result of including them in the service was to give a practical object-lesson to the many choirs taking part, and that the anthems sung were such as any well trained Parish Church choir should be able to undertake on its own account, the practical utility of the Festival is easily understood. Greene's "God is our hope," Goss's "Praise the Lord, O my soul," Boyce's "O where shall wisdom be found," and Croft's "God is gone up" were sung as well as was permitted by the small opportunities of general rehearsal, and the rather awkward position of the chorus on the floor of the Nave, at the same level as the congregation. The choruses, sung by a body of nearly 500 voices, sounded particularly well, the sonority of the men's voices having a fine effect in the vast building. The "verse" parts, which were allotted in turn to the different Cathedral choirs, were not always so satisfactory, a want of complete sympathy between singers and organist manifesting itself occasionally. The organist of York Minster, Dr. Naylor, conducted, and played an outgoing voluntary on the screen organ after the service; while Drs. Armes of Durham and Crow of Ripon accompanied the anthems and the canticles on the Nave organ. The parochial choirs that took part came from Halifax (All Souls'), Queensbury, Sheffield, Heaton, Wakefield, Dewsbury, Mirfield, and Almondbury—all, it will be noticed, West Riding towns. There are surely many choirs in the diocese of York who would benefit both the Festival and themselves by taking part in what is so distinctly a diocesan event, and it is to be hoped that when the turn of York comes round again, the North and East Ridings will be better represented in the chorus.

THE OCTO-CENTENARY OF NORWICH CATHEDRAL.

On the 1st ult. the first of a series of Thanksgiving Services in commemoration of the 800th anniversary of the foundation of Norwich Cathedral was held in that building, when the sermon was preached by the Lord Archbishop of Armagh. The anthem selected for the occasion was Boyce's "I have surely built thee an house to dwell in," the alto, tenor, and bass solos being splendidly sung by Messrs. Holden, Hemmings, and Brockbank. The Te Deum and Jubilate were Stanford in B flat. The attendance of the Mayors of the different boroughs of the diocese, in their official robes, the Norwich Corporation and officials, military officers stationed in the city, and Freemasons in full costume combined to form a brilliant coup d'œil.

But the musical interest of the commemoration centred in the following day, when Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" and No. 6 from Part II. of Gounod's "Redemption" were given at the afternoon service in the Nave, conducted by Dr. Frank Bates, the Cathedral organist. The service might truly be called a Diocesan Festival, for the chorus of 280 voices was drawn from selected church choirs in the district, and their singing was a pleasant and satisfactory proof of the useful work the local Church Choral Association is doing in the diocese. The chorus was supported by a band of about fifty performers (led by Mr. F. W. B. Noverre); these again, with three exceptions, were residents of Norfolk and Suffolk. The solos were taken by choristers White and Self and Mr. H. J. Brookes. With these forces Dr. Bates was enabled to present Mendelssohn's charming cantata with striking effect; the opinion of those well able to judge was that a better performance was hardly possible. The recitatives in the selection from Gounod were sung with impressive solemnity by Messrs. Brookes and Brockbank, and the concluding chorus, "Unfold, ye portals everlasting," was a fitting termination to a service which will long remain in the memory of the vast congregation who crowded every foot of available space in the building.

A MUSICAL FESTIVAL IN MADRID.

(From a Correspondent.)

The music-loving people of the Spanish capital have recently been thrown into a state of excitement by the presence in their midst, for the first time, of the Clavé Choral Societies. Clavé and the societies he founded enjoy a well-deserved celebrity throughout Spain, but as he and they are practically unknown to British lovers of music a few introductory words about both will not be out of place.

José Anselmo Clavé, whose name is almost a household word in the northern parts of the Peninsula, was a Catalan by birth. He was also a journalist of inferior note, and he took a leading part in politics, as an advanced Republican, from 1845 to the year of his death, 1874. In the latter years of his life he filled several important Government posts.

The Catalan peasant or operative is a rough looking individual. He is gruff, and his provincial dialect, to which he is so dearly attached, sounds rather uncouth at times to ears accustomed to the politer idiom of Castille. Then a Catalan is a labourer and a shop-keeper rather than a poet and an idealist. But Clavé's talent and penetration enabled him to discern, under the rough exterior of his countrymen, the germs of considerable musical ability. Hence, some forty years ago, he started his first choral society, composed almost exclusively of peasants and workmen. Rapid success proved the wisdom of his foresight, and many years before dying he had the satisfaction of seeing the movement he had set on foot firmly established in Arragon, Valencia, and the Balearic Islands. Since his death these choral societies have increased and multiplied, and each year has added to their fame. Their members are still horny-handed sons of toil, some of them shabbily clad, but all possessing good voices and a careful musical training as choristers. The vast majority of their songs are written in their local dialects, and throw an interesting light upon their usages, traditions, and manner of thinking. As for the accompaniment, it is generally melodious, though, perhaps, a trifle monotonous at times, and reminds us of the songs sung by the peasantry in Central Russia, minus their plaintive shrillness. The members of each choral society usually have a distinctive head-gear. Those hailing from Catalonia mostly wear the long and bright red Catalan bonnet, the Arragonese have caps with white peaks, the Valencians red and blue caps, and those from the Balearic Islands grey caps adorned with a red cross. Then every society has a silk or velvet banner of various colours; it is ornamented with a red and yellow scarf and the crosses and medals won by the members in musical competitions.

Bands of music and thousands of people assembled at one of the Madrid termini, late at night on May 23, to witness the arrival of sixty-four choral societies, mustering close upon 1,700 singers. At the head of the new-comers was the Maëstro Goulé, formerly bandmaster of the Royal Opera at Madrid. On the following evening they gave, in the Park, an open-air Concert, which was numerously attended, in spite of the threatening weather. The choristers were divided into five groups, which sang one after the other. Then they united and sang together. The performance was really fine, and the public showed its appreciation of it in no stinted way. The splendid voice of one of the tenors arrested general attention.

The next day a grander Concert was held in the same place. It was graced by the presence of the Queen-Regent, who was accompanied by the little King and his sisters. A huge crowd, representing all classes of society, struggled through the gates, and many of the admission tickets fetched prices far in excess of their nominal value. At a few minutes before four o'clock some thirty-six societies marched with their banners from the Royal Opera. They were escorted by the bands of all the regiments stationed in Madrid, besides several private ones, and followed by an enthusiastic crowd. When they reached the park the Royal Family had already arrived, and as they marched past the Royal tribune they lowered their banners. Here is the programme:—

"Glory to Spain," an impressive song with orchestral accompaniment; "Arre Moreu," a fishermen's song, for voices only; Symphony from various works by Barbieri, the noted composer, played by several bands; "The Fishermen," for voices only; "The beauties of the Cinca," with band accompaniment. The Cinca is one of the rivers of Catalonia. The song describes the natural and other beauties to be found along its banks. These five pieces composed the first part of the programme. The second was as follows:

"Glory to Art," a song with orchestral accompaniment; "May Flowers," a pleasing composition in the Catalan tongue, and for voices only; Symphony from Breton's operetta "La Dolores," executed by several bands; "The Basket of Flowers," "The Grandsons of the Almogavars." Both of these last two pieces were rendered exclusively by voices; but there is a material difference between them. While the former is soft and harmonious, the latter is stern and rugged, if not warlike also, as were the Almogavars who formed part of the Catalan expedition against Constantinople at the beginning of the feudal ages.

All these compositions, it need hardly be said, were performed in all but faultless style under the able direction of Señor Goulé, and loudly applauded. Many of them, indeed, had to be repeated.

When the Royal Family rose to leave, after the Symphony from "La Dolores," the united bands struck up the Royal March and the members of the choral societies cheered lustily and waved their caps. The Queen-Regent waved her handkerchief in return and Alfonso XIII. his sailor's cap.

At 10 o'clock at night the choral societies met in one of the Palace yards to serenade the Queen-Regent. The crowd outside was immense, and the effect of the electric light on the multi-coloured caps worn by the men, and on their rich banners, was extremely picturesque. From that mass of glow and colour arose the soft and impressive strains of a nautical song called "El Mar" ("The Sea"). This was succeeded by the ever-popular March of Cadiz, which was heartily cheered by the multitude and repeated at Her Majesty's request. Another song, of which little need be said, brought the serenade to a close. At its conclusion Señor Goulé, several delegates from the choral societies, and the Governor of Madrid were ushered into the presence of the Queen-Regent, who warmly congratulated the Maëstro and asked the delegates a number of questions relating to themselves and to their comrades. A short time after all the serenaders entered the Palace and sat down to a repast provided by the Sovereign.

At a later hour they broke up into groups large and small, and went off to serenade the Press Association, the staffs of the Madrid daily papers, the Senate, the Ministers of State, and many persons belonging to the aristocracy. Some of them went into the larger cafés and gave impromptu Concerts. In one of these the Arragonese sang the "Marseillaise" in their own dialect. Almost wherever they went the serenaders were treated to wine, cigars, and so forth, though in one or two places they were given money instead. The pieces they sang during the night were, with few exceptions, the same as those which had been heard at the Concerts in the Park. Unfortunately,

Madrid is not likely to hear them again before a very long time, as they have practically decided to go to Seville next year. The proceeds of both their Concerts are to be devoted to the soldiers wounded in Cuba, and each man paid out of his own pocket about twenty-five shillings of our money for his journeys to and from Madrid, as well as for board and lodging during his stay.

THE NEW PIANOFORTE RESONATOR.

Frequenters of Pianoforte Recitals have long been faced with the words "Erard with Resonator," the meaning of which has been set forth in Concert programme books with enterprising persistency for a considerable period. The invention has recently been acquired by an independent company who undertake to attach it to pianofortes by any maker, and in order to have its merits thoroughly tested, a number of experts and members of the London musical press were invited to attend, on the 14th ult., at the premises of the Company, 33, New Bond Street. In the presence of these gentlemen the invention was put on and taken off instruments of various makers, the results being, in all cases, an increase in the volume of tone and a banishment of any hard quality when the resonator was applied. The best effects were obtained from the best instruments, although all classes were perceptibly improved. In the interests of pianoforte makers it should therefore be distinctly understood that the greater power imparted by the application of the resonator does not cast any reflection on the merits of their instruments. The attachment of the resonator may be said to correspond to the increased effectiveness of a pianoforte when moved into an empty room from one thickly carpeted and curtained. The invention has undergone several modifications since its first conception, and it now consists of a thin plate of a peculiar kind of brittle steel, in which long pieces are detached on three sides and slightly curled. The entire plate is stretched under the sound-board of the horizontal pianoforte and at the back of the upright, the edge of the curled pieces of steel being tightly tied with silk to the sound-board. On the method of attachment depends in great measure the success of the invention, the resonator being set in motion, not by sympathetic vibration with the strings, but by actual contact with the body of the instrument. The effect is apparently to increase the power of the lower harmonics with a proportionate enrichment of the tone. The device is, therefore, of great value to worn instruments and those of hard quality, and it is not impossible that the invention marks a new era in the development of the pianoforte.

CONCERNING CHURCH MUSIC IN THE UNITED STATES.

(By our American Correspondent.)

I have been much interested by certain correspondence which has lately appeared in one or two of the musical periodicals of London regarding the condition of affairs which awaits the English organist who determines to try his fortune in "the States." The fact that a Fellow of the Royal College of Organists resident in the city of New York has felt moved to utter a solemn warning to his brethren in England against coming to "this great and glorious land" impels me to utter a counter-warning to English organists, who may be casting their eyes Westward, not to take the experiences of any single individual as a guide in forming their judgment.

So far as I know, no attempt has ever been made to place before English Church musicians any very comprehensive view of the conditions which surround an organist in America. Those who come here seem to have been guided only by such information as they could obtain from private sources, and usually such sources do not furnish much knowledge that is reliable of anything beyond the limits of special localities. It is the object of the present papers to give such a general view of the present aspect of American Church music as may be of assistance to those who are thinking of coming here. It is proper to state at the outset that the writer is an American organist and choirmaster, and that he occupies a position which gives him access to much general information concerning the affairs of American churches.

To begin with, it should be understood that there is no particular demand in America for organists of English training except in the Episcopal Church. That is to say, the special training which is involved in preparation for the Anglican service is not required by Presbyterian, Congregational, Baptist, or Methodist churches. In fact, those of the denominational churches which pay salaries high enough to tempt a good professional man look first and foremost at his ability as a solo player. It must not be forgotten that to meet this demand of the dissenting churches there is already a pretty good supply of men whose training has been received in France or Germany, or in America under teachers who have themselves studied on the Continent. The majority of Americans who have gone abroad to study the organ within the last twenty or twenty-five years have gone to France or Germany. They have come back excellent performers and teachers of the organ, but, of course, quite out of sympathy with the English school of church music; and they have found their field of employment among the non-liturgical churches. These gentlemen all teach, more or less, and in the aggregate they turn out a pretty large number of pupils every year, who in their turn take to teaching and increase the output in a sort of geometrical progression. It should also be mentioned that the vast majority of the dissenting churches, taking the country over, pay salaries so small that only amateurs, or local pianoforte teachers who play the organ on Sundays as a "side issue," can afford to accept them, and of these the supply—such as it is in quality—seems about equal to the demand. Speaking generally, then, it is only the Episcopal Church in the United States which offers a field to the English professional organist, and I shall confine what I have to say hereafter principally to that body.

The question of prime importance is the financial one. I can conceive of no reason why an English organist should want to come to America except the enlarged opportunities for employment and the chances of better pay than he can get at home. Before taking up the question of church salaries, which I shall do with considerable detail, I wish, at the risk of repeating what has been said by others, to emphasise particularly this point: that the organist who is considering an American church appointment should make the salary, and the salary alone the basis of his money calculations, leaving out of the account all speculations as to the amount he can add to his income by teaching. The reason is that wherever there is a field for teaching in America there is a teacher (good or bad) cultivating the field. There is practically no such thing in America as the "teaching connection," which in England so often goes along with an organist's appointment. It is true that there are few—a very few—places where a church appointment has attached to it a position as music instructor in a school; but in almost every case it will be found that these posts are in small, out of the way places, and that the arrangement exists from motives of economy. In short, the incumbent gets what amounts to a single ordinary salary, while between his two appointments he has to do more than ordinary duty. Both the church and the school "make money" by this operation at the expense of the organist. Nothing is more common than to see such a statement as this in American advertisements for organists: "Salary moderate; but excellent field for teaching." Such an offer should be received with extreme caution, for the reason that in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred it will prove to be one of those partial statements of the truth which are so particularly dangerous. The "excellent field" does, in fact, exist, and in an excellent state of tillage. No people are more alert to discover a new opportunity, great or small, for industry than Americans, or more expeditious in seizing that opportunity. Moreover, there is a very large body of German music teachers in the United States, who are capable, active, industrious men, and very wide awake to the main chance. Take also into consideration the fact that there are constantly thousands of young women in the various music schools and conservatories of the large cities who are being trained for no purpose in the world but to go home and set up as music teachers the very moment they can be safely released from their leading strings, and it will be seen that the chances of finding an unoccupied "field" for teaching are very slight. The organist who trusts to an advertisement of this kind will almost certainly find himself installed in a post where he has nothing to depend upon except his meagre salary, and where he must compete for pupils with those who have been longer on the ground and have advantages in the way of personal acquaintance and influence over a stranger. For the last fifteen years I have seen any number of these advertisements in print; but I never saw but one in which the advertiser stated specially how much the candidate could expect to rely upon from teaching. In that instance the post offered was in a town in West Virginia, and twenty pupils at one dollar per week each were guaranteed. The church salary was, if I recollect aright, only 200 dollars, and as the teaching season would not cover more than forty weeks of the year the maximum amount from that source could not have been over 800 dollars; giving a total income of 1,000 dollars—say, £200.

I would not be understood as intimating that these advertisements are published with deliberate intent to deceive. Far from it. They are generally put forth in all good faith, but the phrase "a good field for teaching" means, in America, nothing more than that there are a good number of possible pupils in the place, for whom the new-comer must scramble along with those teachers who are already on the spot, and with the certainty that no prestige whatever will accrue to him from his church appointment. Nor is it to be thought that the whole business of music teaching in the States is hopelessly pre-empted. Merit will tell here, as well as anywhere, and I believe Americans are more ready than most other people to pay liberally for good teaching. The fees charged by noted teachers in New York and London are about the same, but taking the average the country over, the rates are decidedly higher in America than in England, and even after taking into account the greatly increased expense of living here, I believe that the profession makes a larger net profit from teaching in a year than is made in England from an equal number of pupils. But any English organist who contemplates coming to America should be assured that he is not likely to find a place worth having where he will not meet formidable competitors when it comes to getting pupils.

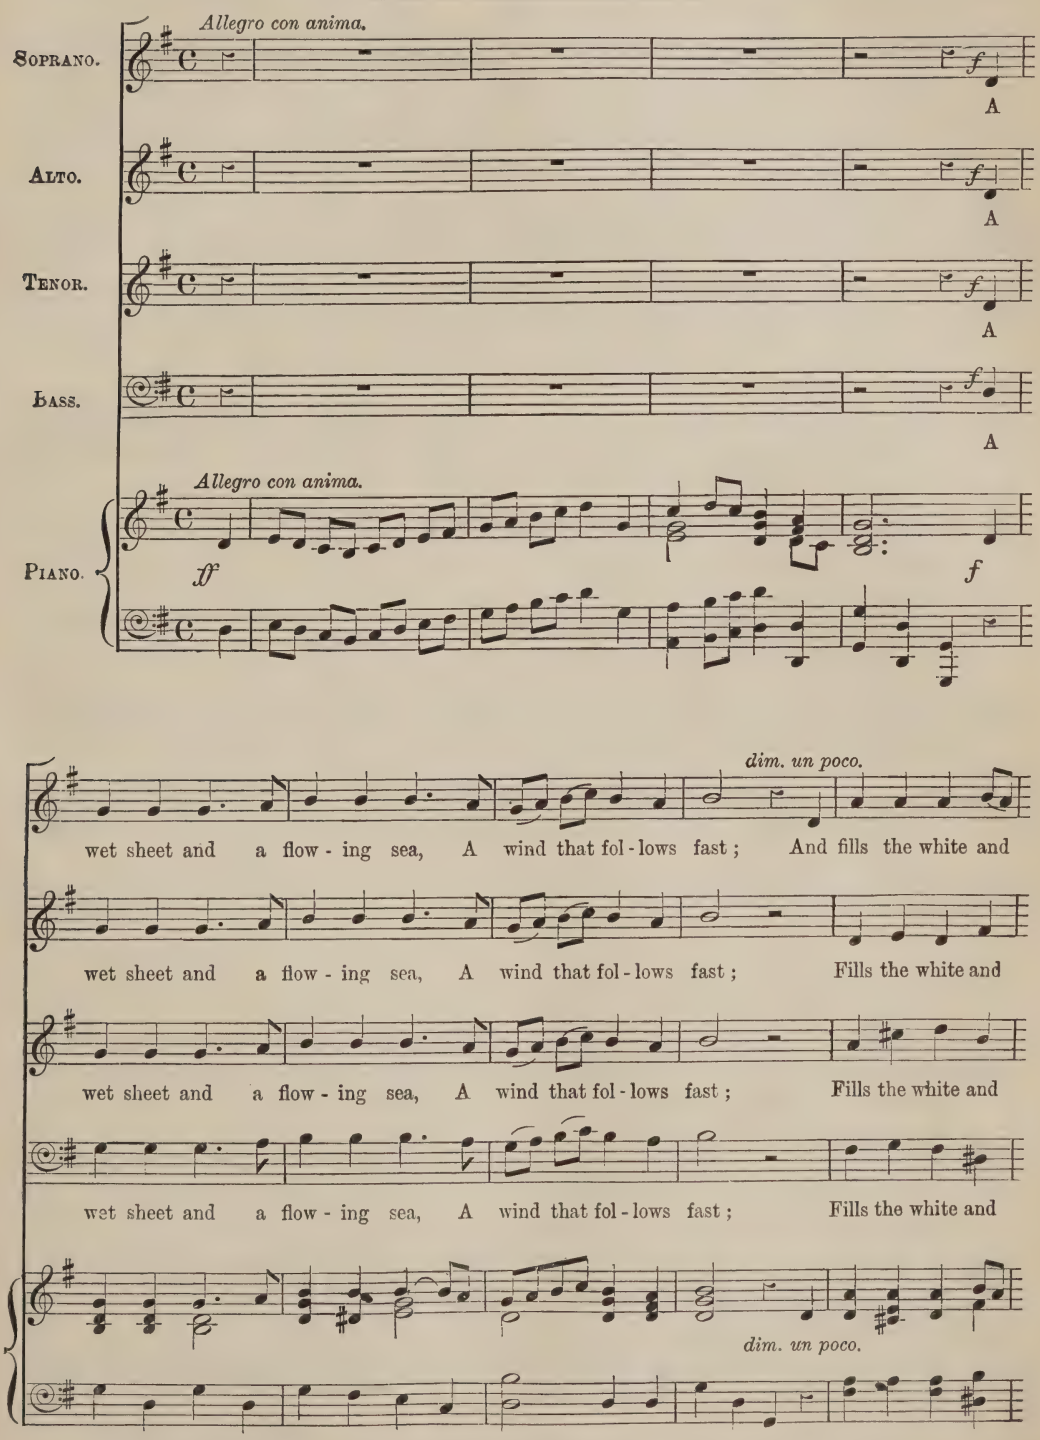
To come now to the question of salaries, it may not be commonly known in England that American churches are generally reticent about making public their expenditures. Time was when lists of the new choir appointments were published in the newspapers about May 1, with the salaries given; but that fashion has gone out of date, and it is now the custom not to give out such figures. One result of this is, that the salaries paid by certain prominent churches are often over-estimated. It may be said, however, in a general way, that an appointment at less than 1,000 dollars is not regarded as a desirable one, especially if it involves the work of training a boy choir. To give a fair idea of the purchasing value of such a sum would involve going into many matters which are beyond the scope of this article, but a comparison of some salaries paid for other lines of work will show that a thousand dollar salary in America does not mean quite as much as it seems to. For instance, the salary of a patrolman (the lowest grade of policeman) in New York is about 1,400 dollars a year. A letter carrier receives about 1,000 dollars. A journeyman painter, if he works 300 days in a year, can make 1,000 dollars, and a competent stone-cutter, 1,200. A tuner in an organ factory gets five dollars a day, and most of them make 300 days in a year. These are New York prices, which are the highest known in America; but the church salaries paid in New York are also the highest in the country and the living expenses are likewise. In other cities, where living is cheaper, salaries are correspondingly lower. Taking 1,000 dollars, then, as a standard, I will endeavour to show, as briefly as possible, how many organ appointments there are in the Episcopal Churches which are worth that sum, and in what dioceses they are to be found.

In 1895 the Episcopal Church in the United States was divided into seventy-five dioceses. The General Convention of that year erected two or three new dioceses, but as they were formed out of parts of old ones, the figures here given, which are drawn from the official book of 1895, are not affected.

To give round numbers, it may be said that all of these really desirable organ appointments are to be found in nineteen of these seventy-five dioceses. As for the rest, quite a number are missionary jurisdictions on the frontiers, and others are western and southern dioceses in parts of the country whose population is sparse and churches feeble and impoverished. Some of the latter contain two or three churches financially strong enough to enable a fair expenditure for music, but the whole number of good appointments outside the nineteen dioceses mentioned, is so inconsiderable that it is not worth discussing.

The nineteen more favoured dioceses are as follows:—California, Connecticut, Maryland (this now includes the diocese of Washington), Illinois, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Newark, New York, Western New York, Albany, Central New York, Long Island, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Central Pennsylvania, Pittsburg, and Rhode Island. For the sake of convenience and also because it is numerically the largest, the weathiest, and most influential, I will begin with the diocese of New York. New York is the Mecca of organists all over the country. The diocese contains 215 churches, of which eighty-six are within the city limits. Of the eighty-six city churches the organists' salaries in twenty-six reach or exceed the 1,000 dollar mark. The twenty-six are: All Angels' (separate organist and choirmaster), All Souls', Ascension, Calvary, Christ, Grace, Heavenly Rest, Holy Communion, Incarnation, St. Andrew, St. Bartholomew, St. George, St. Ignatius, St. Mary the Virgin, St. Thomas, Transfiguration, Trinity, St. Paul's Chapel, St. John's Chapel, Trinity Chapel, St. Chrysostom's Chapel, St. Luke's, Zion, St. Timothy, and St. Peter's (Westchester). Of these churches two are generally understood to pay their organists 4,000 dollars a year each, two more 3,500 dollars, and seven 2,500 dollars; so that a salary of 1,000 dollars does not cut much of a figure in New York City. Of the 129 churches outside the city it is doubtful whether a single one pays so high a stipend as 1,000 dollars—at most there are not more than two or three.

The eleven most lucrative New York posts, with perhaps a dozen (at a liberal estimate) in other cities, constitute the crême de la crême of American appointments; but nowhere else do salaries touch the high-water mark indicated by these New York figures.



The result of the various Competitions at the Guildhall School of Music is as follows:—The Lord Mayor's Prize (soprano), Miss Mabel Engelhardt; Miss Ellen Murphy and Miss Thelma Knutsson, commended. The Sheriffs' Prize (mezzo-soprano), Miss Bessie Grant; Miss Alice Read, highly commended; Miss Edith Clegg and Miss Kate Davis, commended. The Sheriffs' Prize (contralto), Mrs. Hyem and Miss Maude Clough, prize divided. The Brinsmead Prize, a pianoforte of the value of sixty-three guineas (pianoforte), Mr. George D. Boxall; Mr. Charles R. Girardot, very highly commended. The Chairman's Prize (organ), Mr. Walter A. Richards; Miss Cartwright, highly commended; Miss Edith Tailby, commended. The Jenkinson Prize (pianoforte), Miss Rachel Ricardo. The Alexander Prize (elocution), Miss Florence Jeans; Miss Ethel Hyem and Miss Florence Barrett, commended. The Robinson Prizes (tenor), Mr. Henry Turnpenny; (accompanist), Miss Mary Cooper; Miss Louie Bonham, highly commended. The Moore Prizes (bass), Mr. Tom Powley; sight-singing, Mr. A. Montague Borwell; Miss Kingsford, highly commended. The Tubbs Prize (violin), Miss Fanny Woolf. The Carwardine Prize (violin), Miss Dora Davidson and Miss Armgart Allen, prize divided. School Prizes: Pianoforte, Miss Ethel Foreshew. Solo-singing: (Soprano), Miss Mildred Harwood; Miss Blanche Stone and Miss Beatrice Root, commended. (Contralto), Miss Beatrice Oldfield; Miss Mary Garland, highly commended. (Tenor), Mr. Wilfred Wynnstay; Mr. Thomas H. Davis, commended. (Bass), Mr. William Rogers. Violin, Miss Jessie A. Bowman; Miss José Dubois, highly A wet sheet and a flowing sea.

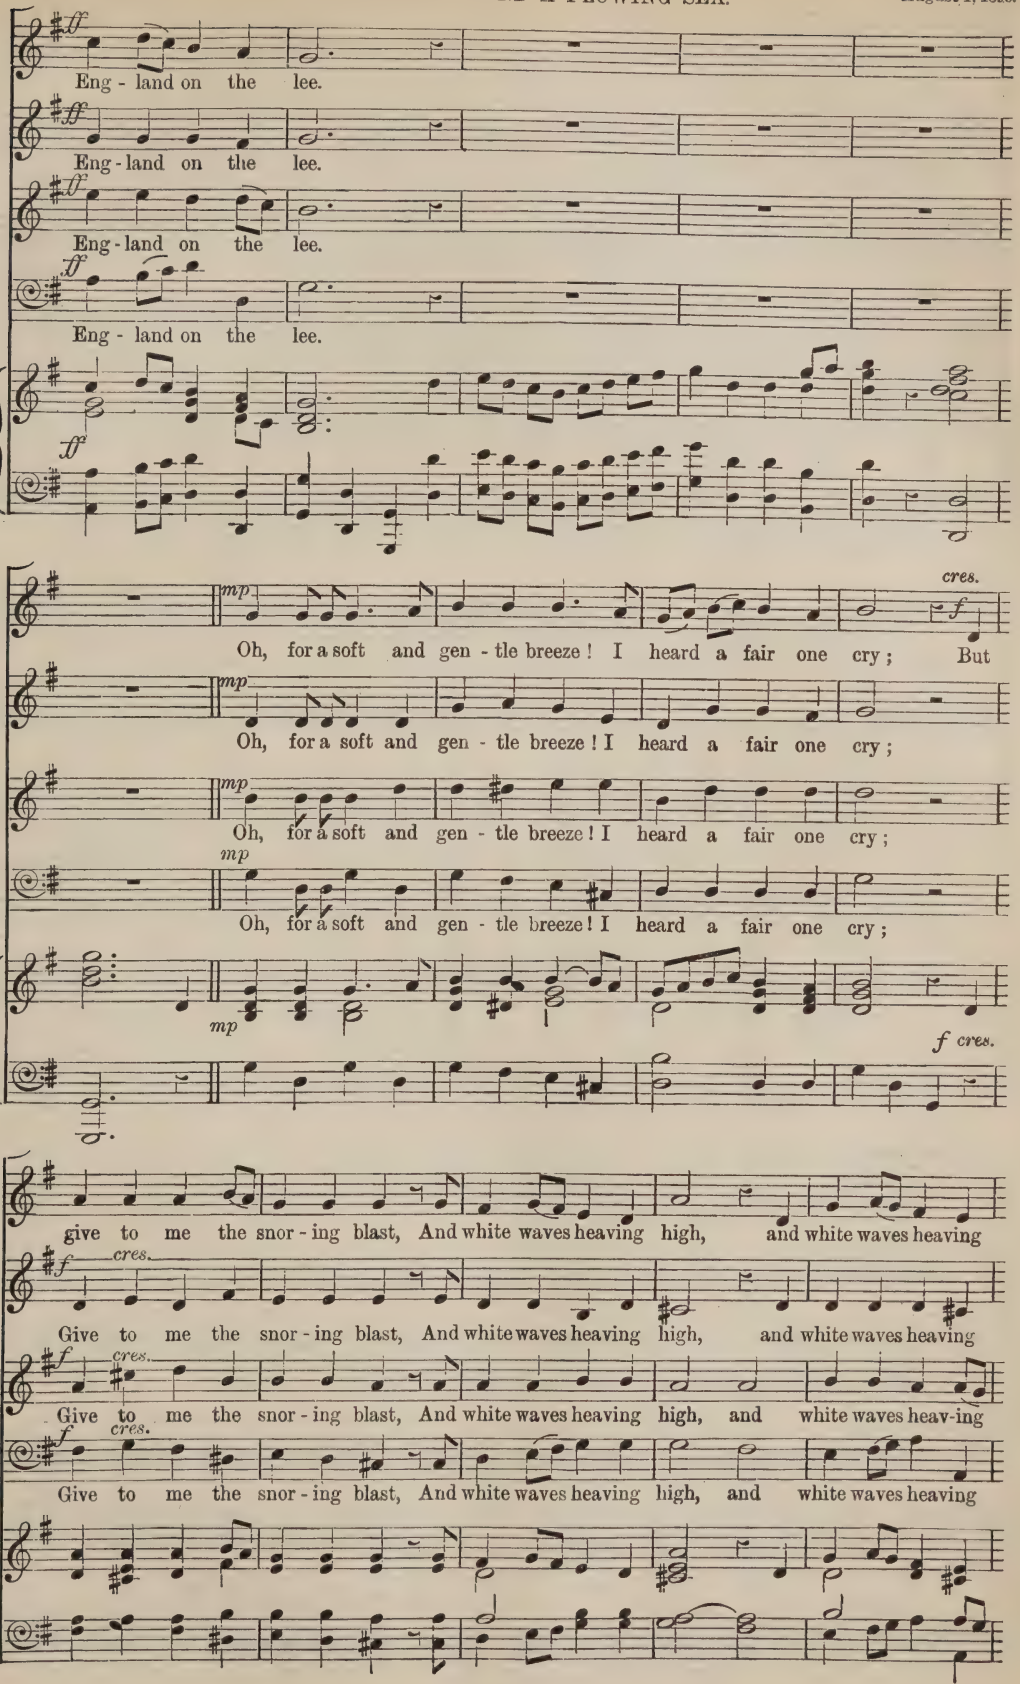
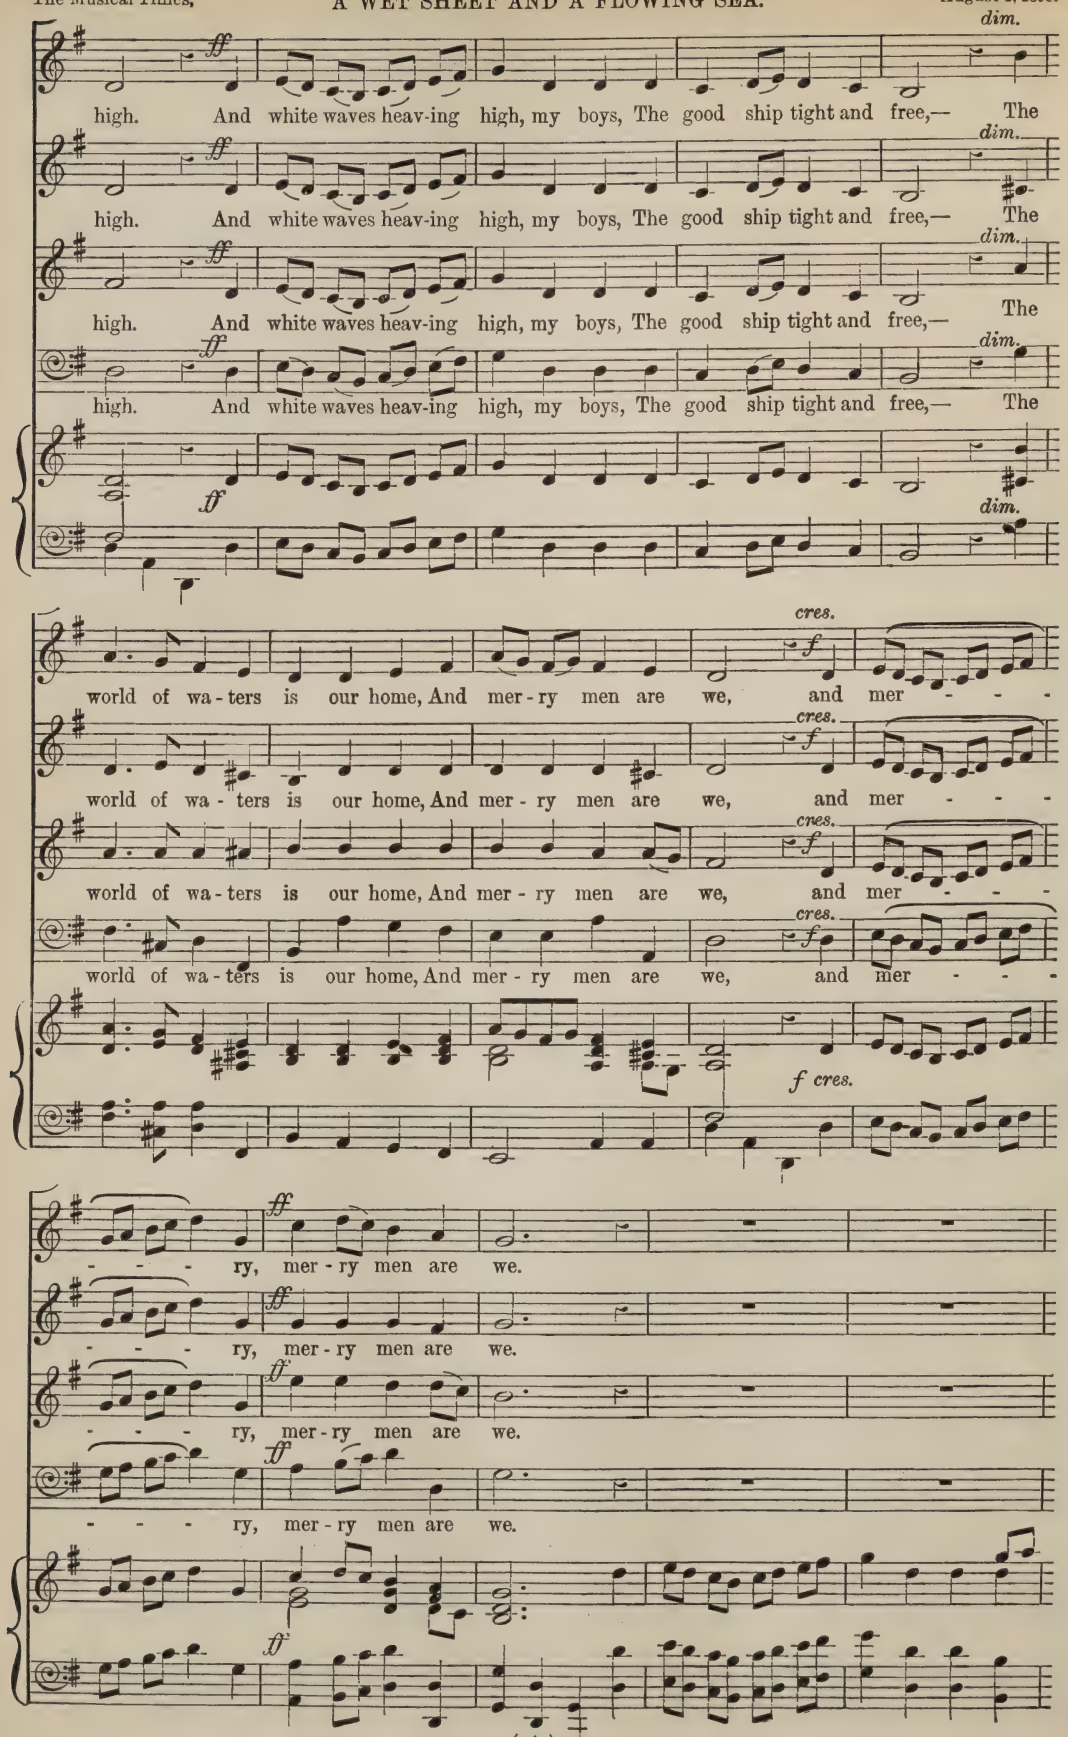
A FOUR-PART SONG.



Words by Allan Cunningham. Composed by Henry Randell Evans.



London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); also in New York.

Copyright, 1896, by Novello, Ewer and Co.

rust - ling sail, And bends the gal - lant mast, and bends the gal - lant mast. And rust - ling sail, And bends the gal - lant mast, and bends the gal - lant mast. And rust - ling sail, And bends the gal - lant mast, and bends the gal - lant mast. And rust - ling sail, And bends the gal - lant mast, and bends the gal - lant mast. And
ff
bends the gal - lant mast, my boys, While, like the ea - gle free, A - way the good ship
bends the gal - lant mast, my boys, While, like the ea - gle free, A - way the good ship
bends the gal - lant mast, my boys, While, like the ea - gle free, A - way the good ship bends the gal - lant mast, my boys, While, like the ea - gle free, A - way the good ship dim.
flies, and leaves Old Eng - land on the lee, Old Eng - - - - - land,
flies, and leaves Old Eng - land on the lee, Old Eng - - - - - land,
flies, and leaves Old Eng - land on the lee, Old Eng - - - - - land, flies, and leaves Old Eng - land on the lee, Old Eng - - - - - land, cres.
f
f cres.

ff
Eng - land on the lee.
Eng - land on the lee.
Eng - land on the lee.
Eng - land on the lee.
mp
Oh, for a soft and gen - tle breeze! I heard a fair one cry; But cres.
f
Oh, for a soft and gen - tle breeze! I heard a fair one cry;
Oh, for a soft and gen - tle breeze! I heard a fair one cry;
Oh, for a soft and gen - tle breeze! I heard a fair one cry;
f cres.
give to me the snor - ing blast, And white waves heaving high, and white waves heaving
Give to me the snor - ing blast, And white waves heaving high, and white waves heaving
Give to me the snor - ing blast, And white waves heaving high, and white waves heav-ing
Give to me the snor - ing blast, And white waves heaving high, and white waves heaving

ff
dim.
high. And white waves heav-ing high, my boys, The good ship tight and free,— The high. And white waves heav-ing high, my boys, The good ship tight and free,— The high. And white waves heav-ing high, my boys, The good ship tight and free,— The high. And white waves heav-ing high, my boys, The good ship tight and free,— The ff
dim.
cres.
f world of wa - ters is our home, And mer - ry men are we, and mer - - - world of wa - ters is our home, And mer - ry men are we, and mer - - - world of wa - ters is our home, And mer - ry men are we, and mer - - - world of wa - ters is our home, And mer - ry men are we, and mer - - -
f cres.
ff
- - - - ry, mer - ry men are we.
- - - - ry, mer - ry men are we.
- - - - ry, mer - ry men are we.
- - - - ry, mer - ry men are we.
ff

There's tem-pest in yon horn-ed moon, And light-ning in yon
There's tem-pest in yon horn-ed moon, And light-ning in yon
There's tem-pest in yon horn-ed moon, And light-ning in yon
There's tem-pest in yon horn-ed moon, And light-ning in yon
dim. un poco.
cloud; But hark the mu-sic, ma-ri-ners! The wind is pip-ing loud, the cloud; Hark the mu-sic, ma-ri-ners! The wind is pip-ing loud, the cloud; Hark the mu-sic, ma-ri-ners! The wind is pip-ing loud, the cloud; Hark the mu-sic, ma-ri-ners! The wind is pip-ing loud, the dim. un poco.
wind is pip-ing loud! The wind is pip-ing loud, my boys, The light-ning flash-es wind is pip-ing loud! The wind is pip-ing loud, my boys, The light-ning flash-es wind is pip-ing loud! The wind is pip-ing loud, my boys, The light-ning flash-es wind is pip-ing loud! The wind is pip-ing loud, my boys, The light-ning flash-es dim.

cres.
f free— While the hol - low oak our pa - lace is, Our her - i - tage the sea, our free— While the hol - low oak our pa - lace is, Our her - i - tage the sea, our free— While the hol - low oak our pa - lace is, Our her - i - tage the sea, our free— While the hol - low oak our pa - lace is, Our her - i - tage the sea, our f cres.
her - - - - - i - tage, our her - i - tage the sea.
her - - - - - i - tage, our her - i - tage the sea.
her - - - - - i - tage, our her - i - tage the sea.
her - - - - - i - tage, our her - i - tage the sea.
ff

No. 547. NOVELLO'S OCTAVO ANTHEMS. Price 3*d.*

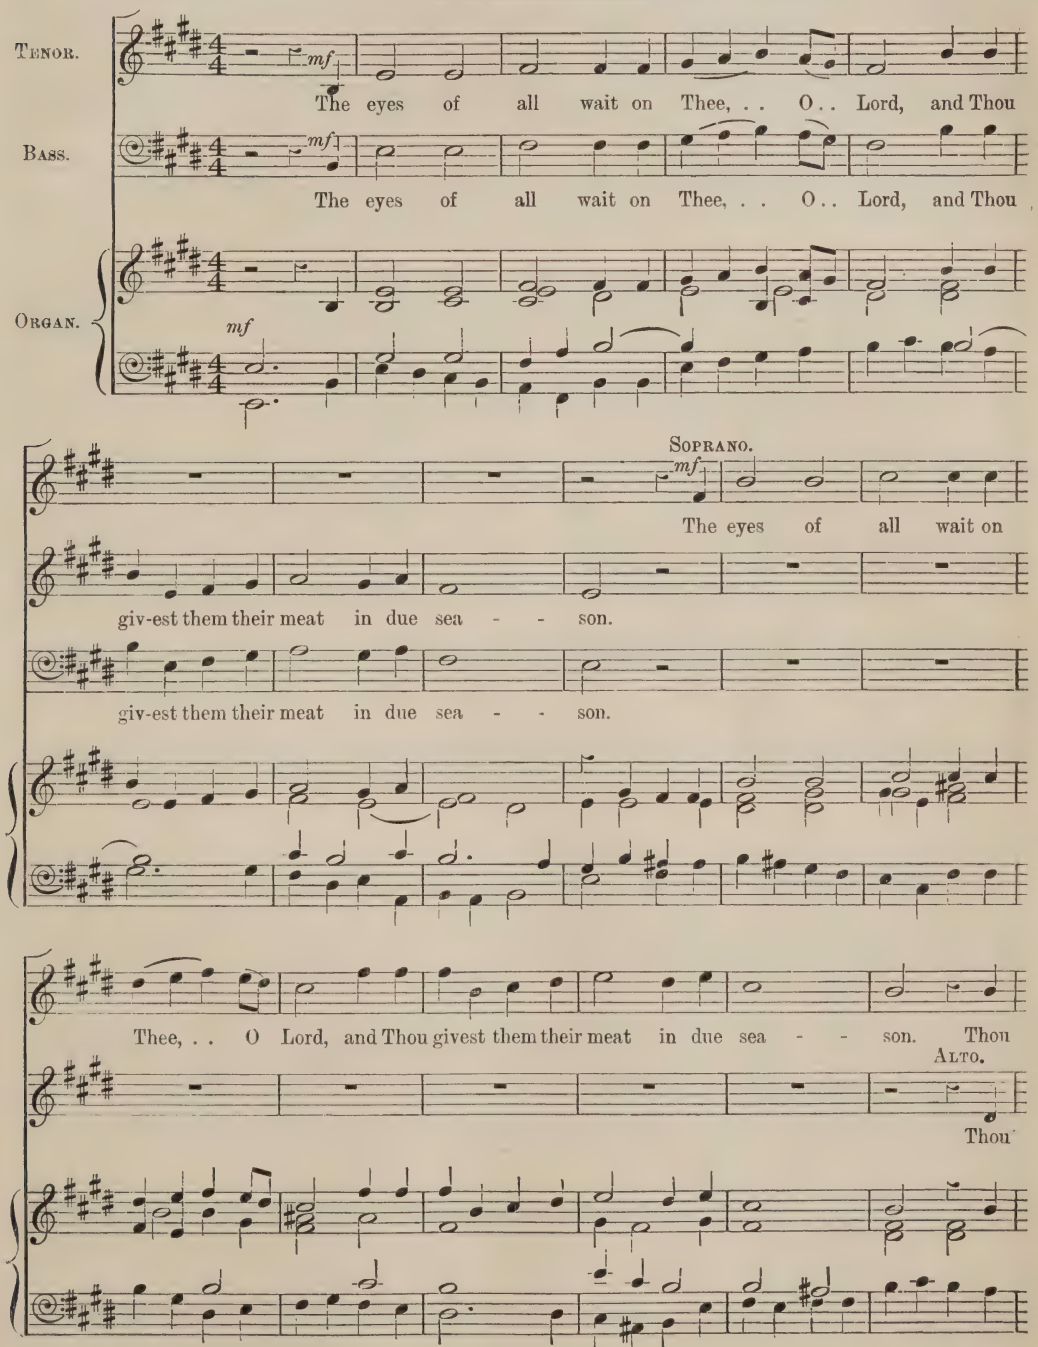
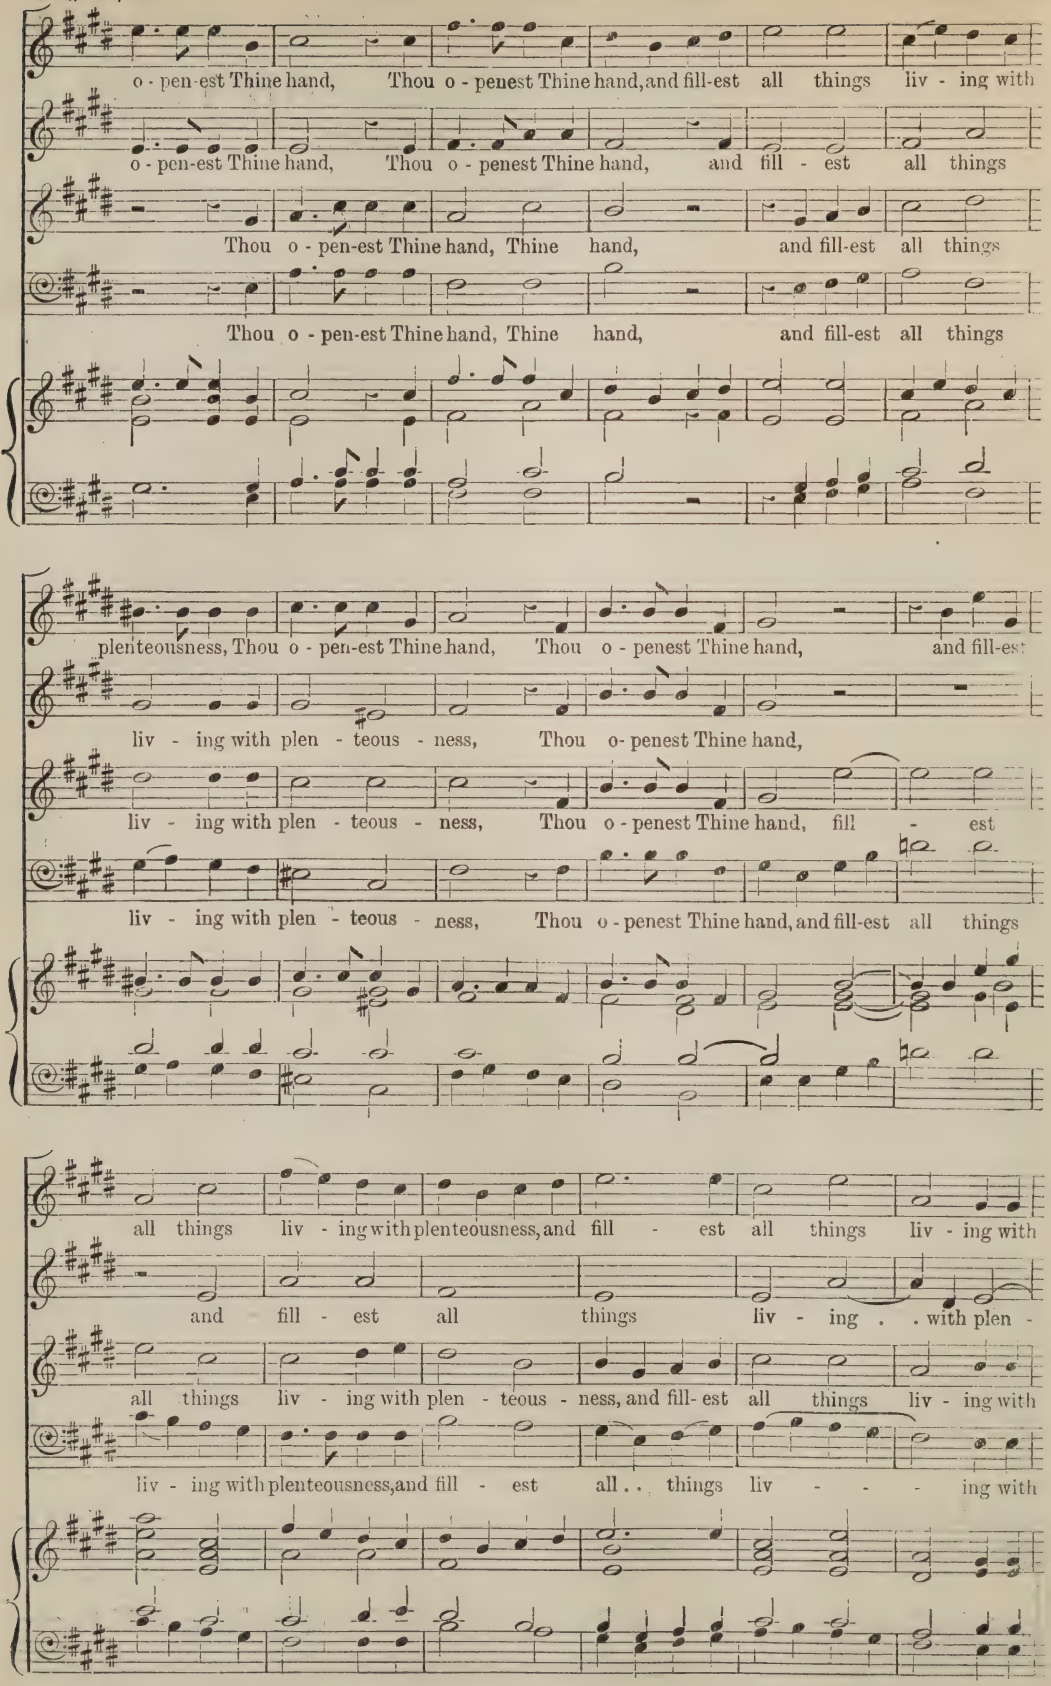
THE EYES OF ALL WAIT ON THEE

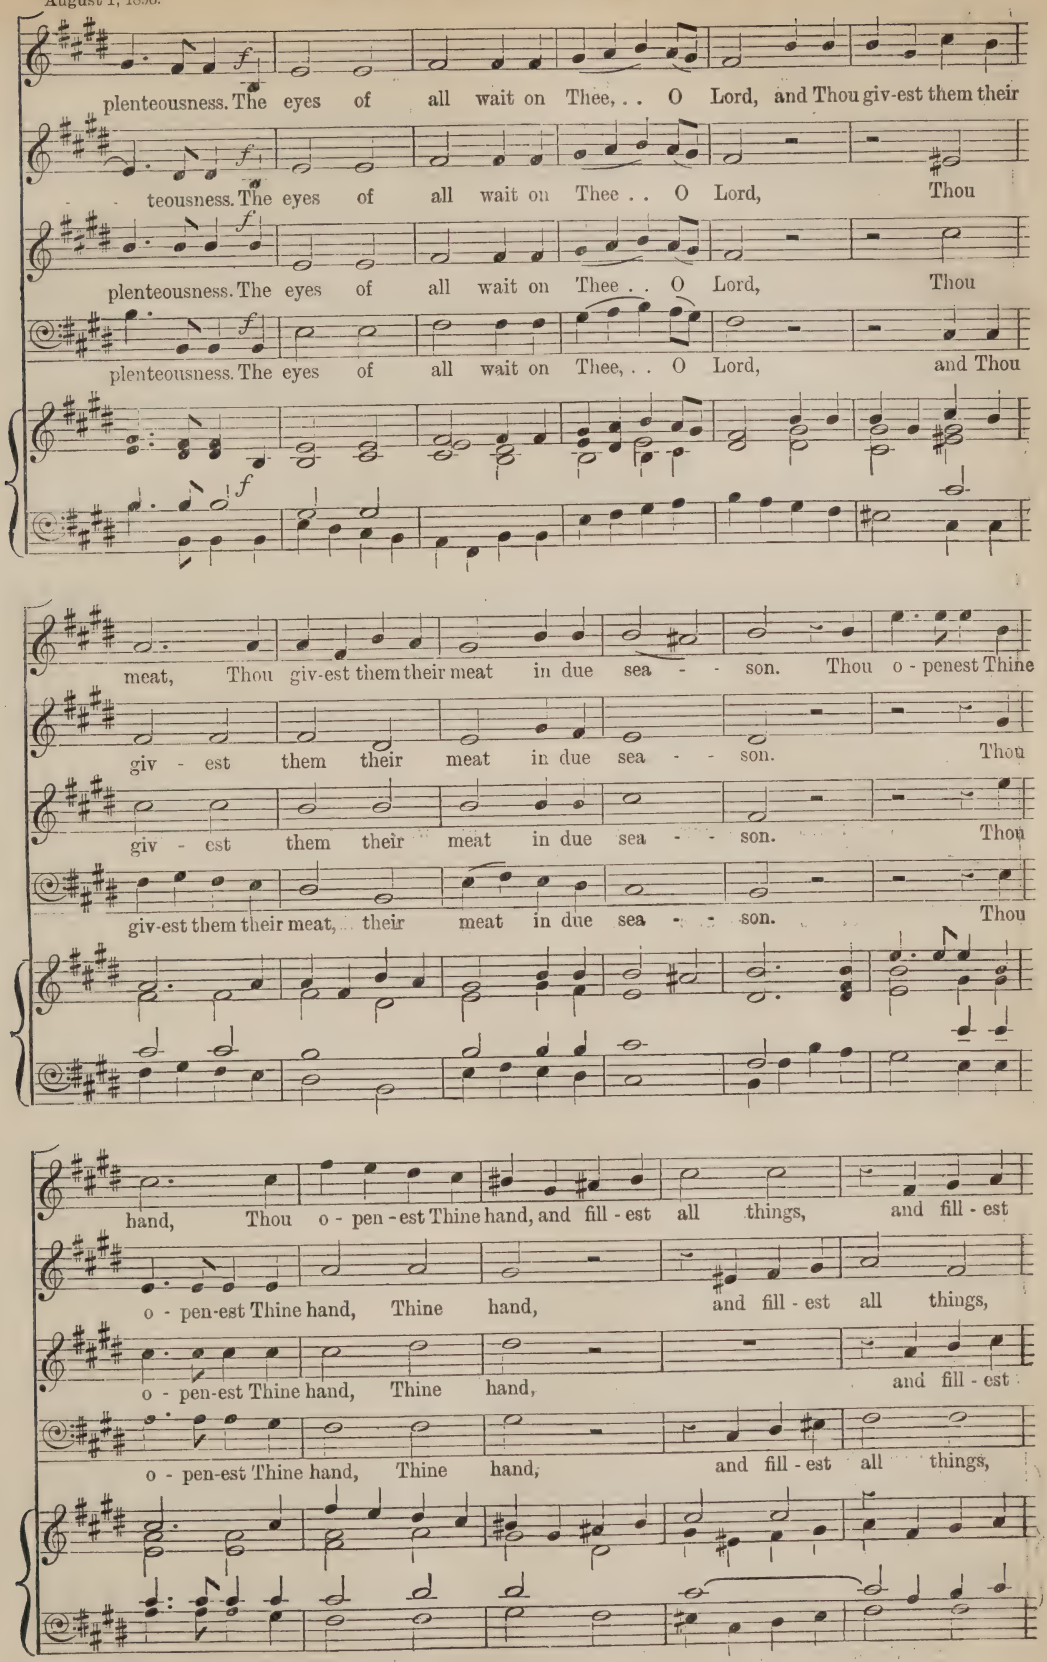


EASY ANTHEM FOR HARVEST

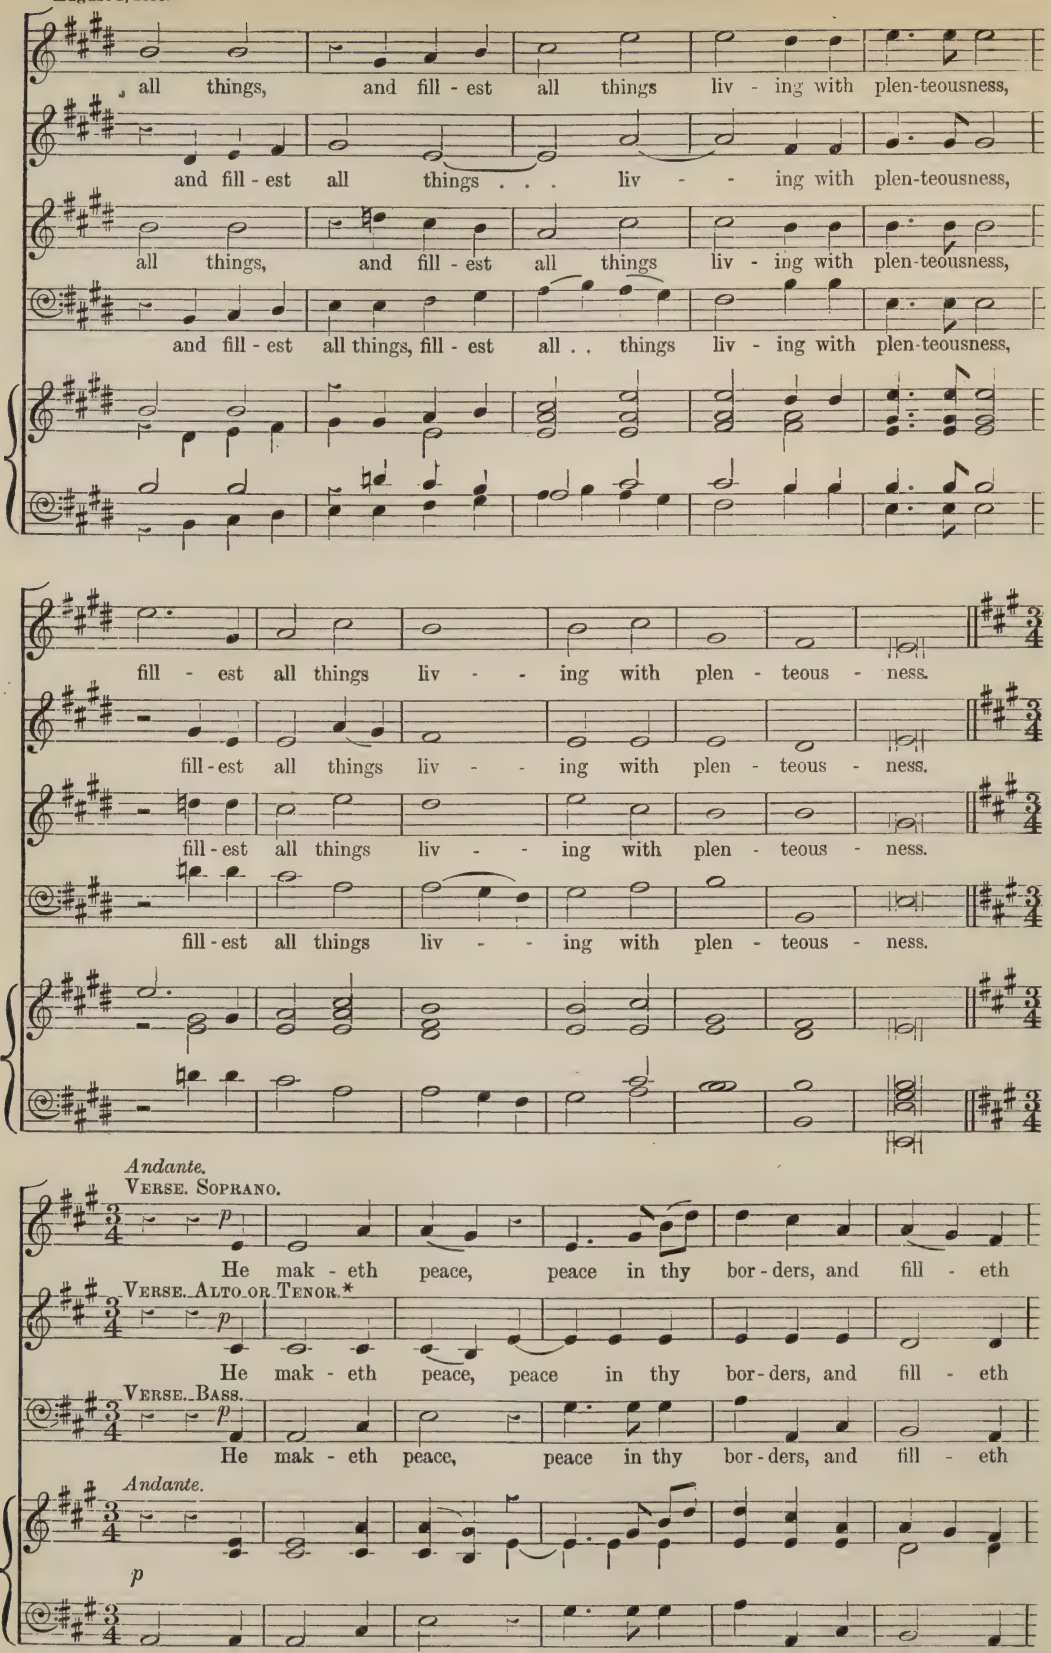
COMPOSED BY



GEORGE J. ELVEY.



Psalm cxlv. 15, 16. cxlvii. 14; cxlv. 1.



London: NOVELLO EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); also in New York.

Copyright, 1896, by Novello, Ewer and Co.

o - pen-est Thine hand, Thou o - penest Thine hand, and fill-est all things liv - ing with o - pen-est Thine hand, Thou o - penest Thine hand, and fill - est all things
Thou o - pen-est Thine hand, Thine hand, and fill-est all things
Thou o - pen-est Thine hand, Thine hand, and fill-est all things plenteousness, Thou o - pen-est Thine hand, Thou o - penest Thine hand, and fill-est liv - ing with plen - teous - ness, Thou o- penest Thine hand, liv - ing with plen - teous - ness, Thou o - penest Thine hand, fill - est liv - ing with plen - teous - ness, Thou o - penest Thine hand, and fill-est all things all things liv - ing with plenteousness, and fill - est all things liv - ing with and fill - est all things liv - ing . . with plen -
all things liv - ing with plen - teous - ness, and fill- est all things liv - ing with liv - ing with plenteousness, and fill - est all . . things liv - - - ing with plenteousness. The eyes of all wait on Thee, . . O Lord, and Thou giv-est them their teousness. The eyes of all wait on Thee . . O Lord, Thou plenteousness. The eyes of all wait on Thee . . O Lord, Thou plenteousness. The eyes of all wait on Thee, . . O Lord, and Thou meat, Thou giv-est them their meat in due sea - - son. Thou o - penest Thine giv - est them their meat in due sea - - son. Thou giv - est them their meat in due sea - - son. Thou giv-est them their meat, their meat in due sea - - son. Thou hand, Thou o - pen - est Thine hand, and fill - est all things, and fill - est

o - pen-est Thine hand, Thine hand, and fill - est all things, o - pen-est Thine hand, Thine hand, and fill - est
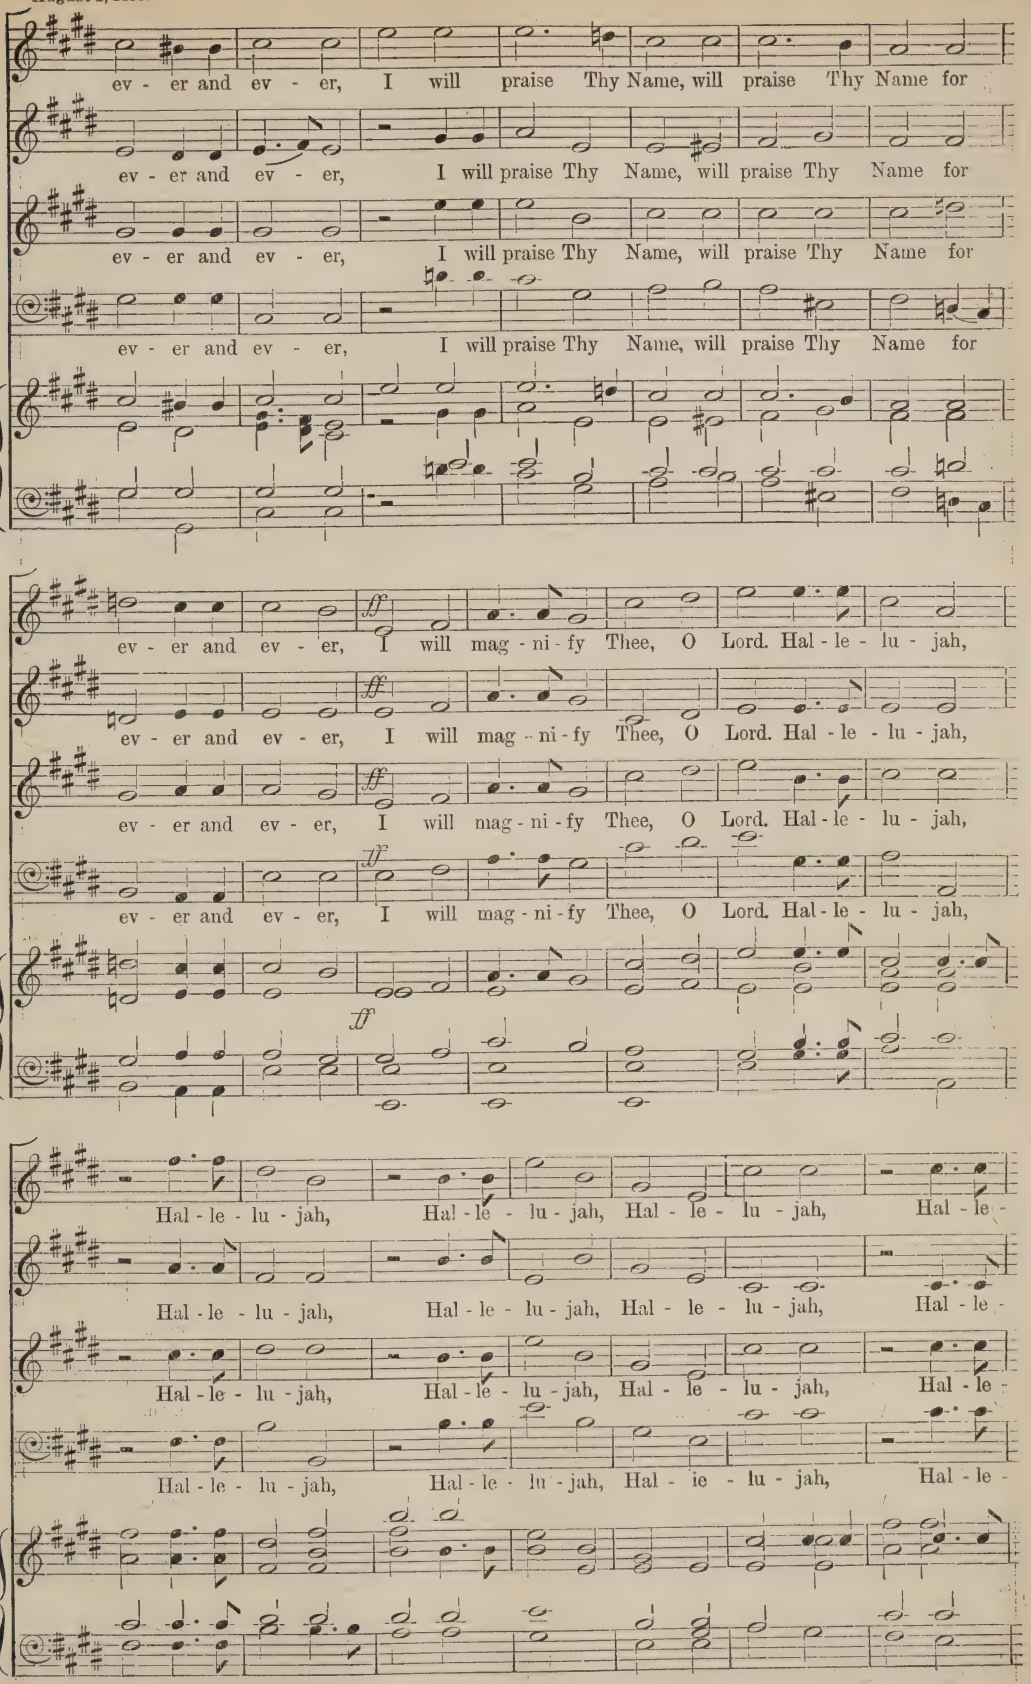
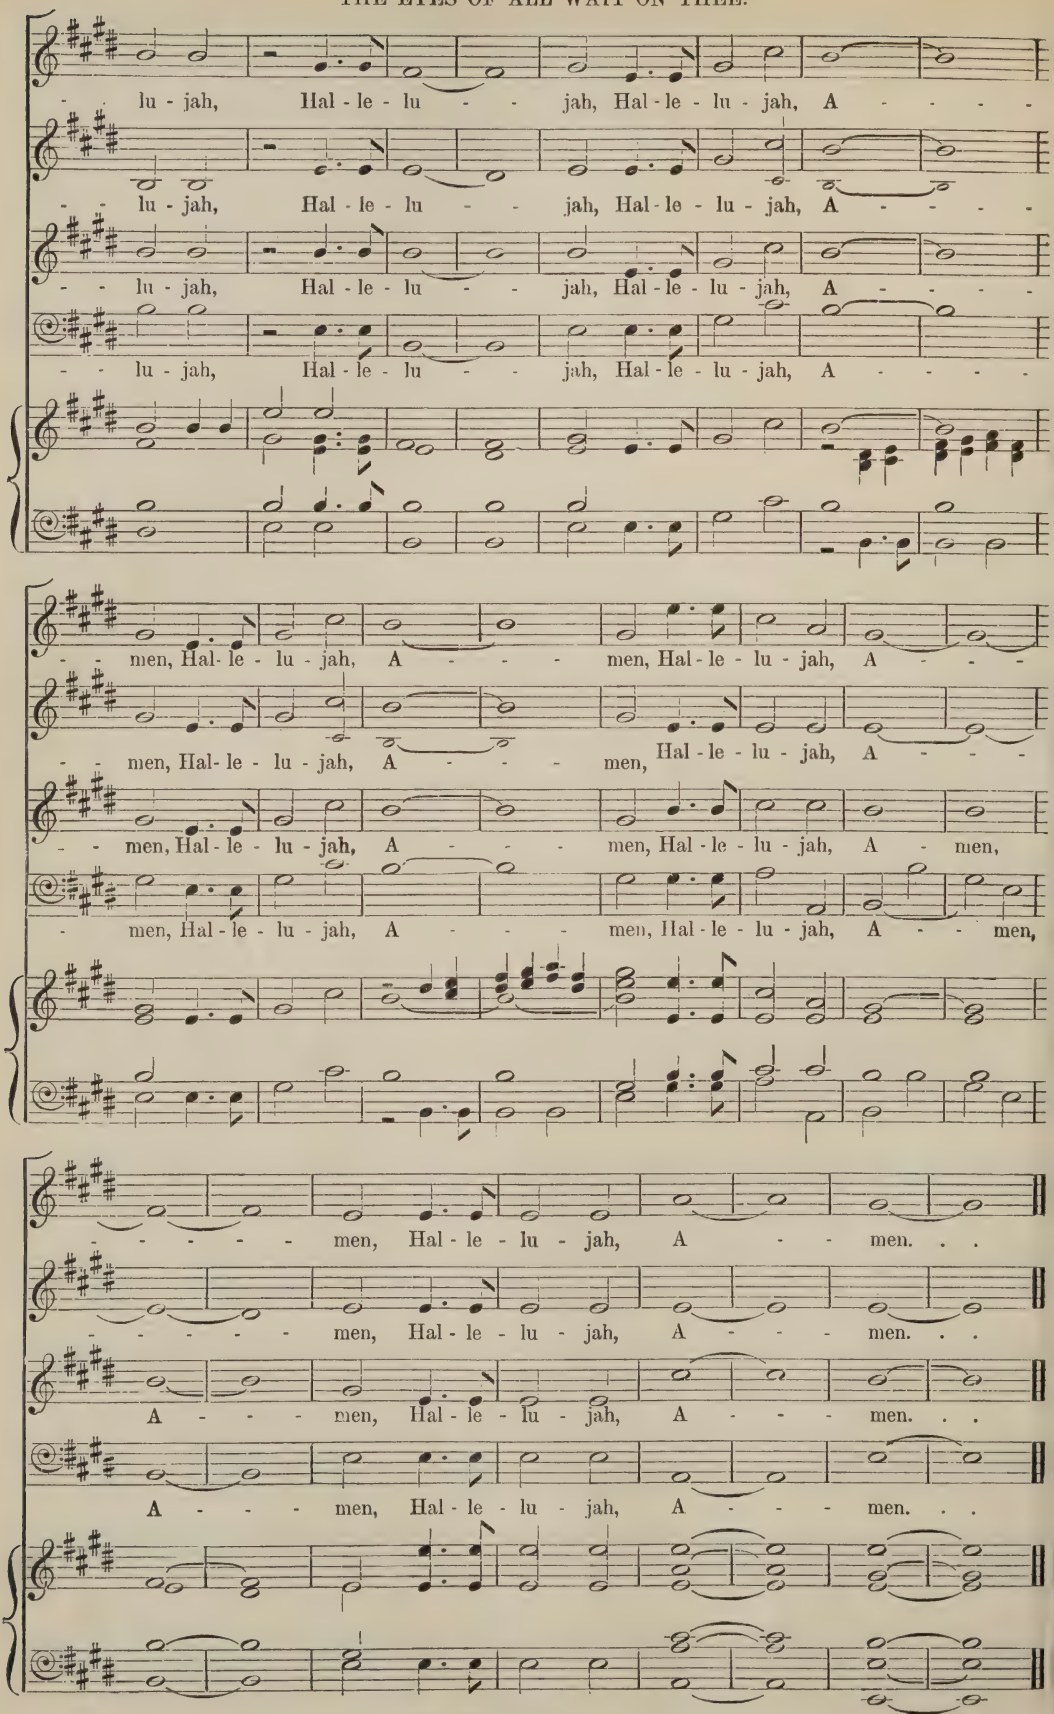
o - pen-est Thine hand, Thine hand, and fill - est all things,



* If the middle part is sung by a Tenor, it must, of course, be sung in loco, and not an 8*ve* lower.

THE EYES OF ALL WAIT ON THEE.



* The small notes are to be used if the middle part is sung by a Tenor

pp
peace, peace, peace, He mak - eth peace, peace, peace.
peace, peace, peace, He mak - eth peace, peace, peace.
peace, peace, peace, He mak - eth peace, peace, peace.
pp
FULL.
SOPRANO.
f
I will mag - ni - fy Thee, O Lord, and will praise Thy Name for ev - er and ALTO.
I will mag - ni - fy Thee, O Lord, and will praise Thy Name for ev - er and
TENOR.
I will mag - ni - fy Thee, O Lord, and will praise Thy Name for ev - er and BASS.
I will mag - ni - fy Thee, O Lord, and will praise Thy Name for ev - er and
f ev - er, I will mag - ni - fy Thee, O Lord, and praise Thy Name for ev - er, I will mag - ni fy Thee, O Lord, and praise Thy Name for ev - er, I will mag - ni - fy Thee, O Lord, and praise Thy Name for ev - er, I will mag - ni - fy Thee, O Lord, and praise Thy Name for ev - er and ev - er, I will praise Thy Name, will praise Thy Name for ev - er and ev - er, I will praise Thy Name, will praise Thy Name for ev - er and ev - er, I will praise Thy Name, will praise Thy Name for ev - er and ev - er, I will praise Thy Name, will praise Thy Name for

ff
ev - er and ev - er, I will mag - ni - fy Thee, O Lord. Hal - le - lu - jah, ev - er and ev - er, I will mag - ni - fy Thee, O Lord. Hal - le - lu - jah, ev - er and ev - er, I will mag - ni - fy Thee, O Lord. Hal - le - lu - jah, ev - er and ev - er, I will mag - ni - fy Thee, O Lord. Hal - le - lu - jah,
Hal - le - lu - jah, Hal - le - lu - jah, Hal - le - lu - jah, Hal - le -
Hal - le - lu - jah, Hal - le - lu - jah, Hal - le - lu - jah, Hal - le -
Hal - le - lu - jah, Hal - le - lu - jah, Hal - le - lu - jah, Hal - le -
Hal - le - lu - jah, Hal - le - lu - jah, Hal - le - lu - jah, Hal - le -

THE EYES OF ALL WAIT ON THEE.

Also published in Novello's Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 933, price 1½d.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

SHORT CANTATAS.

THE PIED PIPER OF HAMELIN
By ROBERT BROWNING
Set to Music for Tenor and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
RICHARD H. WALTHEW.

Price Two Shillings.

THE BLACK KNIGHT
Cantata for Chorus and Orchestra
The Poem by UHLAND; translated by LONGFELLOW
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
EDWARD ELGAR.

Price Two Shillings.

THE POWER OF SOUND
Cantata for Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
The Poem by WORDSWORTH
THE MUSIC BY
ARTHUR SOMERVELL.

Price Two Shillings. Tonic Sol-fa, One Shilling.

YOUNG LOCHINVAR
Ballad by Sir WALTER SCOTT
Set to Music for Baritone Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
ETHEL M. BOYCE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

ROBERT OF SICILY
Cantata for Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
Poem by LONGFELLOW
SET TO MUSIC BY
F. KILVINGTON HATTERSLEY.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

JOHN GILPIN
Ballad for Chorus and Orchestra
Words selected from COWPER'S Poem
SET TO MUSIC BY
S. P. WADDINGTON.

Price Two Shillings.

THE BALLAD OF CARMILHAN
By HENRY LONGFELLOW
Set to Music for Baritone Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
A. DAVIDSON ARNOTT.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence. Tonic Sol-fa, 1s. 6d.

THE DREAM OF JUBAL
A Poem with Music
For Soprano and Tenor Soli, Chorus, Orchestra, and Accompanied Recitation
Written by JOSEPH BENNETT
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
A. C. MACKENZIE.
(Op. 41.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
Paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.

THE FORSAKEN MERMAN
Written by MATTHEW ARNOLD
Set for Bass Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
ARTHUR SOMERVELL.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE
ROMANCE OF THE ROSES
For Soprano and Tenor Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
The Words written by ELLIS WALTON
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY OLIVER KING.
(Op. 80.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

MANFRED
A Dramatic Poem, in Three Acts, by LORD BYRON
Composed for Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra, with Accompanied Recitation
BY
ROBERT SCHUMANN.

Price One Shilling. Cloth, gilt, 2s. 6d.

HERVÉ RIEL
A Poem by ROBERT BROWNING
Set to Music for Baritone Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
H. WALFORD DAVIES.

Price One Shilling.

THE INCHCAPE ROCK
Ballad by ROBERT SOUTHEY
Set to Music for Chorus and Orchestra
BY
J. FREDERICK BRIDGE.

Price One Shilling.

THE BRIDE
For Soprano and Tenor Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
The Words translated from the German of R. HAMERLING
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
A. C. MACKENZIE.

Price One Shilling.

ODE TO THE WEST WIND
A Poem by SHELLEY
Set to Music for Tenor Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY CHARLES WOOD.

Price One Shilling.

THE WRECK OF THE HESPERUS
By LONGFELLOW
Set to Music for Soprano, Tenor, and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
HERBERT W. WAREING.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE LAY OF THE BROWN ROSARY
The Words adapted from the Poem of ELIZABETH BARRETT BROWNING
Set to Music for Soprano and Contralto Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
ETHEL M. BOYCE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE BALLAD OF
SIR OGIE AND THE LADIE ELSIE
Englished from the 16th Century Danish Ballad "AAGE OG ELSE" by FREDERICK YORK POWELL
Set to Music for Mezzo-Soprano and Baritone Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
CHARLES HARFORD LLOYD.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

RECENT NUMBERS.

THE MUSICAL TIMES (Sacred).

609.	There were shepherds	Myles B. Foster.
612.	Now is Christ risen	John E. West.
614.	Lord, I call upon Thee	Arnold D. Culley.
617.	Jesu, priceless treasure	J. Varley Roberts.
618.	Thou crownest the year	Josiah Booth.
621	With all Thy hosts	John E. West.
622.	There was silence in Bethlehem's fields	John Stainer.
624.	O saving Victim	F. Kœnig.
625.	Hearken unto me	Myles B. Foster.
628.	I will sing unto the Lord	H. Purcell.
629.	The eyes of all wait upon Thee	A. R. Gaul.
633.	The night is far spent	Bruce Steane.
634.	Thou wilt keep him	A. D. Culley.
636.	Worthy is the Lamb	J. Francis Barnett.
638.	If I go not away	Thomas Adams.
640.	Save me, O God	C. S. Jekyll.
641.	Let us now fear the Lord our God	John E. West.
642.	A wet sheet and a flowing sea	R. H. Evans.

Price Three-Halfpence each.

THE MUSICAL TIMES (Secular).

608.	A lover's counsel	Frederic H. Cowen.
610.	In a drear-nighted December	G. A. Macfarren.
611.	Soldier, rest! thy warfare o'er / I love my Jean	Hamish MacCunn. / George J. Bennett.
613.	It was a lover and his lass (Morley)	J. F. Bridge.
615.	Blow, ye gentle breezes, blow	J. Christopher Marks, Junr.
616.	O'er the woodland chace	Herbert W. Wareing.
619.	Ballad of Earl Haldan's daughter	Robin H. Legge.
620.	Softly the moonlight	F. Iliffe.
623.	Spring	Frederic H. Cowen.
626.	The shades of night	J. Varley Roberts.
627.	Now the wearied sun declining	R. F. Lloyd.
630.	Under the greenwood tree	James Shaw.
631.	Autumn	J. Booth.
632.	A Shadow	Jacques Blumenthal.
635.	To Sylvia	Schubert-West.
637.	O happy eyes	E. Elgar.
639.	Pack, clouds, away	W. A. C. Cruickshank.

Price Three-Halfpence each.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO ANTHEMS.

536.	O joyful light	B. Tours	4d.
537.	I declare to you the Gospel	W. A. C. Cruickshank	4d.
538.	When Christ, Who is our life	J. Varley Roberts	2d.
539.	I am Alpha and Omega	" "	3d.
540.	Teach me, O Lord	George J. Elvey	3d.
542.	Sing to the Lord	J. Barnby	4d.
543.	O Lamb of God	J. Barnby	3d.
544.	If ye love Me	Bruce Steane	2d.
545.	Hail! gladdening light	G. C. Martin	4d.
546.	They that go down to the sea	G. J. Elvey	6d.
547.	The eyes of all	G. J. Elvey	3d.
548.	Joy in harvest	Bruce Steane	3d.
549.	Thou visitest the earth	J. W. Elliott	3d.
551.	O sing unto the Lord	W. A. C. Cruickshank	4d.
555.	Unto us a Child is born	Frank Adlam	4d.

To be continued.

NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK

736.	Lie down, poor heart	F. C. Woods	3d.
737.	How sweet the moonlight sleeps	D. Emlyn Evans	1½d.
738.	A red, red rose	J. Varley Roberts	2d.
739.	I prithee send me back my heart	" "	3d.
740.	Evening Hymn	Jacques Blumenthal	3d.
741.	Gather ye rosebuds	" "	4d.
742.	The loyal Lover	" "	3d.
743.	The Butterfly	" "	4d.
744.	Good-night	R. O. Morgan	3d.
745.	The Song of Victory (King Arthur)	Henry Purcell	4d.
747.	Upon my lap my soveraigne sits	Martin Peerson	2d.
748.	The Widow Bird	Charles Wood	2d.
749.	Evening Breezes	G. R. Vicars	2d.
750.	There rolls the deep	C. H. H. Parry	2d.
751.	Shall I, wasting in despair	G. J. Elvey	2d.

To be continued.

NOVELLO'S PARISH CHOIR BOOK

281.	Two Flower Service Hymns	Lady Euan-Smith	2d.
282.	Te Deum laudamus (3rd Series). (Greg. Tones)	J. Stainer	3d.
283.	Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F	A. H. Brewer	3d.
284.	Two Concluding Amens	Ch. Gounod	1d.
286.	Vesper Hymn	A. T. Lee Ashton	1d.
288.	Te Deum and Benedictus in E flat	F. Adlam	4d.
289.	Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G	Frank Adlam	3d.
290.	Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E	John Goss	4d.
292.	The Church Catechism	Myles B. Foster	3d.
297.	Benedictus in F	Bruce Steane	3d.
298.	Abide with me! fast falls the eventide	W. T. Best	1½d.
299.	Dies iræ, Dies illa (Day of wrath, O day of mourning)		1½d.
300.	Te Deum laudamus (2nd Series.) (Greg. Tones)	J. Stainer	3d.
302.	Faith, duty, and prayer	Myles B. Foster	2d.
304.	Cantate Domino and Deus Misereatur in C	John Goss	6d.

To be continued.

THE ORPHEUS (New Series).

284.	At that dread hour (Faith)	S. S. Wesley	6d.
285.	The Ivy	C. Lee Williams	3d.
286.	A red, red rose	J. Varley Roberts	2d.
287.	In the pleasant summer day	William Beale	4d.
288.	I prithee send me back my heart	J. Varley Roberts	4d.
289.	What care I how fair she be	Jacques Blumenthal	4d.
290.	While my lady sleepeth	Percy Pitt	3d.
291.	A Cavalier's Song	" "	3d.
292.	The Flirt	J. F. Bridge	3d.
293.	The leaves to one another say	C. H. Döring	3d.
294.	The moon looks down	" "	2d.
295.	Far down the green valley	" "	2d.
296.	Street music	Hamilton Clarke	4d.
297.	The kiss	J. Barnby	3d.
298.	In laudem amoris	J. Barnby	3d.
299.	There's life to be seen	George Miller	4d.

To be continued.

NOVELLO'S SHORT ANTHEMS.

50.	The Lord opened the doors of Heaven	F. C. Woods	1½d.
51.	Watch ye and pray	G. R. Vicars	2d.
52.	The path of the just	J. V. Roberts	1½d.
53.	O Lord, correct me	James Coward	1½d.
54.	I will arise	Charles Wood	1½d.
55.	The Angel of the Lord	Alan Gray	1½d.
56.	Jesu, Saviour, I am Thine	Bruce Steane	1½d.
57.	O Lord, Who hast taught us	A. G. Iggulden	1½d.
58.	Almighty and Everlasting God	John Stafford Smith	1½d.
59.	Come, let us worship	Palestrina	1½d.
61.	Lead me, Lord	S. S. Wesley	1½d.
64.	Jesus said unto the people	J. Stainer	1½d.
66.	These are they which follow the Lamb	John Goss	1½d.
67.	O Lord, give ear unto my prayer	W. H. Cummings	2d.
68.	Whom have I in Heaven but Thee	G. J. Elvey	2d.

To be continued.

NOVELLO'S COLLECTION OF TRIOS, QUARTETS, &c. FOR FEMALE VOICES.

296.	Hymn to nature	L. Streabbog	3d.
297.	Dickory, dickory, dock	Herbert W. Schartau	3d.
298.	Whither away?	C. Villiers Stanford	8d.
299.	Summer	Hamilton Clarke	4d.
300.	To the woods	" "	4d.
301.	Noble be thy life	Beethoven	3d.
302.	So the world goes round	Marie Wurm	2d.
303.	Softly the moonlight	F. Iliffe	3d.
304.	You stole my love (arranged by F. Maxson)	W. Macfarren	2d.
305.	Moonlight	Hamilton Clarke	4d.
306.	The Snow	E. Elgar	6d.
307.	Fly, singing Bird	"	6d.
308.	To-day and to-morrow	Hamilton Clarke	4d.

To be continued.

commended. Viola, Mr. H. G. Partridge. Violoncello, Miss L. Bowman. Flute, Miss Isabel Henvey; Mr. J. C. James, highly commended. Harp, Miss Nellie Schrader. Composition, Miss Reynolds. Elocution (Ladies), Miss Daisy Richardson; Miss Ethel Hyem, highly commended; Miss Adeline Cox and Miss Ada Giles, commended. Elocution (Gentlemen), Mr. James McGregor; Mr. Arthur Lerat, commended. The judges were Miss Esther Palliser, Miss Hilda Wilson, Mr. Ben Davies, Mr. D. Bispham, Mr. Fred. Dawson, Dr. E. H. Turpin, Mr. Battison Haynes, M. Tivadar Nachèz, Mr. J. Hollman, Mr. W. L. Barrett, Mr. E. Lockwood, Dr. Bridge, and Mr. Forbes Robertson. An Associateship for Elocution was awarded for the first time in the School and was adjudged to Miss Florence Jeans, the judges being Mr. Murray Carson, Mr. Acton Bond, and Mr. Charles Fry.

Among the numerous music competitions arranged last month by the managers of the Music Trades Exhibition at the Agricultural Hall, the choir competition on the 18th ult. proved the most popular and interesting. Nine choirs entered, most of which came from the provinces. The Saltaire Choir was an unmistakable winner of the first prize. Under the able direction of Mr. Ashworth this celebrated choir gave very fine performances of "The sea hath its pearls" (Pinsuti) and "Daybreak" (Faning). The Folkestone Choir came second, Reedyford (Lancashire) third, Harrogate fourth, and the Portsmouth Temperance Choir fifth—a position for which Tonbridge ran them very close. A curious evidence of the popularity of Mr. Eaton Faning's music was that no fewer than four choirs selected his compositions—viz., "The Miller's Wooing," "Moonlight," "Daybreak," and "The Vikings." The adjudicators were Professor Bridge and Mr. W. G. McNaught. Mrs. Clough presented the prizes to the winning choirs. In the contests for solo singing and playing Miss Bertha Rossow won the soprano competition, Mr. Charles Tree the baritone, Miss Hannah Hotten the contralto, and Mr. Tom Child the tenor. Miss Maud Agnes Winter won the first prize in the amateur and Mr. José Brath in the professional pianoforte competitions. The first prize in each of these competitions was a 100-guinea pianoforte. Mr. F. Goodenough was successful in the Organ Recital contest, the first prize for which was an organ of the value of 125 guineas. Gold, silver, and bronze medals were also distributed to the second, third, and fourth in each competition. Madame Melba distributed the prizes on the 21st ult.

Sir John Stainer distributed the Fellowship diplomas, on the 18th ult., to the twenty-two successful candidates out of the ninety examined by the Royal College of Organists. Sir John, in the course of an interesting address, urged his hearers never to refuse any work which did not seem sufficiently dignified, especially in the earlier stages of their career. He himself had gained no little experience by conducting the 3d. Saturday performances in the Corn Exchange of his native town, despite the fact that his audiences were not always of the most ruly and sympathetic description. The following is the list of those who passed:—R. W. Bartle (Northampton), W. B. Brierley (Chester), P. S. Bright (London), W. J. Bunney (Leicester), J. D. Chandler (Wokingham), A. Chatfield (London), S. Chipperfield (London), F. Docksey (Crickhowell), H. Drake (Huddersfield), H. F. Ellingford (London), W. Gardner (Northfleet), F. G. Goodenough (Reading), S P. Guttridge (Aberfeldy), A. J. Hadrill (Southend), A. Hague (Colchester), G. A. Hill (Manchester), W. H. Ibberson (Sheffield), F. T. Lowden (London), W. E. Mansell (London), H. H. L. Middleton (London), A. W. Moss (Reading), H. F. Wilkinson (London).

The Trinity College, London, diplomas and certificates gained at the forty-sixth half-yearly Higher Examinations were distributed by the Warden (Professor E. H. Turpin) at the College on the 22nd ult. The list showed that the number of candidates examined in various subjects totalled 200 and the percentage of passes was exactly forty-nine. In an address to the students Professor Turpin dwelt upon the necessity of mastering the principles and unchangeable laws of music prior to coming up for examination, and advocated the study of the works of the great masters. In dismissing his hearers he said he hoped that during the recess they would endeavour to find music everywhere, specially recommending them to read and examine poetry in connection with music. Among the examiners on the platform were Professor Gordon Saunders, Dr. A. H. Walker, and Mr. F. A. W. Docker.

At the National Temperance Fête held at the Crystal Palace on the 21st ult., choral contests and Concerts were the prominent features. About 170 choirs took part, and the awards for contests between juvenile choirs—small choirs of from forty to sixty voices, and large choirs up to 100 singers—were won respectively by the Clapton Park Sunday School Band of Hope Choir, the Reading Temperance Choral Society, and the Cardiff Blue Ribbon Choir. Dr. E. H. Turpin was the adjudicator for the adults' contests. There were also two choral Concerts of 5,000 voices each, conducted by Mr. W. Goodworth.

The complete programme of the Norfolk and Norwich Triennial Festival, which will be held from Tuesday to Friday, October 6 to 9, is now issued, and the following works are announced for performance: Tuesday evening, October 6, Handel's "Jephtha." Wednesday morning, A. C. Mackenzie's "The Rose of Sharon" (conducted by the composer); in the evening, Grieg's "Peer Gynt" Suite, C. Hubert H. Parry's "Blest Pair of Sirens" (conducted by the composer), new Violin Concerto in D minor, Frederic Cliffe (composed expressly for the Festival, conducted by the composer), Randegger's cantata "Fridolin." Mendelssohn's "Elijah" will occupy Thursday morning; in the evening a new operatic cantata, "Hero and Leander," by Luigi Mancinelli—the libretto by Tobia Gorrio, English version by Mowbray Marras—(composed expressly for the Festival, and conducted by the composer). Friday morning will be devoted to Gounod's "Redemption"; in the evening, Beethoven's Overture "Leonora" (No. 3), an Irish ballad for chorus and orchestra, "Phaudrig Crohoore," by Villiers Stanford (conducted by the composer), will be given for the first time, Edward German's Suite in D minor (conducted by the composer), and Act III. of "Lohengrin." Mr. Alberto Randegger will, as usual, be the conductor.

We may remind our readers that the first of this autumn's provincial Festivals is that of the Three Choirs at Worcester, which is to take place from September 8 to 11, and of which complete details appeared in our May number. The novelties set down for performance are a short oratorio "Lux Christi" ("The Light of Life"), written by Mr. Edward Elgar, and a short church cantata for Advent, "Blessed are they who watch," by Mr. Hugh Blair, the organist of the Cathedral, who will again officiate as conductor.

The preliminary programme of the Bristol Festival is just issued, and the following works are announced for performance: "Elijah," "The Messiah," "The Golden Legend," Dr. Parry's "Job" and "Blest Pair of Sirens," Brahms's "German Requiem," the "Creation," a Requiem by Gounod, a setting of Coleridge's "Hymn before Sunrise," for soli, chorus, and orchestra, by Mr. J. Napier Miles; "Siddartha," a dramatic scene composed by Mr. J. L. Roeckel, and large selections from Wagner's works.

On June 26, at Woolwich, Cavaliere Zavertal, the talented director of the Royal Artillery Band, was presented by the Duke of Cambridge with the decoration of the Order of Art and Science, a richly valued cross conferred upon him by the Duke of Saxe-Coburg, in recognition of the perfection to which he has, by his genius and assiduity, brought this admirable corps of musicians. A full parade of the Royal Artillery was ordered in honour of the occasion, and the ceremony took place with full military éclat on the Royal Artillery Parade. The following letter was addressed by the Duke of Saxe-Coburg to the General Commanding at Woolwich:—"To Major-General Maurice, commanding Woolwich District.—I am directed by the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha to forward you the cross of His Royal Highness's Order of Art and Science, for presentation to the conductor of the Royal Artillery Band, Cavaliere L. Zavertal. His Royal Highness has had frequent opportunities of hearing the band, both at the Albert Hall and the Royal Academy, and he is desirous of showing his great appreciation of the very high state of perfection the band has been brought to under Cavaliere Zavertal's management by sending him the Order I have named. I am desired to request that you will be kind enough to have His Royal Highness's wishes carried out at an early date." Cavaliere Zavertal has now been twenty-five years in England and has become a naturalised British subject.

Herr Goldmark's new comic opera, "The Cricket on the Hearth" ("Das Heimchen am Heerd"), first brought out some time since at the Imperial Opera, Vienna, and also produced, on June 27, at the New Royal Opera of Berlin, appears to have been a genuine success. At Berlin, indeed, the reception accorded it by the public was quite enthusiastic, the press, however, being more reserved. As a matter of course, some liberties have been taken by the librettist, Herr A. M. Willner, with Dickens's charming Christmas Carol, and the idea of removing the kindly domestic spirit from its invisible presence on the hearth and converting it into an "up-to-date" fairy charged with delivering a prologue and an epilogue, does not strike us as being very happily inspired. As regards the music, it is generally admitted to contain some very charming numbers, cast in the old-fashioned mould, with a full close for each vocal piece, while the orchestration, as was to be expected from the composer of "Die Königin von Saba," is exceedingly clever, rich in colour, and not overloaded. Taken altogether, we should think that Herr Goldmark's new work would be pretty sure to find favour with English audiences. In reading the German accounts of it, we cannot help once more being struck, though aware of the fact in a general way, with the extreme familiarity with Dickens's characters it denotes, and the immense popularity his creations still enjoy in the fatherland.

The annual Orchestral Concert given by the Countess of Radnor has become a feature of the summer musical season. This year it took place on the 1st ult., and was given in aid of the funds of the Earlswood Asylum. The ladies' string band played with admirable precision Wuerst's vivacious "Russian" Suite; three movements from Dr. Hubert Parry's revised version of the Suite in F, originally written for this Society; and ably supported the choir in an attractive selection of choral pieces. These included Schubert's setting of the 23rd Psalm, a pleasing Barcarolle entitled "Ma Nacelle," by Goring Thomas—for which "first time of performance" was claimed — Edward German's trio "Orpheus with his lute," and an effective chorus named "Les Norwegiennes," by Délibes, stated to be performed on this occasion for the first time in England. All these were excellently sung, the voices being well balanced, refined in quality, and the expression sympathetic. The vocal soloists comprised Madame Albani, Countess Valda Gleichen, and Messrs. Plunket Greene, Kennerley Rumford, and Cecil Higgins. Countess Radnor conducted with her usual ability, and is to be congratulated on the efficiency of her forces.

Mr. Ernest Fowles's pupils made a highly creditable display at the Queen's (Small) Hall on the 18th ult. Both ancient and modern masters were extensively drawn upon, and in nearly every instance the spirit of the composition was accurately caught. In Saint-Saëns's duet for two pianofortes on a theme by Beethoven, Miss Dora Whitlie manifested a clear comprehension of her task, together with executive facility; her companion was Mr. Fowles, to whom, of course, the work presented no difficulties. To a nice touch Miss Helen Harper added much taste in her rendering of Rachmaninoff's Prelude in C sharp minor and Schumann's Romance in D minor (Op. 32, No. 3). Mr. Fowles joined Miss Maude Easten in a meritorious performance of Bach's Concerto in C minor for two pianofortes, and Mr. Alfred Wall (the violinist) was associated with Miss Grace Phillips (pianist) in Beethoven's Sonata (Op. 12, No. 1). Among other features must be named the rendering, by Misses Muriel Nixon, Lucy Wyatt, Ethel Garratt, and Winifred Jones, of some of Brahms's Hungarian Dances, arranged for two pianofortes (eight hands).

The two Concerts given by Mr. Arnold Dolmetsch at his residence in Keppel Street, Bloomsbury, on the evenings of June 23 and the 7th ult., were of the usual interesting nature. The programme of the first included Bach's "Coffee Cantata," written in 1732, and so-named from the libretto being a skit on the habit of coffee drinking, which had been recently introduced and had become fashionable at that period. The two principal characters are Schlendrian and his daughter Leischen, and the story is chiefly concerned in the old gentleman's endeavours to induce his daughter to give up the new "vice," under the penalty that she shall never have a husband. The music is quaint, and possesses much interest if only as an example of a giant at play. The programme of the second Concert contained the "Dovehouse Pavan," for five viols and harpsichord, by Alphonse Ferrabosco, an Italian composer of madrigals in the service of the Duke of Savoy at the end of the sixteenth century; and four pieces of descriptive character for the harpsichord, from the "Quatorzième Ordre," by François Couperin.

Mr. John Thomas's annual Concert, on the 4th ult., at St. James's Hall, was, as usual, made distinctive by the employment of a band of harps. Nearly all the pieces, both vocal and instrumental, recalled the Principality, and one of the most notable successes of the afternoon was gained by Mrs. Mary Davies's tasteful singing, in the Welsh tongue, of "Watching the wheat." Mr. Ben Davies's delivery of a song by Mendelssohn was fully appreciated, and other vocalists were Madame Edith Wynne, Misses Eleanor Rees and Katie Thomas, Messrs. Hirwen Jones and Dyved Lewis. Violoncello pieces were played by Mr. J. Hollman. The lady harpists, numbering twenty-four, ably performed the "March of the Welsh Fusiliers" (a new work), a transcription of the Prayer from Rossini's "Moses in Egypt," and other compositions by Mr. Thomas, who, besides playing with his accustomed neatness and facility several solos, joined Miss Clara Eissler in his cleverly written duet "Cambria."

The Church Sunday School Choir, filling the Handel Orchestra at the Crystal Palace, at the annual Festival on the 18th ult., represented about a hundred metropolitan and suburban schools. The selection of anthems, hymns, and part-songs proved quite within the means of the youngest vocalists, so that from the beginning no apprehensions were entertained respecting the issue. Sullivan's Harvest hymn, "To Thee, O Lord, our hearts we raise," a Jubilate by Ernest C. Winchester, Smart's anthem, "Lift the trumpet, up and tell," and some of the secular pieces were not only given with the utmost steadiness but with more regard for light and shade than is often observable in the performances of such large choirs. As a whole the singing was much better than on preceding occasions, the closest attention being paid to the wishes of the conductors, Messrs. George Hare and H. A. McLaren. Mr. F. W. Belchamber (of All Saints', Knightsbridge) presided at the organ.

The Foreign Press Association Concert, in aid of distressed foreign artists in England, took place, on the 1st ult., in St. James's Hall, and was even more successful than usual. Among the better-known artists who contributed to a lengthy entertainment were the Misses Esther Palliser, Jeanne Douste, Carlotta Desvignes, and Evangeline Florence; Messrs. Plunket Greene, Arthur Walenn, Johannes Wolff, and Hollman, all of whom gave compositions calculated to effectively display their respective talents. Madame Svetloffsky sang some Russian airs in a telling manner, and Miss Kosminski (an English subject, who studied at the Royal Academy and then with Madame Marchesi in Paris) distinguished herself by a fluent rendering of the "Shadow Song" from "Dinorah." Messrs. Henry Bird, Carlo Ducci, Ganz, and Schlesinger were the accompanists.

Mdlle. Carlotta Desvignes' annual Concert took place, on the 13th ult., at the Steinway Hall, and proved as attractive as usual. Mdlle. Desvignes gave effective renderings of Wagner's "Schmerzen," Tschaïkowsky's "Lo schermslich, so selig," and other songs by Pergolesi, Paisiello, Massenet, and Walthew—a selection that did credit to the artist's taste and culture. Mr. Whitney Mockridge also merits commendation for his choice of several songs, particularly of two by Clarence Lucas, respectively entitled "I dreamt last night" and "The royal red rose." Other vocalists were Mdlle. Berthelly, Mr. Arthur Oswald, and Mr. Maurice Farkoa. Some violin and violoncello pieces were excellently played by Miss Eldina Bligh and Mr. Sydney Brooks.

Mdlle. Otta Brony received the assistance of a number of favourite artists at her Concert at Steinway Hall on June 30. Madame Belle Cole gave the fullest expression to Goring Thomas's "Summer Night"; Mr. Hans Wessely played Beethoven's Violin Romance in G and Wieniawski's Polonaise in D; and others who appeared were Mr. Henry Bramsen (violoncellist), Fräulein Eleonore Driller, Signor Carlo Ducci, Mr. Louis Frölich, and Mr. Mandeno Jackson. Mdlle. Brony sang with admirable effect Mozart's "Batti, batti," Mdlle. Chaminade's "La Fiancée du Soldat," Arthur Hervey's ballad "Once," and a couple of her native Danish songs, besides sharing with Madame Cole the "Evening Prayer" from "Hansel and Gretel" and the serenade from "Mefistofele."

The Council of the Westminster Orchestral Society, at their meeting on the 21st ult., decided to book the following dates for the events of the ensuing 1896-7 season:—Wednesday, September 30, annual business meeting at Westminster Town Hall, for the election of officers by ballot, at eight o'clock; Wednesday, December 16, thirty-fourth Orchestral Concert; Saturday, January 30, 1897, the nineteenth Chamber Concert; Thursday, March 25, celebration of the twelfth anniversary of the foundation of the Society; Wednesday, March 31, thirty-fifth Orchestral Concert; Wednesday, June 2, thirty-sixth Orchestral Concert. The Concerts will be given as usual in the Westminster Town Hall.

Mr. Oscar Meyer gave a Concert of considerable artistic interest, on the 6th ult., at the Steinway Hall. With the exception of Grieg's Pianoforte Concerto in A minor, the solo part of which was excellently played by Mr. Meyer, the programme consisted of songs composed by the Concert-giver. In these were displayed much melodic inventiveness, poetical fancy, and excellent musicianship, qualities which were specially noticeable in the lyrics entitled "Glück," "Willkommen und Abschied," and "Maienzeit," the accompaniment to the last-named being particularly pleasing. The vocalists were Miss Helen Buckley and Mr. Hugo Heinz, both of whom sang in a sympathetic manner.

A very commendable system of organ-blowing, called the "Hydro-Gas," and patented by Mr. F. W. Durham, is now on view (by appointment) at the organ factory of Mr. Ingram, 361, Liverpool Road. It consists of an ordinary hydraulic engine set in motion by means of a supply of oil or water and glycerine, which is drawn from a tank and driven through a force pump by a small gas (or oil) engine, the latter being placed at a convenient distance from the organ. The exhaust from the hydraulic engine is carried back again to the tank, thus preventing any waste of the liquid used. No water service or main is required, which is a great advantage where the water supply is not constant.

Mr. Odoardo Barri's Concert, at Queen's Hall, on June 29, included a new Mass in C from his pen. The work contains several effective passages, notably a tenor solo with chorus, and with Miss Fanny Culverwell, Miss Minnie Haydn, Mr. Harper Kearton, and Mr. Donnelly as principals it received adequate rendering. The chorus sang with spirit and precision. Miss Maud Stanley, who has a mezzo-soprano voice of good quality and extensive range, acquitted herself well in some songs, and was of service in the trio from "Maritana." An excellent impression was also made by the Countess de Fleury, who sang with much refinement Schira's "Sognai" and an air from "L'Etoile du Nord."

Herr Xaver Scharwenka, the distinguished pianist and composer, who for some years past has been conducting a musical academy of his own in New York, has recently founded a "Bach Society" in that city, having for its object the performance not only of the works of the great Leipzig cantor, but of other masterpieces of a serious order which are little known in America, such as Liszt's "St. Elizabeth," Brahms's "Deutsches Requiem," Gounod's "The Redemption," and others. The Society is meeting with influential support, and promises to be a most valuable addition to the existing musical institutions of New York. Herr Scharwenka was expected on a visit to Germany last month.

Mr. Reisenauer's Pianoforte Recital this season took place in St. James's Hall on June 29. The pieces by Schubert requiring delicacy of touch, Mozart's Rondo in A minor, and one or two of Schumann's Fantasiestücke (Op. 12) were delightfully played; but Mr. Reisenauer exaggerates, and is often inaccurate in compositions requiring energy, such as Beethoven's Sonata in F minor (Op 57) and a Hungarian Rhapsody of Liszt. Still, Mr. Reisenauer, despite generally recognised shortcomings, must be numbered among the foremost pianists of the day. Pieces by Haydn, Chopin, Tschaïkowsky, and Rubinstein were included in the programme.

When the critic sees on a programme the names of three accompanists—we beg pardon, conductors—and about twenty artists, he knows he will have little to do. Such was the nature of Signor Ducci's Concert, on the 14th ult., at the Queen's Hall. The list of executants was headed by Miss Margaret Macintyre and concluded by Madame Thénard, who gave a recitation. Amongst the numerous performances pleasant impressions were made by the singing of Mdlle. Kosminski, the vocal duets of the Misses Salter, and the pianoforte and violin playing of Master Basil Gauntlett and Mr. Louis Pecskai.

Mr. Lawrence Hanray, who gave a Concert on the 16th ult. at Steinway Hall, is a young baritone who possesses much musical intuition. He sings with taste, and his songs—nine of which appeared on the programme—show aptitude for composition, but evince a tendency to sentimentality of the kind which rejoices in being miserable. Mr. Hanray should cultivate a more manly style. The Concert-giver received assistance from a number of artists, prominent amongst whom were Miss Kate Flinn and Mr. Reginald Groome, and some very promising violin playing was contributed by Master Maurice Alexander.

Dr. Churchill Sibley (conductor of the National Sunday League Musical Society) has been presented by the choir and orchestra of that body with a handsome silver-mounted writing case and an illuminated address. Mr. Alderman Treloar made the presentation, and alluded to the rapid growth of the Society, which now numbers 400 performers. During the past season there has been no less than twenty-three oratorio performances in Queen's Hall alone, besides the work carried on in the smaller halls. The Alderman hoped their conductor would be spared to direct them for many years to come.

The Pianoforte Recital given by Miss Adela Verne, on Saturday afternoon, the 4th ult., in the Queen's (Small) Hall, showed that the young lady possesses gifts entitling her to rank at least as the equal of her sisters, Marie and Mathilde, who have been favourably known here for several years. In Beethoven's Sonata in F minor (Op. 57), a Ballade and a Scherzo of Chopin, and minor pieces by Mendelssohn, Schumann, and Weber she displayed not only excellent technique, but a warm expressive style, affording ground for the hope that Miss Verne may take a very high position as a pianist.

A Concert was given on Monday evening, the 6th ult., by Miss Alexandrine von Brunn, in the Queen's (Small) Hall. She has an agreeable mezzo-soprano voice and her method is sound. There was an interesting selection of songs, including examples by Paradies, Buononcini, Schumann, Rubinstein, and Brahms, together with national Lieder from German, Hungarian, Swedish, and Russian sources. The talented young pianist, Miss Ethel Bauer, Miss Campbell Taylor—who plays the violoncello very well—and the Hillier Belgian Quartet took effective part in the programme.

An Organ Recital was given at Christ Church, West Green, South Tottenham, on the 2nd ult., by Dr. E. H. Turpin. The programme included Rheinberger's Pastorale Sonata (Op. 88), Toccata and Fugue in D minor (J. S. Bach), "Storm" Fantasia (Lemmens), and Mendelssohn's

Overture to "Athalie." The solo vocalists were Mr. A. Oliver, Mr. C. M. Gaze, and Mr. John Camm, and the anthems sung by the choir were "He that shall endure" (Mendelssohn) and "I will give thanks" (Barnby). Mr. Arthur M. Flack, organist and choirmaster, accompanied the vocal numbers.

Mr. G. H. Betjemann was the recipient, on the 18th ult., of a silver tea and coffee service, gold cigarette case, sovereign purse, and fusee case, from the members of the Highbury Philharmonic Society, on the occasion of his marriage to Miss Dafforne. Mr. Mortimer Jones, chairman of the musical committee, in presenting the testimonial, said the Society wished the gift to be accepted as a mark of personal esteem quite as much as a testimony of appreciation of nine years' zealous service as conductor.

Miss Hilda Stapylton, who gave a Concert on the 1st ult., at Steinway Hall, has a good contralto voice and manifestly possesses dramatic perception; but this lady must continue her studies if she would succeed in London. Mr. Arthur Walenn contributed several songs in his usual finished style, and Mr. Gerald Walenn and Mr. Herbert Walenn severally played violin and violoncello pieces with much acceptance. Mr. P. Litta's pianoforte performances were neither note-correct nor expressive.

Miss Gertrude Palmer, who gave a Pianoforte Recital at Messrs. Broadwood's, on the 18th ult., comes from Sydney, Australia, and made her first public appearance in England on this occasion. Her rendering of Beethoven's Sonata in E flat (Op. 81) was intelligent and sympathetic, and her performance of several less exacting pieces testified to musical perception and considerable command of the keyboard. A pleasing feature of the afternoon was the expressive singing of Mr. Arthur Deane.

Two instructive Lecture-Concerts were given by Dr. George Garrett, at Trinity College, on June 23 and 30 respectively. The lecturer took for his subject the chief characteristics of the music of Bach, Handel, Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Weber, and Schubert; a number of excerpts from the works of these composers being effectively played by Mr. A. W. Ketelby. Other examples for strings, and some vocal music were executed in a meritorious manner by students of the Institution.

Mr. Alfred Redhead gave a Concert, on the 2nd ult., in the Hall of the London College of Music. The Concert-giver, who played a Reverie by Tivendell and a Mazurka of his own composition with much success, was assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Brereton, Miss Agnes Wilson, Mr. G. Aspinall, and Mr. J. Peachey (vocalists), Mr. Desider Nemes (violin), Signor Luciano Paggi (violoncello); and recitations were given by Mr. Charles Fry. Mr. H. Lane Wilson assisted as accompanist.

Miss Jeanne Douste and Mr. Whitney Mockridge concluded their series of vocal Concerts, at the Steinway Hall, on the 6th ult. As at the previous performances, the programme presented a pleasing and, for the most part, unhackneyed collection of songs, which were effectively interpreted by the reciters, and on this occasion the enjoyment of the afternoon was enhanced by the pianoforte and violin playing of Miss Douste de Fortis and M. Johannes Wolff.

Madame Blanche Marchesi fairly established herself in the favour of her audience at her second Recital, in St. James's Hall, on June 25. Though her voice is small, her vocal method is perfect, and two Lieder by Schumann and a song by Miss Chaminade were rendered with the utmost charm. Mr. Heinrich Kiefer, Mr. G. H. Clutsam, and Mr. Grünebaum took part in the Concert.

At the Patronal Festival of St. Margaret Pattens, Rood Lane, on the 20th ult., Gounod's "St. Cecilia" Mass was sung at the mid-day solemn celebration; at the evening service the Canticles were Gadsby in C, and Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" was given with admirable effect. Mr. W. M. Wait, organist and choirmaster, presided at the organ. The festival services were continued on the Sunday within the octave.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Guildhall School of Music has been without a Principal since January last up to the present time, the increase in the number of students has been most satisfactory. In the spring term of this year there were 198 more pupils in the School than in the corresponding term of 1895, while the term just ended shows an increase of 117 over the summer term of 1895.

The annual special operatic performances which take place at Munich during the present and next month are rendered particularly interesting this year on account of their including those of "Don Giovanni" and of "Fidelio," both of which immortal masterpieces are to be given as far as may be in accordance with their original production under the direction of their respective composers.

Dr. W. Lemare, formerly well known in London as the conductor of the Brixton Choral Society, has been appointed conductor of the Nottingham Sacred Harmonic Society. Dr. Lemare, who went to reside at Bournemouth some years since on account of his health, has recently been successful in establishing a Musical Festival at that popular seaside resort.

At the sixth annual Industrial Exhibition to be held at the Westbourne Park Institute, on September 21 to 25 inclusive, the following music competitions will be held: Juvenile choirs, 22nd; violin and solo singing, 23rd; pianoforte, 24th. Further particulars may be obtained on application to the Secretary, Mr. W. J. Black, 147, Shirland Road.

The vocal students of Mr. Edwin Holland gave a Concert, on June 26, in the Queen's (Small) Hall. Amongst the most promising vocalists were Miss Hobson, Miss Evelyn Ward, Mr. Mervyn Dene, and Mr. Francis Harford. The excellent violin playing of Miss Ethel Barns gave very welcome variety to the programme.

Mr. Robert Newman announces that the following works will be performed by the Queen's Hall Choral Society during the next winter season: "Creation," "Samson and Delilah," "Messiah," "Elijah," "Golden Legend," "Stabat Mater," "Hymn of Praise," "Faust" (Berlioz), "Redemption," and "St. Paul."

Signor Gennaro Fabozzi, the blind pianist, gave his second Recital at Steinway Hall, on the 15th ult., when he played Beethoven's "Moonlight" Sonata with remarkable accuracy and poetical expression. He also introduced several pieces from his own pen, which testified to his musicianlike abilities.

At the recent Examination in the faculty of music held in Dublin, the Degree of Mus. Doc. was conferred on Mr. Samuel Weekes. Dr. Weekes is the conductor of a large choral and orchestral society at Plymouth, whose Concerts have obtained a high reputation in the West of England.

M. Colonne will bring over his complete orchestra from Paris to give a series of four Concerts at Queen's Hall, commencing on October 12. M. Lamoureux will also give six Concerts at Queen's Hall, alternately in the evenings and afternoons of the week beginning November 16.

The next Triennial Handel Festival at the Crystal Palace will be held in 1897 on the following dates: General Rehearsal, Friday, June 11; "The Messiah," Monday, June 14; Selection Day, Wednesday, June 16; "Israel in Egypt," Friday, June 18.

The Glasgow Society of Musicians offer a prize of £20 for the best trio, quartet, or quintet for pianoforte and strings, or pianoforte and wind instruments. Works intended for competition must be in the hands of the secretary not later than December 1.

Mr. Edgar Pettman has been appointed to the choirmastership of St. James's, Piccadilly, where it is proposed to hold occasional oratorio services. Mr. Pettman will continue his duties as organist and choirmaster to St. Gabriel's Church, Willesden.

The English Concert Company—Misses Thudichum and McKenzie, Messrs. Branscombe and Powell—have had a wonderfully successful tour in Australia under Mr. Daniel Mayer's management. They are expected back about September 15.

Mr. Adolf Beyschlag will direct the performances of the newly amalgamated Leeds Philharmonic Society and Leeds Subscription Concerts.

A second Bach Festival will be held at Queen's Hall on April 6, 8, and 10, 1897. The principal works to be performed are the "St. Matthew" Passion, in German, and the Mass in B minor.

The London Symphony Concerts next season will again take place on Thursdays. There will be nine Concerts, extending from November 12 to April 1.

Civil List Pensions of £70 in each case have been granted to Madame Bodda Pyne and Lady Barnby.

The next Sarasate Concerts will take place on October 21, November 9 and 30, at St. James's Hall.

The Richter Concerts will take place, at Queen's Hall, on October 19 and 26 and November 2.

REVIEWS.

Novello's Octavo Anthems. Nos. 495, 522-529, 531-534. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

Choirmasters will do well to examine recent additions to Novello's valuable series of Octavo Anthems. No. 495, "I will lay me down in peace," by A. C. Edwards, is an anthem for quartet and chorus unaccompanied, and is well worthy of the attention of well-trained choirs. The setting is specially welcome as tending to cultivate choral singing without the aid of the organ, an exercise which is not only extremely beneficial to choirs, but also, which is to be desired, as providing impressive contrast to other portions of Church services. Choirmasters who have not thus tested the abilities of their forces may be recommended to begin with Mr. Edwards's anthem, for it is written with a careful regard to the preservation of true intonation that will conduce to the confidence of the executants. The text consists of Ps. iv. 9, and cxxi 2, 3, and 7, and the spirit of the words is well and scholarly expressed in the music. The direction that "six beats in strict time," equal in this instance to a bar and a half, should be given to the circumflex mark for elongation of a note is to be highly commended, for the uncertainty of tone duration, indicated by this sign, is a common source of difficulty and prejudicial hesitancy when there is no conductor.

Nos. 522 and 523 are T. Attwood Walmisley's fine anthems, respectively entitled "Hear, O Thou Shepherd," and "Remember, O Lord." The former is intended for use in the Lenten season, for which it is admirably suited. The latter is also meant to be sung in Lent, but would be appropriate for many other periods of the Church year.

"Behold, the days come, saith the Lord," No. 524, by the Rev. H. H. Woodward, will, probably, owing to its melodious expressiveness, become a favourite anthem in many churches. It is written for tenor solo, quartet, and four-part chorus, and will present no difficulties to the average choir. No. 525 is the chorus part of Henry Purcell's fine anthem "Sing unto God, O ye kingdoms," memorable by its effective bass solo. No. 526 will doubtless be no less valued, since it is the beautiful quintet from Mendelssohn's "As the hart pants." Choirs which contain a competent soprano, two good tenors, and two bass soloists could not make a better choice.

Sir John Stainer has enriched the store of Christmas anthems in No. 527, entitled, "Mercy and truth are met together." This begins with a pastorale movement for the organ, the rhythm of which is kept up on the entrance in detached phrases of a soprano voice. The subsequent four-part chorus is extremely vivacious, and contains some effective harmonic transitions, notably one at the words, "The God that dwells above the skies," where a change is made from the tonality of E to that of C. The resumption towards the close of the opening "Tempo da pastorale" is cleverly managed, and a four-fold "Amen" forms an impressive ending.

A setting for soprano solo and chorus, by Charles L. Naylor, of Cardinal Newman's world-known hymn "Lead, kindly Light," forms No. 528. For the first five pages the chorus echoes the sentiments expressed by the solo voice; but at the line "So long Thy power hath blest me, sure it still will lead me on," the sopranos announce a subject of confident character, which is taken up by the other voices in fugal style. After this has been carried on for twenty-five bars the chorus subsides into its first manner, and supports the solo voice, which enters in an effective fifth part. Finally the music expands into six parts, in which it tranquilly closes. The work contains some excellent part-writing, and will repay the careful and sympathetic rehearsal it demands.

No one knew better how to write effectively for a choir than the late Sir Joseph Barnby, and the composer's skill in this respect is manifest in No. 529, "While shepherds watched their flocks by night," which is another welcome addition to music for the Christmas season. After a characteristic introduction for the organ the four voices enter separately until the words "And glory shone around" are reached, when they burst forth together forte in a chord of the dominant major ninth with the root omitted. The words of the angel are given to a soprano voice, which is written over the other four vocal parts. Subsequently there is a solo for soprano extending over two pages, which contain some happy suggestions of the old Church modes. The work concludes with a spirited chorus and a four-fold "Amen."

Few composers of church music seem able to resist setting the Rev. E. Monro's "Story of the Cross." That written by Mr. Arthur Somervell, which forms No. 531, contains "short interludes (for the organ) giving opportunity for meditation." From this it will be gathered that the music is eminently of a devotional character and aims at impressiveness by simple means. Several verses of the third division of the poem are given to the tenors and basses accompanied by an effective independent organ part. "The appeal from the Cross" is entrusted to the basses alone, the chorus entering fortissimo at the words "Oh, I follow Thee." A five-fold "Amen" forms an appropriate conclusion.

No. 532, "Sing we merrily," by F. A. W. Docker, is a bright and spirited anthem appropriate for harvest or other festivals. With the exception of a few bars' recitative for a bass the anthem is written for four-part chorus. The music is vocal, and awkward intervals are avoided; but a well trained choir is necessary to do justice to the vigorous and cleverly developed fugue with which the composition ends.

The familiar Easter text, "Christ is risen from the dead," is set in a spirited style by J. Varley Roberts in No. 533. The composition is entirely for four-part chorus, in which fairly capable choirs will find no difficulties.

No. 534, "The first day of the week," by Bruce Steane, is also for Eastertide. This opens with a recitative for bass solo, followed by twelve bars for a soprano voice. The chorus enters with bold diatonic harmonies at the words "Christ is risen," and an effective point is made by the setting for quartet of "For since by man." A solidly harmonised chorale effectively concludes the composition.

The Antiphonal Chant Book. By Henry James Poole, M.A. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

This is a collection of single, double, triple, and quadruple Anglican chants, based on the half-verse parallelism of the Psalter—that is to say, the melodic structure of the chants selected, corresponds to the resemblance which exists between the two portions of each verse divided by the colon in the Prayer Book version of the Psalms. This melodic correspondence exists in the large majority of chants, but presumably this is the first time that a collection of them has been made, and the principle carried out in double, triple, and quadruple chants. The statement that antiphonal chanting "should therefore proceed by half verses" (not whole, as is the common custom) is very much open to question. There would seem to be no reason for many verses being so divided; indeed, such verses as "I did call upon the Lord with my voice: and He heard me out of His holy hill" (Psalm iii. 4) would appear to call for declamation by one set of singers rather than to be divided at the colon between opposite sides of the choir. Neither will all musicians agree that the Gloria at the end of every Psalm should always be sung to the same chant, although the three forms respectively given for festival, ferial, and fast days are, in themselves, commendable. The complete list of chants most appropriate to the daily Psalms should obviously have been printed with the collection instead of in a separate pamphlet. The size of the volume is also inconvenient for use by choristers, although it is excellent for the organ desk. These are matters, however, which can easily be rectified in future editions. The book contains 267 chants, of which eighty-nine have been composed by Mr. Poole, and fifty-seven expressly written for the collection by well-known church musicians. The collection, therefore, largely consists of new chants, which may prove an attraction to some choirmasters. With a view to congregational requirements the compass of the soprano part lies between middle C and the fourth space of the middle clef, and no reciting note is higher than the octave above middle C, consequently all the chants can, if necessary, be sung in unison by all voices.

The Leitmotives of "Der Ring des Nibelungen." By Franklin P. Patterson. [Breitkopf and Härtel.]

Visitors to the Bayreuth Festival may be recommended to acquire a copy of this guide to the "Ring." The word "guide" is used advisedly, for Mr. Patterson makes no attempt to fit the text to the music, or to give a complete translation of the original German libretto; he simply follows the action of each drama in a graphic style, only translating the German dialogue when it is calculated to make his explanations of the scenes more vivid. The value of the work to musicians consists in the inclusion of the principal Leitmotives and the marginal references made to them as they are heard during the action. This is done with remarkable completeness and in a manner that makes the book of great use as a work of reference. There is also much other information given which will be read with interest both by the learned and unlearned in Wagner's mighty work.

Mind and Voice. Original Exercises for the Development of the Voice. By J. Barnard Baylis.
[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

We cannot say we are favourably impressed with the theory set forth in this book, which is based upon the supposed benefits arising from the practice of whispering. The author says: "The advantage of whispering vowel sounds is owing to the fact that this practice strengthens opposition to escape of breath at the throat, and tends to make such opposition more and more automatic during speaking or singing. Vowel whispering may be characterised as an audible opposition to outward flow of breath, at the false vocal cords." As, however, the best authorities—namely, Garcia, Dr. Joal, Jean de Reszke, and others agree that "the exit of the wind should be regulated by the muscles of respiration alone, without any intervention of the laryngeal muscles," we can scarcely recommend students to practise the method of Mr. Baylis, which in plain words would encourage the throat to do that which should be done by the chest. We, moreover, fail to see how the "mind" of the pupil is specially exercised. The title "Mind and Voice" has a ring of psychological importance about it, but we would advise the student to forsake whispering and mind the voice.

Artistic Songs. A and B series. Song beside the Cradle and The Poet's Message. Music by Emilio Pizzi. O World, O Life, and Flowers of Spring. Music by F. E. Gambogi.
[Robert Cocks and Co.]

All these songs are tastefully written and contain pleasing fancifulness, although none of them can be said to possess marked individuality. They are, however, very welcome as calculated to develop a taste above that which finds enjoyment in the "royalty" ballad. The two songs by Emilio Pizzi are well contrasted in style, and the second is vivacious and has an effective accompaniment. Those by F. E. Gambogi possess, however, more interest to the musician, and offer more opportunities for effect to the vocalist.

Mass of St. Philip Neri. By William Sewell.
[Alphonse Cary.]

Mr. William Sewell is the organist and choirmaster of the Birmingham Oratory, and his setting of the Mass bears abundant testimony to his experience in the music of his Church. The setting is throughout written in four-part vocal harmony, with a simple but effective organ accompaniment. The part-writing is flowing and easy to read, and the character of the music distinctly devotional. The vigour of the Gloria forms an admirable contrast to the placid and subdued tone of the opening Kyrie, and a similar perception of effectiveness characterises the setting of the Creed. An impressive dignity pervades the Sanctus, some interesting contrapuntal writing distinguishes the Benedictus, and the Agnus Dei possesses considerable melodic charm.

Novello's Parish Choir Book, Nos. 272—280.
[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

The rapid improvement in the musical rendering of the Liturgy in Parish Church services has been very marked within the last twenty or thirty years, and it is exemplified by the strong demand for new compositions, many of which are worthy of rendering in our cathedrals. Thus the first of the above-named series is Attwood's Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C, perhaps the liveliest setting of its period, and certainly one of the most effective. Mr. Bruce Steane's Te Deum in F, which forms the next number, though by no means difficult, is very expressive and musicianly. Nos. 274 and 275 are respectively settings of the Te Deum and the Jubilate in A by the late Sir John Goss. This unison service, composed many years ago, has long been a deserved favourite, and criticism of its musical beauty would almost be an impertinence. It should be said, however, that parts for four voices are provided in this edition. No. 276 is a Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in B flat by Berthold Tours, written in bold and vigorous fashion, with an abundance of chromatic harmonies, and needing a well-trained choir to do it full justice. Three more settings of the Evening Canticles follow. These are respectively by J. Baptiste Calkin in F, melodious and not difficult; Ebenezer Prout in D, rather more elaborate, but broad, dignified, and mainly diatonic in its harmonies; and J. Stainer in B flat and F, a very simple version based on progressions suggested by the Gregorian Tones. No. 280, the last we shall deal with at present, is a hymn, "Ride on! ride on in Majesty," by Arthur H. Brown. Each of the familiar verses sung in all churches on Passion Sunday is varied, but the composition is strictly metric and must therefore be regarded as a hymn and not as an ordinary anthem—in other words, as congregational music.

The Teacher's Music Course. By Ernest E. Denney.
[Normal Correspondence College Press.]

This book contains nothing which has not been frequently said, but its information is conveyed in a clear and concise manner, and excellent indexes will enable the student to quickly find any explanation he may require. Both the Tonic Sol-fa and Staff notation systems are exhaustively explained, and some brief but excellent precepts given concerning voice production. A comprehensive series of questions at the end of each chapter will enable candidates for examinations to test their competence.

Three Pieces composed for the Harpsichord. By G. Frescobaldi, J. J. Froberger, and J. C. Kerl. Edited by J. S. Shedlock. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

The first piece in this singularly interesting collection is a reprint of the "Partite sopra Folia," from Frescobaldi's "Toccate e Partite d'Intavolatura di Cembalo," published in Rome in 1616; and the second piece, entitled "Auf der Mayerin," consists of a series of variations taken from an MS. volume in the Vienna Court Library, named "Libro secondo, terzo e quarto di Toccate, Fantasie, Canzone, Allemande ed altre Partite." The "Auf der Mayerin" variations are probably now printed for the first time, and, in common with the "Sopra la Folia," show the influence which their respective writers exercised on Bernado Pasquini, one of their most distinguished successors. The compositions also serve, as the editor well observes in his preface, "as useful landmarks in the history of variation form during the seventeenth century"—i.e., the period between the early English school of Byrd and Bull and the German school of Handel and Bach. More than ordinary interest is also attached to the third piece in this collection, "Capriccio Kuku," by Johann Caspar Kerl, which is a quaint specimen of "bird music," and would seem to have suggested Pasquini's "Toccato con lo Scherzo del Cuccó," recently published by Messrs. Novello in a valuable volume selected from the old Italian master's chamber music.

Twenty-five Vocal Studies. With easy Pianoforte Accompaniment. By Angelo Mascheroni. [Robert Cocks and Co.]

Thoughtful practice of these vocal exercises, under the guidance of a good teacher, would undoubtedly result in increase of volume of tone and command of expression. They are laid out for the medium portion of the voice, are for the most part confined to the compass of an octave and a third, the highest note of which is the fourth space in the treble clef, and they are grateful to sing.

Grande Valse. From the "Faust" Ballet. By Ernest Ford. Pianoforte Solo, arranged from the full score by I. A. de Orellana. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

The improvement of late in the ballet music at leading London music halls is as marked as it is satisfactory, and amongst the best of its class may be placed that written by Mr. Ernest Ford for the "Faust" ballet recently produced at the Empire Theatre. The "Grand Waltz" is a good specimen of its kind. It is bright and vigorous in character, rhythmic to dance to, and pleasant to hear. In addition to these attractive attributes, it possesses several features which appeal to the musician. The Introduction, of twenty-four bars, is built upon a dominant pedal note, a device which greatly enhances the effect of the entrance of the first waltz subject. The bass also provided for this theme is not of the conventional three chords in a bar kind, but is cleverly broken, and in a manner that increases the lilt of the melody. The vigorous character of the subject before the final réprise of the opening theme, and the bold nature of the accompanying changes of harmony, happily impart vivacity to that portion of the waltz form where, in the majority of instances, musical interest flags. Apart from its excellence to dance to, Mr. Ford's "Grande Valse" would make an effective piece for the drawing-room.

An Ode in honour of the Birth of Prince Edward of York. Written by Richard H. Manley. Set to Music by E. Markham Lee. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

Mr. Manley has written some excellent lines in commemoration of two events which, in the latter part of June, 1894, excited, by reason of their antithetical character, much public sympathy—viz., the birth of Prince Edward of York and the murder of the French President Carnot. Mr. Lee had no easy task to musically illustrate such widely divergent subjects, and he did wisely in taking refuge to a considerable extent in contrapuntal resource, his work thus acquiring a scholarly dignity which well befits the subject. The music, which consists of four numbers, is written throughout in four parts and in several places shows dramatic perception. The indications in the pianoforte score of orchestral instruments also suggests Mr. Lee's appreciation of effective instrumental contrasts.

Graceful Dance. For the Pianoforte. By J. L. Roeckel. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

This dance is taken from Mr. Roeckel's pleasing cantata "The Hours," one of the excellent series of vocal works now being issued by Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., and specially and admirably designed to meet the long existing want at schools where music is taught. The Dance is in D minor and major, the two modes being effectively contrasted. Its tunefulness and simplicity will doubtless cause it to be welcomed by many young pianists, whom it provides with an easy and attractive piece.

Melody in A. For Violin or Flute and Pianoforte. By Frank Moir. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

Mr. Moir has invented an expressive melody which would be more effective on the flute than the violin, although it is well suited to the genius of the latter instrument. A good contrast is obtained by the second subject being introduced in the key of F, and the pianoforte part arranges for the return of the primary key in a simple but ingenious manner. The florid passages are easy of execution on the wind instrument and the pianoforte accompaniment possesses musical interest.

Chromatische Etüden. For the Pianoforte. Op. 24. By Graham P. Moore. [Leipzig: Breitkopf und Härtel.]

These Studies are intended for advanced players, by whom they may be practised with advantage. Apart from their technical value, they possess considerable musical interest, several of them having titles which the character of the music justifies.

FOREIGN NOTES.

Amsterdam.—Herr Hans Sommer's interesting new opera, "Der Meerman," is to be brought out here shortly with a Dutch version of the libretto.——A German opera is to be established here next autumn, and a similar undertaking is planned also at Rotterdam.

Berlin.—A special performance of "Der Freischütz" was given at the Royal Opera, on June 18, to signalise the seventy-fifth anniversary of the original first performance here of the evergreen and, to use a Teutonic expression, "epoch-making" work. There can be no question as to the perennial vitality of this truly romantic opera, while its direct influence upon the development of the modern music-drama of Richard Wagner is equally undoubted. An instance of the former quality possessed by it was furnished on this occasion in the warm reception accorded by the audience to the very fine performance under the direction of Dr. Muck. The Royal Opera has now closed its doors for the usual vacation, but performances are taking place throughout the summer months at the "New Royal Opera" (formerly Kroll's), of which Herr Larronge, whilom Capellmeister at the Stuttgart Hof-Theater, has been appointed as the principal conductor. Operatic performances on a moderate scale are also given during this summer at the Flora Theatre, in the Charlottenburg suburb.——The Minister of Fine Arts has granted to a number of pupils at the Hochschule the means to witness the present Bayreuth performances, and a similar grant has been made to five native musicians by the Governor of Alsace-Lorraine.——M. Louis Pecskai, the gifted young violinist who recently made his London début, has resolved to place himself under Dr. Joachim, for composition as well as for playing. He will visit London again in the winter.——Mr. Eugène d'Albert is about to leave his Saxon abode near Dresden and take up his residence in this capital.——The Philharmonic Orchestra, under Herr Weingartner's direction, proposes giving a series of Concerts in Paris next spring; a somewhat venturesome undertaking, one would think. Musical critics here regard with some dismay the fact that all the concert-rooms in the capital have already been engaged for almost every evening during next season up to March!

Bloemfontein (Orange Free State).—The Orchestral Society, under the direction of M. Ivan Haarburger, has been making good progress since its foundation in 1893, and announces a series of Concerts with classical programmes for its coming season.

Bremen.—Herr Georg Schumann, of Dantzig, has been appointed musical director of the Philharmonic orchestra and choir in this town.

Breslau.—In the place of Fräulein Sedlmayr, who has become a member of the Imperial Opera, Vienna, director Loewe, of the Stadt-Theater, has engaged Miss Riva Stanhope for the leading dramatic parts. Miss Stanhope is an Englishwoman, and has only just completed her studies with Madame Fichna, in Vienna.

Brussels.—Madame Kutscherra has been engaged for the forthcoming season at the Theatre de la Monnaie, where she will make her début as Elsa in "Lohengrin," and will also create the principal part in M. Bruneau's new opera "Messidor." The lady had been immensely successful in Paris concert-rooms, and latterly as Sieglinde at the Opéra, where she was on the point of being engaged when her popularity suddenly collapsed. Madame Kutscherra had been looked upon as of Hungarian nationality, but it was found that, although of Hungarian parentage, she was born in Germany and considers herself German. Hence the collapse—it was all a mistake.——M. Vincent d'Indy's new opera, "Fervaal," with the new tenor, M. de la Tour, in the titular part, is to be the first novelty at the de la Monnaie next season.——M. Edgar Tinel, the composer of the oratorio "St. Franciscus," is to be the successor at the Conservatoire of M. Kufferath, whose death is announced in our obituary column.

Budapesth.—A new one-act opera, "Mathias Corvinus," by Carl Frozler, was announced to be brought out at the Royal Opera last month, with Fräulein Sedlmayr in the principal female part. Herr Alexander Erkel has been appointed to the leading conductorship at this institution. ——A curious pianoforte, constructed—"out of his own head," so to say—by a Hungarian peasant, with, it is said, an ingenious mechanism and effective tone, is to form part of the present Millennium Exhibition.——A monument was erected on June 25, at his native town, Bekés-Gyula, to the Hungarian composer, Franz Erkel.——A cycle of operas by Hungarian composers—Doppler, Erkel, and others—is to be given at the Royal Opera next month.

Carlsruhe.—Quite a number of special performances of opera is to be given at the Hof-Theater in connection with the celebrations of the seventieth birthday of the Grand Duke of Baden, and extending from the 6th to the 27th of next month. The highly interesting scheme includes Berlioz's "Les Troyens," Wagner's "Tannhäuser," "Lohengrin," and "Die Meistersinger," Mozart's "Zauberflöte," and a number of characteristic one-act works by Pergolesi, Cherubini, Gluck, Grétry, Haydn ("Der Apotheker"), Dalayrac ("La Savoyarde"), Bizet, and Weber. Herr Felix Mottl will conduct the entire series.

Cassel.—An excellent Concert performance of the greater part of Wagner's "Parsifal," with a chorus of 400 amateurs, was given here on the 2nd ult., under the direction of Herr Beier. On this occasion the new bell tubes of Messrs. Harrington and Co., of Coventry, were made use of and generally admired for the clearness and purity of their tone, even in pianissimo. ——A very amusing new operetta in three acts, "Die Musketiere im Damenstift," by Herr Fritz Baselt, was brought out at the Court Theatre, on June 21, and received with high favour. It will also be produced shortly at the Frankfort Stadt-Theater.——Herr W. Kienzl, the composer of the highly-successful opera "Der Evangelimann," is engaged upon a new tragi-comic operatic work, entitled "Don Quixote."

Cettinje.—The capital of Montenegro has treated itself to a small but handsomely-built opera house, which will shortly be opened by a Russian company of singers.

Cologne.—There have been during the past season, from September 1 to May 3, 151 performances of opera at the Stadt-Theater, representing forty-five different works. Amongst these, thirty performances were devoted to Wagner, including two cycles of the Nibelungen Tetralogy. The most successful novelty was Herr Kienzl's "Der Evangelimann," which was produced seven times.——A new Symphony, just completed by Herr Felix Weingartner, the Berlin conductor, entitled "King Lear," is to be first produced at one of the Gürzenich Concerts next season, under the composer's direction.—— Herr Max van der Sandt, hitherto on the teaching staff of the Sternsche Conservatorium, has been appointed to the senior professorship of pianoforte playing at the Conservatorium in this city.

Copenhagen.—Herr August Enna's new opera "Aucassin and Nicolette," which maintained its original success, in February last, at the Royal Theatre in the course of a score or so of performances during the season just closed, has been accepted for production by several German lyrical establishments.

Dresden.—The new Japanese fairy opera "Lili-Tsee" was brought out shortly before the close of the season at the Court Theatre, when the really charming little work met with an equally enthusiastic reception as recently at Mannheim and at Frankfort. The composer, by the way, Herr Franz Curti, is a dentist in good practice in the Saxon capital.——The management of the Opera have decided to considerably increase the orchestral forces, and to give daily performances in the coming season, instead of five weekly, as hitherto; a somewhat bold departure, which only a State-subventioned institution like this could venture upon. One of the first novelties here will be the opera "Runenzauber," by Herr Emil Hartmann (the son of the veteran Danish composer), which is also to be brought out at Berlin.

Eisenach.—Herr Oesterlein's Wagner Museum has now been completely transferred to the Villa Reuter in this town, the library occupying the entire first floor, while the numerous other objects of the unique collection are exhibited on the ground floor. The Museum will be open to the public very shortly.

Florence.—Rumour is again rife with regard to a new opera upon which Verdi is said to be engaged, and it is hoped that ere long the veteran Maëstro will gratify his countless admirers with the score of a "King Lear," or, as some have it, a "Tempest"—Shakespearian, at all events. The one thing certain in the matter is that the master spends several hours daily engaged in composition.——A Society is being formed here having for its object the revival of that once favourite and highly "genteel" instrument, the lute, the tuning of which alone has been said to constitute "a joy for ever." The new "Società del Liuto" will shortly be inaugurated with a grand Concert, in which Signor Mascagni, Signora Gemma Bellincioni, and Signor Stagno will take part; Mascagni, moreover, having promised to contribute a new composition for the occasion, entitled "The Apotheosis of the Lute."

Frankfort-on-Main.—According to the just published annual report of the Raff Conservatorium, the number of pupils during the past academical year of this excellent institution was one hundred and fifty, amongst them fourteen foreigners.

Geneva.—The performance took place here last month of an important new work, a kind of patriotic hymn, entitled "Pcème alpestre," the words by M. Baud-Bowy, the music by M. Jacques Dalcroze, both of Swiss nationality. It is a lengthy work for soli, chorus, and orchestra, not devoid of originality and skilfully orchestrated. The choral forces consisted of the members of the Lyre Sacrée and the Société du Conservatoire, and with the orchestra amounted to 550 executants. The composer conducted a very fine performance, which was greatly appreciated.

Gotha.—A commemorative tablet has recently been added to the house in the neighbouring little town of Wechmar, where Veit Bach, the founder of the great Bach family, was born.

Leipzig.—According to the statistics of musical publications in Germany during the past year, just issued, the number of instrumental works has been 6,867 (as against 6,397 in 1894), and that of vocal compositions 3,756 (against 3,986 in the preceding year), while the number of books, &c., on music amounted to 313 (against 431 in 1894). Multa certainly, but not necessarily multum.——Herr Arthur Nikisch, the eminent conductor of the Gewandhaus orchestra, will be the conductor of ten Philharmonic Concerts in Berlin during next season.——The ninetieth birthday of Herr Robert Sipp, one of the most highly esteemed musicians and teachers here, for many years a member of the Gewandhaus orchestra, was celebrated, on the 5th ult., amidst countless demonstrations of affectionate regard on the part of past pupils and others from far and near. The veteran musician, it is interesting to add, at one time gave lessons on the violin to no less a student than Richard Wagner, whom, however, he cannot reckon amongst his most satisfactory pupils.——A second edition will shortly be published of Richard Wagner's "Letters to his Contemporaries," edited by Herr Kastner, and augmented by over a thousand letters of the Bayreuth master.

Liège.—In one of the recent excellent Orchestral Concerts at the Jardin d'Acclimatisation, under the direction of M. Dossin, three of the Characteristic Dances from Mr. Edward German's music to "Henry VIII." were produced for the first time in Belgium, and warmly welcomed both by the audience and in the press, the latter pronouncing them highly interesting, both as regards local colour and marked rhythmical characteristics.

Lisbon.—Two representations were given at the National Club, on June 18 and 20, of a new three-act opera, "Lancha Favorita," the libretto by Senhor Marinho du Silva, the music by Senhor Filippe Duarte, with considerable success. ——Preparations are going forward for the celebration, next year, of the 400th anniversary of the discovery of the Cape passage to India by Vasco da Gama. An influential committee has been formed for the purpose, and a competition has been opened, inter alia, for a commemorative hymn, a triumphal march, and an opera of an appropriately national character. Amongst the native composers who will take part in the competition are Augusto Machado, Alfredo Keil (the composer of "Donna Branca"), the Viscount d'Arneiro, and others.

Lyons.—M. Albert Vizentini, the new director of the principal theatre here, proposes during the coming season to produce several operatic works not yet performed in France, including Wagner's "Die Meistersinger," with the new French translation of M. Ernst.

Mexico.—The Philharmonic Society here signalised the first anniversary of its foundation on May 2 by a Concert, including the Prelude to M. Saint-Saëns's "Le Déluge," a Serenade by Goetze, a Suite by Grieg, Beethoven's E flat Concerto, and other numbers. Under the able direction of Señor Ricardo Castro, the Society has given during its brief existence no less than nine Concerts, chiefly of symphonic music by the classical and the best modern masters, a fact which greatly redounds to its credit, and deserves a record.

Milan.—Signor Mascagni has undertaken to compose a new opera on a Japanese subject, for which Signor Illica has written the libretto. The work, which is in two acts with a prologue, and is called "La Giapponese," will be brought out at La Scala during next season. The composer of "Cavalleria Rusticana" is also said to be preparing for publication a volume of verse.——Under Signor Durer's management, Signor Leoncavallo will give a series of Concerts in America next winter, introducing several of his own compositions, and himself conducting the orchestra.

Moscow.—The first complete edition of Wagner's music-dramas in the Russian language is about to be issued by the important music-publishing firm of Jürgenson here. Only "Tristan and Isolde" has hitherto appeared in a Russian edition.

Naples.—Signor Nicolo van Westerhout, the composer of the successful opera "Doña Flor," has been appointed a professor of harmony at the Naples Conservatorio. Signor van Westerhout is a Sicilian by birth, and was formerly one of the most brilliant pupils of the Naples institution.

Ostend.—The Royal Theatre opened its doors, on the 12th ult., with a performance of "La Mascotte," in which Madame Mardoga as Bettina scored a brilliant success. The performances will continue throughout the season.

Pirano (Istria).—A bronze statue of the famous violinist, Giuseppe Tartini, is to be unveiled here on the 2nd inst., with musical and other ceremonies. The monument is the work of the sculptor, Dal Zotto.

Prague.—Franchetti's "Cristoforo Colombo" was produced here, for the first time, recently, at the National Theatre, and, with an excellent representation, secured a good success. On the 1st ult. "Lohengrin" was given, Mdlle. Dvorák, now a permanent member of the national institution, undertaking the part of Elsa at very short notice. The lady, who is making rapid strides both in her artistic development and in the favour of the public, acquitted herself admirably of her difficult task, and gained enthusiastic applause.

Pretoria (Transvaal).—A Musical Academy for instruction in all branches of the art has recently been established here under the direction of M. Henri van der Berg, assisted by an efficient staff of professors. A very satisfactory Concert was given on May 29, by the choral society, "Hollandsch Mannenkoor," under the conductorship of M. D. Balfort, to celebrate the first anniversary of its foundation. The Pretoria orchestra, under the direction of M. de Groot, also took part.

Rome.—Madame Teresina Tua (Countess Franchi-Verney), the celebrated violinist, has returned here after a highly successful seven months' concert tour in Russia, extending as far as Caucasia. At a private Concert given here last month, she introduced for the first time a Sonata for violin and pianoforte by Signor Gianturco, the Italian Minister of Public Instruction, who is a musician of considerable attainments.——The recently promulgated indefinite prolongation by the Government of the expired copyright of Rossini's "Il Barbiere" has been declared void by a parliamentary commission—a decision which will probably obtain the sanction of the house of representatives.——A special Concert was arranged in the hall of the Santa Cecilia Academy on June 14, in honour of the visit here of Dr. Joachim, the Queen of Italy being present. The great violinist, who met with a most enthusiastic reception, played, amongst other numbers, Beethoven's Violin Concerto and some of his Hungarian Dances, the Baroness von Keudel, who is an excellent musician, playing the pianoforte part.

St. Petersburg.—It is stated that Anton Rubinstein has left a quantity of manuscript, containing personal recollections, observations on the art, and aphorisms, much of which cannot fail to be of general interest. A friend of the great pianist-composer has been charged with the editing of these posthumous papers, the publication of which may be ere long expected.

Stockholm.—Ivar Hallström, the well-known Swedish musician and composer of the first Swedish national opera, has just celebrated his seventieth birthday, among those sending congratulations being the Queen of Roumania, "Carmen Sylva."

Stuttgart.—A Festival of German male choral societies is to be held here in the early part of this month, in which over 14,000 singers will take part, the conductor being Herr Eduard Kremser, of Vienna.

The Hague.—M. Viotta, the newly-appointed Director of the Royal Conservatoire, has been elected President of the Neederlandsche Toonkunstenaars Vereeniging and chief editor of the old-established music journal Cæcilia, in succession to the late M. Nicolaï. M. Viotta, at the same time, retains the directorship of the Amsterdam Wagner Society, which has achieved so distinguished a position under his able guidance.——The Berlin Philharmonic Society's Orchestra is paying its annual visit to Scheveningen, where, until the end of the season, it is giving concert performances, under Herr Mannstaedt's direction, with international programmes, at the spacious Kursaal, which, though it accommodates some four thousand persons, is generally crowded on these occasions.——M. Richard Hol, the doyen of native musicians, has been for some time seriously ill.——At the enterprising Royal French Theatre here Massenet's "Hérodiade," Giordano's "André Chénier," and Wagner's "Die Walküre" are being mounted for the approaching season.

Vienna.—During the past season sixty-one different operatic works have been produced at the Imperial Opera, including, amongst successful novelties, Massenet's "La Navarraise," Kienzl's "Evangelimann," and Goldmark's "Cricket on the Hearth." The first new work to be brought out here in the coming season will be Giordano's "André Chénier," which has also been accepted at several leading establishments in Germany.——The veteran Johann Strauss, who is as usual spending the summer months at Ischl, is engaged upon a new operetta in three acts, the libretto for which has been furnished him by Herren Willner and Buchbinder.

Weimar.—A new music-drama, entitled "Dichter und Welt" ("Poet and the World") by Herr W. von Baussnern, libretto by Herr Julius Petri, will be the first novelty next season at the Court Theatre.

Mr. Hamilton Clarke has been commissioned by Sir Henry Irving to compose and arrange Incidental Music for his forthcoming production of "Cymbeline" at the Lyceum Theatre. With the exception of the creditable performances given by the Irving Dramatic Club, this play has not been seen in London since the days of the Queen's Theatre, Long Acre, and the production will be anticipated with great interest.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

A season of dulness has reigned here during the past two months, which for almost absolute lack of musical interest is probably without parallel, even at Midsummer time. Nor are there as yet many overt signs of preparation or thought for the fall of the year, which will be with us a couple of months hence, and which it is expected will bring with it the usual crop of concerts and so forth. Doubt alone seems to exist as to the local opera season, but an assurance is felt that the new management of the Royal Court Theatre will not be ungenerous in carrying forward the honourable traditions of the early home of the Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company. It is, however, settled that pantomime will have its reign at the commencement of the New Year, and that, as was the case at the beginning of 1896, opera will follow a little later.

The number of applications for the post of Corporation organist is reported to have reached 200; but, truth to tell, very little local interest is being taken in the matter outside a certain and not very large section of the public, who were regular attendants at the series of performances which have for so many years been given at St. George's Hall. It is not likely either that anything will be immediately decided as to the appointment of a permanent successor to Mr. Best. The needful repairs of the organ and the cost thereof at least block the way for the present, and other matters of municipal reform relating to such inartistic but utilitarian considerations as are concerned with the tramways and a high-level bridge for the relief of vehicular traffic will probably take precedence of aught else in the minds of the finance committee.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

On Saturday, June 27, among the honours awarded by the Victoria University in the various faculties of Art and Science, the degree of Mus. B. was conferred upon Walter Carroll — already a graduate of Durham — and upon Lucy Bolton, both having completed the three years' course prescribed, submitted satisfactory compositions, and passed the severe examinations imposed. At the Royal College of Music, also, examinations have been rife, and, it is understood, successful.

The annual choir competition held under the auspices of Mr. G. W. Lane and his Philharmonic Society proved, on Saturday, the 4th ult., extremely attractive. Some very excellent choral work was done; the chief prizes being awarded by Dr. Henry Hiles to choirs from Hanley (Mr. Garner) and from Blackburn (Mr. Tattersall). It would be difficult to over-estimate the value of such meetings, whether as regards the direct impetus they give to that study of part-singing which is so ardently pursued in this part of England, or the ever-increasing discrimination displayed by the thousands of listeners as to the comparative merits of the competing choirs.

After a lengthened struggle, our oldest musical institution—the so-called "Gentlemen's Concert Society"—has collapsed. Some year or so ago, Mr. C. J. Heywood, the unwearied friend of the Association, relieved the Society by purchasing its heavily mortgaged hall; but the whole block of buildings has now been bought by the Midland Railway Company for the necessary extension of their station and the accommodation of their passengers. But the influence and usefulness of the institution had long waned past all possibility of revival.

MUSIC IN PARIS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The musical season here has come to a close, and our big orchestras have betaken themselves to the fashionable watering-places and seaside resorts.

"Messidor," the new opera by MM. Zola and Bruneau, is being prepared at the Opéra, M. Claudius Blanc, formerly director of the Marseilles Conservatoire, having been appointed chorus-master in the room of the late M. Delahaye.

Some few days before closing its doors for the vacation—viz., June 24—the Opéra Comique brought out a new work, "La Femme de Claude," lyrical drama in three acts, the libretto (after Alexandre Dumas' drama) by M. Louis Gallet, the music by M. Albert Cahen. The composer, a wealthy amateur, had already made himself known by a one-act opera, "Le Bois," and by another in three acts entitled "Le Venitien." In producing a new work in the eleventh hour, as it were, of the season, the management of a theatre renders a questionable service to its author, whom it thereby almost necessarily consigns to the à priori indifference of the audience. Whether, if produced at a more propitious period of the season, the work would have met with a more favourable reception is, of course, difficult to say. As it was, notwithstanding a very fine interpretation, "La Femme de Claude" was somewhat severely criticised, and the composer had to be content with a recognition, in a general way, of his laudable tendencies and excellent intentions.

An interesting performance took place on June 21, at the Church of Saint Gervais, when, amongst other numbers, a Mass, "Quartitoni," by the sixteenth-century Spanish master, T. L. de Vittoria, was sung by the choir, while M. Lacroix introduced some pieces by the Spanish composer Antonio de Cabeson (1510-1566), a famous organist in his day. M. Lacroix, who is the organist of the Lamoureux Concerts, has just been appointed to the chief organistship of the Church of Saint-Merry, a post in which he can boast such famous predecessors as Couperin, Chauvet, M. Saint-Saëns, and others.

As usual, at the end of the season, a great number of pupils' Concerts are just now taking place at the various teaching establishments, the results exhibited in many instances being, it must be admitted, exceptionally satisfactory, both on the part of amateurs and of those destined for the profession. The prize annually offered by the Ville de Paris has been awarded to M. Lucien Lambert for an opera, "Le Spahi." The Grand Prix de Rome this year has gone to M. Mouquet, a pupil of M. Dubois; M. d'Ivry, likewise of M. Dubois's class, and M. Halphen, pupil of M. Massenet, gaining the customary first and second prizes respectively.

The entire library of the orchestral scores of the late M. Ambroise Thomas has been bequeathed by him to the Conservatoire.

OBITUARY.

In Hubert Ferdinand Kufferath, whose death is announced, on June 23, at Brussels, Belgian musical art has lost one of its most zealous promoters, and the Brussels Conservatoire in particular one of its most highly valued and valuable professors. He was born at Mühlheim-on-the-Ruhr on June 10, 1818, having thus just completed his seventy-eighth year. He studied brilliantly at Leipzig under Mendelssohn, David, and Hauptmann, rendering himself equally proficient as a pianist, violinist, and organist, he having also studied in the last-named capacity under Friedrich Schneider in Dessau. At one time conductor of the well-known Cologne Maennergesang Verein, he settled in Brussels in 1844, where for a period of three years he acted as private pianist to the late King Leopold I., to whom he played for some hours daily the latest operatic scores, and also instructed the royal princes. On the appointment of M. Gevaert to the directorship of the Royal Conservatoire, Kufferath obtained the professorship of counterpoint and fugue at that Institution, a position for which his profound learning and eminent teaching qualities peculiarly fitted him. Of a retiring nature, and shrinking from all notoriety, his great executive powers were only known and appreciated by a comparatively small circle in the Belgian capital, and by that wider circle of numberless pupils who had studied under him, and by whom his exalted art principles, which he so well knew how to instil, are being disseminated throughout his adopted country. The deceased artist has written some orchestral and chamber music, amongst it a Pianoforte Concerto, frequently played by M. Brassin, and other compositions of high merit, and an excellent practical manual, "Ecole de Choral," introduced at the Conservatoire. One of his sons, M. Maurice Kufferath, is the editor of the Guide Musical of Brussels and a distinguished musical author.

Ludwig Siegfried Meinardus, the well-known musical author and composer, died on the 12th ult. at Bielefeld, aged sixty-eight. He was born on September 17, 1827, at Hooksiel, in Oldenburg, and made his musical studies at the Leipzig Conservatorium. In 1865 he was appointed to a professorship at the Conservatorium in Dresden, in which position he remained until 1874, when he took up his residence in Hamburg, where for a number of years he was the much-esteemed musical critic of the Hamburger Nachrichten. For the last eight or nine years he has lived in retirement at Bielefeld. Meinardus was the composer of several oratorios, which have met with success in Germany; of several choral works, symphonies, and chamber compositions; as well as of three operas, only one of which—"Die Odaliske"—has been produced. He is, however, most widely known as an author of considerable merit, his writings, chiefly of a biographical and musico-historical order, including a very interesting and appreciative monography on Matheson, the Hamburg musician, friend and biographer of Handel; a Life of Mozart, a History of Music in Germany, and other works.

The death is announced, at Mühlhausen, at the age of forty-six, of Adolphe Stiehle, one of the most distinguished violinists of Alsace. A native of Frankfort-on-Main, he was a pupil of Vieuxtemps and Joachim, and for some years formed part of the quartet parties of Allard-Franchomme and Léonard-Jacquard, in Paris, and also of that of Count Hochberg, in Silesia. Shortly after the Franco-German war he settled in Mühlhausen, where he became the director of the orchestral and choral forces of the Philharmonic Society, and where his excellent chamber concerts obtained a very wide celebrity.

Achille Lerminiaux, a much esteemed Belgian violinist, died last month at Ixelles, at the early age of thirty-nine. Born at Genappe, of a musical family, he studied at the Brussels Conservatoire under Vieuxtemps and Wieniawski, obtaining the premier prix in 1872. He was for a number of years a leading member in the orchestra of the Théâtre de la Monnaie, but had for some time past devoted himself entirely to teaching and to the cultivation of chamber music, the periodical Concerts instituted by him being invariably much frequented. His tone as a violinist was full of warmth and subtle charm, and his technique irreproachable. He was, moreover, an earnest and modest musician, whose loss is greatly deplored by Belgian amateurs.

The death occurred on June 17, in Vienna, of Rudolph Wilhelm Kurka, whose great technical attainments in the construction of pianofortes, and ability as a writer on subjects connected with his art, have rendered his name widely known. He gained his early experience with various makers of note, especially with Marschall, of Vienna, and Bechstein, of Berlin, and established a factory of his own in 1881, in the Austrian capital. Here he introduced a number of improvements of his own invention in his instruments, and was the first to adopt the English mechanism, which since then has been generally accepted by Austrian makers. While conducting a daily increasing business, Kurka found time to contribute a number of excellent articles to the well-known Zeitschrift für Instrumentenbau, edited by Herr Paul de Witt, of Leipzig; and for some years past he has been the technical editor of the Viennese Neue Musikalische Presse. He was the author of two operatic librettos, one of which, entitled "Carinus," has been set to music by the Viennese composer, Josef Roscher. A native of Vienna, he had only attained his forty-fifth year.

The Russian composer and musical author, Alexander Sjergjewich Famincin, died at Ligovo, near St. Petersburg, on the 6th ult., aged fifty-five. He was a pupil of the Leipzig Conservatorium, and the composer of an opera, "Sardanapal," produced with but little success at the Imperial Russian Opera, and of another operatic work, "Uriel Acosta," which, we believe, has not yet been performed. His musical essays and special studies include "The Indo-Chinese Scale" and "Studies on Russian National Instruments," and contain much that is interesting and instructive.

We have to record the death, on June 29, at Marienwerder, of Carl Lessmann, an excellent organist and composer of church music. He was born at Hornburg, near Halberstadt, in 1838, and studied at Berlin under Schneider and Grell. After filling one or two minor organistships, he was appointed, in 1871, organist of the Marienwerder Cathedral, a post which he has occupied with distinction ever since. He was also the conductor of the Marienwerder Choral Society, and exercised a most beneficial influence upon the musical life of that city, where his sterling qualities as a musician and man were greatly appreciated.

The death is announced last month, at Milan, of Raffaele Parravicini, a distinguished litterateur, theatrical critic of Il Secolo, and author of several operatic librettos. An excellent musician, he was the composer of a number of songs, and also of some operettas, one of them particularly, "I disgrozzi del sur Sprella," written in the Milanese dialect, having obtained a well-merited success.

The announcement made in some Brazilian papers, and which has made the round of the European musical press, of the death, at Pará, of Senhor Carlos Gomes has, we are glad to say, proved incorrect. Unfortunately, however, the composer of "I Guarany" is lying hopelessly ill in the town where, with so much just pride, his countrymen had but recently welcomed him as the new director of their Conservatoire, and in the opinion of his medical attendants his life cannot be prolonged many weeks.

We have also to record the following deaths:—

On June 7, at Rio Grande do Sul, Paul Faulhaber, a native of Dresden, for many years an esteemed resident pianist, conductor, and teacher, formerly an officer in the German army, aged sixty.

On June 8, at California, Charles Goffrie, excellent violinist and teacher, aged seventy-four.

On June 12, at Bex, Charles César Dénéreaz, for many years vocal professor at the Canton Schule of Lausanne, aged fifty-eight.

On June 13, at Laibach, Anton Nedvěd, orchestral conductor and composer, aged sixty-eight.

On June 14, at Paris, Emma Dufresne-Demay, for many years a professor of harmony at the Consérvatoire, in her seventy-fourth year.

On June 14, at Zurich, Henriette Eschmann, pianoforte teacher, aged sixty-six.

Recently, at Brest, Barthélemy Chalmet, organist of the Church of St. Louis and composer of church music.

On June 16, at Auckland, N.Z., A. Tutschka, popular conductor, formerly bandmaster of a Hungarian regiment, a native of Prague.

On June 16, at Rome, Professor Vincenzo Rosati, able musician and teacher.

On June 17, at Temesvar, Josef Hromadka, organ builder, founder of the extensive organ building industry of the town, aged seventy.

On June 18, at Grenoble, the Abbé Martin, editor of the Revue du Chant Gregorien.

On June 29, at Bozen, Hans Zipperle, musical director and choirmaster, one of the most highly esteemed musicians in the Tyrol, aged sixty-five.

On June 30, at Baden Baden, August Wallmer, gifted pianist and choral conductor, aged twenty-three.

Recently, at Dresden, Ferdinand Büchner, one of the founders of the German Musiker Verein, distinguished violinist, aged eighty-two.

On the 2nd ult., at Milan, Fréderic Hummel, for many years professor of French at the Conservatorio, a well-known personality in artistic circles, aged eighty-two.

On the 7th ult., at Vienna, Josef Heitzmann, chief of an extensive pianoforte making establishment, aged forty-two.

On the 7th ult., at Holmesdale, Upper Tooting, Alfred Arthur Physick, in his thirty-sixth year.

On the 9th ult., at Griez, H. Urban, cantor at the Stadt-Kirche, and professor at the Seminary in that town.

Recently, at Wiesbaden, Major von Schlieben, composer of some popular Lieder, aged sixty-nine.

On the 12th ult., at Hamburg, Carl Armbrust, famous organ virtuoso and musical author, for many years organist in Hamburg, aged forty-seven.

On the 16th ult., at Paris, Anatole Lionnet, concert-singer, who, with his brother Hyppolite, enjoyed enormous popularity in Paris salons some fifteen years ago.

CORRESPONDENCE.

A GERMAN COMPLIMENT TO PURCELL.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—A tribute lately paid, quite unintentionally, by some learned German musicians to our great composer, Purcell, seems to me to be worth placing on record, since it affords the clearest proof of what is so constantly asserted, that the Englishman was a generation before his age. In the forty-second volume of the Bach-Gesellschaft, issued early last year, there is an appendix, containing "Variants and compositions of which the authenticity is not fully established." The second piece in this section (p. 250), a "Toccata quasi Fantasia con Fuga," is nothing more nor less than Purcell's well-known Harpsichord or Organ Toccata in A major, in a virtually unaltered condition. In the notes with various readings, &c., preface, p. xxx., the source of the composition is stated to be the collection of Fr. Knuth (in the possession of the late W. Rust), and the comment is added: "Unfortunately far from correct, and leaving much that is doubtful." It would be very interesting to learn the history of Knuth's "Sammelband," and how the composition made its way to Germany in the first instance, and in the second, got ascribed to Bach. The passages in which it differs from the work as it appears in Mr. W. Barclay Squire's edition of the harpsichord works for the Purcell Society are neither numerous nor important. In the first bar the final quaver in the left hand becomes an arpeggio, and the close on E in bar 11 is followed by an empty half-bar, so that the rest of the movement down to the middle of p. 43 (Purcell Society) has its rhythm displaced. The movement beginning on p. 45 with an alla breve sign is marked lento in the Bach edition, and an extra bar appears, fitting in between the two halves of bar 2, and making the progression easier to the E sharp in the bass. This may very possibly be a genuine addition of the composer's. The second bar of p. 46 is marked Allegro, and in the next bar an alto part of quavers appears. The conjectural emendation of line 5, bar 1, is exactly identical with the German copy; in the last bar but one the low D is turned into D sharp. In the notes in the German preface the editors seem to have been much exercised over two instances in which Purcell has, with characteristic boldness, made his melody go from E sharp to A in the key of F sharp minor—i.e., from the leading note to the mediant; no very great liberty, supposing the work to be Bach's, by the way. In their text they have altered the progression, and not improved it; and they give in the notes the reading of their MS., which tallies exactly with the English authorities for Purcell's piece.—Yours faithfully,

J. A. Fuller Maitland.

MR. CORDER'S LECTURE ON BERLIOZ.

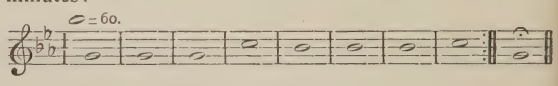
TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—Some recent remarks of mine upon Berlioz having been ill reported, thereby causing offence, I reluctantly trespass upon your space to make clear my views in the matter.

I asserted in my lecture at the Royal Institution—and I challenge disproof of the assertion—that Berlioz, though he has, in common with many second-rate composers, written isolated movements of interest and attractiveness, does not thereby claim to rank among great composers. He has written works of ambitious scope, of which the most ambitious features are invariably the least successful—the first and last movements of all his symphonies, for instance; his operas have been tried again and again, and found deadly dull; his "Enfance du Christ," in spite of two beautiful numbers, bores an audience almost as much as Liszt's "Holy Elizabeth." With a tolerably extensive knowledge of modern books dealing with the art of music, I have failed to find in any of them a single citation of Berlioz as an authority or an example of any feature in harmony or composition. This does not look as if musicians thought very highly of him. In Dr. Prout's monumental series, for instance, where quotations from the most recondite sources abound, Berlioz is absolutely ignored.

Lastly, I tried to hint that the greatness of Berlioz had been taken too much on trust, few people having really gone to the trouble of knowing and analysing his work. This seems to have given offence, which I deplore. I think it is about time we took the public verdict on the merits of Berlioz, Liszt, and Wagner, for they have all been for thirty years now "on approval," with what result everyone knows.—Faithfully yours,

F. Corder.

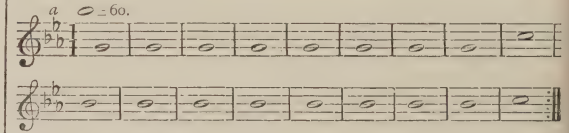


THE BELLS OF ST. MAGNUS CATHEDRAL, KIRKWALL, ORKNEY.

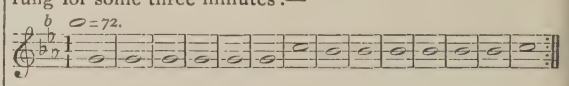
TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—A few months ago I visited the islands of Orkney and Shetland, and at Kirkwall (from the Norse words, Kirk, a church, and vogr or vaagr, a bay—the place was called Kirkiuvogr by the Norsemen) the peculiar order in which the bells are rung from the old Cathedral tower interested me so much that I made notes of the melodies I heard.

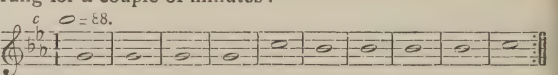
KIRKWALL CATHEDRAL BELLS.



On Sundays, at 9 o'clock a.m.; rung for some five minutes:—



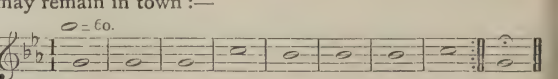
At 10.30; rung for some five minutes:—



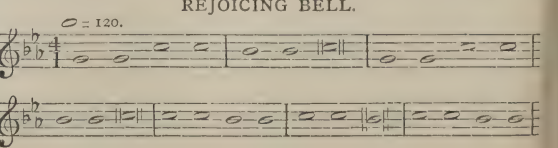
From 11 till 11.15, the following sections, a, b, c, d, e, rung for some eight minutes:—

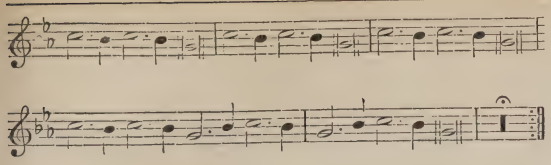
rung for some three minutes:—

rung for a couple of minutes:—



rung for about a minute:—





SKAILING BELL.

Rung immediately after morning service, if there is to be an afternoon service, so that worshippers who have come from a distance, by means of boats or other conveyances, may remain in town:—

REJOICING BELL.

The bells were given by Bishop Maxwell. They are rung by means of a short rope, one end of which is fastened to the clapper and the other to the wall; to the middle of this rope is fastened a second rope, the lower end of which is pulled by the ringer; this causes the clapper to strike the side of the bell.

The inscriptions on the bells are as follows:—

3rd bell (tenor).—"Made by master Robbert Maxvell, Bischop of Orkney, the yaer of God MDXXVIII., the year of the reign of King James the V. *Robert Borthwik made mein the castel of Edinbrugh."

"Taken et brought againe heir by Alexander Geddus, marchant in Kirkwa, and recasten at Amsterdam, Jully, 1682 years, by Claudius Fremy, city bell caster. It weighs 1,450 P."

2nd bell.—"Maid be maister robert maxvell, bischop of Orknay, in ye secund yier of his consecration in the zeir of god ImVcXXVIII. zeiris ye XV. zeir of ye reign of King James V."

1st bell (treble).—"Maid be maister robert maxvel, byschop of Orknay, ye secund zier of his consecracion ye zier of gode ImVcXXVIII. zeris ye XV. zier of Kyng James ye V. be robert borthvyk maid al thre in ye castel of Edynburgh."

The following extract from the Parish Record was supplied by the late Mr. G. Petrie to Sir Henry E. L. Dryden, Bart., who has printed it in his interesting book "A Description of the Church dedicated to S. Magnus at Kirkwall":—

"Moonday, Jany. 9th, 1671.—Quhilkday ther happned ane fearfull and sad accident in this place to the great astonishment and terrification of all the beholders, by thunder and lightning which fell upon the steeple heid of the Cathedral Kirk of Orknay, called St. Magnus Kirk of Kirkwall, and fyred the samen, which brunt downwards until the steeple heid, three loftings, and all the timber work pertaining to the bells and the Knockhouse were consumed to ashes. But by the providence of God, the bells thereof, being thre great bells and a little one called the skellat-bell, wer preserved be the care and vigilance of the Magistrats, with the help of the townes people, who were verie active in that so sudden a meschance, and animated thereto be the liberalitie of my Lord Bishop of Orknay, who was present."

William H. Stocks.

Dulwich College.

SOME NEW CHROMATIC HARMONIES.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

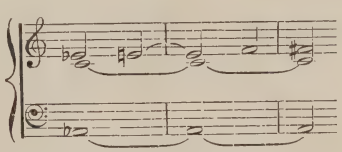
Sir,—With regard to the letter from Mr. Phillips in the correspondence on the above subject, I would point out that, strictly speaking, there is a considerable difference in an augmented sixth and a harmonic seventh. The ratio of an augmented sixth taken from A flat as the minor ninth of the dominant in C, is 17 : 30. If the A flat be taken, as Mr. Phillips suggests, as a true major third below C, the interval is very slightly nearer to the harmonic seventh, with a ratio 128 : 225. These can be compared with the harmonic seventh as follows:—

Augmented sixth (A flat minor ninth of G) (17 : 30), 2176 : 3840; augmented sixth (A flat major third below C), 2176 : 3823; harmonic seventh (4 : 7), 2176 : 3808. The ratio of the seventh (G flat) to the augmented sixth (F sharp) is therefore as 19 : 120.

This difference is, of course, very small from a practical standpoint; but that the two chords have a different effect on highly cultivated ears is shown by the following quotation from the work on "Instrumentation," by Dr. Jadassohn; he is speaking of the tendency of the imagination to correct the immobility of pitch of the pianoforte in enharmonic modulation:—

"Noch auffallender ist dies bei den alterirten Tönen, die wir allerdings die schärfsten Leittöne nennen möchten. Man betrachte die Harmonie-Verbindungen in Beispiel 39*a* und 39*b*, in denen wir Cis als alterirten Ton, Des dagegen als Septime haben—

Das nach D führende Cis des alterirten Akkordes in 39*a* wird uns höher dünken, als die nach C führende Septime Des in 39*b*." ["Still more noticeable is this in the case of the chromatic notes which one might call the sharpest leading notes. Notice the progressions in Ex. 39*a* and 39*b*, in which we have C sharp as a chromatic note (augmented sixth) and D flat, on the other hand, as a seventh. The C sharp leading to D will seem to us higher than the D flat going to C."]



Hence we must consider these chords distinct in effect as well as in treatment, though one may be converted into the other by "enharmonic change" and an—in most cases theoretical—alteration of pitch of the augmented sixth to the minor seventh.—I am, Sir, yours truly,

H. J. Wrightson.

206, Manningham Lane, Bradford,
July 14, 1896.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—I think the following passage from Mendelssohn's "Elijah" may be fairly quoted from a number of others in support of Mr. Froggatt's declaration that "augmented sixths . . . do not in the least sound like minor sevenths":—

Mr. Dunton says that "when we hear the combination of sounds that may be an 'augmented sixth,' we cannot be sure that it is not a modulating minor seventh until we hear the following chord." This is quite true of this quotation when played upon a tempered instrument such as an organ; but when it is played in true intonation (as scored) for the strings alone, it is impossible for trained ears to regard it as anything else but an augmented sixth.

Yours obediently,

George Middleton.

24, Dryden Street, Nottingham,
July 13, 1896.

An interesting service took place at Canterbury on the 18th ult., when Choral Evensong in the Welsh language was celebrated for the first time in the Cathedral. The service was held in connection with a visit of the Welsh choir and congregation for some years past connected with All Saints', Margaret Street, but who now attend Berkeley Chapel, Mayfair. The Gregorian chants of Bunnett's service in F were used. Two Welsh hymns were sung, "From above the heights of Jerusalem" and "What home on earth is there for me?" also a translation into Welsh of Sir Herbert Oakeley's hymn "Sun of my soul." No address was given, but the closing benediction was pronounced by the Dean of Canterbury (Dr. Farrar), at whose invitation the visitors subsequently inspected the Cathedral. Mr. Arthur Bly was the organist.

* Master gunner to King James.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

 Notices of Concerts, of which programmes must invariably be sent, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted.

Our correspondents will oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music is always kept in stock, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

F. Merritt.—The Secretary of the Royal Society of Musicians is Mr. Stanley Lucas, 84, New Bond Street, W.

H. E. Smart.—"Arise, ye subterranean winds," is from Purcell's "Tempest" music, and is published separately by Messrs. Chappell, price four shillings.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

Banchory.—The Parish Church Musical Association gave a meritorious rendering of Gaul's cantata "Ruth," on June 25, under the conductorship of Mr. Harper. The soloists were Miss Watson, Miss Berry, Miss M. G. Gordon, and Miss Ross. The accompaniments were effectively played by Miss Forbes Smith and Mr. R. W. Allan, the last-named presiding at the organ.

Beeston, Nottingham.—A special feature of the celebration of the Dedication Festival, at the Parish Church, was the introduction of an orchestral accompaniment to the musical portions of the service, the performers being selected from the local orchestral society. The effort reflects the greatest credit upon the organist and choirmaster, Mr. Byng Johnson; the hymns and the anthem (from Hadyn's "Creation") were sung with admirable precision and effect. Mr. Richardson presided at the organ.

Brampton.—The biennial Musical Festival of the rural deanery of Brampton was held on June 25, at St. Martin's Church. Some 150 voices took part in the celebration, and the anthem selected was Tours's "Blessing, glory, wisdom, and thanks," which was sung in a very creditable manner. Mr. Storey conducted, and Mr. F. Willey ably presided at the organ.

Bromyard.—The Herefordshire Choral Union celebrated, on the 7th ult., in the Parish Church, a Choir Festival, in which choirs from Bromyard, Pencombe, Stoke Lacey, Moreton Jeffries, Edwin Loach, and Tedstone Wafer took part. The Evening Canticles were sung to Maunder in D and the anthem was "O worship the King," by the Rev. E. Vine Hall.

Clifton.—The certificates, forty-nine in all, of the Associated Board of the Royal College and Royal Academy of Music, the Incorporated Society of Musicians, and Trinity College, London, recently won by the pupils of the Bristol and Clifton Training School of Music, were distributed by the Dean of Bristol on the 11th ult., in All Saints' Lecture Hall. The Dean, having distributed the diplomas and certificates, delivered an interesting address; and Mrs. Weaver read an attractive paper, entitled "Some poets' thoughts on music."

Dover.—The College Musical Society gave its Summer Concert, on the 16th ult., in the Ancient College Hall. Mendelssohn's "Lauda Sion," Anderton's cantata "The Norman Baron," and Eaton Faning's "Song of the Vikings" were rendered with marked precision and spirit by the youthful chorus to the accompaniment of the organ and a small but efficient orchestra. Mr. Clarke, organist, and Mr. Barclay, principal violin (assistant music-masters), rendered valuable aid, the admirable singing of the latter in the second part being much appreciated. Mr. Pearson, of Canterbury Cathedral, likewise did good service. The Rev. A. H. Stevens, director of the music, who is personally responsible for the training of the boys, conducted.

Eastbourne.—An attractive Organ Recital was given by Dr. Sangster, on the 2nd ult., at St. Saviour's Church. Two vocal solos were contributed by Mr. C. Maynard.

Exeter.—The tenth annual Festival of the Exeter Diocesan Choral Association was celebrated, on the 2nd ult., and for the third time in the Cathedral. Upwards of 900 choristers took part in the Service, which was of an impressive character. The Evening Canticles were sung to Dr. Pearce's music, the anthem was "The Glory of the Lord" (Goss), and a setting by Dr. M. J. Monk of the Te Deum was sung at the close of the Service. Mr. D. J. Wood presided at the organ with marked skill and judgment, and Mr. Roylands-Smith, who conducted, received valuable assistance from two sub-conductors in the nave, Messrs. A. E. Wilshire and R. Bareham. There was a decided improvement in the singing since the last Festival held here, and great praise is due to Mr. Roylands-Chanter, the honorary secretary of the Association, for his excellent organisation.

Froome-Selwood.—An attractive programme of organ music was played on the 1st ult., by Mrs. F. Harold, in the Parish Church.

Hanley.—On the 4th ult., at Clough Hall, a juvenile competition secured seven entries, and Mr. J. Roper, of Wolverhampton, awarded the prizes in the following order:—First, Talke Primitives; second, Hanley Northwood; third, Talke Tonic Sol-fa; fourth, Kidsgrove Wesleyan; Burslem Hill Top withdrew prior to the contest. The late Mr. Howson, prior to his death, gave a bandstand to be erected in Hanley Park, and on the 10th ult., before a large company, his son (Mr. J. T. Howson) declared it open for band and other concerts. The Royal Artillery Band (under M. Zavertal) gave the first Concert, and in the evening Mr. Garner's Prize Gleemen sang before a large audience.

Holderness.—The Choral Festival celebrated in St. Mary's Church, on June 26, reflected great credit on its promoters, and it is to be hoped that it will prove the forerunner of many like services. The anthem was "The sun shall be no more thy light by day" (Woodward), which was well sung under the direction of Dr. G. H. Smith.

Leamington Spa.—An Organ Recital was given in the Parish Church, on the 21st ult., by Mr. W. H. Bellamy, the organist and choirmaster. The programme included compositions by Bach, Mendelssohn, Sterndale Bennett, Lemmens, &c. Mr. Bellamy was assisted by Masters Ainsworth and Bradshaw; Messrs. Rowbotham, Miles, and Fellows (all members of the Parish Church choir). At an "At Home" at the Vicarage afterwards, the choirboys performed a programme of music consisting of old English songs, &c., including "Warwickshire Lads," supposed to have been written by David Garrick for a Shakespeare Festival at Stratford-on-Avon in 1769.

Oxford.—On June 26 (the day of the Encaenia) the usual Madrigalian Concert was given in the Magdalen College Hall by the Magdalen Madrigal Society, under the conductorship of Dr. Varley Roberts. A number of madrigals and part-songs were excellently rendered, and the programme was interspersed by a violin solo and a pianoforte duet, the executants being Messrs. Benecke, Kelly, and Wilson. A special feature of this annual Concert is that it is rendered entirely by members of Magdalen College.

Ross.—The annual district Festival of the Parish Church Choirs of the Hereford Archdeaconry took place on June 30, at St. Mary's Church. About 200 executants took part in the celebration, under the direction of the Rev. J. Charlesworth, choirmaster of the Choral Union, with Mr. Trottman at the organ. The anthem was "O worship the King," by the Rev. E. V. Hall.

Saddlesworth.—The Choir Festival was celebrated on June 28, at the Parish Church, under the conductorship of Mr. Herbert Whitely. The anthems were "O Lord, Thou hast searched me out," from Bennett's "Woman of Samaria," sung by Miss Holden, and Gounod's "Sing praises unto the Lord." At a special musical service in the afternoon were sung "It is enough" and "Cast thy burden," from Mendelssohn's "Elijah"; "I know that my Redeemer liveth," from Handel's "Messiah"; "God so loved the World," from Stainer's "Crucifixion"; Goss's anthem "The Wilderness," and Gounod's "Nazareth." The principal singers were Miss Marchbank, Mrs. J. Holden, Mr. R. Taylor, and Mr. J. Ridding. At the evening service, "Waft her, angels," from Handel's "Jephtha"; "Arm, arm, ye brave," from the same composer's "Judas Maccabæus"; and Sullivan's anthem "Sing, O heavens," were sung. Several effective organ pieces were also admirably played at the services.

Tenbury.—The Musical Society gave the first Concert of its twenty-sixth season on the 9th ult. The programme included a new cantata by Dr. Wareing, entitled "The Wreck of the Hesperus," the solos in which were sung by members of the Society. The cantata was warmly received by the subscribers, as also was the performance of a Symphony by Schubert. The second part of the programme comprised several songs and part-songs by Elgar, Hatton, Faning, &c. The Rev. J. Hampton conducted the choir, which was accompanied by a small band from Birmingham.

Wellington, New Zealand.—An Organ Recital was given in St. Luke's Church, Wellington, on May 24, after the usual Sunday evening Service. The programme was as follows: Offertoire in G (L. Wély), "Daybreak" (Spinney), "Cujus Animam" (Rossini), "Benediction" (Dr. J. H. Lewis), "St. Ann's" Fugue (J. S. Bach), March in A (W. A. Reid). The performer was Mr. W. A. Reid (organist of St. Luke's), who played in a thoroughly musicianlike manner.

Wigan.—The recently-established School of Music, under the presidentship of Sir F. S. Powell, member for the borough, gave its first Concert last month, at which several instrumental and vocal compositions were meritoriously rendered by pupils of the Institution, prominent amongst whom were Miss L. Betley and Miss E. Leach.

Windsor.—On June 24 (St. John the Baptist Day) the Dedication Festival of the Parish Church was marked by an excellent performance of the "Lobgesang" by the choir, which numbered over sixty voices, and was well balanced. The work was accompanied by a first class orchestra, the strings of which were supplied by local players, and the wind were from London. The organ, unfortunately, could not be used, by reason of its being very much below pitch, and its place was supplied by a pianoforte played by Dr. Ferris Tozer, of Exeter. Mr. G. W. Tozer, the organist and choirmaster of the church, conducted with great ability and care. Mr. T. Kearton, of St. George's Chapel, delivered the tenor solos in an expressive manner, and Masters Carey and Foreman, two of the choristers of the church, together with their companions in the chorus soprano work, are to be highly commended on their excellence of voice, attack, and phrasing. A most interesting address on the cantata was given by the vicar.

Organ Appointments.—Mr. C. J. Harold Shaw, Organist and Choirmaster to St. James's, Bury St. Edmunds.—Mr. Cecil A. Engelhardt, to the Abbey and St. Andrew's Church, Pershore.—Mr. S. Exton Swaffield, Organist and Choirmaster to the Parish Church, Langley, near Slough.—Mr. J. Howard Douglas, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Leonard's Free Church, Perth.—Mr. E. C. Broadhurst, Organist and Music-master to St. Michael's College, Tenbury.—Mr. H. Caledfryn Williams, to Somers Town Presbyterian Church.

HAVEN GREEN FREE CHURCH, Ealing, W.—There is a VACANCY for an ORGANIST at this Church. Salary, about £50 per annum. Applications, with copies of testimonials, may be sent to Mr. Charles Lean, Choir Secretary, 14, Grange Road, Ealing, W.

WANTED, competent TUNER, with knowledge of Harmoniums and American Organs. Apply, Goulden and Wind, Ashford, Kent.

FIRST-CLASS TUNER, with knowledge of American Organs and General Repairs, REQUIRED, for South of England. State references, age, salary, &c. Cyclist preferred. M. O., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

COWEN, FREDERIC H.—Four English Dances in the Olden Style. Arranged for the Violin and Pianoforte by Berthold Tours. 3s.

DVOŘÁK, ANTONIN—Allegretto grazioso, from the Symphony in G major (No. 4). Arrangement for Violin and Pianoforte, by S. Coleridge-Taylor. 2s.

GOUNOD, CH.—"Judex," from "Mors et Vita." Arrangement for Violin and Pianoforte, by Berthold Tours. 2s.

HOFMANN, H.—Festival March, from the Opera "Aennchen von Tharau." Arranged for Military Band, by George Miller. 7s. 6d.

HADOW, W. H.—"Sonata Form." (No. 54. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Music Primers and Educational Series. Edited by Sir John Stainer and Dr. C. Hubert H. Parry.) 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.

SPEER, W. H.—"The Jackdaw of Rheims." Legend. By Richard Barham. Set to music for chorus and small orchestra. Paper cover, 2s.

NOVELLO'S WORDS OF ANTHEMS for Harvest. Part II., Nos. 29-57. 1d.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW. No. 50. Contains the following Music in both Notations:—"O Lovely Night." Two-part Song, from "The Hours." By J. L. Roeckel. "Brightly, sweet Summer." Round, for Three Voices. By J. Stainer. "The Soft-shell Crab." Junior Unison Song. By J. W. Chadwick. Unison Sight-singing Tests. 1½d.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS.—Edited by W. G. McNaught. Published in two forms. A. Voice Parts, in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 8vo size; B. Voice Parts only in Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

		A.	B.
No. 362.	Buttercups and Daisies W. A. C. Cruickshank	1½d.	—
„ 363.	At Eventide .. .. F. A. Challinor	1d.	—
„ 386.	Sweetly o'er the meadows fair F. A. Challinor	1½d.	—
„ 431.	Jesu, Whom Thy children love H. Elliot Button	1d.	—

ADLAM, F.—(in G). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 289. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 3d.

FOSTER, MYLES B.—The Church Catechism. In Metrical Form, for singing as Hymns. By the Right Rev. Bishop Jenner and Amabel Jenner. (No. 292. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 3d.

—— "Faith, Duty, and Prayer." Being Verses on these Elementary Christian Virtues, for the use of children in school, at worship, or in the home. (No. 302. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 2d.

GOSS, SIR JOHN—(in C). Cantate Domino and Deus misereatur. (No. 304. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 6d.

MAUNDER, J. H.—(in G). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 3d.

PRENDERGAST, WILLIAM—(in C). Te Deum laudamus. 4d.

—— Three Settings of the Benedicite, omnia Opera, in Chant Form. 4d.

WELCH, H. T.—Te Deum laudamus. Set to Original Chants. 2d.

STEANE, BRUCE—(in F). Benedictus. (No. 297. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 3d.

WELCH, H. T.—Prayer. On card. 1d.

PARTRIDGE, F. W.—A Quiet Hymn for Harvest-tide. 1d.

ADLAM, FRANK—"Unto us a Child is born." Anthem. For Christmas and Epiphanytide. (No. 555. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

CRESER, WILLIAM—"Source of all light and life Divine." Choral. 3d.

CRUICKSHANK, W. A. C.—"O sing unto the Lord." Anthem. Suitable for Harvest and general use. (No. 551. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

ELVEY, GEORGE J.—"They that go down to the sea." (No. 546. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 6d.

—— "Teach me, O Lord." Anthem. For Sexagesima or general use. (No. 540. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

ELVEY, MARY—"Grant, we beseech Thee." Anthem for S.A.T.B. (No. 550. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 2d.

HANNAM, WILLIAM S.—"The foe behind." An Easter Anthem. 4d.

—— "If far beyond the shadow and the sleep." 4d.

HERVEY, F. A. J.—"Make melody within your hearts." Harvest Carol. (No. 305. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 2d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

MAUNDER, J. H.—"Blessed be the Name of the Lord." Anthem. For Harvest, Septuagesima, and for Festival and general use. 3d. Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

MOODY, CH. H.—"Grant us Thy peace." Anthem. For Men's Voices. 4d.

SPOONER-LILLINGSTON, Rev. S. E. L.—"Hail! True body." Anthem. For Tenor Solo and Chorus. 2d.

STEANE, BRUCE.—"Joy in Harvest." Anthem for Harvest. The words arranged by the Rev. Eustace H. Crate. (No. 548. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

WOODWARD, H. H.—"The day Thou gavest." An Anthem for Evensong. (No. 552. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

CLARKE, HAMILTON—"Street Music." Humorous Four-part Song. For Men's Voices. The words written by H. Devey Browne. (No. 296. The Orpheus.) 4d.

DVOŘÁK, ANTONIN.—"Now all gives way together" ("St. Ludmila"). (No. 773. Novello's Octavo Choruses.) 4d.

PEIRS, EDWARD (1600)—"A Hunting Song." Four-part Song for Men's Voices. T.T.B.B. Edited by J. F. Bridge. (No. 300. The Orpheus.) 3d.

OTTO, ARTHUR H.—"Wishes." Song. The words written by E. W. 2s.

PUGH-EVANS, D.—"Lead, kindly Light" (No. 2, in G). Sacred Song. For Soprano or Tenor. The words written by Cardinal Newman. 2s.

STUART, W. V.—"The night storm" ("I cannot sleep to-night"). Song. For Soprano. 2s.

TOURS, BERTHOLD—"The Bells of Lee." Song. For Soprano or Tenor. The words written by Shapcott Wensley. 2s.

MAUNDER, J. H.—"Voix Séraphique." Composed for the Mustel Organ (with Celeste), and adapted for the Church Organ. 2s.

NOVELLO'S ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS for the ORGAN:—

			s.	d.
No. 247.	Six Fugues on the name "B A C H." Book I.	Schumann	2	0
„ 248.	Ditto ditto. Book II.	Schumann	2	0
„ 249.	Festal March	G. J. Elvey	1	6

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS in the TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Edited by W. G. McNaught.

No. 924.	Evening	A. Sullivan	1d.
„ 925.	Let us now fear the Lord our God	John E. West	1½d.
„ 926.	Sing to the Lord	Joseph Barnby	2d.
„ 927.	O Lamb of God	Joseph Barnby	1½d.
„ 929.	Queen of our Isle	H. R. Bishop	1½d.
„ 930.	Thou visitest the earth	J. W. Elliott	1½d.
„ 931.	Sing we merrily	F. A. W. Docker	2d.
„ 932.	Joy in Harvest	Bruce Steane	1½d.
„ 933.	The eyes of all wait on Thee	G. J. Elvey	1½d.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in proper position Advertisements should reach the Office NOT LATER THAN THE TWENTIETH of each Month.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEM.

Full, Easy, Effective.

THE LORD HATH BLEST US WITH INCREASE

By H. ERNEST NICHOL, Mus. Bac., Oxon.

Price Threepence.

Specimen copy, gratis and post-free, to any Choirmaster, on application to H. E. Nichol, 19, Louis Street, Hull.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Joseph Alfred Novello	513
From my Study (with Fac-similes)	515
Indian Music	519
Opera under Sir Augustus Harris	521
Music and Culture	523
Occasional Notes	523
Facts, Rumours, and Remarks	526
Royal Opera, Covent Garden	528
The Bayreuth Festival	528
"Elijah" at the Crystal Palace	529
Royal Academy of Music	530
Royal College of Music	530
The Associated Board	531
Banquet to Mr. W. H. Cummings	532
Mr. Henschel's Loewe Concert	532
The Kneisel String Quartet	532
Tonic Sol-fa Festival at the Crystal Palace	532
Choir Festival in York Minster	533
The Octo-Centenary of Norwich Cathedral	533
A Musical Festival in Madrid	534
The New Pianoforte Resonator	535
Concerning Church Music in the United States	535
General News (London)	536
Reviews	549
Foreign Notes	551
Music in Liverpool	554
„ Manchester	554
„ Paris	554
Four-part Song—"A wet sheet and a flowing sea."—Henry Randell Evans	537
Easy Anthem for Harvest—"The eyes of all wait on Thee."—George J. Elvey (Extra Supplement).
Obituary	554
Correspondence	556
Answers to Correspondents	558
Brief Summary of Country News	558
List of Music published during the last Month	559

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

Published on the 1st of every Month. Price 1½d. Annual Subscription, including Postage, 2s.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW for AUGUST contains:—

General Notes.

Voice Production for School Teachers.

Choral Competitions at the Agricultural Hall.

Dublin School Music Competitions.

School Singing at the Cape of Good Hope.

Reports of the English Education Department on School Singing.

Report on Music in Scotch Training Colleges for 1895.

Graduated Exercises for School Classes.—Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa.

London School Board Music Superintendent's Report.

London School Board Concert at the Crystal Palace.

Tonic Sol-fa Festival at the Crystal Palace—Juvenile Concert.

The Great Welsh National Eisteddfod.

Singing in the School.

Singing in Country Schools.

Miscellaneous.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

For AUGUST

CONTAINS THE FOLLOWING MUSIC IN BOTH NOTATIONS:—

"Evening." Two-part Song. By John Hullah.

"Fairest Isle." Unison Song. By Purcell.

"The Lark's Song." Four-part Round or Canon. By Mendelssohn.

Studies in Six-Pulse Measure.

Melodious Exercises in Time and Tune.

Also, a Special Music Supplement, containing a Unison Song, "My bed is a boat." By R. Houston Macdonald (No. 383, Novello's School Songs, price 1d.).

The Music and Exercises can always be obtained separately. Price 1½d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

AN Old-established PIANOFORTE and MUSIC BUSINESS for DISPOSAL. Good hiring and tuning connection, situated in North-West London. Price £750. Further particulars, D. H., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

THE

BRISTOL TUNE BOOK

Complete Edition, 1891,

CONTAINING

905 TUNES AND CHANTS.

A COMPANION TO ALL HYMN BOOKS.

		s.	d.
No. 17.	Limp Cloth	5	0
„ 18.	Cloth Boards, red edges	6	0
„ 19.	Small Edition	3	6
„ 20.	Tonic Sol-fa	3	6

Communications and enquiries as to copyright, and also as to supplying at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Bristol Publishers.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.
Bristol: W. and F. Morgan, Clare Street.
And all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

TO BE PUBLISHED EARLY IN OCTOBER.

THE

CHILDREN'S SUPPLEMENT

BEING A

COLLECTION OF HYMNS WITH TUNES

FOR

CHILDREN'S SERVICES

EDITED BY

THE REV. EDWARD HANDLEY, M.A.

Besides New Hymns by eminent writers many old favourites, not found in the Hymnals most in use, will be included.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

PRACTICAL HINTS ON BOY CHOIR TRAINING

By G. EDWARD STUBBS, M.A.,

Organist & Choirmaster of St. Agnes' Chapel, Trinity Parish, New York.

A treatise on the vocal training of Chorister Boys, embodying the views of standard writers on the voice.

Strictly scientific, the book deals with the subject in a plain and practical way, and will be found of great value to all intrusted with the training of boys' voices. Endorsed by the leading Choirmasters of England and America. Price 3s. 6d. net.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Dedicated to His Grace the Duke of Newcastle.

A VADE MECUM for CHURCH CHOIRS, comprising the whole of the Offices of the Book of Common Prayer, set to the Ancient Plain Song according to authentic use, with an Appendix. Edited by G. J. Tredaway, Organist to the Duke of Newcastle. Price One Shilling.

MERBECKE'S HOLY COMMUNION OFFICE (complete), reprinted from the "Vade Mecum" for the use of Choirs and Congregations. Price Threepence; or, 17s. 6d. per 100.

London: Office of the "Organist and Choirmaster," 139, Oxford Street, W.

COMPOSITIONS by the Rev. W. T. Southward, M.A., Mus.B., Fellow and Tutor of S. Cath. Coll., Camb.

1. MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in B flat. (Easy Festival Setting.) Price 4d.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.
2. THE GOOD SHEPHERD. Sacred Song for Contralto or Baritone. Price 2s. Weekes and Co.
3. FLOWER SERVICE HYMN. Words by the Very Rev. the Dean of Ely. Price 1d.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Fifth Edition.

THE Sacred Cantata "JONAH." 21 Nos. By Dr. Varley Roberts. Vocal score, 2s. (Reduced Price); Chorus Parts, 8d. each; Tonic Sol-fa (Choruses only), 1s.; Full Orchestral Parts: Strings, 6s.; Soft Wind, 6s.; Brass, &c., 4s. 6d.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

HARVEST CAROLS.—"Father, blessing every seedtime." By F. Peskett. "Seedtime and Harvest" (H. Townsend). "Gracious Lord, we give Thee thanks" (H. Townsend). Words and music, 2d. each; words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEMS, &c.

By CALEB SIMPER.

Interesting, attractive, popular, easy, melodious, and effective.

*His works of love. New. 4th 1,000. Band Parts issued .. 4d.
*The eyes of all wait upon Thee. New. 4th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
*His Name is excellent. 5th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
The above are three New Harvest Anthems, all extremely interesting and melodious.
*The earth is full of Thy riches. New. 8th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Brilliant Choruses and effective Solos.
*Thou openest Thine hand. 13th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Very attractive and pleasing. Contains vigorous Choruses, with Solos for Bass and Soprano (or Tenor). Band Parts issued.
*Praise thy God, O Zion. 8th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
Easy, varied, short, melodious, and pretty.
*He watereth the hills. 18th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
An exceedingly favourite Anthem. Band Parts issued.
*While the earth remaineth. 11th 1,000.. .. .. .. 3d.
*All Thy works praise Thee. 13th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
*Let us thank the Lord. 8th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
*I will feed My flock. 38th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Sung at a Choral Festival at Woodstock.
*What shall I render. 9th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Sung at a Choral Festival at Llandrindod Wells.
The earth is the Lord's. 11th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
*Fear not, O Land. 33rd 1,000 .. .. 3d.
*Praise the Lord, O my soul. 27th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
Sung at several Choral Festivals.
*The Lord is loving. 16th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Make a joyful noise. 28th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
Sung at several Choral Festivals.
*O Lord, how manifold. 17th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
They that sow in tears. 20th Edition .. .. 3d.
*And God said, let the earth. 73rd Edition .. .. .. 3d.
Te Deum in G. 13th Edit. 4d. Te Deum in F. 31st Edit.. 3d.
New Festal Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in B flat .. 4d.
Celebrated Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F. 69th Edit. 4d.
Sung at fourteen Choral Festivals.
Favourite Magnificat and Nunc dim., in E flat. 25th Edit. 4d.
Sung at two Choral Festivals.
New Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G. 10th Edition .. 4d.
Easy Holy Communion Service in E flat. 13th 1,000 .. 4d.
*Easy Holy Communion Service in G. New. 4th 1,000 .. 4d.
Easy Holy Communion Service in F. 9th Edition .. .. 6d.
Each Service is complete, with Agnus Dei and Benedictus.
Festal Te Deum in A flat (Chants). 7th 1,000 .. .. .. 2d.
*Trust in Him always. New. 4th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
*They shall mount up with wings as eagles. 11th 1,000.. 4d.
"Full, free, extremely pleasing, and effective. It is just the kind of music choirs revel in."—West Cumberland Times.
New Te Deum in E flat (Service). 6th Edition .. .. 3d.
New Jubilate in E flat (Service). 4th Edition .. .. .. 3d.
Favourite Flower Service. Music, 2d. Words, 3s 6d. per 100. 31st 1,000. Containing six pretty Hymns.
*Anniversary Selection. Music, 2d. Words, 3s. 6d. per 100. 20th 1,000. Contains seven pretty Hymns.
New No. 3 Flower Service. Music, 2d. Words, 3s. 6d. per 100.

NEW HARVEST CAROLS.

Price 1d. each. Nos. 7 to 12 are just published.

1. Come, ye thankful.
2. We thank Thee.
3. Wheat and barley.
4. Seedtime and harvest.
5. Glad Harvest-tide.
6. Hail! harvest's King.
7. Joyful praise is ringing.
8. His mercies still endure.
9. Harvest thanksgiving.
10. Golden sheaves.
11. His faithful promise.
12. Give thanks and sing.

Those marked (*) are also published in Tonic Sol-fa.

London: Weekes and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.
Chicago, U.S.A.: Clayton F. Summy, 220, Wabash Avenue.

EDWYN A. CLARE'S

NEW HARVEST ANTHEMS, &c.

These compositions are very effective and not difficult.

HOW GREAT IS HIS GOODNESS. 5th 1,000. New .. 3d.
For Parish Choirs, easy and effective.
Fear not, O Land. 4th 1,000. New and pretty .. .. .. 3d.
*Thou crownest the year. 6th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
Sing unto God with thanksgiving. 10th 1,000.. .. .. 4d.
Varied, effective, and pleasing for the Choir.
*The eyes of all wait upon Thee. 24th 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.
Sung by 1,500 voices at Newcastle-on-Tyne.
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem. 16th 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.
Sung by 400 voices at Doncaster.
O Lord, how manifold are Thy works. 4th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
*The Lord reigneth. 5th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D. 8th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Sung at a Festival at Petersham, New South Wales.
Those marked (*) are also published in Tonic Sol-fa.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

POPULAR HARVEST ANTHEMS

BY

E. A. SYDENHAM.

FULL, EASY, EFFECTIVE.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.

O GIVE THANKS.
SING UNTO THE LORD.
GREAT IS THE LORD.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HARVEST ANTHEMS.

O CLAP YOUR HANDS

FOR FOUR VOICES

With Solo for Treble or Tenor.

Price Fourpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.

ALSO,

BLESSED BE THOU

FOR FOUR VOICES

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

HARVEST HYMNS.

COME, YE THANKFUL

AND

SING TO THE LORD

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D.

One Penny each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ALBERT LOWE'S HARVEST ANTHEM

THE EARTH IS THE LORD'S

Price Threepence.

Short, easy, full, and effective.
Composed expressly for Parish Choirs.

BY THE SAME COMPOSER.

HARVEST CAROL

HOLY IS THE SEED-TIME

Composed expressly for Harvest Festivals.

Price Twopence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO'S

WORDS OF ANTHEMS

FOR

HARVEST

PART I., Nos. 1-28.

PART II., Nos. 29-57.

Price One Penny each part.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

How excellent is Thy loving-kindness

ANTHEM FOR HARVEST

FOR TENOR SOLO AND CHORUS

FROM THE ORATORIO

"RUTH"

COMPOSED BY

F. H. COWEN.

Price Sixpence

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HARVEST MUSIC

BY

J. H. MAUNDER

IN USE IN ALL PARTS OF THE UNITED KINGDOM AND THE COLONIES.

	Staff.	Tonic Sol-fa.
ANTHEMS.
While the earth remaineth	3d.	2d.
Sing to the Lord of Harvest	3d.	2d.
Sing unto the Lord (abridged edition). Difficult	3d.
Blessed be the name of the Lord. (Just published)	3d.	2d.
SERVICES, &c.
Te Deum in Chant Form	3d.	2d.
Te Deum in B flat	3d.	2d.
Communion Service in G	8d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C	3d.	1½d.
" " in D	3d.
" " in G. (Just published)	3d.

ORGAN.

Voix Seraphique. (Just published.) For Organ Recitals, &c., 2s.

Specimens of Anthems and Services from the COMPOSER, San Remo, Bromley, Kent.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S WORKS.

VOCAL SCORE, OLD NOTATION. 31ST TO 35TH THOUSAND.

RUTH

A HARVEST CANTATA

WORDS BY

EDWARD OXENFORD.

"'Ruth' has been set to music by several composers; none, however, has become so worthily popular as the Cantata under notice. . . . It contains some charming music, and is highly characteristic of the story it so vividly illustrates."—South Wilts Express.

PERFORMED IN THE TOWN HALL, BIRMINGHAM, ON TWELVE OCCASIONS.

Vocal Score, paper cover, 2s.; ditto, paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 4s.

The Choruses (only) in Vocal Score, for Musical Societies, paper cover, 1s. Words, 5s. per 100.

Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 9d. Band Parts on loan.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW CANTATAS BY GEO. SHINN,

MUS. BAC., CANTAB.

OPERATIC CANTATA FOR SCHOOLS.

THE QUEEN OF MERRY MAY

A CHORAL SCENE REPRESENTING THE CROWNING OF THE MAY QUEEN

Containing Solos, Duets, and Choruses (in two parts only).
Can be performed with or without action and special dresses.
Staff Notation, 1s.; Sol-fa, 6d.
Every Teacher of School Singing should get a copy of this work.

HARVEST THANKSGIVING CANTATA

FOR SOLO VOICES (S.A.T.B.), CHOIR, AND CONGREGATION.
First performed at the Crystal Palace, June 19, 1895.
Paper covers, 1s.; paper boards, 1s. 6d.; Sol-fa, 6d.
Orchestral Parts published.

London: HART and Co., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.

Suitable for Choir Festivals.

PRAISE THE LORD

ANTHEM

Composed, by request, for the Annual Festival in aid of the Burnley Victoria Hospital, 1896

BY

W. A. C. CRUICKSHANK,

Mus. Bac., Oxon.

Price Fourpence.
Full Score and Band Parts may be hired from the COMPOSER.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO'S HARVEST ANTHEMS

JUST PUBLISHED.

SING TO THE LORD

COMPOSED BY

JOSEPH BARNBY.

(Novello's Octavo Anthems, No. 542.) Price 4d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

LET US NOW FEAR THE LORD OUR GOD

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

(Musical Times, No. 641.)

Price Three-Halfpence. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THOU VISITEST THE EARTH

COMPOSED BY

J. W. ELLIOTT.

(Novello's Octavo Anthems, No. 549.)

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

JOY IN HARVEST

COMPOSED BY

BRUCE STEANE.

(Novello's Octavo Anthems, No. 548.)

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THE EYES OF ALL WAIT ON THEE

COMPOSED BY

GEORGE J. ELVEY.

(Novello's Octavo Anthems, No. 547.)

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

O SING UNTO THE LORD

COMPOSED BY

W. A. C. CRUICKSHANK.

(Novello's Octavo Anthems, No. 551.)

Price Fourpence.

SING WE MERRILY

COMPOSED BY

F. A. W. DOCKER.

(Novello's Octavo Anthems, No. 532.)

Price Fourpence. Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.

COMPLETE LIST.

*Achieved is the glorious work	Haydn	1½d.
All Thy works praise Thee	J. Barnby	4d.
All Thy works praise Thee	J. Kent	4d.
All Thy works praise Thee	E. H. Thorne	3d.
*All Thy works shall praise Thee	George H. Ely	4d.
Bless thou the Lord	Oliver King	3d.
*Blessed be the name of the Lord	H. Gadsby	1½d.
Blessed be Thou, Lord God	J. Kent	4d.
*Break forth into joy	Oliver King	1½d.
Bring unto the Lord, O ye mighty	F. E. Gladstone	3d.
*Fear not, O land, be glad and rejoice	J. Goss	6d.
*Fear not, O land	C. H. Lloyd	1½d.
*Fear not, O land	C. W. Jordan	6d.
Give thanks unto God	Spohr	4d.
*God said, Behold I have given you every herb	G. A. Macfarren	4d.
*Great is the Lord	Bruce Steane	3d.
*Great and marvellous are Thy works	J. F. Bridge	4d.
He in tears that soweth	F. Hiller	1½d.
*Honour the Lord with thy substance	J. Stainer	4d.
How excellent is Thy loving-kindness	F. H. Cowen	6d.
*I will alway give thanks	J. Baptiste Calkin	1½d.
I will extol Thee	C. M. Hudson	4d.
*I will feed My flock	J. F. Bridge	1½d.
I will give thanks unto Thee	E. J. Hopkins	6d.
*I will give thanks unto Thee	J. Barnby	4d.
I will greatly rejoice in the Lord	W. A. C. Cruickshank	4d.
*I will magnify Thee	J. B. Calkin	4d.
I will magnify Thee	J. Shaw	3d.
*I will magnify Thee	J. Goss	3d.
I will magnify Thee	Oliver King	4d.
*I will open rivers in high places	Edgar Pettman	3d.
I will sing a new song	P. Armes	8d.
*Joy in Harvest	Bruce Steane	3d.
*Let us now fear the Lord our God	John E. West	1½d.
*Lo! summer comes again	J. Stainer	6d.
*Lord of the Harvest	J. Barnby	4d.
Lord of the rich and golden grain (Harvest Hymn)	F. Tozer	2d.
Man goeth forth	Arthur Carnall	3d.
*My mouth shall speak the praise	J. E. West	4d.
*O come let us sing to the Lord	B. Tours	1½d.
*O give thanks	Bruce Steane	3d.
O give thanks	W. Tucker	1½d.
*O God, who is like unto Thee	Myles B. Foster	1½d.
*O how plentiful is Thy goodness	T. M. Pattison	3d.
*O Lord, how manifold are Thy works	J. Barnby	1½d.
*O Lord, how manifold are Thy works	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
O praise God in His holiness	Hugh Blair	1½d.
*O praise God in His holiness	J. Weldon	1½d.
O praise the Lord	Mozart	1½d.
O praise the Lord	W. G. Wood	4d.
*O praise the Lord, all ye heathen	Earl of Wilton	1½d.
*O praise the Lord of Heaven	J. Goss	6d.
O pray for the peace of Jerusalem	Dr. B. Rogers	1½d.
O sing unto the Lord	W. A. C. Cruickshank	4d.
O sing unto the Lord	T. Palmer	4d.
*O taste and see	J. Goss	3d.
*O taste and see	A. S. Sullivan	1½d.
Our God is Lord of the harvest	Emma Mundella	3d.
O worship the King	E. V. Hall	4d.
*Praise, my soul, the King of Heaven	E. V. Hall	3d.
*Praise, O praise our God and King	E. V. Hall	1½d.
*Praise the Lord	G. J. Elvey	4d.
Praise the Lord	Julius Benedict	8d.
*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	W. H. Bliss	3d.
*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	E. V. Hall	4d.
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	W. Hayes	4d.
*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	J. Scott	1½d.
*Praise the Lord, O my soul	H. Lahee	1½d.
Praise the Lord, O my soul	T. P. Royle	3d.
Praise the Lord, O my soul	J. W. Elliott	3d.
*Praise ye the Lord for His goodness	G. Garrett	1½d.
Praised be the Lord	C. Steggall	1/-
Praised be the Lord daily	T. Ebdon	1½d.
*Rejoice in the Lord	B. Tours	1½d.
Rejoice, O ye righteous	J. Rheinberger	3d.
*Sing praises to God	H. W. Wareing	1½d.
*Sing to the Lord	J. Barnby	4d.
*Sing we merrily	F. A. W. Docker	4d.
Sing we merrily	E. V. Hall	4d.
The earth is the Lord's	T. T. Trimnell	4d.
*The eyes of all wait on Thee	George J. Elvey	3d.
The eyes of all wait upon Thee	Thomas Adams	3d.
*The eyes of all wait upon Thee	A. R. Gaul	1½d.
The eyes of all wait upon Thee	O. Gibbons	4d.
The fostering earth, the genial showers	J. L. Hopkins	3d.
*The harvest-tide thanksgiving (Words, 1/6 per 100)	J. Barnby	1½d.
The Lord hath been mindful of us	E. T. Chipp	3d.
*The Lord hath been mindful of us	S. S. Wesley	3d.
*The Lord hath done great things	H. Smart	4d.
*The Lord is loving unto every man	G. Garrett	3d.
The Lord is loving unto every man	A. W. Batson	3d.
Thou art worthy, O Lord	F. E. Gladstone	4d.
*Thou crownest the year with Thy goodness	Josiah Booth	1½d.
Thou, O God, art praised in Zion	E. V. Hall	3d.
*Thou visitest the earth	J. Barnby	4d.
Thou visitest the earth	J. Baptiste Calkin	4d.
*Thou visitest the earth	W. H. Callcott	2d.
*Thou visitest the earth	J. W. Elliott	3d.
*Thou visitest the earth	M. Greene	1½d.
To Thee, O Lord	C. L. Williams	3d.
While the earth remaineth	C. Swinnerton Heap	4d.
*While the earth remaineth	B. Tours	1½d.
While the earth remaineth	C. Lee Williams	3d.
*Ye shall dwell in the land (Trio, S.S.A.)	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Ye shall dwell in the land. S.A.T.B.	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Ye shall go out with joy	J. Barnby	4d.

 Also published in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 4d. each.*

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

HARVEST CANTATAS, HYMNS, &c.

HARVEST SONG OF PRAISE
By C. LEE WILLIAMS.
For Soprano and Contralto Soli and Chorus.
Price One Shilling and Sixpence; Words, 5s. per 100.
Orchestral Parts can be hired.

SEED-TIME AND HARVEST
By JOHN E. WEST.
For Soprano and Tenor Soli and Chorus.
Price 2s.; Words, 5s. per 100, or 2d. each with Music to the Hymns.
Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.

HARVEST CANTATA
By GEORGE GARRETT.
For Chorus, Semi-Chorus, and Organ.
Price 1s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 6d.; Words, 5s. per 100, or 2d. each with Music to the Hymns. Orchestral Parts may be hired.

HARVEST-TIDE
By HUGH BLAIR.
For Tenor and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Organ or Small Orchestra.
Price One Shilling.

THE JUBILEE CANTATA
By C. M. VON WEBER.
Vocal Score, 1s.; Full Score, 21s.; Orchestral Parts, 15s.; Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

THE GLEANERS' HARVEST
By C. H. LLOYD.
Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

TWELVE HYMNS FOR HARVEST
Selected from The Hymnary.
Price One Penny.

SOWING AND REAPING
Harvest Carol by J. MAUDE CRAMENT.
Price 2d.; Words only, 1s. per 100.

CHORUS AND DANCES OF REAPERS AND GLEANERS
By F. H. COWEN.
From the Oratorio "Ruth."
Price Eightpence.

THE LAST LOAD
Four-part Song by J. HAMILTON CLARKE.
Price Threepence.

THE HARVEST FEAST
Four-part Song by A. R. GAUL.
Price 3d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.

THE HARVEST DANCE
Two-part Song by MYLES B. FOSTER.
Price Three-Halfpence.

HARVEST THANKSGIVING MARCH
By J. B. CALKIN.
For the Organ.
Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE SOWER WENT FORTH SOWING
Hymn for Harvest by J. BARNBY.
Price Three-Halfpence.

MAKE MELODY WITHIN YOUR HEARTS
Harvest Carol by F. A. J. HERVEY.
Price Twopence.

HE THAT SOWETH
Offertory Sentence (with Processional Hymn)
By C. WARWICK JORDAN.
Price Threepence.

Demy 8vo, Price 6d.

A

HARVEST FESTIVAL BOOK

CONTAINING

TALLIS'S PRECES AND RESPONSES
THE CANTICLES AND SPECIAL PSALMS

POINTED FOR CHANTING

AND SET TO NEW AND APPROPRIATE CHANTS BY

SIR J. BARNBY, MYLES B. FOSTER, SIR A. C. MACKENZIE, SIR J. STAINER, and others.

TOGETHER WITH

FOUR NEW HYMN TUNES

COMPOSED EXPRESSLY BY

SIR J. BARNBY, SIR J. STAINER, and J. E. WEST.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

FOR HARVEST AND OTHER FESTIVALS.

SETTINGS

OF THE

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis

WITH

ACCOMPANIMENTS FOR ORGAN

AND ORCHESTRA.

	s.	d.
Alsop, J. R. In E	0	4
Barnby, J. In E flat ..	0	8
Bennett, G. J. In A ..	0	6
Bennett, G. J. In B flat (Magnificat only)	0	4
Bridge, J. C. In C	0	6
Bridge, J. F. In G	0	6
Calkin, J. Baptiste. In G ..	0	6
Colborne, Langdon. In B flat (String Parts, 3s.; Wind Parts, 2s.)	1	0
Faning, Eaton. In C ..	0	6
Foster, M. B. In A	0	6
Garrett, G. M. In F ..	0	6
Gadsby, Henry. In C ..	0	6
Lloyd, C. H. In F	0	6
Mann, A. H. In E	1	0
Martin, George C. In C ..	0	6
Martin, George C. In G ..	0	6
Martin, George C. In A ..	0	6
Martin, George C. In B flat	0	6
Smart, Henry. In B flat ..	0	6
Stainer, J. In A	0	6
Stainer, J. In B flat ..	0	6
Stanford, C. Villiers. In A	0	6
Steggall, C. In C	0	6
Tours, Berthold. In F (String Parts, 2s.; Wind Parts, 4s. 6d.)	0	4
Tours, Berthold. In D ..	0	6
Williams, C. L. In C ..	0	6
Williams, C. L. In F major	0	4

The above may also be performed either with Strings and Organ Accompaniment or with Organ only, when necessary.

FESTIVAL SETTINGS

OF THE

CANTATE AND DEUS

WITH ACCOMPANIMENTS FOR ORGAN & ORCHESTRA.

	s.	d.
Attwood, T. In D .. .. Folio	3	0
Vocal Parts	2	6
Steggall, C. In C 8vo	0	6

Where no prices of Orchestral Parts are given they are in MS., and can only be had on hire.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE SECOND ADVENT

SACRED CANTATA

SOLOS FOR TENOR AND BASS, EASY CHORUSES,

AND

FOUR WELL-KNOWN HYMNS FOR THE CONGREGATION.

PART I.—THE CRY OF THE CHURCH.

PART II.—THE SIGNS. PART III.—THE ADVENT.

PART IV.—THE TRIUMPH OF THE CHURCH.

These four parts may (if preferred) be sung separately as Anthems on the four Sundays in Advent.

The Words selected from Holy Scripture by the Rev. C. T. MAYO.

THE MUSIC (EXCEPT THE HYMN TUNES) COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR H. D. PRENDERGAST.

Vocal Score, with Organ Accompaniment, 1s. 6d.
Words only (with Hymn Tunes), 1½d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

(Novello's Parish Choir Book, No. 281.)

TWO FLOWER SERVICE HYMNS

1. "HE DWELLS AMONG THE LILIES."
2. "FOR THE FRESHNESS OF THE MORNING."

BY THE

REV. W. ST. HILL BOURNE

FROM

THIRTY-ONE ORIGINAL TUNES TO POPULAR HYMNS.

COMPOSED BY

LADY EUAN-SMITH.

Price Twopence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

POSTHUMOUS WORKS

OF

JOSEPH BARNBY.

SING TO THE LORD

ANTHEM FOR HARVEST-TIDE

Price Fourpence.

Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.

O LAMB OF GOD

ANTHEM FOR BASS SOLO AND CHORUS

Price Threepence.

Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THE KISS

PART-SONG FOR FOUR VOICES (A.T.T.B.)

Words, circa 1599.

Price Threepence.

IN LAUDEM AMORIS

("O love! they wrong thee much")

PART-SONG FOR FOUR VOICES (A.T.T.B.)

The words from Captain Hume's "First Book of Airs, 1605."

Price Threepence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ANTHEMS FOR TRINITYTIDE.

Almighty and everlasting God .. .. Gibbons	1½d.
Ascribe unto the Lord .. .. .. S. S. Wesley	8d.
Beloved, if God so loved us .. .. J. Barnby	1½d.
Beloved, let us love one another .. .. .. Gerard F. Cobb	1½d.
*Blessed is the man .. .. John Goss	4d.
Blessing and glory .. .. Boyce	1½d.
Blessing, glory .. .. Bach	6d.
*God came from Teman .. .. C. Steggall	4d.
*God so loved the world .. .. .. Matthew Kingston	1½d.
Grant, O Lord .. .. Mozart	1½d.
*Holy, holy, holy .. .. Crotch	3d.
How goodly are Thy tents .. .. F. Ouseley	1½d.
How lovely are Thy dwellings .. .. Spohr	1½d.
I am Alpha and Omega .. .. J. Stainer	1½d.
I am Alpha and Omega .. .. .. J. Varley Roberts	3d.
I beheld, and lo! .. .. Blow	6d.
I know that the Lord is great .. .. F. Ouseley	1d.
*In humble faith .. .. G. Garrett	1d.
*In Jewry is God known .. .. .. J. Clarke-Whitfeld	1½d.
In sweet consent .. .. E. H. Thorne	3½d.
In the fear of the Lord .. .. J. V. Roberts	3½d.
I saw the Lord .. .. J. Stainer	6d.
I will magnify .. .. J. Shaw	3d.
*I will sing of Thy power .. .. Greene	4d.
I will sing of Thy power .. .. A. Sullivan	1½d.
I will sing unto the Lord .. .. H. Wareing	3d.
Let the peace of God .. .. J. Stainer	4d.
*Lord, we pray Thee .. .. J. V. Roberts	1½d.
O Father blest .. .. J. Barnby	3d.
O Lord, my trust .. .. King Hall	1½d.
*O taste and see .. .. J. Goss	3d.
*O taste and see .. .. A. Sullivan	1½d.
O taste and see .. .. A. H. Mann	3d.
O where shall wisdom be found? .. .. Boyce	6d.
Ponder my words, O Lord .. .. .. Arnold D. Culley	1½d.
*Praise His awful Name .. .. Spohr	2d.
Rejoice in the Lord .. .. G. C. Martin	6d.
*See what love hath the Father .. .. .. Mendelssohn	1d.
Sing to the Lord .. .. Mendelssohn	8d.
*Stand up and bless .. .. J. Goss	4d.
Teach me Thy way .. .. W. H. Gladstone	1½d.
*The Lord hath been mindful .. .. .. S. S. Wesley	3d.
*The Lord is my Shepherd .. .. G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
The Lord is my Shepherd .. .. J. Shaw	3d.
The Lord will comfort Zion .. .. H. Hiles	6d.
Thou shalt shew me the path of life .. .. .. Alan Gray	1½d.
Whatsoever is born of God .. .. .. H. Oakeley	3d.
Who can comprehend Thee .. .. Mozart	3d.

 Anthems marked thus () may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 2d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO'S COLLECTION
OF WORDS
OF ANTHEMS.

PRICE 4s. 6d.

This is an entirely new and greatly enlarged edition of the Collection originally compiled by the Rev. W. Rayson, M.A., Sir John Stainer, M.A., Mus. Doc., and the Rev. J. Troutbeck, D.D.

This Book, which contains the Words of over 1,500 Anthems, besides being admirably adapted for the use of Choirs and Congregations, for which purpose it was originally compiled, will be found most valuable to Organists, Choirmasters, and the Clergy AS A BOOK OF REFERENCE FOR THE SELECTION OF ANTHEMS SUITABLE FOR SPECIAL DAYS, SEASONS, OR OCCASIONS. It also contains a list of Anthems suitable for Men's Voices, and Anthems with Latin words.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC
BY EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

SERVICES.

Two Settings of the Venite (in Chant Form). No. 1 (in G), No. 2 (in A)	2d.
Te Deum in E	3d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E	3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E	3d.
Cantate and Deus in E	3d.
Communion Service	9d.
Preces and Responses	4d.

Tonic Sol-fa.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F	1½d.
" " " A	1½d.
" " " E	1½d.

ANTHEMS.

The Lord hath prepared. Four Voices	3d.
The Lord is my Shepherd " "	3d.
I was glad. Four Voices	3d.
" Tonic Sol-fa	2d.

TWO NEW SONGS.—Just Published.

"Market Day" (Mezzo-Soprano) net	2s.
"A toi, Marie" (Mezzo-Soprano) "	2s.

SONG—"By the wayside" (Soprano), with Violin Obbligato and Organ or Harmonium net	2s.
"The Last Prayer" (Contralto) "	2s.

ORGAN.

Twelve Short Easy Pieces net	2s. 0d.
Three Short Andantes "	2s. 0d.
Minuetto "	1s. 6d.
Ave Maria "	1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

IF FAR BEYOND THE SHADOW AND THE SLEEP
By A. C. SWINBURNE
SET TO MUSIC BY
WILLIAM S. HANNAM.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

POSTHUMOUS WORKS
OF
SIR GEORGE J. ELVEY.

Just Published.

THE EYES OF ALL WAIT ON THEE
EASY ANTHEM FOR HARVEST
Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

WHOM HAVE I IN HEAVEN BUT THEE
SHORT ANTHEM FOR GENERAL USE
Price Twopence.

SHALL I, WASTING IN DESPAIR
A FOUR-PART SONG (S.A.T.B.)
The Words written by G. WITHER (1588-1667)
Price Twopence.

TEACH ME, O LORD
ANTHEM FOR SEXAGESIMA OR GENERAL USE
Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny.

THEY THAT GO DOWN TO THE SEA IN SHIPS
ANTHEM
Price Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

TRANSPOSED EDITION, IN G, FOR SOPRANO OR TENOR
(Original Key, E flat)
LEAD, KINDLY LIGHT
SACRED SONG
THE WORDS WRITTEN BY CARDINAL NEWMAN
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
D. PUGHE-EVANS.

Price Two Shillings net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

WORKS
FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES AND CHOIRS.

	s.	d.
THE SILVER STAR. Cantata. Ladies' voices	1	6
THE LORD IS MY SHEPHERD. 8vo	0	8
BY THE WATERS OF BABYLON. 8vo	1	0
Both for Chorus, without Soloists.
EVENTIDE. Part-Song. 8vo.	0	2

By N. KILBURN, Mus. B., Cantab.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MESSRS. NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

HAVE THE HONOUR TO ANNOUNCE THAT THEY HAVE ACQUIRED THE COPYRIGHT OF THE FOLLOWING COMPOSITIONS OF THE LATE

SIR GEORGE J. ELVEY

FESTAL MARCH

COMPOSED FOR THE MARRIAGE OF

H.R.H. THE PRINCESS LOUISE WITH THE MARQUIS OF LORNE.

	s.	d.
Pianoforte Solo	2	0
Organ Arrangement (by C. Hancock)	1	6
Military Band Arrangement (by J. Waterson)	5	0
String Parts	2	0
Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

	s.	d.
Introduction and Gavotte. For Violin and Pianoforte	2	0
Gavotte à la mode ancienne. For Pianoforte	1	6
Christmas Bells. Impromptu. For Organ or Pianoforte (Played at the Wedding of H.R.H. The Duke of Albany.)	0	9
Cantate Domino and Deus misereatur (in D)	1	0
The souls of the righteous. Anthem (S.A.T.B.)	0	3
Hark! those voices sweetly blending. Motet. For Four Voices, with distant choir	0	6
Vocal parts	1	0
Thirty Cathedral Chants	0	3
Victoria. An Ode. For Four-part Chorus, with Pianoforte accompaniment	1	0
Britannia rules o'er land and sea. A Patriotic Song, with Chorus (S.A.T.B.)	0	3
An Ode to the North-West wind. Choral Song (S.A.T.B.)	1	0
From yonder rustling mountains. A Glee. For A.T.B.B.	1	0
Softly, softly blow the breezes. Part-Song. For S.A.T.B.	1	0

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

MUSIC

SUITABLE FOR USE AT THE

SERVICE OF HOLY MATRIMONY.

ANTHEMS AND HYMNS.

	s.	d.
Blessed are all they that fear the Lord ..E. G. Monk	1	6
Vocal parts	1	0
Blessed are all they that fear the Lord Sidney Naylor	0	9
Except the Lord build the house F. A. G. Ouseley	0	6
Vocal parts	0	6
Father of Life. Hymn Jas. Turle	0	3
Father of life W. Creser	1	6
God, be merciful unto us S. S. Wesley
Octavo	0	3
Vocal parts	1	0
Folio	1	6
O God, Thou art worthy Arthur Sullivan
Vocal parts	1	0
Octavo	0	4
Tonic Sol-fa	0	1½
Folio	1	6
O Perfect Love (Anthem) J. Barnby	0	3
Tonic Sol-fa	0	1
Ditto (Arranged as a Two-part Chorus). Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa combined	0	1½
Ditto (Hymn) J. Barnby	0	1½
Holy Ghost, to earth descending Antonin Dvorâk	0	4
There was a marriage in Cana of Galilee J. Stainer	0	3
Protect them, Almighty. Chorus J. Barnby	0	3

ORGAN MUSIC.

	s.	d.
Nuptial March B. Luard Selby	1	0
Wedding March (Gounod), No. 1. Arranged by G. C. Martin	2	0
Wedding March, No. 2. Charles Gounod	2	0
Wedding March (Mendelssohn) Arranged by W. T. Best	2	0
Wedding March ,, Arranged by C. E. Willing	1	0
March in "Athalie" ,, Arranged by Ch. Steggall	1	6
March in "Athalie" ,, Arranged by W. T. Best	2	0
Benedictus (A. C. Mackenzie) Arr. by C. Palmer and J. B. Lott	1	6
Largo (Handel) Arranged by G. C. Martin	1	6
March in "Tannhäuser" Arranged by F. Archer	2	0
Processional Wedding March Henry R. Bird	1	0
A Wedding Piece A. C. Mackenzie	1	0
The Bride's March ("Rebekah," J. Barnby) Arr. by James Shaw	1	0
March in B flat E. Silas	1	0
Grand March ("Lohengrin," Act III., Wagner) W. Creser	1	0
Bridal Chorus ("Lohengrin," Wagner) W. Creser	1	0
Wedding March Composed by W. Creser	1	6

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

ARGRAFFIAD NEWYDD.

LLYFR ANTHEMAU NOVELLO

DETHOLEDIG

O WEITHIAU Y PRIF GYFANSODDWYR

HEN A DIWEDDAR

WEDI EU CYFADDASU I

EIRIAU CYMRAEG

O DAN OLYGIAETH

JOHN H. ROBERTS

Mus. Bac., Cantab.

Hen Nodiant { Pris Pum Swllt. (Price Five Shillings.)

Sol-ffa { Pris Dau Swllt a Chweche iniog. (Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.)

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Twenty-fourth Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION

OF

527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c.

EDITED BY

B. ST. J. B. JOULE.

Reduced price, 4s. 6d., paper cover; 6s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.
Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Score, 1s. 6d.

The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

THE

Psalter, Proper Psalms, Hymns, and Canticles

POINTED FOR CHANTING

BY

B. ST. J. B. JOULE.

Large type, price 2s. 6d.

Tenth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM

18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM

4to, in cloth, elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

THE

Order for the Holy Communion

Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use

BY

B. ST. J. B. JOULE.

Price Threepence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Eleventh Edition.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY

DAILY SERVICE AND LITANY

TOGETHER WITH THE

VERSICLES FOR CERTAIN SPECIAL OCCASIONS

COLLATED FROM ANCIENT USAGES

BY

THE REV. S. FLOOD JONES, M.A.,

PRECENTOR

AND

J. FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus. Doc., Oxon.,

ORGANIST AND MASTER OF THE CHORISTERS.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

HINTS ON CHOIR TRAINING FOR COMPETITIONS

BY

W. G. McNAUGHT.

REPRINTED, WITH ADDITIONS, FROM

"THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW."

"No choir-trainer need be ashamed to learn from that experienced musician, Mr. W. G. McNaught, whose 'Hints on Choir Training for Competitions' have just been issued as a little pamphlet, price 2d., by Messrs. Novello. Mr. McNaught's remarks are addressed more especially to conductors and choirs who are about to take part in the competitions at Kendal, Carlisle, and Morecambe this month, but they will be found equally serviceable by others; and it is astonishing to note how Mr. McNaught has succeeded in compressing into so small a space hints on almost every point of importance to choral conductors. The clear arrangement of paragraphs under the various headings, 'Tone—blend—attack—intonation—rhythm—pace—phrasing,' &c., adds to the value of the book."—Musical News.

Price Twopence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Seventh Edition.

The river floweth strong, my love

PART-SONG FOR S.A.T.B.

Words by E. RIDGWAY.

MUSIC COMPOSED BY ROLAND ROGERS.

Price Fourpence; Sol-fa, Twopence.

Sung with immense success by Eaton Faning's Select Choir at the Ballad Concerts, St. James's Hall; Wolverhampton Festival Choral Society, the Chester Festival Choral Society, the Cambrian Choral Society (Birkenhead), Huddersfield Glee and Madrigal Society, &c.

Also, NEW PART-SONG, by same COMPOSER.

THREE FISHERS WENT SAILING

Words by KINGSLEY.

Old Notation, Fourpence; Sol-fa, Twopence.

"An immense success."

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

WEBSTER'S

GROUNDWORK OF MUSIC. BOOK I.

4th Edition. 1s.; Key, 1s. 6d.

WEBSTER'S

GROUNDWORK OF MUSIC. BOOK II.

3rd Edition. 1s.; Key, 1s. 6d.

WEBSTER'S

CHILD'S PRIMER OF THE THEORY OF MUSIC.

3rd Edition. 1s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

OLD ENGLISH SUITE

FOR FULL ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED AND DEDICATED, BY PERMISSION, TO

H.R.H. THE DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG AND GOTHA

(Duke of Edinburgh, K.G.)

BY

W. CRESER.

1. THE GREETING. 2. CONVIVIALITY.

3. MERRY DROLLERY.

Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo by the COMPOSER.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

String Parts, Four Shillings and Sixpence.

Full Score and Wind Parts, MS.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

(No. 54. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Music Primers and Educational Series. Edited by Sir JOHN STAINER and Dr. C. HUBERT H. PARRY.)

SONATA FORM

BY

W. H. HADOW.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

In paper boards, Three Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

ALLEGRETTO GRAZIOSO

FROM THE

SYMPHONY IN G MAJOR

(No. 4)

COMPOSED BY

ANTONIN DVOŘÁK.

(Op. 88.)

ARRANGED FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

BY

S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.

Price Two Shillings net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

(Nos. 247 and 248. Novello's Original Compositions for the Organ.

SIX FUGUES ON THE NAME

BACH

COMPOSED

FOR THE ORGAN OR PEDAL CLAVIER

BY

ROBERT SCHUMANN.

(Op. 60)

EDITED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

IN TWO BOOKS.

Price Two Shillings each net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

THE BELLS OF LEE

SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

SHAPCOTT WENSLEY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

In G and E flat. Price Two Shillings each.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

WESTWOOD GAVOTTE

COMPOSED BY

BATTISON HAYNES.

For Pianoforte Solo, price Two Shillings.
For Violin and Pianoforte, price Two Shillings.

ARRANGEMENT FOR MILITARY BAND

BY

DAN GODFREY, Jun.

Price 5s.
String Parts for Full or Small Orchestra, price 2s.
Wind Parts: Full Orchestra, 4s. 3d.; Small Orchestra, 2s. 9d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

JUDEX

FROM

MORS ET VITA

COMPOSED BY

CH. GOUNOD.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE PIANOFORTE, AND VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE, BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price Two Shillings each net.

ARRANGEMENT FOR ORCHESTRA ALONE.	s.	d.
Full Score	3	6
String parts	1	3
Wind parts..	4	9

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

GRANDE VALSE

FROM THE

FAUST BALLET

COMPOSED BY

ERNEST FORD.

ARRANGED FOR THE PIANOFORTE BY
I. A. DE ORELLANA.
Price Two Shillings.

ARRANGEMENT FOR MILITARY BAND

BY

GEORGE MILLER.

Price Ten Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

(No. 52. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Music Primers and Educational Series. Edited by Sir John Stainer and Dr. C. Hubert H. Parry.)

A Description and History

OF THE

PIANOFORTE

AND

OF THE OLDER KEYBOARD STRINGED INSTRUMENTS

BY

A. J. HIPKINS, F.S.A.

Author of the Articles on the Pianoforte in the "Dictionary of Music and Musicians" and in the "Encyclopædia Britannica," also of "Musical Instruments, Historic, Rare and Unique."

THE WOOD ENGRAVINGS BY JOHN HIPKINS.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
In paper boards, Three Shillings.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

A DREAM OF LOVE

SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

EDWARD OXENFORD

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

BERTHOLD TOURS.

In C and A. Price Two Shillings each.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Performed with great success at the Leeds Triennial Musical Festival, 1895.

VALSE GRACIEUSE

FROM THE

SUITE IN D MINOR

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo		2s.
" Duet		3s.
String Parts		4s.
Wind Parts		10s.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

THE CAPTIVE SOUL

CANTATA

FOR

SOPRANO, MEZZO-SOPRANO, CONTRALTO AND TENOR SOLI AND CHORUS OF FEMALE VOICES

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

ETHEL C. PEDLEY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

E. M. WOOLLEY.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Cloth, Small Demy 8vo. Price 3s. 6d.

NEW AND ENLARGED EDITION

OF

THE DAY SCHOOL HYMN-BOOK

EDITED BY

EMMA MUNDELLA.

Numerous Tunes have been written expressly for this Edition by

SIR JOHN STAINER — PROFESSOR J. F. BRIDGE

DR. C. HUBERT H. PARRY — DR. G. C. MARTIN

And others.

And it also includes a hitherto unpublished Tune by

REV. J. B. DYKES.

The Hymns have been selected from the Works of the best Ancient and Modern Writers of sacred verse, and a selection of the finest

FRENCH, GERMAN, AND LATIN HYMNS

(In their original language)

HAS ALSO BEEN INCLUDED.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

COMPOSED FOR THE PLAY AT THE LYCEUM THEATRE, SEPTEMBER, 1895.

THE MUSIC

TO

ROMEO AND JULIET

BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

The following arrangements by the Composer are published:—

Pavane (Dance from Act I.), for Pianoforte Solo, Pianoforte Duet, and Violin and Pianoforte, price 2s. each.

Nocturne, for Pianoforte Solo; Pastorale, for Pianoforte; and Violin and Pianoforte; and Selection of Themes, for Pianoforte Solo, price 2s. each.

Suite, consisting of—1. Prelude; 2. Pastorale; 3. Pavane; 4. Nocturne; 5. Dramatic Interlude, for Pianoforte Duet, price 5s. complete.

Now Ready.

String Parts, 10s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 27s. 6d.

The parts of each movement are published separately.

OVERTURE TO

SHAKESPEARE'S "RICHARD III."

FOR FULL ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

	s.	d.		s.	d.
String Parts	2	6	Arrangement for Military Band, by Geo. Miller	12	0
Wind Parts	7	0	Arrangement for Pianoforte Duet, by the Composer	2	6
			Full Score, MS.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO'S OPERETTAS AND CANTATAS.

PRESS NOTICES OF RECENT PUBLICATIONS.

THE WAITS OF BREMEN.

A SHORT HUMOROUS CANTATA FOR CHILDREN.

SHAPCOTT WENSLEY. B. LUARD SELBY.

"'The Waits of Bremen,' humorous cantata for children, published in the School Music Series, is an exceedingly captivating work. Shapcott Wensley has admirably 'versified' the fable found in the pages of Grimm, and Bertram Luard Selby has set it to bright, and in some respects, sparkling music in both notations. The charming and amusing cantata should become a general favourite with juveniles."—Bristol Times.

"The music is simple and catching, and specially suitable for children, for whom it is written."—Glasgow Herald.

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, 1s. 6d.
Tonic Sol-fa, 6d.

THE HOURS.

OPERETTA FOR FEMALE VOICES.

SHAPCOTT WENSLEY. J. L. ROECKEL.

"In 'The Hours,' a cantata for female voices, by J. L. Roeckel, Mr. Shapcott Wensley has written a graceful little allegory, and collaborated with the composer of the melodious and dramatic music in producing a refined and charming work. The properties and scenes are easily attainable, and the number of the dramatis personæ may be readily increased by lengthening the series of 'The Hours.'"—Educational Times.

"There are ample directions for an effective stage representation, and some capital tableaux could be arranged. Beautiful music, and withal well contrasted, pervades the work."—Liverpool Courier.

"'The Hours,' by J. L. Roeckel, is melodious and very graceful."—The Times.

"It is admirably suited for its purpose."—Scotsman.

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, 2s.
Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

THE ENCHANTED PALACE.

OPERETTA FOR FEMALE VOICES.

SHAPCOTT WENSLEY. ARTHUR SOMERVELL.

"Mr. Arthur Somervell's 'Enchanted Palace' is an exceedingly pretty treatment in easy operatic form of the Sleeping Beauty story; there is plenty of fun in it, the libretto by Shapcott Wensley provides speaking as well as singing parts, and the whole is as graceful an entertainment for the purpose as could be imagined. The Princess's last song has a deeper expression than the rest of the little work, and both it and the lovely waltz deserve to be heard apart from the piece as a whole."—The Times.

"We must commend a charming operetta by Shapcott Wensley and Arthur Somervell."—Daily Telegraph.

"There are numbers in this operetta, quite equal, if not superior in point of originality and effectiveness to what one can only hope to find in a serious attempt at composition."—Musical Opinion.

"The story of the Sleeping Beauty retold by eight singing and three spoken parts. The music, while thoroughly modern, is not beyond the ability of children. It is musicianly and charming in the highest degree."—Schoolmaster.

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, 2s.
Tonic Sol-fa, 8d.

AROUND THE WINTER FIRE.

CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES.

SHAPCOTT WENSLEY. A. R. GAUL.

"The music is bright and well devised for tender voices."—Manchester Guardian.

"The music is most beautifully written, especially the delightful sixth solo, ''Twas when the grass with dew was sweet,' but this is only one out of many good numbers."—Church Times.

"Mr. Gaul has done his work well, the cantata being brightly written and full of melodic beauty."—Liverpool Courier.

Staff Notation, 2s. Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

THE ROSE OF LIFE.

CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES.

CLIFTON BINGHAM. F. H. COWEN.

"Mr. Cowen is evidently fond of flowers generally, and of roses particularly; and he always writes happily when they inspire him. He does so decidedly in this instance, and we strongly recommend the gracefully sentimental little work to moderately well trained ladies' classes."—Manchester Courier.

"Mr. Cowen is never happier than when writing for female voices. The work contains solos for three voices, and there is also an instrumental intermezzo; but the gem of the cantata is the last chorus ''Tis the Rose, the Rose of Sharon.' A finer chorus has seldom been written for female voices alone."—Church Bells.

"A highly meritorious work."—Bristol Times.

"A delightful cantata for female voices."—Daily Telegraph.

Staff Notation, 2s.
Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

HORNPIPE HARRY;

OR THE "SQUIB" AND THE "SUNBEAM."

A COMIC OPERA FOR BOYS, IN TWO ACTS.

WORDS AND MUSIC BY HAMILTON CLARKE.

"This will be found a very entertaining work. The subject is of the fraternization of two boats' crews that have been thrown by accident upon adjacent islands, and it is treated very humorously. But it is to the music that most interest will attach. It is of course to be expected that this would be of a more or less 'hornpipy' or nautical character. But we were totally unprepared for the boisterous jocularity that appears in one part of the work in which are introduced snatches from well-known sailors' songs following each other in the composition of a spirited melody that cannot fail to bring down the house."—The Journal of Education.

"The operetta is breezily scored with an appropriate nautical flavour in all the music, a feature of which is the brightly-written hornpipe which also figures in the overture."—Liverpool Courier.

"There is a healthy ring in the music and words that cannot fail to appeal to all hearers."—Musical Opinion.

Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations combined, 2s. 6d.
Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUES FREE ON APPLICATION.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

JUST PUBLISHED.

PERFORMED WITH GREAT SUCCESS AT ST. JAMES'S HALL, LONDON, May 11, 1896.

FOUR

ENGLISH DANCES

IN THE OLDEN STYLE

COMPOSED BY

F. H. COWEN.

1. STATELY DANCE. | 3. GRACEFUL DANCE.
2. RUSTIC DANCE. | 4. COUNTRY DANCE.

Pianoforte Solo .. 2s. 6d. | String Parts .. .. 6s. od.
Violin & Pianoforte 3s. od. | Wind Parts .. .. 12s. od.

Arrangements for Military Band, and Small Orchestra, in the Press.

THE TIMES.

A special attraction of the concert was the first performance, under the composer's direction, of a new Suite of "Four English Dances," by Mr. F. H. Cowen, a work no less effective and graceful than the Suite given last week at the Philharmonic. The opening movement, a "Stately Dance," is exceedingly characteristic and original; the second, a "Rustic Dance," has, among prominent parts for wood-wind instruments, a delightful flourish for oboe; the succeeding "Graceful Dance," though a good deal like several other compositions of Mr. Cowen, prepares well for the final "Country Dance," a most attractive measure.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

These pieces, written for the most part "in the old style," are agreeable examples of a composer who is never at fault when he sets himself to charm by simple and graceful means. Orchestral societies desiring to cultivate works that are not too heavily strewn with stumbling-blocks cannot do better than make the acquaintance of this pleasing little Suite.

STANDARD.

A feature of the evening was the first performance of Four English Dances, written for orchestra by Mr. F. H. Cowen. These are respectively named "Stately Dance," "Rustic Dance," "Graceful Dance," and "Country Dance," names which well describe their several characters. As may be imagined, they are all scored in a most picturesque manner. They were excellently played under the direction of the composer, and the double recall he received to the platform testified to the pleasure his work had afforded the audience.

DAILY NEWS.

These brief, but highly effective, pieces avowedly imitate the old style, and they are entitled respectively a "stately" dance, a "rustic" dance—very quaint and pretty, and not without its traces of humour—a graceful, and a country dance. The composer, who conducted, was recalled to the platform, and his new Suite will beyond much question be heard of again.

MORNING POST.

Additional interest was imparted to the programme by its inclusion of "Four English Dances" for orchestra, by Mr. F. H. Cowen, which were heard on this occasion for the first time. These are attractive imitations of the forms in which our forefathers took delight. They are all most effectively scored, and are of that graceful and refined character which is expected in works by this gifted writer. They were warmly received, and doubtless will be often heard at the concerts of amateur orchestral societies, for which they are very suitable.

GLOBE.

An orchestral concert, under Mr. Cowen, was given last night at the St. James's Hall. Four charming English Dances in the old style, by Mr. Cowen, were performed for the first time, and achieved an undoubted success.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

FOURTH EDITION.

KING ARTHUR

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

FOR

THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, & ORCHESTRA

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

JAMES SMIETON, M.A.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

JOHN MORE SMIETON.

The work takes about an Hour and Forty Minutes to perform, and has been given with conspicuous success at the following places:—

London (2)	Airdrie
Glasgow (2)	Hamilton
Newcastle	Helensburgh
Dundee	Ayr
Broughty Ferry	Kineton
Jersey	Byfield
Reading	Uckfield
Brondesbury	Wakefield
Chichester	Greasboro'
Peebles	Paisley
Stirling	Harrogate
Arbroath	Aylesbury
Montrose	Taunton (Mass.)

&c., &c.

Old Notation, 2s. 6d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.
Full Score and Band Parts on hire.
String Parts for Sale at 16s.

The celebrated Hymn from "King Arthur," "There is a land beyond the setting sun," arranged for S.A.T.B, price 2d. (Sol-fa, 1½d.), may be had separately.

SPECIALLY ADAPTED FOR

SMALL CHORAL SOCIETIES, CHURCH CHOIRS, &c.

FOURTH EDITION.

By the same Authors.

ARIADNE

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

FOR

FOUR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

(Takes about One Hour to perform).

Old Notation, 2s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.
Full Score and Band Parts on hire.

Copies of either work will be sent free to Conductors, on application to the Composer, 12, Victoria Chambers, Dundee.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S

ALBUMS FOR PIANOFORTE

AND

STRINGED INSTRUMENTS

(Two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello).

The Pieces in these Albums are so arranged that if any Part, or Combination of Parts, in addition to the First Violin and Pianoforte are used they will sound complete.
They may also be played by a Quintet, or small Orchestra, of Stringed Instruments, with or without Pianoforte.

No. 1.

SUITE OF FOUR PIECES

By ARNOLD DOLMETSCH.
Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 2.

SUITE OF FIVE PIECES

By HENRY PURCELL.
The Pianoforte Accompaniment, Marks of Expression, Bowing, and Fingering by ARNOLD DOLMETSCH.
Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 3.

THREE DANCES

From the Music to "Henry VIII."
By EDWARD GERMAN.
Price 5s. Separate String Parts, 1s. each.

No. 4.

GAVOTTE IN D

By RAMEAU.
Arranged by BERTHOLD TOURS.
Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 5.

SIX PIECES FROM THE WATER MUSIC

COMPOSED BY G. F. HANDEL.
Arranged by BERTHOLD TOURS.

1. Bourrée in F.
2. Air in F.
3. Minuet in F.
4. Hornpipe in F.
5. Aria in G.
6. Allegro in D.

Price 3s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 6.

TWO BOURRÉES

COMPOSED BY G. F. HANDEL.
Arranged by BERTHOLD TOURS.
Price 2s. Separate String Parts, 3d. each.

Just Published.

No. 7.

BENEDICTUS

From Six Pieces for the Violin.
COMPOSED BY A. C. MACKENZIE.
Price 3s. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

MELODY IN A

FOR

VIOLIN (OR FLUTE)

With Accompaniment for the Pianoforte

COMPOSED BY

FRANK MOIR.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO'S

MUSIC FOR MILITARY BAND

ARRANGED BY

DAN GODFREY, JUN.,
GEORGE MILLER,

AND OTHERS.

		s.	d.
GIPSY SUITE	Edward German	15	0
THREE DANCES ("Henry VIII.")	Edward German	15	0
SIX SACRED PIECES	Gounod	10	6
THE REDEMPTION (Selection)	Gounod	15	0
BENEDICTUS ("Six Pieces for Violin")	A. C. Mackenzie	5	0
WEDDING MARCH	William Creser	3	6
BALLET MUSIC ("Colomba")	A. C. Mackenzie	15	0
MORS ET VITA (Selection)	Gounod	15	0
THE EMPIRE FLAG	A. C. Mackenzie	5	0
HUSARENRITT	Fritz Spindler	7	6
POLONAISE ("Life for the Czar")	Glinka	12	0
COURANTE ("Ravenswood")	A. C. Mackenzie	12	0
GAVOTTE	Rameau	4	6
ORCHESTRAL BALLAD	Stewart Macpherson	15	0
EMPEROR GAVOTTE (Cornflower)	Ch. Morley	2	6

Recent additions:—

FESTAL MARCH	G. J. Elvey	5	0
WESTWOOD GAVOTTE	Battison Haynes	5	0
SOLEMN MARCH	George Miller	3	6
MARCHE MILITAIRE	Tschaïkowsky	15	0
OVERTURE TO "RICHARD III."	Edward German	12	0
GRANDE VALSE ("Faust" Ballet)	Ernest Ford	10	6
FESTIVAL MARCH (Aennchen von Tharau)	H. Hofmann	7	6
MARCHE SOLENNELLE	Gounod	7	6

In the Press:—

FOUR ENGLISH DANCES IN THE OLDEN STYLE	F. H. Cowen
MARCH (from "St. Polycarp")	Ouseley
RUSTIC PICTURES ("Kirmess")	H. Hofmann
CALVARY (Selection)	Spohr

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

THE HESPERUS

CANTATA FOR SOPRANO, BARITONE, AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA

THE POETRY BY LONGFELLOW

THE MUSIC BY

J. F. H. READ.

Price 1s. 6d.; Vocal Parts also, in Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

By the same Composer:

THE

DEATH OF YOUNG ROMILLY

CHORAL BALLAD FOR CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA

THE POETRY BY WORDSWORTH.

Dedicated, by special permission, to H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES.

FOR MEN'S VOICES.

Sung by the STOCK EXCHANGE CHORAL SOCIETY.

IN THE FOREST

CANTATA FOR BARITONE SOLO, CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.

NOVELLO'S CHEAP EDITION
OF
THE CHORUSES ONLY
OF CANTATAS, ORATORIOS, AND OPERAS.

		s.	d.
BACH.—"Passion" (St. Matthew)		1	0
BEETHOVEN.—"Mount of Olives"	(Paper boards, 1s.)	0	6
	(Tonic Sol-fa)	0	6
BENNETT.—"The May Queen"	(Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1	0
GLUCK.—"Orpheus"	(Tonic Sol-fa)	1	0
GRAUN, C. H.—"The Passion" ("Der Tod Jesu")		1	0
HANDEL.—Messiah"	(Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0	8
—— "Solomon"		1	6
—— "Judas Maccabæus"	(Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0	8
—— "Saul"		1	0
—— "Hercules"		1	0
—— "L'Allegro, il Pensieroso, ed il Moderato"		1	0
—— "Samson"	(Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0	8
HAYDN.—"The Creation"	(Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0	8
—— "The Seasons"	(Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1	0
MACFARREN, G. A.—"May Day"	(Paper boards, 1s.)	0	6
MENDELSSOHN.—"Elijah"	(Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1	0
—— "St. Paul"	(Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1	0
—— "Hymn of Praise" ("Lobgesang")	(Paper boards, 1s.)	0	6
MOZART.—"Twelfth Mass"		0	8
PARRY, C. H. H.—"Judith"	(Tonic Sol-fa)	2	0
—— "Job"	Tonic Sol-fa)	1	0
ROSSINI.—"Stabat Mater"	(Paper boards, 1s.)	0	6
SPOHR.—"The Last Judgment"	(Paper boards, 1s.)	0	6
VERDI.—"Il Trovatore"	(Tonic Sol-fa)	1	0
WAGNER.—"The Flying Dutchman"		2	0
WEBER.—"Der Freischütz"		1	0
—— "Preciosa"		0	6

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NOW READY.

NEW AND REVISED EDITIONS
OF THE MASSES
COMPOSED BY FRANZ SCHUBERT.

MASS IN F		1s.
„ IN G		1s.
„ IN B FLAT		1s.
„ IN C		1s.
„ IN E FLAT		2s.
„ IN A FLAT		1s.

EDITOR'S PREFACE.

In accordance with the Decree concerning Church Music, drawn up by the Sacred Congregation of Rites, and approved of by His Holiness, Pope Leo XIII., on the 7th of July, 1894, I have revised this edition of Schubert's Masses.

Article 10 of this Decree says:—"Every piece in which words are found to be omitted, deprived of their meaning, or indiscreetly repeated is forbidden."

Article 11 says:—"It is forbidden to break up into pieces, completely detached, the versicles which are necessarily interconnected."

While correcting the omissions which have been made in the text, I have altered the music as little as possible; but in no instance has the Composer's harmony been interfered with.

THOS. F. A. GALE, A.Mus., L.C.M.,
Organist and Director of the Choir,
St. Mary's, Clapham, London, S.W.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just Published.

THE OULD PLAID SHAWL
SONG
THE WORDS WRITTEN BY
FRANCIS H. FAHY
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
BATTISON HAYNES.

Not far from old Kinvara, in the merry month of May,
When birds were singing cheerily there came across my way,
As if from out the sky above an angel chanced to fall,
A little Irish colleen in an ould plaid shawl.
She tripped along right joyously, a basket on her arm;
And oh! her face, and oh! her grace the soul of saint would charm,
Her brown hair rippled o'er her brow, but greatest charm of all
Was her modest blue eyes beaming 'neath her ould plaid shawl.

I courteously saluted her, "God save you, Miss," says I,
"God save you kindly, Sir," says she, and shyly passed me by.
Off went my heart along with her, a captive in her thrall,
Imprisoned in the corner of her ould plaid shawl.
Enchanted with her beauty rare, I gazed in pure delight,
Till round an angle of the road she vanished from my sight,
But ever since I sighing say, as I that scene recall—
"The grace of God about you and your ould plaid shawl."

Oh, some men sigh for riches and some men live for fame,
And some on history's pages hope to win a glorious name;
My aims are not ambitious and my wishes are but small,
You might wrap them all together in an ould plaid shawl.
I'll seek her all through Galway, and I'll seek her all through Clare
I'll search for tale or tidings of my trav'ler everywhere,
For peace of mind I'll never find until my own I call
That little Irish colleen in her ould plaid shawl.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

PRICE, COMPLETE, 3s. 6d.

GIPSY SUITE
FOUR Characteristic Dances

		s.	d.
1.	Valse Melancolique ("Lonely Life")	1	6
2.	Allegro di Bravura ("The Dance")	1	6
3.	Menuetto ("Love Duet")	1	6
4.	Tarantella ("The Revel")	2	0

COMPOSED BY
EDWARD GERMAN.
Arranged for the Pianoforte by the Composer.

Full Score, MS.
String Parts, 7s.; Wind Parts, 14s.
Pianoforte Duet Arrangement, price 4s. 6d.
Violin and Pianoforte Arrangement, price 4s.
Military Band Arrangement, by Dan Godfrey, Jun., price 15s.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

TWENTY-FOUR VOCAL EXERCISES
FOR MEZZO-SOPRANO
BY
MARCO BORDOGNI.
EDITED, WITH MARKS OF EXPRESSION AND PHRASING, BY ALBERTO RANDEGGER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

SECOND EDITION, REVISED, NOW READY.

BEETHOVEN AND HIS NINE SYMPHONIES

BY

GEORGE GROVE, C.B.

Price, cloth, gilt, Six Shillings.

THE TIMES.

Sir George Grove's analyses of Beethoven's Symphonies have long been familiar, not only to every frequenter of the Crystal Palace Concerts, for which they were at first designed, but to all lovers of music in England. They may most truly be said to have become household words, and it seems almost strange that a piece of musical literature so well known and so highly valued should never before have appeared in book form. The analytical programmes, with the musical examples, form the groundwork of the volume, published by Messrs. Novello under the title "Beethoven and his Nine Symphonies," but these have been amplified and their value largely increased by the addition of documents before only referred to.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

I recognise it, without the smallest hesitation, as one of the most important and valuable among recent contributions to musical literature. . . . The best informed of professional musicians may learn a great deal about the master-works of Beethoven from Sir George Grove, whose wide reading and acute perceptiveness have enabled him to marshal an astonishing array of facts, and whose intimate acquaintance with the spirit of the master has qualified him to throw light upon pages which, to many, are still obscure. . . . I must be satisfied with the remarks already made, earnestly recommending all who recognise Beethoven's greatness as shown in his immortal Symphonies to obtain Sir George Grove's volume, and walk in the luminous paths through which he is ready to conduct all who trust his guidance.

MORNING POST.

Sir George Grove's book is irresistibly fascinating. It is never unduly pedantic, and the information it contains is conveyed in a style at once terse and lucid, whilst its pages are interspersed with many anecdotes and interesting details of the great master's life.

GLOBE.

Sir George Grove seems to have discovered a good deal of new material, which forms by no means the least valuable part of the book. In his estimate of Beethoven Sir George Grove writes like an enthusiast, but his enthusiasm is tempered with sound judgment, and his style is always pleasant, and often eloquent in the best sense of the term.

ST. JAMES'S GAZETTE.

It would be difficult to say whether Sir George Grove's admirable volume is more to be esteemed for its biographical or its critical chapters. Probably for neither, but rather for those in which biography and criticism go hand-in-hand together. It needed an enthusiast gifted with industry and the spirit of research to produce such a work.

SPECTATOR.

The most important and valuable of his contributions to the literature of the concert-room have been developed into a book which for many years is likely to remain the standard work on the subject. . . . Sir George writes as a thorough-going hero-worshipper, but personally we find his enthusiasm infectious. No one can rise from the perusal of these fascinating chapters without an enhanced reverence—amounting almost to awe—for the dæmonic genius whose workings are here so vividly set forth.

SUNDAY TIMES.

No one can fail to have his enjoyment of the Symphonies enormously increased by reading the work which will henceforth be indispensable to every student of Beethoven.

THE PEOPLE.

Sir George Grove has performed his self-imposed task with such thoroughness that, after reading the volume, there will be little, if anything, left for amateurs to learn concerning the Nine Symphonies.

YORKSHIRE POST.

We might go on for long enough discussing points suggested by this delightful book, and must be contented with very cordially recommending it to all musically inclined persons, whether they want to become acquainted with the immortal Nine, or only to refresh their recollection of these unapproachable masterpieces.

BRISTOL TIMES AND MIRROR.

Amateurs and students will welcome the present volume as a very valuable contribution to the large store of information which has been published regarding the immortal Nine Symphonies of Beethoven. . . . The most valuable and most recent information about, and bearing upon, the Nine Symphonies is brought together and set forth in that masterly and scholarly way which characterises everything undertaken by the enthusiastic ex-director of the Royal College of Music.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

CHAPPELL & CO.'S PUBLICATIONS.

THE BEHNKE VOICE-TRAINING METHOD.

Price, in paper covers, Two Shillings; in cloth, Three Shillings.

VOICE-TRAINING PRIMER

BY MRS. EMIL BEHNKE AND DR. CHARLES W. PEARCE.

An easy Catechism of Vocal Physiology and Musical Theory, for the use of Vocal Students generally. This work is also intended as a Text-Book for preparing Candidates for Vocal Examinations, particularly those of the Associated Board of the R.C.M. and R.A.M., the Incorporated Society of Musicians, and Trinity College, London. It contains in one volume all the information required for answering the viva voce questions of Examiners.

Sixtieth Thousand. Price, in paper covers, One Shilling and Sixpence; in cloth, Three Shillings.

VOICE-TRAINING EXERCISES

In Six separate Books, for Soprano, Mezzo-Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, Baritone, and Bass.

BY EMIL BEHNKE AND DR. CHARLES W. PEARCE.

Third and Improved Edition. Price, in paper covers, One Shilling and Sixpence; in cloth, Three Shillings.

VOICE-TRAINING STUDIES

In Six separate Books, for Soprano, Mezzo-Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, Baritone, and Bass.

BY EMIL BEHNKE AND DR. CHARLES W. PEARCE.

"This work contains 24 Progressive Studies in different styles, and is intended as a companion or supplementary volume to 'Voice-Training Exercises.' Those of a more cantabile character are to be used as Solfeggi, the others are to be sung as Vocalises. In this Second Edition the accompaniments have been simplified. Highly favourable opinions of these Studies have been expressed by Sir John Stainer, Sir Robert Stewart, Mr. W. H. Cummings, and other eminent authorities."

POPULAR WORKS FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.

UP TO DATE; OR, THE CHILDREN OF THE 19TH CENTUREE. A Cantata for Children. By W. H. SONLEY JOHNSON and REGINALD ATKINS. Price 1s. 6d. net.

ALONZO THE BRAVE AND THE FAIR IMOGENE. Choral Ballad. By M. G. LEWIS and C. HOLLAND. 2s. 6d. net.

GRAY'S ELEGY. Cantata by A. CELLIER. Paper, 2s. 6d. net; cloth, 4s. net.

FAUST. Dramatic Legend by HECTOR BERLIOZ. New Edition. 3s. 6d. net; cloth, 5s. net; Tonic Sol-fa, 2s. 6d. net.

GOD IS LOVE. A Sacred Cantata by Mrs. JOSEPH ROBINSON. Paper, 3s. net; cloth, 10s. 6d. net.

KENILWORTH. Cantata by ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Paper, 3s. 6d. net.

LALLA ROOKH. Cantata by FREDERICK CLAY. Paper, 3s. 6d. net.

FRIDOLIN; OR, THE MESSAGE TO THE FORGE. A Dramatic Cantata by A. RANDEGGER. Paper, 4s. net; cloth, 6s. net.

THE JACKDAW OF RHEIMS. Comic Cantata, by THOMAS INGOLDSBY and GEORGE FOX. 2s. 6d. net. Voice parts, each 6d. net; Harmonium part, 1s. net; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s. 6d. net.

THE MARTYR OF ANTIOCH. Sacred Musical Drama by ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Paper, 5s. net; cloth, 8s. net.

TRIAL BY JURY. Comic Operetta by W. S. GILBERT and ARTHUR SULLIVAN. Paper, 3s. net.

POPULAR NUMBERS OF CHAPPELL'S PENNY OPERATIC PART-SONGS

FOR SOPRANO, ALTO, TENOR, AND BASS.

1. Hymn of the Fisherman's Children. Adapted to a Melody from Hérold's "Zampa."
2. Fays and Elves (In mia fe). From Flotow's "Marta."
3. Spring's bright glances (In Elvezia non v'ha). From Bellini's "La Sonnambula."
5. Here we rest (Qui la selva). From Bellini's "La Sonnambula."
6. Onward to battle (Squilli echeggi). From Verdi's "Il Trovatore."
7. Rataplan (Rataplan). From Donizetti's "La Figlia del Reggimento."
8. The Gipsy's Star (Vedi! le fosche). From Verdi's "Il Trovatore."
9. War Song of the Druids (Dell' aura tua profetica). From Bellini's "Norma."
11. Come to the Fair! (Accorete giovinette). From Flotow's "Marta."
12. Friendship (Per te d'immenso giubilo). From Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor."
13. Away, the morning freshly breaking (The Chorus of Fishermen). From Auber's "Masaniello."
14. Pretty Village Maiden (Peasants' Serenade Chorus). From Gounod's "Faust."
15. The soft winds around us (The Gipsy Chorus). From Weber's "Preciosa."
16. See how lightly on the blue sea (Senti la danza invitaci). From Donizetti's "Lucrezia Borgia."
18. On yonder rock reclining. From Auber's "Fra Diavolo."
19. Happy and light. From Balfe's "Bohemian Girl."
22. Come, old comrade (The celebrated Chorus of Old Men). From Gounod's "Faust."
23. 'Gainst the Powers of Evil (The Chorale of the Cross). From Gounod's "Faust."
28. The tuneful sound of Robin's horn. Tyrolese Chorus from Rossini's "Guglielmo Tell."
29. The Chorus of Huntsmen. From Weber's "Der Freischütz."
32. Hail to the bride! From Wagner's "Lohengrin."
34. A bridal wreath we twine. Chorus of Bridesmaids from Weber's "Der Freischütz."
35. Behold! how brightly breaks the morning. The Barcarolle from Auber's "Masaniello."
40. War Song. From Meyerbeer's "Les Huguenots."
43. The boats bound along o'er the bay. From Auber's "Masaniello."
47. The Harvest Home. From Mozart's "Le Nozze di Figaro."
48. By their songs so sweet and clear. From Auber's "La Bergère Châtelaine."
50. Hail to our Master! From Spohr's "Pietro von Abano."
51. All by the shady greenwood tree. From Rossini's "Maid of Judah."

NEW SERIES (8VO SIZE).

52. The Farandole. From Audran's "Olivette."
53. You swear to be good and true. From Cellier's "Dorothy."
54. From deep forest hoary. From Planquette's "Rip Van Winkle."

To be continued.

NEW SERIES OF CHAPPELL'S VOCAL LIBRARY OF PART-SONGS (8VO SIZE).

118.	Venetian Song (F. Paolo Tosti). S.A.T.B. ..	King Hall	3d.
119.	Mighty Lord (Gounod's "Marche Religieuse"). S.A.T.B.	King Hall	3d.
120.	Soft and Low (from Gounod's "Mock Doctor"). S.A.T.B.	King Hall	4d.
121.	Crossing the Bar. S.S.A.T.B.B... ..	Arthur M. Goodhart	3d.
122.	Sigh no more, ladies. A.T.T.B.B. ..	R. J. S. Stevens	3d.
123.	Peace, perfect Peace. S.A.T.B...	Gounod	3d.
124.	Beauty's Eyes (Tosti). S.A.T.B.	King Hall	3d.
125.	Hark! my soul (Gounod). S.A.T.B.	King Hall	3d.
126.	Soldier's Chorus ("Faust"). S.A.T.B. ..	Gounod	4d.

To be continued.

Complete Lists on application to

CHAPPELL AND CO., 50, NEW BOND ST., LONDON.

Printed by NOVELLO, EWER & Co., at 69 and 70, Dean Street (W.), and published at 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.). Sold also by KENT and Co., Paternoster Row (E.C.).—Saturday, August 1, 1896.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 643.—Vol. 37. SEPTEMBER 1, 1896. Price 4d.; Postage, 1½d.
Registered for transmission abroad. Annual Subscription, Post-free, 5s.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG AND GOTHA, DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.

Conductor: Professor J. F. BRIDGE, Mus. Doc.

There are now VACANCIES in the Choir for Sopranos, Altos, Tenors, and Basses. Only those who have good powerful voices, and who can read music at first sight, will be accepted. Address, Secretary, Royal Choral Society, Albert Hall, S.W.

BRISTOL NINTH MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

Patron: HER MOST GRACIOUS MAJESTY THE QUEEN.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG-GOTHA.

WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY, FRIDAY, AND SATURDAY, October 14, 15, 16, and 17, 1896.

WEDNESDAY MORNING—"ELIJAH" (Mendelssohn), Madame Albani, Master Frank Gardner, Miss Hilda Wilson, Fräulein Witting, Messrs. Edward Lloyd, Braxton Smith, and Andrew Black.

WEDNESDAY EVENING—Overture, "Leonora," No. 3 (Beethoven); "Blest Pair of Sirens," Ode by Milton (Dr. C. Hubert H. Parry); Scena, "Ocean, thou mighty monster"—"Oberon" (Weber), Fräulein Malten; Grand Symphony, "No. 2, in D major" (Brahms); Aria from "Armida" (Gluck), Fräulein Malten; Overture, "Othello" (MS.), (Walter Macfarren); Overture, "Carnival" (Dvorák); Selection from "Götterdämmerung"—Funeral March and Closing Scene (Wagner)—Brünnhilde, Fräulein Malten; Rhapsodie in F minor and major (Liszt); Choral Ballad, "Sir Patric Spens" (Pearsall); Overture, "Tannhäuser" (Wagner). Vocal Solos by Mr. Braxton Smith, &c.

THURSDAY MORNING—Overture, "In Memoriam" (Sullivan); "REQUIEM MASS" (Gounod)—Posthumous Work, first performance in England—Madame Albani, Fräulein Witting, Messrs. Lloyd and Black; "Hear my Prayer" (Mendelssohn), Madame Albani; Symphony in C minor, No. 5 (Beethoven); Oratorio, "CREATION," Parts I. and II. (Haydn)—Madame Albani, Messrs. Lloyd and Black.

THURSDAY EVENING—Overture, "Manfred" (Schumann); New Cantata, "Hymn before Sunrise," Poem by Coleridge (P. Napier Miles)—Soloist, Mr. D. Bispham; Song, "Lorelei" (Liszt)—Fräulein Malten; Orchestral Suite in D minor (E. German); Schmiedelieder, from "Siegfried" (Wagner)—Siegfried, Mr. Ben Davies; Mime, Mr. Braxton Smith; Vorspiel and Liebestod, "Tristan and Isolde" (Wagner)—Isolde, Fräulein Malten; Overture, "Land of the Mountain and the Flood" (MacCunn); Selection from "Die Walküre," Act 3, including the Walkürenritt, Duet, the Feuerzauber, and Wotan's Abschied (Wagner)—Brünnhilde, Fräulein Malten; Wotan, Mr. D. Bispham; Rhapsodie in D minor (Liszt); Overture, "Oberon" (Weber).

FRIDAY MORNING—Oratorio, "JOB" (Dr. C. Hubert H. Parry)—Master Frank Gardner, Messrs. Ben Davies, Plunket Greene, and Montague Worlock; Organ Concerto in E flat (MS.) (Ebenezer Prout, B.A.)—Solo Organ, Mr. George Riseley; "GERMAN REQUIEM" (Brahms)—Miss Esther Palliser and Mr. Andrew Black.

FRIDAY EVENING—Overture, "Meistersinger" (Wagner); Dramatic Scene, "Siddartha," composed for this Festival (J. L. Roeckel)—Soloist, Mr. Andrew Black; Orchestral Ballad, "Helen of Kirkconnell" (Somervell); Scena, Lohengrin's Farewell (Wagner)—Mr. Edward Lloyd; Rhapsodie for Alto Solo, Male-Voice Choir and Orchestra (Brahms)—Soloist, Fräulein Witting; Introduction, Second Act, "Flying Dutchman" (Wagner)—Chorus and Solo by Miss Palliser; "THE GOLDEN LEGEND" (Sir A. Sullivan)—Elsie, Miss Esther Palliser; Ursula, Miss Hilda Wilson; Prince Henry, Mr. Edward Lloyd; Forester, Mr. Arthur Wills; Lucifer, Mr. Andrew Black.

SATURDAY MORNING—"MESSIAH" (Handel)—Mesdames Albani, Hilda Wilson, Messrs. Edward Lloyd and Andrew Black.

Chorus-master, Mr. D. W. ROOTHAM.

COMPLETE FESTIVAL ORCHESTRA, 100 PERFORMERS.
Conductor, Mr. GEORGE RISELEY.

PRICES OF ADMISSION (all Seats secured):—

MORNING PERFORMANCES.—Single ticket for any one Concert: first division, 15s.; second division, 10s. 6d. Four tickets for any one Concert: first division, £2 10s.; second division, £1 16s.

EVENING PERFORMANCES.—Single ticket for any one Concert: first division, 12s.; second division, 9s. Four tickets for any one Concert: first division, £2; second division, £1 10s. Serial ticket for all seven performances; first division, £4 4s.; second division, £3 3s.

Third division seats, 5s. each, morning or evening (no reduction).

Detailed programmes, with railway arrangements, free on application.

St. Augustine's Parade, Bristol. { HENRY COOKE, HUGO MALLET, } Hon. Secs.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Patrons: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN AND THE ROYAL FAMILY.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG AND GOTHA.
Principal: Sir A. C. MACKENZIE, Mus. Doc.

Michaelmas Term begins September 28. Entrance Examination therefor, September 24, at 10.

John Thomas Welsh Scholarship for Vocalists.
Henry Smart Scholarship for Organ Playing or Composition.
Goring Thomas Scholarship for Composers.
Last day of entry for the above Scholarships, September 9.

Prospectus, Entry Forms, and all information may be obtained from the Secretary. F. W. RENAUT, Secretary

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.—

Established by the Corporation of London, 1880. Principal, Mr. W. H. CUMMINGS.—Improvisation, Accompanying, Sight Singing, Elocution, Sight Reading (Instrumental), Choral, Orchestral, and Operatic Classes. Prospectus and further particulars of the Secretary.

By order of the Committee,
Victoria Embankment, E.C. HILTON CARTER, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

At the January examination Candidates for Fellowship must come prepared to play any portion or all of the following three organ compositions, the selection to be made by the Examiners:—Allegro (last movement) of Sonata, No. 6, Bach (Peters' Ed., Vol. I.; Novello and Co.'s Edition, Book 5); Fugue in D minor, C. Steggall (No. 91. Original Compositions for the Organ. Novello and Co.); Introduction and Fugue in C sharp minor, S. S. Wesley (No. 9. Original Compositions for the Organ, by S. S. Wesley, as edited by Dr. G. M. Garrett. Novello and Co.).

The College Library is open daily, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; also on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5 to 7.

Members desiring practice on the College Organ may obtain particulars on application.

The large Hall, and sundry smaller rooms, may be hired for concerts, meetings, &c.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.
Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

NORTH STAFFORDSHIRE MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

President: THE DUKE OF SUTHERLAND.

October 29 and 30, 1896.

THURSDAY EVENING.—"Hymn of Praise," Mendelssohn; "The Lord is King," Barnby; "Mount of Olives," Beethoven.

FRIDAY MORNING.—"King Olaf," Edward Elgar (specially written) and Miscellaneous.

FRIDAY EVENING.—"The Spectre's Bride," Dvorák; "Choral Symphony," Beethoven.

Miss Ella Russell, Miss Medora Henson, Miss Marie Hooton.
Mr. Edward Lloyd, Mr. Ben Davies, Mr. Andrew Black,
Mr. Ffrangcon-Davies.

Conductor: Dr. Swinnerton Heap. Chorus-master: Mr. Fred. Mountford. Solo Violin: Mr. Willy Hess.

Programmes may be had from the Hon. Gen. Secretary, Mr. H. J. Wildin, Stoke-on-Trent.

THE BURGON OPERA RECITAL COMPANY

UNDER THE DIRECTION OF

MR. W. H. BURGON,

Principal Bass, Royal English Opera House, Covent Garden Opera House, and Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company, &c.;
Also of the leading Choral Societies' Concerts.

The experienced Artists of the above Company can be engaged by Choral Societies for Oratorio, Concert, or Opera Recital.

Specimens of the special Programmes for which the Burgon Opera Recital Company has become so celebrated, viz.:—

PART I.—Ballad and Instrumental.

PART II.—Recital in Costume or Evening Dress, of Selections from a popular Opera ("Cavalleria Rusticana," "Pagliacci," "Flying Dutchman," "Il Trovatore," "Maritana," "Bohemian Girl," "Faust," &c.)—will be forwarded on application.

Address, W. H. BURGON,
8, Marlboro' Road, Bedford Park, London, W.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS FLORENCE ARMRIDING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Mr. Shakespeare and Medalist, R.A.M.).
Oratorios, Concerts, Lessons, &c., at 20, Conduit Street. Address, Leicester Villa, Ealing, W.

MISS MAUDE BALLARD (Soprano)
HAYDN'S "SEASONS," BUNGAY CHORAL SOCIETY.—"Miss Ballard has a fine, rich, and well-trained voice."—East Suffolk Gazette, April 28, 1896. 13, Herbert Road, Stockwell, S.W.

MADAME BARTER (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Westbury Road, Wood Green, N.

MISS LOUISE BELLAMY (Soprano)
Oratorios and Concerts. 2, Claremont Road, Handsworth, Birmingham.

MISS LIZZIE BURGESS (Soprano)
(Late Prima Donna, Carl Rosa Opera Co.)
Operatic Recitals, Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Chorlton-cum-Hardy, Manchester.

MISS EMILY DAVIES (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, Severn House, Seven Sisters Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano)
"MESSIAH."—"Sang with fine devotional feeling."—Northampton Chronicle. "CREATION."—"Sang most artistically throughout."—Bristol Times. "Her singing was excellent."—Freeman's Journal. "An ideal Maritana."—Waterford Mirror. "Has a lovely voice."—Teviotdale Record. "ELIJAH."—"Accomplished artist; sang with grand effect."—Standard. "JUDAS."—"Sang marvellously and with great power."—Teesdale Mercury.
Concerts, Oratorios, &c., 237, Katherine Street, Ashton-under-Lyne.

MISS AMY FLETCHER (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
45, Aberdeen Road, Highbury Grange.

MADAME GOODALL (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Address, Leeds.

MADAME NELLIE GOSNELL (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, 37, St. Augustine's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

MISS BEATRICE GOUGH (Soprano).
"ELIJAH," NORTH STAFFORDSHIRE PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.—"Her performance last evening was a magnificent one. In the 'Widow's duet' she gave a fine display of dramatic power."—Staffordshire Post, November, 1895.
"MESSIAH," GLOUCESTER CHORAL SOCIETY.—"Her solos exhibited all that has earned for her a place among our foremost rising singers, and in 'I know that my Redeemer liveth' she was all that could be desired."—Gloucester Chronicle, March, 1896.
"CREATION," ASHBY CHORAL SOCIETY.—"Miss Gough secured the approval of the audience in her first number, 'The Marvellous Work,' and in all her efforts she displayed the ability and culture of a first-rate artiste."—Burton Guardian, May, 1896.
For terms, press notices, and répertoire, apply to 42, Dyne Road, Brondesbury, N.W.

MISS JESSIE HOTINE (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, Operettas, Banquets, &c.
Address, Craignorth, 33, Upper Bedford Place, Russell Square, W.C.

MADAME MINNIE JONES (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, &c.,
30, Farrant Avenue, Wood Green, N.

MISS ADA LEE (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c. Address, 164, Strand, W.C.

MADAME MARIE MALLIA (Soprano)
Oratorios and Concerts. Claremont, Hermon Hill, Snaresbrook, N.E.

MISS EDITH MARSHALL (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
380, Brixton Road, S.W.

MISS FLORENCE MONK (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 26, Portland Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS ANNIE NORLEDGE (Soprano)
For Oratorios and Ballad Concerts. For press notices and terms, address, 221, South Lambeth Road, London, S.W.
Telegrams: "Norledge," London.

MISS WINIFRED PEAKE (Soprano)
(Sainton-Dolby Scholar and Certificate, R.A.M.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Strathearn, Broadhurst Gardens, West Hampstead, N.W.

MISS LIZZIE SCOTT (Soprano)
For terms, address, 38, York Road, Northampton. Engaged: "Messiah," "Elijah," "Stabat Mater." Others pending.

MISS FANNIE SELLERS (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Recitals, &c., Crag Cottage, Knaresbro'.

MISS GERTRUDE WESLEY (Soprano & Harpist)
(Great Grand-daughter of James Wesley).
For Oratorio and Ballad Concerts.
For terms and critiques, address, 53, High Street, Doncaster.

MISS MARY WILLIS (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, or Private Lessons, address, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MISS NELLIE WILLIS (High Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Valuable critiques.
Ardwick-le-Street, Doncaster.

MISS BERYL CLIVE (Contralto)
"Prominent among the artists was Miss Beryl Clive, a vocalist of more than average ability. She possesses a rich contralto voice of excellent range, and sang with the skill and intelligence of an accomplished artist."—Nottingham Daily Guardian, Dec. 4, 1895.
"MESSIAH," TOWN HALL, STOURBRIDGE.—"Miss Clive has a deep and powerful contralto voice, and her singing was marked by power, sweetness, and pathos. Although her interpretation of all her pieces was of a finished character, yet we think she reached her highest point of excellence in the exquisite air 'He shall feed His flock like a shepherd.'"—Stourbridge Advertiser, Jan. 4, 1896.
Address, 30, Pepys Road South, St. Catherine's Park, S.E.

MISS FLORENCE CROFT (Contralto)
MR. D'ARCY CLAYTON (Tenor)
88, Lady Margaret Road, London, N.

MISS EMILY FOXCROFT, A.L.A.M. (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, At Homes, &c.
76, Calabria Road, Highbury Place, N.

MADAME JENNY HOLDEN (Contralto)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., Ashlynne, Ashton-under-Lyne.

MISS LUCIE JOHNSTONE (Contralto)
13, Cromwell Grove, West Kensington Park, W.
LINCOLN CATHEDRAL FESTIVAL, June, 1896.—". . . Miss Lucie Johnstone has a fine contralto voice and a power of pathetic expression which is remarkable."—Daily Telegraph.
". . . Miss Lucie Johnstone's cultured singing added in no small degree to the completeness of the performance."—Nottingham Guardian.

MADAME ELIZA THOMAS (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c. Zion House, Harlesden, N.W.

MISS STONE-HUMPHRIES (Contralto)
For Oratorios or Ballad Concerts, &c.
Former R.C.M. Student; latterly Pupil of Mr. Randegger.
Terms, &c., from 33, De Vere Gardens, Kensington, W.

MISS ALICE WOLSTENHOLME (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Address, Radcliffe, Manchester.

MR. WRIGHT BEAUMONT (Tenor)
(Bronze and Silver Medalist, and Certificate, R.A.M.).
Address, 20, Lavender Gardens, Clapham Junction, S.W.

MR. HARRY BERREY
("The New Tenor")
Opera or Oratorio. Success everywhere.
"Powerful and sympathetic tenor voice."—Musical Times.
Bandon Terrace, St. Helen's, near Liverpool.

MR. HERBERT CLINCH
Oratorios, Ballads, At Homes, &c.
Address, 41, Frederick Street, St. John's Wood, N.W.

MR. WILFRED LALANDE (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 5, Elm Grove, Weaste, Manchester.

MR. GWILYM RICHARDS (Tenor)
Winner of Joseph Maas Memorial Prize,
" " Goldberg Prize,
" " Evill Prize,
At the Royal Academy of Music.
Of the Crystal Palace and St. James's Hall Concerts.
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts. 30, Redburn Street, Chelsea, S.W.

MR. J. SHAKESPEARE ROBINSON
(Principal Tenor, York Minster)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., has still a few open dates in September and October. Address, 2, Sycamore Terrace, York.
From the Huddersfield Examiner, Oct. 23, 1895:—"Mr. Shakespeare Robinson has a very musical and even tenor voice, and a sterling artistic style of singing."
From the Melton Mowbray Weekly News, Jan. 15, 1896:—"A fine voice and an artistic singer."
From the Melton Mowbray Times, Jan. 18, 1896:—"Winning the golden opinions of the audience."
From the Whitby Gazette, March 27, 1896:—"Sang with intelligence and refinement."
From the Selby Express, April 17, 1896:—"Mr. Robinson was vociferously applauded."
From the Beverley Recorder, April 25, 1896:—"Mr. Robinson's clear enunciation of the tenor solos at once established him as a favourite with the audience."

MR. THURGATE SIMPSON (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Ballads.
Address, Collyhurst, Manchester.

MR. HARRY STUBBS (Tenor)
MR. GEORGE STUBBS (Bass)
Of St. Paul's Cathedral Choir.
For Engagements, address, 98, Holland Road, Brixton, S.W.

MR. HENRY TURNPENNY (Tenor)
(Robinson Prize-winner, G.S.M.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., Southgate Road, Wood Green, N.

MR. NORMAN WALLS (Tenor)
(Pupil of Isidore de Solla).
Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, 109, Grosvenor Road, Highbury New Park, London, N.

MR. HERBERT ALDRIDGE (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, Saxonbury Villa, Buxton Road, Stratford, E.

MR. J. G. HEWSON (Baritone)
ELIJAH.—"The honours were taken by Mr. Hewson, who has certainly not been surpassed in Retford for some time."—Retford News.
"The baritone was a fine singer, well trained and musical. He found favour with the audience from the first, continued it to the end, and received numerous encores."—Gainsborough News.
"Mr. Hewson was heard to advantage in the 'Baal' scene, his dramatic declamation of recitatives being excellent. . . . 'Is not His word' was magnificent."—Belper Journal.
Mr. H. has specially studied "Elijah" under Mr. Santley.
Press opinions, &c., 276, Hyde Road, Manchester.

MR. NATHAN LINLEY (Baritone)
Oratorios, Concerts, Masonic Banquets, &c.
Address, 14, Durley Road, Stamford Hill, N.

MR. WILLIAM RILEY (Baritone), Huddersfield.
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Address as above.

MR. JOHN BROWNING
(Principal Bass, Leeds Parish Church Choir).
SEASON 1895-6.—Sang solos in "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Walpurgis Night," "Messiah," "Samson," "Judas," "Acis and Galatea," "Creation," "Last Judgment," Brahms's "Requiem," "Redemption," "Crusaders," "Erl-King's Daughter," "Joan of Arc," Bach's "Passion," "Bride of Dunkerron," "Maritana," "Rose Maiden," &c. Also engaged as vocalist with Sir Charles Hallé's Orchestra, and at numerous Ballad Concerts, singing in all the North of England Counties.

MR. ALFRED OSMOND (Bass)
(Pupil of Mr. Fred. Walker).
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 39, Gayton Road, Hampstead, N.W.

MR. RICKARD (The Yorkshire Basso)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, King Cross, Halifax.

MISS LIZA HONEYMAN (Solo Violinist)
For Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Cremona Villa, Newport, Fife, N.B.

MR. J. MARSHALL BUCKLEY (Solo Violinist)
(Pupil of Mons. Ch. Duncla, Paris Conservatoire).
"Mr. J. Marshall Buckley, who delighted the audience by his clever performances and was encored for each item."—Liverpool Mercury.
For terms, 47, Falkner Street, Liverpool.

MISS VIOLET NICHOLSON
(Solo Mandolinist)
3, Upper Montagu Street, Hyde Park, W.

MR. and MRS. HENRY BEAUMONT (Madame Adelaide Mullen) are now booking Oratorio, Ballad, and Operatic Concerts for the coming season. Address, jointly or separately, 1A, Oxford and Cambridge Mansions, Hyde Park, W.

MR. LAWRENCE FRIAR (Tenor), St. Paul's Cathedral, begs to announce his REMOVAL to "Kelross," Park Road, West Dulwich, S.E.

MR. HIRWEN JONES (Principal Tenor). Of Leeds, Worcester, Hereford, Bridlington, and Cardiff Festivals. Dates booked: Sept. 8, 9, 10, 11, Worcester Festival; 16, Cardiff (Patti Concert); 23, 24, Hovingham Festival; 12, 17, Oct. 9, Queen's Hall Promenade Concerts; Nov. 5, Queen's Hall ("Creation"); Dec. 17, Southport; 18, Birkenhead; 19, Blundelsands; 21, Dublin ("Messiah"); 30, Greenock ("Messiah"); Jan. 1, 1897, Glasgow ("Messiah"); Feb. 3, Belfast; 17, Gravesend; March 18, Halifax; 30, Liverpool Philharmonic; April 21, Cardiff (Orchestral). Address, 8, Nottingham Place, London, W.; or, Agents.

MR. WILLIAM WILD (Tenor), of the "Sir Charles and Lady Hallé South African Concert Tour, 1895." (Pupil of Andrew Black, Esq.) For Oratorios, Orchestral Concerts, &c. "Specially recommended by Sir Charles Hallé for concert work." Terms, Press notices, &c., Grosvenor Square, Stalybridge, near Manchester.

MR. GORDON HELLER.—"A powerful and high baritone. Many of his songs were well sung."—The Times. "Sings with taste and judgment."—The Morning. "Voice of musical quality and considerable power."—The Standard. "Good voice, which he knows how to employ."—Morning Post. "Sang with much artistic feeling and intelligence."—Truth. For Oratorios, &c., address, care of N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London, W.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass) is now booking dates for his Oratorio and Concert Party. Address, 45, Pentonville Road, N.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass, Conductor, Italian Church, Hatton Garden) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Opera, or Concerts be addressed, 45, Pentonville Road, N.

MR. C. G. OSBORNE, L.R.A.M. (Pianist), Professor at the London College of Music, COACHES for L.R.A.M. Separate subjects if desired. Latest information. Very moderate terms. 55, Beresford Road, Highbury New Park, N.

MISS ADA LOARING
(SOPRANO)
Merrion, Wellington Road, Peckham, S.E.

MADAME LAURA SMART
(SOPRANO)
Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Ballad Concerts.
Address, 106, Bolingbroke Grove, Wandsworth Common, S.W. or, 50, Church Street, Liverpool.

MADAME TREFFLYN
(SOPRANO)

Covent Garden, Autumn Season, 1895; the late Sir Augustus Harris's Drury Lane Opera Season, 1896; of the Queen's Hall Concerts, &c.

Opera, Oratorio, Opera Recitals, and Ballad Concerts.

For terms and vacant dates, apply, Concert Direction, Mendelssohn Parry, 11, Northumberland Mansions, London, W.

MADAME MARIE HOOTON
AND MR.
EDWARD BRANSCOMBE
Beg to announce that they will return from Australia by the end of September, and are at liberty to accept Engagements for London and Provinces from October 1 onwards.
Please address, care of H. F. Salmon, Esq., The Woodlands, Etherow Street, East Dulwich, S.E.; or, Messrs. Healey and Son, 17, Great Marlborough Street, W.

MR.
EDWARD BRANSCOMBE
(TENOR)
(Of Westminster Abbey).
Specially engaged during July and August for the Sydney Oratorio Festival: "Elijah," "Spectre's Bride," "Judas"; Melbourne Oratorio Festival: "Elijah," "Samson," "Lobgesang"; Adelaide Oratorio Festival: "Elijah," "Spectre's Bride," "Messiah."
All communications to Messrs. Healey and Son, 17, Gt. Marlborough Street, W.; or, H. F. Salmon, Esq., The Woodlands, Etherow Street, East Dulwich, S.E.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.
MR. DUDLEY BUCK (JUN.)
(TENOR)
All communications to Mr. Mendelssohn Parry, Concert and Operatic Agent, 11, Northumberland Mansions, W.

MR. CHARLES CHILLEY
Begs to announce that he has REMOVED to 38, Carson Road, West Dulwich, S.E.

MR.
HAMLYN CRIMP
(TENOR)
For terms and vacant dates, please apply, The Woodlands, Heathfield Road, Birmingham.
Concert Parties arranged.

MR.
ALEXANDER MUSGROVE
(BARITONE)
(Of St. James's Hall and Crystal Palace Concerts)
For Oratorio, Concerts, &c.
For terms, vacant dates, Press notices, address, 67, Berners Street, London, W.; or, care of Forsyth Bros., 126 and 128, Deansgate, Manchester.

Communications for
MR. DOUGLAS POWELL
until his return in September from Australian tour, may be addressed 44, Dafforne Road, Upper Tooting, S.W.; or principal Agents.

MR. JOS. REED
(Principal Tenor, Trinity College)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., terms, Garden Walk, Cambridge.

MR. ROLAND HOYLE

(BARITONE)

(Of Sir Charles Hallé's and Provincial Concerts).

Press notices, terms, &c., 22, Queen Street, Cheetham, Manchester.

MR. CHARLES KNOWLES

(BARITONE)

For Oratorios and Ballad Concerts. Engaged Nov. 3, Leeds Choral Union ("Faust").

For terms, vacant dates, and Press notices, address, 61, Burley St., Leeds.

MR. DANIEL PRICE

(BARITONE)

Westminster Abbey. Address, 18, Clarendon Road, W.

MR. AND MRS.

WALLIS A. WALLIS

(Baritone and Soprano). For Concerts, Complete Two Hours' Lyrical and Literary Recitals, &c., have Winter dates booked in all parts of Britain, including Scotland, in Nov., Jan., and March. Prospectus, Terms, &c., 33, Blomfield Road, Maida Vale, W.

MR. ARTHUR BARLOW

(BASS)

For Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, &c.

Address, 19, Oval Road, Regent's Park, N.W.; or, N. Vert, 6, Cork Street, W.

MR. THOMAS KEMPTON

(BASS)

Vicar-Choral, St. Paul's Cathedral.

For Engagements and Pupils, address, 55, Petherton Rd., Canonbury.

MR.

WILLIAM LLEWELLYN

(BASS)

Principal Bass, the late Sir Augustus Harris's Drury Lane Opera Season, 1896; Covent Garden Opera Season, Oct. and Nov., 1895; late of the Carl Rosa Opera Company, Crystal Palace Concerts, &c.

Bookings for coming Concert Season include: Cardiff Musical Society (Berlioz's "Faust"), Bath Choral Society ("Redemption"), Leamington ("Judas"), Belfast ("Messiah"), Manchester, Liverpool, Newcastle, Glasgow (three dates), Hull, Darlington, Walsall, Shrewsbury, Scarborough (two dates), &c.

All communications to Sole Agent, Concert Direction, Mendelssohn Parry, 11, Northumberland Mansions, London, W.

MISS ALICE MARY SMITH

(Mrs. Alfred Dymes)

(Associate of the Royal College of Music)

(HARPIST)

16, Lancaster Road, W.

THE GRIMSON FAMILY.

This remarkable family of Instrumentalists can be engaged either together or separately. Programmes suitable for an entire Concert or for small Choral Societies or Literary and Musical Societies. They play almost any combination of Chamber Music, from the Mendelssohn Octet downwards.

SOLO PIANISTS.

Miss ANNIE GRIMSON, A.R.C.M., and Hopkinson Gold Medalist, Covent Garden Promenade Concerts, Imperial Institute, &c.

Miss AMY GRIMSON, A.R.C.M., and Hopkinson Gold Medalist.

SOLO VIOLIN.

Miss JESSIE GRIMSON, Crystal Palace Saturday Concerts.

VIOLA.

Mr. S. DEAN GRIMSON.

For terms, Press notices, &c., S. Dean Grimson, Cremona, Ealing, W.

MR.

HUGO GÖRLITZ

Director of all PADEREWSKI Tours abroad.

ON TOUR WITH

MADAME AMY SHERWIN'S OPERATIC CONCERT COMPANY

IN SOUTH AFRICA

Returns to London about November 1, 1896.

All communications to be sent to 19, Old Burlington Street, W.

SOLO BOYS.

LONDON TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CHORISTERS.

President: Mr. RANDEGGER.

Principal: Mr. JAMES BATES.

TWENTY SOLO BOYS, strongly recommended as being excellent vocalists and thoroughly reliable, can be engaged for Oratorios, Festival Services, Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c.

FIFTY LEADING BOYS, engaged by the Royal Choral Society (Gounod's "Redemption"), the Queen's Hall Choral Society (all Concerts), and the other principal London Musical Societies, are free on week-days only.

OVER ONE HUNDRED competent Chorus Boys available.

For terms, photos of Solo Boys, prospectus, or further particulars, address, Mr. G. E. Jeffries, Secretary, Church House, Porchester Terrace, Hyde Park, W.

MR.

BLAXLAND'S SOLO BOYS

HIGHLY TRAINED. THOROUGHLY RELIABLE.

For Harvest Festivals, Banquets, Concerts, &c.

Terms, &c., address, Mr. BLAXLAND, 15, Tavistock Crescent, Westbourne Park, W.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) supplies Solo Boys, personally trained, for Church Festivals, Organ Recitals, At Homes, Garden Parties, Bazaars, Concerts, &c.

For vacant dates, terms, and further particulars, address—

Mr. HENRY J. DUTTON, 19, Alpha Road, New Cross, S.E.

MR. JOSEF CANTOR'S

"GEMS OF THE OPERAS"

CONCERT COMPANY.

All communications, Church Street, Liverpool.

Telegrams—"Cantor, Liverpool."

THE COWARD-KEMPTON QUARTET.

ALTO: Mr. PERCY COWARD; TENOR: Mr. ARTHUR COWARD; BARITONE: Mr. RANDULPH COWARD; BASS: Mr. BELL KEMPTON.

For Concerts, &c. Terms on application to Arthur Coward (care of Metzler and Co., Ltd.), Great Marlborough Street, W.

ROYAL WINDSOR GLEE SINGERS

(Of St. George's Chapel Royal and Eton College Chapel).

For Concerts, Garden Parties, &c. Terms on application to D. Humphreys, 19, The Cloisters, Windsor.

THE MISSES TULLOCH'S

VOCAL, INSTRUMENTAL, AND DRAMATIC

RECITALS.

OPERATIC SCENAS AND ARIAS. BALLADS.
MANDOLINE AND GUITAR SOLOS AND DUETS.
ITALIAN, FRENCH, AND GERMAN SONGS.
SPANISH SONGS TO GUITAR ACCOMPANIMENTS.
RECITATIONS (POETIC AND HUMOROUS).

For Press notices and programmes, address, Miss D. Tulloch, 16, Linden Gardens, London, W.; or, usual Concert Agents.

GUILD OF CHURCH MUSICIANS,

35, WELLINGTON ST., STRAND, LONDON, W.C.

Under the Patronage of the Bishops and Clergy of the Church of England.

President: The Very Rev. FRANCIS PIGOU, D.D., Dean of Bristol.

Warden and Licensed Lay Chaplain: J. H. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.

Sub-Warden: F. J. KARN, Mus. Doc., F.G.C.M.

MUSICAL PATRONS:

Frederic H. Cowen, Esq.; George Riseley, Esq., R.A.M.; W. H. Longhurst, Esq., Mus. Doc., F.R.C.O.; Berthold Tours, Esq.; Edwin M. Lott, Esq., Mus. Doc., F.R.C.O.; G. Robertson Sinclair, Esq.; H. E. Ford, Esq., Mus. Doc.; J. M. W. Young, Esq.; Arthur Henry Brown, Esq.; Alfred J. Caldicott, Esq., Mus. Doc.; William Spark, Esq., Mus. Doc., F.R.C.O., &c.

A.G.C.M. and F.G.C.M. Diploma Examinations, January, 1897.

Two French Lydall Exhibitions for Organ Accompaniment, each of the value of £5. Examination, January, 1897.

Annual Membership or Choir Enrolment, 10s. 6d. Life, £5 5s.

Calendar (7th Edition), revised, now ready, 1s., post-free.

Set of last Examination Papers, 1s., post-free.

Representatives required in England and abroad.

Free Register for Organists requiring appointments.

For further particulars, apply to the Warden for a Prospectus.

Annual Banquet, November 16, 1896, at which the President of the Guild will (D.V.) preside.

By Order of the Council.

BAKER STREET CHURCH OF ENGLAND HIGH SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, Ltd.,

6, UPPER BAKER STREET, N.W.

(One Minute from the Metropolitan Station).

The Rev. Canon Francis Holland, Chairman.

PIANO (under the direction of Mr. Oscar Beringer): Miss Constance Bache, Miss Ethel Boyce, A.R.A.M., Miss Jessie Davies, A.R.A.M., Miss Kate Robinson, &c.
VIOLIN (under the direction of Herr Josef Ludwig): Herr J. Ludwig, Miss Louisa Nunn.
SINGING (under the direction of Mrs. Hutchinson): Mrs. Hutchinson, Miss Margaret Barter.
HARMONY CLASSES: Orchestral Practices, during Lent and Christmas Terms.
BOARDING-HOUSE for SCHOLARS and BYE-STUDENTS: Miss Price and Miss Woods, 78, Gloster Place, Portman Square.
For Prospectus, &c., apply to the Headmistress, Miss Lilla B. Strong, 6, Upper Baker Street, N.W.

THE HOLLAND ACADEMY FOR VOICE PRODUCTION AND SINGING.—84, New Bond Street, W.

Principal, Mr. Edwin Holland.

Michaelmas Term commences Oct. 2. Entrance Examination, Sept. 25, 3-5 p.m. The competition for the Holland Scholarship (one year's free tuition under Mr. Edwin Holland), open to all voices, will be held on Sept. 24. Entrance forms, prospectus, and all details can be obtained from E. L. Barry, Secretary.

MUSICAL INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE,

Limited.

Founded 1878. Incorporated 1893.
Central Office: 113, Great Portland Street, W.
Principal: Edwin M. Lott, Mus. Doc.
Vice-Principal: James H. Lewis, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.
Next Local Theoretical Examination, November 25, 1896.
Practical Examinations throughout the kingdom.
W. A. PHILPOTT, Mus. Bac., F.M.I.C., Secretary.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Instituted by the Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.
Incorporated, 1891.

Patrons:
The Rt. Hon. The Marquis of Lorne, K.T.
The Rt. Hon. The Earl of Dartmouth.
Director:
J. H. Lewis, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.
Registrar:
George Prior, Mus. Doc., Oxon.
Bursar:
W. F. W. Jackson, Mus. Bac., Oxon.

Local and Higher (Practical) Examinations are now being held at various Local Centres.
Metropolitan Examination, in all Subjects, and for all Grades, including the Diplomas of Associate (A.V.C.M.), Associate in Music (A.Mus.V.C.M.), Licentiate (L.V.C.M.), and Licentiate in Music (L.Mus.V.C.M.) will be held.
The Educational Department is under the direction of Dr. Prior.
Local Secretaries required for towns not already represented.
Full particulars on application.
GEO. A. STANTON, F.G.C.M., Secretary.
Central Office: 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C

THE VIRGIL CLAVIER PIANOFORTE METHOD. — Mr. STIEBLER COOK, A.R.A.M., gives LESSONS on the above system (recommended by Paderewski, Von Bülow, De Pachmann). By far the most rapid and certain means yet devised for acquiring a perfect technique. For particulars, address, 17, Keppel St., Russell Sq., W.C.; or, Secretary, Metropolitan College of Music, 415, Holloway Road, N., where Mr. Cook also receives Pupils.

THE WEST LONDON CONSERVATOIRE OF MUSIC,

75, THE GROVE, HAMMERSMITH, W.

Patrons: Sir Lionel Darell, Bart., C. J. Monk, M.P., F. H. Cowen, C. Lee Williams, Hugh Blair, and G. Robertson Sinclair, Esqrs., Mrs. Ellicott, and Mrs. S. E. Phillips.
Visitor: Sir Arthur Sullivan.
President: Miss Hilda Wilson.
Vice-President: Watkin Mills, Esq.
Professors: Mrs. Mary Davies, Mrs. Hutchinson, Madame Frickenhaus, Madame Annie Marriott, Misses Margaret Hoare and Agnes Wilson, Messrs. Johannes Wolff, W. H. Brereton, Bantock Pierpoint, Charles Fry, Franklin Clive, C. A. Connock, Wilfrid Bendall, W. H. Eayres, R. B. Addison, Septimus Webbe, Ernest Kiver, W. C. Hann, W. Stroud Wilson, Bernhard Carrodus, G. R. Betjemann, E. A. Carrodus, and others.
Directors of Studies: Miss Agnes Wilson and W. Stroud Wilson, Esq.
For further particulars, address Secretary.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

Examinations for Degrees in Music are held in March and September.
Full particulars, with copies of former papers, of Dr. Armes, The Bailey, Durham.

London College of Music,

Incorporated 1892.] [Limited.

GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET, LONDON, W.

PATRONS.

His Grace the Duke of Leeds.
Sir Francis W. Brady, Bart., Q.C.
Sir Robert Raper, Kt.
Sir Edward Reid.
Sir Vincent Kennett-Barrington, Kt.

BOARD OF EXAMINATION.

Horton Allison, Esq., Mus.D., Dublin; Mus.B., Cantab.
W. H. Longhurst, Esq., Mus.D., Cantuar, F.R.C.O.
Walter H. Sangster, Esq., Mus. Doc., Oxon.

EXAMINERS.

Alfred J. Caldicott, Esq., Mus. Bac., Cantab. (Principal, Education Department).
G. Augustus Holmes, Esq. (Director of Examinations).
Dr. F. J. Karn, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (Vice-Principal).
C. E. Allum, Esq., Mus. Doc.; T.C.D.
Frederic Atkins, Esq., Mus. Bac., Oxon.
C. H. Briggs, Esq., Mus. Doc., Cantab.
J. Maude Crament, Esq., Mus. Bac., Oxon.
Seymour Smith, Esq.
O. A. Mansfield, Esq., Mus. D.; L.Mus.L.C.M.; F.R.C.O.
Horace Hill, Esq., Mus. Doc., Cantab.
Wm. Spark, Esq., Mus. Doc., Dublin; F.R.C.O.
Theodore S. Tearne, Esq., Mus. Bac., Oxon.; L.Mus.
William C. Dewberry, Esq., Mus. Bac., Cantab., A.R.A.M.

EXAMINATIONS in PIANOFORTE PLAYING, SINGING, THEORY, and all branches of Music will be held in London and at 350 Provincial Centres in December next, when Certificates will be granted to all successful candidates.

SYLLABUS and FORMS of ENTRY can be obtained of the Secretary, who will supply all particulars. The last day of entry is November 14.

SILVER and BRONZE MEDALS and BOOK PRIZES are offered for competition in accordance with the regulations.

APPLICATION for the formation of NEW CENTRES should be made to the Secretary, who will furnish all necessary information.

The DIPLOMAS granted by the College are Associate (A.L.C.M.), Associate in Music (A.Mus.L.C.M.), Licentiate (L.L.C.M.), and Licentiate in Music (L.Mus.L.C.M.). Regulations and list of Diplomés on application.

In the EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT Students are received and thoroughly trained under eminent Professors at moderate fees. Day and Evening Classes are held in various subjects.

REHEARSALS of the COLLEGE LADIES' CHOIR and of the OPERATIC CLASS are held each week. Membership of the Ladies' Choir is free to all Students of Vocal Music.

STUDENTS' CONCERTS, and LECTURES and RECITALS by Professors, are periodically given during Term in the Lecture Hall of the College. Full particulars will be found duly published in the daily papers.

T. WEEKES HOLMES, Secretary.

TEACHERS WANTED.

MACDONALD SMITH'S SYSTEM.

("FROM BRAIN TO KEYBOARD.")

MR. MACDONALD SMITH'S Correspondence Branch having so increased as to oblige him to decline many applications for personal lessons in TOUCH and TECHNIQUE, it having also come to his knowledge that his system is being very inadequately re-taught in some quarters and in a way little calculated to bring credit to the method, he has decided to afford to a few competent gentlemen the opportunity of becoming certificated teachers, under the following conditions:—

Applicants to be good musicians, and to prove, by testimonials, previous proficiency in either (a) pure and applied Mechanics or (b) Anatomy and Physiology.

Should many desire to enter for this, certificates will be awarded by competition.

Candidates whose testimonials are satisfactory will, upon payment of an examination fee of £2 2s., be supplied with the set of the general "From Brain to Keyboard" Exercises, and with a list of twenty questions on the physiology of pianoforte playing, to be answered before February 1, 1897. Names of best works to consult will be given.

If by the latter date no candidate has answered these satisfactorily, no certificate will be granted.

Fee for Certificate, £30. Successful candidates will be fully instructed by Mr. Macdonald Smith in every detail of the application of the system to special cases, without further charge.

Young engineers or medical men who are musicians would find the above a remunerative opening.

Address application, enclosing testimonials, to—

MACDONALD SMITH,

STEINWAY HALL, LOWER SEYMOUR STREET, W.

A MUS. BAC., Cantab., teaches HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT by Correspondence. A., Clarence Villas, East Dereham, Norfolk.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. New House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who OBTAINED DEGREES OF MUS.D. AND MUS.B. at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, and Durham (1896) Universities, Diplomas of L.R.A.M. (1896, &c.), A.Mus. L.C.M., L.Mus. L.C.M., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O. (1895); Appointments at College and School of Music, and as Chapel Royal, Cathedral, and Parish Church Organists; Gold Medals, Prizes, "Honours" and Pass Certificates (of the Colleges of Music) to the number of 500. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Piano. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS. Dr. Horton Allison, Mus.D. 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or at 84, New Bond Street, W. Schools attended. Address, Willersley House, Old Charlton.

DR. J. M. BENTLEY, Hon. F.R.A.M.—Instruction in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, and ORCHESTRATION per post. Address, Messrs. Novello and Co.

A.R.C.M. TEACHERS' EXAM.—MISS B. FURZE, A.R.C.M. (Double Diploma), COACHES by CORRESPONDENCE in "Physiology of the Voice." Address, Northumberland College of Music, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

MR. FRANK FREWER, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.O. (Organist, St. James's, Garlickhithe, City), teaches the PIANOFORTE, ORGAN, &c. Preparation for Exams. Terms moderate. 6, Wilmot Place, Rochester Road, Camden Road, N.W.

DR. ALBERT HAM, F.R.C.O., L.T.C.L., gives LESSONS in the THEORY OF MUSIC by Post. Recent successes: F.R.C.O. and A.R.C.O., 1896; First Mus.B., Oxon.; L.R.C.M. (Singing); A.T.C.L., &c. Park Street, Taunton.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.Mus., T.C.L., prepares CANDIDATES for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; L.Mus. T.C.L., gives LESSONS Personally or by post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: A.R.C.M., 1896; CAMBRIDGE, FIRST MUS. BAC., 1896; OXFORD, MUS. BAC., 1896, and FIRST, 1896; MUS. BAC., DURHAM, 1895, also 1894, 1893, 1892, and 1891; and FIRST, 1895, also 1894, 1893, 1892, 1891, and 1890; F.R.C.O. and A.R.C.O., 1896; L.R.A.M. (Pianoforte), 1895; CAMBRIDGE, MUS. BAC.; LONDON, MUS. BAC.; DUBLIN, MUS. BAC.; L.R.A.M. (Composition); Mus. Bac. and Mus. Doc., Toronto, Gold Medalists, 1890, 1892, and 1893; L.Mus., L.C.M.; L.T.C.L., and A.T.C.L., 1895 and 1896; Senior Local R.A.M. and R.C.M. Special and individual attention given to Correspondents. Upwards of 350 Diplomas and Degrees and several Gold and Silver Medals gained by pupils. MSS. corrected and revised for publication. Terms moderate. Address, 70, Park Road, Haverstock Hill, London, N.W.

MR. S. S. MARTYN, Mus. Bac., Oxon., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., personally or by post. 24, Killieser Avenue, Streatham Hill, S.W.

MR. W. E. PITMAN, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., teaches HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT, personally or by correspondence, and coaches for the Universities, Royal College of Organists, and other Musical Exams. Thorough grounding in the various subjects. For terms, address, W. E. Pitman, Sundridge, Sevenoaks.

MR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., Lecturer on Harmony in King's College, Lond., Organist and Choirmaster, St. Stephen's, South Kensington. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS. HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., personally or by correspondence. Preparation for University, R.C.O., and other examinations. Classes. 54, Baron's Court Road, West Kensington, W.

MR. J. HARRAWAY SLAPE visits and receives PUPILS for ORGAN, PIANOFORTE, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Preparation for all Musical Exams. Recent successes, A.T.C.L., Certificated Pianist, Trinity College, 1895. Special facilities to Organ Students. Practice on 2 and 3-Manual Instruments. Terms moderate. 22, Camden Road, N.W.

MR. BRUCE STEANE prepares rapidly and systematically for MUSICAL EXAMS. in all subjects, personally or by post. Many past successes. Address, Greystone, Granville Road, Sevenoaks.

MR. R. STOKOE, Mus. Bac., Cantab., F.R.C.O., gives ORGAN LESSONS at Christ Church, Down Street, Piccadilly. Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., taught personally or by post. 86, Rossiter Road, Balham, S.W.

DR. TAYLOR, Mus.D., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.T.C.L. (Author of "Vocal Score Reading Exercises" and "Figured Bass and Melody Exercises," for R.C.O. Students), prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Address, Wolverhampton Road, Stafford.

DR. THOMAS (Mus. Doc., Oxon.; Org. and C.M., St. Clement's; Conductor, Phil.) has VACANCY for YOUTH as Resident Pupil. Thorough training; Univ. degree. Prep. for all exams. "Carlyle," Boscombe, Bournemouth.

MR. A. W. TOMLYN, Mus.B., Dunelm, L.T.C.L., Berwick-on-Tweed, COACHES CANDIDATES for University and all other Exams. by post. Every possible attention and assistance guaranteed. Many past successes.

MR. W. H. TUTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, ACOUSTICS, &c., by Correspondence. Ashburn, Derbyshire.

MR. J. E. VERNHAM, Professor of Music, Lecturer in Harmony; Organist, &c., of King's College, London; and Organist and Choirmaster of St. Paul's, Knightsbridge, gives LESSONS, and PREPARES PUPILS for Examinations.

DR. H. W. WAREING (Mus. Doc., Cantab.) PREPARES PUPILS by Correspondence for University and other Musical Exams. Latest successes:—Prelim. Mus. Bac., Cantab., May, 1896 (two passes: one first in first-class), and Final Mus. Bac., Oxon., Nov., 1895. Address, The Elms, King's Norton, Birmingham.

MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS REVISED. HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT taught by Correspondence. W. Wolstenholme, Mus. Bac., Oxon., 86, Oswald Street, Blackburn.

THE TRAINING OF ALTOS.—Lessons in Voice Production and Singing given by MUNRO DAVISON, F.R.C.O., Solo Alto, Temple Church, &c. Many of Mr. Davison's pupils have obtained Professional appointments. 142, Stroud Green Road, N.

MUS. DOC. in Cathedral City will shortly have VACANCY for RESIDENT STUDENT (Lady or Gent.) to train for profession. 3-manual organ in house. Posts found for Students. Terms very low. G. Z., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ARTICLED PUPIL.—MR. EDMUND ROGERS (Organist and Director of the Choir, St. Michael's, Star Street, Paddington) has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL. Exceptional advantages, unobtainable at the Colleges or Schools of Music. Address, 45, Alma Square, N.W.

TO MUSICAL COMPOSERS.—The Society of Authors is established for the MAINTENANCE and DEFENCE of LITERARY and MUSICAL PROPERTY. It advises Members on the Methods of Publishing, on the forms of their Agreements, and, when necessary, on the estimated cost of production. It investigates all questions of dispute connected with the above subjects and the Law of Copyright. Annual Subscription, £1 1s. Terms of Membership may be had from the Secretary,
G. HERBERT THRING,
4, Portugal Street,
Lincoln's Inn Fields, W.C.

INSTITUTE MUSIC CLASS, Leighton Buzzard.—ELIJAH, January 21, 1897. Applications from Vocalists, with terms and Press notices, wanted. T. J. MALLETT, Hon. Sec.

PAISLEY CORPORATION SATURDAY AFTERNOON RECITALS.—Vocalists and Instrumentalists visiting Scotland, able to accept ENGAGEMENTS at the above, please address: W. Agate, Mus.B., Oxon., Town Organist, Castlehead, Paisley.

LONDON COUNTY COUNCIL MUSICAL SOCIETY.—APPLICATIONS are invited for the post of MUSICAL DIRECTOR of this Society. Particulars may be obtained by sending stamped addressed envelope to the Honorary Secretary as under. Applications must be sent in not later than September 28, and should state remuneration required, and be accompanied by three testimonials (copies only) of recent date.
D. PALMER ANDREWS, Hon. Sec.
County Hall, Spring Gardens, S.W.

SOUTH YORKSHIRE ASYLUM, Wadsley, near Sheffield.—ATTENDANT WANTED (Flute Player), who must be a good performer. Wages, £30, increasing £2 10s. annually to £55, with board, lodging and uniform, but no beer. Applications, stating age, height, and whether married or single, to be sent to the Medical Superintendent, and those only deemed suitable will receive communications in reply.

SOUTH of FRANCE.—Travelling expenses and board for eight months from October offered to two gentlemen's sons with good voices. Tuition by arrangement. J. G. L., Barkstone Ash, Ryde, I.W.

CHORAL SCHOLARSHIPS at St. Michael's, Highgate.—Several SCHOLARSHIPS open to BOYS possessing good voices will shortly be competed for. Successful candidates receive a thorough commercial education entirely free of cost. Apply, G. Fleming, Esq., 50, South Grove, Highgate.

SALISBURY CATHEDRAL.—There will be a COMPETITION for one CHORISTERSHIP on Tuesday, September 15 next, at 12 noon, at the Organist's house. Candidates must as a rule be between the ages of eight and ten, but exceptions may be made. Apply, as soon as possible, for information as to references required, payments, &c., to Rev. E. E. Dorling, The Close, Salisbury.

BRISTOL CATHEDRAL.—ALTO VACANCY.—Salary, £70 a year, with an additional £5 reserved annually as a bonus, to be given (conditionally) on the termination of service. Two days a week "off duty." Only those need apply who have really good Alto voices, are thoroughly competent soloists, are able to read music at sight with facility, and have had some experience in Cathedral music. The Lay-Clerks are expected to obtain other employment in the city. Candidates must send testimonials as to character and musical efficiency, stating their age, previous experience, profession or trade, with full particulars, to the Rev. The Precentor, before September 15.

TRINITY COLLEGE, Cambridge.—There is a VACANCY for an ALTO Singer. Stipend, £80 per annum. Applications, with testimonials, stating age and experience, to be sent not later than September 10, to the Rev. L. Borissow, Trin. Coll., Cambridge, from whom particulars as to duties may be obtained.

ALTO REQUIRED, for Male-Voice Quartet. Good reader indispensable. Soloist preferred. Address, Frederick King, 42, St. Luke's Road, Westbourne Park.

ALTOS WANTED, for Holy Trinity, Sloane Street. Salary, from £25 to £40. Must be good readers. Apply to W. Alcock, Organist and Choirmaster, Preston Cottage, Uppingham.

SOLO TENOR WANTED, for Choir of American Church, Nice. October 1 to June 1. Salary, £90. Must be experienced in Church music. J. W. Potter, 22, Queen St., Deal, Kent.

ST. MICHAEL'S, Chester Square, S.W.—WANTED, two BASSES and one ALTO. Stipend, £15 and £20 per annum respectively. Apply, stating age, &c., to Organist, 15, Cambridge Street, Eccleston Square, S.W.

WANTED, immediately, a BASS (not Baritone) SINGER, for Manchester Cathedral. One who could undertake the Choristers' School as a qualified teacher preferred. References required. Apply to the Dean.

TO CONDUCTORS OF CHORAL SOCIETIES, &c.—Soprano will give SERVICES at high-class CONCERTS for expenses. Thoroughly trained for Oratorio, Operatic, and Ballad, by the best masters. A. E., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

A GENTLEMAN (1st Bass) is desirous of joining a QUARTET or GLEE PARTY. City or South of London. Address, Z., 47, Byne Road, Sydenham.

ORGANIST.—MR. F. J. MARCHMENT takes VACATION or occasional SUNDAY WORK, Oratorio Accompaniments, &c. Wingfield, Hamlet Road, Upper Norwood, S.E.

ORGANIST.—PERCY H. FELL (late of St. Mark's, South Norwood) takes VACATION DUTIES, &c. Address, Billiter House, Billiter Street, E.C.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (late of St. Michael's, Lewes) desires APPOINTMENT in High Church. Choral Celebrations, Recitals. Good accompanist, Anglican or Gregorian, Training of boys' voices a specialty. Excellent references. Arthur J. Hopper, High Street, Lewes.

THE ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER of Ryde Parish Church will be DISENGAGED in June, 1896. Anglican or Gregorian. Accustomed to conducting a Choral Society.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER wishes to compete for RE-ENGAGEMENT. A.R.C.O. Accustomed to full choral services. Communicant. Excell. tests. and refs. Arco, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

THE VICAR of RYDE desires to thank those Gentlemen who communicated with him respecting the post of Organist to the Parish Church. He received so large a number of applications (over 140) that he regrets his inability to reply to each individually, and begs that the Applicants will kindly accept this acknowledgment.

WANTED, by Young Lady, POST as MUSICAL COMPANION and SECRETARY to Professional. Good reader and accompanist. Fluent French and German. Would travel. References in exchange. Address, Lyra, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, a good TUNER and REPAIRER of PIANOS and ORGANS. Send references, C.D.V., and full particulars to Presto, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER WANTED.—A thoroughly experienced first-class Out-door TUNER REQUIRED. Apply, stating age, references, &c., to Forsyth Bros., Deansgate, Manchester.

FIRST-CLASS TUNER, who must be able to Regulate and Repair, WANTED, at once. Permanency with good wage to thoroughly reliable man. Address, Aldersons and Brentnall, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

PIANO TUNER WANTED. Young, energetic, used to canvassing for Tunings and Sales. Must be competent and reliable. Salary and Comm. V., Novello and Co., Berners St., W.

TUNER WANTED.—A First-class Fine Pianoforte TUNER, accustomed to out-door work, for London district. Permanent situation. Must have unexceptional references as to character. Write, stating experience, age, and salary expected, to H. Z., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER requires SITUATION as IMPROVER. Has had some experience in out-door work and repairs. B. E., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE, Harmonium, and American Organ TUNER, REPAIRER, and REGULATOR seeks ENGAGEMENT for a permanency. Aged 35, married, excellent references; 15 years' practical experience. Address, B. C. W., 3, Pyrland Terrace, Rowbarton, Taunton, Somersetshire.

IMPROVER.—Young Man (abstainer), fair Tuner, able to assist in repairs and make himself generally useful in the Music Business, desires SITUATION. No objection to distance A. Brantom, The Lawns, Leighton Buzzard.

PARTNER WANTED (sleeping), with £200, to join an intending purchaser of a first-class MUSICAL BUSINESS in a fashionable seaside resort, within easy distance of London. For particulars, apply, Jackson, Pixley and Co., 58, Coleman St., E.C.

PARTNERSHIP.—WANTED, in established Music Publishing Business, a PARTNER with small capital. One who would take an active interest preferred. Principals only. Write to Enterprise, Willings, 162, Piccadilly, W.

ASSISTANT (20) requires SITUATION. Thorough knowledge of Catalogues, &c. Good salesman, sight-reader, &c. Four years' highest references. P., Novello and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

GENTLEMAN requires APPOINTMENT as MANAGER or SALESMAN in Music Business. London or Provinces. Twenty years' experience. Would not object to travel for a good firm of Pianoforte Manufacturers. Excellent Pianist and Organist. Good Tuner. Six years' reference from one of the first houses in London. Address, Z. A. B., Piano, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MUSIC-ROOM (large, lofty) for Professors and Students. Lessons or practice. Bechstein piano. 162, Great Portland Street, Portland Place, W.

FIRST-CLASS PIANOFORTE and MUSIC BUSINESS, in the Midlands, for SALE. Exceptionally fine premises. Proprietor retiring. Address, Midlands, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MANCHESTER.—PIANOFORTE and MUSIC BUSINESS (and Household Furniture) for immediate DISPOSAL, through domestic trouble. Good House and Shop on main road and tram route; select suburb of City. Address, Forte, Novello Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON

FOR MUSICAL EDUCATION AND EXAMINATION.—INST. 1872.

President: SIR RICHARD E. WEBSTER, G.C.M.G., Q.C., M.P.
Warden: PROF. E. H. TURPIN, Mus.D.
Director of Studies: PROF. BRADBURY TURNER, Mus.B.

STUDENTS of the College (Professional or Amateur) can receive instruction in all branches of music under eminent Professors.

MICHAELMAS TERM begins on October 1. New Students will be admitted on September 30, at 11 and 3 o'clock, and on October 1, at 11 o'clock. Both day and evening classes are held.

For a Course of four Studies, a principal one (thirty minutes), a secondary one (twenty minutes), as well as a Theory Class subject and Sight-Singing, the fee is FIVE GUINEAS. For two principal Studies (of thirty minutes), a Theory Class subject and Sight-Singing, the fee is SIX GUINEAS. Students may enter for one subject at THREE GUINEAS a Term, for weekly lessons of thirty minutes, in any of the following subjects: Pianoforte, Solo Singing, Organ, Violin, Violoncello, Flute, Oboe, Clarinet, Harp, Horn, Trumpet, Double Bass, &c., Figured Bass Playing, Pianoforte Accompaniment, or Elocution. The class fee for Harmony, Counterpoint, Form, Instrumentation, Voice Production, Acoustics, Elocution, French, German, or Italian, is ONE GUINEA a Term.

The following Scholarships and Exhibitions in connection with the College are open to all-comers: The Henry Smart Scholarship (tenable for three years), the Queen Victoria Scholarship (tenable for three years), the Sir Julius Benedict Pianoforte Exhibition, the Sims Reeves Vocal Exhibition, the College Organ Exhibition, the College Violin Exhibition, the College Viola Exhibition, the College Violoncello Exhibition, and the College Double Bass Exhibition (all tenable for one year), and eight other Scholarships tenable for three years.

The tuition of the College is intended to serve as a preparative for the Higher and Local Examinations of the College, and for other public examinations, including the examinations for University degrees.

The successful candidates at the College Examinations entitled to use initials after their names are Licentiates in Music (L.Mus.) and Associates in Music (A.Mus.) only.

Weekly Lectures are delivered by the Warden during Term, and are especially addressed to Students intending to enter for the Higher Examinations. The Lectures are free to all Students.

Students' Concerts are given at the College at intervals during Term, and Orchestral Concerts are given at Queen's Hall.

The Orchestral Class meets each Saturday during Term, at 4 o'clock, under the direction of Mr. F. Corder.

The College Choir will be conducted by Dr. H. T. Pringuer this Term.

Prospectuses and all further information may be obtained from the undersigned.

By order of the Academical Board,
SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.
Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

Just Published.

Progressive Studies for the Pianoforte.

BOOK 53.

EDITED BY FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

EXERCISES

FOR THE

WEAKER FINGERS

BY

J. A. O'NEILL.

PREFACE.

It is an acknowledged fact that the chief obstacles to good execution and equality of touch lie in the weakness of the fourth and fifth fingers, and in a want of dexterity in passing the fourth finger over the thumb.

To overcome these difficulties the following Exercises have been specially designed. Their object is to place the weak fingers on a perfect equality with the others, thus entirely avoiding the defect of the general mechanical exercises, which, by allotting as much (or more) work to the naturally strong as to the naturally weak fingers, leave the relative inequality of strength and skill unaltered.

Experience has shown that a more marked improvement in technique is obtained by fifteen minutes' daily practice of the following Exercises for the weak fingers than by an hour's daily practice of ordinary finger-exercises. This additional facility of execution is noticeable after a short trial of ten days.

Part I. will be found quite suitable to students in the elementary stages, and whilst strengthening the weak fingers affords an excellent practice for transposition.

Part II. will greatly assist the performance of all scale and arpeggio passages, and tend to overcome the executional difficulties generally met with in advanced works.

Price One Shilling.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

John Broadwood & Sons

PIANOFORTE MAKERS

BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT TO

HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES

HER ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCESS OF WALES

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH
(DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG AND GOTHA)

AND THE

REST OF THE ROYAL FAMILY.

John Broadwood & Sons

respectfully draw attention to, and invite inspection of, their newly introduced and improved straight and cross strung

HORIZONTAL

AND

UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES.

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET (near Regent Street),

LONDON, W.

FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.

NOVELLO'S CHEAP EDITION

OF

THE CHORUSES ONLY

OF

CANTATAS, ORATORIOS, AND OPERAS.

	s.	d.
BACH.—"Passion" (St. Matthew)	1	0
BEETHOVEN.—"Mount of Olives" .. (Paper boards, 1s.)	0	6
(Tonic Sol-fa)	0	6
BENNETT.—"The May Queen" .. (Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1	0
ELGAR.—"King Olaf" .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa)	1	6
GLUCK.—"Orpheus" .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa)	1	0
GRAUN, C. H.—"The Passion" ("Der Tod Jesu")	1	0
HANDEL.— Messiah" .. .. (Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0	8
—— "Solomon"	1	6
—— "Judas Maccabæus" .. .. (Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0	8
—— "Saul"	1	0
—— "Hercules"	1	0
—— "L'Allegro, il Pensieroso, ed il Moderato"	1	0
—— "Samson" .. .. (Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0	8
HAYDN.—"The Creation" .. .. (Paper boards, 1s. 2d.)	0	8
—— "The Seasons" .. .. .. (Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1	0
MACFARREN, G. A.—"May Day" .. (Paper boards, 1s.)	0	6
MENDELSSOHN.—"Elijah" .. (Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1	0
—— "St. Paul" .. .. (Paper boards, 1s. 6d.)	1	0
—— "Hymn of Praise" ("Lobgesang") (Paper boards, 1s.)	0	6
MOZART.—"Twelfth Mass"	0	8
PARRY, C. H. H.—"Judith" .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa)	2	0
—— "Job" .. .. Tonic Sol-fa)	1	0
ROSSINI.—"Stabat Mater" .. .. .. (Paper boards, 1s.)	0	6
SPOHR.—"The Last Judgment" .. .. (Paper boards, 1s.)	0	6
VERDI.—"Il Trovatore" .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa)	1	0
WAGNER.—"The Flying Dutchman"	2	0
WEBER.—"Der Freischütz"	1	0
—— "Preciosa"	0	6

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

With this Number is presented gratis an Extra Supplement, consisting of a Part-Song by Frederic H. Cowen, entitled "Rowing Homewards."

THE MUSICAL TIMES
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
SEPTEMBER 1, 1896.

BACH'S MUSIC IN ENGLAND.

John Sebastian Bach died in the year 1750. Very few of his compositions, and those are amongst the lesser known, were printed during his lifetime, and fewer still in the fifty years immediately following his death. It was not until the nineteenth century had fully dawned that the transcendent genius of this great musician became manifest, and even then in a very limited degree. English musicians, steeped in Handelian and other traditions, regarded the music of the great Cantor with a distrust born of prejudice against anything new. In later years Beethoven and Wagner furnished instructive parallels. It was ever thus; and in the case of Bach it needed all the red-hot enthusiasm of such disciples as Felix Mendelssohn, in Germany, and Samuel Wesley, in England, to kindle the flame of Bach devotion which now burns in the breast of every true musician.

The question might naturally be asked: "What did J. C. Bach, the 'English Bach,' do for the propagation of his father's music in England?" The answer, so far as we know, is "Nothing." John Christian Bach, the eleventh son of Sebastian Bach, lived in London from 1759 (or 1762) till his death in 1782. He was a well-known figure in musical and fashionable circles, and enjoyed all the prestige attendant upon his appointment of "Music-master to the Queen." In conjunction with C. F. Abel, the eminent viol-da-gamba player, he gave Subscription Concerts at the Hanover Square Rooms, which were thus "opened" by them on February 1, 1775. Here and elsewhere he had splendid opportunities of bringing forward his father's chamber music, if he had been so disposed. Samuel Wesley records that J. C. Bach called his father "the old wig." But whatever filial affection and respect he felt towards his illustrious parent, J. C. Bach failed to show it in any public performances of his father's music. The artistic creed of the English Bach may be summarised in his own words, said in relation to his brother, C. P. Emanuel Bach: "My brother lives in order to compose; and I compose in order to live." The fact is that J. C. Bach was only a Bach in name. In his life, his art, and in his religious belief he cast off all the best traditions of his distinguished kinsmen. He lived in great style in London and kept his carriage; but he died in poverty and in debt, one of his creditors being his own coachman, from whom he had borrowed £100. J. C. Bach, who was a Roman Catholic, died January 1, 1782. At his death he was surrounded by a few faithful friends, who were fortunately at hand to prevent his corpse from being seized by pressing creditors. He was buried in the churchyard of Old St. Pancras Church, where many of his co-religionists formerly found a resting-place. In the same "parcel of ground" are interred three eminent English glee writers—John Danby, Stephen Paxton, and Samuel Webbe, the elder. If a stone ever marked the grave of the English Bach it has long since disappeared. His music is quite forgotten, and now he has no memorial of any kind. In the burial registers of St. Pancras Church the name is written "John Christian Bac*k*."

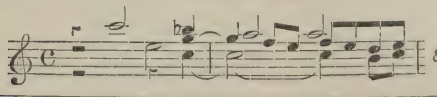
Dr. Burney, a friend of J. C. Bach's, was probably the first to introduce the name of John Sebastian Bach into English literature. In his "The present state of music in Germany" (1773-75) Burney gives a short biographical notice of Bach; but in his celebrated "History of Music" (Vols. III. and IV., published in 1789), he ventures upon a critical estimation of the great Sebastian. He says:—

> Sebastian Bach, . . . like Michael Angelo in painting, disdained facility so much, that his genius never stooped to the easy and graceful. I never have seen a Fugue by this learned and powerful author upon a motivo, that is natural and chantant; or even an easy and obvious passage, that is not loaded with crude and difficult accompaniments.

And again:

> This truly great man [J. S. Bach] seems by his works for the organ, of which I am in possession of the chief part, to have been constantly in search of what was new and difficult, without the least attention to nature and facility. He was so fond of full harmony, that besides a constant and active use of the pedals, he is said to have put down such keys by a stick in his mouth, as neither hands nor feet could reach. He died at Leipsic, 1754 (sic).

The other musical historian, Sir John Hawkins, in his "General History of the Science and Practice of Music" (1776), gives a short but sympathetic sketch of Bach, and gives as specimens of his compositions the theme and ninth and tenth variations of the "Air with thirty variations." This was probably the first appearance in print of Bach's music in England.



As has been already said, very little of the almost inexhaustible quantity of Bach's music was printed during his lifetime. The works so printed comprise the "Clavierübung," a collection of pieces for clavier and organ; the "Musikalisches Opfer," dedicated to Frederic the Great; and a few organ arrangements of chorales. Shortly after his death the "Art of Fugue," engraved by Bach himself, appeared. Two of the above works can hardly be considered practical, and the best known of the "Clavierübung" pieces are the (so-called) "St. Ann's" Prelude and Fugue and the Organ Fugue in D minor (known as "The Giant") on the chorale "Wir glauben all' an einen Gott." A collection of chorales in two volumes, selected by Emanuel Bach, was issued 1765-69. Nothing else was printed until 1800, when "The well-tempered Clavier"—better known as the "Forty-eight Preludes and Fugues"—was published by Nägeli, at Zurich, and (a separate edition) by Simrock, at Bonn.

Bach's music had unusual obstacles in becoming known in England anterior to 1800. Scarcely any of the works were printed, and the few copies that were available would be difficult and expensive to procure from abroad. But those were leisurely times, very favourable to the copying of music. It is well known that not only did Bach himself frequently make more than one copy of a work—and with variants too—but that his pupils were also in the habit of making transcripts. Thus, from hand to hand, the great works of Bach were disseminated amongst his small but devoted band of admirers. Some of these manuscript copies found their way to this country even before 1800. An examination of various musical sale-catalogues of the early years of the century proves this. At the auctions of the musical libraries of Dr. Burney, J. B. Cramer, Knyvett, and others, Bach "lots" are frequently described as being in MS., though it does not follow that they were in the handwriting of Bach himself.* That Bach's music seems to have found its way into England at a very early date is largely proved by the following curious discovery made in the course of my researches on this subject.

In the library of the Royal College of Music (that portion of it which formerly belonged to the now defunct Sacred Harmonic Society) is a set of nineteen volumes of MS. music which formerly belonged to Dr. Benjamin Cooke (1734-93), organist of Westminster Abbey. This collection, according to the printed catalogue, is described as "chiefly in his handwriting, and consisting principally of his own compositions, many of the copies being originals, and several pieces being unpublished." The volume lettered "D b" contains, according to the Catalogue — but not so designated or assigned in the MS. itself—a "Lesson for Organ, or Harpsichord with Pedals—J. S. Bach." An examination of this manuscript—which does not seem to be in the handwriting of Dr. Benjamin Cooke—reveals some startling features.

The whole of this curious "Lesson," which is in four movements, is written on three staves. The first movement is headed "Preludium pro Organo Pedaliter," and turns out to be the Variant form (printed in Peters' Edition, Vol. II. of the Organ Works) of Bach's well-known Organ Prelude in C, beginning:

but here transposed into B flat. It has three more bars at the end than in the Peters' (Griepenkerl) Variant. Then follows a movement, Adagio, in E flat, 3-4 time, fourteen bars long, and ending on the chord of D major. This, a sort of intermezzo, bears no trace of Bach, and is a weak connecting link. The third movement is the Allegro (6-8) of Bach's Viol-da-gamba Sonata in G minor (Bach-Gesellschaft Edition, Vol. IX., p. 213; or, Peters' Edition, No. 239, p. 12), but very different from the published version and two bars shorter. It is here set out as an organ piece in three lines, and has the superscription: "Trio, a 2 Clav. e Pedal." A Tutti of five bars follows—in the recitative style of Bach, but evidently not by him—which finishes on the chord of F major. This dominant chord prepares the way for the last movement, which is none other than Bach's Organ Fugue in C (companion to the above Prelude), headed "Fuga pro Organo Pedaliter," but transposed a tone lower:

Allowing for the transposition, this is practically the same version as the Peters' edition, except that the magnificent entry of the subject in the pedal on the low C (twelve bars before the end) appears thus:

whereby the parts are necessarily crossed.

At the end of this patchwork composition, and in the handwriting of Dr. Benjamin Cooke, is found the following extraordinary statement:

"By the late Mr. John Robinson, Organist. Predecessor to B. C."

In the index to the volume, also in Dr. Cooke's hand, occurs: "Pedal Lesson for Organ, or Harpsichord—Robinson."

Here is a plagiaristic mystery. John Robinson (1682-1762), an organist of Westminster Abbey, was "a very florid and elegant performer on the organ"; but as a composer he is only known by his double chant in E flat. Supposing that John Robinson was guilty of the theft which his successor, Dr. Ben. Cooke, unconsciously charges him with, this MS. helps to prove that Bach's music found its way into England at a much earlier period than is generally supposed, as John Robinson died in 1762, only twelve years after Bach. Unfortunately, Dr. Ben. Cooke, who departed this life in 1793, is not here to explain the matter. The next best thing is to hand over the solution of this mystery to that eminent antiquary and lecturer, Dr. J. F. Bridge, one of John Robinson and Ben. Cooke's most distinguished

* In a sale-catalogue of the libraries of Drs. W. and P. Hayes there is a very suspicious and significant "lot" thus described: "German and Italian airs, mostly in Handel's handwriting"! What has become of this? If we could only gather together Handel's working library, what a tale it might tell!

successors in the organistship of Westminster Abbey.

One of the first to introduce Bach's music into England was A. F. C. Kollmann (1756-1829), a naturalised English musician. In the year 1799 Kollmann published a treatise entitled:

An Essay on Practical Musical Composition, according to the nature of that science, and the principles of the greatest musical authorities. By Augustus Frederic Christopher Kollmann, Organist of His Majesty's German Chapel at St. James's, London. . . 1799.

In the preface to his book the author states, in reference to the musical examples:

I have chiefly selected for my purpose such pieces as have either not yet been printed, or as are scarce and not generally known.

In the text (p. 97) Kollmann thus refers to Bach's "Forty-eight":

Every Prelude and Fugue may be considered a Sonata of two movements, each of which can be used as a piece by itself. This most ingenious, most learned, and yet practicable work is so highly esteemed by all who can judge of it, that, as it has grown scarce, I intend to offer it to the public analysed. The first Prelude and Fugue of it, see at Plate lii., et seq.

Kollmann (Plate lii.) prints the Prelude and Fugue in C (No. 1 of Part II.), and also, as another Bach example, the Organ Trio in E flat. This brings out the interesting fact that one of the "Forty-eight" was printed in an English book before the complete work had appeared in Germany. The same honour can also be claimed for the Organ Trio in E flat. Kollmann's intention of issuing an analysed edition of the "Forty-eight" referred to above was very soon noticed in the Allgemeine musikalische Zeitung, published at Leipzig. The issue of October 2, 1799, contains something to this effect:

England is not unacquainted with the state of music in Germany. . . . Even those higher departments of German art, in which we ourselves begin to be strangers, are so well known there, that an English organist can have the courage of publishing Sebastian Bach's "Well Temper'd Clavier, with Explanations"; when but a few years ago an attempt of printing that work was made in vain, at two different places, in that great composer's own country.

The foregoing extract is as it appears quaintly translated in the Quarterly Musical Register for January, 1812, a work edited by Kollmann, and which forms part of an article headed "Of John Sebastian Bach and his works." Kollmann (or the writer) immediately goes on to say:

This created so great an emulation that the said work [i.e., the Forty-eight], which had never been printed before, appeared in print about a year after, at three different places—viz., at Zürich, Bonn, and Leipzig; and it has since been printed at several other places.

But as numerous copies of the first three editions were imported in England, it made Mr. Kollmann relinquish his intended edition, and attempt those twelve Analysed Fugues of his own, which he has lately published.

Another important fact disclosed by the above information is, that Kollmann's proposed edition of the "Forty-eight" was never published. This ought to settle the matter once for all, and also to put a stop to those erroneous statements to the contrary which unfortunately have found their way into recent and important books of reference.*

Another feature of interest to English musicians is that (as Kollmann naïvely says) "so great an emulation" as a possible publication of the "Forty-eight" in England stirred up the German music publishers to expedite the issue of Bach's great work, in order that they should not to be forestalled by any Englishman. On the authority of Franz Kroll, the learned and conscientious editor of the "Forty-eight" in the Bach-Gesellschaft edition, the earliest published editions of the work were:

1. Nägeli, Zürich, 1800 ("Lavenu, London," also on the title-page).
2. Simrock, Bonn, 1800.
3. Peters,† Leipzig (Bureau de Musique), 1801.

Thus it was not until fifty years after the death of Bach that his best known work was given to the world. F. G. E.

(To be continued.)

FROM MY STUDY.

THE fac-simile reproductions in the present issue may interest students of caligraphy as showing the handwriting of two distinguished French musicians—Mr. Massenet and Mr. Lamoureux. Mr. Joseph Bennett possesses the originals, which were addressed to him; the first in connection with an English version of "Manon"; the second as part of a correspondence relating to the analytical programmes of the writer's first series of concerts in this country.

I have to thank Mr. W. H. Cummings, F.S.A., for a valuable communication on the subject of "To Anacreon in Heaven." The reader may be reminded that the tune of the song so called was adopted as that of "The Star-spangled Banner"; also that Mr. McLaughlin, a writer in the American Art Journal, lately asserted his belief that "To Anacreon in Heaven" belongs, words and music, to America, and challenged evidence of its publication in England prior to 1796, the date of the first American issue. Last month I had no difficulty in proving that the Anacreontic ditty was known, and sung, in London long before 1796, and now Mr. Cummings establishes the claim of England to the tune. Here is the letter of my erudite friend:

"In January, 1895, I wrote to an enquirer (Mr. Warrington, of Philadelphia, U.S.A.) telling him the real history of the 'Star-spangled Banner,' or rather of the tune to

* See two interesting articles in THE MUSICAL TIMES: one by Mr. J. S. Shedlock, "Das wohltemperirte Clavier," October and November, 1883 (p. 594, note, for the Kollmann reference); the other by Mr. W. H. Cummings, "A Bach Myth," March, 1885, p. 131.

† The firm, which commenced business in 1800, was then Hoffmeister and Kühnel.

5 Sutherland Gardens,
Maida Vale. W

Le 11 Mars 1841

Cher Monsieur,

Voulez-vous avoir l'obligeance de remettre à mon ami Mr Borelli qui se charge de vous donner ce mot, les partitions que je vous ai apportées dernièrement.

J'en ai besoin pour une répétition. Si elles vous sont encore nécessaires, je vous les enverrai demain vers 3 heures.

Agréez de nouveau tous mes remerciements et mes Compliments empressés which those words have been set. Afterwards, at the Royal Academy of Music, I lectured on 'National Song,' and then told the story.

L. Lavoureux

"A printed copy, without printed date, but dated in MS., by the owner of the volume in which it occurs, 1778, has the following title:

The Anacreontic Song
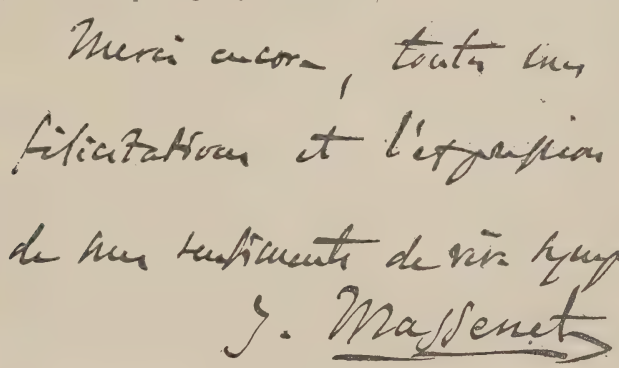
as sung at the 'Crown and Anchor' Tavern in the Strand.
The words by
Ralph Tomlinson, Esq., late President of that Society.
London: Printed by Longman and Broderip, No. 26, Cheapside. Price 6d.

The song is in C, commences with a solo, and finishes with a chorus in four parts for the last two lines. There is also a single line arrangement (in G) 'For the Guitar,' and another single line arrangement (in D) 'For the German Flute.'

"The Anacreontic Club was founded soon after 1750. The music of the song was composed by John Stafford Smith, born at Gloucester in 1750, afterwards a Gentleman of the Chapels Royal. When living at 7, Warwick Street, Spring Gardens, he published a 'Collection of canzonets, catches, canons, and glees, sprightly and plaintive,' composed by himself. The 'Anacreon Ode' is one of the pieces. The music and words are to be found not only in your Vocal Magazine, but also in 'Calliope, or the Musical Miscellany,' published in Edinburgh in 1788, and in 'The Edinburgh Musical Miscellany.' Probably in many other collections.



"The Anacreontic Society was dissolved in consequence of the admission of ladies to hear the performances (see Parke's Mus. Memoirs, p. 83-4)."

Mr. McLaughlin will observe that the author of the words, "Ralph Tomlinson, Esq.," has "materialised" at last. My guess at his social distinction proves correct, and it turns out that the aristocratic convives at the "Crown and Anchor" elected him their president. The evidence going to show that John Stafford Smith composed the tune is so strong as practically to be conclusive. The ditty was well known when Smith published his collected pieces, and a hundred witnesses would have risen to refute him had he claimed credit rightly belonging to another man. It is to be hoped that controversy anent the tune of "The Star-spangled Banner" will now cease. The air is English, and English are the verses to which it was originally set.

In order to complete our information we should know what Mr. Tomlinson meant when, in the earlier version of the Ode, he referred to "Rowley's" and "the hill of old Lud." The presumption still is that the Anacreontic Club originally met at a tavern on Ludgate Hill called by the nick-name of Charles II. Perhaps some reader will assist me on this point, as, for some time to come, I shall be unable to consult topographical authorities. The question is whether a tavern called Rowley's existed on "the hill of old Lud" during the later decades of the last century.

Mr. F. G. Edwards, à propos to a paragraph in last month's "From my Study," writes:

"'Ranchetino' should read 'Cianchettini,' who was Dussek's sister. The performance of the 'Requiem' was 'at her Annual Benefit, instead of a miscellaneous concert,' when 'the celebrated Requiem of Mozart, the masterpiece of this great composer, will be performed, in commemoration of her most affectionate brother, J. L. Dussek, who departed this life, at Paris, the 20th of March last.' Performance at the Opera Concert Room, May 28, 1812. 'Conductor at the organ, Mr. Novello.'

"The actual date of the earliest performance in England under Ashley is February 20, 1801."

I do not belong to the noble army of book-skimmers, but Joshua Sylvester's translation of "Du Bartas: his Divine Weekes and Workes," published 260 years ago, is a bulky folio, and, on securing a copy, I was pleased to find that a former owner, and most careful reader, had underlined, in pencil, all the more striking passages. Enticed by this help, I have skimmed Du Bartas and, in the process, found a curious description and eulogy of music, not undeserving the notice of my readers.

Heber is unfolding to his son, Phalec, the wonders of creation, and thus directs his attention to the genius and character of Music:

Observe (my dearest Son)
Those cloudless brows, those cheeks vermilion,
Those pleasing looks, those eyes so smiling-sweet

That graceful posture, and those pretty feet
Which seem still dancing: all those Harps and Lutes,
Shawms, Sag-buts, Citrons, Viols, Cornets, Flutes,
Plac't round about her, prove in every part
This is the noble, sweet, Voyce-ordering Art,
Breath's measurer, the Guide of supplest fingers,
On (living-dumb, dead-speaking) sinew-singers:
The Accord of Discords: sacred Harmony,
And Numb'ry Law, which did accompany
Th' Almighty most, when first his Ordinance
Appointed Earth to rest and Heav'n to dance.
For (as they say) for super-Intendent there,
The supream Voyce placed in every Sphear
A Siren sweet; that from Heav'n's Harmony
Inferiour things might learn best Melody,
And their rare Quier with th' Angels Quier accord
To sing aloud the praises of the Lord,
In's Royall Chappell, richly beautifi'd
With glist'ring Tapers and all sacred Pride.

Where, as (by Art) one selfly blast breath'd out
From panting bellows, passeth all about
Winde-Instruments, enters by th' under Clavers
Which with the keys the Organ-Master quavers,
Fills all the Bulk, and severally the same
Mounts every Pipe of the melodious Frame,
At once reviving lofty Cymbals voice,
Flutes sweetest ayre, and Regals shrillest noise;
E'en so the all-quick'ning Spirit of God above
The Heav'ns harmonious whirling wheels doth move,
So that re-treading their eternall trace,
Th' one bears the Trebble, th' other bears the Base,
But, brimmer far than in the Heav'ns, heer
All these sweet-charming Counter-Tunes we hear;
For Melancholy, Winter, Earth belowe,
Bear aye the Base, deep, hollow, sad and slowe:
Pale Phlegm, moist Autumn, Water moistly cold,
The Plummet-like-smooth-sliding Tenor hold;
Hot-humid Bloud, the Spring, transparent Air,
The maze-like Mean that turns and wends so fair;
Curst Choler, Summer, and hot thirsty Fire,
Th' high-warbling Treble, loudest in the Quire.
And that's the cause (my Son) why stubborn'st things
Are stoopt by Musick; as reteining springs
Of Number in them, and they feebly live
But by that Spirit which th' Heav'ns dance doth drive.

Sweet Musick makes the sternest Men-at-arms
Let fall at once their Anger and their Arms;
It cheers sad soules, and charms the frantick fits
Of Lunaticks that are bereft their wits;
It kills the flame, and curbs the strong desire
Of him that burns in Beauties blazing Fire
(Whose soule, seduced by his erring eyes,
Doth some proud Dame devoutly idolize);
It cureth Serpent's banefull bit, whose anguish
In deadly torment makes men madly languish;
The Swan is rapt, the Hinde deceiv'd withall,
And Birds beguil'd with a melodious call;
Th' Harp leads the Dolphin, and the buzzing swarm
Of busie Bees the tinkling Brass doth charm.
O! what is it that Musick cannot do!
Sith th' all-inspiring Spirit it conquers too,
And makes the same down from th' Empereall Pole
Descend to Earth into a Prophet's soule,
With divine accents tuning rarely right
Unto the rapting Spirit the rapted Spright.
Sith, when the Lord (most moved) threatneth most
With wrathfull tempest arming all his Hoast;
When (angry) stretching his strong, sinewy arms,
With bended back he throws down thundry storms;
The harmonious sighs of his heart-turning Sheep
Supple his sinews, lull his wrath a-sleep
While mild-ey'd Mercy stealeth from his hand
The sulph'ry Plagues prepared for sinfull Man.

Thus Du Bartas and old Sylvester. They thought they knew what music was. In these latter days many of us are doubtful on the point. X.

FELIX WEINGARTNER ON CONDUCTING.*

Mr. Felix Weingartner, who holds the proud position of conductor of the Berlin Court Opera, has recently issued a little book under the same title as Wagner's famous essay on the same subject, first published in 1869. Coming as a sort of complement to this, its principal aim ostensibly is to counteract the evil effects which Wagner foresaw would probably arise from the publication of his views of a conductor's duties. It comes, therefore, very opportunely at a time when, according to Herr Weingartner, Germany is overrun with a race of conductors of exaggerated tendencies, whom he has, more or less, aptly dubbed with the title of "Tempo-rubato-conductors." For the avoidance of any possible misunderstanding it should at once be stated that in Hans Richter he recognises a "straightforward, honest, and worthy spirit." For Hermann Levi and Felix Mottl he has nothing but commendation, and, except as regards Siegfried Wagner, does not mention by name those living conductors against whom he inveighs.

Herr Weingartner commences by summarising some of the most important points of Wagner's pamphlet†:—

1. "Composers," says Wagner, "cannot be indifferent to the manner in which their works are presented to the public; and the public naturally cannot be expected to decide whether the performance of a piece of music is correct or faulty, since there are no data beyond the actual effect of the performance to judge by."

Enlarging upon this thesis he reminds us that Wagner—whose love for Mozart's instrumental music had only been excited when, on conducting it himself, he came to recognise the beauty of its cantilene—in his youth had attended a performance of the Ninth Symphony at the Leipzig Gewandhaus, when, though he had copied out the score for himself and had made a pianoforte arrangement of it, he was so much astonished at its utterly confused and bewildering effect that he lost courage, and for a time gave up the study of Beethoven. In 1839 he received a good lesson in Paris, where he heard the orchestra of the Conservatoire rehearse the enigmatical Ninth Symphony. "The scales," Wagner writes, "fell from my eyes; I came to understand the value of correct execution, and the secret of a good performance. The orchestra had learnt to look for Beethoven's melody in every bar—that melody which the worthy Leipzig musicians had failed to discover; and the orchestra sang that melody. This was the secret."

* "Ueber das Dirigiren." Von Felix Weingartner. Berlin: S. Fischer. 1896.

† "On Conducting" (Ueber das Dirigiren). A treatise on style in the execution of classical music. By Richard Wagner. Translated by Edward Dannreuther. London: W. Reeves. 1887.

It was Habeneck, who, though not a conductor of special genius, but one whom all obeyed, solved the difficulty by perseverance in rehearsing, until Beethoven's new melos—i.e., melody in all its aspects—was fully comprehended and correctly rendered by every member of the orchestra.

2. Thus the proper tempo was fixed by the character of the melody.

3. The occasional modification of tempo which Wagner recommended he, doubtless, learnt from Weber, who wrote: "Time should never be a tyrannical mill-work; it is in music what the pulse is in the human body. There is no slow movement in which there may not occur the necessity of an 'accelerando,' in order to avoid a sensation of dragging; there is no 'presto' in which passages may not be found requiring a 'ritardando,' in order to escape a sense of hurrying."

Herr Weingartner fully accords with all that Wagner has put forth in regard to the proper treatment of classical works, even to expressing his surprise, as others have done before him, that any conductor should dare to bring forward the Ninth Symphony, except in accordance with the proposed emendations in the instrumentation, which Wagner, as the result of his Bayreuth performance in 1872, set forth in an article, "Zum Vortrag der Neunten Symphonie Beethovens," which in the following year he contributed to the Musikalisches Wochenblatt, and which has since been incorporated in Vol. IX. of his "Collected Writings."

Wagner held the post of conductor in Dresden from 1842 to 1849, when the Revolution of that year drove him into exile, from which he did not return till 1860. This enforced absence from Germany, and the fact that he never subsequently received a permanent post as conductor, were fortunate both for him and the world; for had it been otherwise, he would probably never have lived to complete his later and most important works. At a subsequent date he was set upon founding a School of Music for the conservation of a classical style of performance. Failing in this, he succeeded in gathering round him a number of disciples belonging to the rising generation, some of whom visited him in his exile, and among the oldest and most zealous of whom was the "master-conductor," Hans von Bülow, whom at that time he regarded as his alter ego and his most legitimate successor.

Herr Weingartner pays a most warm-hearted tribute of admiration to Bülow's incomparable artistic powers, and reminds us with deep expressions of regret that, but for the domestic catastrophe which overtook him in 1869, he, and most properly so, would have been at Wagner's right hand in producing the "Ring" at Bayreuth in 1876.

But, unbounded as is his admiration for Bülow, as an artist and as a conductor, Herr Weingartner has not refrained from pointing out some of the weak points, as he regards them, which darkened his declining years, and which he charitably ascribes to his failing health, his mental condition, his passion for originality, or perhaps to the secret disappointment he felt that he had not succeeded as a creative artist. As samples of his so-called vagaries the following will suffice. We are told that, on the occasion of a performance of the Ninth Symphony in Berlin, Bülow took the introductory part at an extraordinarily rapid pace, and did not adopt a broader tempo until the principal theme—was reached.

The chords—

were taken at nearly half the previous pace, and with the passage—the first quick pace was suddenly resumed.

The Andante in the third movement was thus presented—

Speaking of the Tempo di Menuetto in the Eighth Symphony, Herr Weingartner affirms that Bülow took it at such a slow pace that it lost all its gay and humorous cheerfulness, and gave way to an almost unpleasant and unrefreshing seriousness. Here he seems to contradict himself, for elsewhere he speaks with unbounded praise of Bülow's Leipzig performance of this same Symphony.

We are given many more examples of the "morbid peculiarities" which are said to have beset Bülow during the latter part of his life. Like those quoted above, they seem to bear a suspicion of being exaggerated, but are recounted in a manner which would be regarded as amusing except by those of Bülow's admirers whom they are calculated to pain.

Herr Weingartner, who never was on terms of intimacy with Bülow, and felt that Bülow had never given him due recognition, affirms that nothing could have dimmed the splendour of his career as a reproductive artist. We are bound, therefore, to believe in his sincerity towards Bülow, and to acknowledge that the hardest things he has to say are directed against those present-day conductors who, by their eccentricities and exaggerations, he thinks have out-Wagnered Wagner and out-Bülowed Bülow.

Herr Weingartner would have been more than mortal had he not taken the opportunity of blowing his own trumpet at the same time. He says, in effect, "I am not as other conductors"—"my pills are the best"! And this he has put forth in an interesting and lively manner. Of his antecedents we learn that, within the space of five years, he has officiated as conductor in four different places—viz., Königsberg, Danzig, Hamburg, and Mannheim. Through Liszt he made the acquaintance of Bülow, who kindly introduced a composition of his for string orchestra into his programmes, and on the conductorship at Hanover becoming vacant by the death of Ernst Frank, recommended him to the Intendant, Hans von Bronsart, who, however, declined his services on the ground that he was too pronounced a Wagnerite. On the post of second conductor in Meiningen becoming vacant, he applied for it to Bülow, from whom he thought that he would learn much. Bülow at once characteristically replied: "I can make no use of you; you are too independent. I want someone who will do only what I tell him, and this you neither could nor would do." To this decision of Bülow's he readily assented, and sought employment elsewhere.

Herr Weingartner, whose critical faculty seems to have developed while he was still a student at the Leipzig Conservatoire, gives amusing accounts of his experience of the vagaries of conductors.

At the beginning of the eighties he was present at a Gewandhaus Concert, when the beginning of the C minor Symphony was so slovenly played that, in the first bar, he distinctly heard four G's instead of three. Another time it was the Eighth Symphony, the score of which he had learnt by heart, and was anxiously looking forward to hearing for the first time. This lovely work was played through in a slipshod manner, while the "Herr Kapellmeister," without any regard for dynamical or rhythmical modification, gracefully beat time with his feet. So disgusted was he that he left the room after the third movement and lost no opportunity of expressing his feelings. That a youth of eighteen should question the divine authority of the far-famed Gewandhaus was regarded as a breach of good manners. Soon afterwards, Bülow brought the Meiningen Orchestra to Leipzig, and displayed the same Symphony in a very different light. It was now generally admitted that the "impertinent Conservatoirist" had, after all, not been so much in the wrong. In Hamburg he was present at a performance of the Fifth Symphony, when the conductor took the first four bars quite slowly, and doubled the melody of the strings with four drums tuned in unison with them! In a performance of Mendelssohn's "Hebrides" Overture, under the direction of a conductor from Breslau, he maintains that literally there was not one bar played in the same time as another. That he should have refrained from mentioning these arch-offenders by name seems unfair to the worthy and eminent conductors who have officiated in the places specified.

Herr Weingartner does not confine himself to speaking of the eccentricities of conductors, but has a good deal to say about the unpleasantness which the post of opera-conductor in Germany generally involves. Nor is he silent as to the tricks which, Eulenspiegel-like, he has himself played off upon the public and critics. He amusingly relates that some ten years ago he and his friend Alfred Reisenauer had agreed to play Liszt's Symphonic Poem "Die Ideale" and his "Faust" Symphony, arranged for two pianofortes, at a Concert of the Cassel Wagner Society. The committee begged that they would not introduce two compositions of the "horrible" Liszt, as this would drive the public away. They stuck to their resolution, played both works, but announced "Die Ideale" as a "Fantasia for two pianofortes, by Franz Schubert (after the 'Unfinished' Symphony, the master's last work)," which naturally did not exist. It was most warmly received by the public, and was generally spoken of by the press as a "pearl of Schubertian melody." Only one of the critics discovered in it an element which was strange to and far-fetched for the lyrical Schubert. The "Faust" Symphony, on the other hand, was roundly abused.

While on tour in 1883 he played at Düsseldorf, as No. 5 on the programme, Beethoven's Sonata, Op. 109. By an accident copies of the programme of a previous Concert which he had given in another place were distributed among the audience. Except as to No. 5, which figured in this as "Pianoforte pieces by Weingartner," the two were identical. To his astonishment the next morning he read in a Düsseldorf paper: "Herr Weingartner, of Vienna, scorned precaution, and for his début here played some new pianoforte pieces of his own, which certainly served to display his virtuosity, but beyond this were of no account. One may be a good executant, but at the same time an indifferent composer." The poor man, who did not know Beethoven's Sonata, had evidently got hold of the wrong programme, and was thus led to speak of Beethoven as an indifferent composer.

The above brief and very incomplete sketch of the contents and character of Herr Weingartner's little book will suffice to show the kind of book it is. Had he abstained from so cruelly making Bülow a scapegoat for many of his remarks—Bülow, who so often during his lifetime was justly spoken of as an incomparable artist—and had he heaped less abuse upon his contemporaries, one would be the better pleased with it, notwithstanding the fact that nothing pleases some people so much as seeing notorieties, even when they are numbered among their friends, hauled over the coals.

Herr Weingartner concludes with a series of aphorisms addressed to his brother conductors. He writes: "A conductor should, before all things, be true to the work he has to perform, to himself, and to his public. When he takes a score into his hands, he should not think 'What can I make out of this work?' but 'What were its composer's intentions?' He should study it so thoroughly that during performance the score should only serve to assist his memory, and in no way become a fetter to his thoughts.

"If, during the study of a work, he has conceived a picture of it, he should reproduce this in its unity, not in fragments.

"He should always bear in mind that he is the most important, the most responsible personality in the musical world. By means of good and tasteful performances he can educate the public and bring about a general refinement of artistic feeling; but bad performances, which only pander to his vanity, are worthless for the advancement of genuine art.

"To have performed a beautiful work in a beautiful manner should be his greatest triumph; the composer's authorised intention then becomes his own."

These aphorisms may well pass muster; and, but for the objections above enumerated, Herr Weingartner's book is well worth perusal.

NEW LIGHTS UPON OLD TUNES.

No. VII.

"Ye Banks and Braes."

There are few plaintive melodies which have a truer ring about them than this, though, like "Home, sweet home," or "The last rose of summer," ridicule and indignities have been cast upon it. It has figured on the first pages of flute tutors and pianoforte instruction books, and it has had its bones ground to powder on barrel organs. The hack musician has "arranged," and the foreign pianist laid violent hands on it. But forgetting all this, and looked at in its native simplicity, it is a sweet song and a pure melody.

Regarding the tune's history, much misapprehension exists. The late Mr. William Chappell, in "Popular Music of the Olden Time," made a statement respecting it so frequently quoted without other corroboration that I make bold to put forth facts which I venture to think will contravene his arguments.

Chappell tells us that the tune is not Scotch, as generally supposed, but an old English melody named "Lost is my quiet," appearing on half-sheet songs, and included in Dale's Collection of English Songs. He says: "Dale commenced printing in 1780, but I cannot give the date of publication because of the collection, consisting exclusively of old songs, he made no entry in Stationers' Hall as in other cases; it is unquestionably anterior to 'Ye Banks and Braes.'"

Chappell prints the air "Lost is my quiet," and ascribes the trifling alterations between the two tunes to Stephen Clarke, the editor of Johnson's "Scots' Musical Museum," where Burns's song first appeared in 1792. He also speaks of other alterations in well-known airs to fit them to the Museum, but in everyone he quotes it can be shown otherwise. "Popular music" is a monument of patient and accurate research, but its author's well known Johnsonian prejudice against things Scottish leads him frequently astray, and is sometimes very comic. Leaving, for the present, Chappell's argument, the following facts bearing on the subject may be considered: The earliest copy of the air in print is to be found on the opening page of Niel Gow's "Second Collection of Strathspey Reels," 1788, as: "The Caledonian Hunt's Delight: a favourite air."

"THE CALEDONIAN HUNT'S DELIGHT."

(A favourite air.)

From "Gow's Second Collection of Strathspey Reels," 1788.

Under the same title it is to be seen in other Scottish publications of the period.*

The air attracted the attention of Robert Burns, and to it he wrote his sweetest song, which, under the title "The Banks o' Doon," figures in Johnson's "Museum," Vol. IV., 1792. There is a note in the index ascribing the authorship of the tune to "Mr. James Miller, writer in Edinbr." In confirmation of this Burns wrote to George Thomson in November, 1794:

"There is an air, 'The Caledonian Hunt's Delight,' to which I wrote a song that you will find in Johnson, 'Ye banks and braes o' bonie Doon.' This air, I think, might find a place

* The Caledonian Hunt was a body of gentlemen of high social standing, who were not merely sportsmen, but patrons of the arts. Burns dedicated his Edinburgh edition of poems to them, as Gow did his second collection of "Strathspey Reels." The air we are dealing with bears a title in their honour, which would imply that it had been specially composed were it not that Gow was in the habit of affixing his patrons' names to old melodies and thus losing their original titles.

among four hundred. . . . Do you know the history of the air? It is curious enough. A good many years ago, Mr. James Miller, a writer in your good town, a gentleman whom possibly you know, was in company with our friend Clarke and talking of Scottish music. Miller expressed an ardent ambition to compose a Scots air. Mr. Clarke, partly by way of joke, told him to keep to the black keys of the harpsichord and preserve some kind of rhythm, and he would infallibly compose a Scots air. Certain it is that, in a few days, Mr. Miller produced the rudiments of an air which Mr. Clarke, with some touches and corrections, fashioned into the tune in question. . . . Now to show you how difficult it is to trace the origin of our airs, I have heard it repeatedly asserted that this was an Irish air—nay, I have met with an Irish gentleman who affirmed he had heard it in Ireland among old women; while, on the other hand, a Countess informed me that the first person who introduced the air into the country was a baronet's lady of her acquaintance, who took down the notes from an itinerant piper in the Isle of Man."

This account of the air's origin is by no means to be lightly set aside.

To analyse Chappell's contention that the air is old English and the Scotch tune the outcome:

(a) The difference observable in "Lost is my quiet" is distinctly on the modern side.

(b) The statement that Dale's English songs consists exclusively of early productions is set aside by the fact that the book contains songs from a great number of operas of the day. The work is in folio, and consists of twenty books published in serial order, probably monthly or quarterly.

Book I. opens with a song from the "Farmer," 1787; it is followed with another from the "Haunted Tower," 1789, and one from the "Castle of Andalusia," 1782. Succeeding books represent the operas "Richard Cœur de Lion," 1786, "The Spoiled Child," "Inkle and Yarico," 1787, "No Song, no Supper," 1790, &c., all before Book X., wherein "Lost is my quiet" is printed.

(c) Book X. has the imprint 151, New Bond Street, an address which did not belong to Dale before 1802 or 1803; and, in my copy, one of the later books bears the watermark 1808. This is sufficient proof that Gow's copy, 1788, preceded Dale's.

I am in possession of many other copies of "Lost is my quiet," but none of these appear to be before the present century. One of these copies is a folio sheet with the imprint "London, printed for the author by Preston and Son," though the author reserves his name. Another olio sheet by another publisher is "Lost is my quiet for ever . . . music by Mr. Sharp," but this is not the familiar air. At the back, however, the tune we are dealing with is printed with the heading "'Lost is my quiet,' adapted to an Irish air." In the "Myrtle and the Vine," Vol. II., 1803, the words only of this song are printed, and again with the remark, "Irish air." Indeed, the opinion regarding the Irish origin of the air seems to have been very general about this time.

The author of "Lost is my quiet" was not merely content with appropriating the tune, but he was indebted to an earlier poet for his first line.

In the "Orpheus Britannicus" (Walsh's edition, circa 1745) is the following set to an air by Henry Purcell:

Lost is my quiet for ever,
Lost is life's happiest part,
Lost are my tender endeavours
To touch an insensible heart, &c.

Compare with the modern version, which runs:

Lost, lost, lost is my quiet
For ever, since Henry has left me to roam;
To forget him how vain my endeavour,
Alas! will he never return, &c.

Is it possible that Chappell, having seen an old folio sheet of Purcell's song, has hastily come to the conclusion that Dale's copy and it were one and the same? Regarding the supposed Irish origin, I think much indirect evidence in its favour exists. Burns tells us that he has repeatedly heard it asserted to be Irish and that a gentleman affirmed he had heard the tune in Ireland among the old women. Another of Burns's informants told him that the tune had been originally noted down from an itinerant piper in the Isle of Man, who, it is easy to believe, might be an Irish one. A curious half-confirmation of this Irish theory has come in the way of the present writer, who in a remote district of Yorkshire heard the old Anglo-Irish street ballad sung to a decidedly Hibernian setting as under:—

"THE FOGGY DEW."

(A Traditional Air noted down in Yorkshire.)

One night as I lay in my bed and faithful watch did keep,
My love she came to my cot door and bitterly she did weep;
She wept, she cried, and tore her hair, and cried what shall I do?
I pray you take pity and shelter me in fear of the Foggy Dew, &c.

Other airs for the ballad of "The Foggy Dew" are found; one is printed in "Bunting's Irish Airs," 1840, and another, from an old manuscript copy, in Kidson's "Traditional Tunes," 1891. The Yorkshire singer did not know the air as "Ye Banks and Braes," but only as used for the song he then sang. I do not advance the theory that the traditional "Foggy Dew" is the same air which the gentleman spoken of by Burns had heard among the old women of Ireland, though there is no doubt that a song of the "Foggy Dew" existed there at that period. The traditional setting is distinctly Irish in form, and has an Irish song adapted to it. It is also quite within bounds to say that Gow, in dedicating the air to the Caledonian Hunt, may have changed the name (for the Irish song is somewhat coarse) to one more palatable. If he knew that Miller had composed it, it is likely that he would have attached the name. But whether Burns had got a correct story or whether Miller re-composed an existing air are questions not easily settled. Another theory was once advanced—that the tune was French; but as nothing beyond this bald statement has been adduced it may be dismissed until further particulars are vouchsafed.

Mr. F. Corder, who has just returned from a visit to Bayreuth, sends us the interesting comments which follow:—"Not having visited Bayreuth since the first production of 'Parsifal,' in 1882, its wonders came again with startling novelty upon my mind; and I am therefore anxious to be allowed to supplement the notice of your special correspondent (with every word of which I concur) with a little more technical criticism, such as can hardly fail to interest musicians. One point I wish to press very strongly; however it may be with other works of Wagner's, 'Parsifal,' and still more 'The Nibelung's Ring,' can never be really heard outside of Bayreuth. In attempting to perform 'Siegfried' and 'The Valkyrie' elsewhere, conductors have been confronted with this difficulty: to play the works as written will make your orchestra sound all wind, stun your audience, and render your singers inaudible, besides costing a serious sum for extra instruments. To re-score the operas on a smaller scale gives a totally different effect, but is the only thing to be done, and accordingly it is done; therefore, although I had heard all the four sections many times, and knew every note of them, their effect on the Bayreuth orchestra was a complete revelation. The sound of the wood is so tender, the tone of the brass so mellowed, and the quality of the strings so rich, that though we have far better players and instruments in Covent Garden we cannot come within measurable distance of the total effect. The German oboe is coarse, the clarinet apt to be hard, and the valve trumpet many degrees more vulgar in tone than a good cornet, but the bass clarinet and first horn were exquisite, and there were pianissimos on the strings—and notably on the six horns for the Tarnhelm music—which only the greatest conductors can obtain. But it was on those rare occasions when the full orchestral force was employed that the incomparable beauty of the Bayreuth band was manifested. Hitherto I have regarded the second act of 'Götterdämmerung' as almost ear-torture, only to be accepted, under protest, as the expression of the terrible dramatic situation. Here the gathering of the clans' scene was no hideous row, but a grand, if somewhat wild piece of sonority, and for the first time also was I able to hear all the melodies at once which are so wondrously woven together in the very last pages of this mighty work. The really astonishing scenic triumphs aided the success more than most musicians would believe. 'Rheingold' was lifted from the realms of pantomime to those of poetic drama, and, curious to state, it was only just in the two departments where perfection was most easy and important to attain that one felt a sense of bitter disappointment. Not to mince words, the singing was vile and the acting rudimentary. As to what performers shall be engaged, this rests entirely with Madame Wagner, so it is of no use protesting; but is there no stage manager in Bayreuth who can force these 'sticks' to go through the numerous little bits of stage business so necessary to fill up the orchestral pauses? To see Wotan leaning on his spear by the half-hour together, to see Siegfried confine his action to that of a railway semaphore, and to have Brynhildr always in the attitude of the letter x, these were things that went far to damp one's enthusiasm, and to ruin what might so easily have been made a record performance. Herr Vogl, as a singer and an actor, stood out in such strong contrast to the crowd of incompetents as only to make the general level seem the more pitiful. One was glad to absorb oneself only in the glorious sounds that welled up from the 'magic chasm,' as Wagner called it, and gladden one's eyes with the astonishing changeable skies of Herr Brückner. Personally, I feel that I shall never again desire to hear these works done in Munich or London, however much pains may be taken. The sound of the Bayreuth orchestra, and the acoustics of the Bayreuth opera-house, are so vital to the true effect that all other performances seem a total misrepresentation of the composer's intention."

Twenty-three years before the production of "Der Ring des Nibelungen," in 1876, the text had been published and distributed among Wagner's friends in order to elicit opinions. Of these, one was Adolf Stahr, a well-known man of letters and professor at Oldenburg. He read the poems, but instead of communicating with Wagner, wrote to Liszt. He regarded the poem as a gigantic mistake, and begged Liszt to use all means to turn Wagner from the error of his ways. "Quos ferrum non sanat, ignis sanat"—"fire, not in any figurative sense of the word." Thus wrote the arch-opponent. Some more convenient season may be found for discussing the reasons which Stahr gives for his want of faith. Meanwhile, however, a sentence or two from his letter may be quoted; in the light of the great success of the "Nibelungen" performances lately concluded at Bayreuth, they form curious reading: "I am as convinced, as I am of mine own existence," says Stahr, "that this poem—even if the immeasurable difficulties in bringing it out were overcome, even if the creator of 'Tannhäuser' and 'Lohengrin' succeeded in providing this body, stiff and like unto a jagged rock, with musical clothing (which to me seems impossible)—I say, I am as convinced as of mine own existence, that even then the work, if any stage ventured to give it, would prove a complete fiasco. Above all, Wagner would have first to create a public, as like the one of the present day as the Siegfried of the 'Nibelung Lied' to an officer of the guards. To see a gifted man so misled, that one can scarcely apply to him the words of Polonius: 'Tho' this be madness, there is method in it,' is indeed painful." Punch displayed wisdom when he advised prophets not to prophesy unless they happened to know.

The Contemporary Review for August contains an article by the Rev. H. R. Haweis, entitled "Musical Snapshots," in which the reverend gentleman makes two inaccurate statements. Mr. Haweis says that Mendelssohn composed his "Hear my Prayer" expressly for Jenny Lind. As a matter of fact, Mendelssohn wrote his well-known Hymn before he had ever seen or heard the great singer. Moreover, he composed it "expressly for" the sacred concerts given in the forties by the late Mrs. Mounsey Bartholomew, when she was Miss Mounsey, at Crosby Hall, Bishopsgate Street. The second error (clerical only in one sense) is that at a Bach Choir rehearsal (at which one of Mr. Haweis's choirboys assisted) Madame Jenny Lind Goldschmidt supplied the place of an absent vocalist by singing the solo in "Hear my Prayer." Considering that the "Hymn" was never rehearsed by the Bach Choir during Mr. Goldschmidt's conductorship (and probably not since), the accuracy of this statement is speedily disestablished. Thus is musical history made, or, to speak musically-photographically, developed. However, there is a delightful appropriateness in Mr. Haweis's title—"Musical snapshots"—as two of them are herewith negatived.

Last month we gave a specimen of musical criticism from a Boston (U.S.) newspaper of 1848. But we need not go so far afield—or, as the Americans would say, so far apond—in order to find some examples just as choice and equally figurative in our own country. It was the custom of the now defunct Sacred Harmonic Society to print in their annual reports sundry "opinions of the press" (the favourable ones, of course) on their performances. Here are a few extracts relating to chorus-singing, written in the thirties: "The choruses ('Messiah') went with the correctness of a steam-engine." "The conductor of the Ancient Concerts (Mr. Knyvett) would have received a very valuable lesson from one of the Society's performances, had he honoured himself by his attendance." "The choruses ('Israel in Egypt') were given with surprising grandeur; the enormous masses of sound, tossed as it were from side to side of the orchestra, rolling round and round the hall, and sometimes bursting like thunder over the audience, were sublime, and even awful." Again: "The overpowering grandeur of those volumes of sound rolling over us was one of the sublimest things we ever witnessed." Here was a critic who could see the "volumes of sound." The following specimens may be useful in the way of increasing the vocabulary of the "new" critics, if there be more than one of that bellicose, or libellicose ilk. "We cannot conclude this brief notice without warmly panegyrising the instrumental performers." 'The words 'O Mercy, Heaven!—we sink—we die!' ('Samson') could not be translated into a more perfect musical expression — they made the blood thrill."

The "additional accompaniment" question was a thorny one even sixty years ago. A critic justly said: "Another impertinence which disgusted us was the addition of some (we presume) amateur accompaniments. In 'Fallen is the foe' a ridiculous solo for the flute was added to Handel's score; and the first movement in the Te Deum has been 'repaired and beautified' in the same way. Really Mozart has much to answer for if his accompaniments to 'The Messiah' are to be quoted as a precedent by every puppy who thinks fit to set himself up as an improver of Handel." For a choice specimen of a critic's imagination we must go back to the year 1791, when Haydn was conducting his celebrated Salomon symphonies at the Hanover Square Rooms. At the first performance of the so-called "Surprise" Symphony, the representative of The Oracle thus worked his critical oracle: "Act 2nd opened with a first performance of the grand overture (symphony) composed by Haydn for this evening. The second movement was equal to the happiest of this great master's conceptions. The 'Surprise' might not be unaptly likened to the situation of a beautiful Shepherdess, who, lulled to slumber by the murmur of a distant waterfall, starts alarmed at the unexpected firing of a fowling-piece. The flute obbligato was delicious." And so is the "surprise" imagery of that critic.

In a recent number of the Corriere della Sera some new and authentic biographical details respecting Carl Mozart, the eldest son of the great composer, are given by Signor Francesco Somma, keeper of the State archives. Carl Mozart was born on September 17, 1784, received his education in Vienna and in Prague, and in 1800 entered the civil service in Italy, in which country he remained for the rest of his life. He was employed in the Chamber of Commerce, in Leghorn, from the year 1800 to 1806, and after having been drafted on to several other towns, finally settled in Milan in the employment of the State. He held the appointment until 1839, in which year he was pensioned. The last few years of his life he spent partly at his country house at Caversaccio, near Como, and partly at Milan. He died on October 31, 1856, and was buried in the cemetery outside the present Porta Garibaldi. No commemorative stone having been placed over the grave, it, like that of his illustrious father, cannot by any possibility be traced. Carl Mozart was a man of modest bearing and great piety. He was never married, and bequeathed his country house to the village of Caversaccio with the condition that it should be placed at the disposal of either the assistant curé or the local medical practitioner. The remainder of his estate, realising, after deducting a few small legacies, some 22,500 florins, he left to the Mozarteum in Salzburg.

It has been decided to repeat the performances of "Der Ring des Nibelungen" at Bayreuth next year, when probably five cycles will be given, together with representations of "Parsifal," which for many years yet to come can be heard only at the Festspielhaus. The large expenditure of money in mounting the Tetralogy this year has exceeded the receipts by several thousand pounds, although the house was completely filled at all the performances. Next year, however, the valuable scenery, machinery, costumes, and other accessories will be again available, and a considerable profit should then be realised. Amongst the numerous journalistic contributions to the recent Festival may be mentioned the publication in the Bayreuther Blätter of a series of hitherto unfamiliar scenes from the "Ring." They were included in the first edition of the drama, privately printed in 1853, but when Wagner began to set the words to music these scenes were either cancelled or not used. One of the notable circumstances in this year's Festspiele is the greatly increased interest taken in them by French musicians. While the German attendance has shown a considerable falling off, and that of Englishmen and Americans remains about stationary, the French this year have been more than twice as numerous as in 1876, the year of the inauguration of the Wagner Theatre.

Really our literary friends are beginning to treat music with a consideration as welcome as it is unexpected. Take, for example, the case of Mr. Henry James, in his new volume of stories, "Embarrassments." "Within a week after my return to London," remarks the narrator, "I went to the opera, of which I had always been such a devotee." That, of course, does not count for much, as people always adore music in novels. And it is somewhat disappointing to learn that he "arrived too late for the first act of 'Lohengrin.'" However, the sincerity of his devotion is proved by the assertion that "the second act was just beginning and I gave myself up to it with no more than a glance at the house." And it was not until the act was over that he treated himself, with his glass, from his place in the stalls, to a general survey of the boxes. After the second act the story reaches its climax, and the three dramatis personæ are strangely stirred by the time the opening bars arise from the orchestra. But in spite of their emotions they sank noiselessly into their chairs again, "for the music was supreme, Wagner passed first." Truly a notable compliment.

It is to be hoped that the penalty just paid by the Saturday Review for one of the many indiscretions (charity prompts mildness of epithet) of its musical critic will have due effect on other would-be "smart" journals, the proprietors or editors of which find it profitable to cater for the appetites of readers who, envious or jaded, or both, derive pleasure from the perusal of spiteful and libellous remarks on individuals and their work. The number of such prints in this country is (thank Heaven!) still a small one, but no careful observer can have failed to note that of late years it has sensibly increased. The victims of these callous and malicious attacks usually prefer to suffer in silence rather than obtain redress by means of appeals to the law; and the immunity which results from this gives encouragement to writers who are perfectly willing to bring contempt on their calling, if by so doing they can reap personal advantage. Sir Alexander Mackenzie was not content to "suffer in silence," and he deserves the thanks of every right-minded person for having, with the aid of a British jury, administered castigation to at least one notorious offender. We hope his spirited action will embolden others who may be utilised as targets by the mudlarks of journalism to seek similar protection. It may be too much to hope that consciousness of wrong done will influence the future style of articles appearing in the Saturday Review, but the commercial aspect of the question will, we may be sure, receive due consideration; and if, after the payment of sundry damages and costs, our contemporary still finds itself unable to resolve the problem, "Does it pay?" those concerned in its management will at least not overlook the fact that a New Saturday is announced to appear on the 5th inst. with the object of taking "the place in literature once occupied by the Saturday Review."

The death of so great an artist as Sir John Millais, Bart., P.R.A., cannot be allowed to pass without an expression of deep regret in the pages of a journal devoted to the sister art of music. The late President worthily upheld all the best traditions of the noble art of which he was so illustrious a master. The wonderful collection of his pictures exhibited at the Grosvenor Gallery in 1886 not only displayed his great versatility, but his unfailing charm. Amongst the many portraits painted by the late Sir John Millais, the one of special interest to musicians is that of Sir William Sterndale Bennett, clad in "the fawn-coloured gown proper to his degree as a Doctor in Music," which was exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1873, and which is so well known through the excellent engraving by the late T. A. Barlow, R.A.

The little army of Musical Doctors is to be congratulated on the accession to its ranks of so distinguished a servant of the Art as Mr. W. G. McNaught. This learned musician and cultured gentleman has done so much, and in so many ways, to spread a knowledge and love of music among his countrymen, and his influence as Her Majesty's Assistant-Inspector of Music (to which post he was appointed in 1883) is so far-reaching, that everyone competent to form an opinion at once felt the appropriateness of the Archbishop of Canterbury's action in conferring upon him the degree. On the same occasion the honour was also bestowed upon Mr. Daniel Joseph Wood, the accomplished organist of Exeter Cathedral.

FACTS, RUMOURS, AND REMARKS.

Mr. Robert Newman has engaged a number of notable singers for the Promenade Concerts which began at Queen's Hall on the 29th ult. Here are their names: Mesdames Fanny Moody, Duma, Clara Samuell, Evangeline Florence, Maggie Davies, Belle Cole, Lilian Tree, Recoschewitz, Svetloffsky, and MacDougall; Messrs. Ben Davies, Lloyd Chandos, Herbert Grover, P. Brozel, Hirwen Jones, Watkin Mills, Ffrangcon-Davies, Ludwig, Andrew Black, Charles Manners, W. A. Peterkin, and Santley.

On the occasion of MM. de Reszkes' last appearance at Covent Garden this season a novel and very effective floral presentation was sent to the gifted brothers, in the shape of a tandem bicycle of the ordinary size. This was made of wood and covered with flowers, maiden-hair and other ferns, trails of smilax and ivy being round the tyres of the wheels and coloured ribbons round the spokes. The two seats were covered with pink quilted satin, and on one side of the bicycle the words "Speedy Return" were fixed, while on the other was the following inscription, written on embossed paper

Designed and decorated for MM. Jean and Edouard de Reszke
by a constant and grateful listener,
Covent Garden Opera,
July 14, 1896.

LE DÉPART DE MM. DE RESZKE.

LE RETOUR DE MM. DE RESZKE.

The brothers were greatly pleased with the presentation, and expressed their entire sympathy with the inscribed wish of a "speedy return" to England.

The Lute declares that the habit among vocalists of lingering on a high penultimate note can be stopped by "courage and a little dynamite." Dynamite presumably stands for the explosive wrath of critics, but, alas, that has been tried many times. Long years ago, when more of a belligerent than I think it now worth while to be, I have fulminated early and late against the bad practice. I might just as well have tried to blow a feather against the wind. Singers went on "throwing their souls," as the Lute puts it, "into a penultimate high G," and the public, then as now, encouraged them.

INCORRECT rumours having got into circulation with regard to the personnel of the Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company this season, Mr. T. H. Friend sends me an authentic list, as below: Mesdames Zelie de Lussan, Alice Esty, Lily Heenan, Kate Hughes (her first appearance with this Company), Bessie Macdonald (the new soprano, her first appearance with this Company), Lillie Williams, Eleanor Harwood, Kirkby Lunn (her first appearance with this Company), and Rita Elandi; Messrs. Philip Brozel, Ludwig, Herbert Grover (his first appearance with this Company), William Paull, Charles Tilbury, Alec Marsh, A. S. Winckworth, Frank Wood, R. Cunningham, G. Fox, W. Gillard, and E. C. Hedmondt. Conductors, Mr. Claude Jacquinot and Herr Richard Eckhold.

I SUPPOSE it may be said that a rupture has taken place between Craig-y-Nos and Swansea. The lady of the castle has, for some years, given an occasional concert in support of local charities, and, this autumn, the arrangement was that she should aid the Swansea Hospital. On previous occasions prices have "ruled" high, but, for some reason or other, the Hospital Committee, in an unlucky moment, resolved that they should come down a bit. Innocent souls! how should they know that prime donne look upon high prices as a form of homage at their throne. The Committee were soon enlightened. Craig-y-Nos wrote cancelling the Concert. Then Swansea went on its knees, expressing deep regret at having touched the schedule without Madame Patti's consent. Craig-y-Nos declined a reply. Swansea begged leave to send a deputation, and lastly, Craig-y-Nos refused to receive it. So the matter stands, it appears.

IF a correspondent of Tit-Bits may be credited, one of the finest music halls in the Midlands offers among its attractions the following:

A comic singer, whose humour was expressed in the first verse by delicate allusions to the birth of triplets, in the second verse to his rolling home drunk at night, and in the third to the smacking of his sleepless baby.

His encore song may be gauged by the chorus:—

He likes his drop of porter,
But he can't stand soap and water,
That's the sort of bloke he is.

A lady-like contralto, whose charming rendering of "Kathleen Mavourneen" was soundly hissed.

Another "comic" man, whose first effort consisted of a song full of political allusions in execrable taste, insulting every foreign ruler from Kruger to Kaiser.

A lady in the male attire of a masher glorified the fidelity of a certain jolly old pal, singing:—

If I die, this I know,
When I go down below
He'll be there by my side!

A "lady" in the height of fashion told of a "booze," when:—

Flo was clinging tight to Jim;
I was hanging on to him.

Can there be a lower depth than this lowest?

A QUEENSLAND organist—for whose cordial and appreciative letter I thank him—writes pointing out as an odd fact that the local colonial editor will always be his own musical critic, although, as in a case mentioned, he has never been outside the town radius, and "knows as much about music as is taught in our State school, where they often sing 'When a little farm I keep.'" My correspondent enclosed a concert notice, which is partly that, and in other part an advertisement—a composite creation not unknown in England, where, however, it is less open and unashamed. The writer, after praising Mr. So-and-So, of the —— music warehouse, states, "The 'Parthia' Gavotte is a charming composition and splendidly phrased, especially at page 5, the double forte adding to the effect of the unison, and it dies away with triplets very nicely." Next, I read: "The 'Trilby Waltz' is splendidly arranged, and introduces 'Ben Bolt,' 'Schubert's Adieu,' 'Au Clair de la Lune,' 'The Marseillaise,' and 'We won't go home till morning.' The introduction is in common tune; key G is the Marseillaise, modulating to the various waltz movements in a very pleasing manner, the loda winding up with 'We won't go home till morning.'" After meditating upon the foregoing, I am inclined to think that "We won't go home till morning' is a popular ditty in some parts of Queensland. The advertisement comes at the end, by way of "loda," informing all and sundry that Mr. So-and-So "is now prepared to supply any music that may now be required at prices as reasonable as any other business place in town."

MR. J. G LUARD, writing to the Isle of Wight Observer about another matter, adds incidentally: "A letter in the Church Times of July 10th, from the hon. secretary of the Wagner Society, appears to show that the statements of THE MUSICAL TIMES are not always to be relied upon, and that a mistake was made this week in an editorial note on Wagner's opera 'Die Walküre.'" How funny it all is! THE MUSICAL TIMES says something about "Die Walküre" with which the hon. sec. of the decaying Wagner Society does not agree, the hon. sec. writes about the alleged error to the Church Times, of all papers in the world; Mr. Luard, having read the Church Times, drags the alleged error into the Isle of Wight Observer, à propos to something else; and somebody sends to London a copy of the Isle of Wight Observer. All this fuss about a single alleged error only proves the general accuracy of THE MUSICAL TIMES.

THE following has been cut from a newspaper and sent to me:

There is a musician at Hampstead who makes it his business to come in contact with people who have musical ideas without musical knowledge. He literally takes notes as they reveal their ideas. Being a composer, he is versed in the knowledge necessary to make these ideas practicable. He is compelled to cast the tune for the range of voice for which it is best adapted. People whistle, sing, play the banjo, and thump the piano at him. Then he turns the idea into a musical composition.

This appropriation of other people's ideas is a sin of degrees—always a sin, mind you; but I doubt whether its open and unblushing practice is worse than the case of those who commit the same offence with all the secrecy possible. Anyhow, throw into a pot the music of a year, boil over a searching fire, skim, and see how much of absolutely original stuff you have left.

AN East Anglian paper, describing a religious service, recently told its readers that "Mr. A. Plant sang in a style never before heard the recitative 'O rest in the Lord' and the aria 'Who shall abide.'"

IN THE MUSICAL TIMES for August I noted the jubilee of the Exeter Oratorio Society. That event has been attended by changes. Mr. G. W. Lyon, conductor for more than a quarter of a century, and Mr. Joseph White, choirmaster, have both resigned, for reasons which do not seem to have been made public. They are succeeded respectively by Dr. H. J. Edwards and Mr. F. J. Shapcott. The Jubilee Festival takes place in December, and consists of two performances, Sullivan's "Martyr of Antioch" and Rossini's "Stabat Mater" being given in the afternoon, and the "Martyr of Antioch," a second time, in the evening. I trust the old Society will prosper, no matter under what chiefs.

THE balance-sheet of the Bridlington Musical Society, covering the season from November till May, including the festival performances, shows a deficit of £88 8s. 8d. The amount scarcely mattered, for Squire Bosville, the Society's conductor, drew a cheque, and the members rejoiced in "no outstanding debts of any kind." Fortunate amateurs of Bridlington.

THE sum of £400 has been placed at the disposal of the Faculty of Science, Paris, by an anonymous donor, for the purpose of defraying a two years' course of instruction in musical æsthetics and psychology. JOSEPH BENNETT.

SOME FESTIVAL NOVELTIES.

IT is an exaggeration to say that a competent musical reviewer cannot form an approximately correct estimate of a work without hearing it. There is no doubt some difference between the case of a drama and that, say, of a cantata, arising from the comparatively simple means of expression demanded by the first-named. But a man who reads music as he reads a play, and, with the inner sense, hears every chord and sees every combination of orchestral colours—to him, at any rate, little remains for performance to reveal. Still, something remains. Music is intended to be heard, not read, and a composer may justly complain that his mere reader goes through a work unaffected by the physical sensations upon which the creative musician properly relies as one means of influencing judgment. Final criticism rightly follows hearing, but not a little that is positive and definite may precede it, and I therefore make no excuse for the remarks which are to follow upon certain novelties now in the programme of one of our autumn Festivals.

The compositions before me are Mr. Edward Elgar's "Light of Life" and Mr. Hugh Blair's "Blessed are they who watch," for the Festival of the three Choirs, at Worcester.

Mr. Elgar's "Light of Life" is described as a "short oratorio," and I am not inclined to quarrel with the definition, although it may not be precise. The librettist (Rev. E. Capel-Cure, M.A.) has taken the well-known Gospel story of the man who was born blind, and re-told it, with amplifications of the Biblical dialogue rendered necessary, perhaps, by musical exigencies, but tending rather to weakness than strength. For example, Scripture tells us that the Disciples approached their Master with a question which they had, no doubt, debated amongst themselves. As Jews, they were filled with the idea of bodily punishment for spiritual transgression, and a man who was born blind suggested a query whether he suffered for the sins of his parents, according to the Second Commandment, or for his own offences. In the Gospel version, the question is put to the Great Teacher with truly Biblical directness and simplicity: "Who did sin, this man or his parents, that he was born blind?" But Mr. Capel-Cure makes them add: "Behold God will not cast away a perfect man, neither will He help the evil doers; therefore darkness is round him that he cannot see." This is simply needless verbiage; every idea it conveys being included in, or underlying, the brief Scriptural query. It is a pity when musical exigencies entail results of the kind thus exemplified. The librettist is more happy in his reflections, which are, generally speaking, apposite and introduced in the right places. He has also shown good judgment in the creation of personages who may be said to exist less for dramatic than solo purposes. There is a Narrator—a contralto, as usual; and the mother of the blind man figures as a soprano, the man himself is a tenor, and the Master a baritone.

The music of the work opens with a composite movement beginning in G minor and ending in G major. This is styled a "Meditation," presumably upon the story chosen for treatment. The meditative part, however, seems confined to the opening Moderato, where one may fancy "Contemplation sits serene." So, perhaps, with the Coda, but hardly with the middle sections in 9-8. These, however, are so flowingly melodious that nobody will trouble about their precise significance. The first vocal number is introduced by a male-voice chorus, "Seek Him that maketh the seven stars." Partly homophonic, partly imitative, this section leads, with considerable dignity and effect, to a short tenor solo, in which the Blind Man prays for light. One thinks here of the pathetic music in Handel's "Samson," and can make comparisons according to taste. Mr. Elgar, taking his own course, has not failed in poignancy, or in suggested desolation of spirit equal to the cry given forth. A point of interest may be found in the use of a 9-8 theme from the "Meditation" when the voice exclaims, "To me the day and night are equal." Both solo and chorus are repeated, with modifications, in the sequel. No. 3 is brief, containing only a short recitative for the Narrator, and the question of the Disciples already remarked upon. In the last-named, the composer introduces canonic passages, two in one, relieved by a middle episode in four-part harmony, to which a moving instrumental bass, low down in the scale, lends significance. A solo, "Be not extreme, O Lord," takes up the whole of No. 4, and in it the Mother of the Blind Man repudiates the idea that her son is punished for the sins of others, and asks for light upon God's mysterious way. The music, without being specially striking in itself, affords a good opportunity for expressive singing, through the breadth of its phrases and the, generally speaking, unforced nature of its progressions. But the Coda is altogether admirable. In No. 5 Mr. Elgar aims at a higher mark. Here we find a solo for the Master, "Neither hath this man sinned nor his parents," in quasi-recitative, with an accompaniment having as its principal feature another of the 9-8 themes in the "Meditation." Passing on, No. 6 appears as a chorus, "Light out of darkness Thou hast brought." Though but moderately extended, this number presents ample variety—passages of massive and simple harmony; others of a contrapuntal nature; and yet others of purely melodic interest. At its close the story resumes. The Blind Man's eyes are anointed, and he is told to go and wash in Siloam; the orchestra here introducing a phrase previously associated with "I must work the works of Him that sent me." A reflection upon this, "Doubt not Thy Father's care," &c., is set as a duet for soprano and contralto. Duets of this class are difficult, and Mr. Elgar does not here strike me as working in his best form. I am disposed to think that a mistake is made in introducing so many passages which convey a sense of mechanism rather than of strong emotion. Imitations are further employed, and much more legitimately, in No. 9, where the Man that was Blind having returned seeing, neighbours question him as to the miracle. The orchestra has very good work here—work with character and significance, to some extent reminiscent and always serving the important dramatic effect at which, obviously, Mr. Elgar has aimed. The number is, perhaps, its composer's most ambitious effort in dramatic composition and has qualities which are none the worse for being shared with Mendelssohn. It works up, through a fughetta on a bold subject, to a climax in eight parts, followed, with true perception of contrast, by the whispered question in monotone: "Where is He?" and the Man's answer: "I know not." No. 10, a solo for the Man, "As a spirit didst Thou pass before mine eyes," would be better were it more homogeneous. Musical effect is often sacrificed in these days to the fancied necessity of marking every change in thought instead of reflecting the general spirit of the text. But the solo, though patchy, is ingenious and, in various places, specially on the words, "Jesus! But Thy name is all I know," &c., expressive far beyond common. In the next number, chiefly choral, Mr. Elgar finds another dramatic opportunity. The occasion is a dialogue between Pharisees who condemn and women who defend the Miracle-Worker. Some well-considered reminiscences are noticeable here, but the general effect arises from broad and vigorous treatment of contending utterances. Nor are the qualities of freshness and boldness absent. Indeed, this number conveys a very favourable idea of Mr. Elgar's higher powers. It closes with the Man's answer to the question, "What sayest thou of Him?" his words, "He is a Prophet" being attended by an "augmented" version of the accompaniment at the beginning of his song, "As a spirit didst Thou pass before mine eyes." No. 12, an arietta for the Narrator, supplies a bridge over which we pass to another dramatic situation. Here the Jews question the Man and his Mother, doubting whether there was ever any blindness to cure. Interest lies chiefly in the orchestra, which concerns itself largely with reminiscences, making special use of a phrase employed in the Mother's Song (No. 4) as she sings, "Lighten, O Lord, mine eyes." It would take too long to mention every such example, and I must be content to say that interest is well sustained throughout the number. An emphatic solo (Mother) and chorus of women follow, the ensemble being considerably developed, and that quite as far as the materials will bear. We now reach the penultimate number, in which the composer deals with the dialogue between our Lord and the man He had healed; continuing with a solo for the Master, "I am the good Shepherd." Although containing passages of interest and beauty, this may be expected to flag somewhat, coming, as it does, so near the end of the work. The final chorus, "Light of the world, we know Thy praise," closes the "short oratorio" with a comparatively brief, but triumphant expression of faith and love. To sum up, for the present, "The Light of Life" is, in my opinion, calculated to increase the respect with which Mr. Elgar is regarded, and largely to augment confidence in his future.

Mr. Hugh Blair's Advent cantata, "Blessed are they who watch," does not appear to have been written expressly for the approaching Festival at Worcester—at any rate, there is no statement to that effect, and the copyright date is 1894. This, however, does not detract one iota from the interest which the work justifies, nor in any degree abate the hope that Mr. Blair's music may be received with favour. The form adopted is that of a Church cantata with chorales (which, the reader may be reminded, have no place in Mr. Elgar's "short oratorio") and it contains six numbers, with an appendix chorus intended for use when the work is given in a concert-room, but, of course, available at any other time. The whole cantata, treatment, style, and character, is adapted chiefly for Advent services, and recommends itself not only by general fitness from a musical point of view, but also by its convenient length. Of the six numbers, four are choruses, one a solo for soprano or tenor, and one a solo for the same voice with chorus. In addition there are two interpolated hymns, which may be used or omitted at discretion, and the appendix as aforesaid.

The words, taken from Scripture, open with a benediction of those who watch for the Lord's coming: "They shall go into life eternal," &c., and continue with the hymn:

Ye servants of the Lord,
Each in his office wait,
Observant of His heavenly Word,
And watchful at His gate.

The tune is that of a German chorale, familiar to congregations. A solo follows, bidding us not to "sorrow for those that sleep," adding the comfortable words, "Them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with Him." In No. 3 the note changes. A chorus gives warning, "Behold, the hour cometh"; describes the wonder of the Last Day, "For the Lord shall descend from Heaven with a shout, with the voice of the Archangel and the trump of God," and calls upon the dead to "awake and sing." This is appropriately succeeded by a "Litany of the Last Judgment":

God the Father, God the Son,
God the Spirit, Three in One,
Hear us from Thy Heavenly Throne,
Spare us, Holy Trinity.

The tune comes from Mr. Blair's own pen. The next number, a chorus, contrasts the abiding of those who do the Divine will with the passing away of the world; leading to a solo (with chorus) containing the promise: "I will give unto him that is athirst of the fountain of the water of Life freely." The argument of the final number is substantially contained in its first words, "Now is come salvation," while the Coda introduces the well-known hymn, "O God our help in ages past." This, as already pointed out, may be omitted in favour of the appendix, which deals with the text, "Lo! this is our God; we have waited for Him," &c.

As might be expected, alike from the nature of the work and the training of the writer, Mr. Blair's music has, as its chief characteristic, the solidity, gravity, and restrained expression which are among the traditions of English church composition. No one will say that these qualities are out of place, and very few will contend that they are obstacles to adequate musical expression of the solemn subject here dealt with. As a matter of course, the term "adequate," in connection with any artistic treatment of the Second Advent and its collateral themes, must be taken in a very limited sense. No expression can really be adequate, since no artist can rise, even in imagination, to the height of so great an argument. All that we may expect is music which lends additional strength and impressiveness to verbal utterance in itself comparatively poor and weak, however strong. This end is, perhaps, best reached in the way naturally followed by the organist of Worcester Cathedral.

The opening chorus, "Blessed are they whom the Lord when He cometh shall find watching," is open to one or two critical remarks. Mr. Blair had not sufficient words for the purpose of a developed number, and those just quoted are given four times consecutively, the music sharing in the monotony thus set up. It is in the middle episode that the composer appears to greatest advantage, mixing polyphonic with homophonic passages, varying his harmonies more considerably, and, when needful, giving an impression of force. The solo, "Sorrow not for those who sleep," recommends itself as a purely melodious number, with the melody where it should be, in the voice part. Its prevalent rhythmic figure—two quavers between two crotchets (in 3-4)—determines more than anything else the character of the solo, next in importance being a closely-woven and unvarying accompaniment falling smoothly on the ear, even as the thoughts expressed by the words pass gratefully into the mind. This number is likely to become a favourite for detached use. In the chorus, "Behold, the hour cometh," Mr. Blair strikes a bolder note. Unisons are largely employed with very good effect, while many massive, homophonic passages are in full harmony. Decidedly the best section begins on the words "Awake, and sing, ye that sleep in the dust," and with this as a Coda the number ends impressively. In a third chorus, "The world passeth away," the contrast between these words and "But he that doeth the will of the Lord" is very judiciously expressed in the music. The palm of merit falls to the first section, with its simple and solemn utterance, subdued and restrained, of a portentous fact. In the solo, "I will give unto him," Mr. Blair again writes comfortable music similar in character, though not in phrase or rhythmic device, to that of the first air. The themes are taken up and further treated in an ensemble for solo, chorus, and orchestra. Coming to the last chorus, "Now is come salvation," massive choral phrases, with a busy accompaniment, are found in the opening section, followed by the hymn, set to "St. Anne's" tune, the melody of which is first heard in intermediate parts, and then sung in unison. The appendix, "Lo! this is our God," has its theme fugally stated, and subsequently treated in imitation, so advancing to a sonorous Coda and the end of the work.

As a composer in church style, Mr. Blair has here done well, laying himself under an obligation to achieve higher things by-and-by. Let him persevere.

JOSEPH BENNETT.

THE BAYREUTH FESTIVAL.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

SECOND NOTICE.

The iniquitous "star" system has no place in the Wagner Festspiele, and so completely is the motto of art before artists carried into practice that visitors have no means of discovering the names of the performers with whom they will be found in presence until the morning of each representation, when the programme of the day is offered for sale. This regulation has manifest advantages from a managerial point of view, and it ensures perfect attention, criticism being necessarily restrained until the tableau curtains have finally fallen. Thus, visitors who attended the second and subsequent performances of "The Nibelung's Ring" this year had to accept what was presented to them without reference to what had been done in the previous week. In "Das Rheingold" there were no changes of importance; but in "Die Walküre," Frau Lilli Lehmann-Kalisch was replaced by Frau Gulbranson, from Christiania, as Brünnhilde. To say that the young aspirant fully realised Wagner's conception of the warrior maiden would not be true. Histrionically she left much to desire, her acting, far more than her vocal efforts, displaying the evidence of sound drill rather than of inspiration.

In "Siegfried" Frau Gulbranson materially improved her position, her interpretation of the re-awakening scene, and her share in the following love duet, showing not only a large measure of intelligence, but more dramatic force than might have been expected. The exponent of the titular part was Herr Burgstaller, one of the new-comers, whose birthplace is said to be Bayreuth. Though not by any means a perfect vocalist as yet, Herr Burgstaller has unquestionably a tenor voice of good quality but of apparently limited compass. He imparted all needful vigour to the rendering of the sword-forging scene, perhaps the most arduous episode in the part. He has youth on his side, and, being tall and of good appearance, is altogether well qualified for the interpretation of Wagner's favourite character. Another artist who strengthened the favourable impression he had made in "Das Rheingold" was Herr Breuer as Mime. His facial play was very clever and amusing, and the mingled cunning, cowardice, and spitefulness of Alberich's brother could not have been better expressed. Of the representatives of the minor parts it is unnecessary to speak.

In "Götterdämmerung" Frau Gulbranson had further opportunity of showing that she has the natural qualifications for the making of a fine Wagnerian artist. We have witnessed a more fervid delivery of Brünnhilde's share in the parting duet with Siegfried and a greater measure of impressiveness in the grand funeral oration, but to sustain such a part on three successive evenings is a trying ordeal for a comparatively inexperienced performer, and Frau Gulbranson may be congratulated on the undoubted success she obtained. Her voice does not possess great volume, but it is of good quality and compass, and her vocal method is at present unimpeachable. All or nearly all the minor parts were in the same hands as before. The cycles of the Bayreuth master's titanic work now concluded have been chiefly remarkable for the number of youthful aspirants who have been permitted to take part in the representations, and the result has been a wonderful smoothness of ensemble, due, of course, to long and careful rehearsal. The monetary receipts were greater than in any previous year, but the magnificent mounting of the tetralogy was very costly, and some more performances are, it is said, to be given next year together with "Parsifal."

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

The opera season at Covent Garden was concluded on July 28 with a performance of Gounod's "Roméo et Juliette," the titular parts being sustained by Mr. Alvarez and Madame Melba. No new works were produced during the season, which will be chiefly memorable by the death of Sir Augustus Harris. The standard of the performances was well maintained after the impresario's decease, and the experience of the active members of the "Grand Opera Syndicate," which has been registered, promises to secure a satisfactory season next year. The engagements include Madame Nordica, and the brothers de Reszke have promised to return with "Siegfried" added to their répertoire.

SAVOY THEATRE.

A Musical Duologue, entitled "Weather or No," was produced at the Savoy Theatre, on the 10th ult., as a "curtain-raiser" to the "Mikado." The book, by Messrs. Adrian Ross and W. Beach, is bright and smartly written, and the music, by Mr. B. Luard Selby, is graceful, refined, and by no means lacking in point and humour. The characters, impersonated with fair success by Miss Emmie Owen and Mr. Scott Russell, are the "He" and "She" of a toy weatherhouse, who emerge alternately from their respective doors in obedience to the vagaries of our fitful climate. The funny little couple fall in love, but find courtship so difficult under the circumstances that they wrench themselves away from their supports and leave the weather to take care of itself. The trifle will be welcome to those who require pieces suitable for private theatricals.

THE COMING SEASON.

Various statements with regard to the works to be performed by the Royal Choral Society next season at the Royal Albert Hall have been made, but the official announcement has not yet been published.

QUEEN'S HALL.

The series of Concerts given by the Queen's Hall Choral Society, under the direction of Mr. Robert Newman, will consist of ten Concerts, commencing on November 5 and extending to May 27. The following works will be performed: The "Creation" (Haydn), "Samson and Delilah" (Saint-Saëns), "The Messiah" (Handel), "Elijah" (Mendelssohn), "Golden Legend" (Sullivan), "Stabat Mater" (Rossini), "Hymn of Praise" (Mendelssohn), "Faust" (Berlioz), "Redemption" (Gounod), and "St. Paul" (Mendelssohn). Mr. Randegger will conduct, as usual.

The National Sunday League Musical Society will perform the following works: Sullivan's "Golden Legend," "Prodigal Son," and "Light of the World"; Gounod's "Redemption"; Mackenzie's "Dream of Jubal"; Handel's "Messiah," "Samson," "Judas Maccabæus," and "Jephtha"; Mendelssohn's "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Athalie," "Lobgesang," and "Lauda Sion"; Haydn's "Creation" and "The Seasons"; Beethoven's "Mount of Olives"; Rossini's "Stabat Mater"; Barnby's "Rebekah," &c. The performances will be given every Sunday evening from October to May, under the direction of Dr. Churchill Sibley.

The Richter Concerts (under the direction of Mr. N. Vert) will be given on Monday evenings, October 19, 26, and November 2.

M. Colonne will give a series of four Concerts, commencing on October 12.

M. Lamoureux will give a series of six Concerts, beginning November 16.

The Gompertz Quartet party will give six Concerts, commencing on November 11 and terminating on February 24.

Mr. Charles Fry will give his third series of three Recitals, with Miss Olive Kennett, on Friday evenings, November 27, December 4, and Saturday afternoon, December 12.

ST. JAMES'S HALL.

The Popular Concerts will be resumed—those in the evening on Monday, November 9, and those in the afternoon on Saturday, November 14—and will be continued with the usual Christmas interval (from December 19 to January 4) until April 12. There will be twenty afternoon and twenty-one evening Concerts.

Mr. Henschel's London Symphony Concerts (eleventh season) will be given on Thursday evenings, November 12, December 3, January 14, February 4, 18, 25, March 11, 18, and April 1, nine Concerts in all.

The Sarasate Concerts will take place, under the direction of Mr. N. Vert, on Monday afternoons, November 2, 9, and 30; Dr. Otto Neitzel will assist at the pianoforte.

Messrs. Plunket Greene and Leonard Borwick will give a Concert in the evening of October 30, and Mr. David Bispham on the afternoon of October 21.

Mr. Eugene d'Albert's first Recital will take place on Saturday afternoon, November 7. Other Recitals are announced by Mr. Henry Such, Mr. Maurice Heymann, and M. Delafosse.

The Ballad Concerts will begin on the afternoon of November 4.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.

The competitions for the open Musical Scholarships, &c., have been awarded as follows: Henry Smart Scholarship (tenable for three years) to Frederick T. Flint. Queen Victoria Scholarship (composition) to William D. Boseley. Pianoforte Scholarship to Mabel Phillips. Vocal Scholarship to Helen V. Ambrose. Benedict Pianoforte Exhibition to Edith J. Marsh. Sims Reeves Vocal Exhibition to Mabel C. Bishop. College Violin Exhibition to Lilly J. P. Evans.

The Academical Board have also awarded the following exhibitions: Pianoforte and singing, to Suzanne S. Stokvis. Violoncello, to Edith J. Evans. Violin, to Sydney J. Faulks.

The following medals have been awarded after competition: Turner Pianoforte medal to Frederick T. Flint. Turner Singing medal to Kate Frewer. Harmony medal to Antonia Allen. Counterpoint medal to Helena W. M. Beckwith.

CONCERNING CHURCH MUSIC IN THE UNITED STATES.

(By our American Correspondent).

II.

Before taking up the matter of salaries outside the diocese of New York, a word is necessary in order that the figures may not be misleading. I have taken the number of church edifices in each diocese as representing the actual number of churches in that diocese, though this is not strictly correct, since there are in every diocese some parishes which maintain more than a single building which can properly be called a "church edifice," and there are undoubtedly in every diocese some church buildings which are not in use. To take the total number of parishes would, however, be still wider of the mark, for this would include many missions and places where services are held irregularly. The number of church edifices must stand, therefore, as representing the number of churches in working life, and this is so near to the actual truth as to serve all present purposes.

Outside the diocese of New York, the State of New York is divided into four dioceses—Albany, Long Island, Central New York, and Western New York. In the diocese of Albany there are seven or eight appointments which can be classed as good, out of a total of 169 churches. In Long Island there are twelve (ten being in the City of Brooklyn) out of 129; in Central New York, seven out of 142; in Western New York, eight out of 121. In California there are seven good posts among 108 organised parishes—the number of church edifices not being given.

In my former paper I somewhat inaccurately used the word "diocese" as applied to the State of Illinois. That state constitutes what is termed a "province," including the dioceses of Chicago, Quincy, and Springfield. The diocese of Chicago contains practically all the good appointments in the state, and there are about thirteen of them out of ninety churches.

Connecticut has sixteen desirable places out of 190, and Maryland (including the new diocese of Washington) about seventeen out of 215—all the good posts being within the cities of Baltimore and Washington.

Massachusetts has twenty out of 176—a few of the Boston appointments being exceptionally choice. Michigan has seven (nearly all in Detroit) out of ninety-eight; Minnesota, six (in the cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis) out of 160; and Missouri perhaps four (in the city of St. Louis) out of fifty.

The Diocese of Newark, in the State of New Jersey, contains about fifteen good appointments out of a total of eighty-nine—the high percentage being accounted for by the fact that this small diocese embraces a number of very attractive suburban towns, within easy distance of New York city, where prosperous churches have grown up.

Ohio shows about five good places out of 108; Pennsylvania, thirty-five (mostly in the city of Philadelphia) out of 170; Central Pennsylvania, ten out of 117; Pittsburgh, six out of 102; and Rhode Island, thirteen out of sixty.

In making up these figures I have strained every point to make the showing as good as possible, including a number of churches where I have positive knowledge that the organists' salaries are as low as 700 dollars, and including others where, in the absence of definite information, I have assumed from the general financial standing of a church that it ought to pay its organist something in the neighbourhood of 1,000 dollars a year. Of course the lower salaries are to some extent offset by the few that exceed the 1,000 dollar standard; but it is probable that an exact statement of the figures would show that the average salary in the 235 appointments enumerated would fall below that figure. Allowing the liberal number of forty for all the good places which may be classed as "scattering," outside the nineteen favoured dioceses, we get 275 organists' positions as comprising "the field" in the Episcopal Church in the United States, so far as that field would afford any attractions to a professional English church musician: this out of a total of 5,900 parishes.

When one of the thousand-dollar places is open, there is so sure to be a wild scramble for it, if the fact is made public, that most of the more important churches have abandoned the plan of advertising their positions and throwing them open to competition. Each year more and more vacancies are being filled by private arrangement, and it is consequently becoming more and more difficult for men who have only their merits to rely on to obtain consideration. Personal influence is playing a larger part in the bestowal of appointments than formerly, and it is now of the utmost importance that a professional man should have acquaintances who will keep him advised of what is going on in the principal churches of the larger cities, so that he may be prepared to act with the utmost speed when occasion offers. This condition of affairs operates to the disadvantage of a new-comer for a time, until he can make some friends at various points who will initiate him into the sort of Freemasonry by which the news of impending changes is passed about among the fraternity. There is hardly an appointment of any importance advertised nowadays, so anxious are rectors and vestrymen to avoid a swarm of applicants. It is not the custom in the United States for Church authorities to make any reply to an application by letter unless they intend to enter into some sort of negotiation with the candidate. Consequently, anyone who makes many written applications has to put up with the not altogether pleasant experience of having most of his letters passed by, apparently without the slightest notice. It is not customary even for candidates to be informed that the post has been filled; they are allowed to remain in darkness until such time as they can find out the facts for themselves.

Most of the changes in the American churches are made to take effect on May 1. While this rule is not of universal application, it is so near to it that every organist feels that when once the fated date has passed his chances of employment—if he has not been so fortunate as to "land"—are poor for the next twelve months. But while the contracts themselves become operative on May 1, it is becoming common for the choice of candidates to be made as early as the preceding January, or even December, and men who hope to secure better posts than the residuum of vacancies which drag along through the year after May Day has passed should be on the ground at least as early as the beginning of the year. But it should not be for a moment supposed that good appointments in the United States are waiting for men to come along and pick them up.

It does not follow that because a good salary is offered in this country a correspondingly good appropriation for voices will go with it. It is surprising how few churches in the United States make adequate provision for the payment of a chorus of singers. Even in the large cities and in churches of no small pretension it is rare to find a choir where the men are all paid and where proper soloists are employed. It should be borne in mind that many churches, in changing from the old-fashioned quartet choir, in which everyone was paid, to the surpliced choir, have simply taken the same amount of money, given the lion's share of it to the organist, reserved a small part for the payment of the little stipends of the boys, and left the tenor and bass parts to the tender mercies of such volunteers as can be had. A very large number of the surpliced choirs of the United States are run on this plan, and it is a very difficult one for the organist, who, because he is paid a liberal salary, is expected to do impracticable things and to compete with better paid choirs. Volunteer adult singers who are worth having are extremely rare. Choral singing is not cultivated to anything like the extent or perfection that exists in England, and the American chorister who possesses a fair voice, and a sufficient skill in reading notes and experience in the service to make him a desirable addition to a choir, expects to be paid. There is not the same loyalty to the church and pride in assisting in her services which obtains in the mother country. For all practical purposes the Episcopal Church in the United States stands as a denomination among denominations, and men who can sing very naturally go where they will be paid, if there is any such church within reach, or refuse altogether to give their services.

This is the reason why so many American vested choirs are so literally "boy" choirs. The churches have not yet awakened to the fact that until the knowledge of music is much more widely diffused among the common people than it is at present the voluntary chorus (with here and there an exception) will remain a poor, inadequate thing. The introduction of music in the public schools, which is just beginning, will have some effect in the course of a generation in bettering this state of things; but at present the organist, who is offered a good salary without an appropriation for voices, will do well to consider carefully whether it be not better to bear the ills he has than fly to others that he knows not of.

In the penultimate paragraph of my last letter the names of two churches—St. James and St. Agnes—were accidentally omitted, and the name of "Zion and St. Timothy" was, by a printer's error, made to appear as though two separate churches.

A CENTURY OF ART AT LA SCALA.

(From a Correspondent.)

This famous theatre, the touchstone of so many operas and of so many artists, is more than a hundred years old, having been built to replace a smaller theatre destroyed by fire in 1776. The proprietors of the boxes of this former theatre, having obtained permission from the Empress Maria Theresa, erected a new building on the site of a church called Santa Maria della Scala, and the theatre known as "Teatro alla Scala" was opened on August 3, 1778, under the auspices of the Archdukes Ferdinand and Maria Ricciarda of Austria. On this occasion an opera was performed, composed expressly for the event by Salieri, and entitled "Europa riconosciuta e Troja distrutta," followed by a ballet having another mythological subject, "Apollo appeased, or the re-appearance of the Sun after the fall of Phaeton." On this memorable evening the artists were Mesdames Balducci and Lebrun, MM. Rubinelli, Paccharotti, and Prati.

In the same year the archives show an edict permitting gambling to be carried on in the rooms of the theatre (long a source of gain to the managers, but abolished in 1815), and also permitting masked balls to be given at stated seasons in the theatre itself, subject to certain restrictions. In 1788 we have "Iphigenia in Aulide," by Gluck, and "Olimpiade," by Cimarosa; but three years later these classical productions are replaced by a ballet called "The Chimney Sweep as Prince," and La Scala presents a most undignified spectacle, for we read that "the public whistled horribly during the very long and wretched first act," exasperating by their demeanour the three best dancers, Vulcani, who retorted by "insolent gestures." For this the said dancers had to write an apology, which was fastened on the door of the theatre on the following day, and the authorities issued an order prohibiting the public to shout, whistle, or give other signs of disapprobation during a performance. The public, however, found other means of taunting the unfortunate dancers Vulcani. Every time they appeared on following occasions the public laughed, nay, "all with one accord seemed ready to burst with laughter." The poor dancers wrote a second and even more humble apology, but we know not how it was received. From November 5 to 27 of the same year a company of saltimbanques and tight-rope dancers appeared for the delectation of the Milanese. Two years later the irrepressible public was again called to order by the Government (Austrian), and forbidden to insist on repetitions of parts of the opera, "fatiguing the performers and giving annoyance to other spectators who desire no such repetition"—a prohibition, by-the-bye, which might with advantage be renewed at the present day in Italy, where whole scenes of opera are frequently encored.

But in 1796 the paternal government of Austria was in abeyance and the French Republic reigned in its stead, issuing the theatre bills with "Liberté, Egalité," as a heading, and (dated "Le 1er Frigifère, an V. de la République") treating the citizens to a gratis performance in La Scala to celebrate the return of the brave legions after a victory somewhere; the "Republican Tragedy 'Brutus,'" with ballet, being provided for the delectation of the spectators, evidently with a view to instruction in liberal ideas as well as with a view to art for art's sake.

Those were generous times. Another Gratis is proclaimed after the siege of Mantua: "Joy, good citizens, Victory has crowned our common hopes," says the One and Indivisible Republic in its invitation to the people on the 17th Pluvieuse (February 15, 1797). And yet another Gratis to greet the General in Chief Bonaparte in November of the same year. Also, for the better celebration of the auspicious event, both theatres were illuminated "a pieno giorno" and thrown open to the public.

On the 6 Fructidor of the same year (August 23) "La Chasse du Taureau à l'usage Vénétien" was announced, with the promise that the bull shall be "vif et vrai" and "the necessary dogs provided according to usage"—which shows the Republican pastimes in a somewhat savage light. Still, its aims must have been high, for in October, still of 1797, it issued a notice to the "Cisalpines" on the following lines:—

"The superior authorities occupied with public education, in order to imprint on the mind of youth in large characters the sacred principles of Liberty and Equality, the love of Virtue and Patriotism, have caused the Minister of the Interior to turn his attention to the theatres. This salutary institution, the instructor of nations . . . has become with us the school of error, adulation, and vice. Despotism, whose turn is best served by having citizens corrupt rather than virtuous, ignorant than enlightened . . . gladly abandoned this school of sentiment to the speculation of a greedy bargainer, who, regulating his trade by the frivolity and corruption of the people, to whom he presented nothing but the spectacle of the grandeur of despots, rendered it (the people) familiar with servitude, and helped to swell the power of Tyranny." The proclamation goes on to say that the theatre is to be raised to its true dignity, "after the example of the French and Greeks" (order of precedence, sic!), and calls upon any persons of talent to place that talent at the service of the country by writing dramas calculated to inspire the souls of "Cisalpines" with zeal for Republicanism and its "grand sentiments." A prize of forty zechins was offered for the best drama, in 1798 raised to sixty zechins on account of the unsatisfactory results obtained by the first call. Further results are not recorded.

The open-handed Republic was, however, not destined to educate the Cisalpines long. The great Royal box in La Scala was taken away by order of the Directoire and six smaller boxes substituted at Easter, 1799; but on the re-entry of the Austrians, on April 28 of the same year, the pomp and show of Royalty returned and the box was replaced in May of the same year. Adieu, Republic! La Scala echoed to the strains of the thanksgiving Te Deum, sung "with intervention of the nobility."

The wheel of fortune turned yet again, and, a year later (June 16, 1800), the citizens were once more summoned to greet the "Brave Hero, the Liberator of Italy, Bonaparte."

(Liberté—Egalité—La Scala illuminated Gratis.) And even into the winter, by order of the Citoyen Garnier, we read of a performance, given by a French company, of a play called "L'Avocat Geullard," avec la salle éclairée en bougie, says the Cisalpine Republic with its wonted magnificence. A performance of "Fou, ou Les Reflexions Angloises," is also mentioned, and it would be interesting to know with what "reflections" our ancestors were credited on the then aspect of affairs, the "Fou" not being very flattering in connection with British intellect. Besides these entertainments the Republic, now called "République Italienne," gave its citizens the enjoyment of a new ballet which sounds piquant: "Mathilde, or the Savage Woman." Unfortunately, like so many gems of the histrionic art, this production has disappeared, leaving no trace.

But in 1805 the Kingdom of Italy rivalled this entertainment with a pastoral ballet, entitled "The Thin and the Fat," which, perhaps, helped to console the patrons of Terpsichore for the loss of their light-footed Republic. In 1811 the Milanese public was sternly called to order and reminded "that it is not seemly that the Milanese should be the slowest of all Italian citizens to recognise all the forms and usages of decorum, of self-respect, and of the respect due to one's fellow-citizens" during the performances of opera, &c., and they were enjoined to take off their hats during the acts. In the intervals the head might be covered, providing Royalty were not present.

But now we approach the golden days of Italian Opera and hear of the first performances of such novelties as "Otello," by Maestro Gioachino Rossini (1823), "Semiramide" (for the first time in Milan, 1824), "La Donna del Lago," "Il Barbiere di Siviglia" (1827, with the singers Rubini and Tamburini), the new opera "Norma" (1831, with Pasta and Grisi). The names of those past wonderful voices in conjunction with the surroundings and the epoch marked in opera by those creations conjure up fascinating recollections. "Lucrezia Borgia," expressly composed, came in 1833, then Madame Malibran in "Norma" (1834), "Masaniello" ("La Muta di Portici") by Auber (new for Milan in 1839), with a new ballet by Albert. In this opera the renowned Fanny Cerrito kindly undertook the part of the Muta. An opéra bouffe written by Verdi expressly for La Scala was given in 1840, "I Lombardi" in 1843, and "Don Pasquale," for the first time in Milan, in the same year.

In 1862 Gounod's "Faust" was performed no less than eleven times.

"Mefistofele," although written by Boito expressly for La Scala (1868), had no success at all and was only performed three times, an ill-success shared by "Lohengrin" in 1873. Madame Patti sang in four operas here in 1877, and in 1881 the most successful of all the grand ballets ever produced in La Scala—"Excelsior"—was put on the large stage with extraordinary magnificence.

Verdi's "Otello," in 1887 (with Pantaleoni, Maurel, and Tamagno in the cast), was an immediate success, and enjoyed twenty-five performances in about two months.

Wagner has at length gained a footing in La Scala, and the last five years have witnessed "Meistersinger," "Lohengrin," "Tannhäuser," and "Walküre" in succession. The theatre at present belongs (since 1870) to the Municipality and the owners of boxes, the first four tiers being all private property. A subsidy of 240,000 francs (£9,600) yearly, and a further sum of 40,000 francs (£1,600) for repairs, are granted by the town. La Scala is the pride of Milan, only second to the Fenice at Naples, as Milan Cathedral is only second to St. Peter's. It is the heart, the centre of a huge amount of theatrical activity, and gives employment, not only during the brief period of its season (the so-called Carnival, from December 26 to April), but throughout the year to a large number of persons, from impresarios, artists, and critics, down to such humble helpers as scene shifters and wig makers. The personnel directly employed at La Scala (leaving out the upper class of singers, dancers, musicians, &c.) are reckoned at 782; workmen employed in connection with the theatre, and musical editors, 400; those in the shops supplying theatrical accessories, 563; which gives a total of 1,745—probably 1,745 families, who earn their living by this huge temple of art.

The cost of chorus, orchestra, and ballet dancers (i.e., corpo di ballo alone) each season is estimated at £5,600.

But statistics, although interesting as giving an idea of the commercial value of the opera-house, are but dry-as-dust proofs of its greatness. The mind is more impressed in the grand hall devoted to pleasure, fame, and brilliance by the thought of the long vista of such nights of splendour continued year after year for more than a century. In imagination one sees the tiers of boxes peopled from the past: first, the bewigged and powdered beaux and belles in rustling brocades and laces—one hears the guttural German over-riding the soft Italian; then the Directoire passes, light-hearted and buoyant with the breath of some glad new order of things—French language, French art ruling all. The Incroyables and the Empire have their day; last of all come Italy herself and modern art. The salle éclairée en bougie pales before the electric light, and the modest orchestra of Bellini expands into Wagnerian dimensions. Pasta, Malibran, Bellini, Rossini, Taglioni—where are they? Wonderful voices dissolved into thin air, nimble feet crumbled into dust together with the brain of genius which had inspired them and in obedience to whose will they moved.

La Scala is redolent as a sepulchre of faded garlands, withered roses; only the golden chain of art continues unbroken, its links forged by living genius from one generation to another.

MUSIC AT THE FUNERAL OF SIR JOHN MILLAIS.

Music formed an important feature at the funeral of Sir John Millais, at St. Paul's Cathedral, on the 20th ult. The Cathedral clergy and choir met the body at the West door, and preceded it towards its temporary resting-place under the Dome, singing the opening sentences to Croft's music. Then followed Psalm xc., sung to the Rev. F. A. J. Hervey's chant in F minor. The reading of the lesson by Canon Newbolt was followed by Brahms's anthem "Behold, all flesh is as the grass." At the graveside the sentences were sung to the music by Croft and Purcell, followed by Dr. C. V. Stanford's anthem "I heard a voice from Heaven" and the hymn "The Saints of God," to the tune by Sir John Stainer. The "Dead March" in "Saul" was then played, but so slowly as to entirely lose its characteristics as a march. Beethoven's "Equale" was played by a quartet of trombones, as at Lord Leighton's funeral, before the procession arrived at the church. It is a pity that the solemnity of such occasions should be marred by the gesticulations of a conductor as the body is borne from the West door. Surely such a choir as that of St. Paul's Cathedral could sing in time without such aid.

AUGUSTUS HARRIS MEMORIAL FUND.

After considerable, and not altogether desirable controversy, it has been decided that contributors to the Augustus Harris Memorial Fund should individually specify the purpose to which they wish their donations to be devoted. It is to be hoped, however, that the bulk of the money will be divided between the Royal Society of Musicians and the Actors' Benevolent Fund, two well-deserving charities, with which the late impresario was in sympathy. But little practical service would be rendered to the memory of the late Sir Augustus Harris by the erection of a statue, for his enterprise has secured him a place in the history of the theatre which will remain so long as a record is kept of the progress of dramatic art. At the last meeting of the committee Mr. H. Klein, indeed, stated that "the Prince of Wales had given his patronage to the movement on the understanding that the question of a statue should be kept in the background, most of the money being given to those charitable institutions in which Sir Augustus Harris took special interest."

The original (MS.) full orchestral score of Dr. C. H. H. Parry's "Invocation to Music," an Ode in honour of Henry Purcell, has unfortunately been lost. It was last used at the performance of the work at the Royal Albert Hall, November 21, 1895, since which date no trace of it has been found. Anyone knowing its whereabouts is requested to kindly communicate with Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., of 1, Berners Street, W., who will be very grateful for any information likely to lead to the recovery of the missing manuscript.

REVIEWS.

The Evolution of the Art of Music. By C. Hubert H. Parry. Vol. LXXX. of "The International Scientific Series." [Kegan Paul, Trench, Trübner and Co.]

This volume is a second and much cheaper edition of the now famous book which, three years ago, Dr. Parry gave to the world under the title of "The Art of Music." When reviewing it in these columns (see our Jubilee number, June, 1894) we remarked: "The title of this book by no means does justice to its contents. 'The Evolution of Music' would have been more accurate." We are pleased to know that Dr. Parry agrees with us, a fact which he makes clear, not only by his altered title, but by the following statement in his Preface to the new volume: "The title under which the book was first published in 1893 was evidently misleading, and has therefore been slightly amplified, with a view of suggesting the intention of the work more effectually." The inclusion of Dr. Parry's finest literary achievement in a series of standard works—many of them among the finest scientific works of the day—is a source of strong satisfaction to those who, having the welfare of music at heart, have also realised the "epoch-making" character of the book. It will now appeal to a much wider circle of readers than before, and will probably induce many to take an interest in music who have never regarded the art as worthy of serious study or attention. Dr. Parry tells us, in his preface, that his book was undertaken, at the invitation of Mr. Kegan Paul, about twelve years ago, and though the subject was almost constantly under consideration, the mass of material to be dealt with was so vast that nine years elapsed before the MS. was ready for publication. No one possessing even a superficial acquaintance with the difficulties involved in a study of the origin and growth of a great human power of such universal and varied use as music will be inclined to complain that the time occupied was excessive. It should be stated that the re-publication of his book has enabled the author to make a few slight changes and additions here and there, among the latter being a curious example of savage music, taken by phonograph from the performance of some Zuni Indians in the Southern States of North America.

The Orpheus (New Series). Nos. 287-299. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

The recent additions to this fine collection of part-songs decidedly increase the value of the series. No. 287, "In the pleasant summer day," is a glee for men's voices, written by W. E. Baker and set to music by William Beale. The varying sentiments of the words are well reflected in the music, which is grateful to sing and should be pleasing to hear. No. 288 is an excellent setting for male voices, by J. Varley Roberts, of John Suckling's "I prithee send me back my heart," which will be found arranged for mixed voices in No. 739 of Novello's "Part-song Book." Of course the words are much more forcible when sung by men, and male quartets will find a very effective and charming composition in Mr. Roberts's version. Familiar words have been taken by Jacques Blumenthal, who, in No. 289, has set for two tenors and two basses George Withers's piquant little poem "What care I how fair she be?" The composer has caught the spirit of the words in an admirable manner, and the music most happily reflects the half-serious, half-bantering sentiment of the text. The manner in which the second bass now and again gives his opinions is genuinely humorous. "While my lady sleepeth" (No. 290), by Percy Pitt, is a serenade for alto, tenor, and two basses. The music is appropriately suave and dainty, and well in keeping with the poetical and fanciful character of the lines, which have been translated by J. G. Lockhart from the "Romancero General," dated 1604. The same composer has supplied No. 291, "A cavalier's song," written for the same voices as the preceding, the words being by G. J. Whyte-Melville. This song is as reckless and animated in character as the most hot-headed cavalier could have wished, and, sung with spirit, would quicken the pulse of an audience. "The Flirt" (No. 292), by J. Frederick Bridge, and described as a "humorous part-song" for alto, tenor, and two basses, is a most diverting example of its kind. The words have been written by H. Devey Browne, and the composer has never more happily caught the spirit of his text. The way in which each part relates its woes while the others sing a long sympathetic "Ah!" is inexpressibly droll. The Meister Glee Singers should promptly add this part-song to their somewhat limited repertory. The three following numbers, for tenors and basses, have been composed by C. H. Döring, and have German words with an English translation by the Rev. J. Troutbeck. In No. 293, "The leaves to one another say," the fanciful nature of the text is well expressed by the music, which is of an appropriately gay and delicate nature. No. 294, "The moon looks down," is tinged with humour, and the music is graceful and richly harmonised. No. 295, "Far down the green valley," is in dance rhythm, and is an exceedingly bright and blithesome ditty. No. 296, "Street Music," by Hamilton Clarke, is a humorous setting for men's voices of some diverting words written by H. D. Browne. The music is of a popular character, and if the performers enter into its spirit the risible faculties of an audience could scarcely fail to be considerably exercised. The next two numbers are written by the late Joseph Barnby, and are respectively entitled "The Kiss" and "In Laudem amoris." Both are glees for an alto, two tenors, and a bass. The words of the former date from the end of the sixteenth century, and the music happily echoes the quaint piquancy of the text. "In Laudem amoris" is also indebted for its text to the sentiment of our forefathers. The music is extremely graceful and sympathetic and possesses much charm. The part-writing is admirable. No. 299, entitled "There's life to be seen," is the sailors' chorus from the cantata "The Armada," composed by George Miller. This is a very spirited setting of some highly patriotic words. The diatonic character of the music and the directness of the harmonic changes make the glee easy to read and effectively illustrative of the text.

Alexis. A Cantata for tenor voice, with Pianoforte Accompaniment and Violoncello obbligato. By John Christopher Pepusch. New arrangement by Dr. Cruise. [Schott and Co.]

Musical antiquaries will find much to interest them in this example of Dr. Pepusch, who was a contemporary of Handel and Bach, having been born in Berlin in 1667. He came to England in 1700, and after filling many appointments, including director of the orchestra in the theatre of Lincoln's Inn Fields and organist to the Duke of Chandos, took, in the year 1713, the degree of Doctor of Music at Oxford. Pepusch wrote much, and was the arranger of the overture and airs of the famous "Beggar's Opera." Finally he became organist at the Charterhouse, and devoted the latter years of his life to teaching, amongst his pupils being Travers, Boyce, and Cooke. The cantata—or, as we should now call it, song—"Alexis" is one of six compositions of like character which he published in 1712, and of which the one under review became the most popular. Apparently the violoncello obbligato has never been published until now, having hitherto been played from the figured bass. No little of the interest of the present edition, however, results from this obbligato, which supports and follows the voice in a very effective manner, especially in the Largo, which is the most attractive portion of the song.

Serenade. Words by Sarah Marshall. Music by Alice Borton.

Rêverie Passionnée. For Pianoforte Solo. By Tito Mattei. [Edwin Ashdown.]

The Serenade is a contented little song, the burden of which is "She loves me," which statement the singer makes to the "breeze," the "bees," and the "trees," and sundry other objects. The music is melodious and suitable for a tenor voice.

Signor Mattei's "Rêverie Passionée" is of a popular character, and its "passion" is chiefly illustrated by excursions into extraneous keys. In common with most of this composer's writings the piece possesses much brilliancy and many effective passages.

Novello's Short Anthems. Nos. 59-62, 64-68. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

Several fresh additions have recently been made to this excellent series. In No. 59 a dignified melody by Palestrina has been furnished with some devotional words which admirably suit the character of the music, and the thirty-two bars of which the anthem consists may be described as a solemn invitation to worship. Jacques Arcadelt's "Ave Maria" has been allied with some words of a prayerful character, which make No. 60 an excellent anthem for Lent. "Lead me, Lord," from S. S. Wesley's "Praise the Lord, my soul," forms No. 61. No. 62, "Master, what shall I do to inherit Eternal Life?" by C. F. Bowes, consists of a melodious and expressive tenor solo, followed by a passage in full harmony of a brighter character. This includes a short passage for alto solo. What may be termed a model short anthem is found in No. 64, "Jesus said unto the people," by Sir John Stainer. It is written throughout in four parts, is simple in its construction and harmonic progressions, and admirably varied in rhythm and gradation of tonal force. A well-trained choir could make this anthem most impressive. No. 65, "Let us come boldly," has been contributed by C. H. Lloyd. This composition makes some demands upon the training of its singers, but any trouble it may give in rehearsal will be well repaid in performance. No. 66, "These are they which follow the Lamb," by John Goss, is a brief and effective anthem designed "For the feast of the Holy Innocents," "O Lord, give ear unto my prayer," No. 67, by W. H. Cummings, is an excellent example of the best style of church music. It is extremely dignified in conception, devotional in expression, and appeals to the cultured musician by reason of its scholarly writing. No. 68, "Whom have I in heaven but Thee," is by G. J. Elvey, and is well adapted for general use.

Nine Songs. Written by Longfellow. Composed by Frederic H. Cowen.

Songs for Children. Written by Clifton Bingham. Composed by Frederic H. Cowen.

Eight Songs. Composed by Lawrence Kellie. [Metzler and Co.]

The album of songs by Mr. Cowen is published in two keys, and will doubtless attract the attention of many vocalists. The music is somewhat unequal in merit, but the settings of "Love, what wilt thou," and "The sea hath its pearls" are in the composer's best style. There is also much individuality in "On away, awake, beloved," and the lyric "Eyes so tristful" is a little gem.

The "Songs for Children" are excellent and possess much musical charm. The abilities of little singers have been carefully kept in view, and the accompaniments can be played by executants of moderate attainments.

Mr. Lawrence Kellie has developed a style of his own which appeals to many amateurs. The words of the "Eight Songs" under review have been supplied by various writers, including Sir Walter Raleigh and Charles Kingsley, and are well adapted for lyrical treatment. Mr. Kellie always writes gratefully for the voice and in a manner which is calculated to make the most of small means. Much ingenuity is also shown in the accompaniments; that provided for "The Fairyland" is extremely brilliant and tasteful.

The Office of the Holy Communion. Set to simple Chants. Arranged by the Rev. C. W. A. Brooke. [Skeffington and Son.]

This arrangement of the Communion Service has been made to meet the requirements of a musical setting of the simplest description. The Anglican and Gregorian methods of pointing are given on opposite pages so that either may be used, and the music is well chosen.

Hints on Choir Training for Competitions. By W. G. McNaught. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

It is doubtful if there exists another publication of sixteen pages which includes so much valuable and essentially practical information as Dr. McNaught's little pamphlet. It may be read with profit not only by all conductors of choral societies who are in the habit of placing their forces in competition with others, but also with advantage by choristers, whose individual responsibility is shown in an admirable manner. It may be added that the "Hints" are the outcome of the author's experience in adjudicating, and are offered as some explanation of the basis upon which he has made his awards.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G. By Reginald Steggall.

Thanks be to God. Full Anthem for Easter. By Oliver King. [Robert Cocks and Co.]

The setting of the Evening Canticles is intended for festal use, and is set out for soprano and tenor solos, four-part chorus, and orchestral and organ accompaniment. A broad and popular style has been adopted, and imitative passages in the parts obviously avoided, the vocal writing being of the ordinary part-song character. The composition consequently presents but few executive difficulties, saving that the soprano part soars somewhat frequently above the five lines of the treble stave.

A similar style distinguishes the anthem "Thanks be to God," which forms No. 14 of the "Burlington Series of Modern Church Music." The work is intended for the Easter season, and is short, bright, and spirited.

Biblioteca del Pianista. By M. Bergson. [G. Ricordi and Co.]

This publication is a complete course of exercises intended for the acquirement of elementary pianoforte technique. The method pursued is sound, but the work only repeats what is to be found in several modern pianoforte tutors. The fingers are first taught to move independently and in simple five-finger exercises, which are to be played in all keys. It would have been better to have given both forms of the minor scale in connection with the relative major, and it is generally admitted that it is best to connect the major scale with its tonic minor instead of its relative minor.

Allegretto Grazioso. For Violin and Pianoforte. By Antonin Dvorák. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

The "Allegretto Grazioso," arranged by Mr. S. Coleridge-Taylor, is from Dvorák's Fourth Symphony in G (Op. 88). The character of this beautiful movement has been well preserved and the violin part is most effective. Although the other part calls for a pianist of some ability its passages lie well under the hand and are not so difficult to play as at first they appear. As a whole Mr. Taylor is to be congratulated on the admirable manner in which he has discharged a difficult task.

Four English Dances. For Violin and Pianoforte. By F. H. Cowen. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

Mr. Cowen's "Four English Dances in the Olden Style" were heard in their orchestral form for the first time during the recent London season, and the present arrangement for violin and pianoforte provides amateurs with four highly pleasing and effective pieces of moderate difficulty. This version is more satisfactory than the pianoforte arrangement, which was issued some little time back, the violin being able to suggest more successfully the orchestral character of the music.

Judex (from "Mors et Vita"). For Violin and Pianoforte. By Charles Gounod. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

The arrangement from Gounod's "Mors et Vita" is by Berthold Tours, which is in itself sufficient guarantee that it has been well done. The fine broad phrases of the melody provide effective material for the violin part, which, moreover, is extremely simple. The pianoforte writing makes a little more demand on the executive ability of its executant, but a pianist of modest attainments could easily read the music at sight.

FOREIGN NOTES.

Amsterdam.—The Wagner Society here, under the zealous direction of M. Viotta, is preparing the performance, at the opera house, of the two latter dramas of the "Nibelungen" Tetralogy, "Rheingold" and "Walküre" having already been given by this greatly daring institution during last season.

Berlin.—Berlioz's seldom-heard opera "Benvenuto Cellini" is being newly mounted at the Royal Opera, and will be brought out directly after the commencement of the approaching season. The first novelty—viz., Herr Max Schillings's "Ingwelde," around which a small library of special newspaper articles has already clustered, is down for performance in the first week of November. The work is looked upon by some as the most important post-Wagnerian production. Meanwhile young Italy continues to compete successfully with the native poet-musician, and the one-hundredth performance of Leoncavallo's "I Pagliacci" was recorded last month at the New Royal Opera.——Dr. Reimann, the excellent organist of the Kaiser Wilhelm Memorial Church, gave the last of his interesting series of Organ Recitals of the season on July 30. The anniversary of the death of Liszt occurring on the following day, the programme consisted chiefly of works by that master, including the Fugue on the name of "Bach" and the Fantasia "Weinen, Klagen," besides vocal solos by Bach and Handel. These Recitals have, within a short space of time, become a much-valued and appreciated institution.——Professor Stolzenberg, the eminent vocal teacher, until recently of the Cologne Conservatorium, has established an Academy of his own in the capital, a number of his pupils at the Rhenish institution having followed him to his new domicile.——A three days' Festival of Male Choral Societies, on a large scale, is announced to be held here, in connection with the Industrial Exhibition, from the 10th to the 12th inst.

Bologna.—The Wagner Society here gave a grand Concert on the anniversary of the birth of the Bayreuth master, when the final act of "Siegfried" was given, for the first time with an Italian version, amidst general enthusiasm. Fräulein Ehrenstein, of the Viennese opera, and the tenor Borgatti, took leading parts. Signor Martucci conducted.

Breslau.—Herr Hans Breuer, the tenor whose Mime in this year's Bayreuth performances met with such general appreciation, has been engaged by director Loewe, of the Stadt-Theatre, for a period of five years.

Brussels.—Miss Marie Brema, whose success in the part of Fricka, at Bayreuth, has been so complete, has been engaged by M. Stoumon, the director of the Théâtre de la Monnaie, for a series of representations here. The lady will appear successively as Ortrud in "Lohengrin," Amneris in "Aïda," and Orphée in Gluck's opera. There is also talk of the re-mounting of "Die Walküre," with Miss Brema in the part of Fricka and Fräulein Kutscherra in that of Brünnhilde. A Concert is being arranged at the Cercle Artistique et Littéraire, in which Miss Brema and Mr. Plunket Greene are to take part. "Messidor," M. Bruneau's new opera, is in course of being mounted at the Théâtre de la Monnaie, and will be brought out simultaneously with the Paris première of the work.——M. Samuel, the composer of the remarkable oratorio "Christus," has just completed a Mass, for mixed voices and organ, which is said to be highly original in conception and elevated in style.——Herr Richard Strauss has accepted an invitation to give a grand Concert of his own compositions both here and in Liège during the winter.

Budapesth.—The cycle of Wagner's operas, given in connection with the Millennium Exhibition, has not proved a success, the performances being hardly of an order to attract many visitors. They, however, led to an incident which has produced somewhat of a sensation here—viz., the peremptory dismissal by the management of the National Opera of M. Broulik, for many years a leading tenor here, because of his inability (medically certified) to sing the part of Loge in "Das Rheingold." He had been singing Wagnerian leading parts on the four preceding evenings, and his offence, in the eyes of his exacting directors, might, one would think, at least have entitled him to the "benefit of the doubt." The matter, which has caused a storm of indignation here, is to be settled in the law courts.——Herr Alexander Erkel, son of the celebrated Hungarian composer, has been appointed general musical director at the Royal Opera.

Carlsbad.—Goldmark's fairy opera "The Cricket on the Hearth" ("Das Heimchen am Heerd"), successfully brought out recently at Vienna and Berlin, was produced at the Stadt-Theater, on July 21, and met with a most cordial reception on the part of the international public assembled here. The performance was an excellent one, under Herr Hubetz, and both conductor and principal interpreters were recalled repeatedly after each act.

Coburg.—A revised version of Capellmeister Langert's opera, "Dornröschen" (The Sleeping Beauty), is in preparation at the Court Theatre for the coming season. The salaries of the personnel at this institution have lately been increased, but in future no engagements "for life" are to be entered into.

Cologne.—The new symphonic poem "King Lear," by Herr Felix Weingartner, the distinguished Berlin Capellmeister, is to be first produced at a Gürzenich Concert next month, and shortly afterwards also at Mannheim and Bremen. The same composer's opera "Genesius," repeatedly performed recently at Mannheim, appears to have been a genuine success, and the work will probably also be brought out here.

Cracow.—A new opera, entitled "Goplana," by the young composer Ladislaus Zelenski, was brought out recently at the Municipal Theatre, with great success. The libretto, by Professor German, is founded on Slowacki's drama "Balladyna."

Darmstadt.—A first performance took place on the 3rd ult., at the Hof-Theater, of a new comic opera, entitled "Don Alvaro," the composer of which is Herr Fritz Baselt, a musician of decided merit. The work was very favourably received.

Dresden.—A new concert hall, capable of accommodating some fifteen hundred persons, is about to be opened here. The hall, which supplies a long-felt want, has already been engaged for over a hundred concert performances in the coming season.

Düsseldorf.—The latest addition to the list of German towns in which British music is being successfully introduced is Düsseldorf, where the string band of the 39th Regiment of Fusiliers, under the conductorship of Herr W. Kohn, performed, on the 20th ult., Sir Alexander Mackenzie's Benedictus and Mr. Hamish MacCunn's Overture "Land of the Mountain and the Flood" at a Concert given in the Flora-Garten. A correspondent informs us that they were very warmly received, and that the performances were finished and effective, though the Concert took place in the open air instead of the Concert Hall as originally intended. He adds that the energetic and gifted bandmaster of the gallant regiment intends shortly to devote a whole Concert, or, at any rate, the greater part of the programme, to British music.

Florence.—Signor Leoncavallo is reported to be busily engaged, at his summer resort on the Lago Maggiore, upon the scores of "La Bohême" and "Roland." The former opera he hopes to bring out during the coming winter.

Frankfort-on-Main.—Engelbert Humperdinck has purchased the so-called "Schlösschen," near Boppard, on the Rhine, formerly inhabited by Prince Waldeck. The residence commands a most charming and romantic view, calculated to afford the composer of "Hänsel und Gretel" many a fresh glimpse of fairyland.——Richard Strauss's just completed new symphonic work, "Thus spake Zarathustra," is to be first performed at one of the Museum Concerts here, under the composer's direction. Two important vocal compositions with orchestra (set to verses by Mackay and von Bodmann), by this productive and most "modern" of German composers, are also about to be published.——The seventieth birthday of Herr Julius Stockhausen was signalised, on July 22, by numerous sympathetic demonstrations from far and near. A reception was held at the Saalbau, in the course of which a cantata, specially written for the occasion by Paul Heyse, and set to music by Max Bruch, was performed under the composer's direction, while Dr. Max Friedländer, the well-known musical author, delivered a festal oration. Amongst the gifts was a purse of 50,000 marks, bestowed by the great baritone's pupils, past and present. The German Emperor conferred upon him the large gold medal for arts and sciences.

GENEVA.—A new comic opera, "Le vin de la Cure," was produced here for the first time on July 18, and received with great favour. The librettists are MM. Sarnette and Delécraz, and the composer M. A. Krantz, a professor at the Conservatoire here. A most successful performance also took place at one of the recent Concerts in connection with the current Exhibition, of a new choral work, entitled "Sennen-Fahrten," composed by Herr F. Schneeberger, editor of the journal Der Volksgesang.

HANOVER.—A commemorative tablet has been placed, at the instigation of the Hanoverian Sing-Akademie, at the house in Gehrden, inhabited for many years until his death by the worthy pastor Justus Lyra, the composer of numerous hymns and songs, some of which, like "Der Mai ist gekommen," take rank with the best "Volkslieder."

ISCHL.—An amusing new operetta, "Der Pumpmajor," by Herr Alexander Neumann, is having a successful run here, and is also shortly to be brought out in Berlin.

LEIPZIG.—Herr Robert Sipp, to whose ninetieth birthday celebration we referred in our last number, was the recipient on that occasion of tokens of affectionate regard from Frau Cosima Wagner and her son. It is on record that the Bayreuth master never forgot his early violin teacher, and in 1876 invited him to witness, as his guest, the inauguration of the Festspiele.——Dr. Hugo Riemann, the well-known musical author, has established an Academy here for theoretical musical instruction, which in view of his distinguished reputation cannot fail to attract numerous pupils.——The performances at the Stadt-Theater were resumed, on the 2nd ult., with a production of "Lohengrin."——Madame Carreño, the eminent pianist, has decided this winter to return to the United States for a long tour. She has been absent from America for seven years.

LISBON.—A very successful first performance took place recently at the Trinidade Theatre of a new three-act opera, "Os Filhos do Capitao Mor," the libretto by Senhor Schwalbach-Lucci, the music by SS. Augusto Machado and Thomaz del Negro.

MILAN.—The issue is about to be commenced by Messrs. Ricordi of a complete edition of the works of Giuseppe Verdi. The publication will be in chronological order, and will comprise some twenty-seven volumes.——The performances in the approaching season at La Scala will once more include the works of Verdi and of Wagner, the sole property for Italy of Messrs. Ricordi, who have taken over the management of the theatre from Signor Sonzogno, and a more successful season than, at all events, the two preceding ones may be anticipated. Giordano's "Andrea Chénier," the most successful novelty of last season, in preparation at all important Italian lyrical establishments, is likewise to be brought out in Germany, Austria-Hungary, and Russia. Herr Max Kalbeck has undertaken the German version of the libretto.——The recently-deceased composer, Raffaele Paravicini, has left by his will the sum of ten thousand lire for the performance every year, at one of the leading Italian theatres, of a new opera by a former pupil of an Italian conservatoire.——A young Roumanian soprano, Mdlle. Mara d'Asty, the possessor of a voice of exceptional range and flexibility, combined with personal charms, has been setting impresarios here by the ears. The lady is to make her début at the Paris Opéra next winter.

MONACO.—Mr. Isidore de Lara's new opera "Moyna" is in course of being mounted here. The story is one of the French Revolution, and M. Van Dyck will sing the chief tenor part.

NAPLES.—A new ballet by Signor Franchi, "The Mulatto," is being performed here with enormous success, only equalled by that accorded long since to "Excelsior." The subject is the emancipation of the slaves.

NUREMBURG.—Herr August Göllerich, the well-known pianist, for the last five years director of the Ramann'sche Musik-Schule, has accepted the post of director of the Musik-Verein and conductor of the Choral Society at Linz.

ST. PETERSBURG.—The Emperor has conferred the Knighthood of the order of St. Stanislas upon M. Albert Soubies, of Paris, for his able monograph concerning Slavonic music.——A statue of Tschaïkowsky, by the sculptor, Professor Beklemisheff, is about to be placed in the concert-room of the new Conservatoire, by the side of those of Glinka, Rubinstein, and other distinguished native composers.

SAVONA.—A new one-act opera, "La Tradita," was brought out with immense success recently at the Chiabrera Theatre, the composer being Signor Giacomo Medini.

SONDERSHAUSEN.—A new opera, entitled "Riscatto," by Herr Otto Goetze, was brought out at the Stadt-Theater last month with considerable success.

STUTTGART.—The fifth General Festival of German male choral societies, held here on the 1st to the 4th ult., brought together some 15,000 singers from all parts of Germany and Austria-Hungary, who testified, severally and conjointly, to the excellent training accorded to these characteristic Teutonic institutions. Two principal performances took place, on August 2 and 3 respectively, the former opening with Beethoven's hymn "Die Himmel rühmen" and concluding with Mendelssohn's Festgesang "An die Künstler," the latter including, as one of the specially appreciated numbers, Bruckner's "Germanenzug." The King and Queen of Wurtemburg were present on both occasions, the town being, of course, en fête during the whole time.

THE HAGUE.—M. Stortenbecker, Court pianist, has received a decoration from the Queen Regent, in acknowledgment of his services rendered as teacher to the youthful Queen Wilhelmina, who has completed her musical studies.——M. Richard Hol is reported convalescent, but it is doubtful whether he will be able to resume his professional duties. The veteran artist has just completed his seventy-first year.

VIENNA.—The Imperial Opera re-opened its doors on the 16th ult. with the performance of Marschner's "Hans Heiling." The house had been entirely renovated during the recess and presented a brilliant appearance. Among the works to be produced during the season for the first time here are Smetana's "The Bartered Bride," M. Messager's "Chevalier d'Harmenthal," brought out some months since at the Paris Opéra, and Leoncavallo's "Chatterton." A gala performance of M. Massenet's "Manon" was announced to be given on the occasion of the visit of the Czar, on the 27th ult., there being no Russian operatic work now on the répertoire; even Rubinstein's "The Demon" and "Nero" having long since fallen into neglect.——Three hitherto quite unknown songs by Franz Schubert have just been brought to light in the possession of Frau Mayerhofer, granddaughter of the poet Mayerhofer, who furnished many lyrics to the great Lieder composer. The Album containing the songs in question is to be included in the great Schubert Exhibition, to be held here next year, and will scarcely be published until after that event.——A monument will shortly be unveiled over the grave of Franz von Suppé. It is a handsome piece of sculpture, the work of Herr Richard Tautenhayn, surmounted by the bronze bust of the composer, underneath which are the concluding bars of the song "O Du mein Oesterreich," by which the fertile composer of operettas will probably be longest remembered.——The veteran Anton Bruckner has been seriously ill with inflammation of the lungs, which has left him in a very weak condition. He is in his seventy-third year.

WEIMAR.—The recent tenth anniversary of the death of Franz Liszt has given rise to the project of erecting a monument to the great pianist-composer in this town, so closely associated with his artistic activity, and a committee is being formed for that purpose.——Herr Xaver Scharwenka's opera "Mataswintha" is to be first brought out at the Hof-Theater on the 4th of next month. The distinguished pianist-composer has arrived here from his New York domicile to superintend the rehearsals of this, his first important operatic production.——Herr Anton Lutz, probably the oldest operatic chorister on record, has had a decoration conferred upon him by the Grand Duke, on the occasion of his eightieth birthday. Commencing his career as a chorus-singer at the age of twenty, he was engaged at the Court Theatre in 1855 by Liszt, and still remains one of the pillars of the chorus at that institution.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Early last month the dull season on the shores of the Clyde was agreeably relieved. Local musicians knew, of course, that "Shamus O'Brien" was booked for the Royalty Theatre. Unfortunately, however, for Dr. Villiers Stanford, his engaging opera came to Glasgow during the height of the holidays; hence the comparatively small attendances at Messrs. Howard and Wyndham's Sauchiehall Street house during the brief engagement of the provincial touring company. All the same, the work created considerable stir amongst musical folks who happened to be in town, as also amongst amateurs who came specially to Glasgow to hear what the composer of the "Irish" Symphony had to say for himself in his new departure. Remembering his previous excursions in the domain of the lyric drama, curiosity was certainly whetted, and, setting aside the title of his latest work—"A Romantic Comic Opera"—everybody seemed to agree that Dr. Stanford had achieved a big success. A dash of humour certainly runs through the work, but the comic element must, we apprehend, be left to the individual imagination. Anyhow, Dr. Stanford has spoken for his real and original self. His orchestral colouring and his charming whiffs of the Hibernian air are altogether delightful, and we look forward to a further and even better development of the learned professor's attractive new method. The company which produced the work in Glasgow gave, on the whole, ample satisfaction, and it included Mr. Joseph O'Mara, the original Mike.

Again the Directors of the Glasgow Athenæum have issued a singularly good prospectus. Next session marks the jubilee of this prosperous Institution, and in no department has its success been more emphatic than the Music School, an organisation which came to the front some seven years ago. The number of students has year by year increased by leaps and bounds. The membership roll for last season showed, indeed, that over 1,500 pupils attended the classes, a record which Mr. Allan Macbeth, the Principal of the School, may well be proud of. As principal violin master, Mr. Albert Rieu, the leader of the Paris Conservatoire Orchestra, has been engaged; and Mrs. Rieu also comes North to join the staff as a teacher of solo singing. The couple possess excellent credentials, and the engagement ought, therefore, to strengthen the list of professors very materially.

On the evening of the 3rd ult. Dr. Peace resumed his Autumn series of Organ Recitals in the Glasgow Cathedral. At these gatherings the programmes include the finest and most instructive examples of organ music in Dr. Peace's extensive répertoire, and hence the warm interest shown in the scheme by many leading professional and amateur musicians.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The record of events past and to come, which has been given for so many years in these columns, ought not, perhaps, to be broken, even for a single month. Nothing more, however, than the merest summary is possible in the present notice, for the reason that holiday-making has been the chief factor in everybody's calculations for many weeks past, and no announcements more definite than those already made herein are forthcoming at the hands of concert-givers and the like.

The season upon which we shall be launched five or six weeks hence promises to be a busy one. Among the chief engagements will be the usual twelve Concerts of the Philharmonic Society; four Smoking Concerts and two Ladies' evenings of the Orchestral Society; three or four open rehearsals of the Società Armonica; thirty Concerts (two halls being requisitioned) by the Sunday Society; four Recitals by the Schiever Quartet; exceptionally good programmes by the Wednesday Evening Entertainment Syndicate; subscription series by Messrs. Harrison, of Birmingham, and Messrs. T. Shaw and other local caterers, and three Choral Concerts by the Musical Society; but with this and those of the premier organisation named at the head of the present list seems to begin and end all serious choral work in Liverpool.

There will be an important Conference of tonic sol-faists on the 24th, 25th, and 26th inst., for which a number of interesting papers are promised. Nothing fresh is to hand in regard to St. George's Hall organ or the appointment of a municipal organist.

MUSIC IN PARIS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Being, as we now are, in the height of the summer season, musical activity is almost at a standstill. To be sure, there has been the important annual Concours, just concluded, at the Conservatoire, which, however, albeit satisfactory enough in its results, has presented no very special feature of interest. M. Charles Lefebvre, the composer, and professor at the Conservatoire, has been nominated a Chevalier of the Legion of Honour.

The Concerts given at the Theatrical and Musical Exhibition, by M. Achille Kerrion and his excellent orchestra, afford just now the only opportunity of hearing symphonic music performed in the capital. As regards the Exhibition itself, I shall revert to it on another occasion, affording, as it does, many points of special interest to the musician.

A somewhat remarkable essay, superscribed "Chabanon precurseur de Hanslick," from the pen of M. Mathis Lussy, is published in the Gazette Musicale de la Suisse Romane. Chabanon, it appears, in 1787, published a work entitled "De la Musique considérée en elle-même et dans ses rapports avec les langues, la poésie et le théâtre," setting forth theories singularly identical with those propounded by Professor Hanslick in his famous treatise "On the Beautiful in Music."

M. Camille Saint-Saëns has completed the score of a new ballet, in three tableaux, to a libretto by M. Croze, and entitled "Javotte."

Another novelty—viz., a pantomime by MM. Pierre Velier and René Lenormand—is announced in the papers by M. Larochelle, the director of the Théâtre Libre. The new work is understood to present some very interesting features, being somewhat unconventional both as regards the subject and its musical development.

Appreciatory notices of the late Mr. Alfred Novello have appeared in nearly all the musical journals here.

Dr. Hans Richter has addressed the following letter to the Editor of The Times:—"Sir,—Both in the columns of The Times and in those of other English papers the growing influence of Richard Wagner's son, Herr Siegfried Wagner, in the management of the festival performances at Bayreuth, has been animadverted upon in a tone which is very severe for the promising young man, and unjust towards the able and conscientious managers of the Festspiele. Nevertheless, I should not have thought it necessary to join in the discussion, confident as I am that time will fully justify the high opinion Frau Wagner entertains of her son's abilities, had not my name been introduced in a manner that almost makes it look as if there were at least a latent opposition between the leading factors of Bayreuth and myself in respect to Herr Siegfried Wagner's participation in the artistic work. I beg permission to declare publicly, through the medium of your esteemed journal, that this is not the case. I was present at the rehearsals led by Herr Siegfried Wagner, and if his performance had been in any measure unsatisfactory I would not have failed, as one of the oldest friends of the family, to express my most decided opinion against his being intrusted with such a heavy responsibility. I have heard Herr Siegfried Wagner conduct, and I have seen him at work as stage-manager. In my humble opinion he is a competent, and even a remarkable leader, and he is a stage-manager of great promise."

The special performances at Munich of operas by Wagner and Beethoven commenced on the 8th ult., at the Royal Theatre, and have attracted numerous visitors to the Bavarian capital. The following is the order of the remaining representations during the present month—viz., "Tannhäuser," on the 3rd, 17th, and 29th; "Lohengrin," on the 5th, 19th, and 26th; "Tristan und Isolde," on the 24th; "Rienzi," on the 8th; "Der fliegende Holländer," on the 10th; "Die Meistersinger," on the 12th; "Fidelio," preceded by "Die Ruinen von Athen," on the 15th and the 22nd inst. Performances of "Don Giovanni," in the original (Prague) version of the work, will also be given during this month at the small Residenz Theater.

The North Staffordshire Musical Festival will be held at Hanley on October 29 and 30. The following works will be performed: "Hymn of Praise," Mendelssohn; "The Lord is King," Barnby; "Mount of Olives," Beethoven; "King Olaf," Edward Elgar (specially written); "The Spectre's Bride," Dvorák; "Choral Symphony," Beethoven. The artists engaged are Miss Ella Russell, Miss Medora Henson, Miss Marie Hooton, Mr. Edward Lloyd, Mr. Ben Davies, Mr. Andrew Black, and Mr. Ffrangcon-Davies. Mr. Willy Hess will be solo violinist, and Dr. Swinnerton Heap will be the conductor.

Mr. G. F. Geaussent has withdrawn from the position of Principal at the Hampstead Conservatoire, and that Institution will in future be directed by an Executive Council of prominent musicians. The members of the first Council are Mr. Frederic H. Cowen, Mr. Joseph Bennett, Mr. George Henschel, Mr. Julian Marshall, Professor Ebenezer Prout, Mr. G. F. Geaussent, and Mr. Arthur Blackwood (ex-officio). The new Council has made the following additions to the staff: Herr Wilhelmj (violin), Signor Franco Novara (singing), and Miss Cowen (elocution).

Candidates for Fellowship of the Royal College of Organists are required to prepare for the January Examination the following three organ compositions, the selection to be made by the Examiners: Allegro (last movement) of Sonata, No. 6, Bach; Fugue in D minor, C. Steggall (No. 91. Novello's Original Compositions for the Organ); Introduction and Fugue in C sharp minor, S. S. Wesley (No. 9. Novello's Original Compositions, for the Organ by S. S. Wesley, as edited by Dr. G. M. Garrett).

Madame Albani starts on an extended tour in Canada and the United States in October next, under the direction of Mr. N. Vert. She will be supported, amongst others, by Mr. Braxton Smith, Mr. Lemprière Pringle (Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company), Miss Beverley Robinson, and Miss Beatrice Langley (violin). The tour may possibly be extended to Australia. Madame Albani returns to England in April next.

Messrs. Skeffington and Son will publish this month a volume of "Fifty years' Reminiscences," by Signor Arditi, illustrated with photographs, autograph letters, &c., of nearly all the greatest composers and singers from Alboni, Sontagg, Bosio, Viardot, Rossini, &c., to Patti, Albani, Tamagno, and Humperdinck. The book also contains personal reminiscences of Garibaldi, Cavour, and others.

The Christmas term at the Royal Academy of Music will commence on the 28th inst., and that at the Royal College of Music and the Guildhall School of Music on the same date. Trinity College will re-open on October 1, and the Library at the Royal College of Organists will be open at the beginning of this month when the usual routine work will be resumed.

The old "Greyhound Inn," near the Parish Church of Hendon, said to be nearly 300 years old, is now being pulled down. Tradition has it that Sterndale Bennett, in his early and struggling days, used frequently to visit this house and partake of a frugal repast after giving music lessons in the neighbourhood. The house will be rebuilt in conformity with modern requirements.

On July 28 an Organ Recital was given in the Church of St. Nicholas Cole Abbey, by Mr. George T. Pinches (organist of St. Barnabas, Kentish Town). The programme included compositions by Mendelssohn, Widor, Guilmant, &c. Mr. J. Hamilton Haysman sang Gounod's "O Divine Redeemer" and Wagner's Preislied ("Die Meistersinger").

Mr. Jean de Reszke hopes to appear in London as Siegfried next season. He was present with his brother at the final cycle performances of the "Ring" at Bayreuth.

The organ in the Temple Church is undergoing restoration and extensive renovation during the long vacation. Considerable improvements are being made, particularly in the mechanism. The entire work is being carried out by Messrs. Norman Brothers and Beard, of Norwich, under the immediate supervision of Dr. E. J. Hopkins.

The next series of the Huddersfield Subscription Concerts will consist of thirteen Concerts and a Conversazione. These will commence on the 22nd inst. and extend to March 23. The engagements include a number of popular artists, and the Concerts will, no doubt, meet with a large amount of support.

A volume of "Reminiscences," by Mrs. Cowden-Clarke, shortly to be published by Mr. Fisher Unwin, should be of more than ordinary interest; and those who have read her "Recollections of Writers" will anticipate further pleasantly-told memories of Keats, Charles Lamb, Charles Dickens, and other celebrities of their day.

The Nonconformist Choir Union offer the following prizes for short works to be performed next year at the Crystal Palace Festival: Five guineas for an anthem, five guineas for a secular piece, and one guinea for a hymn tune. Members of Nonconformist congregations only may compete.

Madame Marian McKenzie is returning from her tour in Australia and expects to be in London by the 14th inst. Madame McKenzie, besides singing at a number of Concerts in Australia, has appeared at three Festivals—at Sydney, Melbourne, and Adelaide.

The "Hymn of Praise" will be performed at the Promenade Concerts, Queen's Hall, on the 23rd inst., in honour of Her Majesty's happily prolonged reign. Vocalists: Madame Fanny Moody, Miss MacDougall, and Mr. Ben Davies.

The Henry Smart, Goring Thomas, and John Thomas Welsh Scholarships (all tenable for three years) will be offered for competition at the Royal Academy of Music during the last week of this month.

Mr. Lassalle, it is said, is about to return to the scene of his operatic triumphs, and is pledged to Mr. Carvalho to appear at the Paris Opéra Comique in the "Flying Dutchman" next January.

Señor Sarasate commences an extended tour of the provinces on October 23, accompanied by Dr. Otto Neitzel. He plays at the Crystal Palace Orchestral Concert on October 17.

Herr Kauffmann has again been engaged for the Bach Choir Festival at the Queen's Hall, and Herr Messchaert will sing in the "Passion" and miscellaneous selection.

Mr. Henry Gadsby is writing the music and choruses for the "Andromache" of Euripides. The English version is by Mr. Wilson, Mr. Chamberlain's private secretary.

Herr Mottl has cancelled his autumn engagements in London, but will direct the Wagner Concerts at Queen's Hall next spring.

Dr. Richter and his Orchestra start a tour of twelve Concerts in the larger cities, under Mr. N. Vert's direction, on October 20.

The Masters at Eton College have recently placed a brass tablet in the ante-chapel in memory of the late Sir Joseph Barnby.

Herr Moritz Rosenthal has signed a contract to give a hundred Recitals in the United States this winter.

The Italian composer, Giordano Umberto, is writing an opera on Sardou's popular play "Fédora."

Mdlle. Kleeberg will visit London and the provinces during November and December.

There will be a day's Musical Festival at Tewkesbury on the 24th inst.

The Meister Glee Singers start upon a tour of six weeks on October 5.

OBITUARY.

THE death is announced, on the 19th ult., at Baltimore, of FREDERICK WILLIAM NICHOLLS CROUCH, the composer of "Kathleen Mavourneen," in his eighty-ninth year. His career was a chequered one. Born in London in 1808, at Warren Street, St. Pancras, the son of a violinist, he played the violoncello at the old Coburg Theatre when only nine years of age, afterwards becoming a chorister at St. Paul's Cathedral, and for a short period a pupil at the Royal Academy of Music, with Macfarren and Sterndale Bennett as fellow-students. After having been for some time a violoncellist in the opera orchestra at the King's Theatre, Haymarket, he tired of his profession and accepted the post of traveller to a firm of metal brokers. It was while in this occupation that he composed "Kathleen Mavourneen," to Mrs. Crawford's poem, a song which gained an enormous popularity, but brought very little material benefit to its composer. Crouch was, however, soon after appointed musical editor to the publishing house of D'Almaine, for whom he wrote many other songs, some of which have been extremely popular in their day. In 1849 Crouch went to the United States, where he established himself as a conductor and teacher; but his affairs did not greatly prosper, and for some years past he had been living in very reduced circumstances in Baltimore. His reminiscences, published some years since in an American journal, are very curious reading.

MR. GEORGE MAIDWELL HOLDICH, the well-known organ-builder, died on July 30, at Forest Hill, London, in his eightieth year. He has constructed many excellent organs, amongst them those at Lichfield Cathedral, Croydon and Islington Parish Churches, the English Church at Jerusalem, and others. He was the son of the Rev. Thomas Holdich, for many years Rector of Maidwell in Northamptonshire, where he was born in 1816, and was educated at Uppingham, afterwards studying for the musical profession. His mechanical bias, however, prevailing, he devoted himself to the studying of organ constructing and eventually established himself as an organ-builder in Greek Street, Soho, whence, with a growing business, he subsequently removed to Judd Place, Euston Road, and finally to Liverpool Road, Islington. Some three years ago he retired, and the business passed into the hands of Mr. Eustace Ingram. Mr. Holdich was the inventor of the octave coupler, named by him the "Di-Octon," and was also for many years organist of the Parish Church, Croydon.

Mr. JOHN PRIDHAM, who in the course of a long professional life enjoyed a well-merited popularity as a composer, died last month at Taunton, in his seventy-eighth year. He was a pupil at the Royal Academy of Music, and when a young man frequently played before the Queen and the Prince Consort. His compositions are numerous, including many orchestral pieces, notably the "Battle March of Delhi," the copyright whereof was but recently re-sold for several thousand pounds. His "Sabbath Recreation" series has enjoyed considerable popularity.

Herr LEO FELD, the well-known orchestral conductor, died, at the early age of thirty-eight, on July 23, at Berlin, whither he had gone to undergo an operation. The deceased was a native of Posen, and studied at Berlin under Kullak and Heinrich Dorn. After filling various minor conductorships, including those at the Theatres of Stettin and Bremen, he was appointed capellmeister, in 1885, at the Hamburg Opera, where his considerable experience, amongst others also as a conductor of Wagnerian works, was mainly gained. Seven years later, in 1892, he came to England, where he was engaged by the late Sir Augustus Harris, and repeatedly occupied the post of conductor at Covent Garden and Drury Lane, and was also engaged in a similar capacity with the Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company. His idealism and sterling qualities as a musician gained him the esteem of the profession, and his personal amiability won him many friends.

VICTOR FREIHERR VON ROKITANSKY, the famous Viennese vocal teacher, brother of the distinguished basso at the Imperial Opera, died in the Austrian capital on July 17, in his sixty-first year. He was the scion of an aristocratic and gifted Hungarian family, his father, Baron Carl Rokitansky, having been an eminent surgeon and professor at the Viennese University. Gifted with an excellent tenor voice, Victor first studied with his mother, herself an accomplished singer, and afterwards under Pantaleoni, at Bologna, with the idea of entering upon an operatic career. This purpose, however, was effectually frustrated by persistent stage-fright, which he was unable to conquer, and after a few otherwise most promising efforts on the lyrical stage, he settled down as a teacher. He held a professorship at the Viennese Conservatorium for nine years, which established his reputation as a most brilliant and successful teacher, and at the end of that period instituted an academy of his own in the capital, which has been frequented by numberless pupils, chiefly of the aristocratic order, including members of the Imperial family. Baron Victor Rokitansky has published a number of sacred compositions and songs, and is also the author of an interesting volume, "Ueber Sänger und Singen," reviewed some few years since in THE MUSICAL TIMES.

The well known French organist and composer, THÉODORE CÉSAR SALOMÉ, died recently at Paris, in his sixty-third year. He was born in Paris on January 20, 1834, and studied with distinction at the Conservatoire, where he was a pupil of Bazin and Ambroise Thomas, gaining a second grand Prix de Rome in 1861. He held the position of second organist at the Church of La Trinité, where he usually presided at the small organ, for many years past, in conjunction with M. A. Guilmant, the principal organist. Among his compositions are a Symphony and a number of pieces for the organ, which are greatly esteemed by organists in this country.

Dr. SELMAR BAGGE, director of the Musik-Schule at Bâle, composer and musical author, died in that town on July 17. He was born at Coburg, in 1823, and studied music at the Prague Conservatorium. In 1851 he obtained a professorship at the Viennese Conservatorium, and five years later accepted a similar position at that of Leipzig. Upon the foundation of the Bâle Musik-Schule he was appointed director of that institution, which, by his zeal and ability, has been raised to a leading and flourishing position. At one time editor of the Leipzig Allgemeine Musik-Zeitung, Dr. Bagge also edited for a number of years past the Schweizer Sängerzeitung.

The death occurred, on July 18, at Oranienstein, where he had for some years past lived in retirement, of C. A. HASSLER, the former musical director of the famous Francke Institution, of Halle. He had held this important position for many years, as also that of cantor and choirmaster at the Markt Kirche, in Halle. He was the founder and zealous director for a long period of the "Hassler'sche Gesangverein," and his beneficial influence upon the musical life of Halle generally has been most marked. He had attained his seventy-first year.

The well-known organ virtuoso, CARL ARMBRUST, of Hamburg, died on July 22, suddenly, while on a journey, at Hanover. He occupied, for a number of years, the post of organist at St. Peter's Church, in Hamburg, and as a master of his instrument enjoyed a European reputation, he having also repeatedly visited this country. The deceased, who wielded an able critical pen, was the musical editor of the Hamburger Fremdenblatt.

The death is announced, on July 19, at Padua, of ACHILLE GRAFFIGNA, well-known in his day as an operatic composer and conductor, aged eighty. Born at San Martino dall' Argine, in 1816, he was a pupil at the Milan Conservatorio, and at the age of eighteen became conductor at the theatre in Cagliari. For a period of some forty years he continued to occupy conductorships in various parts of Italy, while producing a number of operas, with, however, but little success, amongst them "Eleonora," "Mignon e Fanfan," "La Conquista di Granata" (favourably received at La Scala in 1839), "Mandragola" (produced in 1888 at Turin), and many others. He was also vain enough to compose over again the libretto to Rossini's "Il Barbiere," which, however, was rather coldly received on its production, in 1879, at Padua. Graffigna has lived in the latter town for many years past, where he was much esteemed as a professor of the bel canto.

Luther Whiting Mason, the author of an excellent system of school-singing, adopted in many parts of the United States, died at Boston on July 4, at the age of sixty-eight. He was a native of that town, and a descendant of Captain Hugh Mason, who emigrated to Watertown, Boston, in 1636, and was chief in command in the defence of Boston against the Indians. Mason educated himself in music, vocal and instrumental, and from an early period in his career occupied the post of music teacher in various parts of the States. He was the author of "The National Music Course," published at Boston, and under the auspices of the Japanese Government he introduced European music and notation into Japan, with such effect that, within three years, over 40,000 teachers are said to have been engaged there in instructing according to his system. He visited Europe several times for the purpose of studying the methods of school-singing adopted in the different countries, and a German edition of his system has been published by Messrs. Breitkopf and Härtel, under the title of "Neue Gesangschule."

The Dowager Lady Tennyson, who died on the 10th ult., at Aldworth, Haslemere, was an accomplished musician, and composed the music for some of her husband's poems, including the patriotic verses "Hands all round." Lady Tennyson also wrote the music for the anthem at the late Laureate's funeral, set to twelve lines, written by the Poet shortly before his death, and subsequently published as "The Silent Voices." The setting in question was harmonised by Professor Bridge for four-part chorus, with organ accompaniment.

We have also to record the following deaths:—

On July 14, at Bautzen, Ernst Wilhelm Simmank, cantor of St. Mary's and organist of St. Peter's churches, aged fifty-nine.

On July 18, at Berlin, Professor Adolph Geyer, highly esteemed vocal teacher, formerly excellent oratorio singer, aged sixty-seven.

On July 19, at Darmstadt, Wilhelm Dornewass, for nearly forty years ballet-master at the Hof-Theater, at an advanced age.

On July 22, at Paris, M. Rosinsky, operatic impresario.

Recently, at Brussels, A. J. Deppe, aged seventy-one, distinguished bass-tuba player of the Théâtre de la Monnaie and the Conservatoire.

On July 29, at Ringsheim, Robert Weber, bandmaster, inventor of the shallow military drum in use in the German army.

On July 29, aged fifty-five, Mr. James Turpin, the much-esteemed organist, brother of Dr. E. H. Turpin. He had suffered from paralysis for several years.

On July 31, at Kempten (Bavaria), Heinrich Kohn, military bandmaster, highly popular in Germany and Austria.

On the 2nd ult., at Chatou, M. Roger, once celebrated operetta singer.

Recently, at Paris, Emmanuel Orentin Douen, French Protestant pastor, author of the much-valued work, "Clément Marot et le Psautier Huguenot," aged sixty-six.

On the 5th ult., at Paris, Madame Cécile Derheimer, née Messie, at one time celebrated in Paris salons as a soprano singer, talented composer of Masses and music for the organ, her first Mass being performed when she was but nine years of age.

On the 8th ult., at Orsay, at a greatly advanced age, Madame Camille Selden, a friend of Heinrich Heine, author of an "Etude sur Mendelssohn" and some novels in which music enters largely.

Recently, at Berlin, Frau Charlotte Zeidler, pianist and teacher, aged eighty-two.

On the 6th ult., at Sondershausen, Ober-Amtmann Robert Riemann, father of Dr. Hugo Riemann, excellent musician, composer of a grand opera, "Bianca Siffredi," and other works, aged seventy-three.

On the 6th ult., at Paris, Hippolyte Lionnet, formerly enormously popular and charitable concert-singer, in inseparable association with his brother Anatole, whose death was recorded in our last number.

CORRESPONDENCE.

SOME NEW CHROMATIC HARMONIES.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—In my original letter under the above title I attempted to show that musical theory would be simplified by discarding the term "augmented sixth," classing among chromatic minor sevenths the two chords to which it is applied. Mr. H. J. Wrightson and Mr. George Middleton each advance the same argument to justify the retention of the old term—namely, that when the chord resolves chromatically there is a tendency to play the rising dissonance slightly sharper (very slightly, they admit) than the falling dissonance when the chord induces a modulation. This is an unfortunate argument for anyone to bring forward who objects to reform, for if logically followed out it would lead to immensely more reform in the direction of complexity than I have suggested in the direction of simplicity. Fancy having two distinct names for every two chords that differ, however slightly, when played in strictly true intonation! Nor must it be forgotten that the dissonance in the "augmented sixth" sometimes descends to form the dissonance in the dominant seventh of the original key, and here there is no tendency to sharpen it. Consequently, according to my critics, the chord should sometimes be called a "minor seventh" even when it resolves chromatically (or would they propose to give it a third name in this case?) Similarly with each of the remaining nine chords of the minor seventh containing a note chromatic to the preceding key. If the threatened modulation takes place the chord must be called a "minor seventh"; if the resolution be chromatic the chord is an "augmented sixth" when the dissonance rises and a "minor seventh" (unless some third name be found for it) when the dissonance falls.

And if we are to consider the niceties of true intonation in naming our chords, we are bound to do likewise in naming the notes of the scale: we should thus, for instance, have to give two names to what we now call the supertonic, one when it harmonises with the subdominant and super-dominant, and the other when it forms part of a dominant chord, its true intonation being a trifle sharper in the latter case. It will be seen, then, that the doctrine implied by Mr. Wrightson and Mr. Middleton involves a very considerable addition to the difficulties with which the teacher and student of harmony have at present to contend, while it fails to be of the slightest practical service.

Yours respectfully,

W. F. Dunton.

21, Newington Crescent,
August 10, 1896.

[This correspondence must now cease.—Ed. M.T.]

Errata.—In the second paragraph of Mr. H. J. Wrightson's letter in our last issue occur two misprints: "19 : 120" should of course be "119 : 120," and "3823" should be "3825."—[Ed. M.T.]

MINOR HARMONICS.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—It seems to me that there exists between the major and minor common chords a certain mathematical symmetry which has not hitherto been pointed out, and which will interest at least some theorists among your readers.

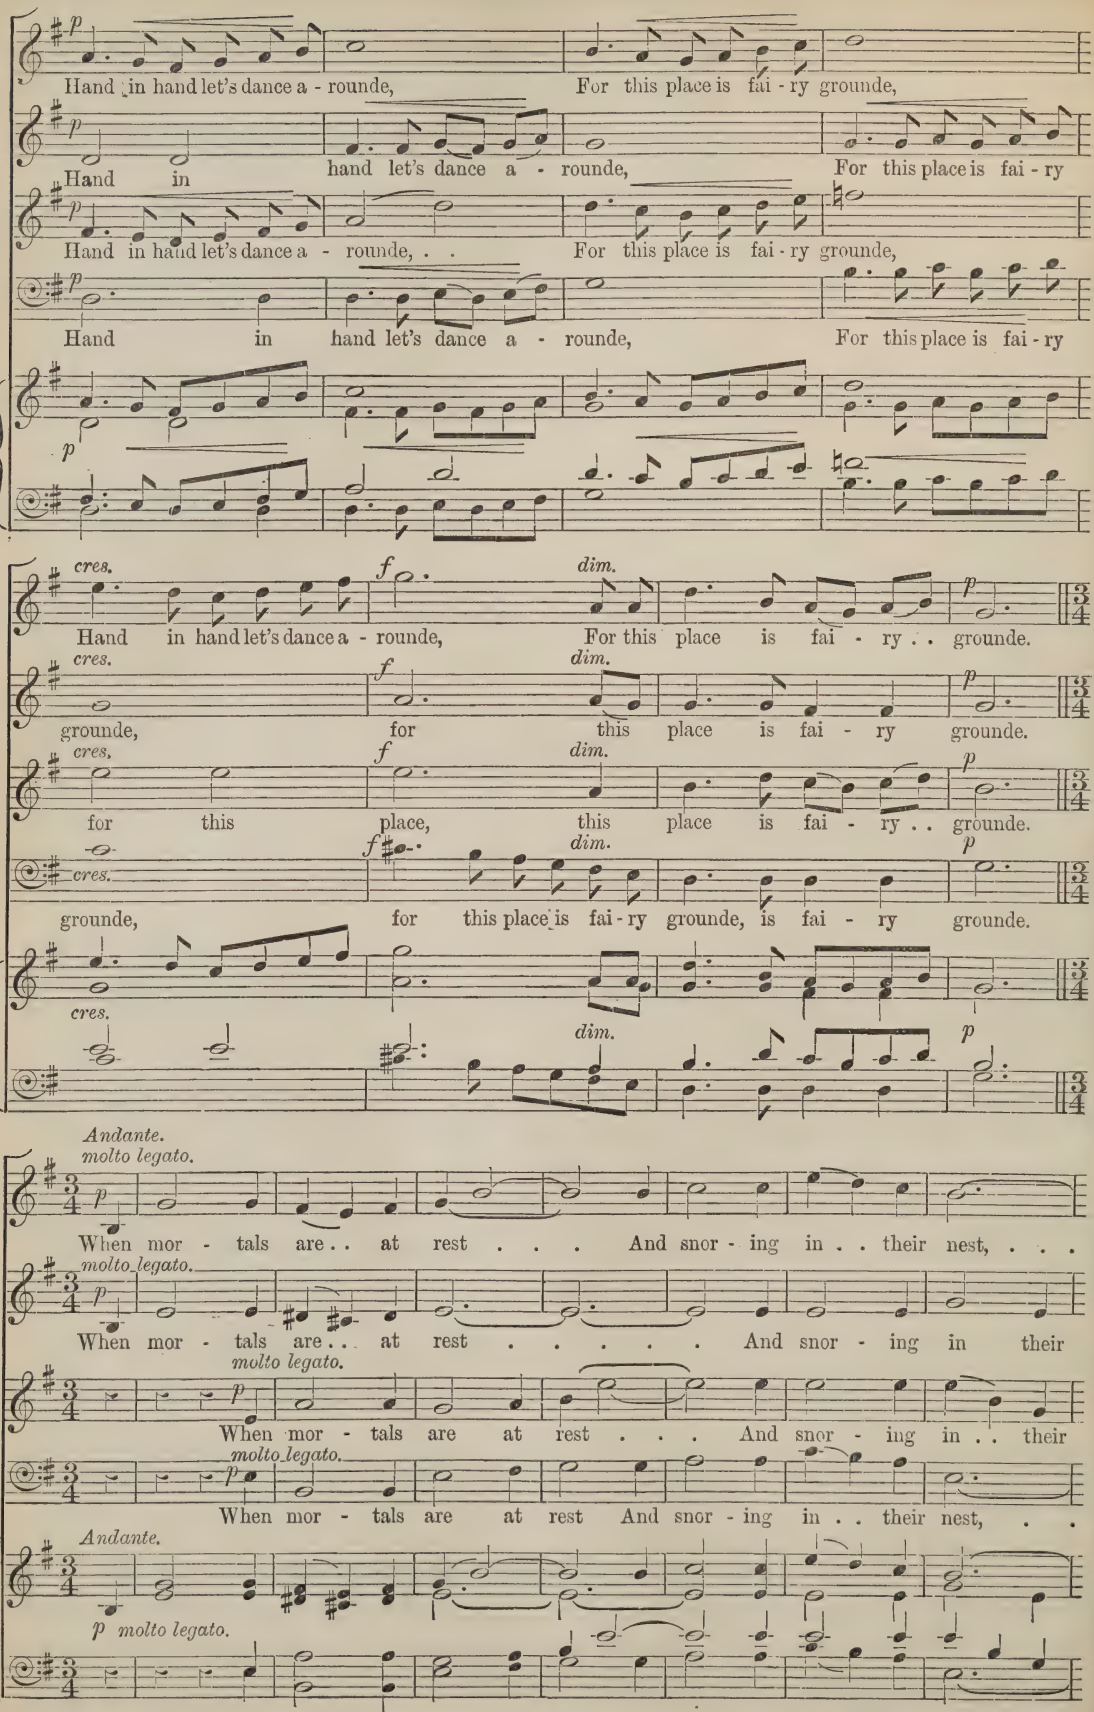
The major triad, by reason of the supposed greater simplicity of its vibration-ratios, its more perfect finality, and, above all (in modern times), because Nature herself produces this chord, has for centuries enjoyed a certain supremacy over all other chords, the minor triad included. This supremacy I do not wish to disturb; still, I think it may be well to reconsider its mathematical basis.

DEDICATED, BY PERMISSION, TO H.R.H. THE PRINCESS OF WALES.

The Musical Times, September 1, 1896.

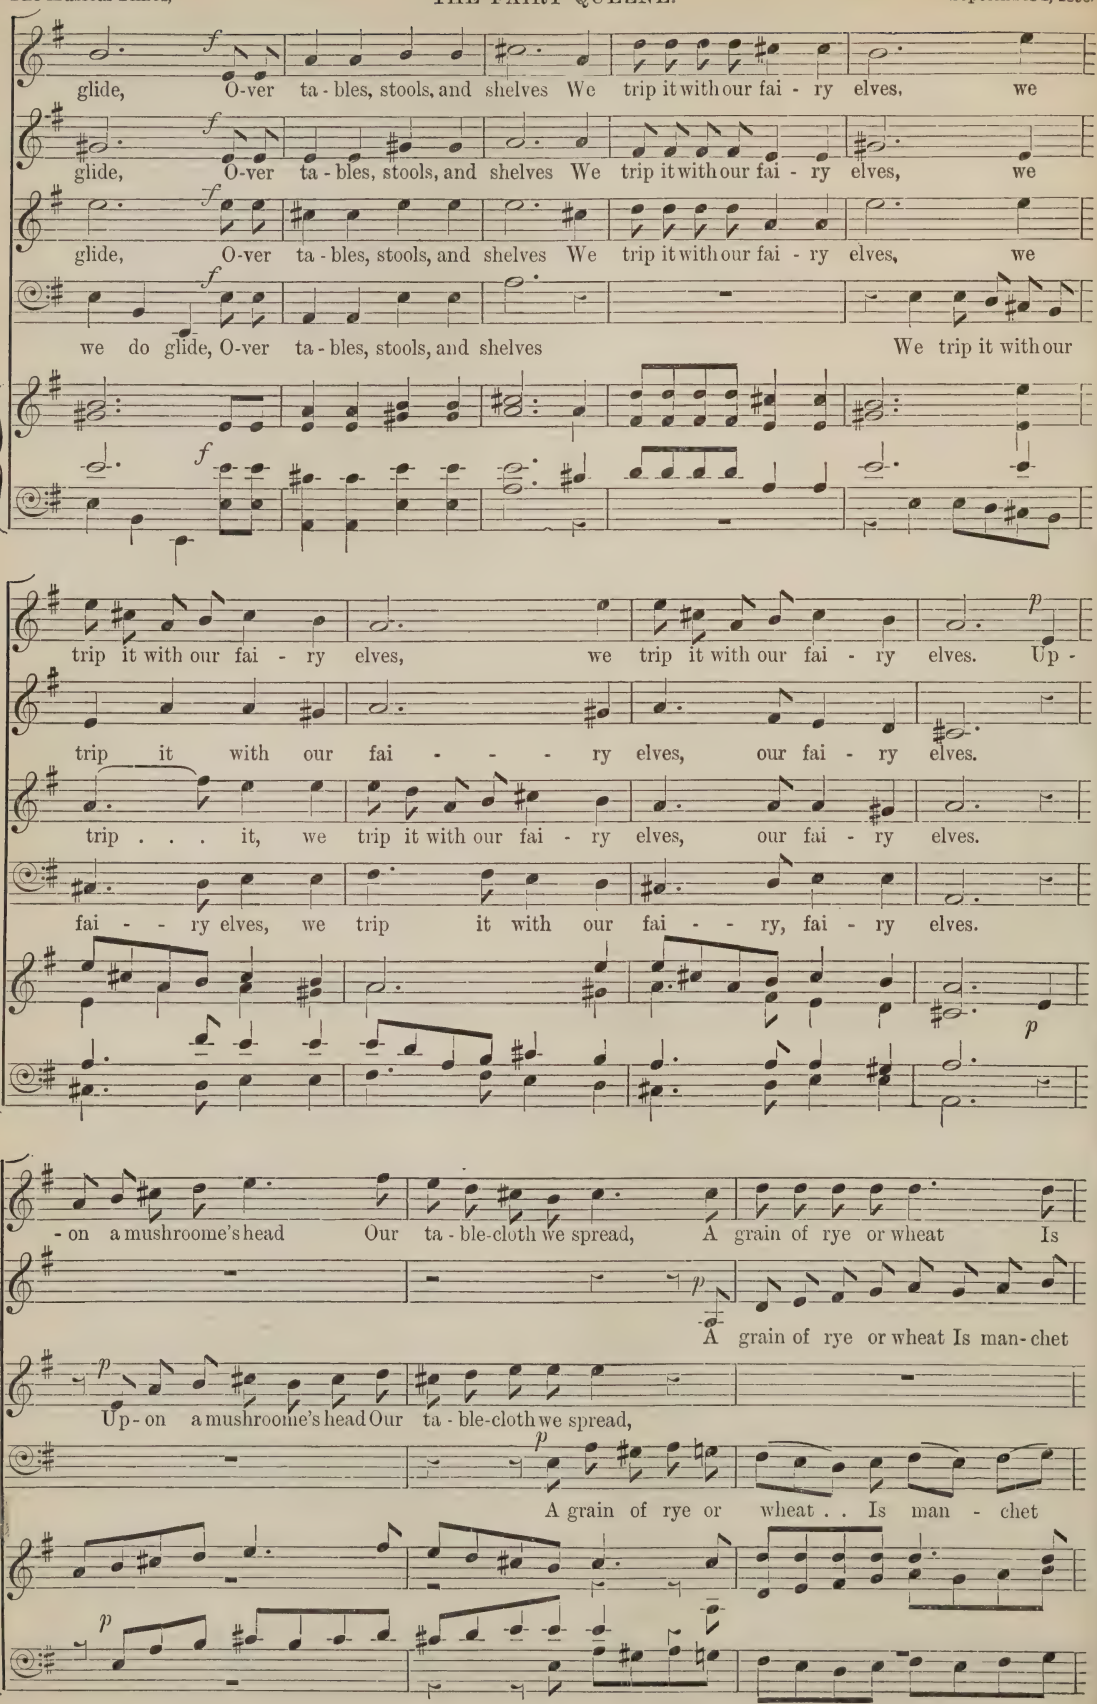
The Fairy Queene.

MADRIGAL FOR FOUR VOICES.



Words Anonymous (16th Century).

Composed by ALEXANDRA THOMSON, A.R.C.M.
(OP. 12, No. 1.)



London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); also in New York.

Copyright, 1896, by Novello, Ewer and Co.

Hand in hand let's dance a - rounde, For this place is fai - ry grounde,
Hand in hand let's dance a - rounde, For this place is fai - ry
Hand in hand let's dance a - rounde, For this place is fai - ry grounde, Hand in hand let's dance a - rounde, For this place is fai - ry cres. dim.
Hand in hand let's dance a - rounde, For this place is fai - ry . . grounde.
grounde, for this place is fai - ry grounde.
for this place, this place is fai - ry . . grounde.
grounde, for this place is fai - ry grounde, is fai - ry grounde.
Andante. molto legato.
When mor - tals are . . at rest . . . And snor - ing in . . their nest, . . .
When mor - tals are . . . at rest . . . . . And snor - ing in their
When mor - tals are at rest . . . And snor - ing in . . their
When mor - tals are at rest And snor - ing in . . their nest, . .
p molto legato.

. . When mor - tals are at rest . . And snor - ing in . . their nest. . . nest, When mor - tals are . . at rest, at rest And snor - ing in their nest. . . nest, When mor - tals are at rest And snor - ing in . . their nest. . .
. . When mor - tals are at rest . . And snor - ing in their nest. . . Un - Tempo 1mo.
pp
poco cres.
Un - heard and un - es - pyed, Thro' key-holes we do glide, thro'
Un - heard and un - es - pyed, Thro' key-holes we do glide, thro'
Un - heard and un - es - pyed, Thro' key-holes we do
- heard and un - es - pyed, Thro' key - - - holes we . . . .
Tempo 1mo.
pp
poco cres.
mf
key- holes we do glide, . . thro' key- holes we do glide, thro' key-holes we do key- holes we do glide, . . thro' key- holes we do glide, thro' key- holes we do glide, thro' key - - holes we . . do glide, thro' key- holes we do
. . do glide, thro' key - holes we do glide, . .
mf

glide, O-ver ta - bles, stools, and shelves We trip it with our fai - ry elves, we glide, O-ver ta - bles, stools, and shelves We trip it with our fai - ry elves, we glide, O-ver ta - bles, stools, and shelves We trip it with our fai - ry elves, we we do glide, O-ver ta - bles, stools, and shelves We trip it with our trip it with our fai - ry elves, we trip it with our fai - ry elves. Up - trip it with our fai - - - ry elves, our fai - ry elves.
trip . . . it, we trip it with our fai - ry elves, our fai - ry elves.
fai - - ry elves, we trip it with our fai - - ry, fai - ry elves.
- on a mushroome's head Our ta - ble-cloth we spread, A grain of rye or wheat Is
A grain of rye or wheat Is man-chet
Up - on a mushroome's head Our ta - ble-cloth we spread,
A grain of rye or wheat . . Is man - chet cres.

f man-chet which we eat; Pearl-y drops of dew we drink, pearl-y drops of dew we drink, pearl-y which we eat; Pearl - - y drops . . . . .
which we eat; Pearl - - y drops of dew we drink In which we eat; Pearl-y drops of dew In . . .
dim.
drops of dew we drink In a-corn cups, in a - - corn
. . of dew we drink In a-corn cups . . . . . .
a - corn cups. . . . in a-corn cups, . . . in a-corn cups, in a - corn a - corn cups filled, filled, ...
p
mf cups filled to the brink. On tops of dew-ie grasse, So nim-bly do we passe, The . . filled to the brink. On tops of dew-ie grasse, dew-ie grasse, So nim-bly do we passe, do we passe, The cups filled to the brink. On tops of dew-ie grasse, dew-ie grasse, So nim-bly do we passe, do we passe, The . . filled to the brink. Dew-ie grasse, nimbly passe, The young and ten - der stalk Ne'er bends when we do walk, Yet in the morning may be young and ten - der stalk Ne'er bends when we do walk, Yet young and ten - der stalk Ne'er bends when we do walk, Yet in the morning may be young and ten - der stalk Ne'er bends when we do walk, Yet seen Where we the night be-fore have been, Yet in the morn-ing may be cres.

in the morning may be seen Where we the night be-fore have been, seen Where we the night be-fore have been, where we in the morning may be seen Where we the night be-fore have been, where seen Where we the night be-fore have been, where we the night be-fore have been.
the night be-fore have been, the night be-fore have been.
the night be - fore have been, where we the night be - fore have been.
we the night before have been, have been, the night be - fore have been.
dim.
rall.
Lento.
f
p
pp

No. 599. SONGS OF THE RIVER—No. 4, ROWING HOMEWARDS. Price 3d.

NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK.

A COLLECTION OF PART-SONGS, GLEES, AND MADRIGALS.

IN VOLUMES, CLOTH, GILT, 5s. EACH; OR IN SEPARATE NUMBERS.

FIRST SERIES.

17	All among the barley (Prize)	E. Stirling	2d.
20	An emigrant's song	W. Macfarren	2d.
25	Awake! the starry midnight hour (Serenade)	Mendelssohn	2d.
3	Boating song (The sun is high)	E. G. Monk	2d.
36	Come away, death. S.A.T.T.B.	G. A. Macfarren	3d.
14	Come, heavy sleep	Douland	2d.
8	Countryman's song (Oh, the sweet contentment)	E. G. Rimbault	3d.
2	Cricketers' song (Bestir ye). T.T.B.	G. A. Macfarren	2d.
29	Dirge (The glories of our birth)	S. Wesley	2d.
23	Fairies' song (From grassy blades). S.S.S.S.	H. R. Bishop	6d.
15	Fisherman's song. S.S.A.T.B.	E. F. Rimbault	2d.
34	Football song (Brawling Boreas blows)	E. G. Monk	3d.
32	God speed the plough. S.A.T.T.	E. Richter	2d.
5	Good morrow, fair ladies. S.S.T.	T. Morley	2d.
28	Green leaves (Prize). S.A.T.B.	Bianchi Taylor	2d.
13	Harvest song (Prize). S.A.T.B.	W. Macfarren	2d.
35	Haymakers' song (Prize)	R. P. Stewart	3d.
16	In all thy need	Douland	2d.
11	Integer Vitæ. T.T.B.B.	Fleming	4d.
24	June (She is coming) (Prize). S.S.A.	Finlay Dun	2d.
10	Magdalen College song (Lily, sweet lily). S.S.A.B.	E. G. Monk	2d.
27	O happy he who liveth. S.S.A.T.B.	Gastoldi	2d.
12	Orpheus with his lute	G. A. Macfarren	4d.
1	Our native land	G. Reichardt	2d.
22	Pedlar's song	Douland	2d.
21	Shepherds' song (Turn, Amarillis)	Brewer	3d.
4	Song of the railroads	G. A. Macfarren	3d.
30	The angler's trysting-tree	J. Corfe	3d.
31	The dream (Prize)	R. P. Stewart	2d.
26	The fair flower of Northumberland	E. F. Rimbault	2d.
6	The home fairy (Quartet). T.T.B.B.	Winter	2d.
19	The jolly cricket-ball	E. G. Monk	2d.
9	The students' greeting. T.T.B.B.	Berner	2d.
33	There is a ladie sweete	Ford	2d.
7	The wreath	J. Benedict	2d.
18	When icicles hang by the wall	G. A. Macfarren	2d.

SECOND SERIES.

VOL. I.—SIR JULIUS BENEDICT.

37	Old May-day, in A	3d.
38	Invocation to Sleep	3d.
39	A Night Song	3d.
40	Dirge for the faithful lover	1½d.
41	A Drinking Song (T.T.B.B.)	3d.
42	Sylvan pleasures	4d.

HENRY SMART.

43	Consolation	1½d.
44	Good night, thou glorious Sun	3d.
45	Hunting Song	3d.
46	Lady, rise, sweet Morn's awaking	3d.
47	Summer Morning	3d.
48	The Sea King	3d.

SEVEN SHAKSPERE SONGS BY G. A. MACFARREN.

49	Orpheus with his lute	3d.
50	When Icicles hang	1½d.
51	Come away, Death (S.A.T.T.B.)	3d.
52	When Daisies pied	3d.
53	Who is Sylvia	1½d.
54	Fear no more the heat o'the Sun	3d.
55	Blow, blow, thou Winter Wind	3d.

J. L. HATTON.

56	The Belfry Tower	4d.
57	England	3d.
58	Come, celebrate the May	1½d.
59	Song to Pan	3d.
60	The Indian Maid	3d.
61	The Pearl Divers	4d.

VOL. II.—G. A. MACFARREN.

62	Robin Goodfellow	3d.
63	Break, break on thy cold grey stones	3d.
64	Echoes (The Splendour falls)	3d.
65	Song of the Railroads	1½d.
66	Christmas	3d.
67	Adieu, Love, Adieu	3d.

VOL. II. (continued). C. A. MACIRONE.

68	Sir Knight, Sir Knight	3d.
69	The Wounded Cupid	1½d.
70	Woman's smile	3d.
71	Autolycus' Song	3d.
72	Footsteps of Angels	3d.
73	The Sun shines fair on Carlisle wall	3d.

HENRY LESLIE.

74	The Pilgrims	3d.
75	My soul to God, my heart to thee	3d.
76	Awake, awake, the flow'rs unfold	3d.
77	How sweet the moonlight sleeps	1½d.
78	Land, Ho!	3d.
79	Up, up, ye Dames	3d.

SIX MADRIGALS.

Including the Bristol Prize Madrigals.

80	Thine eyes so bright (S.S.A.T.B.B.) Henry Leslie	4d.
81	All is not gold (S.A.T.T.B.) W. J. Westbrook	3d.
82	Hark how the birds (S.S.A.T.T.B.) Henry Lahee	3d.
83	All ye woods (S.S.A.T.B.) Do.	1½d.
84	My love is fair (S.A.T.B.B.) H. Leslie	3d.
85	Charm me asleep (S.S.A.T.B.B.) Do.	3d.

VOL. III.—HENRY HILES.

86	When twilight dews	1½d.
87	A Finland love song	1½d.
88	Evening	1½d.
89	To the Morning Wind	3d.
90	To Daffodils	3d.
91	Summer longings	3d.

VOL. III. (continued). FRANCESCO BERGER.

92	Night, lovely Night	1½d.
93	Essay, my Heart	3d.
94	Childhood's melody	1½d.
95	Now	3d.
96	Sunset	1½d.
97	Arise, the sunbeams hail	3d.

J. BAPTISTE CALKIN.

98	Night winds that so gently flow	1½d.
99	Breathe soft, ye Winds	1½d.
100	My lady is so wondrous fair	1½d.
101	Chivalry of Labour (S.S.A.T.B.)	4d.
102	Come, fill, my boys (A.T.T.B.)	3d.
103	Echoes	1½d.

J. BARNBY.

104	Phœbus	1½d.
105	Luna	1½d.
106	A Wife's Song	1½d.
107	Home they brought	1½d.
108	Annie Lee	1½d.
109	Starry Crowns of Heaven	1½d.
110	The Wind	3d.
111	The Skylark	3d.

G. A. MACFARREN.

112	The Sands of Dee	3d.
113	Alton Locke's Song	1½d.
114	The Starlings	1½d.
115	The Three Fishers	3d.
116	The World's Age	1½d.
117	Sing, heigh ho!	3d.

VOL. IV.—A. ZIMMERMANN.

118	Fairy Song	3d.
119	Good Night	1½d.
120	Gone for ever	3d.
121	Flowers	3d.
122	To Daffodils	1½d.
123	Good Morrow	3d.

Copyright, 1891, by Novello, Ewer and Co.

NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK (continued).

VOL. IV. (continued.)

EIGHT SHAKSPERE SONGS BY G. A. MACFARREN.

124 Sigh no more, ladies ... ... 3d.
125 You spotted snakes (S.S.A.A.) ... 3d.
126 Take, oh, take those lips away ... 1½d.
127 It was a lover and his lass ... ... 4d.
128 O mistress mine ... ... 1½d.
129 Under the greenwood tree ... ... 1½d.
130 Hark, the lark ... . 3d.
131 Tell me where is fancy bred ... 1½d.

HENRY LESLIE.

132 The Violet ... ... 3d.
133 One morning sweet in May ... 3d.
134 Daylight is fading ... ... 1½d.
135 Down in a pretty valley ... ... 3d.
136 The Primrose ... ... 1½d.
137 Arise, sweet love ... ... 3d.

HENRY SMART.

138 'Tis break of day ... ... 2d.
139 My true love hath my heart ... 2d.
140 Doth not my lady come ... ... 2d.
141 Spring Song ... ... 2d.
142 The Curfew ... ... 2d.
143 Hear, sweet spirit ... ... 2d.

SAMUEL REAY.

144 Spring Voices ... ... 3d.
145 Waken, lords and ladies gay ... 3d.
146 As it fell upon a day ... ... 3d.
147 Huntsman, rest ... ... 3d.
148 'Tis May upon the mountain ... 3d.
149 Take, oh, take those lips away ... 1½d.

VOL. V.—ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

150 The Rainy Day ... ... 1½d.
151 Oh, hush thee, my babie ... ... 3d.
152 Evening... ... ... 1½d.
153 Joy to the Victors ... ... 3d.
154 Parting gleams ... ... 1½d.
155 Echoes ... ... 3d.

W. MACFARREN.

156 Spring ... ... 3d.
157 Summer ... ... 1½d.
158 Autumn ... . 3d.
159 Winter ... ... 3d.
160 You stole my love ... ... 1½d.
161 Dainty love ... ... 1½d.

J. LEMMENS.

162 Drops of Rain ... ... 3d.
163 The Fairy Ring ... ... 3d.
164 The Light of Life ... ... 3d.
165 Oh, welcome him ... ... 3d.
166 Sunshine through the clouds ... 3d.
167 The Corn Field ... ... 3d.

HENRY SMART.

168 Wake! to the hunting ... ... 3d.
169 Dost thou idly ask ... ... 3d.
170 A Psalm of Life ... ... 1½d.
171 Only Thou ... ... 1½d.
172 I prithee send me back my heart ... 1½d.
173 The Moon ... ... 3d.

VOL. V. (continued.)

CIRO PINSUTI.

174 A Spring Song... ... ... 3d.
175 An Autumn Song ... ... 3d.
176 The Two Spirits ... ... 3d.
177 The Crusaders... ... ... 3d.
178 The Caravan ... ... 3d.
179 Stradella ... ... 3d.

VOL. VI.—J. L. HATTON.

180 When evening's twilight ... ... 2d.
181 Absence ... ... 2d.
182 April showers ... ... 3d.
183 The red, red rose ... ... 3d.
184 Beware, beware ... ... 3d.
185 The Sailor's Song ... ... 3d.
186 Good Night ... ... 2d.
187 Blythe is the bird ... ... 2d.
188 Stars of the summer night ... ... 3d.
189 The hemlock-tree ... ... 4d.
190 Jack Frost ... ... 3d.
191 I loved her ... ... 3d.
192 The Village Blacksmith ... ... 3d.
193 The Bait (Come, live with me) ... 3d.
194 Softly fall the shades of evening ... 3d.
195 Auburn (Sweet village) ... ... 3d.
196 Bird of the wilderness ... ... 3d.
197 The Summer gale ... ... 2d.
198 I met her in the quiet lane ... ... 2d.
199 If thou art sleeping ... ... 3d.
200 Spring Song ... ... 3d.
201 Good wishes ... ... 3d.
202 Parting and Meeting ... ... 2d.
203 Whether kissed by sunbeams ... 3d.
204 The roses are blushing ... ... 3d.
205 The Rivals ... ... 3d.
206 The village dance ... ... 3d.
207 Song of the Gipsy maidens... ... 3d.
208 The Waterfall ... ... 3d.
209 Over hill, over dale ... ... 3d.
210 Love me little, love me long ... 3d.
211 Going a-maying ... ... 3d.
212 See, the rooks are homeward flying 3d.
213 Sweet Lady moon ... ... 3d.
214 Hark, the Convent bells are ringing 3d.

VOL. VII.—J. L. HATTON.

MALE VOICES.

215 When evening's twilight ... ... 2d.
216 Warrior's Song ... ... 3d.
217 Absence... ... ... 2d.
218 April showers ... ... 3d.
219 The red, red rose ... ... 3d.
220 Beware, beware ... ... 3d.
221 The happiest land ... ... 3d.
222 The Sailor's Song ... ... 3d.
223 Busy, curious, thirsty fly ... ... 2d.
224 Good night, beloved ... ... 2d.
225 Bacchanalian Song ... ... 3d.
226 Stars of the summer night ... ... 3d.
227 King Witlaf's drinking horn ... 3d.
228 Tars' Song ... ... 4d.
229 The hemlock-tree ... ... 4d.
230 Jack Frost ... ... 3d.
231 The Lye ... ... 3d.
232 I loved her ... ... 3d.
233 The Village Blacksmith ... ... 3d.
234 The Letter ... ... 3d.
235 Shall I wasting in despair ... ... 3d.
236 The way to build a boat ... ... 4d.
237 I loved a lass, a fair one ... ... 4d.
238 The Lifeboat ... ... 3d.

VOL. VIII.—HENRY SMART.

239 The Shepherd's farewell ... ... 2d.
240 The wave's reproof ... ... 3d.
241 Ave Maria ... ... 2d.
242 Spring ... ... 2d.
243 Morning... ... ... 3d.

VOL. VIII. (continued.)

244 Hymn to Cynthia ... ... 3d.
245 Cradle Song ... ... 3d.
246 The joys of Spring ... ... 3d.
247 Dream, baby, dream ... ... 2d.
248 A song for the Seasons ... ... 3d.
249 O say not that my heart is cold ... 2d.
250 Love and mirth ... ... 3d.
251 Sweet vesper hymn ... ... 3d.
252 Crocuses and Snowdrops ... ... 3d.
253 Stars of the summer night ... ... 3d.
254 Wind thy horn ... ... 3d.
255 The land of wonders ... ... 3d.
256 Ye little birds that sit and sing ... 2d.
257 How soft the shades of evening creep 2d.
258 How sweet is summer morning ... 2d.
259 Now May is here ... . 3d.

VOL. IX.—WALTER MACFARREN.

260 Hunting Song ... ... 3d.
261 Summer Song ... ... 3d.
262 The Curfew bell ... ... 3d.
263 The Warrior ... ... 3d.
264 Love's heigh-ho! ... ... 3d.
265 Good-night, good rest... ... ... 3d.
266 The Fairies ... ... 3d.
267 Cradle Song ... ... 3d.
268 Morning Song ... ... 3d.
269 Ye pretty birds ... ... 3d.
270 More life ... ... 3d.
271 Sweet content ... ... 3d.
272 Sea Song ... ... (T.T.B.B.) 3d.
273 The stars are with the voyager „ 2d.
274 Autumn ... ... „ 3d.
275 Highland War Song ... ... „ 3d.
276 Shortest and longest ... ... „ 3d.
277 Windlass Song ... ... „ 3d.
278 O Lady, leave thy silken thread ... 3d.
279 Lover's Parting... ... ... 3d.
280 Shepherds all and maidens fair ... 3d.
281 Night, sable goddess ... ... 3d.
282 Hence, all you vain delights... ... 3d.
283 Swallow, swallow, hither wing ... 3d.

VOL. X.—R. L. DE PEARSALL.

284 The Hardy Norseman... ... ... 4d.
285 Nymphs are sporting ... ... 3d.
286 O who will o'er the downs ... ... 4d.
286*O who will o'er the downs (A.T.T.B.) 4d.
287 Who shall win my lady fair ... ... 4d.
288 Why with toil ... ... 3d.
289 When Allen-a-Dale went a-hunting 4d.
290 I saw lovely Phillis. Madrigal ... 4d.
291 The River Spirit's song (A.T.T.B.) 3d.
292 It was upon a Spring-tide day. (5 v.) 4d.
293 Take heed, ye shepherd swains ... 4d.
294 Spring returns. Madrigal (S.S.A.T.B.) 2d.
295 Great god of love. 8 voices. Madgl. 3d.
296 In dulci jubilo. Christmas Carol ... 3d.
297 The song of the Frank companies ... 3d.
298 How bright in the May-time... ... 3d.
299 The Winter Song ... ... 3d.
300 The Bishop of Mentz ... ... 3d.
301 When last I strayed ... ... 2d.
302 See how smoothly ... ... 2d.
303 Let us all go maying ... ... 2d.
304 List! Lady, be not coy. (S.S.A.T.T.B.) 3d.
305 O ye roses. Madrigal „ 3d.
306 Sing we and chaunt it. Double Choir 2d.
307 Ditto, for 4 voices ... ... 2d.
308 The Red Wine flows ... (T.T.B.B.) 2d.
309 Shoot, false love, I care not ... ... 3d.

VOL. XI.—R. L. DE PEARSALL.

310 Laugh not, Youth, at Age. Madrigal 4d.
311 Down in my garden fair „ 3d.
312 Adieu! my native shore ... ... 2d.
313 Purple glow the forest mountains ... 2d.
314 Caput apri defero ... ... 3d.
315 A Chieftain to the Highlands ... 2d.

No. 599. NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK. Price 3*d.*
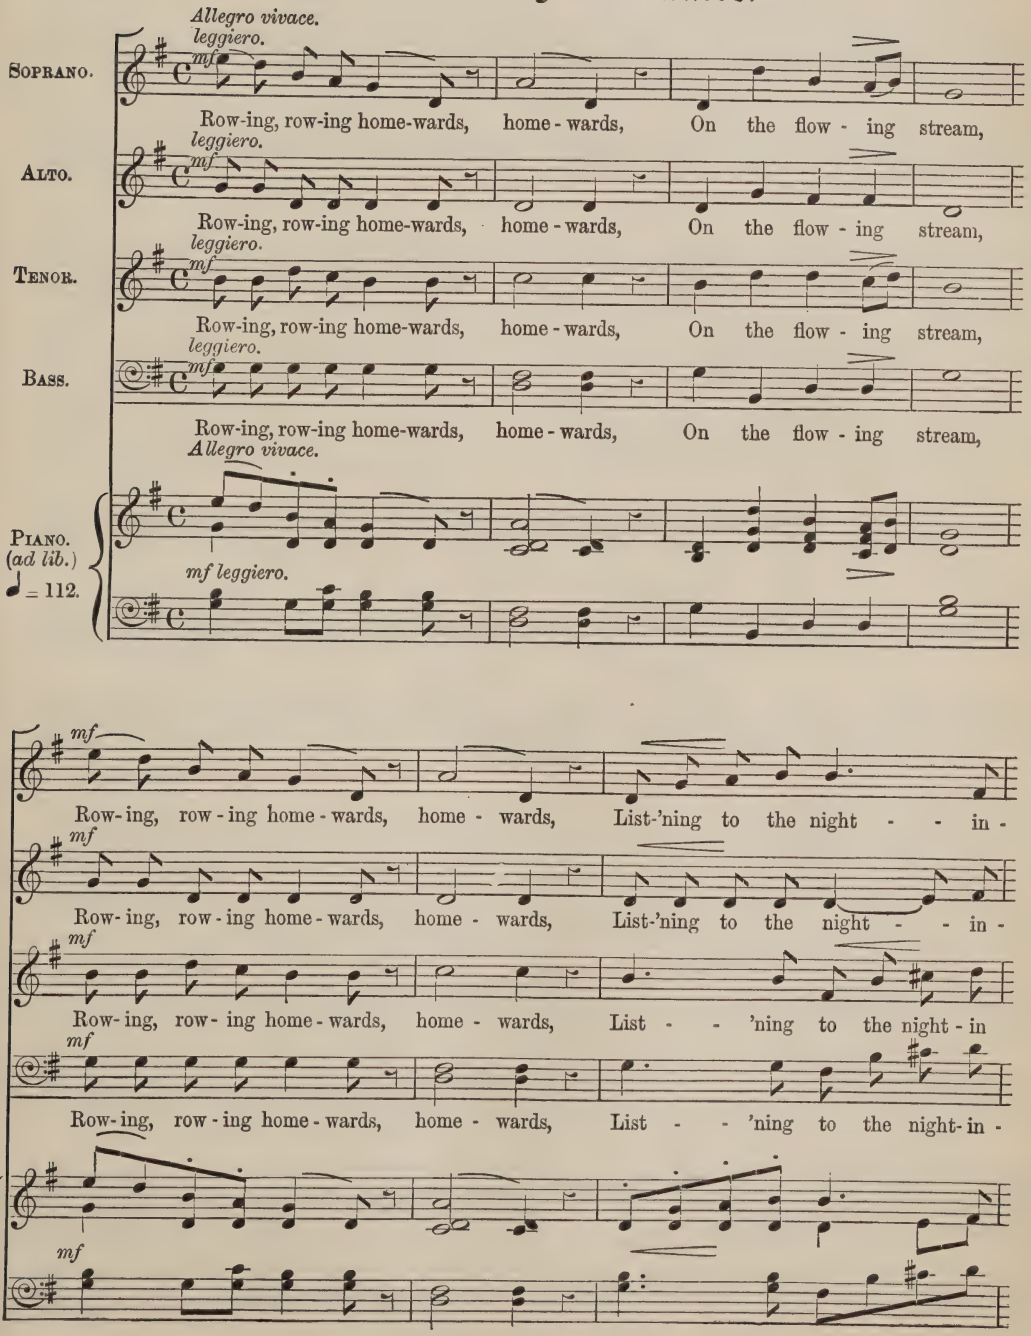
(SECOND SERIES.)

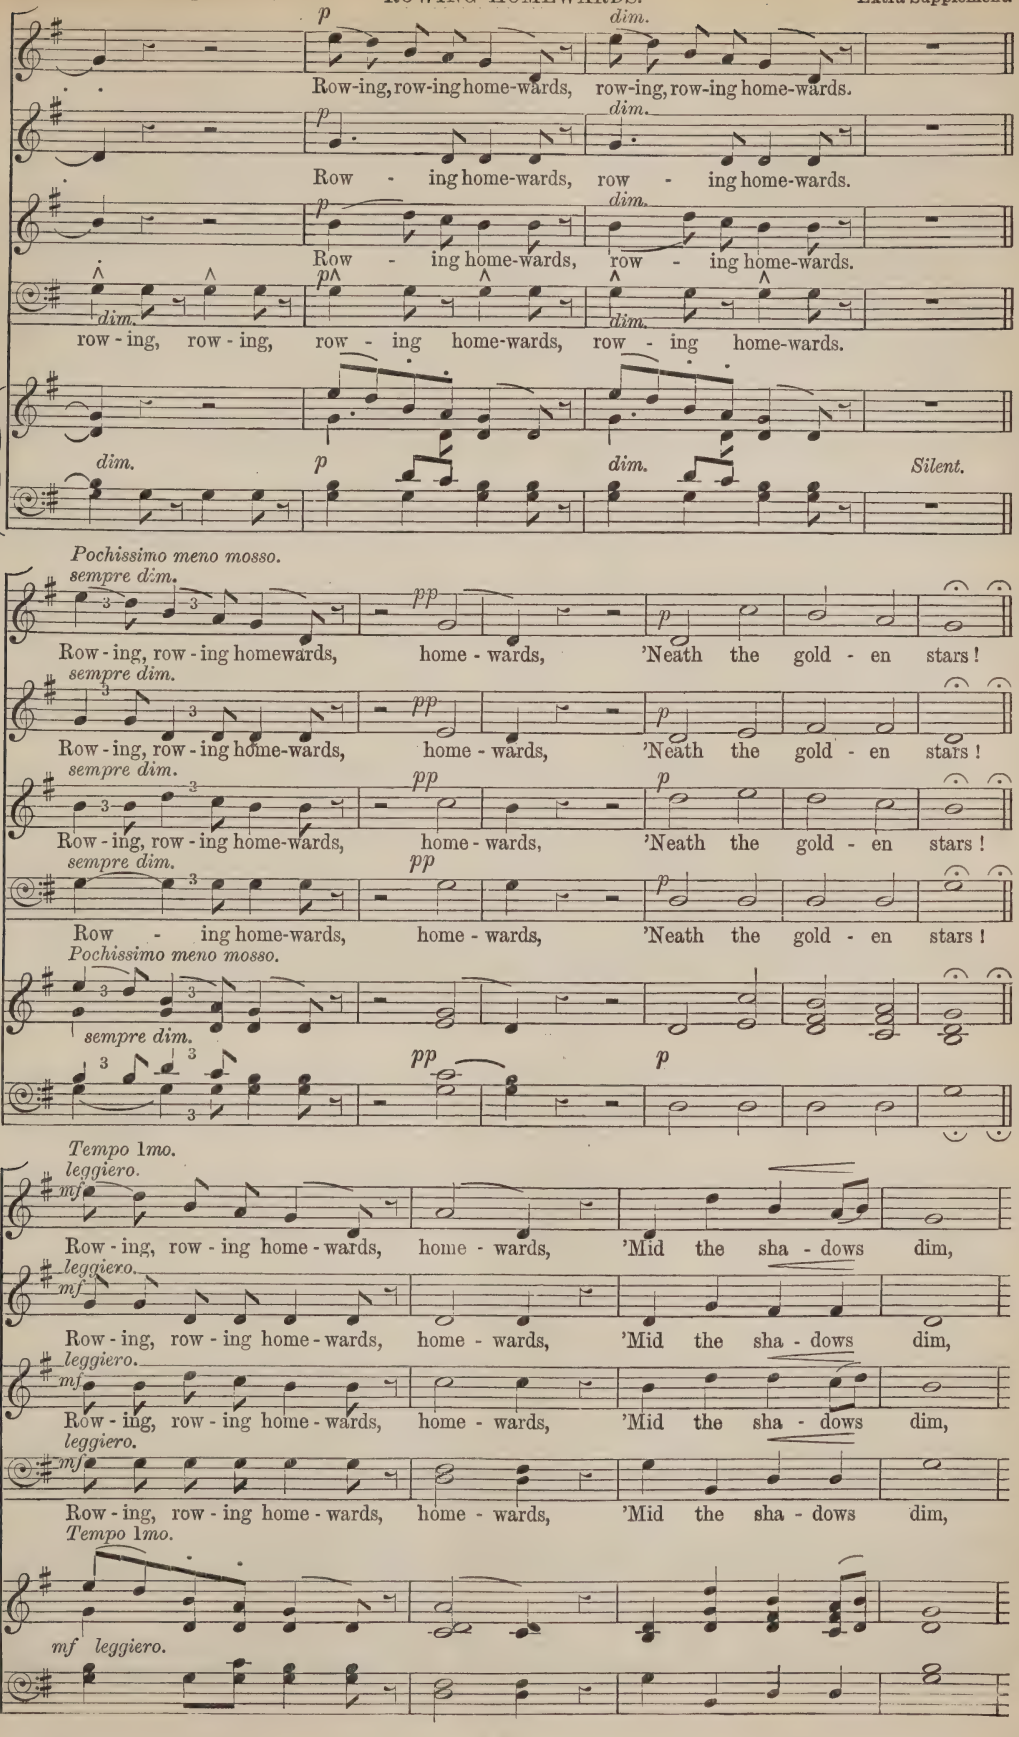
SONGS OF THE RIVER



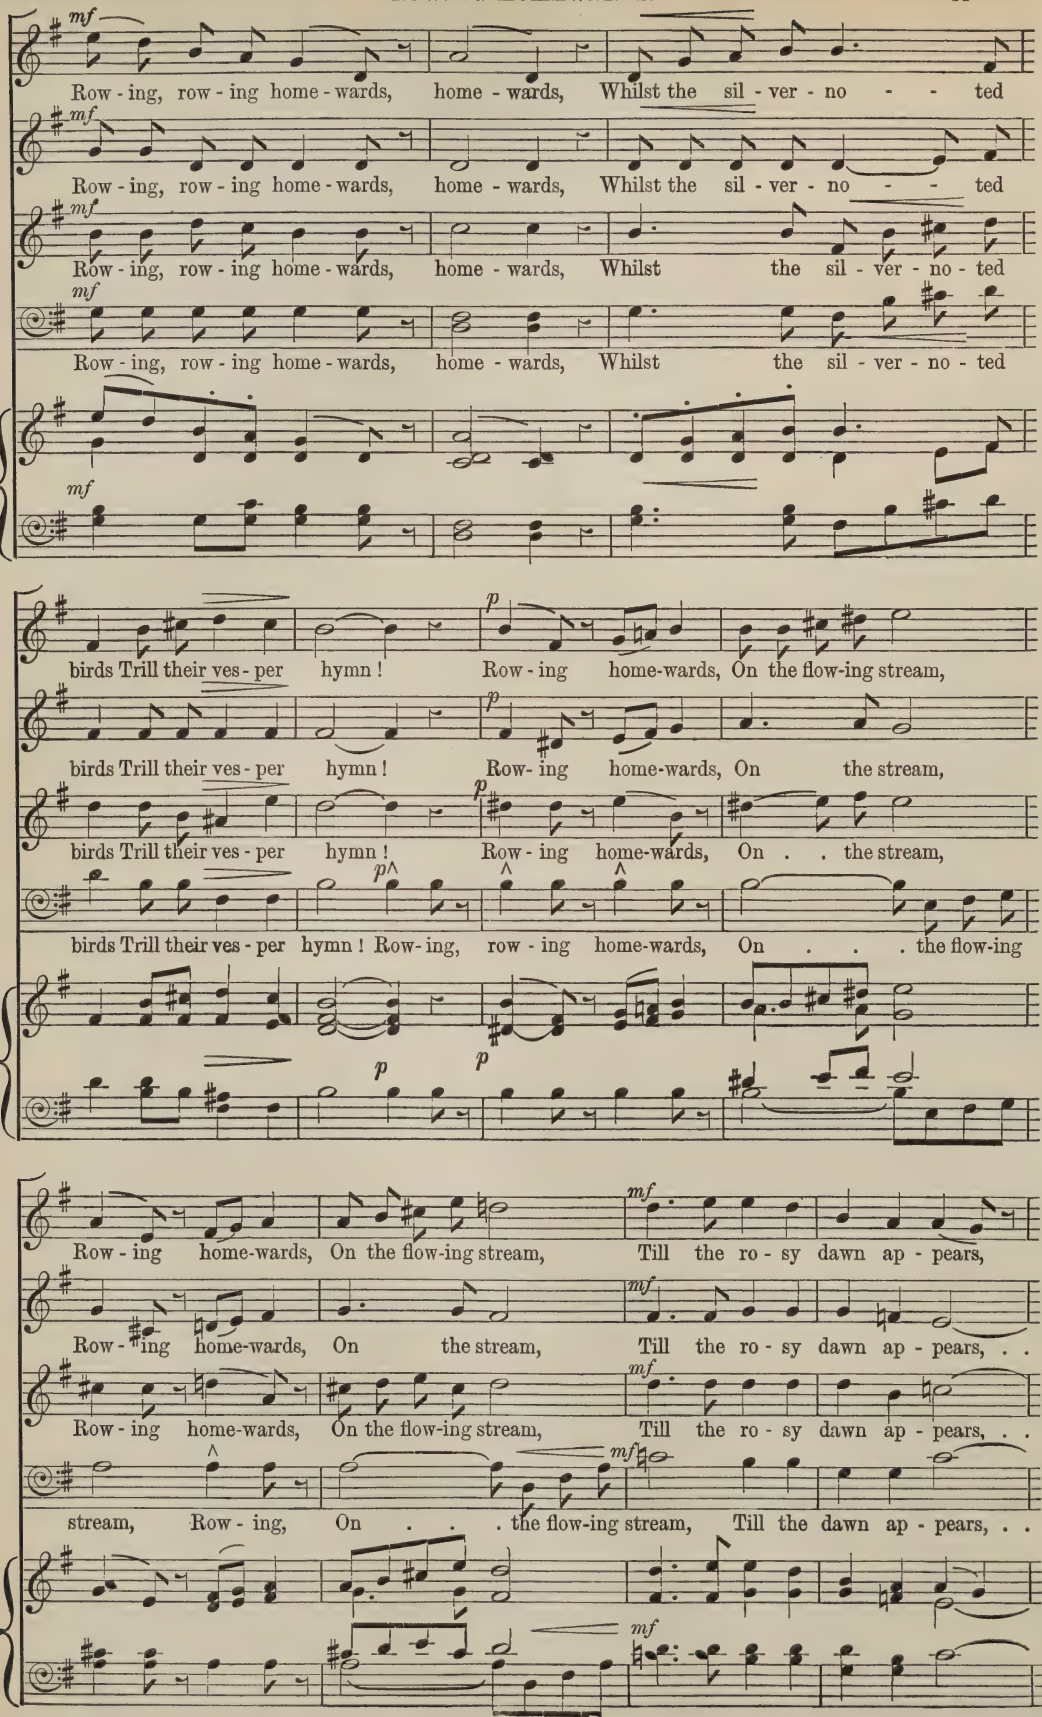
FOUR FOUR-PART SONGS

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY EDWARD OXENFORD

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY



FREDERIC H. COWEN.



No. 4.—Rowing Homewards.

Copyright, 1891, by Novello, Ewer and Co.

- gale 'Neath the moon's pale beam ! Row - ing home-wards, O'er the sand - y bars,
- gale 'Neath the moon's pale beam ! Row - ing home-wards, O'er . . the bars,
- gale 'Neath the moon's pale beam ! Row - ing home-wards, O'er . . the bars,
- gale 'Neath the moon's pale beam ! Row - ing, row - ing home-wards, O'er . . . the sand-y
Row - ing home-wards, O'er the sand-y bars, List -'ning to the ev - 'ning breeze
Row - ing home-wards, O'er the bars, List -'ning to the ev - 'ning breeze . .
Row - ing home - wards, O'er the sand-y bars, List -'ning to the ev - 'ning breeze . .
bars, Row - ing, O'er . . . the sand-y bars, List-'ning to the breeze . .
'Neath the gold - - - - en stars, the gold - en stars ! . . .
. . 'Neath . . the stars, 'neath the stars ! . . .
. . 'Neath the gold - - en stars, the gold - - en stars ! . . .
. . . . 'Neath the stars ! Row - ing,

p
dim.
Row-ing, row-ing home-wards, row-ing, row-ing home-wards.
Row - ing home-wards, row - ing home-wards.
Row - ing home-wards, row - ing home-wards.
row - ing, row - ing, row - ing home-wards, row - ing home-wards.
Silent.
Pochissimo meno mosso.
sempre dim.
pp
Row - ing, row - ing homewards, home - wards, 'Neath the gold - en stars!
Row - ing, row - ing home-wards, home - wards, 'Neath the gold - en stars!
Row - ing home-wards, home - wards, 'Neath the gold - en stars!
Tempo 1mo.
leggiero.
mf
Row - ing, row - ing home - wards, home - wards, 'Mid the sha - dows dim,

mf
Row - ing, row - ing home - wards, home - wards, Whilst the sil - ver - no - - - ted
Row - ing, row - ing home - wards, home - wards, Whilst the sil - ver - no - - - ted
Row - ing, row - ing home - wards, home - wards, Whilst the sil - ver - no - ted Row - ing, row - ing home - wards, home - wards, Whilst the sil - ver - no - ted
p birds Trill their ves - per hymn ! Row - ing home-wards, On the flow-ing stream, birds Trill their ves - per hymn ! Row- ing home-wards, On the stream, birds Trill their ves - per hymn ! Row - ing home-wards, On . . the stream, birds Trill their ves - per hymn ! Row-ing, row - ing home-wards, On . . . the flow-ing
Row - ing home-wards, On the flow-ing stream, Till the ro - sy dawn ap - pears,
Row - ing home-wards, On the stream, Till the ro - sy dawn ap - pears, . .
Row - ing home-wards, On the flow-ing stream, Till the ro - sy dawn ap - pears, . .
stream, Row - ing, On . . . the flow-ing stream, Till the dawn ap - pears, . .

dim.
till the dawn, . . . There to rest, to rest and dream! . . .
mf
dim.
There . . to rest, to rest and dream! . . .
mf
dim.
till the dawn, . . To rest, to rest and . . dream! . . .
There to dream! Row - ing,
Rowing, row- ing home-wards, row-ing, row-ing home-wards.
Row - ing home -wards, row - ing home-wards.
Row - ing home-wards, row - ing home-wards.
row - ing, row - ing, row - ing home-wards, row - ing home-wards.
Silent.
Pochissimo meno mosso.
sempre dim.
Row - ing, row - ing homewards, home - wards, There to rest and dream!
poco rall.
Row - ing homewards, home - wards, There to rest and dream!
Pochissimo meno mosso.

NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK (continued).

Vol. XI. (continued.)

316 A King there was in Thule ... ... 2d.
317 Come, let us be merry... ... ... 2d.
318 Mihi est propositum ... (A.T.B.B.) 2d.
319 Light of my soul. Madrigal (S.S.A.T.B.B.) 3d.
320 Lay a garland. Madrigal for 8 voices 3d.
321 Summer is y-coming in. (S.S.A.T.B.B.) 2d.
322 Why should the Cuckoo's tuneful note. Madrigal ... (S.S.A.T.B.) 3d.
323 Why weep, alas! my lady love. Madrigal .. .. (S.S.A.T.B.) 3d.
324 There is a paradise on earth (A.T.B.B.) 3d.
325 O! all ye ladies fair and true „ 2d.
326 War Song of the Norman Baron Taillefer ... ... 2d.
327 Why do the roses. Madrigal ... 2d.
328 Sweet as a flower in May. Madrigal 2d.
329 The praise of good wine (T.T.B.B.) 2d.
330 { The Watchman's Song (T.T.B.B.) } 2d. { do. do. (S.A.T.B.) }
331 The Waters of Elle ... (S.S.A.T.B) 2d.
332 No! no! Nigella. For Double Choir 2d.
333 Sir Patrick Spens. In 10 parts ... 4d.

Vol. XII.—ROBERT FRANZ.

334 Already snow has fallen ... ... 1½d.
335 At parting ... ... 1½d.
336 The fairest time... ... ... 1½d.
337 Spring's faith ... ... 1½d.
338 May Song ... ... 1½d.
339 A morning walk... ... ... 3d.

FRANZ ABT.

340 Home that I love ... ... 3d.
341 Eventide ... ... 1½d.
342 O thou world so fair ... ... 3d.
343 Spring's awaking ... ... 1½d.
344 Night Song ... ... 1½d.
345 Evening glow on the woods ... ... 3d.

F. HENSEL, née MENDELSSOHN.

346 Dost thou hear the trees ... ... 1½d.
347 The unknown land ... ... 3d.
348 In Autumn .. .. 1½d.
349 Morning greeting ... ... 3d.
350 The woodland valley ... ... 1½d.
351 When woods are glowing ... ... 3d.

A. C. MACKENZIE.

352 How I love the festive boy ... ... 3d.
353 Autumn ... ... 1½d.
354 When Spring ... ... 4d.
355 The day of love... ... ... 3d.
356 The stars are with the voyager ... 1½d.

E. PROUT.

357 Hail to the chief ... ... 4d.

J. L. HATTON.

358 At the coming of the Spring... ... 3d.
359 Calm night ... ... 3d.
360 Come, live with me ... ... 3d.
361 Echo's last word ... ... 1½d.
362 He that hath a pleasant face... ... 3d.
363 Keep time, keep time ... ... 3d.
364 Lo, the peaceful shades ... ... 1½d.
365 Not for me the lark is singing ... 3d.

Vol. XIII.

367 Take heart ... J. L. Hatton 3d.
366 Spring, the sweet Spring „ 3d.
368 The fishing boat ... „ 1½d.
369 The lark ... ... „ 3d.
370 The moon shone calmly bright „ 3d.

Vol. XIII.—(continued).

371 The reproach ... J. L. Hatton 1½d.
372 The swing ... ... „ 3d.
373 The wrecked hope ... „ 3d.
374 Twilight ... ... „ 1½d.
375 Twilight now is round us „ 3d.
376 What is got by sighing? „ 3d.
377 Where shall the lover rest „ 1½d.
378 Night ... ... Gounod 3d.
379 The dawn of day ... S. Reay 4d.
380 The calm of the sea ... H. Hiles 4d.
381 The wreck of the Hesperus „ 6d.
382 Uncertain light ... ... Schumann 3d.
383 Confidence. Double Chorus „ 3d.
384 The Dream ... ... „ 1½d.
385 The Boat... ... ... „ 3d.
386 Spring's approach. Seymour Egerton 3d.
387 Wild rose... ... „ 3d.
388 In the woods ... „ 3d.
389 The rose and the soul „ 1½d.
390 Adieu to the woods „ 3d.
391 King Winter ... „ 3d.
392 The Miller ... G. A. Macfarren 3d.

Vol. XIV.

394 All is still... ... G. A. Macfarren 3d.
393 At first the mountain rill „ 3d.
395 Sleep! the bird is in its nest J. Barnby 3d.
396 Hushed in death ... H. Hiles 6d.
397 Evening (It is the hour) Hy. Leslie 1½d.
398 Now the bright morning star „ 3d.
399 Boat Song (Hail to the chief) „ 3d.
400 The triumph of Death C. Holland 3d.
401 Now the bright morning star Pierson 3d.
402 The bright-haired morn S. Reay 3d.
403 Red o'er the forest ... „ 3d.
404 Sweet is the breath of early morn „ 3d.
405 Where wavelets rippled Ciro Pinsuti 6d.
406 We'll gaily sing and play „ 6d.
409 The shepherd's pipes (5 v.) Marenzio 3d.
407 Gently falls the evening shade „ 3d.
408 Lilies white, crimson roses (5 v.) „ 3d.
410 Spring returns (5 v.) ... ... „ 3d.
411 See where with rapid bound (6 v.), „ 3d.
412 Those dainty daffodillies (5 v.) Morley 3d.
413 Dainty, fine, sweet nymph „ „ 3d.
414 Shoot, false love, I care not „ „ 3d.
415 O say what nymph (6 v.) Palestrina 3d.

Vol. XV.

416 Ye singers all ... H. Waelrent 3d.
417 Now fie on love... G. A. Macfarren 2d.
418 Winds of Autumn! Chas. Oberthür 2d.
419 Softly fall the shades ... E. Silas 2d.
420 Love me little, love me long L. Wilson 2d.
421 Shall I tell you whom I love Wesley 3d.
422 It was a lover and his lass J. Booth 3d.
423 Love's question and reply J. B. Grant 2d.
424 Hence, loathed melancholy (5 v.) Lahee 6d.
425 Evening Song ... ... E. M. Hill 3d.
426 Welcome dawn of summer's day „ 3d.
427 Charge of the Light Brigade Hecht 4d.
428 There is beauty on the mountain Goss 4d.
429 O my sweet Mary (5 v.) „ 4d.
430 Lo where the rosy-bosom'd hours „ 4d.
431 Her eyes the glow-worm „ 4d.
432 The bells of St. Michael's Tower (S.A.T.BAR.B.) Knyvett and Stewart 4d.
433 The Cruiskeen Lawn (5 v.) „ 3d.
434 The wine cup is circling in Almhin's Hall (S.A.T.BAR.B.) Sir R. P. Stewart 3d.
435 Ye marine's of England H. Pierson 6d.
436 The Vesper Hymn ... Beethoven 2d.
437 What though sorrow ... Naumann 2d.
438 The Swallows ... ... Pohlentz 2d.
439 Hope and Faith ... Weber 2d.
440 Hark, hark, the Lark ... Kücken 3d.
441 A walk at dawn ... ... Gade 3d.

Vol. XVI.

442 Winter days ... A. J. Caldicott 4d.
443 Homeward .. Henry Leslie 4d.
445 Rest hath come... F. A. Marshall 2d.

Vol. XVI. (continued.)

444 To sea! the calm is o'er (S.S.A.T.B.) F. A. Marshall 4d.
446 Hymn to the Moon Josiah Booth 4d.
447 The Brook ... C. G. Reissiger 3d.
448 The Secret ... „ 3d.
449 Is it to odours sweet ... R. Müller 3d.
450 On the water ... ...R. de Cuvry 3d.
451 The Water-lily ... ...N. W. Gade 2d.
452 There's one that I love F. Kücken 3d.
453 The trees are all budding „ 3d.
454 There sings a bird ... Franz Abt 2d.
455 O world! thou art so wondrous fair (S. solo and T.T.B.B.) ... Dr. Hiller 4d.
456 Winter Song ... ... H. Dorn 3d
457 The arrow and the song W. Hay 3d.
458 Kings and Queens ...Ciro Pinsuti 3d
459 Would you ask my heart? „ 3d.
460 The Rhine Raft Song ... „ 3d.
461 The Silent Tide ... ... „ 3d.
462 The April time ... ... „ 2d.
463 The Song to Pan ... „ 3d.
464 Autumn is come again ... F. Corder 3d.
465 My love beyond the sea F. H. Simms 3d.
466 Lord Ullin's Daughter... Prescott 4d.
467 Slow, slow fresh fount (S.S.A.T.B.) Dr. Walmisley 3d.

Vol. XVII.

468 Song of the Wind Gertrude Hine 4d.
469 Gentle winds ... J. T. Musgrave 2d.
470 The Curfew ... ... Oliver King 2d.
471 Waken, lords and ladies gay E. Louis 4d.
472 Tell me where is fancy bred Pinsuti 3d.
473 Hymn to Cynthia ... B. Tours 3d.
474 Two lovers ... ... E. Hecht 4d.
475 'Tis twilight's holy hour Clippingdale 3d.
476 Oh, I wish I were a swallow O. Wagner 3d.
477 Slumber on, Baby dear Oliver King 3d.
478 Allen-a-Dale ... ... C. H. Lloyd 4d.
479 The sweet spring F. E. Gladstone 3d.
480 Rustic coquette F. Champneys 3d.
481 Pack clouds away ... C. H. Lloyd 3d.
482 A chafer's wedding L. Lewandowski 6d.
483 Joy in spring ... ...J. Raff 3d.
484 Ave Maria ... ... „ 3d.
485 And then no more ... ... „ 2d.
486 This day, in wealth of light ... „ 2d.
487 Starlit is night-time ... ... „ 2d.
488 In the moonlight ... ... „ 3d.
489 Silent happiness ... ... „ 2d.
490 Snowdrops ... ... „ 2d.
491 May-day ... ... „ 2d.
492 Good-night from the Rhine ... „ 3d.
493 Evening ... ... G. C. Martin 2d.
494 O, too cruel fair W. S. Rockstro 4d.

Vol. XVIII.

495 The Miller's wooing ... E. Faning 6d
496 When twilight dews J. L. Gregory 2d.
497 The East Indian „ 2d.
498 When at Corinna's eyes C. H. Lloyd 3d.
499 I love my love... ... G. B. Allen 4d.
500 The Troubadour ... H. Leslie 4d.
501 The Lass of Richmond Hill „ 4d.
502 In this hour of softened C. Pinsuti 4d.
503 The sea hath its pearls „ 4d.
504 Ye gallant men of England E. Hecht 3d.
505 The Moorland Witch „ 3d.
506 It was a lover and his lass J. Barnby 3d.
507 Come live with me Sir W. S. Bennett 4d.
508 Looking for Spring ... C. H. Lloyd 3d.
509 Tell me not, in mournful C. Pinsuti 3d.
510 There is music by the River „ 3d.
511 O sunny beam ... R. Schumann 2d.
512 O red, red rose ... „ 2d.
513 Wanderer's Song „ 3d.
514 Evening Song ... „ 2d.
515 Ah! woe is me ... ... H. Lahee 4d.
516 Sweet evening hour ... S. Reay 3d.
517 Fair land, we greet thee Ciro Pinsuti 4d.
518 Rise, Fair Goddess ... H. Smart 3d.
519 A garland for our fairest J. L. Hatton 3d.

RECENT NUMBERS.

THE MUSICAL TIMES (Sacred).

612. Now is Christ risen .. .. John E. West.
614. Lord, I call upon Thee .. .. Arnold D. Culley.
617. Jesu, priceless treasure .. .. J. Varley Roberts.
618. Thou crownest the year .. .. Josiah Booth.
621. With all Thy hosts .. .. John E. West.
622. There was silence in Bethlehem's fields .. John Stainer.
624. O saving Victim .. .. F. Kœnig.
625. Hearken unto me .. .. Myles B. Foster.
628. I will sing unto the Lord .. .. H. Purcell.
629. The eyes of all wait upon Thee .. .. A. R. Gaul.
633. The night is far spent .. .. Bruce Steane.
634. Thou wilt keep him .. .. A. D. Culley.
636. Worthy is the Lamb .. .. J. Francis Barnett.
638. If I go not away .. .. Thomas Adams.
640. Save me, O God .. .. C. S. Jekyll.
641. Let us now fear the Lord our God .. .. John E. West.
642. A wet sheet and a flowing sea .. .. .. R. H. Evans.
643. The Fairy Queene .. .. Alexandra Thomson.

Price Three-Halfpence each.

THE MUSICAL TIMES (Secular).

608. A lover's counsel .. .. Frederic H. Cowen.
610. In a drear-nighted December .. .. .. G. A. Macfarren.
611. { Soldier, rest! thy warfare o'er .. .. Hamish MacCunn.
{ I love my Jean .. .. George J. Bennett.
613. It was a lover and his lass (Morley) .. .. J. F. Bridge.
615. Blow, ye gentle breezes, blow .. J. Christopher Marks, Junr.
616. O'er the woodland chace .. .. .. Herbert W. Wareing.
619. Ballad of Earl Haldan's daughter .. .. Robin H. Legge.
620. Softly the moonlight .. .. F. Iliffe.
623. Spring.. .. .. Frederic H. Cowen.
626. The shades of night .. .. J. Varley Roberts.
627. Now the wearied sun declining .. .. R. F. Lloyd.
630. Under the greenwood tree .. .. .. James Shaw.
631. Autumn .. .. J. Booth.
632. A Shadow .. .. Jacques Blumenthal.
635. To Sylvia .. .. Schubert-West.
637. O happy eyes .. .. E. Elgar.
639. Pack, clouds, away .. .. W. A. C. Cruickshank.

Price Three-Halfpence each.

NOVELLO'S OCTAVO ANTHEMS.

538. When Christ, Who is our life .. .. J. Varley Roberts 2d.
539. I am Alpha and Omega .. .. .. „ „ 3d.
540. Teach me, O Lord .. .. George J. Elvey 3d.
542. Sing to the Lord .. .. J. Barnby 4d.
543. O Lamb of God .. .. J. Barnby 3d.
544. If ye love Me .. .. Bruce Steane 2d.
545. Hail! gladdening light .. .. .. G. C. Martin 4d.
546. They that go down to the sea .. .. .. G. J. Elvey 6d.
547. The eyes of all .. .. G. J. Elvey 3d.
548. Joy in harvest .. .. Bruce Steane 3d.
549. Thou visitest the earth .. .. .. J. W. Elliott 3d.
551. O sing unto the Lord .. .. W. A. C. Cruickshank 4d.
552. The day Thou gavest .. .. .. H. H. Woodward 3d.
555. Unto us a Child is born .. .. .. Frank Adlam 4d.
558. Not unto us .. .. John E. West 4d.

To be continued.

NOVELLO'S PART-SONG BOOK.

736. Lie down, poor heart .. .. .. F. C. Woods 3d.
737. How sweet the moonlight sleeps .. .. D. Emlyn Evans 1½d.
738. A red, red rose .. .. J. Varley Roberts 2d.
739. I prithee send me back my heart .. „ „ 3d.
740. Evening Hymn .. .. .. Jacques Blumenthal 3d.
741. Gather ye rosebuds .. .. .. „ „ 4d.
742. The loyal Lover .. .. .. „ „ 3d.
743. The Butterfly .. .. .. „ „ 4d.
744. Good-night .. .. R. O. Morgan 3d.
745. The Song of Victory (King Arthur) .. Henry Purcell 4d.
747. Upon my lap my soveraigne sits .. Martin Peerson 2d.
748. The Widow Bird .. .. Charles Wood 2d.
749. Evening Breezes .. .. G. R. Vicars 2d.
750. There rolls the deep .. .. .. C. H. H. Parry 2d.
751. Shall I, wasting in despair .. .. .. G. J. Elvey 2d.

To be continued.

NOVELLO'S PARISH CHOIR BOOK

281. Two Flower Service Hymns .. .. Lady Euan-Smith 2d.
282. Te Deum laudamus (3rd Series). (Greg. Tones) J. Stainer 3d.
283. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F .. A. H. Brewer 3d.
284. Two Concluding Amens .. .. Ch. Gounod 1d.
286. Vesper Hymn .. .. A. T. Lee Ashton 1d.
288. Te Deum and Benedictus in E flat .. .. F. Adlam 4d.
289. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G .. Frank Adlam 3d.
290. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E .. .. John Goss 4d.
292. The Church Catechism .. .. .. Myles B. Foster 3d.
297. Benedictus in F .. .. Bruce Steane 3d.
298. Abide with me! fast falls the eventide .. .. W. T. Best 1½d.
299. Dies iræ, Dies illa (Day of wrath, O day of mourning) .. 1½d.
300. Te Deum laudamus (2nd Series.) (Greg. Tones) J. Stainer 3d.
302. Faith, duty, and prayer .. .. .. Myles B. Foster 2d.
303. Jubilate Deo in F .. .. Bruce Steane 3d.
304. Cantate Domino and Deus Misereatur in C .. John Goss 6d.

To be continued.

THE ORPHEUS (New Series).

284. At that dread hour (Faith) .. .. S. S. Wesley 6d.
285. The Ivy .. .. C. Lee Williams 3d.
286. A red, red rose .. .. J. Varley Roberts 2d.
287. In the pleasant summer day .. .. William Beale 4d.
288. I prithee send me back my heart .. J. Varley Roberts 4d.
289. What care I how fair she be .. .. Jacques Blumenthal 4d.
290. While my lady sleepeth .. .. .. Percy Pitt 3d.
291. A Cavalier's Song .. .. „ 3d.
292. The Flirt .. .. J. F. Bridge 3d.
293. The leaves to one another say .. .. C. H. Döring 3d.
294. The moon looks down .. .. .. „ „ 2d.
295. Far down the green valley .. .. .. „ „ 2d.
296. Street music .. .. Hamilton Clarke 4d.
297. The kiss .. .. J. Barnby 3d.
298. In laudem amoris .. .. J. Barnby 3d.
299. There's life to be seen .. .. .. George Miller 4d.

To be continued.

NOVELLO'S SHORT ANTHEMS.

58. Almighty and Everlasting God .. John Stafford Smith 1½d.
59. Come, let us worship .. .. Palestrina 1½d.
61. Lead me, Lord .. .. S. S. Wesley 1½d.
62. Master, what shall I do? .. .. .. C. B. Bowes 1½d.
64. Jesus said unto the people .. .. .. J. Stainer 1½d.
66. These are they which follow the Lamb .. .. John Goss 1½d.
67. O Lord, give ear unto my prayer .. W. H. Cummings 2d.
68. Whom have I in Heaven but Thee .. G. J. Elvey 2d.
69. O wisdom .. .. J. Stainer 1½d.
70. O Lord and ruler .. .. „ 1½d.
71. O root of Jesse .. .. „ 1½d.
72. O key of David .. .. „ 1½d.
73. O day-spring .. .. „ 1½d.
74. O King and desire .. .. „ 1½d.
75. O Emmanuel .. .. „ 1½d.

To be continued.

NOVELLO'S COLLECTION OF
TRIOS, QUARTETS, &c.
FOR FEMALE VOICES.

296. Hymn to nature .. .. L. Streabbog 3d.
297. Dickory, dickory, dock .. .. Herbert W. Schartau 3d.
298. Whither away? .. .. .. C. Villiers Stanford 8d.
299. Summer .. .. Hamilton Clarke 4d.
300. To the woods .. .. „ „ 4d.
301. Noble be thy life .. .. Beethoven 3d.
302. So the world goes round .. .. .. Marie Wurm 2d.
303. Softly the moonlight .. .. F. Iliffe 3d.
304. You stole my love (arranged by F. Maxson) W. Macfarren 2d.
305. Moonlight .. .. Hamilton Clarke 4d.
306. The Snow .. .. E. Elgar 6d.
307. Fly, singing Bird .. .. „ 6d.
308. To-day and to-morrow .. .. Hamilton Clarke 4d.

To be continued.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

SHORT CANTATAS.

THE PIED PIPER OF HAMELIN
By ROBERT BROWNING
Set to Music for Tenor and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
RICHARD H. WALTHEW.

Price Two Shillings.

THE BLACK KNIGHT
Cantata for Chorus and Orchestra
The Poem by UHLAND; translated by LONGFELLOW
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
EDWARD ELGAR.

Price Two Shillings.

THE POWER OF SOUND
Cantata for Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
The Poem by WORDSWORTH
THE MUSIC BY
ARTHUR SOMERVELL.

Price Two Shillings. Tonic Sol-fa, One Shilling.

YOUNG LOCHINVAR
Ballad by Sir WALTER SCOTT
Set to Music for Baritone Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
ETHEL M. BOYCE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

ROBERT OF SICILY
Cantata for Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
Poem by LONGFELLOW
SET TO MUSIC BY
F. K. HATTERSLEY.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

JOHN GILPIN
Ballad for Chorus and Orchestra
Words selected from COWPER'S Poem
SET TO MUSIC BY
S. P. WADDINGTON.

Price Two Shillings.

THE BALLAD OF CARMILHAN
By HENRY LONGFELLOW
Set to Music for Baritone Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
A. DAVIDSON ARNOTT.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence. Tonic Sol-fa, 1s. 6d.

THE DREAM OF JUBAL
For Soprano and Tenor Soli, Chorus, Orchestra, and Accompanied Recitation
Written by JOSEPH BENNETT
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
A. C. MACKENZIE.
(Op. 41.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
Paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.

THE FORSAKEN MERMAN
Written by MATTHEW ARNOLD
Set for Bass Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
ARTHUR SOMERVELL.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

KING HAROLD
For Soprano and Tenor Soli and Chorus
Words by Rev. CHAS. KENT, M.A.
MUSIC BY
F. CUNNINGHAM WOODS.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence;
Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.

MANFRED
A Dramatic Poem, in Three Acts, by LORD BYRON
Composed for Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra, with Accompanied Recitation
BY
ROBERT SCHUMANN.

Price One Shilling. Cloth, gilt, 2s. 6d.

HERVÉ RIEL
A Poem by ROBERT BROWNING
Set to Music for Baritone Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
H. WALFORD DAVIES.

Price One Shilling.

THE INCHCAPE ROCK
Ballad by ROBERT SOUTHEY
Set to Music for Chorus and Orchestra
BY
J. FREDERICK BRIDGE.

Price One Shilling.

THE BRIDE
For Soprano and Tenor Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
The Words translated from the German of R. HAMERLING
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
A. C. MACKENZIE.

Price One Shilling.

ODE TO THE WEST WIND
A Poem by SHELLEY
Set to Music for Tenor Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY CHARLES WOOD.

Price One Shilling.

THE WRECK OF THE HESPERUS
By LONGFELLOW
Set to Music for Soprano, Tenor, and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY
HERBERT W. WAREING.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE
ROMANCE OF THE ROSES
For Soprano and Tenor Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
The Words written by ELLIS WALTON
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY OLIVER KING.
(Op. 80.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

THE JACKDAW OF RHEIMS
Legend by RICHARD BARHAM
Set to Music for Chorus and Orchestra
BY
WILLIAM H. SPEER.

Price Two Shillings.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

The minor triad, on the other hand, has proved a crux to various classes of musicians, from Palestrina and his contemporaries, who refused to use it as a final chord, to the Day-Macfarren theorists, who find it impossible to give to this chord, in their system, a place at all befitting its dignity. By some theorists its minor third has been treated as the "nineteenth harmonic," and itself, therefore, as a complicated discord; while others, of high authority, hold that the minor scale and chords are formed by an "arbitrary" flattening of the third and sixth of the all-absorbing major scale.

And now, in what consists the mathematical symmetry which I wish to show between the two chords? It is this:

If we consider the vibration-ratios of the notes which make up the two chords, we find that the major triad is to the minor triad as the arithmetical series 1, 2, 3 . . 6 is to the corresponding harmonic series 1, $\frac{1}{2}$, $\frac{1}{3}$ . . $\frac{1}{6}$.

We may perhaps state the same fact in a more tangible shape if we consider the ratios, not of vibrations, but of lengths on the monochord. The above statement is, then, in form, exactly reversed. We get the major triad, as is well known, by taking a fundamental length, and then successively dividing it by 2, 3 . . 6; the minor triad we may obtain by taking any small length for our fundamental, and multiplying it successively by 2, 3 . . 6.

The notes obtained in each case are shown by the following figure—I use C as fundamental:

I may add that the addition of the next note (D) in the minor series gives a beautiful chord of the seventh on the minor supertonic (D)—perhaps more correctly styled chord of the minor ninth and eleventh on the dominant (G).

Yours, &c.,
CHARLES RAYMOND-BARKER, S.J.

St. Aidan's College, Grahamstown,
Cape Colony, July 11, 1896.

ST. MICHAEL'S COLLEGE, TENBURY.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—Friends of Sir Frederick Ouseley will appreciate your kindly article on Mr. Joyce's interesting book. I write to correct an impression which is by no means uncommon (p. 443, paragraph 2), that the foundation of St. Michael's was a purely musical one. Sir Frederick's desire was to train up boys for Holy Orders and other offices in the Church by a sound public school preparatory education, who would add to this ordinary course such a knowledge of church music as would extend the use of choral service on intelligent lines and improve the tone of church music throughout the land. That St. Michael's has succeeded in this, its object, a long list of well-known names will testify, as well as a number of lesser lights who have turned their musical knowledge to the great advantage of the Church. The present Warden could supply a goodly list of such members of the College, and its object is still kept in view by those who are responsible for its maintenance.—Yours, &c.,

SOCIUS STI. MICHAELIS.

[The paragraph in question was not intended to convey the meaning your correspondent attributes to it; but, if the impression is general that St. Michael's is a purely musical foundation, it is important that the public should be set right on the point. The fact, however, remains, that a broad and comprehensive view of the art of music, especially of church music, is indispensable in these days to those who take Holy Orders.—THE REVIEWER.]

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

 Notices of Concerts, of which programmes must invariably be sent, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted.

Our correspondents will oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music is always kept in stock, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

CHIGWELL.—Speech-day at the Grammar School included a Concert, at which a good selection of part-songs, &c., was well given by the school choir, under the direction of Mr. Henry Riding, who also wrote incidental music for the Greek play performed on the same day.

DURBAN, NATAL.—The Musical Association held its first musical Festival on July 15, 17, and 18, on which dates the following works were performed: Macfarren's "May Day," Mendelssohn's 42nd Psalm, Haydn's "Creation," German's "Richard III." Overture, part of No. 1 Symphony (Beethoven), Sullivan's Graceful Dance from "Henry VIII.," and a Suite, "Scenes of Childhood," written especially for the Festival by Mr. C. Hoby. This work was so well received that it was repeated at a later Concert. The soloists engaged were Miss Scriviner, Miss Florence Stoward, Mr. G. C. Macfarlane (tenor), Mr. F. Woods (bass), Signor Rotondo (violoncello), Mr. Roger Aschem (pianoforte), and Mr. R. H. Macdonald (Borough organist), conductor. The orchestra and chorus numbered about 200. Altogether the Festival was a great success.

HANDSWORTH.—At the Patronal Festival held at St. James's Church, on July 25, C. Lee Williams's Dedication cantata was sung as the anthem by the combined choirs of St. James's and St. Michael's. The bass solo was taken by Mr. Challens, of St. James's choir. Mr. W. Terence Jenkins, organist of St. Michael's, accompanied on the organ, and Mr. Richard Richards, organist of St. James's, conducted. The Canticles were sung to Tours in F.

LLANDAFF.—The choristers of the Monmouthshire Division of the Llandaff Diocesan Church Choral Association celebrated their Festival on July 23 in the Cathedral. Some 700 singers were present. The anthem was Dr. Garrett's "In humble faith and holy love," the quartet in which was sung by Miss Day, and Messrs. Chappel, Fothergill, and Miller. Mr. Richard Seaton conducted, and Mr. G. G. Beale presided at the organ.

NEWCASTLE EMLYN.—The chief prize for choral singing at the Eisteddfod, which was held on July 30, was won by the Llanpumpsaint choir, comprising 140 voices, conducted by Mr. D. Evans. The other competing bodies were the Builth (120 members), conductor, Mr. A. P. Morgan; and the Mountain Ash singers, 150 in number, under the direction of Mr. Hugh Ellis. The adjudicators were Dr. Rogers and Mr. David Jenkins. The prize for the best male-voice party was secured by the Ferndale vocalists, conducted by Mr. Gwilym Jones.

NEWMARKET.—An attractive Organ Recital was given on the 2nd ult., by Mr. J. F. Hindell, in St. Mary's Church. Two vocal excerpts were respectively sung by Mrs. Imrie and Mr. J. F. Hindell.

NORWICH.—The distribution of awards to the successful students of the Norfolk and Norwich School of Music took place on July 31 at the Institution. The presentations were made by the Mayor of Norwich, who, in a short speech, congratulated the directors on the success of the school, which was only established in March, 1895. Since that date its pupils have increased from thirteen to 120. The rest of the evening was occupied by the performances of the students, which reflected much credit on the professors of the Institution.

Oldham.—An excellent programme of Chamber music was successfully given by the students of the Oldham College of Music—now a thriving institution. The novelty of the evening, on July 29, was a set of charming little pianoforte pieces by Edmondstoune Duncan, entitled "Happy Thoughts," which were cleverly rendered by Miss Heywood, a young player of conspicuous ability. Several songs—well-contrasted and appropriate—were ably interpreted by Miss Prestwich, Miss Cunliffe, and Messrs. Stewart and Harrison. One of the best performances, however, was Mr. Phillip Ashworth's violin solo—Papini's Romance in F. Good progress is reported in all departments of the College work.

St. David's.—A very successful Eisteddfod was held in the ancient and historic Bishop's Palace on the 18th ult., its special object being to raise funds for transforming the Town Hall into an intermediate school. The chief event was the singing, by three choirs, respectively from Fishguard, St. David's, and Haverfordwest, of Mendelssohn's "Be not afraid." The prize was awarded to the last-named, but the adjudicator, Mr. David Jenkins, highly praised the singing of the three bodies.

Worcester.—The fine new organ, erected in the Cathedral by the Hope-Jones Electric Organ Company at a cost of £3,000, was formally opened at a special dedicatory service on July 28. An Organ Recital was subsequently given by Dr. A. L. Peace, organist of Glasgow Cathedral, by whom the magnificent tone and remarkable resources of the instrument were advantageously displayed. The organ is divided into three portions and placed part against the South wall of the South transept and part on either side of the choir, the whole being controlled from a small electric console placed inside the screen just West of the choir stalls. The new organ is fitted with all Mr. Hope-Jones's latest electrical improvements, together with pipes constructed on an entirely new plan invented by him and furnishing tones of greater power and dignity than any hitherto known. The arrangement of the organ permits a view of the Norman arch between the transept and St. John's Chapel, which was hidden from sight by the previous instrument. Clergy, organists, and others interested have been allowed to hear and play upon the new electric organ during the whole of last month (Sundays excepted), and will be permitted to do so up to Saturday, the 5th inst., inclusive.——Much mutual congratulation prevailed at the annual meeting of the Festival Choral Society, which was held on the 6th ult., at the Chapter House, under the presidency of the Dean, Dr. Forrest. Mr. J. W. Somerton, the acting secretary, stated in his report that the past season had been the most successful in the history of the Society. For the forthcoming Festival Mr. Hugh Blair was elected hon. conductor; Mr. C. Mason, hon. organist; and Mr. Elgar, principal violin. At the close of the business proceedings the Dean, on behalf of the choral and orchestral societies, presented Mr. E. R. Bowen with an aneroid barometer and some plate, on the occasion of his recent marriage and in recognition of his services during the past six years as librarian.

Wrington.—The Chew Magna Decanal Choral Society celebrated, on the 5th ult., its annual Festival at the Parish Church of All Saints'. The united choirs, consisting of about 170 singers, came from St. John's, Clevedon, Barrow Gurney, Leighwoods, Flax Bourton, Nempnett, Wrington, Winford, and Walton. The Canticles were sung to a setting by G. M. Garrett, and the anthem was "I will magnify Thee, O God, my King," by J. Baptiste Calkin. At the conclusion the Rev. H. H. Woodward's setting of the Te Deum in E flat and Stainer's Sevenfold Amen were sung. The rendering of the music reflected much credit on Mr. J. W. Lawson, who conducted, and Mr. Winter skilfully presided at the organ.

Choir Appointment.—Mr. Arthur Yates (Alto), to St. Peter's (Episcopal) Chapel, Vere Street, Cavendish Square.

Organ Appointments.—Mr. E. W. Rickett, to the Parish Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Acock's Green, Birmingham.—Mr. C. P. Landi, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Mary's College, Woolhampton, Reading.—Mr. Edward C. Allen, Organist, Choirmaster, and Director of Music, Thanet College, Margate.—Mr. H. W. Hickin, Organist and Choirmaster to the Parish Church, Walton-on-the-Naze, Essex.—Mr. Charles H. W. Hickin, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Jude's Church, East Brixton.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

COWEN, FREDERIC H.—"A Daughter of the Sea." Cantata. For Female Voices, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. The words written by Clifton Bingham. 2s.

ELGAR, EDWARD—"The Light of life" ("Lux Christi"). A short Oratorio. For Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. The words written and arranged by the Rev. E. Capel-Cure. 2s. 6d.

FOSTER, MYLES B.—"The coming of the King." A Sacred Cantata. For Female Voices. Words by Helen Marion Burnside. 1s. 6d.

MACKENZIE, A. C.—Benedictus. From "Six Pieces for Violin, with Pianoforte Accompaniment." Arrangement for Pianoforte and Stringed Instruments (Violins, Two Violas, and Two Violoncellos). (No. 7. Novello's Albums for Pianoforte and Stringed Instruments.) 3s.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW. No. 51. Contains the following Music in both Notations:—"Evening." Two-part Song. By John Hullah. "Fairest Isle." Unison Song. By Purcell. "The Lark's Song." Four-part Round or Canon. By Mendelssohn. Studies in Six-pulse Measure. Melodious Exercises in Time and Tune. 1½d.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS.—Edited by W. G. McNaught. Published in two forms. A. Voice Parts, in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 8vo size; B. Voice Parts only in Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

	A.	B.
No. 374. Boating	—	2d.
—— Book XLVII. Six Two-part Songs. By Various Composers	—	4d.
—— Book LIV. Five Two-part Songs. By H. A. J. Campbell	—	3d.

BARNBY, J.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 293. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

CHIPP, E. T.—(in C). Te Deum laudamus. (No. 312. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 3d.

—— (in C.) Jubilate Deo. (No. 313. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 2d.

CRONK, CUTHBERT H.—(in D). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 3d.

LONG, GEORGE W.—(in D). Te Deum laudamus. 3d.

NORTH, J. W. ALLEN—(in E). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 4d.

STAINER, J.—Benedictus. Third series (Gregorian Tones). (No. 307. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 2d.

STEANE, BRUCE—(in F). Jubilate Deo. (No. 303. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 3d.

STORER, J. BERTRAM—Te Deum laudamus. 2d.

ADLAM, FRANK.—"Open to me the gates." Anthem. For Easter, Ascension, Dedication Festivals, &c. (No. 556. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

BARNBY, J.—"Victoria—our Queen." A Patriotic Chorus. The Words written by A. C. Ainger. (No. 753. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

BOWES, CHAS. F.—"Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?" Short Anthem. For Tenor Solo and Chorus. (No. 62. Novello's Short Anthems.) 1½d.

GAUL, A. R.—"I was glad." Anthem. For S.A.T.B. 3d.

STAINER, J.—"O wisdom." Short Anthem. For Advent. (No. 69. Novello's Short Anthems.) 1½d.

—— "O Lord and ruler." Short Anthem. For Advent. (No. 70. Novello's Short Anthems.) 1½d.

—— "O root of Jesse." Short Anthem. For Advent. (No. 71. Novello's Short Anthems.) 1½d.

—— "O Key of David." Short Anthem. For Advent. (No. 72. Novello's Short Anthems.) 1½d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

STAINER, J.—"O Emmanuel." Short Anthem. For Advent. (No. 75. Novello's Short Anthems.) 1½d.

WEST, JOHN E.—"Not unto us, O Lord." (No. 558. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

WESTLAKE, FREDERICK—Accession Anthem, "Domine salvam." For Chorus and Orchestra. 4d.

PURCELL, HENRY.—"When the cock begins to crow." Trio. For Men's Voices (A.T.B.). (No. 302. The Orpheus.) 3d.

BENNET, JOHN.—"The Hunt is up." A Four-part Song. For Men's Voices (T.T.B.B.) (No. 301. The Orpheus.) 3d.

GAUL, A. R.—Six Action Songs. 1. Haymakers; 2. Fairy Bells; 3. Flower Fairies; 4. The English Flag; 5. Calling the cows; 6. Fishermen. Words by MARY HUTCHINSON. 6d.

STAINER, J.—Seven of the Greater Antiphons for use at Special Advent Services. 9d.

TREGARTHEN, W. COULSON—"Het Volkslied." National Hymn of the South African Republic. Dutch and English words. 1s.

WAGNER, RICHARD—Finale from Act I. of "Lohengrin." (No. 105. Novello's Opera Choruses.) 6d.

LOWRY, SOMERSET C.—"I could not do without Thee." Sacred Song. The words written by FRANCES RIDLEY HAVERGAL. 2s.

CRUICKSHANK, W. A. C.—First Movement ("Hymn of Praise"), MENDELSSOHN. (No. 42. Novello's Organ Arrangements, edited by GEORGE C. MARTIN.) 2s. 6d.

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS in the TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Edited by W. G. McNAUGHT.

No. 928. Victoria—our Queen .. .. .. J. BARNBY 1½d.
„ 934. The cloud-capt towers .. .. R. J. S. STEVENS 1d.
„ 936. Softly the moonlight .. .. .. F. ILIFFE 1d.
„ 937. O'er the woodland chace HERBERT W. WAREING 1½d.

MAUNDER, J. H.—"Blessed be the Name of the Lord." 2d.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

PUBLISHED ON THE 1ST OF EVERY MONTH. Price 1½d. ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION, INCLUDING POSTAGE, 2s.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW FOR SEPTEMBER CONTAINS:—

GENERAL NOTES.
SORTING PUPILS IN SCHOOL SINGING CLASSES.
ELEMENTARY BOOKS ON MUSICAL THEORY.
SCHOOL MUSIC IN THE UNITED STATES.
CERTIFICATE MUSIC QUESTIONS.
GRADUATED EXERCISES FOR SCHOOL CLASSES.—STAFF NOTATION AND TONIC SOL-FA.
PUPIL TEACHERS' MUSIC PAPER.
REPORTS OF THE EDUCATION DEPARTMENT ON SCHOOL SINGING.
REVIEWS.
ISLE OF MAN COMPETITIONS.
MISCELLANEOUS.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW,

FOR SEPTEMBER,

CONTAINS THE FOLLOWING MUSIC IN BOTH NOTATIONS:—

"O WHO WILL O'ER THE DOWNS SO FREE?" Arranged for S.S.A. By R. L. DE PEARSALL.
"THE STAR'S WATCH." Junior Unison Song. By MYLES B. FOSTER.
"HARVEST." Round. By ALFRED MOFFAT.
"THE SPIDER AND THE FLY." Round. By W. G. McNAUGHT.
EASY TUNE AND TIME STUDIES.
EXERCISES ON CHROMATIC PASSAGES.

ALSO, A SPECIAL MUSIC SUPPLEMENT, CONTAINING "CRUSADERS" ("DER KREUZZUG"). By SCHUBERT. (No. 376, Novello's School Songs, price 1½d.).

The Music and Exercises can always be obtained separately. Price 1½d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Bach's Music in England	585
From my Study (with Fac-similes)	587
Felix Weingartner on Conducting	590
New Lights upon Old Tunes	593
Occasional Notes	595
Facts, Rumours, and Remarks	597
Some Festival Novelties	599
The Bayreuth Festival	601
Royal Opera, Covent Garden	601
Savoy Theatre	601
The Coming Season	601
Trinity College, London	602
Concerning Church Music in the United States	602
A Century of Art at La Scala	603
Music at the Funeral of Sir John Millais	604
Augustus Harris Memorial Fund	604
Reviews	605
Foreign Notes	607
Music in Glasgow	609
„ Liverpool	609
„ Paris	609
Madrigal for Four Voices—"The Fairy Queene."—Alexandra Thomson	613
Part-Song—Songs of the River—No. 4. "Rowing Homewards."—Frederic H. Cowen (Extra Supplement).
General News (London)	609
Obituary	611
Correspondence	612
Brief Summary of Country News	621
List of Music published during the last Month	622

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.
A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in proper position Advertisements should reach the Office NOT LATER THAN THE TWENTIETH of each Month.

MISS KATE SHIELDS (Soprano, Medalist, R.A.M.)
(Of the Crystal Palace and Principal Provincial Concerts).
For terms and Press notices, apply, 137, Tweedale Street, Rochdale.

MR. WALTER CLINCH (Tenor)
(Late of St. George's Chapel, Windsor Castle).
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, Athole House, Alfred Street, Acton, W.

MR. WALTER HEAD (Baritone)
(Queen's Hall and other Concerts).
For Oratorios, Banquets, Receptions, &c., 77, Hungerford Road, N.
"A fine baritone, who gave excellent renderings of his songs."—Essex Times.

MR.
KEVERN BATTEN
(L.R.A.M., BARITONE)
For Concerts, &c., address, 9, Adelaide Road, N.W.

ST. ANNE'S, Soho.—Sunday, September 27, "Loyalty Sunday."—Anthem (Morning), Handel's Coronation Anthem, "Zadok the Priest"; Evening, Hopkins's "The King shall rejoice." Thursday, October 8, at 8 p.m., Harvest Festival, Handel's Chandos Anthem with Orchestra.

Paid TENOR WANTED, with sufficient compass for Evangelist's part in "St. John Passion." £20 per annum. Also, Volunteer. Address, E. H. Thorne, 13, Neville Terrace, South Kensington.
St. Anne's Choral and Orchestral Society. Hon. Sec., 112, Gower Street, W.C.

ST. STEPHEN'S, South Dulwich.—TENOR WANTED. Two services on Sunday. Practice on Friday and four extra services during the year. Apply, by letter only, stating stipend required and enclosing a copy of not more than three testimonials, to Charles Lawrence, Mus.B., Oxon., 29, Eardley Road, Streatham, S.W.

QUEEN'S HALL PROMENADE CONCERTS.

Conductor: Mr. HENRY J. WOOD.

AUGUST 29 to OCTOBER 9, EVERY EVENING, from 8 to 11.

Artists:
Madame FANNY MOODY.
Madame DUMA and Miss LILIAN TREE.
Madame CLARA SAMUELL.
Madame RECOSCHEWITZ and Miss MAGGIE DAVIES.
Miss EVANGELINE FLORENCE.
Madame BELLE COLE.
Madame SVETLOFFSKY and Miss MACDOUGALL.
Mr. BEN DAVIES.
Mr. LLOYD CHANDOS and Mr. HERBERT GROVER.
Mr. HIRWEN JONES.
Mr. SANTLEY.
Mr. WATKIN MILLS and Mr. FFRANGCON-DAVIES.
Mr. CHARLES MANNERS and Mr. W. A. PETERKIN.

Mr. HOWARD REYNOLDS .. Solo Cornet.
THE PARK SISTERS .. .. Cornet Quartet.

Full Orchestra. Principal Violin, Mr. ARTHUR W. PAYNE.
Season Tickets (transferable), 21s.; Admission, 1s.; Reserved Seats, 2s., 3s., 5s., at Robert Newman's Box Office, Queen's Hall, Langham Place, W.

WANTED, at once, for Ottawa, Canada, a Gentleman with a good voice to teach VOICE PRODUCTION and SINGING at a College of Music. Stipend, £120 per annum and a capitation fee; also an ALTO for Church, West-End, London. Apply, by letter, with references, to B., 57, Regent Street, W.

EDGBASTON HIGH SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, Limited.—HEAD MUSIC MISTRESS (Piano) WANTED, at Christmas. The appointment has been deferred, and applicants who have already received notices need not again apply. Apply, stating age, experience, and terms, with testimonials, to the Head Mistress, 34, Hagley Road, Birmingham, not later than September 30.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. A Gentleman (experienced) desires APPOINTMENT, in or near London. North of Thames preferred. Address, "Diapason," Maxwell and Co., 6, Wormwood Street, E.C.

NOVELLO'S

MUSIC FOR MILITARY BAND

ARRANGED BY

DAN GODFREY, JUN.,

GEORGE MILLER,

AND OTHERS.

		s.	d.
GIPSY SUITE	Edward German	15	0
THREE DANCES ("Henry VIII.") ..	Edward German	15	0
SIX SACRED PIECES	Gounod	10	6
THE REDEMPTION (Selection)	Gounod	15	0
BENEDICTUS ("Six Pieces for Violin")	A. C. Mackenzie	5	0
WEDDING MARCH	William Creser	3	6
BALLET MUSIC ("Colomba")	A. C. Mackenzie	15	0
MORS ET VITA (Selection)	Gounod	15	0
THE EMPIRE FLAG	A. C. Mackenzie	5	0
HUSARENRITT	Fritz Spindler	7	6
POLONAISE ("Life for the Czar")	Glinka	12	0
COURANTE ("Ravenswood")	A. C. Mackenzie	12	0
GAVOTTE	Rameau	4	6
ORCHESTRAL BALLAD	Stewart Macpherson	15	0
EMPEROR GAVOTTE (Cornflower)	Ch. Morley	2	6
Recent additions:—
FESTAL MARCH	G. J. Elvey	5	0
WESTWOOD GAVOTTE	Battison Haynes	5	0
SOLEMN MARCH	George Miller	3	6
MARCHE MILITAIRE	Tschaïkowsky	15	0
OVERTURE TO "RICHARD III." ..	Edward German	12	0
GRANDE VALSE ("Faust" Ballet) ..	Ernest Ford	10	6
FESTIVAL MARCH (Aennchen von Tharau)	H. Hofmann	7	6
MARCHE SOLENNELLE	Gounod	7	6
In the Press:—
FOUR ENGLISH DANCES IN THE OLDEN STYLE	F. H. Cowen
MARCH (from "St. Polycarp")	Ouseley
RUSTIC PICTURES ("Kirmess") ..	H. Hofmann
CALVARY (Selection)..	Spohr

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

WANTED, for High School in India, a fully certificated and experienced MUSIC MISTRESS. Good Violin and Pianoforte. Able to arrange Orchestral work. Apply, Miss Cooper, Registrar, Teachers' Guild, 74, Gower Street, London, W.C.

THE Committee of the Widows and Orphans Fund U.A.O. Druids will be glad to receive terms for first-class Artists for TWENTY-THIRD ANNUAL BALLAD CONCERT, for latter part of October or beginning of November. Reply, with dates at liberty, not later than September 8, to W. H. Smith, 24, Cromwell St., Hull.

TUNER WANTED. Must be a good Workman, and to one capable of introducing and working up Sales and Exchanges this vacancy offers every opportunity for a large income. Apply, T. L., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

YOUNG MAN, aged 21, seeks ENGAGEMENT as PIANO TUNER and REPAIRER. Good indoor and outdoor experience; also used to American Organs, Small Goods, &c. Apply, S. Pidgen, Stantonbury, Bucks.

SITUATION REQUIRED, as PIANO and MUSIC SALESMAN. Ten years' experience. Aged 26. Good references. Fair Pianist. Also understands Concert Agency Work. Address, W. A., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, Young Man, as COUNTER ASSISTANT. Good training and experience necessary. Apply, enclosing photo and stating salary required, to C. E. Godfrey and Co., 99, Old Christchurch Road, Bournemouth.

WANTED, an ASSISTANT (good address and appearance) for Pianoforte and Music Warehouse. Must be well up in Catalogues and small goods and good sight reader. Moderate salary. Apply, Messrs. Binfield and Co., Friar Street, Reading.

YOUNG LADY (20) desires RE-ENGAGEMENT in Music Business. Good sight reader, accompanist, &c. B., 33, Hargrave Park, N.

Just Published.

MENUET. By FELIX BOROWSKI. Arranged for the Organ, by Dr. C. W. PEARCE. Net 2s.
LAUDY and Co., 139, Oxford Street, London, W.

THE LORD'S PRAYER. Monotone on G, with Harmonies by H. TOWNSEND. 1s. net. "Dame Durden." Humorous Part-song, arranged for S.A.T.B., by H. TOWNSEND. 2d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

OLD ENGLISH SUITE

FOR FULL ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED AND DEDICATED, BY PERMISSION, TO

H.R.H. THE DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG AND GOTHA
(Duke of Edinburgh, K.G.)

BY

W. CRESER.

1. THE GREETING. 2. CONVIVIALITY.
3. MERRY DROLLERY.

Arrangement for Pianoforte Solo by the COMPOSER.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
String Parts, Four Shillings and Sixpence.
Full Score and Wind Parts, MS.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

GRANDE VALSE

FROM THE

FAUST BALLET

COMPOSED BY

ERNEST FORD.

ARRANGED FOR THE PIANOFORTE BY
I. A. DE ORELLANA.
Price Two Shillings.

ARRANGEMENT FOR MILITARY BAND
BY
GEORGE MILLER.
Price Ten Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ORGAN PRACTICE (City) 1s. per hour. Three manuals, C.O. pedals. Willis (from Minories), 2, Church Row, Aldgate, E.C.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals; independent pedals. Terms, One Shilling per hour. Specification post-free. Blennerhasset's Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, King's Cross, W.C.

ORGAN PRACTICE. Three manuals and pedals. One shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN, blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depôt, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

ORGAN for SALE. Two manuals, 13 stops, Bourdons, and pedals. Organs tuned and repaired. R. Cope, Jardin Street, Camberwell, S.E.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand) for SALE, from £20, with pedals. Instruments for Church, Chapel, and College, built on the most modern principles, at Bedwell and Sons', Cambridge Organ Works, Cambridge.

ORGANS (New and Second-hand), excellent for Church or Chapel, two manuals, modern compass and appliances, having 9, 12, 17 stops. W. E. Richardson and Sons, Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

ORGANS for SALE.—Two manuals and pedals. Full compass, 8 stops and upwards. New and second-hand. Low prices. Henry Speechly & Sons, St. Mark's Road, Dalston, N.E.

CHURCH ORGAN. 2 manuals, 4 stops on great, 5 on swell. Pedal Bourdon, 3 couplers, tremulant. College of Organist's pedals. Neat stained case. Decorated front pipes. Total number of speaking pipes, 498. Photo and specification sent on application. Half money taken and balance by arrangement. W. Beales, Organ Builder, Steam Works, Limes Road, East Croydon.

ORGANS for SALE (Second-hand) or HIRE.

1. Two-manual, 17 stops. Full compass. Pine case, with front pipes of zinc. Depth, 6 ft.; width, 9 ft. 6 in. By FLIGHT and ROBSON. £100.
3. Three-manual organ. Re-built by BISHOP. Removed from St. John's Church, Kingston-on-Thames. Price £250. Apply to H. Kendra Baker, Esq., 4, Grove Crescent, Kingston-on-Thames; or, Norman Bros. and Beard, 46, Queen Victoria Street, London, E.C.
8. Two-manual, 21 stops. Built by TELFORD, Dublin. In handsome Gothic case. Full compass. In first-rate order. £200.

For full particulars, apply to Norman Bros. and Beard, 46, Queen Victoria Street, London; and Norwich.

TWO-MANUAL and PEDAL AMERICAN ORGANS, at Bargain Prices for Cash. A 165-guinea "Bell," two manuals and pedals, for 75 guineas; a £350 three-manual and pedal "Mason and Hamlin," 31 stops, 21 sets; a £70 "Karn" Organ, with Suber's Patent Pedals, 25 guineas; a two-manual and pedal "Mason and Hamlin," 60 guineas; a two-manual "Alexandre" Harmonium, 15 guineas. Also several large Organs and Harmoniums by Bell, Smith, Estey, Karn, Alexandre, Trayser, &c., at one-third usual price. Every instrument guaranteed. Packing or carriage free. Inspection invited. Messrs. Stagg and Sons, 56, Red Lion Street, Holborn.

ORGANS for SALE or HIRE.—Two new 2-manual Organs, 30 stops and 21 stops. One nearly new, 3 manuals, 24 stops. Three second-hand 2-manual Organs, 22 stops, 14 stops, and 13 stops. Organs built to any specification, and constructed on the best principles of high-class work at low prices. Tuners sent to all parts of the kingdom. Estimates and price list sent free. A. Monk's Organ Works, 550A, Holloway Road, London.

FOR SALE.—A good 2-manual CHURCH ORGAN, 17 stops, by BRINDLEY, Sheffield. Will be taken down in December. Offers to E. Hart, 48, Heneage Street, Grimsby.

CHURCH PIPE ORGAN (set out for 2 manuals and 16 stops, second keyboard with coupler in position), fine large double-feeder bellows. Nine acting stops, including Open Diapason, Dulciana, Flute, &c.; pedals. Would lead, now, 400 persons. Good tone and serviceable. Ornamental case, decorated front pipes. £47 10s. Rare opportunity for acquiring two-manual Organ at nominal present outlay. Appointments preferred. O., 52, Hazlewood Crescent, Westbourne Park, W.

AMERICAN ORGAN, 8½ guineas. 11 stops, including the two knee-stops, and the beautiful solo stops vox celeste and vox humana, two octave couplers. Handsome high case. Ten years' warranty. Easy terms. Packing and carriage free. T. D'Almaine and Co. (Established from 110 to 111 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, E.C. Open till 7; Saturdays, 3.

AMERICAN ORGAN, by WOODS. Two manuals, 18 stops, 2¼ octaves pedals, hand and foot-blowers, knee and foot-swells. Excellent condition. Suitable for Church use. £40. Address, N. T., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGAN for SALE.—Fine-toned modern Two-manual CHURCH ORGAN, containing 19 stops and couplers, full composition pedals and all the latest improvements. Full particulars on application. Fincham's Organ Factory, 150, Euston Road, London.

TO ORGAN STUDENTS.—For SALE or EXCHANGE, a splendid oblique GRAND PIANOFORTE, with Organ Pedals, by RALPH ALLISON (equal to new). A bargain. Rogers and Co., Music Dealers, 124, Goldhawk Road, Shepherd's Bush, W.

PIANOFORTE.—110-guinea BLÜTHNER Grand; nearly new. Moderate price. G. Luard, Ryde.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easy to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus, with full description and price lists, on application to Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

HARPSICHORD.—Fine old Instrument, by KIRKMAN, in perfect working order, £40. Harp, double-action, ERAT. Perfect order. £25. Morley, Harp Maker, South Kensington Station.

PIANO, 12½ guineas. Solid iron frame, trichord, full compass, celeste action, in handsome walnut case. Ten years' warranty. Easy terms; approval; carriage free. D'Almaine (Established from 110 to 111 years), 91, Finsbury Pavement, City. Open till 7; Saturdays, 3.

VIOLIN STRINGS.—Send 9d. for samples of four best "E" Strings. Alphonse Cary, 3, Oxford Circus Avenue, London, W.

Awarded Medal of Honour at the International Inventions Exhibition London, 1885.

THE ONLY AWARD.

RUMMENS'
Organ Pedal Attachment

FOR PIANOFORTES.

DETACHABLE PEDAL BOARD.
EQUAL TO ORGAN PRACTICE.

Testimonials from all the Chief Organists of the day.
Write for particulars to

H. J. RUMMENS,
47, CHURCH ROAD, BRIXTON, S.W.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,
Organ Builders,
SPRINGWOOD WORKS,
HUDDERSFIELD.
TWO GOLD MEDALS.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,
ORGAN BUILDERS,
PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.
(ESTABLISHED 1841.)
Specifications and Estimates sent free.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications. Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. R. Willis (from Minories), 2, Church Row, Aldgate, London, E.C.

HYDRAULIC ENGINES for Organ Blowing. Blennerhasset's Patent "Perfect" Prize Medal Engines are the best. 1B, Vernon Street, King's Cross Road, London, W.C.

T. R. WILLIS (from Minories, est. 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Strings, Wire, Violins, Concertinas, &c. 2, Church Row, Aldgate, E.C.

CASSOCKS.—500 new Tailor-made, Black, Red, Violet, Blue, 9s. to 20s.; SURPLICES, from 3s. to 12s. "Surplice," The Church Agency, Limited, Lombard House, E.C.

Now Ready. On the 1st of each Month. 228 Cols. 2d.; Post-free, 3½d.
MUSICAL OPINION and MUSIC TRADE REVIEW. 150 Holborn Bars, E.C.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights, Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, and PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.
London: B. WILLIAMS, 19, Ivy Lane, Paternoster Row, E.C.

THE BRISTOL TUNE BOOK
COMPLETE EDITION, 1891,
CONTAINING
905 TUNES AND CHANTS.

A COMPANION TO ALL HYMN BOOKS.

		s.	d.
No. 17.	Limp Cloth	5	0
,, 18.	Cloth Boards, red edges	6	0
,, 19.	Small Edition	3	6
,, 20.	Tonic Sol-fa	3	6

Communications and enquiries as to copyright, and also as to supplying at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Bristol Publishers.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Bristol: W. and F. MORGAN, Clare Street.
And all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

TO BE PUBLISHED EARLY IN OCTOBER.

THE CHILDREN'S SUPPLEMENT
BEING A
COLLECTION OF HYMNS WITH TUNES
FOR CHILDREN'S SERVICES
EDITED BY
THE REV. EDWARD HANDLEY, M.A.

Besides New Hymns by eminent writers many old favourites, not found in the Hymnals most in use, will be included.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.
THE TUNE BOOK, with the additional Tunes as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Fifth Edition.
THE Sacred Cantata "JONAH." 21 Nos. By Dr. J. VARLEY ROBERTS. Vocal score, 2s. (Reduced Price); Chorus Parts, 8d. each; Tonic Sol-fa (Choruses only), 1s.; Full Orchestral Parts: Strings, 6s.; Soft Wind, 6s.; Brass, &c., 4s. 6d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F. By JOHN E. CAMPBELL, A.R.C.O.. &c. Price 4d. "Very cleverly worked out."—J. H. ADAMS, A.R.C.O. "I think it your best."—H. RIDING, F.R.C.O. "It is capital."—Dr. E. J. BELLERBY. "A singable and useful service."—WM. FAULKES. Copies from COMPOSER, at 22, Vicarage Street, Hollinwood, Oldham.

Fourth Thousand.
MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat, by WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Third Thousand.
TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in G. By ALFRED J. DYE. Price 4d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEMS, &c.
BY CALEB SIMPER.

Interesting, attractive, popular, easy, melodious, and effective.

*HIS WORKS OF LOVE. New. 6th 1,000. Band Parts issued .. 4d.
*THE EYES OF ALL WAIT UPON THEE. New. 6th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
*HIS NAME IS EXCELLENT. 5th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
The above are three New Harvest Anthems, all extremely interesting and melodious.
*THE EARTH IS FULL OF THY RICHES. New. 9th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Brilliant Choruses and effective Solos.
*THOU OPENEST THINE HAND. 14th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Very attractive and pleasing. Contains vigorous Choruses, with Solos for Bass and Soprano (or Tenor). Band Parts issued.
*PRAISE THY GOD, O ZION. 8th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
Easy, varied, short, melodious, and pretty.
*HE WATERETH THE HILLS. 19th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
An exceedingly favourite Anthem. Band Parts issued.
*WHILE THE EARTH REMAINETH. 12th 1,000.. .. .. .. 3d.
*ALL THY WORKS PRAISE THEE. 14th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
*LET US THANK THE LORD. 8th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
*I WILL FEED MY FLOCK. 39th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Sung at a Choral Festival at Woodstock.
*WHAT SHALL I RENDER. 10th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Sung at a Choral Festival at Llandrindod Wells.
THE EARTH IS THE LORD'S. 11th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
*FEAR NOT, O LAND. 35th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
*PRAISE THE LORD, O MY SOUL. 28th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
Sung at several Choral Festivals.
*THE LORD IS LOVING. 17th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
MAKE A JOYFUL NOISE. 28th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
Sung at several Choral Festivals.
*O LORD, HOW MANIFOLD. 18th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
THEY THAT SOW IN TEARS. 20th Edition .. .. 3d.
*AND GOD SAID, LET THE EARTH. 77th Edition .. .. .. 3d.
TE DEUM in G. 13th Edit. 4d. TE DEUM in F. 31st Edit.. 3d.
NEW FESTAL MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in B flat .. 4d.
CELEBRATED MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in F. 71st Edit. 4d.
Sung at fourteen Choral Festivals.
FAVOURITE MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIM., in E flat. 26th Edit. 4d.
Sung at two Choral Festivals.
NEW MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in G. 10th Edition .. 4d.
EASY HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE in E flat. 13th 1,000 .. 4d.
*EASY HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE in G. New. 4th 1,000 .. 4d.
EASY HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE in F. 10th Edition.. .. 6d.
Each Service is complete, with Agnus Dei and Benedictus.
FESTAL TE DEUM in A flat (Chants). 7th 1,000 .. .. .. 2d.
*TRUST IN HIM ALWAYS. New. 5th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
*THEY SHALL MOUNT UP WITH WINGS AS EAGLES. 11th 1,000.. 4d.
"Full, free, extremely pleasing, and effective. It is just the kind of music choirs revel in."—West Cumberland Times.
NEW TE DEUM in E flat (Service). 6th Edition .. .. 3d.
NEW JUBILATE in E flat (Service). 4th Edition .. .. .. 3d.
FAVOURITE FLOWER SERVICE. Music, 2d. Words, 3s. 6d. per 100. 31st 1,000. Containing six pretty Hymns.
*ANNIVERSARY SELECTION. Music, 2d. Words, 3s. 6d. per 100. 20th 1,000. Contains seven pretty Hymns.
NEW No. 3 FLOWER SERVICE. Music, 2d. Words, 3s. 6d. per 100.

NEW HARVEST CAROLS.

Price 1d. each. Nos. 7 to 12 are just published.

1. Come, ye thankful.
2. We thank Thee.
3. Wheat and barley.
4. Seedtime and harvest.
5. Glad Harvest-tide.
6. Hail! harvest's King.
7. Joyful praise is ringing.
8. His mercies still endure.
9. Harvest thanksgiving.
10. Golden sheaves.
11. His faithful promise.
12. Give thanks and sing.

Those marked (*) are also published in Tonic Sol-fa.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.
Chicago, U.S.A.: CLAYTON F. SUMMY, 220, Wabash Avenue.

EDWYN A. CLARE'S
NEW HARVEST ANTHEMS, &c.

These compositions are very effective and not difficult.

HOW GREAT IS HIS GOODNESS. 6th 1,000. New .. 3d.
For Parish Choirs, easy and effective.
FEAR NOT, O LAND. 5th 1,000. New and pretty .. .. .. 3d.
*THOU CROWNEST THE YEAR. 6th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
SING UNTO GOD WITH THANKSGIVING. 10th 1,000.. .. .. 4d.
Varied, effective, and pleasing for the Choir.
*THE EYES OF ALL WAIT UPON THEE. 24th 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.
Sung by 1,500 voices at Newcastle-on-Tyne.
PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. 16th 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.
Sung by 400 voices at Doncaster.
O LORD, HOW MANIFOLD ARE THY WORKS. 4th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
*THE LORD REIGNETH. 5th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in D. 8th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Sung at a Festival at Petersham, New South Wales.
Those marked (*) are also published in Tonic Sol-fa.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

POPULAR HARVEST ANTHEMS

BY

E. A. SYDENHAM.

FULL, EASY, EFFECTIVE.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.

O GIVE THANKS.
SING UNTO THE LORD.
GREAT IS THE LORD.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HARVEST ANTHEMS.

O CLAP YOUR HANDS

FOR FOUR VOICES

With Solo for Treble or Tenor.

Price Fourpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.

ALSO,

BLESSED BE THOU

FOR FOUR VOICES

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

HARVEST HYMNS.

COME, YE THANKFUL

AND

SING TO THE LORD

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D.

One Penny each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HARVEST MUSIC

BY

J. H. MAUNDER

IN USE IN ALL PARTS OF THE UNITED KINGDOM AND THE COLONIES.

ANTHEMS.	Staff.	Tonic Sol-fa.
While the earth remaineth	3d.	2d.
Sing to the Lord of Harvest	3d.	2d.
Sing unto the Lord (abridged edition). Difficult	3d.
Blessed be the name of the Lord. (Just published)	3d.	2d.
SERVICES, &c.
Te Deum in Chant Form	3d.	2d.
Te Deum in B flat	3d.	2d.
Communion Service in G	8d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C	3d.	1½d.
" " in D	3d.
" " in G. (Just published)	3d.

ORGAN.

Voix Seraphique. (Just published.) For Organ Recitals, &c., 2s.

Specimens of Anthems and Services from the COMPOSER, San Remo, Bromley, Kent.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

8vo, Threepence.

THE HARVEST TRULY IS GREAT

Short, Full Anthem for Harvest

COMPOSED BY

W. W. PEARSON.

"A capital full anthem, which might well be taken as a model for this class of writing. Short, easy, and effective, it is throughout a dignified and musicianly setting."—Schoolmaster.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now Ready.

ACCESSION ANTHEM

FOR CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA

BY

FREDERICK WESTLAKE.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO'S

WORDS OF ANTHEMS

FOR

HARVEST

PART I., Nos. 1-28.

PART II., Nos. 29-57.

Price One Penny each part.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

How excellent is Thy loving-kindness

ANTHEM FOR HARVEST

FOR TENOR SOLO AND CHORUS

FROM THE ORATORIO

"RUTH"

COMPOSED BY

F. H. COWEN.

Price Sixpence.

London and New York NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Suitable for Choir Festivals.

PRAISE THE LORD

ANTHEM

Composed, by request, for the Annual Festival in aid of the Burnley Victoria Hospital, 1896

BY

W. A. C. CRUICKSHANK,
Mus. Bac., Oxon.

Price Fourpence.

Full Score and Band Parts may be hired from the COMPOSER.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ANTHEMS

FOR

ST. MICHAEL AND ALL ANGELS.

		s.	d.
For He shall give His angels	Mendelssohn	0	2
*Holy, Holy, Holy is God the Lord	Mendelssohn	0	2
*Let all the angels of God	Handel	0	1
*Let their celestial concerts all unite	Handel	0	1½
*O praise the Lord, all ye His angels	J. Barnby	0	4
Vocal score, folio, 1s. 6d.; vocal parts, 1s.
Do. do. (shorter form)	J. Barnby	0	3
O praise the Lord of Heaven	G. J. Elvey	2	0
Vocal parts, 1s. 3d.
*O praise the Lord of Heaven	Goss	0	6
Vocal Score, folio, 2s.; vocal parts, 1s.
O praise the Lord, ye angels of His	W. G. Wood	0	4
*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	Scott	0	1½
Vocal Score, 9d.; vocal parts, 6d.
Praise the Lord, O my soul	Croft	2	3
Vocal parts, 1s. 1½d.
O praise the Lord, ye angels	Handel	2	6
Chorus parts, 1s.
The Angel of the Lord	A. Gray	0	1½
There was war in heaven	W. A. C. Cruickshank	0	3
*Therefore with angels and archangels	Novello	0	2
Vocal score, 9d.; vocal parts, 6d.
*With angels and archangels	J. L. Hopkins	0	3
Vocal score, 1s.; vocal parts, 1s.
*To Thee, Cherubin and Seraphin	Handel	0	1½
Ye boundless realms of joy / Your voices raise	Handel	0	3

* Also published in Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE ANTIPHONAL CHANT BOOK

24s. a doz. Copies: NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.
2s. 3d. each of Rev. H. J. POOLE, Stowell Rectory, Sherborne.

"Ought to be in the hands of every Choirmaster in the kingdom. . . . Mr. Poole has performed his editorial task right well."—Organist and Choirmaster.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Creation." 1s. each book.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO'S HARVEST ANTHEMS

JUST PUBLISHED.

SING TO THE LORD

COMPOSED BY

JOSEPH BARNBY.

(Novello's Octavo Anthems, No. 542.) Price 4d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

LET US NOW FEAR THE LORD OUR GOD

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

(Musical Times, No. 641.)

Price Three-Halfpence. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THOU VISITEST THE EARTH

COMPOSED BY

J. W. ELLIOTT.

(Novello's Octavo Anthems, No. 549.)

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

JOY IN HARVEST

COMPOSED BY

BRUCE STEANE.

(Novello's Octavo Anthems, No. 548.)

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

THE EYES OF ALL WAIT ON THEE

COMPOSED BY

GEORGE J. ELVEY.

(Novello's Octavo Anthems, No. 547.)

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

O SING UNTO THE LORD

COMPOSED BY

W. A. C. CRUICKSHANK.

(Novello's Octavo Anthems, No. 551.)

Price Fourpence.

SING WE MERRILY

COMPOSED BY

F. A. W. DOCKER.

(Novello's Octavo Anthems, No. 532.)

Price Fourpence. Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.

COMPLETE LIST.

*Achieved is the glorious work	Haydn	1½d.
All Thy works praise Thee	J. Barnby	4d.
All Thy works praise Thee	J. Kent	4d.
All Thy works praise Thee	E. H. Thorne	3d.
*All Thy works shall praise Thee	George H. Ely	4d.
Bless thou the Lord	Oliver King	3d.
*Blessed be the name of the Lord	H. Gadsby	1½d.
Blessed be Thou, Lord God	J. Kent	4d.
*Break forth into joy	Oliver King	1½d.
Bring unto the Lord, O ye mighty	F. E. Gladstone	3d.
*Fear not, O land, be glad and rejoice	J. Goss	6d.
*Fear not, O land	C. H. Lloyd	1½d.
*Fear not, O land	C. W. Jordan	6d.
Give thanks unto God	Spohr	4d.
*God said, Behold I have given you every herb	G. A. Macfarren	4d.
*Great is the Lord	Bruce Steane	3d.
*Great and marvellous are Thy works	J. F. Bridge	4d.
He in tears that soweth	F. Hiller	1½d.
*Honour the Lord with thy substance	J. Stainer	4d.
How excellent is Thy loving-kindness	F. H. Cowen	6d.
*I will alway give thanks	J. Baptiste Calkin	1½d.
I will extol Thee	C. M. Hudson	4d.
*I will feed My flock	J. F. Bridge	1½d.
I will give thanks unto Thee	E. J. Hopkins	6d.
*I will give thanks unto Thee	J. Barnby	4d.
I will greatly rejoice in the Lord	W. A. C. Cruickshank	4d.
*I will magnify Thee	J. B. Calkin	4d.
I will magnify Thee	J. Shaw	3d.
*I will magnify Thee	J. Goss	3d.
I will magnify Thee	Oliver King	4d.
*I will open rivers in high places	Edgar Pettman	3d.
I will sing a new song	P. Armes	8d.
*Joy in Harvest	Bruce Steane	3d.
*Let us now fear the Lord our God	John E. West	1½d.
*Lo! summer comes again	J. Stainer	6d.
*Lord of the Harvest	J. Barnby	4d.
Lord of the rich and golden grain (Harvest Hymn)	F. Tozer	2d.
Man goeth forth	Arthur Carnall	3d.
*My mouth shall speak the praise	J. E. West	4d.
*O come let us sing to the Lord	B. Tours	1½d.
*O give thanks	Bruce Steane	3d.
O give thanks	W. Tucker	1½d.
*O God, who is like unto Thee	Myles B. Foster	1½d.
*O how plentiful is Thy goodness	T. M. Pattison	3d.
*O Lord, how manifold are Thy works	J. Barnby	1½d.
*O Lord, how manifold are Thy works	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
O praise God in His holiness	Hugh Blair	1½d.
*O praise God in His holiness	J. Weldon	1½d.
O praise the Lord	Mozart	1½d.
O praise the Lord	W. G. Wood	4d.
*O praise the Lord, all ye heathen	Earl of Wilton	1½d.
*O praise the Lord of Heaven	J. Goss	6d.
O pray for the peace of Jerusalem	Dr. B. Rogers	1½d.
O sing unto the Lord	W. A. C. Cruickshank	4d.
O sing unto the Lord	T. Palmer	4d.
*O taste and see	J. Goss	3d.
*O taste and see	A. S. Sullivan	1½d.
Our God is Lord of the harvest	Emma Mundella	3d.
O worship the King	E. V. Hall	4d.
*Praise, my soul, the King of Heaven	E. V. Hall	3d.
*Praise, O praise our God and King	E. V. Hall	1½d.
*Praise the Lord	G. J. Elvey	4d.
Praise the Lord	Julius Benedict	8d.
*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	W. H. Bliss	3d.
*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	E. V. Hall	4d.
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	W. Hayes	4d.
*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	J. Scott	1½d.
*Praise the Lord, O my soul	H. Lahee	1½d.
Praise the Lord, O my soul	T. P. Royle	3d.
Praise the Lord, O my soul	J. W. Elliott	3d.
*Praise ye the Lord for His goodness	G. Garrett	1½d.
Praised be the Lord	C. Steggall	1/-
Praised be the Lord daily	T. Ebdon	1½d.
*Rejoice in the Lord	B. Tours	1½d.
Rejoice, O ye righteous	J. Rheinberger	3d.
*Sing praises to God	H. W. Wareing	1½d.
*Sing to the Lord	J. Barnby	4d.
*Sing we merrily	F. A. W. Docker	4d.
Sing we merrily	E. V. Hall	4d.
The earth is the Lord's	T. T. Trimnell	4d.
*The eyes of all wait on Thee	George J. Elvey	3d.
The eyes of all wait upon Thee	Thomas Adams	3d.
*The eyes of all wait upon Thee	A. R. Gaul	1½d.
The eyes of all wait upon Thee	O. Gibbons	4d.
The fostering earth, the genial showers	J. L. Hopkins	3d.
*The harvest-tide thanksgiving (Words, 1/6 per 100)	J. Barnby	1½d.
The Lord hath been mindful of us	E. T. Chipp	3d.
*The Lord hath been mindful of us	S. S. Wesley	3d.
*The Lord hath done great things	H. Smart	4d.
*The Lord is loving unto every man	G. Garrett	3d.
The Lord is loving unto every man	A. W. Batson	3d.
Thou art worthy, O Lord	F. E. Gladstone	4d.
*Thou crownest the year with Thy goodness	Josiah Booth	1½d.
Thou, O God, art praised in Zion	E. V. Hall	3d.
*Thou visitest the earth	J. Barnby	4d.
Thou visitest the earth	J. Baptiste Calkin	4d.
*Thou visitest the earth	W. H. Callcott	2d.
*Thou visitest the earth	J. W. Elliott	3d.
*Thou visitest the earth	M. Greene	1½d.
To Thee, O Lord	C. L. Williams	3d.
While the earth remaineth	C. Swinnerton Heap	4d.
*While the earth remaineth	B. Tours	1½d.
While the earth remaineth	C. Lee Williams	3d.
*Ye shall dwell in the land (Trio, S.S.A.)	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Ye shall dwell in the land. S.A.T.B.	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Ye shall go out with joy	J. Barnby	4d.

 Also published in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 4d. each.*

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

HARVEST CANTATAS, HYMNS, &c.

HARVEST SONG OF PRAISE
By C. LEE WILLIAMS.
For Soprano and Contralto Soli and Chorus.
Price One Shilling and Sixpence; Words, 5s. per 100.
Orchestral Parts can be hired.

SEED-TIME AND HARVEST
By JOHN E. WEST.
For Soprano and Tenor Soli and Chorus.
Price 2s.; Words, 5s. per 100, or 2d. each with Music to the Hymns.
Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.

HARVEST CANTATA
By GEORGE GARRETT.
For Chorus, Semi-Chorus, and Organ.
Price 1s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 6d.; Words, 5s. per 100, or 2d. each with Music to the Hymns. Orchestral Parts may be hired.

HARVEST-TIDE
By HUGH BLAIR.
For Tenor and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Organ or Small Orchestra.
Price One Shilling.

THE JUBILEE CANTATA
By C. M. VON WEBER.
Vocal Score, 1s.; Full Score, 21s.; Orchestral Parts, 15s.; Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

THE GLEANERS' HARVEST
By C. H. LLOYD.
Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

TWELVE HYMNS FOR HARVEST
Selected from The Hymnary.
Price One Penny.

SOWING AND REAPING
Harvest Carol by J. MAUDE CRAMENT.
Price 2d.; Words only, 1s. per 100.

CHORUS AND DANCES OF REAPERS AND GLEANERS
By F. H. COWEN.
From the Oratorio "Ruth."
Price Eightpence.

THE LAST LOAD
Four-part Song by J. HAMILTON CLARKE.
Price Threepence.

THE HARVEST FEAST
Four-part Song by A. R. GAUL.
Price 3d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.

THE HARVEST DANCE
Two-part Song by MYLES B. FOSTER.
Price Three-Halfpence.

HARVEST THANKSGIVING MARCH
By J. B. CALKIN.
For the Organ.
Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE SOWER WENT FORTH SOWING
Hymn for Harvest by J. BARNBY.
Price Three-Halfpence.

MAKE MELODY WITHIN YOUR HEARTS
Harvest Carol by F. A. J. HERVEY.
Price Twopence.

HE THAT SOWETH
Offertory Sentence (with Processional Hymn)
By C. WARWICK JORDAN.
Price Threepence.

Demy 8vo, Price 6d.

A

HARVEST FESTIVAL BOOK

CONTAINING

TALLIS'S PRECES AND RESPONSES
THE CANTICLES AND SPECIAL PSALMS

POINTED FOR CHANTING

AND SET TO NEW AND APPROPRIATE CHANTS BY

SIR J. BARNBY, MYLES B. FOSTER, SIR A. C. MACKENZIE, SIR J. STAINER, AND OTHERS.

TOGETHER WITH

FOUR NEW HYMN TUNES

COMPOSED EXPRESSLY BY

SIR J. BARNBY, SIR J. STAINER, AND J. E. WEST.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

FOR HARVEST AND OTHER FESTIVALS.

SETTINGS

OF THE

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis

WITH

ACCOMPANIMENTS FOR ORGAN

AND ORCHESTRA.

	s.	d.
Alsop, J. R. In E	0	4
Barnby, J. In E flat	0	8
Bennett, G. J. In A	0	6
Bennett, G. J. In B flat (Magnificat only)	0	4
Bridge, J. C. In C	0	6
Bridge, J. F. In G	0	6
Calkin, J. Baptiste. In G	0	6
Colborne, Langdon. In B flat (String Parts, 3s.; Wind Parts, 2s.)	1	0
Faning, Eaton. In C	0	6
Foster, M. B. In A	0	6
Garrett, G. M. In F	0	6
Gadsby, Henry. In C	0	6
Lloyd, C. H. In F	0	6
Mann, A. H. In E	1	0
Martin, George C. In C	0	6
Martin, George C. In G	0	6
Martin, George C. In A	0	6
Martin, George C. In B flat	0	6
Smart, Henry. In B flat	0	6
Stainer, J. In A	0	6
Stainer, J. In B flat	0	6
Stanford, C. Villiers. In A	0	6
Steggall, C. In C	0	6
Tours, Berthold. In F (String Parts, 2s.; Wind Parts, 4s. 6d.)	0	4
Tours, Berthold. In D	0	6
Williams, C. L. In C	0	6
Williams, C. L. In F major	0	4

The above may also be performed either with Strings and Organ Accompaniment or with Organ only, when necessary.

FESTIVAL SETTINGS

OF THE

CANTATE AND DEUS

WITH ACCOMPANIMENTS FOR ORGAN & ORCHESTRA.

	s.	d.
Attwood, T. In D. Folio	3	0
Vocal Parts	2	6
Steggall, C. In C. 8vo	0	6

Where no prices of Orchestral Parts are given they are in MS., and can only be had on hire.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MESSRS. NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

HAVE THE HONOUR TO ANNOUNCE THAT THEY HAVE ACQUIRED THE COPYRIGHT OF THE FOLLOWING COMPOSITIONS OF THE LATE

SIR GEORGE J. ELVEY

FESTAL MARCH

COMPOSED FOR THE MARRIAGE OF

H.R.H. THE PRINCESS LOUISE WITH THE MARQUIS OF LORNE.

	s.	d.
Pianoforte Solo	2	0
Organ Arrangement (by C. HANCOCK)	1	6
Military Band Arrangement (by J. WATERSON)	5	0
String Parts	2	0
Wind Parts and Full Score, MS.

	s.	d.
Introduction and Gavotte. For Violin and Pianoforte	2	0
Gavotte à la mode ancienne. For Pianoforte	1	6
Christmas Bells. Impromptu. For Organ or Pianoforte (Played at the Wedding of H.R.H. The Duke of Albany.)	0	9
Cantate Domino and Deus misereatur (in D)	1	0
The souls of the righteous. Anthem (S.A.T.B.)	0	3
Hark! those voices sweetly blending. Motet. For Four Voices, with distant choir	0	6
Vocal parts	1	0
Thirty Cathedral Chants	0	3
Victoria. An Ode. For Four-part Chorus, with Pianoforte accompaniment	1	0
Britannia rules o'er land and sea. A Patriotic Song, with Chorus (S.A.T.B.)	0	3
An Ode to the North-West wind. Choral Song (S.A.T.B.)	1	0
From yonder rustling mountains. A Glee. For A.T.B.B.	1	0
Softly, softly blow the breezes. Part-Song. For S.A.T.B.	1	0

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

SERVICES.

Two Settings of the Venite (in Chant Form). No. 1 (in G), No. 2 (in A)	2d.
Te Deum in E	3d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E	3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E	3d.
Cantate and Deus in E	3d.
Communion Service	9d.
Preces and Responses	4d.
Tonic Sol-fa.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F	1½d.
" " " A	1½d.
" " " E	1½d.

ANTHEMS.

The Lord hath prepared. Four Voices	3d.
The Lord is my Shepherd " "	3d.
I was glad. Four Voices	3d.
" Tonic Sol-fa	2d.

TWO NEW SONGS.—Just Published.

"Market Day" (Mezzo-Soprano)	net	2s.
"A toi, Marie" (Mezzo-Soprano)	"	2s.

SONG—"By the wayside" (Soprano), with Violin Obbligato and Organ or Harmonium	net	2s.
"The Last Prayer" (Contralto)	"	2s.

ORGAN.

Twelve Short Easy Pieces	net	2s. od.
Three Short Andantes	"	2s. od.
Minuetto	"	1s. 6d.
Ave Maria	"	1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ANTHEMS

FOR

TRINITYTIDE.

Almighty and everlasting God .. Gibbons	1½d.
Ascribe unto the Lord .. S. S. Wesley	8d.
Beloved, if God so loved us .. J. Barnby	1½d.
Beloved, let us love one another .. Gerard F. Cobb	1½d.
*Blessed is the man .. John Goss	4d.
Blessing and glory .. Boyce	1½d.
Blessing, glory .. Bach	6d.
*God came from Teman .. C. Steggall	4d.
*God so loved the world .. Matthew Kingston	1½d.
Grant, O Lord .. Mozart	1½d.
*Holy, holy, holy .. Crotch	3d.
How goodly are Thy tents .. F. Ouseley	1½d.
How lovely are Thy dwellings .. Spohr	1½d.
I am Alpha and Omega .. J. Stainer	1½d.
I am Alpha and Omega .. J. Varley Roberts	3d.
I beheld, and lo! .. Blow	6d.
I know that the Lord is great .. F. Ouseley	1d.
*In humble faith .. G. Garrett	1d.
*In Jewry is God known .. J. Clarke-Whitfeld	1½d.
In sweet consent .. E. H. Thorne	3½d.
In the fear of the Lord .. J. V. Roberts	3½d.
I saw the Lord .. J. Stainer	6d.
I will magnify .. J. Shaw	3d.
*I will sing of Thy power .. Greene	4d.
I will sing of Thy power .. A. Sullivan	1½d.
I will sing unto the Lord .. H. Wareing	3d.
Let the peace of God .. J. Stainer	4d.
*Lord, we pray Thee .. J. V. Roberts	1½d.
O Father blest .. J. Barnby	3d.
O Lord, my trust .. King Hall	1½d.
*O taste and see .. J. Goss	3d.
*O taste and see .. A. Sullivan	1½d.
O taste and see .. A. H. Mann	3d.
O where shall wisdom be found? .. Boyce	6d.
Ponder my words, O Lord .. Arnold D. Culley	1½d.
*Praise His awful Name .. Spohr	2d.
Rejoice in the Lord .. G. C. Martin	6d.
*See what love hath the Father .. Mendelssohn	1d.
Sing to the Lord .. Mendelssohn	8d.
*Stand up and bless .. J. Goss	4d.
Teach me Thy way .. W. H. Gladstone	1½d.
*The Lord hath been mindful .. S. S. Wesley	3d.
*The Lord is my Shepherd .. G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
The Lord is my Shepherd .. J. Shaw	3d.
The Lord will comfort Zion .. H. Hiles	6d.
Thou shalt shew me the path of life .. Alan Gray	1½d.
Whatsoever is born of God .. H. Oakeley	3d.
Who can comprehend Thee .. Mozart	3d.

 Anthems marked thus (*) may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 2d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ARGRAFFIAD NEWYDD.

LLYFR

ANTHEMAU NOVELLO

DETHOLEDIG

O WEITHIAU Y PRIF GYFANSODDWYR

HEN A DIWEDDAR

WEDI EU CYFADDASU I

EIRIAU CYMRAEG

O DAN OLYGIAETH

JOHN H. ROBERTS

Mus. Bac., Cantab.

HEN NODIANT { PRIS PUM SWLLT. (Price Five Shillings.)

SOL-FFA { PRIS DAU SWLLT A CHWECHEINIOG. (Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.)

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

THE CHURCH CATECHISM

IN METRICAL FORM, FOR SINGING AS HYMNS

BY THE

RIGHT REV. BISHOP JENNER & AMABEL JENNER.

Price 1d. each; in Packets of 50, 3s. 6d.

Edition with Music by MYLES B. FOSTER. Price 3d.

ALSO,

FAITH DUTY AND PRAYER

An Abridged Version of above

BEING VERSES ON THESE ELEMENTARY CHRISTIAN VIRTUES

FOR THE USE OF

CHILDREN IN SCHOOL, AT WORSHIP, OR IN THE HOME.

Price 1d. each; in Packets of 50, 3s. 6d.

Edition with Music by MYLES B. FOSTER. Price 2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

IF FAR BEYOND THE SHADOW AND THE SLEEP

BY A. C. SWINBURNE

SET TO MUSIC BY

WILLIAM S. HANNAM.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

WORKS

FOR

CHORAL SOCIETIES AND CHOIRS.

	s.	d.
THE SILVER STAR. Cantata. Ladies' voices	1	6
THE LORD IS MY SHEPHERD. 8vo	0	8
BY THE WATERS OF BABYLON. 8vo	1	0
Both for Chorus, without Soloists.
EVENTIDE. Part-Song. 8vo..	0	2

By N. KILBURN, Mus. B., Cantab.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

SEVEN

OF THE

GREATER ANTIPHONS

FOR USE AT

SPECIAL ADVENT SERVICES

(SUITABLE HYMNS OR SHORT ADDRESSES MAY BE INTRODUCED BETWEEN EACH)

Or, separately:—

O SAPIENTIA..	O WISDOM.
O ADONAI	O LORD AND RULER.
O RADIX JESSE	O ROOT OF JESSE.
O CLAVIS DAVID	O KEY OF DAVID.
O ORIENS	O DAYSPRING.
O REX GENTIUM	O KING AND DESIRE.
O EMMANUEL	O EMMANUEL.

(O VIRGO VIRGINUM is omitted)

SET TO MUSIC BY

J. STAINER.

Price Ninepence; or, separately, Three-Halfpence each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

TRANSPOSED EDITION, IN G, FOR SOPRANO OR TENOR

(Original Key, E flat)

LEAD, KINDLY LIGHT

SACRED SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

CARDINAL NEWMAN

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

D. PUGHE-EVANS.

Price Two Shillings net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Will be Published immediately.

A NEW OCTAVO EDITION OF

THE MORNING AND EVENING SERVICE

Together with the Office for the Holy Communion

SET TO MUSIC IN THE KEY OF E, BY

S. S. WESLEY, MUS.D.

EDITED, WITH A PREFACE, BY

GEORGE GARRETT, M.A., MUS.D.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence; or, singly:—

No. 1.	Te Deum laudamus	6d.
„ 2.	Jubilate Deo	6d.
„ 3.	Kyrie Eleison (1 and 2). 4. Nicene Creed. 5. Sanctus. 6. Gloria in Excelsis	1s.
„ 7.	Magnificat. 8. Nunc dimittis	8d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

WEBSTER'S

GROUNDWORK OF MUSIC. BOOK I.

4th Edition. 1s.; Key, 1s. 6d.

WEBSTER'S

GROUNDWORK OF MUSIC. BOOK II.

3rd Edition. 1s.; Key, 1s. 6d.

WEBSTER'S

CHILD'S PRIMER OF THE THEORY OF MUSIC.

3rd Edition. 1s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

ORATORIOS, CANTATAS, &c.,

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

	s.	d.
Arnott, A. D.—Young Lochinvar	1	6
—— The Ballad of Carmilhan (Sol-fa, 1s. 6d.) ...	2	6
Armes, P.—St. Barnabas	2	0
Betjemann, G. J.—The Song of the Western Men	1	0
Boyce, Ethel M.—The Lay of the Brown Rosary	1	6
—— Young Lochinvar	1	6
Bridge, J. F.—The Lord's Prayer (Sol-fa, 6d.) ...	1	0
—— Rock of Ages (Latin and English words) (Sol-fa, 4d.) ...	1	0
—— Callirhoë (Sol-fa, 1s. 6d.) ... ... (Paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.)	2	6
—— The Repentance of Nineveh ... ... (Paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.)	2	6
Buck, Dudley.—The Light of Asia ... ... (Paper boards, 3s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 5s.)	3	0
Corder, F.—The Bridal of Triermain (Sol-fa, 1s.)	2	6
Coward, H.—The Story of Bethany (Sol-fa, 1s. 6d.) (Paper boards, 3s.)	2	6
Cowen, F. H.—Sleeping Beauty (Sol-fa, 1s. 6d.) ... (Paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.)	2	6
—— St. John's Eve (Sol-fa, 1s. 6d.) ... ... (Paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.)	2	6
—— Ruth (Sol-fa, 1s. 6d.) ... ... (Paper boards, 4s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 6s.)	4	0
—— A Song of Thanksgiving	1	0
—— The Waterlily	2	6
Davies, H. Walford.—Hervé Riel	1	0
Dvořák, Antonín.—Mass in D	2	6
—— Requiem Mass ... ... (Paper boards, 6s.; cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d.)	5	0
—— The Spectre's Bride ... ... (Paper boards, 3s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 5s.)	3	0
—— A Patriotic Hymn	1	6
Edwards, H. J.—Praise to the Holiest	1	6
Elgar, E.—The Black Knight	2	0
Ellicott, Rosalind Frances.—The Birth of Song...	1	6
—— Elysium	1	0
Garrett, G.—Harvest Cantata (Sol-fa, 6d.) ...	1	0
Gounod, Charles.—The Redemption (Sol-fa, 2s.)... (Paper boards, 6s.; cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d.)	5	0
—— Ditto (French Words)	8	4
—— Ditto (German Words)	10	0
—— Troisième Messe Solennelle	2	6
—— Mors et Vita ... ... (Paper boards, 6s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d.) (Sol-fa, Latin and English Words, 2s.)	6	0
Gray, Alan.—Arethusa	1	6
—— The Legend of the Rock Buoy Bell	1	0
Hattersley, F. K.—Robert of Sicily	2	6
King, Oliver.—By the Waters of Babylon... ...	1	6
—— The Sands of Dee	1	0
—— The Romance of the Roses	2	6
Lloyd, C. H.—Alcestis	3	0
—— Andromeda ... ... (Paper boards, 3s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 5s.)	3	0
—— Hero and Leander	1	6
—— Song of Balder	1	0
Lloyd, C. H.—The Longbeard's Saga (Male voices)	1	6
—— A Song of Judgment ... ... (Paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.)	2	6
MacCunn, Hamish.—Lord Ullin's Daughter ... (Sol-fa, 8d.)	1	0
—— The Lay of the Last Minstrel (Sol-fa, 1s. 6d.) (Paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.)	2	6
Mackenzie, A. C.—Veni, Creator Spiritus	2	0
—— Rose of Sharon (Sol-fa, 2s.) ... ... (Paper boards, 6s.; cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d.)	5	0
—— The Story of Sayid ... ... (Paper boards, 3s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s. 6d.)	3	0
—— The Dream of Jubal ... ... (Paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.)	2	6
—— The New Covenant	1	6
—— The Cotter's Saturday Night (Sol-fa, 1s.) ...	2	0
—— Bethlehem ... ... (Paper boards, 6s.; cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d.)	5	0
Nešvera, Josef.—De Profundis (Psalm cxxix.) ...	2	6
Parker, Horatio W.—Hora Novissima	3	6
Parry, C. Hubert H.—Job	2	6
—— Blest Pair of Sirens (Sol-fa, 8d.)	1	0
—— Prometheus Unbound	3	0
—— The glories of our Blood and State	1	0
—— Judith; or, The Regeneration of Manasseh ... (Paper boards, 6s.; cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d.)	5	0
—— Ode on St. Cecilia's Day (Sol-fa, 1s.)... ...	2	0
—— L'Allegro (Sol-fa, 1s. 6d.)	2	6
—— De Profundis	2	0
—— The Lotos Eaters	2	0
—— King Saul ... ... (Paper boards, 6s.; cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d.)	5	0
—— Invocation to Music	2	6
Prout, E.—The Red Cross Knight (Sol-fa, 2s.) ... (Paper boards, 4s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 6s.)	4	0
—— Damon and Phintias (Male voices)	2	6
Rutenber, Charles B.—Divine Love	2	6
Smyth, E. M.—Mass in D	2	6
Somervell, A.—Mass in C minor	2	6
—— The Power of Sound (Sol-fa, 1s.)	2	0
—— The Forsaken Merman	1	6
Stanford, C. Villiers.—East to West	1	6
—— Eden ... ... (Paper boards, 6s.; cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d.)	5	0
—— Carmen Sæculare	1	6
—— The Revenge (Sol-fa, 9d.)	1	6
—— The Voyage of Maeldune ... ... (Paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.)	2	6
—— The Battle of the Baltic	1	6
Stainer, J.—The Crucifixion (Sol-fa, 9d.)	1	6
Sullivan, Arthur.—The Golden Legend (Sol-fa, 2s.) (Paper boards, 4s.; cloth, gilt, 5s.)	3	6
Waddington, S. P.—John Gilpin	2	0
Walthew, R. H.—The Pied Piper of Hamelin ...	2	0
Wareing, Herbert W.—The Wreck of the Hesperus	1	6
West, John E.—Seedtime and Harvest ... ... (Sol-fa, 1s.)	2	0
Williams, C. Lee.—Gethsemane ... ... (Paper boards, 2s. 6d.)	2	0
—— The Last Night at Bethany (Sol-fa, 1s.) ... (Paper boards, 2s. 6d.	2	0
Wood, Charles.—Ode to the West Wind	1	0

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just Published.

TO BE PRODUCED AT THE WORCESTER MUSICAL FESTIVAL, SEPTEMBER 8, 1896.

THE LIGHT OF LIFE

(LUX CHRISTI)

A SHORT ORATORIO

FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

THE WORDS WRITTEN AND ARRANGED BY THE REV. E. CAPEL-CURE, M.A., VICAR OF BRADNINCH, DEVON.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

EDWARD ELGAR

(Op. 29).

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Will be Published October 19, 1896.

TO BE PRODUCED AT THE NORTH STAFFORDSHIRE MUSICAL FESTIVAL, OCTOBER 30, 1896.

SCENES FROM THE SAGA OF KING OLAF

BY

H. W. LONGFELLOW & H. A. ACKWORTH, C.I.E.

SET TO MUSIC FOR

SOPRANO, TENOR AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA

BY

EDWARD ELGAR.

(Op. 30.)

Price Three Shillings.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition (Choruses only), One Shilling and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

THE

JACKDAW OF RHEIMS

LEGEND

BY

RICHARD BARHAM

SET TO MUSIC FOR CHORUS AND SMALL ORCHESTRA

BY

WILLIAM H. SPEER.

(Op. 8.)

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

A

DAUGHTER OF THE SEA

CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

CLIFTON BINGHAM

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

FREDERIC H. COWEN.

Price Two Shillings.
Tonic Sol-fa, One Shilling.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Will be Published immediately.

ENGLISH LYRICS

(FOURTH SET)

SET TO MUSIC BY

C. H. H. PARRY.

1. Thine eyes still shined for me .. .. .. Emerson.
2. When lovers meet again .. Langdon Elwyn Mitchell.
3. When we two parted .. .. Byron.
4. Weep you no more .. .. Anon.
5. There be none of beauty's daughters .. .. Byron.
6. Bright star .. .. Keats.

Price Four Shillings net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THIRTEEN

TWO-PART SONGS

(ENGLISH AND GERMAN WORDS)

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

MENDELSSOHN

REDUCED PRICE, 1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SIX MOVEMENTS

FROM

A. R. GAUL'S CANTATA

THE HOLY CITY

ARRANGED FOR THE ORGAN

BY

GEORGE CALKIN.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMPOSITIONS
BY
EDWARD ELGAR.

Just Published.

THE LIGHT OF LIFE
(Lux Christi)
(Op. 29).
A SHORT ORATORIO
For Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, and Baritone Soli, Chorus and Orchestra. Price 2s. 6d.

In the Press.

SCENES FROM THE SAGA OF KING OLAF
CANTATA
(Op. 30).
For Soprano, Tenor, and Bass Soli, Chorus and Orchestra. Price 3s.

THE BLACK KNIGHT
CANTATA
(Op. 25).
For Chorus and Orchestra. Price 2s.

FROISSART
CONCERT-OVERTURE FOR FULL ORCHESTRA
String Parts, 4s. 6d. Full Score and Wind Parts, MS.

MY LOVE DWELT IN A NORTHERN LAND
PART-SONG
For S.A.T.B. Price 3d.

O HAPPY EYES
PART-SONG
(Op. 18).
For S.A.T.B. Price 1½d.

SPANISH SERENADE
PART-SONG
(Op. 23).
For Chorus (S.A.T.B.) and Orchestra.
Price 3d. Full Score and Orchestral Parts, MS.

THE SNOW
THREE-PART SONG
For Female Voices (S.S.C.), with Accompaniments for Two Violins and Pianoforte
Price 6d. Violin Parts, price 6d. each.

FLY, SINGING BIRD
THREE-PART SONG
For Female Voices (S.S.C.), with Accompaniments for Two Violins and Pianoforte
Price 6d. Violin Parts, price 6d. each.

SOLEMN MARCH
FOR THE ORGAN
From the Cantata "The Black Knight." Arranged by the COMPOSER.
Price 1s. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

THE CAPTIVE SOUL
CANTATA
FOR
SOPRANO, MEZZO-SOPRANO, CONTRALTO AND TENOR SOLI AND CHORUS OF FEMALE VOICES
THE WORDS WRITTEN BY
ETHEL C. PEDLEY
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
E. M. WOOLLEY.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S WORKS.

VOCAL SCORE, OLD NOTATION. 6TH TO 30TH THOUSAND.

RUTH
A HARVEST CANTATA
WORDS BY
EDWARD OXENFORD.

"'Ruth' has been set to music by several composers; none, however, has become so worthily popular as the Cantata under notice. . . . It contains some charming music, and is highly characteristic of the story it so vividly illustrates."—South Wilts Express.

PERFORMED IN THE TOWN HALL, BIRMINGHAM, ON TWELVE OCCASIONS.

Vocal Score, paper cover, 2s.; ditto, paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 4s.
The Choruses (only) in Vocal Score, for Musical Societies, paper cover, 1s. Words, 5s. per 100.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 9d. Band Parts on loan.

THE MONTHS
TWELVE DUETS FOR TREBLE VOICES

Price Twopence each; or, complete, One Shilling and Sixpence.

THE BIRDS
SIX TRIOS FOR TREBLE VOICES

Price Twopence each; or, complete, One Shilling.

NEW SACRED SONG.
THE LAND OF WHICH I DREAM
Words by Dr. BONAR.
Price Two Shillings net.

A SONG OF LIFE
(ODE TO MUSIC)

No. 1. Lullaby. No. 3. Serenade. No. 5. Ave Maria.
„ 2. King Cricket. „ 4. The Charge. „ 6. Requiem.
No. 7. Song of the Redeemed.

SET TO MUSIC FOR FOUR-PART CHORUS.

Price One Shilling.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, price Sixpence. Words, 4s. per 100.

THE LEGEND OF THE WOOD
A JUVENILE OPERETTA IN ONE ACT FOR UNISON SINGING
VERSE BY
MAUD BALDWICK.

Price One Shilling.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, price Sixpence. Words, 7s. 6d. per 100.

MORNING
PART-SONG
FOR FOUR VOICES.

Sung with great success at the Crystal Palace.

Price Threepence.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

(No. 52. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Music Primers and Educational Series. Edited by Sir JOHN STAINER and Dr. C. HUBERT H. PARRY.)

A Description and History
OF THE PIANOFORTE
AND
OF THE OLDER KEYBOARD STRINGED INSTRUMENTS
BY
A. J. HIPKINS, F.S.A.
Author of the Articles on the Pianoforte in the "Dictionary of Music and Musicians" and in the "Encyclopædia Britannica," also of "Musical Instruments, Historic, Rare and Unique."
THE WOOD ENGRAVINGS BY JOHN HIPKINS.
Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
In paper boards, Three Shillings.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.
A DREAM OF LOVE
SONG
THE WORDS WRITTEN BY
EDWARD OXENFORD
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
BERTHOLD TOURS.
In C and A. Price Two Shillings each.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW AND IMPORTANT WORKS
FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.

BONNY KILMENY
Cantata for Soprano, Tenor, and Baritone Soli, Chorus and Orchestra
BY HAMISH MACCUNN.
Staff, 2s. net; Sol-fa, 1s. net.

THE CAMERONIAN'S DREAM
A Ballad for Baritone Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY HAMISH MACCUNN.
Staff, 1s. 6d. net; Sol-fa, 9d. net.

THE DEATH OF CUTHULLIN
A Dramatic Cantata for Soprano, Tenor, and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY W. AUGUSTUS BARRATT.
Staff, 2s. 6d. net; Sol-fa, 1s. 6d. net.

SIR PATRICK SPENS
A Ballad for Baritone Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra
BY W. AUGUSTUS BARRATT.
1s. net.

THE KELPIE
A Dramatic Cantata for Soprano and Tenor Soli, Chorus and Orchestra
BY LEARMONT DRYSDALE.
2s. 6d. net.

PATERSON AND SONS,
26, Castle Street, Berners Street, London, W.

Just Published.
THE COMING OF THE KING
A SACRED CANTATA FOR CHRISTMAS
FOR FEMALE VOICES
WORDS BY HELEN MARION BURNSIDE
MUSIC BY
MYLES B. FOSTER.
Price One Shilling and Sixpence,
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Eightpence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Will be Published immediately.
(No. 55. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Music Primers and Educational Series. Edited by Sir JOHN STAINER and Dr. C. HUBERT H. PARRY.)
A DICTIONARY
OF VIOLIN MAKERS
COMPILED FROM THE BEST AUTHORITIES
BY
C. STAINER.
Miss Stainer has here brought together in a concise form a considerable amount of reliable information concerning Violin Makers past and present.
Price Two Shillings.
In paper boards, Two Shillings and Sixpence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.
THE HESPERUS
CANTATA FOR SOPRANO, BARITONE, AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA
THE POETRY BY LONGFELLOW
THE MUSIC BY
J. F. H. READ.
Price 1s. 6d.; Vocal Parts also, in Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.
By the same Composer:
THE
DEATH OF YOUNG ROMILLY
CHORAL BALLAD FOR CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA
THE POETRY BY WORDSWORTH.
Dedicated, by special permission, to H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES.
FOR MEN'S VOICES.
Sung by the STOCK EXCHANGE CHORAL SOCIETY.
IN THE FOREST
CANTATA FOR BARITONE SOLO, CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S CANTATAS.

*UNA

FOURTH AND FIFTH THOUSAND.

PRODUCED AT THE NORWICH MUSICAL FESTIVAL, OCTOBER 4, 1893.

"'Una' is quite one of his best."—Musical Standard.

"The result, in the present case, leaves no doubt that into all the places which know his previous compositions 'Una' will find a way and become as much a favourite as its forerunners. . . . Mr. Gaul considers before all things the elegance and symmetry of his melodic phrases."—Musical Times.

"We believe that Mr. Gaul has attained greater popularity with small English provincial choral societies than any other composer living or dead."—London Daily Graphic.

†THE TEN VIRGINS

Third Edition. Seventh and Eighth Thousand.
This Edition contains the additional Soprano air "Sun of my Soul."

"The work will certainly go through Saxondom in the wake of its predecessors from the same pen."—London Daily Telegraph.

"Must attain popularity wherever heard. Infinitely superior to any previous effort of the composer."—Liverpool Daily Courier.

"A distinct advance upon any of its predecessors."—Birmingham Daily Post.

"That 'The Ten Virgins' is a much finer work than the everywhere favourite 'Holy City' we have no doubt whatever."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

PRODUCED WITH THE UTMOST SUCCESS BY THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

*JOAN OF ARC

Staff Edition. Sixteenth to Twentieth Thousand.

"The Exeter Oratorio Society last night achieved a brilliant success, and it may safely be said, without fear of exaggeration, that never before have they performed a work more satisfactory to themselves or more interesting to the audience than 'Joan of Arc.'"—Western Times.

"One of the most delightful Concerts ever given by the South Shields Choral Society was that of last evening, when the principal piece was 'Joan of Arc.' We cannot speak too highly of Mr. Gaul's work, which is of the most interesting description, and will doubtless soon be a favourite with choral societies."—Shields Daily News.

FIFTH AND SIXTH THOUSAND.

PRODUCED AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE, JULY 9, 1892.

†ISRAEL IN THE WILDERNESS

"The work was given under Mr. Gaul's own direction by some 3,000 singers, accompanied by the Palace orchestra. Mr. Gaul has presented in no previous work better characteristics or more successful efforts than are to be found in 'Israel in the Wilderness.' The popular composer was enthusiastically cheered at the close of the performance."—Musical News.

The above Cantatas have been specially planned to meet the requirements of Musical Societies, the greater portion being choral.

Price, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.; vocal parts, each 1s. Words only, *7s. 6d.; †5s. per 100.
The loan of Orchestral Parts on application to the Composer.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

FOURTH EDITION.

KING ARTHUR

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

FOR

THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, & ORCHESTRA

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

JAMES SMIETON, M.A.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

JOHN MORE SMIETON.

The work takes about an Hour and Forty Minutes to perform, and has been given with conspicuous success at the following places:—

London (2)	Airdrie
Glasgow (2)	Hamilton
Newcastle	Helensburgh
Dundee	Ayr
Broughty Ferry	Kineton
Jersey	Byfield
Reading	Uckfield
Brondesbury	Wakefield
Chichester	Greasboro'
Peebles	Paisley
Stirling	Harrogate
Arbroath	Aylesbury
Montrose	Taunton (Mass.)

&c., &c.

OLD NOTATION, 2s. 6d.; TONIC SOL-FA, 1s.
Full Score and Band Parts on hire.
String Parts for Sale at 16s.

The celebrated Hymn from "King Arthur," "There is a land beyond the setting sun," arranged for S.A.T.B, price 2d. (Sol-fa, 1½d.), may be had separately.

SPECIALLY ADAPTED FOR

SMALL CHORAL SOCIETIES, CHURCH CHOIRS, &c.

FOURTH EDITION.

BY THE SAME AUTHORS.

ARIADNE

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

FOR

FOUR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

(Takes about One Hour to perform).

OLD NOTATION, 2s.; TONIC SOL-FA, 9d.
Full Score and Band Parts on hire.

Copies of either work will be sent free to Conductors, on application to the COMPOSER, 12, Victoria Chambers, Dundee.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just Published.

INSCRIBED, BY PERMISSION, TO PROFESSOR EBENEZER PROUT, B.A., MUS. DOC.
(Professor of Music in the University of Dublin),

TONALITY & ROOTS.

A Simple and Concise Method for Determining the Diatonic Scales or Keys to which Intervals, Triads, and short Musical Phrases belong, or in which they may be found, and also for ascertaining with ease and certainty the root of any discord

BY

ARTHUR J. GREENISH,

Mus. Doc., Cantab.; Fellow of the Royal Academy of Music and Fellow of the Royal College of Organists.

A ruling principle extended and developed on entirely new lines.
Deals with points hitherto practically untouched by existing treatises.
Will be found of the greatest use to Professors and Students, and invaluable to all Candidates for Examinations.

Price 1s. 6d.; Post-free, 1s. 7d.

Copies may be had from the Author, Dr. A. J. GREENISH, 32, King Henry's Road, Hampstead, London, N.W.; or from the Publishers—(address) Office of the Organist and Choirmaster, 139, Oxford Street, London, W.
Trade terms on application to the AUTHOR, as above.

Seventh Edition.

The river floweth strong, my love

PART-SONG FOR S.A.T.B.

Words by E. RIDGWAY.

MUSIC COMPOSED BY ROLAND ROGERS.

Price Fourpence; Sol-fa, Twopence.

Sung with immense success by Eaton Faning's Select Choir at the Ballad Concerts, St. James's Hall; Wolverhampton Festival Choral Society, the Chester Festival Choral Society, the Cambrian Choral Society (Birkenhead), Huddersfield Glee and Madrigal Society, &c.

Also, NEW PART-SONG, by same COMPOSER.

THREE FISHERS WENT SAILING

Words by KINGSLEY.

Old Notation, Fourpence; Sol-fa, Twopence.

"An immense success."

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

WORKS FOR THE HARMONIUM.

	s.	d.
BACH, J. S.—Six celebrated Pieces. Transcribed by KING HALL	1	0
BROWN, ARTHUR H.—Twenty Original Voluntaries	1	0
ELLIOTT, J. W.—Harmonium Voluntaries. Vols. 1 and 2, cloth, each	4	0
Or, in Six Numbers, each containing 60 Voluntaries "	1	0
—— Harmonium Treasury. A Series of Select Pieces, Sacred and Secular:—
Vol. 1, Sacred, cloth	10	6
Vol. 2, Secular, cloth	10	6
Or, in 51 Numbers each	1	0
ENGEL, LOUIS.—Twelve Sacred Airs	5	0
Or, in 12 Numbers each	0	6
—— Six Melodies by SCHUBERT	2	6
Or, in 6 Numbers each	0	6
KING, OLIVER—Twelve Original Voluntaries	1	0
—— Ditto. Set 2	1	0
LEMMENS, J.—Six Original Voluntaries	3	0
METCALFE, W.—Twelve Original Voluntaries	1	0
OESTEN, MAX.—Twelve Easy Voluntaries	1	0
—— Ditto, Set 2 (in the Press).
PHILLIPS, A.—Thirteen Voluntaries	1	0

INSTRUCTION BOOKS FOR THE HARMONIUM.

HALL, KING.—Harmonium Primer (Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Primers, No. 4). Paper cover, 2s.; paper boards	2	6
—— Original Studies and Arrangements for the Harmonium or American Organ (to be used in connection with the Author's Harmonium Primer)	2	6

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PERFORMED WITH GREAT SUCCESS AT ST. JAMES'S HALL, LONDON, MAY 11, 1896.

FOUR
ENGLISH DANCES

IN THE OLDEN STYLE

COMPOSED BY

F. H. COWEN.

1. STATELY DANCE.
2. RUSTIC DANCE.
3. GRACEFUL DANCE.
4. COUNTRY DANCE.

Pianoforte Solo .. 2s. 6d. | String Parts .. .. 6s. od.
Violin & Pianoforte 3s. od. | Wind Parts .. .. 12s. od.

Arrangements for Military Band, and Small Orchestra, in the Press.

THE TIMES.

A special attraction of the concert was the first performance, under the composer's direction, of a new Suite of "Four English Dances," by Mr. F. H. Cowen, a work no less effective and graceful than the Suite given last week at the Philharmonic. The opening movement, a "Stately Dance," is exceedingly characteristic and original; the second, a "Rustic Dance," has, among prominent parts for wood-wind instruments, a delightful flourish for oboe; the succeeding "Graceful Dance," though a good deal like several other compositions of Mr. Cowen, prepares well for the final "Country Dance," a most attractive measure.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

These pieces, written for the most part "in the old style," are agreeable examples of a composer who is never at fault when he sets himself to charm by simple and graceful means. Orchestral societies desiring to cultivate works that are not too heavily strewn with stumbling-blocks cannot do better than make the acquaintance of this pleasing little Suite.

STANDARD.

A feature of the evening was the first performance of Four English Dances, written for orchestra by Mr. F. H. Cowen. These are respectively named "Stately Dance," "Rustic Dance," "Graceful Dance," and "Country Dance," names which well describe their several characters. As may be imagined, they are all scored in a most picturesque manner. They were excellently played under the direction of the composer, and the double recall he received to the platform testified to the pleasure his work had afforded the audience.

DAILY NEWS.

These brief, but highly effective, pieces avowedly imitate the old style, and they are entitled respectively a "stately" dance, a "rustic" dance—very quaint and pretty, and not without its traces of humour—a graceful, and a country dance. The composer, who conducted, was recalled to the platform, and his new Suite will beyond much question be heard of again.

MORNING POST.

Additional interest was imparted to the programme by its inclusion of "Four English Dances" for orchestra, by Mr. F. H. Cowen, which were heard on this occasion for the first time. These are attractive imitations of the forms in which our forefathers took delight. They are all most effectively scored, and are of that graceful and refined character which is expected in works by this gifted writer. They were warmly received, and doubtless will be often heard at the concerts of amateur orchestral societies, for which they are very suitable.

GLOBE.

An orchestral concert, under Mr. Cowen, was given last night at the St. James's Hall. Four charming English Dances in the old style, by Mr. Cowen, were performed for the first time, and achieved an undoubted success.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just Published.

(No. 54. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Music Primers and Educational Series. Edited by Sir JOHN STAINER and Dr. C. HUBERT H. PARRY.)

SONATA FORM

BY

W. H. HADOW.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
In paper boards, Three Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S

ALBUMS FOR PIANOFORTE

AND

STRINGED INSTRUMENTS

(Two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello).

The Pieces in these Albums are so arranged that if any Part, or Combination of Parts, in addition to the First Violin and Pianoforte, are used they will sound complete.

They may also be played by a Quintet, or small Orchestra, of Stringed Instruments, with or without Pianoforte.

No. 1.

SUITE OF FOUR PIECES

BY ARNOLD DOLMETSCH.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 2.

SUITE OF FIVE PIECES

BY HENRY PURCELL.

The Pianoforte Accompaniment, Marks of Expression, Bowing, and Fingering by ARNOLD DOLMETSCH.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 3.

THREE DANCES

From the Music to "Henry VIII."

BY EDWARD GERMAN.

Price 5s. Separate String Parts, 1s. each.

No. 4.

GAVOTTE IN D

BY RAMEAU.

Arranged by BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price 2s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 5.

SIX PIECES FROM THE WATER MUSIC

COMPOSED BY G. F. HANDEL.

Arranged by BERTHOLD TOURS.

1. Bourrée in F.
2. Air in F.
3. Minuet in F.
4. Hornpipe in F.
5. Aria in G.
6. Allegro in D.

Price 3s. 6d. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

No. 6.

TWO BOURRÉES

COMPOSED BY G. F. HANDEL.

Arranged by BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price 2s. Separate String Parts, 3d. each.

Just Published.

No. 7.

BENEDICTUS

From Six Pieces for the Violin.

COMPOSED BY A. C. MACKENZIE.

Price 3s. Separate String Parts, 6d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

	s.	d.
BIEHL, A.—Three Easy Sonatinas. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 147. Complete, in One Book .. .. net	1	6
—— Six Easy Pieces. For Violin (or Violoncello) and Pianoforte. Op. 146. Complete, in One Book .. .. net	1	6
BOHM, C.—"Chant de Mai" .. .. „	2	0
—— "Jenny." Gavotte de Concert .. .. „	2	0
CHAMINADE, C.—"Pièce romantique." For Pianoforte and Violin, or Violoncello or Flute or Mandoline .. .. each	4	0
—— "Gavotte." For Piano and Violin, or Violoncello or Flute or Mandoline .. .. each	5	0
FAURÉ, G.—Deux Romances sans paroles. For Violin (or Violoncello) and Pianoforte:—
No. 1.	4	0
„ 2.	5	0
FLITNER, CARL—Cantilène. For Organ	3	0
GARCIN, J.—"Canzonetta. For Violin and Pianoforte ..	5	0
GLAZOUNOW, A.—Deuxième Valse. For Orchestra:—
Full Score .. .. net	8	0
Parts .. .. „	24	0
—— Scènes de Ballet. For Orchestra:—
No. 1. Preambule .. .. Score net	5	0
Parts „	12	0
„ 2. Marionettes .. .. Score „	4	0
Parts „	8	0
„ 3. Mazurka .. .. Score „	6	0
Parts „	16	0
„ 4. Scherzino .. .. Score „	2	6
Parts „	8	0
„ 5. Pas d'action .. .. Score „	3	0
Parts „	8	0
„ 6. Danse orientale .. .. .. Score „	3	0
Parts „	10	0
„ 7. Valse .. .. Score „	5	0
Parts „	10	0
„ 8. Polonaise .. .. Score „	6	0
Parts „	16	0
GOUNOD.—Marche processionnelle. Arranged for the Organ, by LORET	6	0
GUILMANT, A.—"Adoration." For Organ and Strings. Op. 44:—
Score .. .. net	2	0
Parts .. .. „	6	0
—— Allegro. For Organ and Orchestra. Op. 81:—
Score .. .. net	3	0
Parts .. .. „	10	0
HALVORSEN, J.—Suite. For Violin and Pianoforte .. net	3	6
HANDEL.—"Courante." Arranged for Two Pianofortes (Four hands) by LEMOINE	6	0
HUBAY, JÉNO.—Deux Mazurkas de Concert. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 54 .. .. each	6	0
No. 1 (D minor). No. 2 (F major).
JASPAR, M.—"Divertimenti." For Flute (or Violin) and Pianoforte .. .. net	3	0
KIENZL, W.—"Dichterreise." Ten Pieces. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 46. Books 1 and 2 .. .. .. each, net	4	0
LEMAITRE.—"Arpèges et Exercices." For Harp	7	0
MEISTER, C.—Three Preludes. For Organ. Op. 20	3	0
MULDER, J.—"Malaguena." For two Pianofortes. Op. 36..	7	0
—— "Jota Arragonaise." For Two Pianofortes (Four hands). Op. 44	7	0
NADERMANN, F. J.—Studies. For the Harp. Revised by H. KATONA .. .. each book, net	1	6
Book 1. Twelve Progressive Studies.
„ 2. Nine Progressive Studies.
„ 3A. Twelve Scale Studies.
„ 3B. Twelve Scale Studies.
PAQUE, D.—Suite de Deux Pièces. For Viola and Pianoforte. Op. 49 .. .. complete, net	4	0
(a) Romanza. (b) Allegro Scherzando.
RUBINSTEIN, A.—"Marche Nuptiale." Arranged for Organ	6	0
SAINT-SAËNS, C.—Trois Préludes et Fugues. Arranged for Two Pianofortes (Four hands). Op. 99 .. .. net	6	0
—— 2nd Sonata. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 102 .. „	6	0
—— Valse mignonne. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 104 .. „	2	0
—— Berceuse. For Pianoforte Duet. Op. 105	5	0
SCHINDLER, F.—"Bach-Studies." 24 Transcriptions. For Flute Solo	8	0
SOKOLOW, N.—Suite. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 26. Complete .. .. net	4	0
No. 1. Prélude .. .. „	1	0
„ 2. Nocturne .. .. „	1	6
„ 3. Scherzo .. .. „	2	6
STRAUSS, R.—"Don Juan" (Op. 20), "Macbeth" (Op. 23), "Tod und Verklärung" (Op. 24), "Till Eulenspiegel" (Op. 28). Arranged for Two Pianofortes (Four hands). For performance, two copies are necessary .. .. each	12	0
THOMÉ, F.—Mazurka. Pièce pittoresque. For Pianoforte Duet	3	0
—— Boléro. Pièce pittoresque. For Pianoforte Duet	3	0
—— Gavotte and Musette. For Two Violins and Pianoforte. Op. 109	7	0
VAN GOENS, D.—Elegie. For Violoncello (or Violin) and Strings:—
Score and Parts .. .. net	3	0
WERMANN, O.—Two Pieces. For Clarinet and Organ:—
No. 1. Cradle Song .. .. net	1	6
„ 2. Larghetto religioso .. .. „	1	6

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Original Compositions

FOR THE

ORGAN.

(Recent Numbers.)

No.		s.	d.
181.	Melodia .. .. William Creser	1	0
182.	Andante Fughetta .. .. William Creser	1	0
183.	Postlude .. .. Edward Cutler	1	0
184.	Minuet .. .. Hamilton Clarke	1	0
185.	Old Easter Melody (O Filii et Filiæ) with Variations .. .. John E. West	1	6
186.	Wedding March .. .. William Creser	1	6
187.	Six Pieces (Nos. 1, 2) .. .. .. Alfred Redhead	1	6
188.	Six Pieces (Nos. 3, 4) .. .. .. Alfred Redhead	1	0
189.	Six Pieces (Nos. 5, 6) .. .. .. Alfred Redhead	1	6
190.	Antiphon and Interlude .. .. E. Silas	1	6
191.	Savoyard Chant .. .. .. Herbert W. Wareing	1	6
192.	Three Intermezzi .. .. Alan Gray	1	0
193.	Solemn Processional March .. C. J. B. Meacham	1	0
194.	Third Concert Fantasia .. .. .. Otto Dienel	1	6
195.	Allegretto Cantabile .. .. Otto Dienel	1	0
196.	Andante with Variations .. .. .. Otto Dienel	2	0
197.	Allegro Scherzando .. .. Otto Dienel	1	6
198.	Offertoire in B flat .. .. Edward Cutler	1	0
199.	A Meditation .. .. E. Duncan	1	0
200.	Postlude .. .. E. Duncan	1	0
201.	Communion and Prière .. .. .. Albert Renaud	1	0
202.	Fantaisie Pastoral .. .. Albert Renaud	1	0
203.	Prelude and Fugue .. .. E. Silas	1	6
204.	Rêverie and Intermezzo .. .. .. B. Luard Selby	1	0
205.	Romance (Op. 174, No. 1) / Scherzoso (Op. 174, No. 2) .. .. J. Rheinberger	1	6
206.	Aspiration (Op. 174, No. 3) / Contemplation (Op. 174, No. 4) .. J. Rheinberger	1	6
207.	Agitato (Op. 174, No. 5) / Improvisation (Op. 174, No. 6) .. J. Rheinberger	1	6
208.	Solemn Festival (Op. 174, No. 7) / Duet (Op. 174, No. 8) .. J. Rheinberger	1	6
209.	Ricercare (Op. 174, No. 9) / Evening Rest (Op. 174, No. 10) .. J. Rheinberger	1	6
210.	Melodia Ostinata (Op. 174, No. 11) / Finale (Op. 174, No. 12) .. J. Rheinberger	1	6
211.	Prelude (Grand Suite, Op. 341) / Allemande (Ditto) .. Hamilton Clarke	1	6
212.	Elegy (Ditto) / Gavotte (Ditto) .. .. Hamilton Clarke	1	6
213.	Intermezzo (Ditto) / Minuet (Ditto) .. .. .. Hamilton Clarke	1	6
214.	Introduction and Fughetta (Grand Suite, Op. 341) .. Hamilton Clarke	1	6
215.	Capriccio .. .. E. Silas	1	6
216.	Lullaby (Op. 348, No. 1) .. .. .. Hamilton Clarke	1	0
217.	Bridal March (Op. 348, No. 2) .. .. Hamilton Clarke	1	6
218.	Pastoral Fantasia (Op. 348, No. 3) .. Hamilton Clarke	1	0
219.	Allegretto Grazioso .. .. John E. West	1	6
220.	Melody .. .. King Hall	1	0
221.	Offertoire .. .. King Hall	1	6
222.	Canzone .. .. King Hall	1	6
223.	Intermezzo .. .. C. Charlton Palmer	1	0
224.	Grand March (Op. 158) .. .. .. Hamilton Clarke	1	6
225.	Andante con moto (Op. 97, No. 1) .. .. M. E. Bossi	1	0
226.	Aspiration (Op. 97, No. 2) .. .. .. M. E. Bossi	1	0
227.	Grand Chœur (Op. 97, No. 3) .. .. .. M. E. Bossi	1	6
228.	Four Sonatinas, No. 1, in D minor .. .. A. B. Plant	1	6
229.	Four Sonatinas, No. 2, in G major .. .. A. B. Plant	1	6
230.	Four Sonatinas, No. 3, in A minor .. .. A. B. Plant	1	6
231.	Four Sonatinas, No. 4, in C major .. .. A. B. Plant	1	6
232.	Second Rêverie .. .. B. Luard Selby	1	0
233.	Third Postlude .. .. B. Luard Selby	1	0
234.	Fantasia in D minor .. .. Alan Gray	1	6
235.	Præludium and Fuga in A (No. 2, from Six Preludes and Fugues) .. .. F. A. Gore Ouseley	1	0
236.	Triumphal March (Op. 26) .. .. .. Dudley Buck	1	6
237.	Rondo Caprice (Op. 35) .. .. .. Dudley Buck	1	0
238.	At Evening (Op. 52) .. .. Dudley Buck	1	0
239.	Allegro Maestoso, 1st Movement of Sonata in D minor .. John E. West	1	6
240.	Andante Religioso, 2nd Movement of Sonata in D minor .. John E. West	1	6
241.	Allegro Pomposo, 3rd Movement of Sonata in D minor .. John E. West	1	6
242.	Rêverie in C .. .. H. S. Irons	1	0
243.	Romance in G .. .. H. S. Irons	1	0
244.	Elegy on Themes by Henry Purcell .. .. E. Silas	1	0
245.	Andante, Larghetto and Allegro .. .. J. Varley Roberts	1	0
246.	Postlude in G .. .. Charles Steggall	1	6
247.	Six Fugues on the name "Bach," Book I. .. Schumann	2	0
248.	Six Fugues on the name "Bach," Book II. .. Schumann	2	0
249.	Festal March .. .. Sir George Elvey	1	6
250.	Six Fugues (Nos. 1-3) .. .. Handel	1	6
251.	Six Fugues (Nos. 4-6) .. .. Handel	1	6

Organ Arrangements

EDITED BY

GEORGE C. MARTIN

(Organist of St. Paul's Cathedral).

		ARRANGED BY	s.	d.
1.	Slow Movement (Pianoforte Quintet) Schumann / Minuet (Twelve Menuets for Orchestra) Beethoven	G. C. Martin	1	6
2.	Andante (Pianoforte Sonata, Op. 147) Schubert / Largo .. .. .. Handel / As pants the hart ("Calvary") Spohr	G. C. Martin	1	6
3.	Agnus Dei (Mass in G) .. Schubert / Overture ("Acis and Galatea") Handel / Albumblätter (No. 1, Op. 99) Schumann	G. C. Martin	1	0
4.	Adagio (Sonata, Op. 2, No. 1) Beethoven / The Cat's Fugue .. .. Scarlatti / Albumblätter (No. 5, Op. 99) Schumann	G. C. Martin	1	6
5.	Romanze and Scherzo (Fourth Symphony) .. .. .. Schumann / Air (Overture (or Suite) in D) Bach	G. C. Martin	1	6
6.	Allegro (Quartet, Op. 18, No. 2) Beethoven / Menuetto (Pianoforte Sonata, Op. 122) Schubert	G. C. Martin	1	6
7.	Eia Mater ("Stabat Mater") Dvorák / Romance .. .. .. Mozart	G. C. Martin	1	6
8.	Minuet and Allegro .. Handel	B. Luard Selby	1	6
9.	Funeral March ("Dream of Jubal") A. C. Mackenzie	G. C. Martin	1	0
10.	Chaconne in F major .. Purcell	A. W. Marchant	1	0
11.	Adagio in B minor .. Mozart	A. W. Marchant	1	0
12.	Adagio (Sextet, Op. 81) .. Beethoven	A. B. Plant	1	0
13.	In Elysium ("Orphée") .. Gluck	E. J. Bellerby	1	0
14.	Judex ("Mors et Vita") .. Gounod	John E. West	1	0
15.	Grand March (Introduction, Act III., "Lohengrin") .. .. Wagner	W. Creser	1	0
16.	Bridal Chorus ("Lohengrin") Wagner	W. Creser	1	0
17.	Concerto Grosso (No. X.) Corelli	A. B. Plant	1	6
18.	Passecaille .. .. .. Couperin	James Shaw	1	0
19.	Representation of Chaos ("The Creation") .. .. .. Haydn	Wm. H. Stocks	1	0
20.	Moderato (1st Movement, Sonata, Op. 42) .. .. .. Schubert	A. B. Plant	2	0
21.	Andante con moto (Unfinished Symphony) .. .. .. Schubert	W. Cruickshank	2	0
22.	Slow Movement in A flat (3rd Symphony) .. .. .. Schumann	W. Cruickshank	1	0
23.	Solemn March ("The Black Knight") E. Elgar	E. Elgar	1	0
24.	Andante con moto (Symphony in C) Schubert	A. B. Plant	2	0
25.	Overture to the "Ode on St. Cecilia's Day" .. .. .. Handel	Chas. Macpherson	1	6
26.	Larghetto (Symphony in B flat) Schumann	A. W. Marchant	1	0
27.	Warum? .. .. .. Schumann / Liebeslied .. .. .. Henselt	A. W. Marchant	1	0
28.	Adagio Sostenuto (Quartet, Op. 76, No. 1) .. .. .. Haydn	A. W. Marchant	1	0
29.	Introduction and Fugue in E flat Hesse	A. W. Marchant	1	0
30.	Andante in C minor (Quartet) Spohr	A. W. Marchant	1	0
31.	Andante in A (Quartet in D) Mozart	A. W. Marchant	1	0
32.	Fugue in C major .. Albrechtsberger	A. W. Marchant	1	0
33.	Minuet (First Violoncello Suite) Bach / Gavotte in E minor .. Veracini	A. W. Marchant	1	0
34.	Adagio in D .. .. Mozart	A. W. Marchant	1	0
35.	La Carità .. .. .. Rossini	A. W. Marchant	1	0
36.	Toccata in A major .. Purcell	H. Davan Wetton	1	6
37.	Voluntary in D minor .. Purcell	W. Alcock	1	6
38.	Finale from Symphonie Pathétique Tschaïkowsky	Chas. Macpherson	2	0
39.	Grand Funeral March in C minor Schubert	E. Silas	1	0
40.	Air, "Lord, to Thee my heart I proffer" (St. Matthew Passion) .. Bach	D. John D. Codner	1	0
41.	Andante con moto (Symphony in B flat) Schubert	W. Cruickshank	1	6
42.	First Movement ("Hymn of Praise") Mendelssohn	W. Cruickshank	2	6

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

NOVELLO'S SHILLING CANTATAS AND ORATORIOS.

THOMAS ADAMS.
*THE HOLY CHILD.

THOMAS ANDERTON.
THE NORMAN BARON.
*THE WRECK OF THE HESPERUS.

E. ASPA.
THE GIPSIES.

ASTORGA.
STABAT MATER.

BACH.
GOD SO LOVED THE WORLD.
GOD GOETH UP WITH SHOUTING.
*GOD'S TIME IS THE BEST.
MY SPIRIT WAS IN HEAVINESS.
O LIGHT EVERLASTING.
BIDE WITH US.
A STRONGHOLD SURE.
MAGNIFICAT.
THOU GUIDE OF ISRAEL.
JESU, PRICELESS TREASURE.
JESUS, NOW WILL WE PRAISE THEE.
WHEN WILL GOD RECALL MY SPIRIT

J. BARNBY.
*REBEKAH.

BEETHOVEN.
*THE CHORAL FANTASIA.
*THE CHORAL SYMPHONY (THE VOCAL PORTION).
ENGEDI.
*MOUNT OF OLIVES.
RUINS OF ATHENS.

KAREL BENDL.
WATER SPRITE'S REVENGE (FEMALE VOICES).

G. J. BENNETT.
EASTER HYMN (ON THE MORN OF EASTER DAY).

SIR W. STERNDALE BENNETT.
EXHIBITION ODE, 1862.

G. R. BETJEMANN.
THE SONG OF THE WESTERN MEN.

HUGH BLAIR.
HARVEST-TIDE.

J. BRAHMS.
A SONG OF DESTINY.

J. F. BRIDGE.
* ROCK OF AGES.
THE INCHCAPE ROCK.
*THE LORD'S PRAYER.

CARISSIMI.
JEPHTHAH.

SIR M. COSTA.
THE DREAM.

F. H. COWEN.
A SONG OF THANKSGIVING.

H. W. DAVIES.
HERVÉ RIEL.

ROSALIND F. ELLICOTT.
ELYSIUM.

ROBERT FRANZ.
PRAISE YE THE LORD (117TH PSALM).

NIELS W. GADE.
ZION.
*SPRING'S MESSAGE. 8d.
*CHRISTMAS EVE.
*THE ERL-KING'S DAUGHTER.

G. GARRETT.
*HARVEST CANTATA.

HERMANN GOETZ.
BY THE WATERS OF BABYLON.
NŒNIA.

A. M. GOODHART.
EARL HALDAN'S DAUGHTER.

CH. GOUNOD.
DE PROFUNDIS (130TH PSALM).
DITTO (OUT OF DARKNESS).
MESSE SOLENNELLE (LATIN WORDS).
THE SEVEN WORDS OF OUR SAVIOUR ON THE CROSS.
DAUGHTERS OF JERUSALEM.
*GALLIA.

ALAN GRAY.
THE LEGEND OF THE ROCK-BUOY BELL.

J. O. GRIMM.
THE SOUL'S ASPIRATION.

HANDEL.
CHANDOS TE DEUM.
ODE ON ST. CECILIA'S DAY.
THE WAYS OF ZION.
*MESSIAH (POCKET EDITION).
ISRAEL IN EGYPT (DITTO).
*JUDAS MACCABÆUS (DITTO).
DETTINGEN TE DEUM.
UTRECHT JUBILATE.
O PRAISE THE LORD.
*ACIS AND GALATEA.
DITTO. EDITED BY J. BARNBY.
O COME, LET US SING UNTO THE LORD.
DIXIT DOMINUS.

HAYDN.
*THE CREATION (POCKET EDITION).
*SPRING, SUMMER, AUTUMN, WINTER.
TE DEUM.

EDWARD HECHT.
O MAY I JOIN THE CHOIR INVISIBLE.

DR. HILLER.
*A SONG OF VICTORY.

H. HOFMANN.
SONG OF THE NORNS (FEMALE VOICES).

H. H. HUSS.
AVE MARIA (FEMALE VOICES).

A. JENSEN.
THE FEAST OF ADONIS.

OLIVER KING.
THE SANDS O' DEE.

LEONARDO LEO.
DIXIT DOMINUS.

C. HARFORD LLOYD.
THE SONG OF BALDER.

HAMISH MACCUNN.
*LORD ULLIN'S DAUGHTER.

G. A. MACFARREN.
OUTWARD BOUND.
*MAY DAY.

A. C. MACKENZIE.
*THE BRIDE.

MENDELSSOHN.
*ST. PAUL (POCKET EDITION).
*ELIJAH (POCKET EDITION).
*LORELEY.
*HYMN OF PRAISE.
*AS THE HART PANTS.
*COME, LET US SING.
*WHEN ISRAEL OUT OF EGYPT CAME NOT UNTO US.
*LORD, HOW LONG.
*HEAR MY PRAYER.
*THE FIRST WALPURGIS NIGHT.
MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM.
MAN IS MORTAL.
FESTGESANG (S.A.T.B.)
FESTGESANG (MALE VOICES).
*CHRISTUS.
*TO THE SONS OF ART.
AVE MARIA (SAVIOUR OF SINNERS).
THREE MOTETS (FEMALE VOICES).

MEYERBEER.
91ST PSALM (LATIN WORDS).
91ST PSALM (ENGLISH WORDS).

MOZART.
KING THAMOS.

E. MUNDELLA.
VICTORY OF SONG (FEMALE VOICES).

H. W. PARKER.
THE KOBOLDS.

C. H. H. PARRY.
*BLEST PAIR OF SIRENS.
THE GLORIES OF OUR BLOOD AND STATE.

PERGOLESI.
*STABAT MATER (FEMALE VOICES).

C. PINSUTI.
PHANTOMS.

E. PROUT.
FREEDOM.
THE HUNDREDTH PSALM.

PURCELL.
TE DEUM AND JUBILATE, IN D.
TE DEUM, IN D. EDITED BY J. F. BRIDGE.

ROMBERG.
*THE LAY OF THE BELL.
*THE TRANSIENT AND THE ETERNAL.

ROSSINI.
*STABAT MATER.

ED. SACHS.
WATER LILIES.

SCHUBERT.
*SONG OF MIRIAM.

SCHUMANN.
THE PILGRIMAGE OF THE ROSE.
THE KING'S SON.
MIGNON'S REQUIEM.
ADVENT HYMN, "IN LOWLY GUISE."
MANFRED.
*NEW YEAR'S SONG.

H. SCHÜTZ.
THE PASSION OF OUR LORD.

ALICE MARY SMITH.
*THE SONG OF THE LITTLE BALTUNG (MEN'S VOICES).
ODE TO THE NORTH-EAST WIND.
THE RED KING (MEN'S VOICES).

SPOHR.
*THE LAST JUDGMENT.
*GOD, THOU ART GREAT.
THE CHRISTIAN'S PRAYER.
HYMN TO ST. CECILIA.

A. SULLIVAN.
EXHIBITION ODE.
FESTIVAL TE DEUM.

A. GORING THOMAS.
THE SUN WORSHIPPERS.

E. H. THORNE.
BE MERCIFUL UNTO ME.

B. TOURS.
FESTIVAL ODE.

P. TSCHAÏKOWSKY.
NATURE AND LOVE (FEMALE VOICES).

VAN BREE.
*ST. CECILIA'S DAY.

C. M. VON WEBER.
PRECIOSA.
JUBILEE CANTATA.
THREE SEASONS.

S. WESLEY.
DIXIT DOMINUS.

S. S. WESLEY.
O LORD, THOU ART MY GOD.

C. WOOD.
ODE TO THE WEST WIND.

*The Works marked * are also published in Tonic Sol-fa Notation.*

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Printed by NOVELLO, EWER & Co., at 69 and 70, Dean Street (W.), and published at 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)
Sold also by KENT and Co., Paternoster Row (E.C.).—Tuesday, September 1, 1896.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 644.—Vol. 37. OCTOBER 1, 1896. Price 4d.; Postage, 1½d.

Registered for transmission abroad. Annual Subscription, Post-free, 5s.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG AND GOTHA, DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.
Conductor: Professor J. F. BRIDGE, Mus. Doc.

TWENTY-SIXTH SEASON, 1896-7.

PROSPECTUS.

The Series will comprise ten Concerts, at which the following works will be performed:—

Oct. 29.	"Creation."	Feb. 11.	"Elijah."
Nov. 19.	"The Golden Legend."	Mar. 3.	"Redemption."
Dec. 10.	"Saint Paul."	Mar. 25.	"Last Judgment" and "Job."
Jan. 1.	"The Messiah."	Apl. 16.	"The Messiah."
Jan. 21.	"Song of Miriam" and "Israel in Egypt."	May 6.	A work not hitherto performed by the Society.

Arrangements have been made with the following Artists:—

Madame ALBANI	Mr. EDWARD LLOYD
Miss ANNA WILLIAMS	Mr. BEN DAVIES
Miss MACINTYRE	Mr. IVER McKAY
Miss ESTHER PALLISER	Mr. LLOYD CHANDOS
Miss ELLA RUSSELL	Mr. SANTLEY
Mrs. HENSCHEL	Mr. HENSCHEL
Miss MAGGIE PURVIS	Mr. WATKIN MILLS
Madame BELLE COLE	Mr. ANDREW BLACK
Miss MARIAN McKENZIE	Mr. PLUNKET GREENE
Mrs. KATHARINE FISK	Mr. NORMAN SALMOND
Miss SARAH BERRY	Mr. DANIEL PRICE
	Mr. CHARLES ACKERMAN.

Organist: Mr. H. L. BALFOUR.

The Band and Chorus will consist of 1,000 performers.

Of the ten Concerts to be given, eight will be included in the Subscription Series. Prices of subscription for these eight Concerts: Stalls, £2 12s. 6d.; Arena, £2; Balcony (Reserved), £1 11s. 6d.

Prices for each Concert: Stalls, 7s. 6d.; Arena, 6s.; Balcony (Reserved), 5s.; Unreserved, 4s.; and Gallery (Promenade), 1s.

Subscribers' names can now be received, seats secured, and prospectuses obtained at the Royal Albert Hall.

FIRST CONCERT, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 29, AT 8.

HAYDN'S "CREATION."

Artists: Madame ALBANI, Mr. IVER McKAY, and Mr. ANDREW BLACK.

There are still VACANCIES in the Choir for Sopranos, Altos, Tenors, and Basses. Only those who have good and powerful voices, and who can read music at first sight, will be accepted. Address, Secretary, Royal Choral Society, Royal Albert Hall, S.W.

THE GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.—

Established by the Corporation of London, 1880. Principal, Mr. W. H. CUMMINGS.—Improvisation, Accompanying, Sight Singing, Elocution, Sight Reading (Instrumental), Choral, Orchestral, and Operatic Classes. Prospectus and further particulars of the Secretary.

By order of the Committee,
Victoria Embankment, E.C. HILTON CARTER, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

At the January examination Candidates for Fellowship must come prepared to play any portion or all of the following three organ compositions, the selection to be made by the Examiners:—Allegro (last movement) of Sonata, No. 6, Bach (Peters' Ed., Vol. I.; Novello and Co.'s Edition, Book 5); Fugue in D minor, C. Steggall (No. 91. Original Compositions for the Organ. Novello and Co.); Introduction and Fugue in C sharp minor, S. S. Wesley (No. 9. Original Compositions for the Organ, by S. S. Wesley, as edited by Dr. G. M. Garrett. Novello and Co.).

The College Library is open daily, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; also on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5 to 7.

Members desiring practice on the College Organ may obtain particulars on application.

The large Hall, and sundry smaller rooms, may be hired for concerts, meetings, &c.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.
Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

BRISTOL
NINTH MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

Patron: HER MOST GRACIOUS MAJESTY THE QUEEN.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG-GOTHA.

WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY, FRIDAY, AND SATURDAY,
October 14, 15, 16, and 17, 1896.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, 11 o'clock.

"ELIJAH" (Mendelssohn).—Madame Albani, Miss Hilda Wilson, Fräulein Witting, Mr. Edward Lloyd, Mr. Braxton Smith, and Mr. Andrew Black.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, 8 o'clock.

Grand Evening Concert: Wagner, &c.; "BLEST PAIR OF SIRENS" (Dr. Parry); Orchestral and Vocal Selections.—Fräulein Malten (Königliche Sächsische Kammersängerin) (the celebrated Wagnerian Singer, from Dresden. Her first appearance at an English Festival), Miss Annie Boucher, and Mr. Braxton Smith.

THURSDAY MORNING, 11 o'clock.

"REQUIEM MASS" (Gounod).—Mesdames Albani and Witting; Mr. Edward Lloyd and Mr. Andrew Black. "HEAR MY PRAYER" (Mendelssohn).—Madame Albani and the Bristol Festival Choir. "CREATION" (Haydn).—Madame Albani, Mr. Edward Lloyd, and Mr. Andrew Black.

THURSDAY EVENING, 8 o'clock.

Grand Evening Concert: Wagner, &c.; New Cantata, "HYMN BEFORE SUNRISE" (P. Napier Miles). Orchestral and Vocal Selections.—Fräulein Malten, Mr. Ben Davies, Mr. Braxton Smith, and Mr. David Bispham.

FRIDAY MORNING, 11 o'clock.

"JOB" (Dr. Parry).—Master F. Gardiner, Mr. Ben Davies, Mr. Plunket Greene, and Mr. Montague Worlock. Organ Concerto (No. 2) (Prout).—Organist, Mr. Geo. Riseley. "GERMAN REQUIEM" (Brahms).—Miss Esther Palliser and Mr. Andrew Black.

FRIDAY EVENING, 8 o'clock.

"THE GOLDEN LEGEND" (Sullivan).—Miss Esther Palliser, Miss Hilda Wilson, Mr. Edward Lloyd, Mr. Arthur Wills, Mr. Andrew Black; and Miscellaneous Selection.

SATURDAY MORNING, 2 30 o'clock.

"THE MESSIAH" (Handel).—Madame Albani, Miss Hilda Wilson, Mr. Edward Lloyd, and Mr. Andrew Black. The whole of the Oratorio will be given.

Chorus-master, Mr. D. W. ROOTHAM.

COMPLETE FESTIVAL ORCHESTRA, 100 PERFORMERS.
Conductor, Mr. GEORGE RISELEY.

PRICES OF ADMISSION (all Seats secured):—

MORNING PERFORMANCES.—Single ticket for any one Concert: first division, 15s.; second division, 10s. 6d. Four tickets for any one Concert, if purchased on or before October 5: first division, £2 10s.; second division, £1 16s.

EVENING PERFORMANCES.—Single ticket for any one Concert: first division, 12s.; second division, 9s. Four tickets for any one Concert, if purchased on or before October 5: first division, £2; second division, £1 10s. Serial ticket for all seven performances: first division, £4 4s.; second division, £3 3s.

Third division seats, 5s. each, morning or evening (no reduction).

Detailed programmes, with railway arrangements, free on application.

St. Augustine's Parade, Bristol. HENRY COOKE, HUGO MALLET, } Hon. Secs.
WALTER J. KIDNER, Secretary.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Patrons: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN AND THE ROYAL FAMILY.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG AND GOTHA.
Principal: Sir A. C. MACKENZIE, Mus. Doc.

Michaelmas Term began September 28.

Metropolitan Examination, last day for entry, October 31.

Prospectus, Entry Forms, and all information may be obtained from the Secretary. F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS FLORENCE ARMRIDING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Mr. Shakespeare and Medalist, R.A.M.).
Oratorios, Concerts, Lessons, &c., at 20, Conduit Street. Address, Leicester Villa, Ealing, W.

MISS MAUDE BALLARD (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 13, Herbert Road, Stockwell, S.W.

MADAME BARTER (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Westbury Road, Wood Green, N.

MISS SIREMA BURTON (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, and At Homes.
Address, Ivy Bank, Carlton, near Nottingham.

MADAME CONWAY (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, Lessons, Press Notices, &c.
444, Moss Lane East, Oxford Road, Manchester.

MISS MABEL CROSS (Soprano)
(Of the Royal College of Music, London).
Oratorios, Cantatas, Concerts, &c., Winsford, Cheshire.

MISS EMILY DAVIES (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, Severn House, Seven Sisters Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS MINNIE DAWSON (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
272, Richmond Road, Hackney, N.E.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano)
"Messiah."—"Sang with fine devotional feeling."—Northampton Chronicle. "Creation."—"Sang most artistically."—Bristol Times. "Her singing was excellent."—Freeman's Journal. "Elijah."—"Accomplished artist; sang with grand effect."—Standard. "Judas."—"Sang marvellously and with great power."—Teesdale Mercury. "An ideal Maritana."—Waterford Mirror. "A lovely voice."—Teviotdale Record.
Concerts, Oratorios, &c., 237, Katherine Street, Ashton-under-Lyne.

MISS FUSSELLE (Soprano)
Licentiate (Artist), R.A.M.
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. 37, Harrington Square, N.W.

MADAME GOODALL (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Address, Leeds.

MADAME NELLIE GOSNELL (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, 37, St. Augustine's Road, Camden Square, N.W.

MISS MAY GWYNNE (High Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
For terms, press notices, &c., 30, Shepherd's Bush Road, W.

MADAME KATE HARTLEY (Soprano)
Oratorios, Ballads, At Homes, &c.
Coverdale House, Lancaster.

MISS BESSIE HOLT (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals.
Rawtenstall, near Manchester.
Runcorn Tonic Sol-fa Prize Choir.—"Messiah."—"Miss Bessie Holt, the soprano, gave an inimitable interpretation of the numbers allotted to her, and confirmed the favourable impression she made on her previous visit to Runcorn."—The Runcorn Guardian, December 28, 1895.
Littleborough Choral Society.—"The Messiah."—"Miss Bessie Holt was undoubtedly 'the artist.' Graceful pose, sweet, clear, and refined expression, combined with a masterly knowledge of the requirements of the work allotted to the soprano, is not expressive enough to convey the impression made by this lady on those who listened to her on Saturday last. She was especially brilliant in the air 'Rejoice greatly,' and equally attractive in 'I know that my Redeemer liveth,' in which she displayed her gifted powers to much advantage."—The Star, December 22, 1895.
Wycombe Choral Association.—"The Light of the World" (Sullivan).—"Miss Bessie Holt, whose powers were already favourably esteemed in Wycombe, certainly added to her reputation on this occasion. Pure in quality, her voice has reserves of power in every part of the register, and her intonation and enunciation are excellent. The favourite air, 'My soul doth magnify the Lord,' as sung by Miss Holt, was the pæan of praise the composer meant it to be. 'Tell ye the daughter of Zion" was also exceedingly well rendered. Miss Holt's artistic handling of a song requiring very delicate treatment was recognised by a vociferous encore, in response to which she substituted 'Will he come?'"—The South Bucks Free Press, December 6, 1895.
The Sower.—"Miss Bessie Holt, a charming soprano, and a very general favourite, is the vocalist at the Afternoon Concerts."—Blackpool Times, July 18, 1896.

MISS JESSIE HOTINE (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, Operettas, Banquets, &c.
Address, Craignorth, 33, Upper Bedford Place, Russell Square, W.C.

MADAME MINNIE JONES (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, &c.,
30, Farrant Avenue, Wood Green, N.

MADAME RUTH LAMB (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Recommended by Dr. Bridge, of Westminster.
17, Warwick Square, Carlisle.

MISS ADA LEE (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c. Address, 164, Strand, W.C.

MISS MAUD LESLIE, A.L.A.M. (Soprano)
For Concerts, At Homes, &c., 41, Crystal Palace Road, Dulwich, S.E.

MADAME MARIE MALLIA (Soprano)
Oratorios and Concerts. Claremont, Hermon Hill, Snaresbrook, N.E.

MISS EDITH MARSHALL (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
380, Brixton Road, S.W.

MISS FLORENCE MONK (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 26, Portland Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS ANNIE NORLEDGE (Soprano)
For Oratorios and Ballad Concerts. For press notices and terms, address, 221, South Lambeth Road, London, S.W.
Telegrams: "Norledge," London.

MISS FANNIE SELLERS (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Recitals, &c., Crag Cottage, Knaresbro'.

MISS KATE SHIELDS (Soprano, Medalist, R.A.M.)
(Of the Crystal Palace and Principal Provincial Concerts).
For terms and Press notices, apply, 137, Tweedale Street, Rochdale.

MISS AGNES WALKER (Soprano)
104, Lewisham High Road, New Cross, S.E.

MISS GERTRUDE WESLEY (Soprano & Harpist)
(Great Grand-daughter of Samuel Wesley).
For Oratorio and Ballad Concerts.
For terms and critiques, address, 53, High Street, Doncaster.

MISS NELLIE WILLIS (High Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Valuable critiques.
Adwick-le-Street, Doncaster.

MADAME LAURA WITHY (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Rockville, Polsloe Road, Exeter.

MISS PATTILENA STOTT (Mezzo-Soprano)
(Of the Royal College of Music, London, and private Pupil of Mr. Sims Reeves).
"Possesses a rich mezzo-soprano voice."—Derry Standard.
"A highly artistic method."—Winsford Chronicle.
For Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, &c., Clevedon House, Norman Road, Rusholme, Manchester.

MISS MARY WILLIS (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, or Private Lessons, address, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MADAME BARKER (Contralto)
Manchester and Provincial Concerts. Oratorios, Concerts, Recitals, &c.
Press notices, terms, &c., 124, Oldham Road, Ashton-under-Lyne.

MISS BOWMONT (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 51, Mercer Street, Hulme, Manchester.
"Remarkably strong voice of deep and mellow tone."—Halifax Courier.

MISS BERYL CLIVE (Contralto)
"Prominent among the artists was Miss Beryl Clive, a vocalist of more than average ability. She possesses a rich contralto voice of excellent range, and sang with the skill and intelligence of an accomplished artist."—Nottingham Daily Guardian, Dec. 4, 1895.
"Messiah," Town Hall, Stourbridge.—"Miss Clive has a deep and powerful contralto voice, and her singing was marked by power, sweetness, and pathos. Although her interpretation of all her pieces was of a finished character, yet we think she reached her highest point of excellence in the exquisite air 'He shall feed His flock like a shepherd.'"—Stourbridge Advertiser, Jan. 4, 1896.
Address, 30, Pepys Road South, St. Catherine's Park, S.E.

MISS FLORENCE CRANE (Contralto)
Oratorio, Concerts, Lessons, &c., 75, Lichfield Grove, Finchley, N.

MADAME CLARA DORAN (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes.
39, Malvern Road, Kilburn, N.W.

MISS EMILY FOXCROFT, A.L.A.M. (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, At Homes, &c.
76, Calabria Road, Highbury Place, N.

MISS ADELENE GLOVER (Contralto)
(Royal Opera, Covent Garden).
Oratorio, Opera, Concerts, &c., 5, Brudenell View, Hyde Park, Leeds.

MISS JESSIE KING (Contralto)
All communications to be addressed to The Willows, Dulwich Common, S.E.

MISS FANNY MILLSON (Contralto)
For Oratorio and Ballad Concerts.
For terms and vacant dates, Selwood House, Brigg.

MISS RINA ROBINSON (Contralto)
For Oratorio and Ballad Concerts. 80, Tufnell Park Road, N.
References kindly permitted to Dr. A. H. Mann, Dr. E. H. Turpin, and Mr. F. A. W. Docker.

MISS HELEN SAUNDERS, A.R.A.M. (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Banquets, At Homes, &c.
25, Cloudesley Street, Barnsbury, N.

MISS ALICE WOLSTENHOLME (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Address, Radcliffe, Manchester.

MR. CHARLES AXON (Tenor)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Whiteacre Road, Ashton-under-Lyne.
"Mr. Axon has a beautifully even tenor voice of good quality."—Huddersfield Examiner, December 28, 1895.

MR. WRIGHT BEAUMONT (Tenor)
(Bronze and Silver Medalist and Certificate, R.A.M.).
Address, 20, Lavender Gardens, Clapham Junction, S.W.

MR. J. G. BLANCHARD
(Principal Tenor, Italian Church, Hatton Garden).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 41, Savernake Road, N.W.

MR. T. HENRY BREARLEY (Tenor)
Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c. Address, Halifax.

MR. TOM BUCKLAND (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Ballads, and Opera Recitals. Address, Halifax.

MR. TOM CHILD (The Yorkshire Tenor)
(Principal Tenor, Parish Church, Leeds)
Winner of the 100 Guineas Prize, Music Trades Exhibition, 1896.
For terms and vacant dates, address, Hollingside, Horsforth.

MR. WALTER CLINCH (Tenor)
(Late of St. George's Chapel, Windsor Castle).
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, Athole House, Alfred Street, Acton, W.

MR. CHARLES ELLISON (Tenor)
(Late Principal Tenor, Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company, Crystal Palace, and St. James's Hall Concerts, &c.)
For Opera, Operatic Recital, Oratorio, Concerts. Address, 42, Florence Road, New Cross, S.E.

MR. EDWIN KELLETT (Tenor)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Gargrave, Leeds.

MR. WILLS PAGE (Tenor)
All communications to be addressed, 24, Shardeloes Road, New Cross, S.E.

MR. ALFRED PINNINGTON (Tenor)
(Principal Tenor, St. Margaret's, Westminster).
For Oratorios, Concerts, Dinners, &c.
6, Overstrand Mansions, Battersea Park, S.W.

MR. GWILYM RICHARDS (Tenor)
Winner of Joseph Maas Memorial Prize,
" " Goldberg Prize,
" " Evill Prize,
At the Royal Academy of Music.
Of the Crystal Palace and St. James's Hall Concerts.
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts. 30, Redburn Street, Chelsea, S.W.

MR. J. SHAKESPEARE ROBINSON
(Of the London and Provincial Concerts)
(Principal Tenor, York Minster).
Address: 2, Sycamore Terrace, York.
Telegrams: Shakespeare, York Minster.

Mr. Shakespeare Robinson has sung with the greatest success in the following works: Handel—"Messiah," "Judas Maccabæus," "Samson," "Joshua," "Israel in Egypt," "Acis and Galatea"; Haydn—"Creation," "Seasons," "First Mass"; Mendelssohn—"Elijah," "St. Paul," "Hymn of Praise," "95th Psalm"; Mozart—"12th Mass," "Requiem Mass"; Bach—"St. Matthew Passion," "My Spirit was in heaviness"; Spohr—"Last Judgment," "Calvary"; Stainer—"St. Mary Magdalene," "Daughter of Jairus," "Crucifixion"; Bennett—"Woman of Samaria," "May Queen"; Cowen—"Rose Maiden"; Gaul—"Holy City," "Joan of Arc," "Una"; Benedict—"St. Peter"; Goring Thomas—"The Sun Worshippers"; More Smieton—"King Arthur"; Gounod—"Redemption," "Messe Solennelle"; Smart—"Bride of Dunkerron"; Shinn—"Captives of Babylon"; Barnett—"Paradise and the Peri," "Ancient Mariner"; Sullivan—"On Shore and Sea"; Romberg—"Lay of the Bell"; Garrett—"Shunamite Woman"; Naylor—"Meribah," "Manna"; Brahms—"Requiem Mass"; H. Mee—"Horatius," "Delphi"; Barnby—"Rebekah"; Van Bree—"St. Cecilia's Day."

Mr. J. Shakespeare Robinson is engaged to sing at Belfast on February 19, 1897, and is prepared to quote moderate terms for February 16, 17, or 18, 1897, for places ten or more miles from there.

MR. THURGATE SIMPSON (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Ballads.
Address, Collyhurst, Manchester.

MR. HERBERT STANSFIELD (Solo Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, 94, Lowther Street; or, Minster Choir, York.

MR. HENRY TURNPENNY (Tenor)
(Robinson Prize-winner, G.S.M.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., Southgate Road, Wood Green, N.

MR. NORMAN WALLS (Tenor)
(Pupil of Isidore de Solla).
Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, 109, Grosvenor Road, Highbury New Park, London, N.

MR. JOSEPH WILLIAMS (Tenor)
For Ballad Concerts, At Homes, Masonic Meetings, &c.
Address, 22, Bolden Street, St. John's, S.E.

MR. HERBERT ALDRIDGE (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, Saxonbury Villa, Buxton Road, Stratford, E.

MR. H. E. COOKSON (Baritone)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, 75, Park Road, Bradford.

MR. GEORGE DENHAM (Baritone).
"Mr. Denham possesses a rich, powerful, and cultured voice—uncommon merits as a vocalist—thorough musician," &c.—Thanet Advertiser.
312, Liverpool Road, N.

MR. J. G. HEWSON (Baritone)
Elijah.—"The honours were taken by Mr. Hewson, who has certainly not been surpassed in Retford for some time."—Retford News.
"The baritone was a fine singer, well trained and musical. He found favour with the audience from the first, continued it to the end, and received numerous encores."—Gainsborough News.
"Mr. Hewson was heard to advantage in the 'Baal' scene, his dramatic declamation of recitatives being excellent. . . . 'Is not His word' was magnificent."—Belper Journal.
Mr. H. has specially studied "Elijah" under Mr. Santley.
Press opinions, &c., 276, Hyde Road, Manchester.

MR. NATHAN LINLEY (Baritone)
Oratorios, Concerts, Masonic Banquets, &c.
Address, 14, Durley Road, Stamford Hill, N.

MR. HARRY MILLER
(Principal Baritone, Llandaff Cathedral).
Oratorio and Ballad Concerts, &c. Address, The Cathedral.

MR. JOHN RIDDING (Baritone)
20, Algernon Road, Birmingham.

MR. TOM WATERHOUSE
(The Popular Baritone).
For Oratorios, Operas, Orchestral Concerts, Recitals, &c.
"Mr. Tom Waterhouse acquitted himself in a manner which gave extreme pleasure to the large audience." —Lancaster Standard, August 29, 1896.
For terms, &c., address, Tatton Street, Stalybridge.

MR. T. E. MACKIE (Bass)
141, Queen's Terrace, West Field, Retford, Notts.

MR. ALFRED OSMOND (Bass)
(Pupil of Mr. Fred. Walker).
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 39, Gayton Road, Hampstead, N.W.

MR. RICKARD (The Yorkshire Basso)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, King Cross, Halifax.

MISS LIZA HONEYMAN (Solo Violinist)
For Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Cremona Villa, Newport, Fife, N.B.

MISS MARIAN JAY (Solo Violinist)
(Bronze and Silver Medalist; Certificate, R.A.M.).
For Concerts, At Homes, Lessons, &c. 26, Wigmore Street, W.

MR. SINCLAIR DUNN (Tenor) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Concerts, Operas, Lessons, &c., be addressed to 67, Berners Street, W.

MR. WILLIAM WILD (Tenor), of the "Sir Charles and Lady Hallé South African Concert Tour, 1895." (Pupil of Andrew Black, Esq.) For Oratorios, Orchestral Concerts, &c. "Specially recommended by Sir Charles Hallé for concert work." Terms, Press notices, &c., Grosvenor Square, Stalybridge, near Manchester.

MR. GORDON HELLER.—"A powerful and high baritone. Many of his songs were well sung."—The Times. "Sings with taste and judgment."—The Morning. "Voice of musical quality and considerable power."—The Standard. "Good voice, which he knows how to employ."—Morning Post. "Sang with much artistic feeling and intelligence."—Truth. For Oratorios, &c., address, care of N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London, W.

MR. W. J. INESON (Principal Baritone, Cathedral Choir, Hereford, and of the Three Choirs Festivals) is now booking Engagements for Oratorio and Ballad Concerts, At Homes, and Masonic Banquets. For terms, &c., address as above.

MR. E. JACKSON (Baritone) is now booking Engagements for Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, Masonic Banquets, &c. For terms, press notices, and vacant dates, address, Principal Bass, New College, Oxford.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass, Conductor, Italian Church, Hatton Garden) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Opera, or Concerts be addressed, 45, Pentonville Road, N.

HAND-BELLS.—Mr. ARTHUR J. MANGER. Concerts, Dinners, At Homes, &c. 100, Manor Road, Brockley, S.E.

ACCOMPANIST.—PERCY H. FELL. Concerts, At Homes, Dinners, &c. Billiter House, E.C.

MR. WALTER ROWLEY (Lightning Cartoonist). Premier exponent of rapid Portraiture. Great spécialité for Concerts. Particulars, 51, Broke Road, Dalston, N.

MISS ADA LOARING

(SOPRANO)

Merrion, Wellington Road, Peckham, S.E.

MADAME LAURA SMART

(SOPRANO)

Oratorios, Operatic Recitals, Ballad Concerts.
Address, 106, Bolingbroke Grove, Wandsworth Common, S.W. or, 50, Church Street, Liverpool.

MADAME JENNY HOLDEN

(CONTRALTO)

"Messiah," Openshaw Choral Union, Manchester.—"Madame Jenny Holden has an excellent well-trained contralto voice and a distinct enunciation. 'O thou that tellest' was nicely sung, but she achieved her greatest success in 'He shall feed His flock' and 'He was despised,' which were sung with much devotional feeling."—Gorton and Openshaw Reporter.

"Messiah."—"Madame Holden sang the contralto solos in a manner which left nothing to be desired. . . . Her voice is very pleasing. She sang 'He was despised' with true pathos, and we never wish to hear a better rendering of 'He shall feed His flock.'"—High Peak Advertiser (Glossop).

Press opinions, photo, terms, &c., on application.
Ashlynne, Ashton-under-Lyne.

MADAME MARIE HOOTON

AND MR.

EDWARD BRANSCOMBE

Beg to announce that they will return from Australia by the end of September, and are at liberty to accept Engagements for London and Provinces from October 1 onwards.

Please address, care of H. F. Salmon, Esq., The Woodlands, Etherow Street, East Dulwich, S.E.; or, Messrs. Healey and Son, 17, Great Marlborough Street, W.

MR.

EDWARD BRANSCOMBE

(TENOR)

(Of Westminster Abbey).

Specially engaged during July and August for the Sydney Oratorio Festival: "Elijah," "Spectre's Bride," "Judas"; Melbourne Oratorio Festival: "Elijah," "Samson," "Lobgesang"; Adelaide Oratorio Festival: "Elijah," "Spectre's Bride," "Messiah."

All communications to Messrs. Healey and Son, 17, Gt. Marlborough Street, W.; or, H. F. Salmon, Esq., The Woodlands, Etherow Street, East Dulwich, S.E.

MR.

HAMLYN CRIMP

(TENOR)

For terms and vacant dates, please apply, The Woodlands, Heathfield Road, Birmingham.

Concert Parties arranged.

MR. DAVID HANSON

(TENOR)

For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c.

"Mr. David Hanson, an excellent tenor, singing with much acceptance Blumenthal's song 'Message,' Sullivan's 'Sailor's Grave,' and 'The Last Watch' (Pinsuti)."—Manchester Courier, Dec. 9, 1895.

"Mr. David Hanson, tenor, fully maintained his reputation, being recalled twice."—Walshaw Choral Society.—Bury Times, Feb. 12, 1896.

"Mr. David Hanson, tenor, so well known, executed his part in his usual effective style."—Haslinden Guardian, Sept. 19, 1896.

For terms, please address, Cams, Helmshore, Lancs.

MR. BRIGHT JONES

(TENOR).

"Israel in Egypt."—"Mr. Bright Jones, the new Welsh tenor, received an ovation for his spirited rendering of the great aria 'The enemy said.'"—Bradford Observer.

"Maritana."—"Mr. Bright Jones, the new tenor, was engaged, and of all tenors we have heard Mr. Bright Jones takes pre-eminent position. He has a voice of singular purity and power, while his enunciation is faultless."—Derbyshire Advertiser.

The Amalgamated Musicians' Union.—"Mr. Bright Jones was the tenor, and was as popular as Madame Gomez. He sang 'Lend me your aid,' which roused the house to enthusiasm."—Bath Bladud.

For terms and vacant dates, apply, N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork St., W.

MR.

KEVERN BATTEN

(L.R.A.M., BARITONE)

For Concerts, &c., address, 9, Adelaide Road, N.W.

MR.

A. MONTAGUE BORWELL

L.R.A.M., A.G.S.M. (BARITONE).

Prize-winner, Solo Singing and Sight Reading, Stratford Musical Festival. Medalist, Soc. Arts.

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. 16, Springfield, Upper Clapton, N.E.

MR.

CHARLES COPLAND

(BARITONE).

Principal London appearances:

Royal Choral Society's Concerts, 1895-96.
Royal Albert Hall (Scotch Festival).
Queen's Hall (Choral Society's Concerts, Ballads, &c.).
St. James's Hall (Ballads, &c.).
Crystal Palace Orchestral Concerts.
Crystal Palace Promenade Concerts.
Royal Amateur Orchestral Society.
Highbury Philharmonic Society.
Covent Garden Promenade Concerts.
English Opera Season, Drury Lane.
Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company (London Season), &c.

Dates booked for coming season at Winchester, Southport, Darlington, Glasgow (2), Aberdeen, Doncaster, Newcastle, Manchester, Plymouth, Oxford, Bristol, Bath, Leicester, Leamington, Hull, Buxton, Dunfermline, Hawick, Cirencester, Bournemouth, &c.

For terms, address, Stalheim, 48, Greencroft Gardens, N.W.; Telegrams: "Stalheim, London"; or, to N. Vert, 6, Cork Street, W.

MR. ROLAND HOYLE

(BARITONE)

(Of Sir Charles Hallé's and Provincial Concerts).

Press notices, terms, &c., 22, Queen Street, Cheetham, Manchester.

MR. EDWARD ILES

(BARITONE).

Address, 31, York Street, W.

MR. CHARLES KNOWLES

(BARITONE).

For Oratorios and Ballad Concerts.

Dates booked include: Oct. 5, Oct. 11, "St. Paul"; Oct. 19, Bramley Orchestral Society; Oct. 28, Idle; Nov. 1, Gounod's "Messe Solennelle," Hessle; Nov. 3 ("Faust"), Leeds Choral Union; Nov. 28, Gildersome Orchestral Society; Dec. 8, "Acis and Galatea," Armley Choral Society, &c.

For Press notices, terms, dates, &c., address, 61, Burley St., Leeds.

MR. PHILIP LINCEY

(BARITONE)

Of Sir Chas. Hallé's Concerts, Hovingham Festival, 1896, &c. (late Pupil of Mr. Edwin Holland). Address, Heaton Grove, Bradford.

MR.

ALEXANDER MUSGROVE

(BARITONE)

(Of St. James's Hall and Crystal Palace Concerts)

For Oratorio, Concerts, &c.

For terms, vacant dates, Press notices, address, 67, Berners Street, London, W.; or, care of Forsyth Bros., 126 and 128, Deansgate, Manchester.

MR. DANIEL PRICE

(BARITONE)

Westminster Abbey. Address, 18, Clarendon Road, W.

MR. JOS. REED

(Principal Tenor, Trinity College).

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., terms, Garden Walk, Cambridge.

MR. JOSHUA WOODHEAD

(THE NEW BARITONE).

"High powerful voice."

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c, address, 57, Fell Street, Liverpool.

MR. ARTHUR BARLOW

(BASS).

For Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, &c.

Address, 19, Oval Road, Regent's Park, N.W.; or, N. Vert, 6, Cork Street, W.

MR. THOMAS KEMPTON

(BASS)

Vicar-Choral, St. Paul's Cathedral.

For Engagements and Pupils, address, 55, Petherton Rd., Canonbury.

MR. CHARLES TREE

(BARITONE)

(Of the Queen's Hall, Steinway Hall, St. James's Hall, and principal Provincial Concerts).

Winner of the 100-Guinea Grand Piano at the International Baritone Competition, London, July, 1896.

Darwen News: "The Creation."—"Very rich voice. Sang with grand effect."
East Essex Times: "The Ancient Mariner."—"Mr. Tree's fine voice quickly secured the approbation of the listeners."
Derby Daily Telegraph: Berlioz's "Faust."—"Sang with utmost care and effect."
Daily Chronicle: "Has fine voice. Shows considerable promise."
The Queen: "Sang his songs, including 'The Prologue,' splendidly."
Eastern Morning News: "A voice of exceeding sweetness. Should make his way to the front rank of operatic singers."
Northern Gossip: "A baritone worthy of the Carl Rosa's."
Hull Daily Mail: "His fine singing entitles him to stand very high. Carefully managed voice, rich tone, excellent compass."

For Oratorio, Operatic, and Ballad Concerts, &c.

Nearly every date booked up to December 7, 1896.

Address, 27, Cambridge Avenue, Kilburn, London; or, W. B. Healey and Son.

MISS ALICE MARY SMITH

(Mrs. Alfred Dymes)
Associate of the Royal College of Music
HARPIST
16, Lancaster Road, W.

THE GRIMSON FAMILY.

This remarkable family of Instrumentalists can be engaged either together or separately. Programmes suitable for an entire Concert or for small Choral Societies or Literary and Musical Societies. They play almost any combination of Chamber Music, from the Mendelssohn Octet downwards.

Solo Pianists.
Miss ANNIE GRIMSON, A.R.C.M., and Hopkinson Gold Medalist, Covent Garden Promenade Concerts, Imperial Institute, &c.
Miss AMY GRIMSON, A.R.C.M., and Hopkinson Gold Medalist.
Solo Violin.
Miss JESSIE GRIMSON, Crystal Palace Saturday Concerts.
Viola.
Mr. S. DEAN GRIMSON.
For terms, Press notices, &c., S. Dean Grimson, Cremona, Ealing, W.

MR.

HUGO GÖRLITZ

Director of all PADEREWSKI Tours abroad.

On Tour with

MADAME AMY SHERWIN'S OPERATIC CONCERT COMPANY

IN SOUTH AFRICA

Returns to London about November 1, 1896.

All communications to be sent to 19, Old Burlington Street, W.

SOLO BOYS.

LONDON TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CHORISTERS.
President: Mr. RANDEGGER.
Principal: Mr. JAMES BATES.

TWENTY SOLO BOYS, strongly recommended as being excellent vocalists and thoroughly reliable, can be engaged for Oratorios, Festival Services, Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c.

FIFTY LEADING BOYS, engaged by the Royal Choral Society (Gounod's "Redemption"), the Queen's Hall Choral Society (all Concerts), and the other principal London Musical Societies, are free on week-days only.

OVER ONE HUNDRED competent Chorus Boys available.

For terms, photos of Solo Boys, prospectus, or further particulars, address, Mr. G. E. Jeffries, Secretary, Church House, Porchester Terrace, Hyde Park, W.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) supplies Solo Boys (personally trained and thoroughly reliable) for Church Festivals, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

Mr. Dutton has an experienced Solo Boy disengaged for Sunday duty. High register.

For vacant dates, terms, and further particulars, address—
Mr. Henry J. Dutton, 19, Alpha Road, New Cross, S.E.

MR.

BLAXLAND'S SOLO BOYS

HIGHLY TRAINED. THOROUGHLY RELIABLE.

For Harvest and Church Festivals, Concerts, Banquets, &c., are prepared with the principal Oratorios and Standard Works, Ballads, &c.
A Chorus of Fifty Boys available week-days.
Also the noted Soprano Solo Boy (pupil of Mr. Blaxland), Master

STERNDALE BENNETT

(Chester and Leeds Festivals, 1894, and who is also booked for the Sheffield Festival, October, 1896).

Mr. BLAXLAND recommends as a Novelty for Concerts, Banquets, &c., his whose répertoire consists of Trios (unaccompanied and accompanied), also Duets and Solos.

BOYS' TRIO,

For Terms, &c., address, Mr. BLAXLAND, 15, Tavistock Crescent, Westbourne Park, W.

MR. JOSEF CANTOR'S

"GEMS OF THE OPERAS"

CONCERT COMPANY.

All communications, Church Street, Liverpool.

Telegrams—"Cantor, Liverpool."

THE COWARD-KEMPTON QUARTET.

Alto: Mr. PERCY COWARD; Tenor: Mr. ARTHUR COWARD; Baritone: Mr. RANDULPH COWARD; Bass: Mr. BELL KEMPTON.

For Concerts, &c. Terms on application to Arthur Coward (care of Metzler and Co., Ltd.), Great Marlborough Street, W.

THE CRICHTON PART-SINGERS

HAYDN GROVER (Alto) | HERBERT DYER (Tenor)
HUGH COCHRANE (Baritone) | FREDERICK KING (Bass)

are now booking engagements for the ensuing season.

Specially arranged numbers and novelties. Complete programmes arranged.

For Press critiques, vacant dates, and terms, apply, 40, Warbeck Road, Uxbridge Road, W.

ROYAL WINDSOR GLEE SINGERS

(Of St. George's Chapel Royal and Eton College Chapel).

For Concerts, Garden Parties, &c. Terms on application to D. Humphreys, 19, The Cloisters, Windsor.

THE "IVANHOE" GLEE SINGERS.

Alto, Mr. G. Broughton Brentnall; Tenor, Mr. James Mather; Baritone, Mr. J. W. Buckler; Bass, Mr. Wallace Hearnden.

For Concerts, Banquets, &c. Terms and open dates, apply, Mr. Wallace Hearnden, Warner Street, Derby.

THE MISSES TULLOCH'S

Vocal, Instrumental, and Dramatic

RECITALS.

OPERATIC SCENAS AND ARIAS. BALLADS.
MANDOLINE AND GUITAR SOLOS AND DUETS.
ITALIAN, FRENCH, AND GERMAN SONGS.
SPANISH SONGS TO GUITAR ACCOMPANIMENTS.
RECITATIONS (POETIC AND HUMOROUS).

For Press notices and programmes, address, Miss D. Tulloch, 16, Linden Gardens, London, W.; or, usual Concert Agents.

CONCERT ORGANISERS, CONDUCTORS of CHORAL SOCIETIES, &c., in the Provinces, should apply to the Albion Concert Bureau, 298, Regent Street, London, for particulars of Artists, who may be booked for neighbourhood or en route about the time of their fixture. Telegrams—"Intonate, London."

BAKER STREET CHURCH OF ENGLAND HIGH SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, Ltd.,

6, UPPER BAKER STREET, N.W.
(One Minute from the Metropolitan Station).

The Rev. Canon Francis Holland, Chairman.

PIANO (under the direction of Mr. Oscar Beringer): Miss Constance Bache, Miss Ethel Boyce, A.R.A.M., Miss Jessie Davies, A.R.A.M., Miss Kate Robinson, &c.
VIOLIN (under the direction of Herr Josef Ludwig): Herr J. Ludwig, Miss Louisa Nunn.
SINGING (under the direction of Mrs. Hutchinson): Mrs. Hutchinson, Miss Margaret Barter.
HARMONY CLASSES: Orchestral Practices, during Lent and Christmas Terms.
BOARDING-HOUSE for SCHOLARS and BYE-STUDENTS: Miss Price and Miss Woods, 78, Gloster Place, Portman Square.

For Prospectus, &c., apply to the Headmistress, Miss Lilla B. Strong, 6, Upper Baker Street, N.W.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

Examinations for Degrees in Music are held in March and September.
Full particulars, with copies of former papers, of Dr. Armes, The Bailey, Durham.

GUILD OF CHURCH MUSICIANS,

35, WELLINGTON ST., STRAND, LONDON, W.C.

Under the Patronage of the Bishops and Clergy of the Church of England.

President: The Very Rev. Francis Pigou, D.D., Dean of Bristol.
Warden and Licensed Lay Chaplain: J. H. Lewis, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.
Sub-Warden: F. J. Karn, Mus. Doc., F.G.C.M.

Musical Patrons:
Frederic H. Cowen, Esq.; George Riseley, Esq., R.A.M.; W. H. Longhurst, Esq., Mus. Doc., F.R.C.O.; Berthold Tours, Esq.; Edwin M. Lott, Esq., Mus. Doc., F.R.C.O.; G. Robertson Sinclair, Esq.; H. E. Ford, Esq., Mus. Doc.; J. M. W. Young, Esq.; Arthur Henry Brown, Esq.; Alfred J. Caldicott, Esq., Mus. Doc.; William Spark, Esq., Mus. Doc., F.R.C.O., &c.

A.G.C.M. and F.G.C.M. Diploma Examinations, January, 1897.
Annual Service in St. Paul's Cathedral, October 29, 1896.
Annual Banquet at the Holborn Restaurant, November 16, 1896, at which the Very Rev. the President of the Guild will (D.V.) preside. Tickets 5s. each.
Annual Membership or Choir Enrolment, 10s. 6d. Life, £5 5s.
Calendar (7th Edition), revised, containing (in addition to Guild matter) an Index of Musical Degrees and Diplomas, with Description of Hoods granted by all the Universities and Colleges throughout the world. 1s., post-free.
Set of last Examination Papers, 1s., post-free.
Representatives required in England and abroad.
Free Register for Organists requiring appointments.
For further particulars, apply to the Warden.

By Order of the Council.

MUSICAL INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE,

Limited.
Founded 1878. Incorporated 1893.
Central Office: 113, Great Portland Street, W.
Principal: Edwin M. Lott, Mus. Doc.
Vice-Principal: James H. Lewis, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.
Next Local Theoretical Examination, November 25, 1896.
Practical Examinations throughout the kingdom.
W. A. PHILPOTT, Mus. Bac., F.M.I.C., Secretary.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Instituted by the Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.
Incorporated, 1891.

Patrons:
The Rt. Hon. The Marquis of Lorne, K.T.
The Rt. Hon. The Earl of Dartmouth.
Director:
J. H. Lewis, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.
Registrar:
George Prior, Mus. Doc., Oxon.
Bursar:
W. F. W. Jackson, Mus. Bac., Oxon.

Local and Higher (Practical) Examinations are now being held at the various Centres.
Next Local Theoretical Examination, December 2.
Metropolitan Examinations, in all Subjects, and for all Grades, including the Diplomas of Associate (A.V.C.M.), Associate in Music (A.Mus.V.C.M.), Licentiate (L.V.C.M.), and Licentiate in Music (L.Mus.V.C.M.) will be held December 3.
Annual Dinner in November.
The Educational Department is under the direction of Dr. Prior.
Local Secretaries required for towns not already represented.
Full particulars on application.

GEO. A. STANTON, F.G.C.M., Secretary.
Central Office: 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

THE VIRGIL CLAVIER PIANOFORTE METHOD. — Mr. STIEBLER COOK, A.R.A.M., gives LESSONS on the above system (recommended by Paderewski, Von Bülow, De Pachmann). By far the most rapid and certain means yet devised for acquiring a perfect technique. For particulars, address, 17, Keppel St., Russell Sq., W.C.; or, Secretary, Metropolitan College of Music, 415, Holloway Road, N., where Mr. Cook also receives Pupils.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who OBTAINED DEGREES OF MUS.D. AND MUS.B. at Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, and Durham (1896) Universities, Diplomas of L.R.A.M. (1896, &c.), A.Mus. L.C.M., L.Mus. L.C.M., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.O. (1895); Appointments at College and School of Music, and as Chapel Royal, Cathedral, and Parish Church Organists; Gold Medals, Prizes, "Honours" and Pass Certificates (of the Colleges of Music) to the number of 500. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Piano. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS.
Dr. Horton Allison, Mus.D. 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

London College of Music,

Incorporated 1892.] [Limited.
GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET, LONDON, W.

PATRONS.

His Grace the Duke of Leeds.
Sir Francis W. Brady, Bart., Q.C.
Sir Robert Raper, Kt.
Sir Edward Reid.
Sir Vincent Kennett-Barrington, Kt.

BOARD OF EXAMINATION.

Horton Allison, Esq., Mus.D., Dublin; Mus.B., Cantab.
W. H. Longhurst, Esq., Mus.D., Cantuar, F.R.C.O.
Walter H. Sangster, Esq., Mus. Doc., Oxon.

EXAMINERS.

Alfred J. Caldicott, Esq., Mus. Bac., Cantab. (Principal, Education Department).
G. Augustus Holmes, Esq. (Director of Examinations).
Dr. F. J. Karn, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (Vice-Principal).
C. E. Allum, Esq., Mus. Doc.; T.C.D.
Frederic Atkins, Esq., Mus. Bac., Oxon.
C. H. Briggs, Esq., Mus. Doc., Cantab.
J. Maude Crament, Esq., Mus. Bac., Oxon.
Seymour Smith, Esq.
O. A. Mansfield, Esq., Mus. D.; L.Mus.L.C.M.; F.R.C.O.
Horace Hill, Esq., Mus. Doc., Cantab.
Wm. Spark, Esq., Mus. Doc., Dublin; F.R.C.O.
Theodore S. Tearne, Esq., Mus. Bac., Oxon.; L.Mus.
William C. Dewberry, Esq., Mus. Bac., Cantab., A.R.A.M.

EXAMINATIONS in PIANOFORTE PLAYING, SINGING, THEORY, and all branches of Music will be held in London and at 350 Provincial Centres in December next, when Certificates will be granted to all successful candidates.

SYLLABUS and FORMS of ENTRY can be obtained of the Secretary, who will supply all particulars. The last day of entry is November 14.

SILVER and BRONZE MEDALS and BOOK PRIZES are offered for competition in accordance with the regulations.

APPLICATION for the formation of NEW CENTRES should be made to the Secretary, who will furnish all necessary information.

The DIPLOMAS granted by the College are Associate (A.L.C.M.), Associate in Music (A.Mus.L.C.M.), Licentiate (L.L.C.M.), and Licentiate in Music (L.Mus.L.C.M.). Regulations and list of Diplomés on application.

In the EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT Students are received and thoroughly trained under eminent Professors at moderate fees. Evening Classes are held in various subjects; also special Day Classes.

REHEARSALS of the LADIES' CHOIR and of the OPERATIC CLASS are held each week. These are free to Vocal Students of the College approved by the Principal.

STUDENTS' CONCERTS, and LECTURES and RECITALS by Professors, are periodically given during Term in the Lecture Hall of the College. Full particulars will be found duly published in the daily papers.

T. WEEKES HOLMES, Secretary.

TEACHERS WANTED.

MACDONALD SMITH'S SYSTEM.

("FROM BRAIN TO KEYBOARD.")

MR. MACDONALD SMITH'S Correspondence Branch having so increased as to oblige him to decline many applications for personal lessons in Touch and Technique, it having also come to his knowledge that his system is being very inadequately re-taught in some quarters and in a way little calculated to bring credit to the method, he has decided to afford to a few competent gentlemen the opportunity of becoming certificated teachers, under the following conditions:—

Applicants to be good musicians, and to prove, by testimonials, previous proficiency in either (a) pure and applied Mechanics or (b) Anatomy and Physiology.

Should many desire to enter for this, certificates will be awarded by competition.

Candidates whose testimonials are satisfactory will, upon payment of an examination fee of £2 2s., be supplied with the set of the general "From Brain to Keyboard" Exercises, and with a list of twenty questions on the physiology of pianoforte playing, to be answered before February 1, 1897. Names of best works to consult will be given.

If by the latter date no candidate has answered these satisfactorily, no certificate will be granted.

Fee for Certificate, £30. Successful candidates will be fully instructed by Mr. Macdonald Smith in every detail of the application of the system to special cases, without further charge.

Young engineers or medical men who are musicians would find the above a remunerative opening.

Address application enclosing testimonials, to—

MACDONALD SMITH,

STEINWAY HALL, LOWER SEYMOUR STREET, W.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. New House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or at 84, New Bond Street, W. Schools attended. Address Willersley House, Old Charlton.

DR. W. BENTHAM, Mus.D., T.C.T., F.R.C.O., L.Mus. L.C.M., Associate-Organist T.C.L., Winner of the Hallé Gold Medal for Sight Reading, &c., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, INSTRUMENTATION, FUGUE, ACOUSTICS, &c., by Correspondence. Highly successful method. Preparation for ALL Examinations. Successes: Durham Mus. Bac. (First and Final), London Mus. Bac. (Intermediate and Final), A.R.C.O., F.R.C.O., L.C.M., and T.C.L., higher and local, &c. Terms very moderate. Address, Bonchurch, Isle of Wight.

DR. J. M. BENTLEY, Hon. F.R.A.M.—Instruction in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, and ORCHESTRATION per post. Address, Messrs. Novello and Co.

A.R.C.M. TEACHERS' EXAM.—MISS B. FURZE, A.R.C.M. (Double Diploma), COACHES by CORRESPONDENCE in "Physiology of the Voice." Address, Northumberland College of Music, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

MR. FRANK FREWER, L.R.A.M., A.R.C.O. (Organist, St. James's, Garlickhithe, City), teaches the PIANOFORTE, ORGAN, &c. Preparation for Exams. Terms moderate. 6, Wilmot Place, Rochester Road, Camden Road, N.W.

DR. ALBERT HAM, F.R.C.O., L.T.C.L., gives LESSONS in the THEORY OF MUSIC by Post. Recent successes: F.R.C.O. and A.R.C.O., 1896; First Mus.B., Oxon.; L.R.C.M. (Singing); A.T.C.L., &c. Park Street, Taunton.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.Mus., T.C.L., prepares CANDIDATES for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Stoke-on-Trent.

MR. S. S. MARTYN, Mus. Bac., Oxon., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., personally or by post. 24, Killieser Avenue, Streatham Hill, S.W.

MR. W. E. PITMAN, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., teaches HARMONY and COUNTERPOINT, personally or by correspondence, and coaches for the Universities, Royal College of Organists, and other Musical Exams. Thorough grounding in the various subjects. For terms, address, W. E. Pitman, Sundridge, Sevenoaks.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; L.Mus. T.C.L., gives LESSONS Personally or by post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c., and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: A.R.C.M., 1896; CAMBRIDGE, FIRST MUS. BAC., 1896; OXFORD, MUS. BAC., 1896, and FIRST, 1896; MUS. BAC., DURHAM, 1895, also 1894, 1893, 1892, and 1891; and FIRST, 1895, also 1894, 1893, 1892, 1891, and 1890; F.R.C.O. and A.R.C.O., 1896; L.R.A.M. (Pianoforte), 1895; CAMBRIDGE, MUS. BAC.; LONDON, MUS. BAC.; DUBLIN, MUS. BAC.; L.R.A.M. (Composition); Mus. Bac. and Mus. Doc., Toronto, Gold Medalists, 1890, 1892, and 1893; L.Mus., L.C.M.; L.T.C.L., and A.T.C.L., 1895 and 1896; Senior Local R.A.M. and R.C.M. Special and individual attention given to Correspondents. Upwards of 350 Diplomas and Degrees and several Gold and Silver Medals gained by pupils. MSS. corrected and revised for publication. Terms moderate. Address, 70, Park Road, Haverstock Hill, London, N.W.

MR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, F.R.C.O., Lecturer on Harmony in King's College, Lond., Organist and Choirmaster, St. Stephen's, South Kensington. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS. HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, &c., personally or by correspondence. Preparation for University, R.C.O., and other Examinations. Classes. 54, Baron's Court Road, West Kensington, W.

MR. J. HARRAWAY SLAPE visits and receives PUPILS for ORGAN, PIANOFORTE, HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Preparation for all Musical Exams. Recent successes, A.T.C.L., Certificated Pianist, Trinity College, 1895. Special facilities to Organ Students. Practice on 2 and 3-Manual Instruments. Terms moderate. 22, Camden Road, N.W.

MR. BRUCE STEANE prepares rapidly and systematically for MUSICAL EXAMS. in all subjects, personally or by post. Many past successes. Address, Greystone, Granville Road, Sevenoaks.

MR. R. STOKOE, Mus. Bac., Cantab., F.R.C.O., gives ORGAN LESSONS at Christ Church, Down Street, Piccadilly. Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., taught personally or by post. 86, Rossiter Road, Balham, S.W.

DR. TAYLOR, Mus.D., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.T.C.L. (Author of "Vocal Score Reading Exercises" and "Figured Bass and Melody Exercises," for R.C.O. Students), prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Address, Wolverhampton Road, Stafford.

DR. THOMAS (Mus. Doc., Oxon.; Org. and C.M., St. Clement's; Conductor, Phil.) has VACANCY for YOUTH as Resident Pupil. Thorough training; Univ. degree. Prep. for all Exams. "Carlyle," Boscombe, Bournemouth.

MR. A. W. TOMLYN, Mus.B., Dunelm, L.T.C.L., Berwick-on-Tweed, COACHES CANDIDATES for University and all other Exams. by post. Every possible attention and assistance guaranteed. Many past successes.

MR. W. H. TUTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, ACOUSTICS, &c., by Correspondence. Ashburn, Derbyshire.

DR. H. W. WAREING (Mus. Doc., Cantab.) PREPARES PUPILS by Correspondence for University and other Musical Exams. Latest successes:—Prelim. Mus. Bac., Cantab., May, 1896 (two passes: one first in first-class), and Final Mus. Bac., Oxon., Nov., 1895. Address, The Elms, King's Norton, Birmingham.

THE TRAINING OF ALTOS.—Lessons in Voice Production and Singing given by MUNRO DAVISON, F.R.C.O., Solo Alto, Temple Church, &c. Many of Mr. Davison's pupils have obtained Professional appointments. 142, Stroud Green Road, N.

VOICES TRAINED (Altos included), and SIGHT-SINGING and the PIANOFORTE TAUGHT by Mr. W. A. FROST (Vicar-Choral of St. Paul's Cathedral), at 16, Amwell Street, E.C. Many of Mr. Frost's pupils have obtained Cathedral and other Choir appointments.

THE TRAINING OF TENORS. DAVIDSON PALMER'S METHOD. This method is of the utmost importance to Tenors, whose voices are continually being ruined by wrong use and false teaching.

THE TRAINING OF BOYS' VOICES through the Breaking Period. This is the best time for training, though (through ignorance of true principles) it is supposed to be the worst.

MR. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon., gives lessons a his residence, and at the West End. For terms, &c., address, 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N.

MR. SYDNEY BLAKISTON requests that all communications respecting LESSONS in the higher development of PIANOFORTE PLAYING be addressed to 14, Beacon Hill, N. Mr. Blakiston visits Oxford and Winslow on Tuesdays, and Hildenboro' and neighbourhood every Saturday.

ELEVEN POUNDS in PRIZES.—Second Band of Hope Song Competition.

Songs for special Band of Hope Gatherings.

Action Songs for Bands of Hope.

Apply early for conditions, to Newcastle, Gateshead and District Band of Hope Union, 17, St. Nicholas Churchyard, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON.

For Musical Education and Examination.—Inst. 1872.

President:
Sir RICHARD E. WEBSTER, G.C.M.G., Q.C., M.P.
Warden:
Professor E. H. TURPIN, Mus.D.
Director of Examinations:
Professor JAMES HIGGS, Mus.B.

Session 1896-97.

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN INSTRUMENTAL AND VOCAL MUSIC.

The subjects are:—Pianoforte, Violin, Organ, Harmonium Playing, Solo Singing, and all Orchestral Instruments. The Examinations are conducted in two Divisions, Senior and Junior, and in Pianoforte and Violin Playing there is also a Primary (Elementary) Division. Pass and Honour Certificates are awarded in the Junior and Senior Divisions. Arrangements are being made for holding these Examinations at the following, amongst other centres:—

In November: Accrington, Balham, Bath, Bolton, Bournemouth, Brighton, Bristol, Brockley and New Cross, Burnley, Bury St. Edmunds, Buxton, Cheltenham, Doncaster (October), Dover, Great Yarmouth, Guildford, Hastings, King's Lynn, Leamington, Lincoln, Maidenhead (October), Margate, Newbury, Northampton, Norwich, Portsmouth, Ramsgate, Rawtenstall, Reading, St. Ives, Southampton, Southport, Stalybridge, Stockport, Taunton, Tiverton, Walthamstow, Waltham Abbey, Weston-super-Mare.

In December: Bedford, Birmingham, Blackburn, Bodmin, Bradford, Cambridge, Cardiff, Carlisle, Chatham, Chesterfield, Cleator Moor, Colchester, Croydon, Darlington, Ealing, Eckington, Exeter, Halifax, Hanley, Harrogate, Hull, Leeds, Leicester, Liverpool, London, Manchester, Newcastle-on-Tyne, Newport (Mon.), Nottingham, Preston, Sheffield, Stockton, Surbiton, Swindon, Tunbridge Wells, Ware, York.

Any or all of the following printed papers may be had on application to the undersigned:—(a) Regulations and list of music to be performed for the local examinations in Instrumental and Vocal Music, and regulations for the (Theoretical) Local Examinations in Musical Knowledge; (b) List of Local Centres; (c) Regulations for the Higher Examinations for Diplomas and Certificates and list of music to be performed for the Higher Certificates in Vocal and Instrumental Subjects; (d) Prospectus of the Classes and Lectures Department; (e) General Prospectus, containing list of honorary officers; (f) Regulations for the Enrolment of Institutions in Union; (g) Regulations for Membership.

By order of the Academical Board,
SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.
Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

THE BURGON OPERA RECITAL COMPANY

UNDER THE DIRECTION OF

MR. W. H. BURGON,

Principal Bass, Royal English Opera House, Covent Garden Opera House, and Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company, &c.;
Also of the leading Choral Societies' Concerts.

The experienced Artists of the above Company can be engaged by Choral Societies for Oratorio, Concert, or Opera Recital.

Specimens of the special Programmes for which the Burgon Opera Recital Company has become so celebrated, viz.:—
Part I.—Ballad and Instrumental.
Part II.—Recital in Costume or Evening Dress, of Selections from a popular Opera ("Cavalleria Rusticana," "Pagliacci," "Flying Dutchman," "Il Trovatore," "Maritana," "Bohemian Girl," "Faust," &c.)—will be forwarded on application.

Address, W. H. BURGON,
8, Marlboro' Road, Bedford Park, London, W.

Just Published.

THE LITTLE CHOIR BOOK

COMPILED BY

THOMAS CURRY

(Organist and Choirmaster, St. Simon's, Upper Chelsea, and St. Paul's, Marylebone)

WITH EXERCISES

BY

J. STAINER.

Price Three-Halfpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

John Broadwood & Sons

PIANOFORTE MAKERS

BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT TO

HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE OF WALES

HER ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCESS OF WALES

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH (DUKE OF SAXE-COBURG AND GOTHA)

AND THE

REST OF THE ROYAL FAMILY.

John Broadwood & Sons

respectfully draw attention to, and invite inspection of, their newly introduced and improved straight and cross strung

HORIZONTAL

AND

UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES.

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET (near Regent Street),

LONDON, W.

ERARD

THE FINEST AND MOST DURABLE INSTRUMENTS

ROYAL PIANOS

CAN BE PERFECTLY RESTORED AFTER FIFTY OR SIXTY YEARS' USAGE.

PADEREWSKI says:—
"I play only on an ERARD, whenever obtainable."

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Messrs. Erard beg to announce that owing to the exceptionally large number of instruments sent out on hire during the London season, and recently returned, they have decided to offer the same at very large reductions.

An Inspection of the above Instruments is respectfully solicited, or particulars will be sent by post on application.

MOST LIBERAL DISCOUNT FOR CASH.

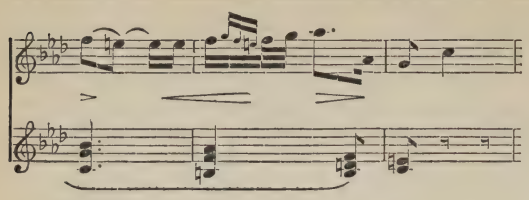
Any Instrument may be bought on the Deferred Payment System.

S. and P. ERARD,
Makers to Her Majesty the Queen and the Royal Family,
18, GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET, LONDON, W.

With this Number is presented gratis an Extra Supplement, consisting of an Anthem by J. Christopher Marks, Jun., entitled, "The Day is past and over," and a Fac-simile letter of S. S. Wesley.

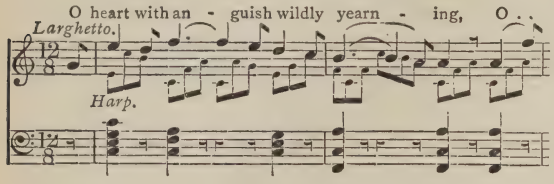
THE MUSICAL TIMES
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
OCTOBER 1, 1896.

RICHARD WAGNER'S METHODS.

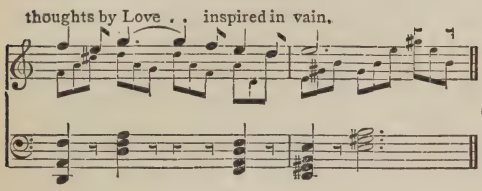


It being now over half-a-century since the first performance of "Tannhäuser" astonished opera-goers, and thirteen years since the death of its composer, it is surely time that he was allowed to take his hard-won seat among the immortals without any more of the childish and futile opposition which continues to be exhibited by some even in the present day. Victory was ever with him—his detractors have always imagined a vain thing; now let us have peace and let us acknowledge Richard Wagner as a classic—an artist not only to be honoured, but to be quoted as an authority and imitated as a model in all theoretical and practical points which have to do with dramatic composition. Of course composers have regarded him in that light for the last twenty years, but it is the formal recognition by schoolmen that I demand for him—the canonization which comes only when party strife has ceased. For it is my opinion—and I have studied Wagner's works for twenty-five years—that no other composer affords such valuable material to the student, since in no other can the development of a great musical mind be so clearly followed. From "The Fairies" to "Parsifal" what an immense distance! Yet each step can be fully traced in the works between these two. Let us glance—space will not allow us to do more—at the development of Wagner's technique in the various branches of his art—namely, in Melody, Harmony, Counterpoint, and Form—and since we know what all his great predecessors accomplished in these directions we shall be enabled to put the value of his work into such a form that it can be apprehended by the least technical reader.

1. His Melody.



Melody is the most important branch of all musical art, and the one about which theorists tell us singularly little. Few composers build up melody deliberately and with a clear consciousness of the operation. There is a widespread, but quite erroneous notion that the process is automatic, and can only be properly accomplished under emotional stress. Yet it is just those two composers (Beethoven and Wagner) who built up their melody with the most deliberation and patient labour (could any emotional stress last so long?) who have risen to the greatest artistic heights. In Wagner's later works the most intensely passionate and expressive melodies will be found, upon close inspection, to be consciously built up out of the representative phrases which form his plastic material for the time being. So clearly is this the case that the student is inclined to think it a very easy and mathematical way of composing music; but wait till he tries! It was easy for Purcell to write Dido's lament on a ground bass, and easy for Bach to write the most spontaneous sounding chorus as a four-part canon on a choral; but no one else could do these things, simply for lack of that power which enables the possessor to rapidly survey thousands of possible alternatives instead of two or three, and to choose the best out of all these. For the elements which go to make a composer are, firstly, memory, without which nothing can be done; before we can employ material we must be able to bear in mind what has already been done and what we have got to go upon. Secondly, intellect, which varies of course enormously with different individuals. The composer who reasons out his procedure and deduces his proper course from experience is not necessarily a great composer, but his work is sure to have value. The third element is the æsthetic faculty or feeling for a particular form of beauty, and this sense is seldom found in company with the intellectual faculty. They are the masculine and feminine elements of art, and when we do find them combined we have a very great artist indeed. Thus Cherubini had intellect, Chopin had feeling; Beethoven and Wagner were among the few who had both in a very high degree.



It has always seemed to me that Wagner's intellect developed early and his æsthetic feeling ripened slowly; his early musical productions follow existing models with wonderful cleverness, but are deficient in feeling and charm—indicating that his power of choice in the selection of alternatives was slight at first. In none of his works until "Lohengrin" do we find much natural ease in the melodic phrases. The interesting thing about the first four operas is to see how the composer rises to the occasion in the important places and how he deliberately makes padding in the unimportant ones, thus showing that he had mastered the secret of dramatic effect from the beginning. His melody was, of course, founded on that of his immediate predecessors and contemporaries, Beethoven, Spohr, Weber, &c. Very curious it is to think that the composer of "Tristan" could ever have penned that Beethovenish aria in "The Fairies" which begins—or a popular ballad-tune like that which forms the climax of the same work, and which might have been by Sir Henry Bishop—

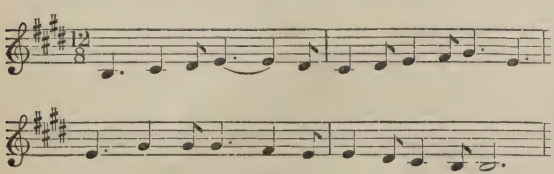
The subjects of the Allegros in these works are rather superficial and quite on the lines of Weber and Marschner. The overtures and ballet-music to "The Fairies" and "Rienzi" exemplify this.



The next point which strikes us is the similar rhythmical outline of so many of the melodies. This is the natural result of the composer's frequent employment of decasyllabic verse in his librettos. Octosyllabic verse is susceptible of almost infinite variety in the setting, but given a pair of lines such as

Fühl ich zu dir so süss mein Herz entbrennen
Athme ich Wonnen, die nur Gott verleiht; and they must almost of necessity be set in their natural accent:

accordingly we find melodies of this identical pattern by the dozen in Wagner's early works. "The Fairies," Act 1, starts thus—and the principal air in the second act is—which is almost paraphrased by melodies in "Rienzi" and "Tannhäuser," while this, from the "Flying Dutchman," runs it closely—

The love-duet in this latter work contains, indeed, a string of bold melodies all on the same pattern. In "Tannhäuser" the minstrels' songs hardly ever depart from this rhythm, while in "Lohengrin" there are at least twenty of the best themes, many in succession, cast in the same mould, including the love-duet—yet the composer makes it appear quite fresh in the exquisite farewell speech in the last scene.

That this was no mere mannerism arising from poverty of invention is proved by the comparative absence of this rhythm from the later works, where a different versification was employed. The rhythm of the first four notes only remained ever a favourite with Wagner—as indeed it is with many composers. In the later works, a more refined and continuous style of music being aimed at, complete melodies of eight or sixteen bars are rarer, and the weaving of half or quarter-melodies into a contrapuntal web predominates. But the way in which Wagner can build up a melody of any required length out of a short phrase, not by mere repetition, but by making it throw out branches to any extent—ah! it is here that the great musician is seen. Take your "Meistersinger," young student, and observe how that Prize Song of Walther's grows and grows from a four-bar phrase to a long unbroken movement of the most intense power. Or look at the "Valkyrie" love-duet, where a still more marvellous flood of melody gushes from the two little phrases—and confess that the art of thematic development did not die with Beethoven. I need not multiply examples, but look at the infinite resource shown in handling the Siegfried theme—or, more remarkable still, perhaps, the development of the second bar in the "Meistersinger" overture—

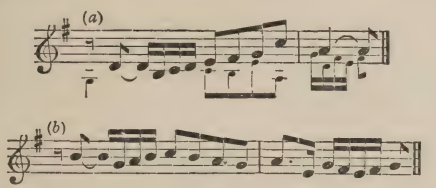
It forms part of the second subject—



then in the Committee-meeting scene we have this melody as a counterpoint to the principal theme—and later this scherzando subject—farther on in Hans Sachs's remonstrance we get these—while in Act 2 (the scene between Sachs and Beckmesser) appears a still more charming theme, evolved from the same germ—

Far beyond our present space would it require to trace the melodic account to which the little phrase—is turned in this work. I recommend this as an interesting investigation for the student.

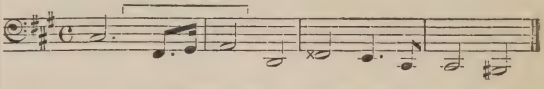
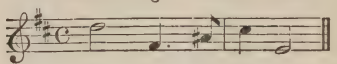
Two points of the nature of mannerisms in Wagner's melody I desire to speak of. One is his well-known tendency to over-employ the turn or grupetto. You find it in the first bar of his first known composition—a number of an opera on "Measure for Measure"—you find it in nearly every broad melody from Rienzi's prayer to the appeal of Amfortas; but in the later works it must be said that he draws a wealth of beauty from this stale old ornament by raising it to the dignity of an actual melodic phrase, thus—

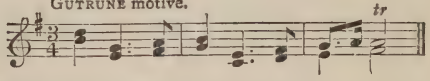
"Tristan."—Isolde's death.



"Götterdämmerung."—Act I., Scene 2.

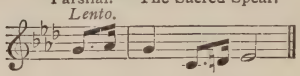


The other mannerism, not so obvious, is a tendency to use for those important phrases from which he evolves his musical material (it would not matter elsewhere) so many similar progressions, notably one leaping down and returning to the next note, thus—



"Lohengrin."—Ortrud's plot.

"Götterdämmerung."—Waltraute motive.



Gutrune motive.

"Meistersinger."—Eva, Act III.

"Parsifal."—The Sacred Spear.

Sir George Grove has well observed that the principal feature of Beethoven's melody is the conjunct flow. Wagner's special feature, on the contrary, is the bold skip, a feature which can never fail to arrest attention; but if used frequently in so similar a manner as the above quotations show, it is apt to convey to the superficial listener the idea that the composer is deficient in inventive resource. Although I have expressed the opinion that he was so originally, one has only to read through the first act of "Siegfried" or to call to mind the exhaustless variety of his recitative phrases to be convinced that this is not the case.

To conclude this part of my subject, let us ask ourselves in what way Wagner may be said to have advanced the art of melody? The answer is, firstly, in the manner—to which I have drawn attention—in which he builds up melody of any desired character and expressiveness out of a given phrase. This, which Schumann did once or twice (in the Carneval and Pianoforte Concerto) as a kind of tour de force, and which Liszt strove incessantly and vainly to accomplish, is, for Wagner, the easiest feat imaginable. His other innovation, which is not even yet acceptable to all ears, is to employ the chromatic scale of twelve equal semitones as a basis for melody instead of the diatonic scale. The whole of the music to "Tristan" would be impossible under the old laws. I need only quote one example, and by no means an extreme one, of a passage impossible to sing or listen to in anything but strictly equal temperament—

It is a constant wonder to me how singers, trained upon diatonic scales, can sing this, and many still stranger passages, with anything approaching bearable intonation.

On another occasion I hope to deal with Wagner's attainments in the matters of Harmony and formal construction.

F. C.

BACH'S MUSIC IN ENGLAND.

(Continued from page 587.)

Last month I omitted to mention that in 1806 Kollmann issued an English edition of Bach's "Chromatic Fantasia," a work which Dr. Hubert Parry calls "one of the greatest movements ever written for a keyed instrument." The title-page reads:

John Sebastian Bach's celebrated Fantasia Chromatica for the Piano Forte, with some additions by A. F. C. Kollmann, organist of His Majesty's German Chapel, St. James's. London: Preston.

Unlike many modern editors, Kollmann was conscientious enough to indicate his "additions" by small notes. It is interesting to find that Kollmann (as early as 1806) was probably the first to write out the arpeggios in the manner indicated by Mendelssohn in later years (see his letter to Fanny Hensel, November 14, 1840), and subsequently carried out to a still greater extent by Bülow.

Samuel Wesley (1766-1837) was the great Bach disciple in England. The propagation of Bach's music was the absorbing aspiration of Wesley's life. Although he had reached middle age when he began his crusade, he was fired with all the enthusiasm of a youthful hero-worshipper. Wesley also had the pen of a ready writer. His trenchant style and amusing phraseology were happily combined in extolling his "Demi-God." Here are some specimens in the way of titles, taken from Wesley's lectures and letters: "Sebastian Bach . . . whose brain was a Cyclopædia of Harmony—The Musical Leviathan—The Jupiter of Harmonists—our Apollo—Orpheus—Grand Hero—Demi-God—Sacred Musician—great Musical High Priest—Marvellous Man." And then, casting aside all "weak epithets," as he is pleased to call them, Wesley, as it were, shouts—"THE MAN." Wesley's enthusiasm was seasoned with humour. After a certain supper party, at which he had met some congenial spirits, a cab was called in the early hours of the morning to convey "old Sam" home. Before he could be persuaded to enter the vehicle, Wesley persisted in going up to the driver and saying: "Coachman, do you know John Sebastian Bach?" "No, sir, I don't," replied the Jehu, "but jump in, it'll be all right."

Wesley, Horn, and Jacob formed the Bach Triumvirate. At a later date Vincent Novello joined the "Sebastian Squad," to use Wesley's definition. As early as 1809 Wesley suggested the formation of a "Bach Society," or, as he expressed it, a Bach "Junto"—"the Establishment of a regular Society in Defence of the Truth . . . and the overthrow of Ignorance, Prejudice, and Puppyism (!) with regard to our Master."

Wesley's introduction to Bach's music may best be told in his own words:

Through the late George Frederick Pinto [1787-1806], one of the greatest musical geniuses that Europe ever produced, but who was cut off in the flower of his days, I first became acquainted with the Preludes and Fugues [the "Forty-eight"] of John Sebastian Bach, whose matchless compositions I have had the honour of introducing to the English public, and who now begin duly to appreciate their value. When I practised the organ assiduously, these pieces were of the most essential benefit; and I could not consider myself complete master of the instrument until I was able to play them correctly and with facility. I published an edition of them by subscription, and added an explanatory preface recommending the best and most effectual method of studying and practising them with advantage.

The late C. F. Horn also brought to me in manuscript six Organ Trios, the bass part of which was originally intended to be performed on the pedals. I also published an edition of these with a preface; they met with universal approbation, and have been found eminently serviceable to all who aspire to excellence in the true organ style.

Charles Frederic Horn (1762-1830), above referred to by Wesley, was organist of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, and was the father of C. E. Horn, the composer of "Cherry Ripe." In 1807 he published:

A set of twelve Fugues, composed for the organ by Sebastian Bach, arranged as Quartettos for two violins, tenor, and bass, with the addition of a Piano-forte part, or Thorough Bass. Dedicated with permission to His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge by C. F. Horn, Music Master to the Royal Family. Printed and sold for the Author, 13, Queen's Buildings, Knightsbridge.

Ten of these "twelve fugues composed for the organ" are from the "Forty-eight," of which six are transposed from their original keys. The remaining two are "on the name of Bach" and the Organ Fugue in D minor (Doric).

Bach's "Organ Trios" were issued by Wesley and Horn during 1809-10, but with the following title:

A Trio, composed originally for the Organ by John Sebastian Bach, and now adapted for Three Hands upon the Piano Forte. To be had of Mr. C. F. Horn, etc.

The Preface to No. 1, written by Wesley, is too curious and interesting not to be quoted in full:

Advertisement.

The invaluable Works of John Sebastian Bach have but lately begun to make their Way in this Country, but are now eagerly sought after by all Lovers of Music who have heard the smallest Specimen of his immortal Compositions. Mr. Charles Frederic Horn and myself have undertaken to publish whatever can be obtained of these noble Efforts of transcendant Genius and profound Musical Erudition.

The following Trio was designed for the Organ, and performed by the matchless Author in a very extraordinary Manner; the first and second Treble Parts he played with both Hands on two Sets of keys, and the Base (wonderful as it appears) he executed entirely upon the Pedals, without Assistance. As these Trios need only Publicity to secure Admiration (which all Judges of the sublime and beautiful in Music who have heard them unanimously testify), we are happy to present the musical World with some of the choicest Fruits of Learning and Taste that were ever gathered from the Tree of Harmony.

It is necessary to add a few Words concerning the Mode in which the following Trio may be performed on the Piano Forte, by three Hands. Whoever plays the highest Part is to read the Notes one Octave higher than they are placed on the Staff, otherwise a constant Interference of Hands would happen, so as to render the Execution impossible. The remaining two Parts are to be played exactly as they are marked, by the other Performer. In a few Instances it has been found necessary to accommodate the Performer on the Piano Forte, by an occasional Note, to prevent any aukward (sic) Concurrence of the Hands, but which Substitution never interrupts or interferes with the Harmony in the least Degree.

When performed on an Organ with two Ranks of Keys, the whole is to be played precisely as it is printed in the three Staves. There is also another Method of executing these Compositions; which will very much improve the Power of the Student's left Hand; that is, by practising both the treble Parts with both Hands, and leaving only the Base for the assisting Performer.

Another of these Trios is preparing for the Press, and will very shortly appear, and it is proper to observe that no other English Impressions whatever, of any Part of this Author's works, are either genuine or correct but such as are signed:

S. Wesley,
C. F. Horn.

Benjamin Jacob (1778-1829), organist of Surrey Chapel, Blackfriars Road, and one of the most distinguished performers of his day, was Wesley's right hand in the Bach propaganda. His name is frequently but erroneously given as Jacobs. The old Chapel is now used as a show-place for agricultural implements. Sic transit gloria mundi! As the last of Benjamin Jacob's successors in the organistship of old Surrey Chapel (1873-76), I have often heard some of the old members of the congregation speak of his masterly playing, and how the musical services attracted crowded congregations. The old organ and its famous trumpet stop were vivid recollections, as was also Jacob's blue swallow-tail coat and its brass buttons.

In 1809 Wesley and Jacob began those remarkable organ performances at Surrey Chapel which are not only interesting in their Bach connection, but which were probably the earliest known organ recitals. The Surrey Chapel organ was one of the first in England to have separate pedal pipes. The instrument—built by Elliott, predecessor to Hill—was considered a very fine one, though it would hardly satisfy the four-manual recitalist of the present day. It had two manuals: eleven stops on the great (compass GG to F), and five on the swell (to tenor F); an octave and a half of pedals, but only one octave of pedal pipes; and "two shifting movements." Hughson, in his "London" (1807, Vol. IV., p. 512), says: "The [Surrey Chapel] organ, by Elliot, is particularly noticed for its sweetness of tone, as well as for its extensive powers, which are so great, that in one of the hymns descriptive of thunder, many of the audience have fainted."

Wesley has left the following account of the Surrey Chapel performances:

Jacob planned with me selections from the works of Bach and Handel as a matter of a grand morning performance at Surrey Chapel, with the consent and approbation of the late Rev. Rowland Hill [Minister of the Chapel].

Among the organ pieces were inserted two of Bach's beautiful and brilliant Sonatas with a violin accompaniment. I had been a fine performer on that instrument many years before, but had long disused it. However, on the present occasion I resolved on resuming it, and accordingly set to practise these pieces so as to be completely qualified for a public performance of them.

Mr. Jacobs caused a list of every article [i.e., a programme] to be printed and circulated in every quarter where the tickets of admission were deposited; and as the performance was entirely gratuitous, the invitations were readily enough accepted.

The chapel was very numerously attended, and the performance occupied to the best of my recollection from three to four hours. The whole was executed with accuracy and precision, and the hearers professed themselves universally gratified and satisfied with every portion of it.

Failing a Wesley-Jacob programme, one of a similar performance given by Jacob and Dr. Crotch (May 21, 1812) at Surrey Chapel may serve as a specimen. The "Recital," as we should now term it, began at 11 a.m. There were no less than forty-six pieces, some of them of considerable length. No wonder that the performance lasted from "three to four hours." Crotch played twenty-four organ solos, and Jacob nineteen, including his own "Imitation of a thunderstorm, extempore." Salomon and Jacob contributed two of Bach's Violin Sonatas, while Crotch and Jacob finished up with Handel's "Hallelujah" played as an organ duet! Two of Bach's Fugues, most probably from the "Forty-eight," are quaintly designated "Prelude and Fugue, E flat, 3 flats," and "in B, 5 sharps."

It was to Benjamin Jacob that Wesley wrote those extraordinary Bach letters—between 1808 and 1816—which are so characteristic of the writer and his style. The originals of these letters formerly belonged to Sterndale Bennett. After his death they were purchased by the late Mr. Henry Littleton, who generously presented them to the Library of the Sacred Harmonic Society. They are now the property of the Royal College of Music. Bound up with the letters are three programmes of organ performances at Surrey Chapel in 1811, 1812, and 1814. As these letters are accessible through a printed version, issued by the writer's daughter, the late Miss Eliza Wesley, in 1875 (W. Reeves), there is no need for lengthy quotation. We learn from them that, to Wesley's intense delight, the octogenarian Dr. Burney became a convert to Bach. Also that in 1808 Wesley proposed to issue an English version—translated "by Mr. Stephenson, the Banker"—of Forkel's "Life of Bach."*

* The book was announced in the Monthly Magazine for December, 1808, but it was not published until 1820.

A few extracts from Wesley's letters to Jacob must suffice. The first is the opening sentence of the initial letter, dated "September 17th, 1808":

Dear Sir,—I am much obliged by your ingenious and circumstantial Detail of your success with Saint Sebastian, as you very properly term him, and am rejoiced to find that you are likely to regard his Works with me as a Musical Bible, unrivalled and inimitable.

. . . . . .

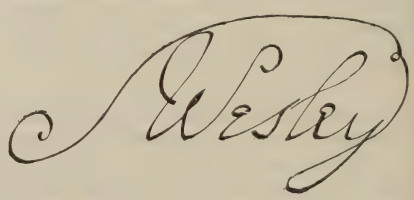
The "Saints-in-Glory" Fugue, by which I mean that in E major, four sharps.

. . . . . .

Huzza!—old Wig [Bach] for ever; and confusion of Face to Pig Tails and Mountebanks!

. . . . . .

"Pig Tails and Mountebanks" were Wesley's terms for his natural enemies, the Handelian Musical Doctors and others who were not Bachists.



I am glad to find that Sebastian is to be heard even "out of the Mouths of Babes and Sucklings"; depend on it there is nothing more necessary to render his divine Strains the Chief delight and solace of all truly harmonized Souls, but an assiduous cultivation of them. He was certainly dropped down among us from Heaven.

. . . . . .

Remember our Cause. "Good will towards Men" is at the Bottom of it; and when Sebastian flourishes here there will be at least more musical "Peace on Earth."

The humorous conclusion of one of the letters affords an opportunity of presenting Wesley's characteristic signature in fac-simile, or in "rough-hewn Pothooks and Hangers."

Adieu, my good Friend! Excuse this hasty Rhapsody; but I knew you would accept in good Part my rough-hewn Pothooks and Hangers from your very sincere and Cordial Mess Mate,

Wesley gave practical proof of the Bach truth that was in him, as the newspaper advertisements of his concerts (from 1808 onwards) amply testify.

1808. "Mr. S. Wesley respectfully acquaints his Friends and the Musical Public, that on Saturday next [June 11] he will perform upon the Organ at the New Rooms, Hanover Square, several admired compositions of the celebrated Sebastian Bach, together with several Extempore Voluntaries. To commence at Two o'clock. Tickets, Half-a-guinea each."

1809. "New Rooms, Hanover Square. Mr. Samuel Wesley's Musical Morning Party on Saturday next, June 3, when will be performed several compositions of Sebastian Bach, among which a grand sacred Motetto for five voices." This Motetto would be "Jesu, meine Freude" ("Jesu, Priceless Treasure," in Messrs. Novello's Octavo Edition). The work was thus sung in England not so very long after it had been published (in 1803) by Messrs. Breitkopf and Härtel, at Leipzig. This was probably the earliest performance of Bach's vocal music in England, although Dr. Gauntlett claimed that honour at one of his musical lectures given at the London Institution nearly thirty years later.

1810. Wesley's Concert (May 19) of this year might be that of a Bach Choir Concert of the present day. The programme included an "Organ Trio" (played a duetto by Wesley and Major), a selection from the "Sacred Motetto" (performed in 1809), a violin solo (Salomon), and a Sonata for pianoforte and violin (Wesley and Salomon), all composed by "Seb. Bach." The last number of this interesting programme records the first performance of Wesley's fine Motet, "In exitu Israel," which was thus announced: "Full Antiphon, In exitu Israel, for a double choir (composed for this occasion) —S. Wesley."

Earlier in the year (January 30, 1810), at Covent Garden Theatre, "The Messiah" was performed. The advertisement records: "End of Part I. a Concerto by Mr. S. Wesley on the new organ (built by Allen, expressly for these performances), in which will be introduced a Fugue of Sebastian Bach." The MS. of this Concerto of Wesley's (dated "March 22, 1800") is now in the British Museum. It is in D, and of ample dimensions. Between the Adagio and the last movement (a spirited Hornpipe in 3-2 time), Wesley subsequently introduced Bach's Fugue in D (Book I., No. 5, of the "Forty-eight"). The Fugue was first played on the organ alone by Wesley, and then repeated by the strings; but the closing bars were played tutti, including trumpets and drums. It would be interesting to hear this Concerto, which was evidently a favourite of Wesley's. He had previously played it at the Tamworth Musical Festival, September 22, 1809, with full orchestra. He wrote to Jacob:

> The Concerto was excessively praised, and the Fugue of our Sebastian produced a glorious effect with the Instruments. . . . The effect of the Fugue among the Orchestra was such, that they were perpetually humming the Subject whenever I met any of them in the Streets, either by Day or by Night.

The following day Wesley again played the Concerto at "Mr. Buggins's grand miscellaneous Concert, Theatre Royal, Birmingham." "Tell Mrs. Jacobs," he wrote, "that even the Brums are beginning to venerate our Orpheus." Thus Wesley was a Bach missionary as well as a disciple; and the Bach message was in those early days carried into the provinces through Wesley's propagating zeal.

Wesley also played a pianoforte fantasia of his own composition at Mr. Buggins's Concert, in which his inimitable humour showed itself. "I concluded it," he says, "with 'Roly Poly, Gammon, and Spinach,' which tickled the Tobies of the Button Makers at such a rate that I thought I never should have gotten off the stage, at least till I had broken my Back with Bowing."

1812. The programme of Wesley's Concert (June 5) included a novelty in the form of a "Voluntary by John Sebastian Bach: arranged for a full orchestra by V. Novello." The original MS. (formerly in the possession of the late Dr. W. J. Westbrook) is entitled:

> An Overture arranged for an Orchestra by V. Novello from an Organ Prelude by John Sebastian Bach, for S. Wesley's concert, 1812, at the Hanover Square Rooms.

This "overture," or "voluntary," is the well-known Organ Prelude in E flat, now associated with the "St. Ann's" Fugue. The title-page of the MS. is thus endorsed by Vincent Novello:

> We [Novello and Wesley] played the obbligato organ part as a Duett on that occasion, each filling in the harmonies according to the feeling of the moment, and endeavouring to enrich the effect to the utmost, for the sake of Master Sebastian.

At the end of this curious score, Novello has written: "V. N., May 28th, 1812. Done to please my Dear Friend, Sam." Wafered into the copy is the following note from Dr. Crotch, then Professor of Music at Oxford, to Novello:

> Dear Sir,—I have looked over the pieces you have been scoring for an orchestra, and think them very well done. I have discovered no errors. The only remark I have to offer is that I wish you had scored the pieces which follow Bach's Prelude [the "St. Ann's" Fugue], as they are I think very fine, and would sound well as orchestral music. I am, Dear Sir, Yours obliged, Wm. Crotch.

(It would be interesting to know the opinion of the present Oxford Professor upon his predecessor's "remark.")

Novello adds:

> I received the above friendly note from Dr. Crotch (who had been requested to use his more experienced eye in detecting any mistakes or oversights that might have escaped my own observation in this and in some other scores) after he had critically scrutinised them, and I am much gratified with the approbation and closing compliment of the Oxford Professor.—V. Novello.

The whole of the second dotted-note passage in the Prelude is here directed to be played "Organ solo, piano," and is presumably the portion played "as a Duett" and filled in "according to the feeling of the moment," in order "to enrich the effect to the utmost for the sake of Master Sebastian"! This Bach-Novello piece seems to have been a favourite with Wesley, as it was performed by him and Novello several times.

The three earliest editions of the "Forty-eight" were published (at Zurich, Bonn, and Leipzig) in 1800-1. Wesley soon afterwards brought out an English edition—the fourth in order of publication—published, in four books, by subscription. The original title was:

> S. Wesley and C. F. Horn's new and correct edition of the Preludes and Fugues of John Sebastian Bach.
>
> Book 1st. Price to subscribers, 9s. To non-subscribers, 12s. Ent^d. at Sta. Hall. London: printed for the Editors by Rt. Birchall, No. 133, New Bond Street.
>
> N.B. Subscribers' names continue to be received for the 2d. book.—(Signed) S. Wesley.

The date of this edition (oblong folio in shape) has hitherto been only approximately given; but I am now able to fix the time of its publication with absolute certainty. The first twelve Fugues were issued in September, 1810; the last twelve in July, 1813. The Monthly Magazine of March, 1810, records:—

Messrs. Samuel Wesley and Charles Frederic Horn are preparing for the press a new edition of the first twelve Preludes and Fugues of Sebastian Bach. They are to be published by subscription; and the ingenious editors promise to bring them out in a manner superior, both in point of perspicuity and exactness, to any copies that have been procured from the Continent. Among other advantages announced in the proposals, are those of the number of parts in which every fugue is composed, being pointed out to the young student; and the introduction of explanatory marks to show whether the subject is pursued directly, by inversion, by diminution, or by augmentation.

The publication of Wesley and Horn's edition of the "Forty-eight" (Book I., Nos. 1-12) is recorded in the following advertisement from the Morning Chronicle of September 3, 1810:

To the Lovers of real music.

The subscribers to S. Westley (sic) and C. F. Horn's New and Correct Edition of Sebastian Bach's Preludes and Fugues are respectfully informed, that on Monday, the 17th inst., the Copies will be ready for delivery at Mr. Birchall's, No. 133, New Bond Street, and such subscribers who may be at present absent from London are requested (on reading this advertisement) to signify to Mr. Birchall a place of reference in town, to which their several Copies may be conveyed. Non-Subscribers are also hereby apprised, that after the 17th instant, the price of the work will be advanced to 12s., till which day Subscribers will continue to be received.

An advertisement in the issue of September 18 confirms the above date of publication. The same journal, on November 24, 1810, announced that Book II. (Nos. 13-24) "is now in the hands of the engraver, and will shortly appear." A letter of Wesley's, dated "September 27" [1811], refers to the proofs of Book III. (Nos. 25-36); and another letter, dated "May 10, 1813," that Book IV. (Nos. 37-48) would be issued on July 1, 1813. Wesley cannot be charged with undue haste in the issue of the work, as its publication was spread over a period of nearly three years. A certain remissness on the part of the subscribers, mentioned by Wesley, doubtless retarded its completion.

It should be observed that this English edition was designated "new and correct"; also that it began to be issued only ten years after the earliest foreign editions. Although Horn's name appears in conjunction with Wesley's, it may be assumed that Wesley was the actual editor. In the British Museum (Add. MSS., 14,330) there is a transcript of the whole of the "Forty-eight" (Zurich, Nägeli edition) in Wesley's own hand. The printed copy of the Wesley edition in the British Museum contains the names of 183 subscribers to Book I. (the first twelve Fugues), eight of these names being added by Wesley in his own writing.

The Preface is not only interesting, but of distinct practical value and importance. It occupies two printed pages of oblong folio, and therefore it is too long to reprint here. Wesley gives some excellent hints upon studying "these immortal Exercises," to use his definition. He says:

Towards a solid and permanent improvement in musical composition, we recommend as the best method, to set the following Fugues in score.

And further, in regard to practising the "Forty-eight," he gives the following wise counsel:

One most essential advice must be added, that whoever determines upon executing the following pages with precision, must steadily resolve upon practising them at first, in very slow time; for since there is not a single note among them that can be omitted, without a material injury to their effect, it is absolutely indispensable thoroughly to understand the career of the whole modulation, which will not be possible unless each bar be studied with that patient industry, which shall secure the true position of every finger upon its designed key.

The following signs—which that eminent authority on "Fugue," Mr. James Higgs, thinks were invented for this edition—are used to indicate the subject and its treatment—inversion, diminution, augmentation, &c.—of each fugue.

Wesley's remarks upon the "Forty-eight" and their reception in this country deserve quotation:

Sebastian Bach is a subject on which so much may be said that whatever is advanced concerning his works can hardly be deemed superfluous or uninteresting. When I had the honour of introducing his Forty-eight Preludes and Fugues to the notice of the English public, numerous objections were immediately raised on account of the difficult keys in which some of them are composed, it not having been duly considered that they were purposely given in all the twenty-four keys, to the end that the musical practitioner should be accustomed and familiarised to them all, so as never to be puzzled or at a loss at whatsoever time or place he might meet with the most abstruse or chromatic combinations of either melody or harmony. It was ill-naturedly reported that I had extolled these compositions extravagantly only because I alone could play them, whereas I am perfectly conscious that my earnest wish was for their universal adoption and practice, as my Preface to the work clearly proves.

Moreover, by the exercise of all these keys, it will be found of what great advantage the proper use of the thumb is in the execution of numberless passages which, without it, upon the black keys would be impossible. . . . No sooner did the superior excellence of these compositions find their due level in this country than the most eminent characters in the profession eagerly betook themselves to the study and practice of them.

The opinion of one of "the most eminent characters in the profession" in the present day, Dr. Hubert Parry, on Bach's "Forty-eight" may well find a place here. In his valuable "Art of Music," and writing eighty years after Wesley, Dr. Parry says:

The Preludes and Fugues as a whole have been subjected to the closest scrutiny by numberless musicians of the keenest intelligence for the greater part of a century, and they bear the test so well that the better men know them the more they resort to them; and the collection is likely to remain the sacred book of musicians, who have any real musical sense, as long as the present system of music continues. In their particular phase of art they appear to touch the highest point imaginable.

So great was their enthusiasm that at one time Wesley and Horn contemplated issuing English editions of all Bach's works. The "Credo" from the B minor Mass was to have followed the "Forty-eight." Wesley wrote to William Shield, then residing in Berners Street, under date "September 12, 1815":

I am meditating a Publication of the former noble work ["Credo"], if I can only secure seventy subscribers, which I think you will judge to be no very arrogant expectation. My design is not that of pecuniary profit. I want merely to clear my expences, and this cannot be done under from £60 to £70, even with the best economy.

As only forty of the seventy subscribers came forward, the project seems to have fallen through. Wesley's pecuniary disinterestedness in the Bach cause is worthy of all praise.

The following characteristic Bach "Dialogue," hitherto unpublished, was written by Wesley and sent by him to Vincent Novello:

A dialogue which happened (sic) on Saturday, July 27, 1816, in Chappell's Music Shop, between Mr. Jones, the Welsh Harper and Antiquarian, Mr. Ayrton, the Philharmonic orator and legislator (sic), and S. W. [Wesley].

Jones.—"Mr. Wesley, how came you not to be at White's last musical auction, where several of Sebastian Bach's works were sold, and some of them which I think you know nothing of?"

S. W.—"I saw the catalogue previous to the sale, and found no pieces of Bach with which I was not before acquainted. I am at present in possession (as a loan) of six curious and grand Preludes and Fugues, with an additional base line entirely for the pedals."

Ayrton.—"I think these were sold at Salomon's auction."

S. W.—"I am inclined to believe the contrary, and I know them to be very scarce in this country; I doubt whether there be another copy here."

Ayrton.—"I'm sure 'tis no such thing. There were several manuscripts of Bach in Salomon's library which I did not think worth bringing forward, and I rather think this work was among them."

S. W.—"I wonder at this omission of yours, as every note of this author is valuable."

Ayrton (with a sneer).—"To you they may be so; but very few are of your opinion."

S. W.—"All those are of my opinion who deserve the name of either musicians or judges of music.* Bach's works are the finest study possible for all our musical Doctors in this country. Were he [Bach] living he would stare not a little to find how they had ever acquired their title."

(N.B.—Ayrton's father was a Doctor of music, and one of the most egregious blockheads under the sun.)

Exit S. W., Jones, and Ayrton, staring mutually at each other, and at an humble untitled Mister's hardihood, which of course they dubbed to be impudence. N'importe, I came away in high good humour with myself; and I guess you [Novello] are not much out of humour with me for serving it out handsomely to these vermin.

The Mr. White above-mentioned was an auctioneer, of Storey's Gate, and the Puttick and Simpson of the day. The reference is doubtless to the sale of J. B. Cramer's library, May 21, 1816, of which a catalogue has fortunately been preserved. The Bach MS. "Lots" were:

(33) A very curious Selection of Sonatas (Trios) for the Organ or Piano-forte, in score, MS.—sold for 15s. (82) A valuable volume of Concertos, &c., by C. P. E., W. F., and J. S. Bach, all in score, MS. (169) An Anthem, adapted from a Fugue of J. Sebast. Bach, by M. Cook, MS., in score. (224) Sublime Harmony, in 5 parts for 2 violins, alto, violoncello, and contra-basso, 1693, *warranted to be a correct copy, MS. (225) Two celebrated Trios for 2 violins and bass, in score, MS., warranted to have never been published.—N.B. the second contains his famous Canon perpetuus. (242) Preludes and Fugues, 24 for the organ, MS. The description of Lot 276 is interesting. It reads: "Nicolaus (Elias) Orgel oder Instrument Tabulatur, Leipzig, 1571; this curious book formerly belonged to J. Sebastian Bach, and was given to Dr. Burney, by C. P. E. Bach, at Hambro', 1772."

On September 12, 1837, the English and German disciples of Bach met at Christ Church, Newgate Street. Wesley was then in his seventy-second year: Mendelssohn was twenty-eight. The younger musician had played Bach's great A minor Fugue and Toccata, and six extemporaneous Fantasias—one on a fugal subject supplied by Wesley—to the great delight of the old English organist. Mendelssohn was very anxious to be able to say that he had "heard Mr. Wesley play the organ." At his (Mendelssohn's) request the veteran Bachist went to the instrument "and extemporized with a purity and originality of thought for which he has rendered his name ever illustrious." It was the last time his fingers touched the keys. The incident was as pathetic as it was interesting. As Sir George Grove felicitously observes, the occasion was Wesley's Nunc dimittis. He never left the house again: a month later his spirit had fled.

English musicians should hold the name of Samuel Wesley in grateful remembrance for his constant, unwearied, and self-denying labours in promoting the cause of Bach's music in England.

F. G. E.

(To be continued.)

* Ayrton was a musical critic, and subsequently became editor of the Harmonicon.

* What can this be? Bach was only eight years old in 1693.

FROM MY STUDY.

In 1875 the editor of a then existing journal, Concordia, desired to obtain weekly lists of music selected for use in the leading cathedrals. To that end he had a letter of request printed and despatched to the various organists, among others to Dr. S. S. Wesley, at that time in office at Gloucester. Many favourable replies came promptly, but in Dr. Wesley's case considerable delay took place—so much, indeed, that the editor, knowing with whom he had to deal, concluded that the matter was distasteful, and abandoned hope of receiving an answer. In this he wronged the eccentric Doctor, who, at length, sent the letter a fac-simile reproduction of which is herewith given.

It is a very characteristic document, and emphasises the intense dislike of clerical interference in matters of Church music which the writer was known to entertain. How deep-seated was that dislike, and how it prompted him to advocate a radical reform of cathedral establishments by abolishing Deans and Chapters and leaving the organist supreme in his own department, I had occasion to show in this

My dear Jim.

I am always trying you for something or other
My present worry is another my Concert fixed for the 14th week in July (D.V.) The artists will include J. Reeves, Miss Brahams
Richardson, Miss Isaacs, Pooley,
&c. My great wish is to persuade you (cunningly) to induce Mrs C. Goddard to add her talent
-ed aid? How say you? yea.
or nay? It with her a great favor.
I have the worthy manners of the Long folk
I write call me
a few days for your kind reply. Ever my dear friend
Yours Lovell Cocks

journal some years ago. The letter, with all its intensity of expression against the writer's bête noir, the clerical precentor, is marked by considerable esprit and unmistakable signs of good humour. A suggestion of offended dignity appears in the parenthetical "(printed)" after the first reference to the letter he had received; and the manner in which he twits the editor with himself not always acknowledging communications belongs to the Doctor's lightest epistolary vein. But there is nothing better in the four pages than the contemptuous, "If you will have the lists, I will tell a pupil to send them you."

The letter reproduced below was addressed by Edward J. Loder, of Bath, to J. W. Davison from whom it passed into my hands. Little is now remembered of this composer, but he was an admirable musician, and made a mark at a time when the lines of native artists were not cast in exceptionally pleasant places.

Again I have to thank Miss Sabilla Novello for some interesting MSS. gathered from her stores. They have reference to an incident connected with the publication by her brother, Alfred Novello, of Boyce's Cathedral Music. That publication was not only an important enterprise in art, but also a serious one in business, and the Novello family must have felt how necessary it was to secure all possible patronage and influence in its behalf. It occurred to Mrs. Vincent Novello, at any rate, that application should be made to the then King of Prussia—the easy-going monarch who negotiated with Mendelssohn in a spirit of personal interest much stronger than he would have shown in treaty with sovereign or statesman, and whom, just before the Crimean war, when Frederic William was "sitting on the fence," irreverent Mr. Punch used to style "King Cliquot." Mrs. Novello accordingly wrote herself to the General-Intendant, Count von Reden, preferring her request for the King's patronage. The Count's answer, enclosed in an envelope bearing a huge seal in red wax, is now before me. Subjoined is a copy:

"Madame,

"J'ai eu l'honneur de recevoir votre lettre du 30me Dec'bre, 1841, et je n'ai pas manqué de remettre votre pétition à Sa Majesté. Le Roi m'a ordonné de vous faire savoir, Madame, que Sa Majesté sera bien aise de voir paroitre son nom sur la liste de ceux qui ont souscrit pour l'ouvrage de Boyce's cathedral music, que vous voulez publier. Je vous invite à me faire parvenir the complete work destiné pour le Roi sitot que vous pouvez. Les 6£ vous seront payés par l'Ambassade Prusse.

"Veuillez présenter me compliments sincères à Mdlle. Clara Novello, et agréer l'expression de ma consideration distinguée et parfaite.

"Madame, votre très humble serviteur,

"G. Conte de Reden.

"Berlin, le 15me Janvier, 1842."

(Translation.)

"Madame,

"I have had the honour to receive your letter of December 30, 1841, and have not failed to submit your petition to His Majesty. The King has commanded me to inform you that his Majesty will be glad to see his name appear on the list of those who have subscribed for Boyce's Cathedral Music, which you will publish. I desire you to send me the complete work intended for the King, as soon as possible. The £6 will be paid by the Prussian Embassy.

"Present my sincere compliments to Miss Clara Novello, and accept the expression, &c."

To the foregoing most satisfactory communication Mrs. Novello replied as follows:

"To the Count Reden.

"Sir,—Allow me to return you my most sincere thanks for the honour of your letter, containing the gratifying intelligence of his Majesty the King of Prussia having kindly patronised my son's edition of Boyce's Cathedral Music, the first two numbers of which I have the pleasure of forwarding through the Embassy, and which I trust may merit his Majesty's approbation. Once more renewing my thanks, I beg to subscribe myself

"Your obedient, humble servant,

"Mary Sabilla Novello.

"P.S.—In answer to your kind inquiry after my daughter Clara, I have the pleasure to inform you that she is pursuing her career in Italy with great success, and that I am now setting off to conduct her younger sister, Sabilla, to Germany, she being engaged in Dresden, in the month of October, to sing at German and Italian operas.

"4, Craven Hill, Bayswater, July 31, 1842."

In her letter to me, Miss Sabilla Novello truly says: "I think that the King of Prussia honoured himself by subscribing to Boyce's works, and Boyce's works were honoured by his Majesty's subscription." It is, moreover, interesting to find a Continental monarch ready to appreciate, in a practical way, the talent of an English church composer. X.

"THE ITALIAN CAREER."

Italy is a word from which a good deal of its old magic has departed in the last half-century, so far as musicians in general and singers in particular are concerned. For when all allowance has been made for the evergreen vitality of the amazing Verdi, and the success which has been achieved beyond the Alps by the gifted exponents of the young Italian school of operatic composers, there is no getting over the fact that Italy no longer exerts a paramount influence in the evolution of the Art. The proportion of really great singers who hail from the "land of song" at the present day has dwindled into insignificance; and, what is even more remarkable, the best known Italian singers of to-day by no means owe their reputation to their exposition of the principles of the bel canto, but rather to the skill with which they have adapted themselves to the declamatory style of Germany. It is more than ten years ago since a well-known musical critic summed up the situation by perverting a historic phrase into the form lingua Toscana in bocca Americana, and the perversion is even more applicable now than when it was first formulated. And yet, in spite of the trend of the musical current, there can be no doubt that Italy still acts as a loadstone to the aspirant to vocal, and especially operatic, distinction. The glamour has not yet faded from the land of Porpora and Pasta, of Grisi and Alboni, of Ronconi and Mario; and when a young man or a young woman is discovered to possess a voice worth cultivation, the claims of Milan are still found to weigh heavily in the balance against the more modern belief in the supremacy of the Parisian school. Since this is the case, and since, as has been credibly asserted, fully ninety-nine per cent. of foreign operatic students or artists in Italy is formed by the English-speaking contingent, the value of expert evidence on the subject is beyond question. Such evidence has recently been forthcoming in a remarkable article published in the columns of the Pall Mall Gazette, under the heading of "The Italian Career." The author withholds his name, veiling his identity under the convenient title of "A Musical Composer," but bases his claim to speak with authority on observation covering hundreds of cases and experience extending over a score of years. We are not prepared to endorse in every detail the serious indictment which he levels against Italian professors, agents, publishers, and critics; but many of the facts to which he alludes are notorious, while the tone of the article is studiously moderate, and its treatment betrays an intimate knowledge of the inner workings of Italian artistic circles. In these circumstances it certainly deserves the careful attention of "all English-speaking operatic aspirants as are about to export to the land of song—for cultivation or for exploitation—whatever vocal capital they may possess." And if we assume the substantial accuracy of the writer's facts, his article, viewed from the standpoint of the student of musical history, may be found to throw a good deal of light on the causes which have led to the musical decadence of Italy.

As regards the term "Italian career," recent developments have invested it with a meaning of considerable elasticity. It now embraces any performance in opera sung exclusively in Italian, wherever such performances take place. Hence the definition of an "Italian career artist" includes not merely Italians who have never sung outside Italy, but aliens who have never performed within the confines of the peninsula. This, however, is merely by the way. The broad fact remains that a large number of English, or English-speaking singers still repair to Italy for the cultivation or exhibition of their talents, just as they did forty years ago—vide the Reminiscences of Mr. Santley—and that Milan, as the foremost operatic market and chief teaching centre of the peninsula, still remains the goal on which their eyes are fixed. The choice of a teacher being accordingly the question which will appeal with the greatest urgency to those aspirants to vocal honours who have set their faces southwards, the writer of the article devotes a certain amount of space to an examination of the credentials of the Milanese professors. Setting aside those whose sole qualification consists in the ability to play an accompaniment, as well as extravagant "cranks" and faddists, he gives a good account in the main of those retired professionals and specialists who devote themselves to the labours of vocal tuition. Their terms are not exorbitant; no foreigner being under the necessity to pay more than ten francs an hour. But then come the limitations: "It is necessary to mention that the very best Italian singing masters are absolutely ignorant of all that is not old Italian opera, and that it is useless to expect from them lessons in dramatic declamation and in such sobriety of style as is required for successful coping with the exigencies of the modern repertory. You are taught antiquated traditions of Bellinian, Donizettian, and early Verdian scores; you learn puntature by the yard and cadenzas by the mile; but not one in a hundred can tell you the exact movements even of 'Lohengrin.'" This is not exactly an enthusiastic account of the capabilities of the Italian singing teacher, but at least it admits the possibility that a student may acquire from them a sound method of production at a modest cost.

Unsatisfactory as is the picture which our informant gives of the condition of vocal tuition in Italy, it is bright and cheerful by contrast with his lurid revelations of the state of the operatic market in that country. We may contest his assumption that "a début or a production in Italy somehow sounds a more sonorous note of reclame than if accomplished anywhere else," at least so far as composers are concerned; but there is no gainsaying his contention that, as a rule, singers are prepared for any amount of sacrifice so long as they get their yearned-for appearance at a leading Italian opera-house. This fact, he continues in somewhat cynical strain, "is so well known in the land of Harmony that every facility is afforded to the said débutants that the sacrifice be made on the largest possible scale. The very working of Italian theatres propitiates a system of fraud and blackmail," which he forthwith proceeds to dissect in detail. To begin with, he assures us that a début at a theatre of the first rank is possible to anyone, no matter how incompetent, who is content to pay for it, to the extent of 1,000 francs and upward, the price varying in direct ratio with the means and vanity of the victim. If one considers the interests at stake and the probable results, the affair, blackmail and all, may be regarded as a kind of investment—thus at least the patients and the operators look upon it; and the argument is: "Italy, being the only country in which a début confers a market value upon a talent, whoever wishes to acquire such value, foreigners especially, must pay for the privilege." No one can claim immunity; no one cantabit vacuus: the purely commercial basis of the début must be accepted by every beginner, and the writer accordingly proceeds to point out the ways in which payment is effectuated. These ways are manifold—direct and indirect. To the former category belong the agent who procures the engagement; the camorra or ring of claqueurs, from whom there is no protection or escape; and the gentlemen of the press—it being an understood axiom of Italian musical journalism that no favourable notice ever appears which is not paid for. The music publisher is not bribed directly; it is not even alleged that he actually derives any profit from the transaction. But "the usual dodge is to explain that, owing to the risk of producing an opera with a beginner, a very high price is asked for the hire of the score; the impresario is quite willing to pay the usual fee, and if you really care to sing the part you ought to make up the difference." It is also desirable to take finishing lessons from the orchestral conductor. And, finally, the writer alleges that considerable sums of money are habitually extorted by individuals purporting to represent (1) influential subscribers and (2) the theatrical board.

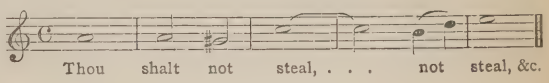
Briefly put, then, the Italian career is not exactly a carrière ouverte aux talents, unless talent is supplemented by a copious expenditure of capital. When the writer in the Pall Mall, however, says that he is the first to expose the system of fraud and blackmail which intending débutants are obliged to propitiate, he is going a little too far, though we admit that the workings of the system in question have never been laid bare so completely before. If the statements contained in the article are true—and we have seen no attempt to dispute their accuracy—a debt of gratitude is owed by all operatic aspirants to the writer, and if, with such exhaustive information at their disposal, they still elect to face the ordeal, they are no longer fitting objects for compassion. But the question that will probably present itself to not a few amongst their number is, whether the game is really worth the candle? Does Italy stand where it did as regards the bestowal of a hall-mark on an operatic reputation? Or are there not newer and cleaner worlds to conquer? At any rate, if the establishment of a national opera is bound to bring in its train all this apparatus of fraud and chicanery, we can complacently acquiesce in the indefinite postponement of its institution in our midst.

Leeds is now mildly agitated on the subject of musical pitch. The Town Hall organ is about to be overhauled and repaired by Messrs. Abbott and Smith, of Leeds, at a probable cost of £1,460, and it was suggested that advantage should be taken of the opportunity to lower the pitch to the normal diapason. The ultimate decision rests with the Corporate Buildings Committee of the Town Council, who in August last, when the matter came before them, "postponed any decision in the matter until the opinion of some of the leading musicians had been obtained as to whether it was advisable to make the proposed alteration." This, of course, was sufficient to open the floodgates of criticism, and the local papers have found room for a considerable amount of correspondence on the subject. The only writers with any claim to be styled "leading musicians" have been Professor Stanford, Dr. C. H. H. Parry, Sir W. Parratt, and Mr. Alexandre Guilmant, whose opinion—which it is quite needless to add is strongly in favour of the proposed change—should have some weight as being that not only of able musicians, but, with the exception only of Dr. Parry, of practical organists and with no little axes of their own to grind. The rest of the correspondence, which was summarised in an article on the subject that appeared in the Yorkshire Post, was for the most part in favour of "classical" pitch, the opposition coming chiefly from those whose pockets will be touched by the reform. Thus a professional oboeist represented the wail of the wood-wind, who must necessarily be put to the expense of procuring fresh instruments. This gentleman was well within his rights in protesting against a change that will involve personal loss to himself, but his assumption that the cry for a lower pitch was a mere passing fad is amusing in view of the practical unanimity of our principal composers, conductors, and teachers on the subject. And his argument that with the lower pitch it will be possible for foreign players to come over and bring down prices is one that cuts both ways. It is to be feared that there are some concert-givers whose patriotism would not be proof against a possible reduction of expenditure on the orchestra, much as this might be deprecated on general grounds. It is, of course, the question of cost that has always stood in the way of a reform, the urgency of which has long been admitted. The honorary secretary of the Leeds Philharmonic Society, while "thoroughly sympathising with the agitation in favour of the universal adoption of the French pitch," lays stress upon the increased expense and difficulty that will be put in the way of local societies by the change, and wishes that the authorities of all the chief towns in the West Riding could be induced to make what he styles a "synchronal move." As any "synchronal move" may be safely put off till the Greek Kalends, it remains for some important provincial town to set an example that must sooner or later be followed elsewhere. Some personal and temporary inconvenience will necessarily follow; but what reform was ever effected without personal and temporary inconvenience? At any rate, the advantage to be gained will be great and lasting, and it is much to be hoped that the municipal authorities at Leeds will not only obtain the opinion of leading musicians, but will follow it when it is obtained. For there is little doubt what that opinion will be.

The Bayreuther Blätter, in its most recent issue, contains a long letter addressed by Frau Cosima Wagner to the presidents of committee of the Allgemeine Richard Wagner Verein, which may be regarded as a dignified epilogue to the just concluded

Festspiele. It is essentially a generous expression of the writer's deep sense of obligation to all those who, since the year 1876, have in any way contributed to the success of that unique artistic undertaking, and to the eventual realisation of what is implied in "the idea of Bayreuth." "The innate vitality of the cause," Frau Cosima opines, "has been the chief lever in effecting its development. In devoting my life to the service of this cause, I was able to retain the support of those who had gathered round it at the beginning, and to gain for it new friends and valuable co-operators." With "tender emotion and satisfaction" the poet-composer's widow recalls the inestimable services rendered, both at Bayreuth and elsewhere, by a noble phalanx of gifted conductors—Richter, Levi, Mottl, Sucher—referring also, in this connection, with justifiable pride, to her son, who "in the beginning of his career was exposed, as was to be expected, to much adverse criticism. But he has conquered it, secured his position as orchestral conductor, and has now devoted his special energies to stage direction. The Rhine daughters' scene in its every detail, as well as the entire supervision of the most complicated scenic arrangements are his work." After rendering a warm tribute to Mr. Houston Chamberlain, as one of the peculiarly gifted champions of the "Bayreuth idea," and a special reference to the ever increasing interest taken in the Festspiele by foreign artists and amateurs, the writer continues: "The benevolent reception accorded by this audience to the artists who were either direct pupils of Bayreuth or had been studying here for some length of time, once more demonstrated the intimate rapport happily existing between executants and the public, and showed us to what extent our aims are understood and appreciated by the latter." Finally, in its concluding sentences, the letter says: "It is by this mutual intercommunication of minds that our work is satisfactorily accomplished. My share in it is not more important than that of any other true friend of Bayreuth, ready to serve its interests to the best of his abilities. I am able, withal, to cherish the elevating conviction that, were I to close my eyes in death to-day, our work would still go on and prosper and my disappearance from the scene be scarcely noticeable."—We have only been able to present in the merest outline the above interesting communication on the part of an undoubtedly remarkable woman. There is no reference made in it to the adverse, albeit benevolent, criticism passed in thoroughly competent quarters on some of the features of this year's Bayreuth representations. It is to be hoped that they will not be altogether ignored at the villa "Wahnfried." For though the "Bayreuth idea," as such, may not thereby be endangered, the existence and development of the Bayreuth Theatre as a model art-institution will soon be seriously called in question by any self-sufficient disregard of wise and disinterested counsels.

It is to be sincerely hoped that the multiplicity of orchestral concerts in London this autumn will not withdraw, to any serious extent, the support of music-lovers from the long-established and magnificent series of Saturday Afternoon Concerts at the Crystal Palace, which enter on their forty-first season on the 3rd inst. Foreign conductors may come and give us readings new and strange, but it should not be forgotten that Mr. Manns has toiled long and with rare perseverance and singleness of artistic purpose, that every music-lover is deeply indebted to him for acquaintance with masterpieces that for years were virtually unknown in this country, and that his orchestra is the nearest approach we possess to the ideal permanent body of instrumentalists. Moreover, it is only at such serial Concerts that the less important works of the great masters are likely to get a hearing, for in a short series of performances it is necessary to place on the programmes the best known symphonies. It is obvious that this winter the Crystal Palace Concerts will have to compete with far greater rivalry in the metropolis than has existed before, and hence the generous support of the Sydenham neighbourhood would be peculiarly opportune. To attend these Concerts regularly is to receive a musical education which will widen appreciation of the art and increase the capacity for its enjoyment. Great care and thought have manifestly been devoted to the programmes, which present an excellent selection of music "new and old." Amongst the novelties are noticeable a Concerto for violoncello and orchestra, by Klughardt; an Overture, entitled "Otello," by Walter Macfarren; a Suite of characteristic Dances from the opera of "Mlada," by the Russian composer, Rimski-Korsakoff; a Symphonic Prelude, by W. Wallace; the Vorspiel to E. d'Albert's opera "Ghismonda"; Miss Chaminade's "Callirhoë" Suite, and a Concertstück for pianoforte and orchestra by the same gifted lady; a Légende Symphonique, by Vincent d'Indy; the new Concerto for violin and orchestra, composed by Frederick Cliffe for the forthcoming Norwich Festival; the first performance in England of Richard Strauss's Symphony in F minor (Op. 12); F. H. Cowen's "Four Old English Dances"; Barclay Jones's Symphony in C minor, and Dvorák's Concerto for violoncello and orchestra. Beethoven's first, fourth, and fifth Symphonies, with a large number of favourite works, are also promised before December 19, when the first half of the series will end. No less comprehensive is the list of principal artists, which include many who are justly considered to be the finest exponents of the particular branch of art that they have specially cultivated. The choral works selected are Sullivan's "Golden Legend" and Berlioz's "Faust," which are severally announced for the 31st inst. and November 21. No pains, indeed, would seem to have been spared to make the Concerts as attractive as possible to all who derive pleasure from music, and in these days such a scheme should not appeal in vain.



The humble consciousness of our inability to adequately render the following "programme," contained in a German paper, of Herr Richard Strauss's mysteriously named symphonic poem "Thus spake Zarathustra," should be no valid excuse for withholding it from our readers. It runs thus: "First movement. Sunrise. Man (the 'human man,' as Mr. Chadband would have expressed it) feels the power of the Godhead.—Andante religioso.—But his ardent longing remains unsatisfied. He now plunges into a whirl of extravagant passion (second movement) without finding satisfaction therein. Science next attracts him, engaging all his faculties, and in a fugue (third movement) he endeavours to evolve the problem of existence. Lost, however, in the maze of conjecture, he finally despairs of finding a solution. Thereupon, an inner voice calls upon him to rejoice in the very fact of his being, dance tunes (fourth movement) supervene, in the rhythm of which all preceding motivi are recapitulated, ascending higher, and higher still, in unheard-of contrapuntal combinations, until the soaring soul of the earthly pilgrim disappears in the rosy dawn of morn (B major), while the world (C major) sinks down into the profundity of the basses, and there remains." Thus, then, we are led to believe, spake Strauss-Zarathustra. "Man's" inability to solve the problem of Life in a fugue is distinctly regrettable. On the other hand, the rosy dawn, in B major, and the discomfited world, in C, suggest some definite and novel effects in local colour. Or has the German paper to which we owe the above particulars been trying to emulate one of "Eulenspiegel's merry pranks" at the expense of the gifted young Munich composer?

The fine organ in Bangor Cathedral, built by Messrs. W. Hill and Sons twenty-five years ago, is in so bad a state of repair that it has been found imperatively necessary to thoroughly overhaul it, and a Bangor Cathedral Organ Restoration Fund has been established for the purpose. It is proposed to supply new mechanism to the manuals, pedals, and draw-stops; to remove the keyboards from their present position to one that will better enable the organist to hear the effect of his instrument and the singing of the choir; to supply hydraulic blowing apparatus; to add sixteen new "stops," one of these being a 32-ft. pedal diapason; and to effect various other modifications suggested by the great advance made of late in the art of organ-building. These improvements and the repairs (which are so sadly needed that the instrument, at present, scarcely bears the strain of its periodical tuning) will cost at least £2,000, of which only about half has yet been subscribed, and of this £250, given by an anonymous donor, is promised conditionally on the scheme being carried out in its entirety at once. The list of subscribers is headed by Lord Penrhyn, and includes the Duchess of Wellington, the Duke of Westminster, Lord Harlech, Lord Boston, and the Bishop and Dean of Bangor. Subscriptions should be sent to the hon. secretaries (the Rev. R. S. Edwards and Mr. T. Westlake-Morgan, organist of the Cathedral), Bangor Cathedral Restoration Fund, Bangor.

The issue of a second edition of Sir George Grove's delightful book, "Beethoven and his Nine Symphonies," has enabled the accomplished author to effect several improvements. First and foremost, the work has now an Index, the want of which was, in the earlier edition, much felt—how much, may be gathered from the fact that this absolutely indispensable addition to the volume occupies quite six pages and contains over 200 entries, many of them with quite a number of references. "Mendelssohn," for instance, and "Schumann" have nineteen each, "Schubert" has ten, "Berlioz" fifteen, and "Bonaparte" twelve. Secondly, the useful list of the Symphonies with their dates, &c., at the beginning of the book now contains also the opus numbers of the "immortal nine," and, thirdly, several slight errors and omissions have been rectified in the metronome marks, quotations from books, &c., and musical examples. The number of the latter contained in the book is more than four hundred, so that altogether "Beethoven and his Nine Symphonies" is by far the most complete and satisfying work of the kind extant in any language. That such a monument to the greatest of German composers should have been erected in "unmusical" England and by the patience and enthusiasm of an Englishman will, we trust, be allowed to weigh against the many artistic sins with which we are so often charged.

Mr. F. G. Edwards, in the first instalment of his interesting article "Bach's Music in England," in our last number, refers correctly to the earliest edition of the "Well-tempered Clavier," by Nägeli of Zürich, about the year 1800. He also mentions the Prelude and Fugue in C (II., 1) which appeared in Kollmann's "Essay" in 1799. Yet another of the fugues and one of the preludes had already made their way into print twenty-five years previously—viz., the Fugue in B minor (I., 24) and the Prelude in A minor (II., 20). They served as illustrations in Kirnberger's Kunst des reinen Satzes (1774). Then, again, the subject of the Fugue in C sharp minor (I., 4) occurs in the "Ten Commandments" set to canons by Haydn during his first visit to London, and the London edition of Clementi, Banger, Collard, Davis and Collard was probably issued somewhere about that time. Haydn dearly loved a joke, and for the seventh commandment he stole—at least, so it seems—from Bach, thus:—

A full account will be found in another column of the Worcester Musical Festival. We may, however, be permitted in this place to call attention to a remarkable and, in our opinion, salutary new departure which was taken in connection with the Festival by those who were responsible for the advertisements—a departure which none of our contemporaries have yet noticed. In the large posters which appeared at the railway stations and on public hoardings, after the usual heading appeared the names of the various works set down for performance, in type of varying dimensions according to the importance of the composition in question. And then followed the names of the principal soloists; but, mirabile dictu, these were all in small capitals of very modest dimensions, and, what is much more astounding, all of the same altitude! So far we have heard that no legal proceedings are pending against the Festival Committee for their refusal to differentiate the merits of the artists engaged by the employment of the resources of typography. And if this pacific attitude continues, perhaps other committees will be emboldened to follow the example of the Worcester authorities and read the world the useful lesson that, after all, creators and composers are greater people than their interpreters.

We are glad to learn—from a report of the meeting held in Dublin on the 15th ult.—that the scheme of a "Feis," or Irish Musical Festival, has been fully prepared by the musical sub-committee appointed last July and adopted by the executive committee. Full details are not yet forthcoming, but the brief summary available makes it clear that the meeting, which is to last four days, will be very much on the lines of a Welsh Eisteddfod. The morning gatherings will be principally devoted to the preliminary competitions of all classes, while the evenings will be given up to concerts: the first, of Irish music of the ancient and middle periods; the second (with full orchestra and choir), of the works of modern composers, including the Feis Prize Cantata and Prize Overture; while the third will be devoted to the performance of other prize pieces, instrumental and vocal. On the fourth evening the finals of the competitions will take place and the distribution of £400 worth of prizes. It is also proposed to have an exhibition of ancient Irish harps, manuscripts, &c. We may add that it has been decided that the term "Irish composer" shall include all of Irish birth or parentage, whether resident in Ireland or elsewhere, as well as those of British or foreign parentage who have been resident in Ireland for three years. Certainly no one can quarrel with the definition on the score of elasticity. The scheme as it stands is tolerably exhaustive, though it is evident that the orchestral element will play but a small part in the proceedings, while no mention is yet made of the date of the meeting or the name of the conductor.

We have generally been given to believe that the late Tschäikowsky's "Symphonie Pathétique" (No. 6) was his last orchestral composition. This seems to have been denied in a recent issue of the Musikalisches Wochenblatt, in which it is stated that his last orchestral work was a Symphonic Poem, "Wojewoda," after a Ballade from the Ukraine, by Mickiewicz. It is related that on its being performed, under the direction of the composer, at a Concert given by the eminent Russian pianist, A. Siloti, at Moscow, in 1891, it was so coldly received that the composer in his rage tore up the score. M. Siloti, recognising its musical worth and originality, took possession of the band parts, and has re-constructed the score, which, it is added, will shortly be published.

FACTS, RUMOURS, AND REMARKS.

Mr. Gladstone is known to be economical of time, and, probably, it is not without a pang that he turns from his beloved books to denounce the "great Assassin," or to do anything else not immediately connected with exalted study. On two occasions lately, however, he has given some minutes to music. Hawarden Park is a favourite resort of trippers from the North, 20,000 of whom visited it on September 1 and held a brass band contest under the old statesman's walls. Mr. Gladstone himself handed the prize to the conductor of the winning band, and took the opportunity to make a graceful and suggestive little speech, in the course of which he said: "Music is of enormous advantage both to those who hear and to those who perform it. It is a great blessing to the people, and I think that there are few satisfactions in my mind greater than to witness the progress it has made in the course of the last fifty years. It is hardly to be measured, so vast is the difference in the English people of to-day and the English people of half-a-century ago." What do our pessimists think of this saying? Fifty years ago Mr. Gladstone was thirty-six. He knows, therefore, whereof he speaks.

On the same occasion, at the close of another contest, limited to Flintshire, the venerable Master of Hawarden spoke highly in praise of the Welsh as a musical people, observing that no nation has a greater natural faculty of music than they. To some extent it is true that a special faculty exists, but I have known Welsh singing long enough to be quite sure that it is accompanied by serious defects, arising, perhaps, from temperament. If this be not so, how came it that, at the recent Eisteddfod, picked choirs, which had long been in training for the contest, displayed shortcomings such as no English choral body of equal rank would be at all likely to exhibit? Welsh singers, if they would deserve the esteem in which Mr. Gladstone holds them, must learn to keep cool and in the key. In another part of his speech Mr. Gladstone said: "It is not believed in England that musical feeling was a gift which God Almighty has given to the most of mankind. Now that is the case." I should like to believe it, but I don't, being forbidden by closer observation and study than Mr. Gladstone has had time to bestow upon the subject. If by "musical feeling" the speaker means the qualities which enable a man to become a musician, then I am quite sure that "most of mankind," English mankind, at any rate, do not possess it.

An obliging correspondent has sent me a cutting from a newspaper published in Ulster. It contains a long article headed "Mendelssohn in the Parish Church, ——," and descriptive of an organ recital. "Solemnly humorous" is the term applied to this lucubration by my correspondent, but the reader shall judge for himself. Our Ulsterman starts well by declaring that "a finer three hours' orchestration (!) they (the audience) had never listened to." He goes on to say that, compared with a previous occasion, "the crowd was greater, the lights were brighter, and, in consequence, the soft mysticism that goes hand-in-hand with mellow light and dreamy music was almost non-apparent." Nevertheless, "there were times when the soul of the organ was touched . . . when the listeners listened with bated breath as tone and note and chord tumbled forth from the organ pipes in all the ecstasy of divine passion, of loving tenderness and intense longing." What says the reader to "divine passion" in the most mechanical of all instruments?

The criticisms which follow, while in many places shrewd and just enough, in others drop to the "solemnly humorous." Says the writer, in one place: "Widor deftly works in a difficult movement in arpeggios, while the melody almost flies along, to keep pace with the fast fingering. Then there is a burst of song, and the diapasons take up the theme. The finish is light and graceful, dealing with appoggiatures and ending among the ledger lines." Touching upon Liszt's "March of the Crusaders," and with special reference to that composer's melodies, the critic tells a not inappropriate story:

> They remind one of that dinner that the miserly young widow of a rich Austrian banker offered to a celebrated journalist, where there was so little given him to eat that he actually was hungry at the end of the meal. So, when the lady of the house most courteously said to him, "I have been very pleased to see you here, my dear sir. When will you do me the honour to dine with me again?" He replied, to her amazement, "Now, at once!"

A Perth (West Australia) correspondent sends me a report of a Lecture on Chopin delivered in that city before His Excellency the Governor and others. The lecturer, a German, seems to have encouraged his hearers to speak of the Polish master's music in terms drawn from the vocabulary of impressionism. At any rate, the report does this, and I read with interest, if not envy, of "rhythmic melancholy," "restless sadness," "passionate interrogation," "amorous urgency," "exhausted episodical calm," and so on. This is very pretty as language.

Mr. Fred. A. Walker, of Reading, informs me that "the Boy" has returned from his holiday and gone to work again. I recognise his sportive hand in the Reading Observer, which informs its readers, through him, that at a recent examination two young ladies "were successful in gaining first-class certificates in mrndolise playing!"

The Boy's holiday was probably taken in Ireland, since a journal of that country discusses a piece by Saint-Saëns, which it calls a "Bendiction Nuptials!"

The Gloucester Festival of last year has turned out to be a greater financial failure than was anticipated, the deficit being little short of £600. Luckily for the Stewards, the conditions of their subscription were changed in advance, and the amount needed to balance, instead of being raised by a levy on those officials, is taken from the subscriptions to the charity. The deficit is partly accounted for by the ever-rising terms of artists, who took £230 more than at the previous Festival. These ladies and gentlemen will soon succeed in making festivals impossible. The receipts from sale of tickets were £3,275, of which more than £1,800 were secured by "Elijah" and "The Messiah."

There has been a newspaper discussion on Church music in Ulster, and the following story belongs to it:

A certain choir in the diocese of Connor, wishing to improve the character of its music, decided upon engaging the services of a professional musician to train them in the art of singing; not "a good-natured clergyman," but a man "who made his entire living by the exercise of his art." Under his direction the choir were practising the Te Deum, when the man of notes stopped them peremptorily. "Stop, stop," he said, "you have made a tremendous mistake. You said o-lee, o-lee, o-lee. You ought to say o-lie, o-lie, o-lie."

The veteran flautist, Henry Nicholson, recalls, in the Leicester Daily Post, the first performance of "Elijah," at Birmingham, fifty years ago. Himself and his brother Alfred (oboe) were the only representatives of their native town (Leicester) on the orchestra.

I was engaged at the last moment, as a substitute for Mr. Stanier (a celebrated Birmingham artist), who was suddenly taken ill, and soon afterwards died, after which I regularly attended the Festivals until compelled (after twenty-seven years) to give up the engagement owing to ill-health. My old friend, Mr. Henry Farmer, represented Nottingham, and we have repeatedly expressed our sense of the honour conferred upon us by being allowed to take part in such a memorable occasion, which will ever linger in the memory of those (but few, alas! now) who remember the great composer and his lovable disposition, which endeared him to all who knew him.

Mr. Nicholson has a precious recollection, and I am glad to see that he cherishes it. By the way, the "reader" of the Leicester Daily Post should know better than to pass "Caradin Allan" and "Staudigt."

I am always glad to hear from my readers in distant parts of the Empire, particularly when they write such chatty and interesting letters as that just received from Mr. R. E. Creswell, a settler in New Zealand. Mr. Creswell speaks of himself as in a state of "complete musical isolation," but it is clear that, like a cheerful philosopher, he makes the best of it. My far-off correspondent writes: "You may be interested to hear that, buried in the N.Z. bush, we have a Collard piano, and the organ which stood in my grandfather's house in Leicestershire nearly 100 years ago. It has four stops: open diapason, stopped diapason (wood), stopped diapason (metal), and a soft principal or flute. Each stop has fifty-six notes, and there is a full set of pedals of modern pattern. For music, we have a row 3′-10″ long of oratorios, operas, &c., nearly all in scarlet cloth, and every Psalter and Hymnal we can lay hands on, from Rimbault's reprint of Este's 1592 to Troutbeck's elaborate Paragraph Psalter." Call you this "musical isolation," Mr. Creswell? It seems to me that you are surrounded in the bush by a very goodly and gracious company, and that you have the spirit of music in yourself. A man can be very happy thus, as, doubtless, you are.

An organ has been placed in the Free West Church, Perth, and Professor Bruce went from Glasgow, the other day, to teach the people what, he said, they then had to learn—viz., "the proper use and function of such instruments." One of his points was that the organ must not be made too much of. "They must not imagine, for example, that organs were made to fill churches." It was the preacher's business to do that, the Perth bodies were taught, and some were, no doubt, canny enough to think that if the preacher cannot draw—and he rarely can in these days—there is no reason in the world why the organ should not help him. Get the folks to church, Professor Bruce, never mind how.

Fannie Edgar Thomas, Paris correspondent of the Musical Courier, lets us into the secret of woman's reluctance to remove her hat in theatres and concert-rooms. She says:

What we hate is being obliged to remove our hats when our hair is arranged to keep them on, and vice versâ. To a man with little or no hair, and whose lines of expression are fixed, this makes no difference whatever. To the average woman, whose entire expression is changed by a hair or a curl, a centimetre high or low, forward or back, a stray lock or the absence of one, it matters much—often the amount of an entire evening's pleasure. I have seen women look positively plain and homely by a misarrangement of hair, who by the slightest tuck, raise, or pat would be restored to their own pretty selves. The agony of a woman to catch a glance in a mirror after she has removed her hat or bonnet is unimagined by her male companion, and would be incomprehensible if he happened to be made aware of it, so profound is this thoughtlessness in these regards.

Yet the delightfully inconsistent creatures for whom this writer speaks insist on making guys of themselves as wheelwomen!

Here is a picture of the "foreign singer" as he appears to the Editor of the Musical Courier:

Foreign singers are usually very ignorant of musical form, of composition, of counterpoint, and of musical literature, but they know the gossip and tradition of the operatic stage, and hence they know all about the enormous fortunes taken out of the United States by their predecessors, Tietjens, Parepa-Rosa, Patti, Lucca, Lehmann, and hundreds like them—millions upon millions of dollars since 1840—and knowing this they come here only for money, only for financial results, only for temporary sojourn, and not for the purpose of aiding in the elevation of music among us. They therefore offer no encouragement to the American composer, they do not sing his songs; they oppose the engagement of any American singer and they combine and intrigue to prevent it.

Joseph Bennett.

WORCESTER MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

The 173rd meeting of the Three Choirs of Hereford, Gloucester, and Worcester, which began on the 6th and ended on the 11th ult., will not rank among the most brilliant of the long series. Various circumstances account for this. The weather, to begin with, was unpropitious—a serious matter in the case of a Festival which draws its audience from a wide stretch of rural country. Then the attendance, save in the case of two or three performances, fell short of the Worcester standard, which is high; and, last, yet far from least, the rendering of the music showed that sufficient time for preparation had not been given. The Three Choirs Festivals are slow to learn a lesson which circumstances have pressed upon them for many years. Elsewhere, the fact has been recognised that the old, slovenly practice of crowding the general rehearsals into one day will no longer work, but the Western meetings go stubbornly on unmoved. Mr. Blair, it is true, rehearsed his orchestra in London, where, also, some of the principals met him; but soloists, orchestra, and chorus were together in Worcester only one day and an evening—the last, it should be explained, being mainly devoted to preparation of the music for the opening service. The inevitable consequence appeared in many slips and irregularities, which chilled the ardour of the performers and diminished the enjoyment of the audience. We all know, of course, that more rehearsal means greater expense, and that these Festivals exist for the sake of a charity, apart from which, indeed, they would not exist at all. But the question for committees to consider is whether indifferent performances do not, in the long run, affect the charity much more seriously than would a little extra outlay. Audiences, with all their faults, are not now what they once were. They can discern excellences and defects much more readily than was the case years ago, and when not pleased are exceedingly likely to become indifferent. I do hope that the rule of rehearsal will be amended at these Cathedral meetings. Two whole days should be given up to the task of preparation, as at Bristol, Leeds, and elsewhere; the seventh Concert, if there must be seven, taking place on Saturday morning.

The Festival was well equipped in the matter of executants; the orchestra, made up chiefly of well-known London names, being larger than usual, the "strings" numbering fifty-three, the chorus being strengthened by forty picked singers from Leeds, and the solo vocalists including Madame Albani, Miss Anna Williams, Miss Hilda Wilson, Miss Jessie King, Messrs. Edward Lloyd, Hirwen Jones, Plunket Greene, and Watkin Mills. With such a force, and time to drill it, anything could be done; but, as I have said, it went into action unprepared, under a conductor whose methods and wishes were only half understood.

At a Cathedral Festival, choice of works for performance is necessarily limited. Years ago, when three secular Concerts had a place in the scheme, variety was easily secured; but now, with only one of the three remaining, the programme has a solid and weighty character, against which, however, the public do not appear to entertain any objection. Oratorio of the orthodox kind ruled the roost. The Festival began with "St. Paul," after which came Mr. Elgar's "Light of Life" and selections from "Samson." On the second day we had two parts of Bach's "Christmas" Oratorio, and some smaller pieces of the cantata class. The third day opened with Verdi's "Requiem," an orchestral Symphony (Schumann's "Rhenish"), and Mr. Blair's cantata "Blessed are they who watch"; the evening being devoted to "Elijah," as was Friday morning to "The Messiah." Certainly the light and frivolous in sacred music was not very strongly represented at Worcester. The one secular Concert consisted of orchestral works, relieved by songs, the chorus not being employed. Against this mass of good music nothing could be said. It harmonised with all the associations of the Festival, and it was for the most part to the taste of the public.

It need hardly be pointed out that the bulk of the works presented calls for no discussion here. Readers would not thank me if I detained them over the history and qualifications of well-known oratorios, or enlarged upon the "Pastoral" Symphony, or any other familiar orchestral piece. In point of fact, only three compositions in the programme were recognised as requiring critical notice—namely, the two new choral works and Verdi's "Requiem." Connoisseurs are, of course, familiar with the last-named, but the public are not, nor has the Manzoni Mass yet found a definite place in English esteem. Its reception where not before heard is, therefore, always a matter for interested observation, especially when the work is given in a cathedral. It is an advantage for such music to be heard in a great and splendid temple of religion, everything around then according with its solemn subject and purport. But there is, unquestionably, an attendant drawback, the objection entertained by many to the style of this Italian Church music being intensified by its contrast with the traditions of music in the English Church, and also with the solid and stately grandeur of our Gothic cathedrals. The objection just referred to is more common than may appear on the surface, many who admire the music continuing to shake their heads and call it theatrical. But the "Requiem" makes headway all the same, and conquers prejudice at every hearing. As was the case in Chester and Lincoln Cathedrals not long since, so at Worcester, the public were alike charmed and impressed—charmed by the beauty of Verdi's melodies and the rich colouring of his orchestra; impressed by the tremendous suggestiveness of the whole sound-poem. After the performance nothing was heard but acknowledgment of the fact that the power of music had been triumphantly asserted. Although the work is difficult, and had been imperfectly rehearsed, the performance turned out to be the best of the week—a result due, no doubt, to the exaltation of feeling, the enthusiasm with which every performer entered upon his congenial task. Particular mention should be made of the brilliant manner in which the solos were sung by Madame Albani, Miss Williams, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Watkin Mills. Better work has not been done for many a long day.

Mr. Elgar's "Light of Life" failed to secure a large audience on Tuesday evening. So much was expected. Does not the composer live near Worcester, and has he not yet to make a famous name? Facts of this kind were against him, but Mr. Elgar, I hope, understands how "to labour and to wait." Time is on his side, and my trust is that, as years pass, he will make the best use of increasing experience in all that concerns the character and method of his art. "The Light of Life" has already been discussed in this journal, and now there only remains to state what impressions a hearing of the work added to those resulting from previous study. The strongest of these was connected with the composer's general ability, of which the new work made a more convincing manifestation than any of its predecessors. It is now clear that Mr. Elgar has endowments sufficient for important results. He is no wayside musician whom we can afford to pass and forget, but one to be watched, encouraged, and, as he is still a young man, counselled. I think there is need for counsel, which, if tendered from a proper quarter in a fitting spirit, will not be spurned. Mr. Elgar is not yet a master of oratorio, and the reason is partly to be discovered, perhaps, in the fact, indicated by his new work, that his sympathies are much more with the orchestra than with voices. Young composers, nowadays, are generally like that. The great musical machine which has been brought to such perfection by modern masters fascinates them, to say nothing of the example set by Wagner and others, who confine the voice within the smallest compass, from a musical point of view, and give it declamation which interferes as little as possible with the beloved instruments. In the "Light of Life" we see the result of these influences. The orchestra has the chief musical interest and nearly all the beauty. We follow it, as the work proceeds, and only incidentally fix our regards upon the vocal strains. In oratorio that will not do. The issue has been tried again and again, always with disastrous results to the experimenter. Yet the present work may enjoy no little favour for the sake of its orchestral ability. Mr. Elgar has, I am inclined to think, overdone the representative theme. True, he handles it in the simplest manner, but there is something too much of it—more than any audience will take the trouble to understand and appreciate. The representative theme can sometimes be of singular value, and it should be kept for such occasions. Used with prodigality it is only in the way, hampering the composer without giving him compensation. Again, the art of writing effectively for voices needs further study by Mr. Elgar. There is an old adage to the effect that a man cannot serve two masters. So here, if you make your orchestra the first care, your vocal music will be less effective than, in a choral work, it ought to be. The voice should not be employed in dodging the instruments, taking an opening where it can find one, and never allowed a chance to shape itself into forms of beauty with perfect freedom. This is putting the case strongly, but I want to put it strongly, because the error is a great and growing one. It is a rock upon which our young composers frequently come to grief, and the warning light cannot be too clear. I have written all this because Mr. Elgar is worth advising—because, with all the faults of its method, "The Light of Life" is a work of no ordinary power and promise. It contains many passages of beauty and feeling, and even when the composer unconsciously falls into reminiscences there is always some redeeming feature. I trust the "short oratorio" will pass into the repertory of our choral societies, not as a model, but on account of various merits, and that the composer may be encouraged to persevere. The performance, directed by Mr. Elgar, ran smoothly, and the solos received all possible justice at the hands of Miss Anna Williams, Miss Jessie King, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Watkin Mills.

Mr. Blair's cantata for Advent, "Blessed are they that watch," was not composed for the Festival, nor would its author himself have chosen it for performance. The Worcester conductor is old enough to take a modest view of his powers—O time of grace and hope!—and it is no secret that he mistrusted the cantata. He need not have done so, since it proved to be a very good piece of English Church music. In view of the limitations imposed upon that branch of the art it should, of course, be judged, which done, the result can hardly fail to be favourable. As was pointed out in these columns last month, some of the numbers are satisfactory in a special sense, among them the solo, expressively sung by Madame Albani, "Sorrow not for those that sleep," and, above all, the fine chorus, "The world passeth away," in which Mr. Blair gives us a suggestion of powers which should be cultivated to the utmost. The work was received with more than kindly interest—genuine admiration.

Because of the space necessarily devoted to novelties, I must pass lightly over other features in the Festival. "Elijah" and "Messiah" may be dismissed with the remark that, as usual, they drew the largest audiences of the week. "St. Paul" was well attended, though not in equal measure; but lack of public interest appeared when groups of short works were presented. This does not agree with common experience, and too much importance should not be attached to it. In its social character, the Festival was a success, much hospitality being shown to visitors, especially by the Mayor, Lord Beauchamp, who not only kept what was practically "open house" at the Guildhall during the week, but entertained the whole of the chorus in his house and grounds, near Malvern, on the Wednesday evening.

Statistics of the Festival will appear in due course, and justify or refute a doubt whether the meeting was financially equal to its immediate predecessors.

QUEEN'S HALL PROMENADE CONCERTS.

The sincere thanks of musical amateurs are due to Mr. Robert Newman for his enterprise in giving a series of nightly performances at a period of the year when the opportunities of hearing high-class music well interpreted are very few in the metropolis. Promenade Concerts, it is true, have generally been held in light estimation by those who admire the art in its loftiest aspect, and not without reason. Jullien did a little for the works of the great masters, and Alfred Mellon a great deal more; but hitherto the entertainments given annually, with few exceptions, at Covent Garden Theatre were most praiseworthy in the years when Sir Arthur Sullivan was at the head of the orchestra. Then there was a distinct falling off, and it was reserved for Mr. Newman to show that he recognised the improving taste of the public. There was much to commend in the Concerts he gave in the Queen's Hall last year; but there has already been a great advance in the series which commenced on August 29. Last year it was generally agreed that although Mr. Henry J. Wood proved himself an able conductor, the body of strings was too feeble to secure a proper balance of tone. Commencing this season with sixty excellent players, Mr. Newman was so encouraged by the support he was receiving that, on the 12th ult., the orchestra was increased to ninety, and on and after that night performances have been given that might challenge comparison with those at Philharmonic, Richter, Mottl, or other metropolitan Concerts where the best tastes are consulted. To go seriatim through every programme would be impossible, but it is only fair to draw attention to a few of the salient features of these admirable Concerts. Mr. Newman does not believe in playing down to so-called "popular" taste. Whatever might have been the case in a former generation, there is abundant evidence to prove that the best music has now become the most popular. Mondays are being devoted to Wagner and Liszt, Wednesdays to various classical masters, and Fridays to Beethoven. Even on the miscellaneous nights the programmes have been strongly leavened with selections to which any musician might listen with pleasure. Many works new to London, chiefly by modern composers, have been introduced, and some of them may be mentioned. We have heard a bright and piquant "Joyeuse Marche" by E. Chabrier, and a "Slavonic Dance" from the same French composer's opera "Le Roi malgré lui"; three numbers from Moszkowski's ballet "Laurin," the second of which, a stately Sarabande, might almost have been written by Handel; a Fest March by Cyril Kistler, whose operas, penned in a Wagnerian vein, have yet to be heard in this country; and J. L. Nicodé's Symphonic Variations in C minor, Slavonic in character as becomes a Polish composer. The vocal and instrumental soloists have, generally speaking, been well chosen, though of course many of the best artists are not available at this period of the year.

Special record is required of the Concert on the 23rd ult., in commemoration of Her Majesty the Queen's "Record Reign." Mr. Newman was fortunate in being manager of Promenade Concerts on such an occasion, and he proved himself equal to it. So did the public, for they came in such swarms that the Queen's Hall was crowded as it has never been crowded before. The first part of the programme could not have been more happily chosen. The National Anthem was given according to Costa's arrangement, and the audience were invited to join in the third verse. This they did with a will, and the cheers and applause that followed were so prolonged that the verse had to be repeated. Then came Sir Alexander Mackenzie's "Britannia" Overture, with its many happy patriotic and nautical touches. The third item was a new "Coronation" March, specially composed for the occasion by Mr. Percy Pitt. This is a well wrought piece, built on the lines of Wagner's "Huldigungs" and "Kaiser" Marches—that is to say, slightly solemn and religious in character and yet festive. The composer was called to the platform, and the symmetrical and well-scored piece should be heard again. A very fine performance of "The Hymn of Praise" brought the first part to a conclusion. Mr. Wood had his forces under perfect control, the choruses being sung with surprising spirit and unfailing accuracy; while the solo parts were perfectly safe in the hands of Madame Fanny Moody, Miss Isabel MacDougall, and Mr. Ben Davies. The Concert was a triumph in every respect.

MORE FESTIVAL NOVELTIES.

Mancinelli's "Hero and Leander."

This work is the principal novelty of the Festival which begins at Norwich on the 6th inst. It will be performed on the evening of Thursday, the 8th, under the composer's direction, with Madame Albani, Mr. Edward Lloyd, and Mr. Watkin Mills as principal singers.

Although first laid before the English public in a concert-room, "Hero and Leander" is really an opera, in three acts, the libretto by Arrigo Boito, who, for a reason not very obvious, prefers a new arrangement of the letters of his name in this particular connection, and is to be known as "Tobia Gorrio." Is this a joke? If so, it does not appear to have much point. The "argument," which, of course, concerns itself with the old classical story, is sustained by three dramatis personæ—Hero (Madame Albani), Leander (Mr. Lloyd), and Ariopharnes, Priest of Venus (Mr. Mills)—and opens in the temple of the goddess, which is decorated for the Aphrodisia. On the curtain rising (I must refer to the work as an opera, for its better understanding), worshippers are discovered prostrate before the door of the temple. These sing a long hymn in praise of the goddess, which ended, the Priest enters, followed by Hero and Priestesses, also by Leander, with whom are

